They yere hath. cccl. wekes & one day. And it hath in all, iii. C. and. lxvi. dayes.

of thee holye Scrypture gathered oute of the Byble.

Search the Scryptures: Foz they are they that testifye of me.

All Scryptures geuen by inspiracyō of god, is profitable to teache, to improue, to amend & to instruct in rightwesnes, that the man of god may be perfect & prepared to all good wozckes.

Whatsoeuer thynges so euer are wzytten, are wzytten foz oure learnyng: that we thozow pacience and comfozthe of the scrypture, myght haue hope.

All the wozd of God is pure and cleane, it is a shyld vnto them that put their trust in it. Put nothynge vnto hys wozdes, leaste he repzoue thee and thou be founde a lyar.

Ye shall not do euery man what seameth hym good in hys owne eyes: But whatsoeuer I commaunde you, that take hede ye do: and put nought thereto, ner take oughte therfrom.

Let not the boke of thys law depart out of thy mouth: But recoarde therin daye & nyght, that thou mayest be circumspect to do accozdyng to all that is wzytten therin. Foz then shalt thou make thy way pzosperous, and then shalt thou haue vnderstandyng. Turne therfrom nether to the zyght hande, ner to the left: that thou mayest haue vnderstandynge in al that thou takest in hande.

And thou shalte shewe thy sonne at that tyme, sayinge: Thys is done because of that whyche the Lozd dyd vnto me when I came out of Egypte. Therfoze it shal be asygne vnto the vpon thyne hande, and a remembraunce betwene thyne eyes, that the Lozdes lawe maye be in thy mouthe. Foz wythe a stronge hand the Lozd bzoughte the oute of Egypte.

Se that thou reade thys lawe befoze all Israell in theyr eares. Gather thee people togeather, bothe men, wemen, and chyldzen and the strangers that are in thy cyties: that they maye heare, lerne, and feare the Lozde youre God, to kepe all the wozdes of thys lawe.

al the holy scripture, both of the Olde and Newe Testament.

Deute vi. 1. Timo. ii. Gen. xvii. Exodi xx. Genesis. Psalm. x. exodi viii. Jeremy. x. Rom. iii. Esay. xliii. Jeremy. x

THat the holy writinges of the Byble teache vs, that ther is one god, almyghty, that hath nether begynninge ner endyng which of his owne goodnes dyd create al thynges: of whom al thynges proceade, and vnto whom ther is nothyng: which is ryghtewes and mercyful: and which worketh al thinges in al after his wil: of whō it may not be demaūded wherfore he doth this or that.

Gene. i. Sapientie. comadv

That this very God did create Adam the first mā after his owne Image and similitude, and did ordene and apoint him Lord of al the creatures in the erth. Which Adā by the envy of the deuel, disobeyng the commaundemente of his maker, dyd fyrst synne, and brought sinne into this world, soch and so great, that we which be sprong of him after the flesh, ar subdued vnto sinne deeth, and dānaciō, brought vnder the pouch and tyranny of the deuel.

ephesy. ii

Gen. xii. xxii. xxvi. xxviii. xxxvii

And further that Christ Jesus his sōne was promesed of god the father, to be a sauour to this Adam, Abrahā, Isaac, Jacob, Dauid and the other fathers: which shuld deliuer thē frō theyr sinnes and tyrannye of the deuel, that with a quyck and lyuyng fayth wold beleue this promes, and trust to this Jesus Christ, hopyng to haue this delyuerance of and by hym. And truly thys promes, is very oft rehearsed in the bokes of the old testament, ye and the old testamēt is this promes, as it is called the newe, which teachethe that thys promes is fulfylled.

And that in the meane season

whyle the fathers loked for saluacyon and delyueraunce promesed, because mānes nature is soch that he not onlye cannot, but also wil not cōfesse hym selfe to be a synner, and specially soch a synner that hathe neade of the sauyng health promesed, that law was geuē were through men might know syn, and that they are sinners: whē they se that they do none of the thynges that the law cōmaundeth, with so glad and wyllynge a minde as God requyreth: but rather agaynst their wylles, without affection, and as thoughe they were cōstrayned with the feare of that hel which the law threatnethe, sayinge: Cursed be he that mayntayneth not al the wordes of this lawe to kepe them. And that this law was geuen, to thyntente that synne and the malyce of mens hert beig therby the beter knowē, men shuld the more frequently thrist the cōmyng of christe, whiche shulde redeame them from theyr sinnes: As it was fygured vnto the Jewes by many ceremonyes, hostes, and sacrifyces: which were ordeyned of God, not to thyntente to take awaye synnes, but to shewe and declare that they shuld be put away by fayth in the saluation promesed thorowe Chryst and which now are put awaye by the comynge of that Chryste, which is the very hoste of the father that taketh awaye all synne.

And of all by the Newe

the newe Testament, we are taught, that that Chryst which was promysed and shadowed in the olde Testament, is sente of the father, at soche tyme as he had determyned with hym selfe, at soche tyme (I saye) as all wyckednes florysshed. And that he was sent not for any mans good workes (for they al were synners) but to thyntent that he wold truly shew the aboūdant ryches of hys grace, which he had promysed.

Therfore in the newe

therfore it is most euydently declared, that Jesus Chryst the true lambe and hoste, is come to thyntent to reconcyle vs to the father, payinge on the crosse the punyshment due vnto our synnes: and to delyuer vs from the bondage of the deuyl (vnto whom we serued throughe synne) and to make vs the sonnes of god, syth he hath geuē vs the true peace and tranquylyte of conscience, that we no longer do feare the paynes of hell: which feare is put away by the fayth, confydence and assurance that thee father geueth vs drawinge vs vnto his sonne. For that fayth is the gyft of God, wherby we beleue that Christ is come into thys worlde to saue synners: which

which is of so great pyth that they which haue it, desire to performe al the duties of loue to al mē, after the exāple of christ. For fayth once receueth god geueth his holy ghost, wherby he tokeneth and marcketh al the beleue: whyche is the pledge and earnest, that we shal surely possesse euer lastyng lyfe, and that geueth witnes vnto our spirite, and graffeth thys faith in vs that we be the sōnes of god: powryng therby that loue into our hertes which paull

1. cor. xiii. describeth and setteth out to the corynthians. By that faith and confydence in christ which by loue is myghty in operacyon, and that sheweth it selfe thorow the workes of loue, sterynge men thereto, by that (I saye) we are Justyfyed: that is, by that fayth, chrystes father (whyche is become ours also thorow that chryste our brother) counteth vs for ryghtewes and for hys sōnes: imputyng not our synnes vnto vs, thorow hys grace.

To conclude, he came to thintēt that we beyng cleansed frō our synnes, and sanctyfyed vnto god the father: that is alowed vnto the vse of the father to exercyse good workes, renuing and forsaking the workes of the flesh, shuld frely serue hi in ryghtwesnes and holynes al our lyfe lōge: thorow good workes whyche God hath ordeyned to thintēt we shuld walke in them. declaryng oure selues therby to be surely called vnto this grace which workes whosoeuer hath not, declareth that he hath not fayth in chryst.

Vnto whom we must come, and folow hym with a chearefull herte, that he maye instruct and teach vs, for he is our maister, meake and hūble of hert: he is our exāple of whom we must learne the rule of good lyuyng: further, he is our preest, hye bysshop, and only mediator: which now sytteth on the ryghthād of God the father, is our aduocate and prayethe euer for vs: which wyl vndoutedly obtaine whatsoeuer we desyre, ether of hym, or of hys father in his name: yf we beleue that he wil do it when we requere it: For so hathe he promysed. Let vs therfore no doute, although we some tyme sinne, with a confydence to come vnto him, and withe a lyuyng and vndouting faithe, that we shall obtayne mercie. For therefore came he to thintent to saue sinners: nether requereth he anye thinge moare of vs, then to come vnto him with out feare.

which after he hath killed the mā of sinne with the breath of his mouth, shal sit in his mayestie and Judge al men, geuing vnto thē that shalbe on his righte hād. Come ye blessed children of my father, inherit ye the kingdom prepared for you frō the beginninge of the worlde: And vnto thē that shalbe on his left hād, Departe frō me ye cursed, into euerlastinge fire: which is prepared for the deuel and his angels. Thē shal the end come and he shall deliuer vp the kingdom to god the father.

know thys, by the goodnes of God working by his holy spirite, and the holy wrytynges of the Byble geuen vs. That we shuld know (I say) and beleue that ther is one God: and Jesus Chryst whome he hath sent: and that in beleuyng we shuld haue euerlastyng lyfe thorow hys name thys can no man lay. And saynt paul desyreth that he be holden a cursed whych preacheth any other fayth and saluacyon, then only by Jesus chryst: yee although it were an angel of heauen.

For of hym, and thorowe him,
and for hym, ar all thinges:
to whom, with the father
and the holy ghost, be honour and glorie for euer more.
Amen.

To the Reader

To the Chriſten Readers.

¶ The grace and peace of God be geuē vnto you by Jeſus Chriſte.

AS the bees diligently do gather together ſwete flowres, to make by natural craft the ſwete hony: ſo haue I done ꝑ principal ſentēces contayned in ꝑ Bible. For whych are ordeyned after the maner of a table, for the conſolation of thoſe which are not yet exercyſed & inſtructed in the holy Scripture. In the whyche are manye harde places, as wel of ꝑ olde as of ꝑ new Teſtamēt expoūded gathered together, concorded, & cōpared one wyth another: to thintent that the prudent Reader (by the ſpyrte of God) maye beare awaye pure and cleare vnderſtanding. Wherby euery man (as he is bound) may be made ready, ſtronge & garnyſhed to anſwere to al them that aſke hym a reaſon of his faith. Thys is alſo profytable for the particular & general exhortacions whych we make to certayne perſonages, or cōmune people: & for to anſwere truely to Heretykes, & to confounde the aduerſaryes of the worde of God. In the which alſo we may fynde (that whych helpeth greatly the ſtudy of the readers) the openyng of certayne Hebrue tropes, tranſlacions, ſymplytudes, & maners of ſpeakinges (whyche we cal Phrazes) contayned in the Bible. And for the more eaſely to fynde the matters herein ſpoken (becauſe that diſorder engendreth confuſyon) I haue proceded after thee order of an Alphabete: to thintent that none be deprayued of ſo precious a treaſure, the whyche ye ſhall vſe to the honoure and glorye of God, & to the edifieng of his Church. Howbe it good Reader) yf thou fynde not the thinges in this table expreſſed, in the ſame letters of the Chapters wherein they are alſo gyuen: bouchſaue to loke in the letter goinge nexte before or in the letter nexte folowinge.

Unto the Reader W. T.

Though a man had a precious Juel, and a ryche, yet yf he wyste not the value therof, nor wherfore it serued, he were nether ꝑ better nor ryther of a strawe. Euē so, though we reade the scripture and bable of it neuer so moch, yet yf we know not the vse of it, and wherfore it was geuen, & what is therin to be sought, it profyteth vs nothinge at all. It is not ynough therfore to reade & talke of it, but we must also desyre God daye and nyght, instantly to open our eyes, and to make vs vnderstand, and feale wherfore the scripture was geuen, that we may applye the medicine of the scripture, euery man to his owne sores, vnlesse thē we entend to be ydle disputers, & braulers about vayn wordes, euer gnaweng vpon the bytter barcke wythout, and neuer attayninge vnto the swete pyth wythin, and persecutinge one another for defending of lewde ymaginations and phantasyes of oure owne inuention.

The scripture wherfore it is good.

Paule in the thyrd of the second Epystle to Tymothe sayth, that the scripture is good to teache (for that ought mē to teach) and not dreames of theyr owne making, as the pope dothe) & also to improue, for that scripture is the touchstone that tryeth all doctrines, and by that we know the false from the true, And in the. vi. to the Ephesians he calleth it the swerde of the sperite, bycause it kylleth hypocrites & vttereth and improueth theyr false inuentions. And in the. xv. to the Romaynes he sayth: all that are wrytten, are wrytten for oure learninge, that we thorow patience and cōfort of the scripture myghte haue hope. That is, the ensamples that are in the scripture, comforte vs in al our tribulations, and make vs to put our truste in god, and pacyently to abyde hys leysure. And in the. x. of the fyrste to the Corinthiās he bryngeth in examples of the scripture to feare vs & to bridle the flesshe, that we caste not the yoke of the lawe of God, from of our neckes, & fal to lusting and doinge of euyll.

So now the scripture is a lyght and sheweth vs the true waye, both what to do, and what to hope: and a defence from all errour, and a comfort in aduersite that we dyspeare not, and feareth vs in prosperite that we syme not. Seke therfore in the scripture as thou readest it, chefely & aboue all, the couenaūtes made betwene God and vs. That is to say: the law and cōmaūdemētes which god cōmaūdeth vs to do. And then the mercye promysed vnto al them that submyt them selues vnto the lawe For al the promises thorow out the hole scripture do include a couenaunt. That is: god byndeth hym selfe to fulfyll that mercy vnto the, onely yf thou wylt endeuour thy selfe to kepe hys lawes: so that no man hath hys parte in the mercy of god, saue he only that loueth hys lawe and consenteth that it is ryghteous and good, & fayne wolde do it, and euer mourneth because he nowe and then breaketh it thorow infyrmytie, or dothe it not so perfectely as hys harte wolde.

And let loue interprete the lawe: that thou vnderstande thys to be the fynall ende of the lawe, & the hole cause why the lawe was geuen: euen to bring the to the knowledge of God, howe that he hath done all thyng for the, that thou myghtest loue him agayn wyth all thyne harte, and thy neyghbour for hys sake as thy selfe, & as christ loued the. Because thy neighboure is the sonne of god also, and created vnto his lykenes as thou arte, and bought wyth as dere bloud as arte thou. Wholoeuer feleth in hys herte that euery man ought to loue hys neyghbour as Christ loued hym, and consenteth therto, and enforseth to come therto: the same onely vnderstādeth the law a ryght and can interprete it. And he that submytteth not him selfe in the degre he is in, to seke hys neyghbours profyte as Christ dyd hys, can neuer vnderstande thee lawe, though it be interprete to hym. For that loue is the lyght of the lawe, to vnderstande it bye.

¶ And behold how ryghteous, how honest, & how due a thinge it is by nature, that euery man loue hys brother vnfaynedly euē as hym selfe: for hys fathers sake. For it is the fathers great shame and hys bye displeasure, yf one brother hurte another. If one brother be hurte of another, he may not auēge hym selfe, but must cōplayne to hys father or to thē that haue auctorite of hys father to rule in hys absence. Euen

so yt any gods thyldre be hurt by any of hys brethre, he may not aduēge hym self w̄ hand or hert. God must aduenge. And the gouerners & ministers of the lawe ỹ God hath ordeyned to rule vs by, cōcerning our outward cōuersatiō of one wyth another they must aduēge. Yf they wyl not auēge, but rather mayntayn wrōge & be oppressers thē selues, thē must we tarye pacietly tyl God come which is euer ready to reape tyrantes frō of the face of ỹ erth, assone as theyr symnes ar ripe. Cōsyder also what wrath, vēgeaunce and plages god threateneth to thē ỹ ar rebellious and disobediēt

Thē go to & reade the storyes of ỹ byble for thy lerning & cōfort, & se euery thinge practysed before thyne eyes: for according to those ensamples shall it go w̄ the & all mē vntil ỹ worldes ende. So ỹ into (whatsoeuer cāse or state a mā be brought, according to whatsoeuer ensāple of ỹ bible it be) his ende shalbe according as he ther seeth & readeth. As god ther warneth yer he submit, & suffreth lōge yer he take extreme vēgeaūce, so shal he do w̄ vs. As they ỹ turne, ar ther receaued to mercy, & they ỹ maliciously resist, perishe vtterly, so shal it be w̄ vs. As they ỹ refuse the cōsell of God, perishe thorow theyr owne cōceyt, so shal it be wyth vs vntyl ỹ worldes ende. As it wēt w̄ theyr kinges & rulers, so shal it go with oures. As it was w̄ theyr cōmon people, so shal it be w̄ oures. As it was w̄ theyr spiritual officers, so shal it be w̄ oures. As it was w̄ theyr true prophetes, so shal it be w̄ oures vntyl the worldes ende. As they had euer amōg thē false pphetes & true: & as theyr false persecuted the true, & moued the princes to slē thē, so shal it be w̄ vs vntyl ỹ ende of the world. As there was amōg thē but a fewe true herted to god, so shal it be amōg vs: & as theyr ydolotrye was so shal oures be vntyl ỹ ende of ỹ world. Al mercy ỹ was shewed ther, is a pmyse vnto the, yf ỹ turne vnto god. And al vēgeaūce & wrath shewed ther, is threatened to the, yf thou be stouborne and resyst. &c. And this lerning & cōforte shalt thou euermore finde in ỹ playne texte & litcral sence. Nether is ther any story so homely, so rude, yea, or so vyle (as it semeth outwarde) wherin is not exceadynge great comforte. And whē some which seme to thē selues great clerkes say: they wote not what more prophyte is in many gestes of the scrypture yf they be read wout an allegorie, thē in a tale of robynhode, say thou, ỹ they were writtē for our consolatiō & cōforte, that we dyspeare not, yf such lyke happē vnto vs. We be not holyer thē Noe, though he were once dröke. Nether better beloued thē Jacob, though his owne sonne defyled hys bed. We be not holier thē Lot, though his doughters, thorow ignorāce deceaued him nor paraduēture holier thē those doughters. Nether ar we holier thē Dauid, though he brake wedlocke & vpon the same cōmytted abhominable murther. Al those mē haue witnesse of the scripture that they pleased god & were good men bothe before that those thinges chaūced them & also after. Neuertheless soch thynges happened them for our ensample: not that we shuld countrefayte theyr euyl, but yf, whyle we syghte wyth our selues mafrsing to walke in the law of god (as they dyd) we yet fal likewyse, that we dispeare not, but come agayne to the lawes of god and take better holde.

We reade sens ỹ tyme of christes death, of virgins ỹ haue ben brought to ỹ comen stues, & ther defiled, & of martyrs that haue ben bouūde, & hores haue abused theyr bodyes. Why? The iudgemētes of god ar bottōlesse. Soch thinges chaūced, partely for ensāples, partly god thorow sinne healeth synne. Pryde can nether be healed nor yet appere but thorow soch horrible dedes. Paraduēture they were of ỹ popes secte & reioysed fleshly, thinkinge ỹ heaue came by dedes & not by christ, & ỹ the outwarde dede iustified thē & made thē holy, & not the inward spirite receaued by fayth & the cōsent of the harte vnto the lawe of God. As thou readest therfore thinke that euery sil labe pertayneth to thyne owne self & sucke out ỹ pith of the scripture, & arme thy self against al assaultes. Fyrst note w̄ ströge faith ỹ power of god in creating al of nought. Thē marke ỹ greuous fal of Adā & of vs al in hi, thorow the light regarding of the commaundement of god. Jn the. iiii. chap. God turneth hym vnto Abel and then to hys offringe, but not to Cayn and hys offerynge. Where thou seest that thoughe thee dedes or thee euyll appeare outwardelye as gloryousse as thee dedes of thee good: yet in the syghte of God whyche loketh on the harte, the dede is good because of cause of ỹ mā, & not the mā good because of his dede. Jn ỹ. vi. God sendeth Noe to preach to ỹ wicked & geueth thē space to repēt: they ware hard herted, god bringeth thē to nought, & yet saueth Noe euē by the same water by which he destroyed them. Marke also what folowed the pryde of the buylding of the tower of Babel.

Cōsider how god sendeth forth Abrahā out of his owne cōtre into a strāge lande ful of wicked people, & gaue him but a bare pmise vnto him, ỹ he wold blesse him & defende him. Abrahā beleued, & ỹ word saued & deliuered him in al parelles: so ỹ we se how ỹ mās lyfe is not maintained by bread only (as christ saith) but moch rather by beleuing ỹ pmises of god. Behold how soberly, & how circūspectly both Abrahā & also Jsaac behaue thē selues amōg the infideles. Abrahā byeth that which myghte haue bene geuē him for nought, to cut of occasiōs. Jsaac whē his welles whiche he had digged were takē frō hi, geueth rowme & resisteth not. Moreouer they eat & sowe & fede theyr catel, & make cōfederatiōs, & take perpetual truce, & do al outward thinges, euē as they do which haue no faith: for god hath not made vs to be ydle in this world. Euery mā must worke godly & truly to ỹ vtmost of ỹ power ỹ god hath geuē him: & yet not trust therin: but in goddes worde or promesse, & god will worke with vs & bringe ỹ we do, to good effecte. And thē whē our power wil extēde no further, goddes promysses wyl worke al alone. How many thinges also resisted the promysses of god to Jacob: & yet Jacob cōfuteth god w̄ his owne promisses, saying: O god of my father Abrahā: & god of my father Jsaac, o lord which saydest to me, returne to thyne owne cōtre & vnto ỹ place where ỹ wast borne, & J wyl do ỹ good. J am not worthy of ỹ leste of those mercyes, nor of ỹ trouth whych ỹ hast done to thy seruāt. J wēt out but w̄ a staffe, & came home w̄. ii. droues, delyuer me out of ỹ handes of my brother Esau, for J feare him greatly. &c. And god delyuered hym, & wyl lykewise al ỹ cal to his pmisses w̄ a repēting hart, were they neuer so great sinners. Marke also ỹ weake infirmities of ỹ mā. He loueth one wyfe more thē another, one son more thē another. And se how god purgeth him: Esau threateneth hym: Laban begyleth him: The beloued wyfe is longe barē: his doughter is rauisshed: hys wyfe is defyled, & ỹ of his owne son. Rahel dieth, Joseph is takē away, yea, & as he supposed, rent of wilde beastes. And yet how glorious was his ende. Note ỹ wickednesse of his childrē, yea & the synne of thē, & how god thorow theyr owne wyckednesse sawed thē. These ensamples teache vs, ỹ a mā is not at once perfect ỹ fyrste day he beginneth to lyue wel. They ỹ be strong therfore, must suffer with the weake, and helpe to kepe thē in vnite and peace one with another vntyl they be ströger. Note what the brethrē sayd whē they were tached in Egipt, we haue verely synned (sayde they) agaynst our brother in ỹ we sawe the anguisshe of his soule whē he besoughte vs, & wold not heare him: & therfore is this tribulaciō come vpō vs. By which ensample ỹ seist how ỹ cōsciēce of euil doyēges sedeth mē out at the last. But namely in tribulatiō & aduersite: theyr tēptatiō & also desperatiō, yea, & the very paynes of hel find vs out: there ỹ soule feleth the fearce wrath of god, & wisheth mountaynes to falle on her and to hyde her (yf it were possible) from the angrye face of God.

Marke also how great euyls folowe, of howe lyttle an occasion. Dina goeth but forth alone to se ỹ doughters of the cōtre, & how great mischeffe & trouble folowed. Jacob loued but one sonne more thē another, & howe greuous murther folowed in theyr hartes. These ar ensamples for our learninge to teache vs to walke warely & circūspectly in the world of weake people, that we geue no mā occasions of euyl.

Finally, se what god pmysed Joseph in his dreames. Those pmysses accōpanied him alwayes, & wēt downe w̄ him euē into ỹ depe dōgeon, & brought him vp agayn & neuer forsoke him tyl al ỹ was pmised, was fulfilled. These ar ensamples writtē for our learning (as paul saith) to teach vs to trust in god in ỹ ströge fyre of tribulatiō & purgatory of our flesche. And ỹ thei which submit thē selues to folow god, shulde note & marke soch thinges, for their lerning & cōfort; is ỹ frute of ỹ scripture, and cause why it was wryttē: & w̄ soch a purpose to rede it, is ỹ waye to euerlasting lyfe & to those ioyful blessinges ỹ ar pmised to al nacios in ỹ sede of Abrahā, which seed is Jesus christ our lord, to whō be honour & prayse for euer, and vnto God oure father thorow hym, A M E N.

IN the begynnynge *God created heauen & erth The erth was voyde & emptie, and darkenesse was vpō the depe, and the sperite of God ‡ moued vpon the water.

Thā God sayd: let ther be light: & ther was light. And God sawe the lighte that it was good: & deuyded the lighte frō the darcknesse, & called the lyght the day, and the darcknesse the nyght: & so of the euening & mozning was made the fyrst day.

†Or heauen Psa. cerry. 8. and. x. b It is an Hebzewe word & signifieth the chaūstinge for the or spzeding abzode

And god sayd: let ther be a ‡ fyrmamēt betwene the waters, and let it deuyde the waters a sonder. Than God made ỹ fyrmament, & parted the waters which were vnder the fyrmamēt, frō the waters that were above the firmamēt: And it was so. And God called the fyrmamēt Heauen. And so of the euening and mozning was made the seconde daye.

*Psalm. cc. xb. a Pro. viii. c And God sayde: * let the waters that are vnder heauen gather thē selues vnto one place, that the dzye land may appere And it came so to passe. And God called the dzye lande the earth, & the gatheringe together of waters called he the see. And God sawe that it was good.

And God sayd: let the erth bzing forth herbe & grasse that sowe seed, & frutefull trees, that beare fruyte euery one in hys kynde, hauinge theyr seed in them selues vpon the earthe. And it came so to passe. B And the erth brought forth herbe & grasse sowing seed euery one in hys kynde, & trees bering frute, & hauing theyr seed in them selues, euery one in hys kinde. And God sawe that it was good, and then of the euenynge and mozning was made the thyrde daye.

*Psalm c xxv. a xiii. eld. vi d

*Deu. iiii. c Than sayd God: * let there be lightes in the fyrmamēt of heauen, to deuyde the daye from the nyghte, that they maye be vnto sygnes, seasons, dayes and yeares. And* let thē be lyghtes in the fyrmamēt of heauē, to shyne vpon the earth: And so it was. And God made* two great lyghtes. A greater lyght to rule the day, and a lesse lyght to rule ỹ night: & he made sterres also. And God put them in the fyrmamēt of heauen to shyne vpon the earth, & to rule ỹ daye & ỹ nyghte: & to deuyde the lyght frō darknesse. And God sawe that it was good: & so of the euening and mozninge was made the fourth daye.

Jer. xxxi. E

And God sayde: * let the water bzinge forth creatures that moue & haue lyfe, & foules for to flee ouer the erth vnder the fyrmament of heauen. And God created great whalles and al maner of creatures ỹ lyue & moue, which the waters brought forth in theyr kindes & al maner of federed foules i theyr kyndes. And god sawe & it was good: & God blessed thē saying: Growe & multyplye and fyll the waters of the sees: & let the foules multiply vpō the earth. And so of the euening and mozninge was made the fyfth daye.

And God sayd: let the erth bzing forth lyuinge creatures in theyr kyndes, catell and wormes and beastes of the earthe in theyr kindes, and so it came to passe. And God made the beastes of the erth in theyr kyndes, and catell in theyr kyndes, and al maner wormes of the earth in theyr kyndes: and God sawe that it was good.

And God sayd: lette vs make man in oure symylitude and after our lykenesse: that he may haue rule ouer the fish of the see, and ouer the foules of the ayze, & ouer catel, and ouer all the earthe, and ouer all wormes that crepe on the erth. And God created mā after hys lykenes, after the lykeneſſe of God created he hym: male & female created he them.

And God blessed them, and God sayd vnto them: Growe and multiply and fyll the earth, and subdue it, and haue dominyon ouer the fyshes of the see, and ouer the foules of thee ayze, and ouer all thee beastes that moue on the earth.

And God sayd: see I haue geuen you al herbes ỹ sowe sede, which are on al the erth, & all maner trees ỹ haue frute in thē, and sowe sede: to be meat for you and for all beastes of the earth, and vnto al foules of the ayze, and vnto all that crepethe on the erth where in is lyfe, that they may haue may haue al maner herbes and grasse for to eate, and euē so it was. And * God beheld al that he had made, and loo they were exceading good, and so of the euenyng and mornynge was made the syxte daye.

¶ The Notes.

a‡ Here is blessing take for encreasing and multiplyenge.

b‡ That is, after the shape & ymage, whyche was before appointed for the son of god. The chefe part of man also, whyche is the soule, is made lyke vnto god in a certayn proporcion of nature of power, & working, so that in ỹ we are made lyke vnto god.

¶ The Chapter that wēt before is here repeted again: the halowyng of the Saboth daye: the foure floudes of paradyse. The setting in of mā in paradyse: the tree of knowledge is forbidden him: hawe Adam named al creatures: the creation of Euah: the institution of maryage.

The.ii. Chapter

These ar the generatiōs of heuē & erth, whē they were created, in the tyme whē ỹ lord God created heauē & erth and all the shrubbes of the feld before they were in ỹ erth. And al the herbes of the felde before they sprange, for the Lorde god hath yet sent no rayne vpō the earth, neyther was ther yet any mā to fylle the erth. But ther arose a myste out of the ground, & watered al the face of the earth: Thē the Lord God * shope mā, euē of the ‡ mould of ỹ earth, & breethed into his face the breethe of lyfe. So * mā was made a lyuing soule.

The. iii. Chapter.

A BUt ỹ serpēt was sotyller thē al the beastes of ỹ feld, whiche the lorde god had made: & sayde vnto the womā: yea, hath god said in dede, ye shal not eat of al maner trees in ỹ gardē. And the woman sayd vnto the serpente, of the frupte of the trees in the garden we maye eate, but of the frupte of the tree that is in the middes of the garden (sayd God) se ȳ ye eate not, and se that ye touche it not, lest ye dye. Then sayd* the serpente vnto the woman: tusshe ye shall not dye: but God

doth know that, when soeuer ye shuld eat
of it, your a‡eyes shuld be opened, and ye shuld be as god, & know both good & euel
B And the *woma sawe that it was a good Eccl.xxv.d tree to eate of, & lusty vnto the eyes, and a pleasaunt tree for to geue vnderstanding.
And toke of the frute of it and ate, & gaue
vnto hyr husband also wyth her, & he ate.
And the eyes of bothe them were opened that they vnderstode howe that they were

ȳ hast obeyed the voyce of thy wyfe, and hast eate of ȳ tree of which I cōmaunded
the saying: Se ȳ eate not therof: cursed be the erth for thy sake. In sorow shalt ȳ

shal beare thornes and thystels vnto the.
And thou shalt eate the herbes of the feld D

dayes of Adam after he begat Seth were eyght hundred yere, and begat sonnes & doughters. And all the dayes of Adam whiche he lyued, were.ix.C.and.xxx.yere,
and then he dyed.

And Seth lyued an hundred & v. yeres,
and begat Enos. And after he had begot Enos he lyued. viii. C. and. vii. yere, and begat sonnes and doughters. And all the dayes of Seth were.ix. C. and. xii. yere, & dyed. And Enos lyued. lxxx. yere, and begat Kenam. And Enos after he begat Ke nam, lyued. viii. hundred and. xv. yere, &
begat sonnes & doughters: & all the dayes of Enos were. ix. hundred and. v. yere, and then he dyed. And Kenam lyued. lxx. yere, and begatte Mahalaliel. And Kenam
after he hadde begot Mahalaliel, lyued B eyghte hundred and foure yere, and

dayes of Kenā were.ix.hūdred ⁊.x.yeare, ⁊ thā he died. And Mahalaliel liueth.lxv yere, ⁊ begat Jared. And Mahalaliel after he had begót Jared lyued.viii c.⁊.xxx yeres, ⁊ begat sōnes and doughters: and all the dayes of Mahalaliel were.viii.C nynetie and.v.yere, and then he dyed.

And Jared lyued an hūdred ⁊.lxii.yere and begat Enoch: ⁊ Jared lyued after he begat Enoch.viii.hūdred yere, ⁊ begat sōnes ⁊ doughters. And all the dayes were ix.C.lxii.yere, and then he dyed. And Enoch lyued.lxv.yere, ⁊ begat Mathusala And *Henoch a‡walked w̄ god after he had begot Mathusala, iii.hūdred yere, ⁊ begat sonnes and doughters. And all the dayes of Henoch were.iii.C.lxv.yere, and then Henoch lyued a godly lyfe, and was nomore sene, for God toke hym away.

And God sayd: This is the tokē of my bond

bond which I make betwene me and you and betwene all lyuynge thynge, that is wyth you foz euer: I wyll sette my bowe in the cloudes, and it shalbe a signe of the apoyntmēt made betwene me & the earth: so that when I bringe in cloudes vpō the earth, the bowe shal appere in the cloudes And than wyll I thynke vpon my testamēt whych I haue made betwene me and you, & all that lyueth whatsoeuer flesche it be. So that hence fozth * there shalbe no moze waters to make a floud to destroye all flesche.

The bowe shalbe in the cloudes, and I wyll loke vpon it, to remember the euerlastynge Testament betwene god and al that lyueth vpon the earthe, what soeuer flesche it be. And God sayde vnto Noe: This is the sygne of the testament which I haue made betwene me and all flesche that is on the earth.

The sōnes of Noe that came oute of the arcke were Sem: Ham & Japheth. And Ham he is the father of Canaā. These ar the.iii. sonnes of Noe, and of these was all the worlde ouerspred.

And Noe beynge an husband man, wēt fozth & plāted a vyneyarde, & dzāke of the wyne & was dzōke, and lay vncouered in the myddest of his tent. And Sem & Japheth toke a mātell, and put it on both theyr shulders & wēt backwarde, and couered theyr fathers secrets, but theyr faces were backward, so ỹ they sawe not theyr fathers nakednes.

As sone as Noe was awaked from his wyne, and wyst what his yongeste sonne had done vnto hym, he sayde: Cursed be Canaan and a seruaūt of all seruauntes be he to his bzethren. And he said: Blessed be the Lozde God of Sem, and Canaan be his seruaūt. God [b] increase Japheth that he may dwell in the tentes of Sem. And Canaan be theyr seruaunt.

¶ The genealogye of Japheth, Sem and Ham.

The.x.Chapter.

These are the generatiōs of ỹ sonnes of Noe: of Sem, Hā and Japheth, whiche begat thē chyldzē after the floude.

The sonnes of Japhethe were: Gomyz, Magog, Madai, Jauan, Tuball, Mesech and Thyras. And the sonnes of Gomoz were: Askenas Riphat and Togarma. And the sonnes of Jauā were: Elisa, Tharsis, Cithim and Dodanim. Of these came the Iles of ỹ getyles in theyr contreys, euery mā in his speach, kynred and nacyon.

The sōnes of Ham were: Chus, Misraim, Phut, & Canaā. The sōs of Chus, were Seba, Heuyla, Sabta, Raima and Sabtema. And the sons of Raima were Sheba, & Dedā. * Chus also begat Nēmod which begā to be myghtie in the erth. He was a myghtie hunter in ỹ syght of ỹ Lozd. Wher of came ỹ pzouerbe: he is as Nēmod ỹ myghty hūter in the syght of the Lozde. And the begynnig of his kigdome was * Babel, Erech, Achad & Chalne in the lāde of Synear: Out of ỹ land came Assur, & buylded Ninyue, & the citie Rehoboth, and Calah, & Ressen betwene * Ninyue and Calah. That is a greate cyte. And Mizrim begat Ludi, Enamim Leabim, Naphtuhim, Pathrusi and Casluhi: frō whēce came the Philistims, and the Capththerynes.

Canaā also begat zidon his eldest sōne & Heth, Jebusi, Emozi, Girgosi, Hi, arki, Sini, Aruadi, zemari & Hamati. And afterward spzāg the kynreds of the Cananites. And the costes of the cananites were frō Sydon tyll ỹ come to Gerara & to Assa & tyll thou come to Sodoma, Gomozra, Adama, zeboim, euen vnto Lasa. These were the chyldzen of Hā in theyr tonges, landes, and nacyons.

And Sem the father of al the chyldzen of Eber, and the eldest bzother of Japhet begat chyldzen also. And his sones were Elā Assur, Arphachsad, Lud & Arā. And the chyldzen of Aram were: Uz, Hul, Gether and Mas. And * Arphachsad begat Sala, and Saala, begat Eber. And Ebar.ii. sōnes. The name of ỹ one was Peleg, foz i his tyme the earth was deuyded

the name of hys brother was Jaketan.

Jaketan begat Almodad, Saleph, Hyzarmoneth, Jarah, Hadoza, Usal, Dykela, Obal, Abimael, Seba, Ophir, Heuila, & Jobab. All these are the sonnes of Jaketan. And the dwelling of them was frō Mesa vntyl thou come vnto Sephara a mountayne of the east lande. These are the sonnes of Sem in theyr kinredes languages, contrees and nations. These are the kynredes of the sonnes of Noe, in theyr generations & nacyons. And of these came the people that were in the worlde after the floude.

The buyldinge of the tower of Babel. The confusyon of tonges. The generacion of Sem, the son of Noe vntil Abrā which goeth with Lot vnto Harā

The.xi. Chapter.

A AND all the worlde was of one tonge, & one language. And as they came from the easte, they foūde a playne in the lād of Synear, & ther they dwelled. And they sayde one to another: come on, let vs make brycke and burne it wyth fyre. So bycke was theyr stone, & slyme was theyr morter. And they sayde: Come on let vs buylde vs a cyte & a towre, that the toppe maye reache vnto heauen. And let vs make vs a name, for parauenture we shall be scattered abrode ouer all the earth. And the Lord came a downe to b see the cytie and the towre whych the chyldre of Adam hadde buylded. And the Lorde sayde: See, the people is one, & haue one tonge among thē al. And thys haue they begon to do and wil not leaue of from al

B that they haue purposed to do. Come on, let vs descende, and mingle theyr tonge euen ther, that one vnderstonde not what another sayeth. Thus the Lord scattered them from thence vpon al the earth. And they left of to buylde the cytie. Wherfore the name of it is called Babell, because that the Lorde ther cōfounded the tonge of al the worlde. And because that the lorde from thence scattered them abrode vpon all the earth.

These are the generatiōs of Sem: Sem was an hundred yere olde and begat Arphachsad. ii. yeare after the floude. And Sem lyued after he had begot Arphachsad. v. hundred yeare and begat sonnes & doughters.

C And c Arphachsad lyued. xxxv. yeare & begat Sala, & lyued after he had begat Sala. iiii. hundred yere & .iii. & begat sonnes and doughters: And Sala was. xxx. yeare olde and begat Eber and lyued after he had begot Eber. iiii. hundred & thre yere, & begat sonnes & doughters. When Eber was. xxxiiii. yere olde, he begat Peleg, and lyued after he had begot Peleg, foure hundred and. xxx. yeare, and begat sonnes and doughters.

And Peleg when he was. xxx. yere olde begat Regu, & lyued after he had begotte Regu. ii. hundred & .ix. yere, & begat sonnes and doughters. And Regu when he had lyued. xxxii. yere begat Serug, and liued after he had begot Serug. ii. hundred & vii. yeare, & begat sonnes & doughters.

And when Serug was. xxx. yere old he begat Nahor, and lyued after he had begot Nahor. ii. hundred yere, & begat sonnes and daughters. And Nahor when he was. xxix. yere old, begat Terah, & lyued after he had begot Terah, an hundred & xix. yere, & begat sonnes and donghters.

And when Terah was. lxx. yeare olde he begat Abram, Nahor and Haran.

D And these are the generatiōs of *Terah. Terah begat Abram, Nahor & Haran. And Haran begat Lot. And Haran dyed before Terah hys father in the land where he was borne, at Ur in Chaldea. And Abram and Nahor toke thē wyues. Abrams wyfe was called Sarai. And Nahors wife Milca the doughter of Haran whych was father of Milca and of Jesca. But * Sarai was baren, and had no chylde.

Than toke Terah Abram ‡ his sonne and Loth hys sonne, Harans sonne, and Sarai hys daughter in lawe, hys sonne Abrams wyfe. And they went wyth hym from Ur in Chaldea, to go into the lande of Chanaan. And they came to Haran & dwelled ther. And whē Terah was. ii. hūdred yere olde and fyue he dyed in Haran way to my masters brothers house. And the damsell ranne and tolde theym of her mothers house these thynges. And Rebecca had a brother called Laban.

And Laban ranne out vnto the man, to the well: for as sone as he had sene the earynges, and the bracelettes vpon hys systers handes, and herde the wordes of Rebecca his syster saynge, thus sayde the man vnto me, then he went oute vnto the man. And lo: he stode yet with the camels by the well syde. And Laban sayde, come in thou blessed of the Lorde. Wherfore stondest thou without? I haue dressed the house, and made rowme for the camels. And then the man came in to the house: & he vnbrydeled the camels: & brought lyt ter & prauender for the cameles, & water to washe hys fete & theyr fete that were with hym, & there was meate set before hym to eate. But he sayde: I wyl not eate, vntyll I haue sayde myne earande. And he sayde: say on. And he sayde: I am Abrahams seruaunt, and the Lorde hath a‡blessed my master out of measure, that he is become greate, and hath gyuē hym shepe oxen, syluer, and golde, menseruauntes, maydseruauntes, camels and asses. And Sara my masters wyfe bare hym a sōne when she was olde: and vnto him hath he geuen all ȳ he hath. And my master made me sweare saynge: thou shalte not take a wyfe to my sonne amōge the doughters of the Cananites in whose lande I dwel. But thou shalt go vnto my fathers house and to my kynred, and there take a wyfe vnto my sonne. And I sayde vnto my master: what yf the wyfe wyll not folowe me? And he sayde vnto me: The Lorde before whome I walke, wyll sende his aungell with the, and prospere thy iourney ȳ thou shalt take a wyfe for my sōne of my kynred and of my fathers house. But & yf (whē thou comest vnto my kired) they wyll not gyue the one, thē shalt thou bere no perell of myne othe.

And I came this day vnto the wel & sayd O Lorde, the god of my master Abrahā, yf it be so that thou makeste my iourney which I go, prosperous: beholde I stond by this well of water, and when a virgyn cometh forth to drawe water, and I saye to her: gyue me a lytle water of thy pytcher to dryncke, and she say agayne to me dryncke thou, and I wyll also draw water for thy camels: that same is the wyfe whome the Lorde hathe prepared for my masters sonne.

And before I had made an ende of spekynge in myne herte: Beholde Rebecca came forth, and her pitcher on her shulder and she went downe vnto the well & drew And I sayde vnto her: gyue me dryncke. And she made haste, and toke downe her pytcher from of her, & sayd: dryncke, & I wyll geue thy camels dryncke also. And I asked her saynge: whose doughter arte thou? And she answerd: the doughter of Bathuel Nahors sōne. whō Milca bare vnto hym. And I put the earynge vpon her face and the bracelettes vpon her hādes. And I bowed my selfe, and *worshypped the Lorde, and blessed the lorde God of my maister Abraham which had brought me the rghte waye, to take my masters brothers doughter, vnto his sonne. Nowe therfore yf ye wyll deale ‡mercyfully and truly with my master, tell me: and yf not, tell me also: that I may turne me to the, eyght hande, or to the lefte.

Then answerd Laban and Bathuel saynge: The thynges is proceded euen out of the lorde, we can not therfore say vnto the ether good or bad: behold Rebecca before thy face, take her and goo, and let her be thy masters sonnes wyfe, euen as the lorde hath sayde. And when Abrahams seruaunt heerde theyr wordes, he bowed hym selfe vnto the lorde, flatte vpon the erth. And the seruaunt toke forthe iewels of syluer and iewelles of golde and rayment, and gaue them to Rebecca: but vnto her brother, and to her mother, he gaue spyces. And then they ate & dranke, both he and the men ȳ were wyth hym, & taried all nyght and rose vp in the morning.

And he sayd: lette me depart vnto my mayster. But hyr brother and hyr mother sayde: lette the damsell abyde wythe vs a whyle, and it be but euen. x. dayes, & than goo thy waye. And he sayde vnto them: hynder me not, for the Lord hath prospered my iourneye. Sende me away that I may go vnto my mayster. And they sayd let vs call the damsel, and wete what she sayth to the matter. And they called forth Rebecca

Rebecca and sayd vnto her: wylt thou go wyth thys man? And she sayde: yea.

So they let Rebecca theyr syster goo wyth her norse and Abrahams seruaunt, and the mē that were with hym. And they ‡blessed Rebecca, and sayde vnto her: Thou art our syster growe into thousande thousandes, and thy sede possesse thee gates of theyr enemyes. And Rebecca arose and hyr damsels, and satt them vp vpō the camels, and went theyr waye after the man. And the seruaunt toke Rebecca, and went hys waye.

And Isaac was comyng from the wel of the *lyuinge and seynge, for he dwelte in the south countrey, and was gone oute to walke in hys ‡meditations before the euentyde. And he lyfte vp hys eyes, and loked, and behold the camels were comig. And Rebecca lyfte vp hyr eyes, and when she sawe Isaac, she lighted of the camel, & sayde vnto the seruaunt: what mā is this that cometh agaynst vs in the felde? And the seruaunt sayde: it is my mayster. And thē she toke hyr mantel, and put it about her. And the seruaunt tolde Isaac al that he had done. Then Isaac brought her into hys mother Saras tēte, and toke Rebecca, and she became hys wyfe, and he lued her: and so was Isaac cōforted ouer hys mother.

Than wēte Jacob to Jsaac D hys father, & he felt hym & sayd, the voyce is Jacobs voyce, but the hādes are ỹ hādes of Esau. And he knew him not, because hys hādes were roughe as hys brother Esaus handes: and so he blessed hym.

And he ared hym: art thou my sonne Esau: And he sayd: that J am. Than sayde he: bryng me & let me eate of my sonnes venison, that my soule maye blesse the. And he brought hym, & he ate. And he brought hym wyne also, & he dranke. And his father Jsaac sayde vnto hym: come nere, & kysse me my sonne. And he wēt vnto hym and kissed hym. And he smelled the sauour of hys raymēt, and *blessed hym, & sayde: See, the smel of my son is as the smel Gen.xlii.b Heb.xi.a of a felde whyche the Lorde hath blessed. God geue the of the ‡dewe of heauē, and of the fatnesse of the earth, and plentye of corne and wyne. People be thy sernaūtes and nacions bowe vnto the. Be lord ouer thy brethre, & thy mothers chyldrē stoupe vnto the. Cursed be he that curseth the, & blessed be he that blesseth the.

As soone as Jsaac had made an end of E blessing, Jacob was scace gone out frō ỹ presence of Jsaac his father: thē came Esau his brother frō his hunting, & had made also meate, & brought it vnto hys father, & sayd vnto hym: Aryse my father, & eate of thy sonnes venison, that thy soule maye blesse me. Than hys father Jsaac sayd vnto hym: who art thou: he ānswered J am thy eldest sonne Esau. And Jsaac was greatly astoyned out of measure, and sayd: Woher is he thē that hath hunted he nison & brought it me, & J haue eate of al before thou camest, & haue blessed hym, & he shalbe blessed styll. When Esau herde ỹ wordes of his father, he cryed out greatly & bitterly aboue measure, & sayde vnto hys father: blesse me also my father. And he sayd: thy brother came with subtilte, & hath take away thy blessing. Thā sayd he he may wel be called Jacob, for he hathe vndermined me now two tymes, fyrste he toke away my byrthryght: & se, now hath F he taken awaye my blessinge also. And he sayde: haste thou kepte neuer a blessynge for me?

Jsaac answered and sayd vnto Esau: behold, J haue made hym thy Lorde, and all hys mothers chyldrē haue J made his seruauntes. Moreouer wyth ‡corne and wyne haue J stablished hym: what can J do vnto the now my son? And Esau sayd vnto hys father: haste thou but that one blessinge my father? blesse me also my fa- Hebr.xii. ther: so lyfted vp Esau hys voyce & *wepte. Than Jsaac hys father answered, and sayd vnto hym: beholde, thy dwelling place shal haue of the fatnesse of the earth, & of the dewe of heauē frō aboue. And with thy swerde shalt thou lyue, & thalt be thy brothers seruāt. But the tyme wyll come, when thou shalt gett the maistrye, and lowse his yocke from of thy necke.

And Esau *hated Jacob, because of the Gen.xxvii.d blessyng that his father blessed hym with all, & said in his hart: The dayes of my fathers sorowe are at hand, for J wyll slepe my brother Jacob. And these wordes of G Esau hyr eldest sonne were told to Rebecca. And she sent and called Jacob hyr yongest sonne, & sayd vnto hym: beholde thy brother Esau threateneth to kyll the: now therfore my sonne heare my voyce, make the redy, & flee to Labā my brother at Haran: and tarye with him a whyle vntil thy brothers fearcenesse be swaged, and vntyll thy brothers wrath turne away from the, and he forgett that whych thou haste done to hym. Than wyll J sende and fet the awaye from thence. Why shuld J lose you both in one day? And Rebecca spake to Jsaac: J am wery of my lyfe, for fear of the doughters of Heth. The.xxviii.Chapter.

A Than Jsaac called Jacob his sonne & ‡blessed him, & charged him, & sayd vnto him: se, thou take not a wyfe of thee doughters of Canaā, but aryse & get the to Mesopotamia to the house of Bethuel thy mothers father, & there take the a wife of the doughters of Labā thy mothers brother. And God almighty blesse the, increase the, & multiply the that thou mayst be a nombre of people, & geue the the blessing of Abrahā, bothe to thy & to thy sede wyth the, that thou mayst possesse the land (wherin thou art a straūger) whych God gaue vnto Abraham. Thus Jsaac sent forth Jacob, to go to Mesopotamia vnto Laban, sonne of Bethuel the B Sirien, and brother to Rebecca Jacobs & Esaus mother.

Whē Esau sawe ỹ Jsaac had blessed Jacob, & sente hym to *Mesopotamia, to Gen.xxii.d fet him a wife thēce: & ỹ as he blessed him he gaue him a charge, sayēg: se, thou take not a wyfe of the doughters of Canaan: & that Jacob had obeyed hys father and mother, & was gone vnto Mesopotamia: & seyng also that the doughters of Canaā pleased not Jsaac his father: then wēt he vnto Israel, & toke vnto the wyues which he had, Mahala the doughter of Jsmael Abrahams sonne, the syster Nabaioth to be hys wyfe. Jacob departed from Berseba, and went towarde Haran, and came vnto a place, and tarved there all nyghte because the sonne was downe. And toke a stone of the place, and putte it vnder hys heade, and layde hym downe in thee same place to slepe. And he dreamed: & beholde holde there stode a ladder vpon the earth, and the toppe of it reached vp to heauen. C And se, the angels of God wente vp and downe vpon it, yea & the Lorde stode vpō it, and sayde.

J am the Lord god of Abrahā thy father, & the God of Jsaac: The *lād which Gen.xxvii.c. thou slepest vpō wyll J geue the & thy sede. And thy sede shalbe as the duste of the earth: & thou shalt spreade abrode: weste, easte, north and south. And thorowe the & thy sede shal al the kynredes of the earthe be ‡blessed. And se J am with the, & wyl be thy keper in al places whether ỹ goest, & wyl bryng the agayn into this land: neither wyll J leaue the vntyl J haue made good all that J haue promysed the.

Whē Jacob was awaked out of his D slepe he sayd: surely the lord is in this place, & J was not aware. And he was afrayed & sayd: how fearful is this place? it is none other, but euē the ‡house of God, & the gate of heuē. And Jacob stode vp early in the morning: & toke the stone that he had layd vnder hys head: & pytched it vp an ende, & poured oyle on thee toppe of it. And he called the name of the place ‡Bethel, for in dede the name of the cytye was called Lus before tyme. And Jacob vowed a vowe, saying: Yf God wylbe with me, & wyl kepe me in this tourneye whych J goo, & wyl geue me bread to eate, & clothes to put on, so that J come agayn vnto my fathers house in sattye: thē shal the Lord be my God, and thys stone which J haue sett vp an ende, shalbe Godes house and of al that thou shalte geue me, wyl J geue the ‡tente vnto the.

Then Jacob lyfte vp his fete, A & wēt toward the east coūtre And as he loked aboute, behold ther was a well in ỹ feld and.iii.flockes of shepe laye therby(for at that well were the flockes watered (& ther laye a great stone at the well mouth. And the maner was to bringe thee flockes thyther,& to roull thee stone from thee welles mouth,and to water the shepe, and to put the stone agayne vpon the welles mouth vnto his place. And Jacob sayd vnto thē, brethren whence be ye? And they sayde:of Haran are we. And he sayd vnto thē:know ye Laban the sonne of Nahor? And they sayde:we know hym. And he sayde vnto thē:is he in good health? And they sayd:he is in good health:and behold,his

B doughter Rahel cometh wythe the shepe. And he sayde:lo it is yet a great whyle to nyght,nether is it tyme that the catel shulde be gathered together: water thee shepe and go and fede them. And they sayd: we may not,vntyl all the flockes be brought together, and the stone be roulled frō thee welles mouth,and so we water our shepe

While he yet talked wyth thē, Rahell came wyth hyr fathers shepe,for she kept them. As soone as Jacob sawe Rahel,the doughter of Laban hys mothers brother and the shepe of Laban hys mothers brother, he went& rowled thee stone from the wels mouth,and watered the shepe of C Laban hys mothers brother. And Jacob kyssed Rahell, and lyfte vp hys voyce & wepte:and tolde her also that he was hyr fathers brother & Rebeccas sonne. Than Rahell ranne and tolde hyr father.

Whē Laban hearde tell of Jacob his systers sonne,he ranne too mete hym, and embraced him and kyssed hym,& brought hym to hys house. And then Jacob tolde Laban al the matter. And thē Laban sayde:wel,thou art my bone and my flesh. Abyde wyth me the space of a moneth. And afterwarde Laban sayde vnto Jacob: Thoughe thou be my brother,shouldeste thou therfore serue me for nought? tel me what shall thy wages be? And Laban had two doughters,the eldest called Lea and the yongeste called Rahell. Lea was
D tender eyed,but Rahel was bewtiful and well fauoured. And Jacob loued her wel and sayde: I wyll serue the seuen yeare for Rahell thy youngest doughter. And Laban answered: it is better that I geue her the, than too another man: byde therfore wyth me.

And Jacob serued.vii.yeres for Rahell,and they seined vnto hym but a fewe dayes,for the loue he had to her. And Jacob sayde vnto Laban:geue me my wyfe that I maye lye with her. For the tyme ap poynted me is come. Deser.

Than Laban bad all men of that place,& made a feast. And when euen was come,he toke Lea his doughter & broughte her to him:and he went* in vnto her. And Laban gaue vnto hys doughter Lea zilpha hys mayde,to be hyr seruaunte. And when the morynge was come,beholde,it was Lea. Than sayd he to Laban: wherfore hast thou played thus wyth me? dyd not I serue the for Rahell, wherfore than hast thou begyled me? Laban answered: it is not the maner of this place,to marye the youngest before the eldest. Passe oute this weke and than shal this also be geuē the for the seruice whych thou shalt serue me yet.vii.yeares more. And Jacob dyd

When thee Lorde sawe that Lea was despysed,he made her frutefull: but Rahell was baren. And Lea conceaued and bare a sonne,& called his name Rubē,for she sayd:the lord hath loked vpō my *tri bulatiō. And now my husband wyll loue me. And she conceaued agayn and bare a sonne,and sayd:the Lord hath herde that I am despysed,& hath therfore geuen me
G hys sonne also,and she called hym* Simeon. And she conceaued yet,and bare a sonne,& sayde:now this once wyll my husbande kepe me companye, because I haue borne him.iii.sonnes:& therfore she called his name Leui. The.xxx.Chapter.

When

A When Rahel sawe that she bare Jacob no chyldren, she enuyed hyr syster,& sayd vnto Jacob: Geue me chyldre, or els I am but deed. Thā was Jacob wrooth with Rahel saying: Am I in Gods stede which kepeth from the, the frute of thy wombe? Thē she said: here is my mayde Bilha:go in vnto her, that she may beare vpon my lappe,that I may be encreased by her. And she gaue him Bilha hyr hādmayde to wyfe. And Jacob wēt in vnto her:& Bilha cōceaued & bare Jacob a sonne. Thā sayd Rahel. God hath geuē sentence on my syde,& hath also herde my voyce,& hath geuen me a sonne. Therfore called she hym Dan. And Bilha Rahels mayde conceaued agayne, & bare Jacob another sonne. And Rahel sayde: God is turned,and I haue made a chaunge with my syster,and haue gotten the vpperhāde And she called hys name Nepthali.

B When Lea sawe that she hadde lefte bearynge,she toke zilpha hyr mayde, and gaue her Jacob to wyfe. And zilpha Leas mayde beare Jacob a sonne. Thā sayd Lea: Good lucke:& called hys name Gad And zilpha Leas mayde bare Jacob another sonne. Than sayde Lea:happy am I for thee doughters wyll call me *blessed. And called hys name Asser.

And Ruben went out in the wheat harueste and founde a* mandragoras in thee feldes,and broughte them vnto hys mother Lea. Than sayde Rahel to Lea geue me of thy sonnes mādragoras. And Lea answered: Is it not ynough that thou hast taken awaye my husbande,but wol-
C dest take away my sonnes mandragoras also? Than sayde Rahell: well,let him lye wythe thee thys nyghte for thy sonnes mandragoras. And when Jacob came from thee feldes at euen, Lea went oute to mete hym,and sayde:come in to me,for I haue boughte the with my sonnes mandragoras. And he slepte wyth her that nyght. And God herde Lea, that she conceaued and bare vnto Jacob the.v.sonne Than sayd Lea. God hath geuen me my rewarde,because I gaue my mayden too my housbande, and she called hym Issachar. And Lea conceaued yet agayne,and bare Jacob the.vyte sonne. Than sayde
D the: God hathe endowed me with a good dowry. Now wyll my husbande dwel wt me,because I haue borne hym.vi.sonnes & called his name Zabulon. After that she bare a doughter,& called her* Dina. ge.xxxviii.a

And God remebred Rahel,hearde her,& made her frutefull:so that she cōceyued & bare a sonne,& sayde: God hathe taken awaye my rebuke. And she called his name Joseph,saying: The Lorde gyue me yet a nother sōne: As sone as Rahel had borne Joseph, Jacob sayd to Laban: Sende* me away that I may go vnto my owne place and contre,geue me my wyues, and my chyldre for whom I haue serued the, & let me goo:for thou knowest what seruyce I haue done the. Thē sayde Laban vnto hym: If I haue found fauer in thy syght,(for I suppose that the Lord hath *blessed me for thy sake) appoynte what
E thy rewarde shal be,& I wyll gyue it the. But he sayde vnto hym: Thou knowest what seruyce I haue done the, and in what takynge thy catell haue bene vnder me: For it was but lyttle that thou haddest before I came,& now it is increased into a multitude,& the lorde hath blessed the for my sake. But now whē shall I make prouysyon for myne owne house also. And he sayd: what shal I then gyue the? And Jacob answered: thou shalt geue me nothig at all,yf thou wylt do this one thyng for me,and then wyll I turne agayne,& fede thy shepe and kepe them. ge.xxvii.b

I wyll go about al thy shepe this day and seperate from them all the shepe that are spotted & of dyuers colours,& al blacke shepe amonge the lābes,& the partye, & the spotted amonge the kyddes:and the same shall be my rewarde. So shall my ryghteousnesse answere for me: when the tyme cōmeth that I shall receyue my reward of the:so that whatsoeuer is not spekled & partye amōg the goots & blacke amōg the lābes,let that be theft vnto me. Thē sayd Laban: Loo, I am content that it be accordynge as thou hast said. And he toke out that same day the he gotes that were ptye & of dyuers colours,and all the she gootes that were spotted & partye coloured,and all that hadd whyte in them,and all the blacke amōg the lambes, and put them in the kyppuge of betwixte hym self & Jacob. And so Jacob kepte the rest of Labans shepe.

Jacob toke roddes of grene popular, hasel and of chestnottrees, & pylled whyte strakes in thē, & made the whyte appere in the staues: And he put the staues whyche he had pylled, euē before the shepe, in thee gutters & watring troughes, whē the shepe came to drincke, that they should cōceaue whē they came to drincke. And ỹ shepe conceaued before the staues, and brought
G forth straked, spotted and partie. Thē Jacob parted the lambes and turned the faces of the shepe toward spotted thynges, and toward all maner of blacke thynges thorowe out the flockes of Laban. And he made hym flockes of hys owne by thē self, whyche he put not vnto thee flockes of Laban. And all waye in the fyrste bucking tyme of the shepe, Jacob put the staues before thee shepe in thee gutters, that they myghte conceaue before thee staues: but in the latter buckynge tyme, he putte them not there: so the last brode was Labans and the fyrste Jacobs. And the mā became exceadynge ryche & had many shepe: maydeseruauntes, menseruauntes, camels and asses.

And Jacob sayde: O god of my father Abrahā, & god of my father Isaac: Lord

C whych saydest vnto me, returne vnto thy countrye and to thy kynred, & I wyl do al well with the. I am not worthy of ỹ least of all the mercyes and trueth whych thou hast shewed vnto thy seruaunt. For wyth my a‡ staffe came I ouer thys Iordane, & nowe haue I gotten. ii. droues. Delyuer me from the handes of my brother Esau: for I feare him: lest he wyl come and smyte the mother wyth the chyldre. Thou saydest that thou woldest suerly do me good and wolde st make my sede as thee sande of the see whyche cannot bee nombred for multitude.

D And he taryed ther that same nyght, & toke of that whych came to hād, a present vnto Esau hys brother two hundred shegottes, and. xx. he gottes. ii. hūdred shepe, & .xx. rammes: thyrtye mylch camels with theyr coltes. xl. kyne and. x. bulles. xx. she asses and. x. foles, and delyuered them vnto hys seruauntes, euery droue by thē selues, and sayde vnto them: go forth before me and put a space betwixte euerye droue And he cōmaunded the formest sayinge

When Esau my brother meteth the & axeth the sayinge: whose seruaūt art thou and whether goest thou, and whose are the se that goo before the: thou shalt say, they be thy seruaunt Jacobs, and are a present

E sent vnto my lorde Esau, and beholde, he hym selfe cometh after vs. And so cōmaūded he the second, & euen so the thyrd, & lykewise al that folowed the droues saying of this maner se that ye speake vnto Esau when ye mete hym, & sayd moreouer: Behold thy seruaunt Jacob cometh after vs for he sayd: I wyll pease hys wrath with the present that goeth before me and afterward I wyll see hym my selfe, so peraduēture he wyl receaue me to grace. So wēt the present before hym, & he taried al that nyght in the tente and rose vppe the same nyght and toke hys. ii. wyues and hys. ii. maydens and hys. xi. sonnes, and wente ouer the foorde Jabock. And he toke thē and sent thē ouer the ryuer, and sent ouer that he had & taried behind him selfe alone

F And there * wrastled a man wyth hym vnto the breakinge of the daye. And whē he saw that he could not preuayle against hym, he smote hym vnder the thye, & thee seno w of Jacobs thye shrāke as he wrastled wyth hym. And he sayd: let me go, for thee daye breaketh. And he sayde: I wyll not let the go, except thou blesse me. And he sayde vnto hym: what is thy name? He answered: Jacob. And he said: thou shalt be called Jacob noo more, but * Israell. For thou hast wrastled wyth God & hast preuayled.

And Jacob asked hym sayinge, tel me G thy name. And he sayd, wherfore doest ỹ aske after my * name? and he blessed hym there. And Jacob called the name of thee place Phiniel, for I haue sene God face ‡ to face, and yet is my lyfe reserued.

Iud.

And as he wente ouer Phintell the sunne rose vpon hym, and he halted vpon hys thye: wherfore the chyldren of Israel eate not of the seno we that shranke vnder the thye vnto this daye: because that he smot Jacob vnder the thye in thee seno we that shronke.

The Notes

a‡ To go wyth a staffe is a maner of speakyng of the Hebrewes, whych signifyeth nothyng els but to hymple, barely and wythout any ryches or strēgth as in Mar. vi. b

b‡ To se God face to face, is to haue a certen and sure knowledge of hym as in Exod. xxxiii. b ¶ Esau & Jacob are agreed, & Jacob came in Sichem.

The. xxxiii. Chapter

A IAcob lyft vp hys eyes & saw hys brother Esau come, and wyth hym. iiii. hundred men. And he deuyded the chyldren vnto Lea & vnto Rahell and vnto the. ii. maydens. And he put the maydens and theyr chyldre formost, and Lea and hyr chyldren after, and Rahel and Joseph hindermost. And he wente before thē and fell on the grounde. vii. tymes, vntyl he came vnto hys brother.

Esau ranne to mete hym and enbraced hym and fel on hys necke and kyssed him

B and they wepte. And he lyfte vp hys eyes and sawe thee wyues and theyr chyldre, & sayd: what ar these whych thou ther hast? And he sayd: they are the chyldren whych god hath geuē thy seruaūt. Than came ỹ maydens forth, and dyd theyr obeysaūce. Lea also & hyr chyldren came & dyd theyr obeysaunce. And last of all came Joseph, and Rahel, and dyd theyr obeysaunce.

And he sayd: what meanest thou wyth al the droues which I met. And he answered: to fynde grace in the sight of my lord And Esau sayd: I haue ynough my brother, kepe that thou hast vnto thy selfe. Jacob answered: oh nay, but yf I haue founde grace in thy syght, receaue my present

f. Ver. 11. c. Deu. v. d. of my hand: for I haue sene thy face * as though I had sene the face of god: wherfore receaue me to grace and take my blessyng that I haue brought ỹ, for god hath geuē it me. And I haue ynough of al thinges. And so he compelled hym too take it. And he sayd: let vs take our iourney and

C goo, and I wyl goo in thy company. And he sayde vnto hym: my lord knoweth that I haue tendre children, ewes and kyne vnto yonge, vnder myne hande, whych yf men shuld ouerdryue but euē one day, the hole flocke wolde dye. Let my lord therfore go before hys seruaūt and I wyl dryue fayre and softely, accordyng as the catel that goeth before me and the chyldren, be able to endure: vntyll I come to my Lord vnto Seir.

And Esau sayd: let me yet leaue some of my folke wyth the. And he sayde: what

D meadeth it: let me fynd grace in the syght of my lord. So Esau wente hys waye agayne that same day vnto Seir. And Jacob toke hys iourneye towarde Sucoth, and bylt him an house, and made boothes for hys catel: wherfore the name of the place is called Sucoth,

And Jacob came peaceably into the cytte of Sichem in the land of Canaan, after that he was come from Mesopotamia and pytched before the cytye, & boughte a parcell of grounde where he pytched hys tente, of the chyldren of Hemor Sichems father, for an hundred lābes. And he made there an aulter, and there called vpon the myghtye God of Israell.

¶ The rauishinge of Dina Jacobs doughter by ỹ men of Sichē. And of the great bloud shedinge done by the sonnes of Jacob.

The. xxxiiii. Chapter

A DIna ỹ doughter of Lea why che she bare vnto Jacob, wēt oute to see the doughters of the lande. And Sichem thee sonne of Hemor the heuite lord of the coū trey, sawe her and toke her, and a‡ lay with ii. Re. xiii. c her and forced * her: and hys hart laye on Dina the doughter of Jacob. And he loued the damsell and spake kyndlye vnto her, and spake vnto his father Hemor sayinge, gette me thys mayden vnto my wyfe. And Jacob herde that he hadde defyled Dyna hys doughter, but hys sonnes were wyth the cattell in the felde, and ther fore he held his peace, vntyll they were come. Then Hemor thee father of Sichem went out vnto Jacob, to comē wyth hym. And the sonnes of Jacob came oute of the feld as soone as they herde it, for it greued thē, & they were not a lytle wroth because he had wrought folye in Israell, in ỹ he had lyen wyth Jacobs doughter, whych thynge ought not to be done. And the soule of my sonne Sichē longeth for your doughter: geue her him to wyfe, and make mariages with vs: geue your doughters vnto vs, and take our doughters vnto you, and dwel with vs, and the land shall be at youre pleasure, dwell and doo your busynes, and haue your possessions therein. And Sichem sayde vnto hyr father and hyr brethren: let me fynde grace in your eyes, and whatsoeuer ye appoynt me, that wyl I geue. Are frely of me both the dowry and gyftes, and I wyl geue according as ye saye vnto me, and geue me the damsel to wyfe.

B Hemor comened wythe them sayinge: the soule

Then thee sonnes of Jacob answered to Sichem and Hemor hys father deceytfully, because he had defyled Dina theyr syster. And they sayde vnto them, we cannot doo thys thynge that we shulde geue oure syster to one that is vncircumcysed, for that were a shame vnto vs. Onely in thys wyl we consent vnto you: Yf ye wyl be as we be, that all thee men chyldren among you be circumcysed, than wyll we geue oure doughter to you and take yours to vs, and wyll dwell wythe you and be one people. But, and yf ye wyl not harken vnto vs to be circumcysed, than wyll we take our doughter and go our wayes.

C And theyr wordes pleased Hemor: & Sichem hys sonne. And the yonge mā deferde not for to do the thinge, because he had a luste too Jacobs doughter: he was also most set by of all that were in hys fathers house. Than Hemor, and Sichem wente vnto the gate of theyr cytye, and comened wyth the men of theyr cytie sayinge: these men are peaceable with vs, and wyl dwel in the land and do theyr occupation there in. And in the land is rowme ynough for thē, let vs take theyr doughters to wyues and geue thē oures: only herein wyll they consent vnto vs for to dwel with vs and to be one people: yf al the mē chyldrē that are among vs, be circumcised as they ar. Theyr goodes and theyr substaunce and all theyr catell are oures, onely let vs consent vnto them, that they may dwel wyth vs.

D And vnto Hemor and Sichē hys sonne, harkened all that went out at the gate of hys cytie. And all the men children were circumcised what soeuer wente oute at the gates of hys cytye. And the thyrd day when it was paynefull to them. ii. of thee sonnes of Jacob Symeon and Leui Dinas brethren, toke ether of thē hys * swerd and went into the cytye boldely, and slewe all that was male, and slewe also Hemor & Sychem his sonne with the edge of the swerde, and toke Dina theyr syster out of Sychems house, and went theyr waye. Gen.xlix. Iudith.ix

Than came the sonnes of Jacob vpō the dead, & spoyled the cytye, because they had defyled theyr syster: & toke theyr shepe, oxen, alles and whatsoeuer was in the cytye and also in the feldes. And all theyr goodes, all theyr chyldren and theyr wyues toke they captyue and made hauocke of all that was in the houses.

And Jacob sayde to Symeon and Leui: ye haue troubled me and made me stynke vnto thee inhabitatours of thee lande, bothe too the Canaanytes and also vnto the Pherezytes. And I am fewe in nomber. Wherfore they shall gather them selues together agaynst me and slay me, and so shal I and my house be destroyed. And they answered: shuld they deale wyth our syster as wyth a.n whore?

The. xxxv. Chapter

AND God sayde vnto Jacob: arise and get ỹ vp to Bethell and dwell there. And make ther an aulter vnto god that apered vnto the, when thou fleddest from Esau thy brother. Thā sayde Jacob vnto hys housholde and to all that were wyth hym, put away the at straūge goddes that are amonge you and make your selues cleane, and chaunge your garmentes, and let vs aryse and goo vp to Bethell, ỹ I maye make an aulter ther vnto god whych herde me in thee daye of my trybulatyon and was wyth me in the waye whych I went.

And they gaue vnto Jacob al the strā ge goddes whych were vnder theyr handes, and all theyr earynges which were in theyr eares, and Jacob hyd them vnder an ooke at Sichem. And they departed. And the feare of God fel vpon the cyties that that were rounde aboute them, that they durst not folowe after the sonnes of Jacob. So came Jacob to Lus in the lande B of Canaan, otherwyse called Bethel, with al the people that was wyth hym. And he buylded ther an aulter, & called the place Bethell: because that god appeared vnto hym there, when he fled from hys brother

gen.xxviii.g Than dyed * Debora Rebeccas norse, and was buryed beneth Bethel vnder an ooke. And the name of it was called the ooke of lamentation. And God appeared exo.xxiv.a vnto * Jacob agayn after he came out of Mesopotamia, and blessed hym and sayde vnto hym: thy name is Jacob. Notwithstanding thou shalt be nomore called * Ja

gen.xvii.f. cob, but Israel shalbe thy name. And so was hys name called Israell.

And God sayde vnto hym: I am God almyghtye, growe and multiply: for people and a multitude of people shal spryng of the yea and kynges shall come oute of thy loynes. And the land wherych I gaue Abrahā and Isaac, wyll I geue vnto the, and vnto thy sede after the wyll I geue it also. And god departed from hym in the place where he talked wyth hym. And Jacob set vp a marke in the place where he talked wyth hym: euen a pillour of stone, and poured drinckoffering theron, and poured also oyle ther on, and called the name of thee place where God spake wythe hym. Bethell.

And they departed frō Bethell, & whē he was but a felde brede frō Ephyath. Rahell begā to trauell. And in traueling she C was in perell. And as she was in paynes of hyr laboure thee mydwyfe sayde vnto her: feare not, for thou shalte haue thys sonne also. Then as hyr soule was a de-gen.xlviii.d partynge, that she * muste dye: she called hys name Ben Oni. But hys father called hym b‡ Bē Jamin. And thus dyed Rahell and was buryed in thee waye too Ephyath whyche now is called Bethlehem. And Jacob sette vppe a pyller vpon hyr graue, whych is called Rahels graue pyller vnto thys daye. And Israel went then mich.iiii.c ce and pytched vppe hys tente beyond the * towre of Eder. And it chaunced as Israell dwelte in the lande, that Ruben wēt

gen.xlix.a. and laye * wythe Bilha hys fathers concubyne: and it came to Israels eare. The sonnes of Jacob were. xii. in nombre. The sonnes of Lea. Ruben Jacobs eldest son D ne, and Simeon, Leui, Juda, Issachar, & zabulon. The sonnes of Rahel: Joseph, & Ben Jamin. The sonnes of Bilha Rahels mayde: Dan and Nephtali. The sonnes of zilpha Leas mayde, Gad and Aser. These are thee sonnes of Jacob, whyche were borne hym in Mesopotamia.

Then Jacob went vnto Isaac his father too Mamre a principall cytie, otherwyse called Hebron: wher Abrahām and Isaac sogeorned as straungers. And the dayes of Isaac were an hūdred and. lxxx. yeres, and than fel he sycke and dyed, and was c‡ putte vnto his people beynge olde and full of dayes. And hys sonnes Esau and Jacob buryed hym.

¶ Joseph accuseth his brethrē, Joseph dreameth & is hated of hys brethren: & is sold to the Jsmaelites Jacob bewayleth Joseph

The.xxxvii. Chapter.

And Jacob dwelt in the land
wherin his father was a strā
ger, that is to saye in the lād of Canaan. And these ar the generatyons of Jacob: whē Joseph was.xvii. yeare olde, he kepte she pe wyth hys brethren, and the ladde was wyth the sonnes of Bilha and of Zilpha hys fathers wyues. And he broughte vnto theyr father an euyll sayinge that was
of them. And Jsraell loued Joseph moze than all hys chyldren, because he begatte hym in hys olde age, and he made hym a coote of many colours.

Whe

When hys brethren sawe that theyr
father loued hym moze than all hys brethren, they hated him and coulde not spea ke one kynde wozde vnto hym. Moreo-gene.xlii.b uer Joseph* dreamed a dreame and tolde
it hys brethren: wherfore they hated hym
yet the moze. And he sayd vnto them: hea re I praye you thys dreame whych I haue dreamed: Beholde, we were makynge sheues in the felde: and loo, my sheue arose and stode vp ryghte, and youres stode rounde aboute and made obeysaunce too
my sheue. Than sayde hys brethren vnto hym: what, shalte thou be oure kynge oz shal thou reygne ouer vs? And they hated hym yet the moze, because of hys drea me and of hys wozdes.

And he dreamed yet another dreame
and tolde it hys brethren sayinge: behold,
I haue had oncdreame moze: me thought the sunne and the moone and eleuen starr tes made obeysaunce to me. And when he hadde tolde it vnto hys father, and hys brethren, hys father rebuked him and say de vnto hym: what meaneth thys dreame whyche thou haste dreamed: shall I and thy mother and thy brethren come and fal
on the grounde before the? And hys brethren hated hym, but hys father noted the sayinge.

Hys brethren wente too kepe theyr fathers shepe in Sichem, and Jsraell sayd vnto Joseph: do not thy brethren kepe in Sichem? come that I maye sende the too them. And he answered* here am I. And he sayd vnto hym: goo and see whether it be well wyth thy brethren & the shepe, and bring me wozde agayn. And sent him out of the vale of Hebzon, foz to go to Sichē
And a certayn mā founde him wandzing
out of his way in the felde, and axed hym
what he sought. And he answered: I seke my brethren, tell me I praye thee where they kepe shepe. And the man sayde: they are departed hence, foz I hearde them say lette vs goo vnto Dothan. Thus wente
Joseph after his brethren, and found thē
in Dothan.

And when they sawe hym a farre of be foze he came at them, they toke councell a-gaynste hym, foz too slepe hym and sayde

Luke.xx.a

cast hym into some pytt, and lette vs saye
that some wycked beaste hathe deuoured
hym, & let vs see what hys dreames wyll come to.

When Ruben herde that, he wente about to ryd him oute of theyr handes and sayde: let vs not kyll hym. And Rubē say de mozeouer vnto thē, shed not hys* blou gen.xlii.d
de, but cast hym into thys pytte that is in the wyldernesse, and laye no handes vpō hym: foz he wolde haue rydde hym out of theyr handes and delyuered hym too hys father agayne.

And as soone as Joseph was come vn to hys brethren, they strypte hym oute of hys gaye coote that was vpon hym, and they toke hym and caste hym into a pytte:
But the pytt was emptie and had no water therein. And they satt them downe to eate bzead. And as they lift vp theyr eyes and loked aboute, there came a companye of Jsmaelytes from Gilead, and theyr ca mels laden wyth spicery, baulme, & myzre
and were goynge downe into Egypte.

Than sayd Juda to hys brethrē, what auayleth it that we slee oure bzother, and kepe hys bloud secreete? come on, let vs* actu.vii.b.
sell hym to the Jsmaelytes, and lette not F oure handes be defyled vpon hym: foz he is oure bzother and oure flesshe. And hys brethren were content. Than as the Madiantes, marchauntmen passed by, they drewe Joseph out of the pyt and sold him
vnto the Jsmaelytes foz.xx. peces of syluer. And they bzought hym into Egypte.

And when Ruben came agayne vnto
the pytt and founde not Joseph there, he rent hys clothes and wente agayne vn
to hys brethren saying: the lad is not yon der, and whether shal I goo? And they to ke Josephs coote and kylled a goote, and dypped the coote in the bloude. And they sente that gaye coote and caused it too be bzoughte vnto theyr father and sayde:
Thys haue we founde: see, whether it bee G thy sonnes coote, oz noo. And he knewe it sayinge: it is my sonnes coote, a wycked beaste hathe* deuoured hym, and Joseph is rente in peces. And Jacob rente hys clo gen.xliii.e thes, and putt sacke clothe about hys loynes, and sozowed foz his sonne a long sea son. Than came all hys sonnes and all hys doughters to comfozte hym. And he wolde not be cõforted, but sayd: I wyl go downe into the graue vnto my son, mournyng. And thus his father wepte for him

And she cõceaued thee thyrde, time and bare a sonne whom she called Sela: & he was at Chesyb when she bare him.

And Judas gaue Er his eldest sonne a wyfe whose name was Thamar. But this Er Judas eldest sonne was wicked in the syght of the Lorde: wherfore ỹ lord slewe hym. Then sayde Judas vnto Onan: go in to thy brothers wyfe and mary her, and styre vp sede vnto thy brother. And when Onan perceyued that the seed shulde not be his: therfore when he wente

B in to his brothers wyfe, he spilled it on the grounde, because he wolde not gyue seed vnto his brother. And the thynge whiche he dyd, displeased the Lorde, wherfore he slewe hym also. Thẽ sayd Judas to Thamar his doughter in lawe: remayne a wydowe at thy fathers house, tyll Sela my sõne be growne: for he feared lest he shuld haue dyed also, as his brethrẽ dyd. Thus wente Thamar and dwelt in her fathers house.

And in processe of tyme, the doughter of Sua Judas wyfe dyed. Then Judas

C when he had lefte mournynge, wente vnto hys shepe sherers to Thymnath with his frende Hira of Odollam. And one tolde Thamar sayinge: beholde, thy father in lawe gothe vp too Thymnath, to * shere hys shepe. And she put hyr wydows garmentes of from her and couered her with a clooke, and disgysed her selfe: And satt her down at ỹ entrynge of Enaim whych is by the hye wayes syde to Thymnath, for because she saw that Sela was growne, and she was not geuen vnto hym too wyfe.

Gen.xxxi. Deu.xxii.

When Juda sawe her, he thought it D had bene an hoore, because she had couered hyr face. And turned to her vnto the waye and sayde, come I praye thee let me lye with the, for he knewe not that it was his daughter in lawe. And she sayd what wilt thou gyue me, for too lye wythe me: Than sayd he, I will sende the a kid from the flocke, she answered: Than gyue me a pledge tyl thou send it. Thã said he, what pledge shall I geue the. And she said: thy signet, thy bracelet, and tht staffe that is in thy hande. And he gaue it her and laye by E her, and she was wyth chyld by hym. And she gat her vp and went and put her mantell from her, and putte on hyr wydowes raymente agayne. And Judas sente thee kyd by his neyghboure of Odollam, for to fetche oute his pledge agayne frõ the wyfes hande. But he found her not, Thã asked he the men of the same place saying wher is the whoore that satt at Enaim in the waye? And they sayde there was noo whoore here. And he came to Juda agayne sayinge: I cannot fynde her, and also the men of the place sayde: that there was no whoore there. And Juda sayd: let her take it to her, lest we be shamed: for I sente the kydde and thou couldest not fynde her.

And it came to passe that after.iii. mo- F nethes, one tolde Juda sayinge: Thamar thy doughter in law hath played the whore, and wyth playing the whoore is become great wyth chylde. And Juda sayd: bringe her forth, and let her be brent. And whe they broughte her forthe, she sente too her father in lawe, sayinge: by thee man vnto whom these thynges pertayne, am I with chylde, And sayd also: loke whose ar thys seale, bracelet, and staffe. And Juda knew them sayinge: she is more ryghtuous thã I, because I gaue her not too Seale my sonne

G my sonne, But he laye wyth her nomore.

When tyme was come that she shuld be delyuered, beholde ther was .ii. twinnes in hyr wõbe. And as she traueled the one put oute hys hande & the mydwyfe toke and bownde a redde threde aboute it sayinge: this wil com out first. But he plucked his hand backe againe, & his brother came out And she sayde: wherefore hast thou brent a rent vpõ the? & called hym Pharez. And afterwarde cam out his brother ỹ had the reade threde about hys hande, which was called Zarah

¶ God prospereth Joseph. Pharaos wyfe tẽpteth hym & he is accused & cast in pryson. God hath mercye vpon hym

The.xxxix. Chapter.

A Joseph was broughte vnto Egypte, & Putyphar * a lord of Pharaos: & hys chefe marshall an Egyptyan, bought hym of the Jsmaelites which ge.xxxvii.g brought hym thyther. And the Lord was wyth Joseph, and he was a luckye felow and cõtynued in the house of his master the Egyptyan. And hys master sawe that the Lord was wyth hym, and that ỹ Lord made all that he dyd prosper in hys hand Wherfore he founde grace in hys masters syghte, and serued him. And hys master made him ruler of his house & put al ỹ he

B had in his hande. And as soone as he had made him ruler ouer his house & ouer all that he had, the Lorde blessed thys Egyptyans house for Josephs sake, and ỹ blessynge of the Lorde was vpon all that he had: both in hous & also in the feldes And therfore he left all that he had in Josphs hand, and loked vpon nothynge that was with hym, saue only on the breade whych

Ge.xlvi.c he ate. And Joseph was a * godly person and a well fauored And it fortuned after that hys masters wyfe cast hyr eyes vpõ Joseph & sayde, com lye wyth me. But he denied & sayde to her: Behold, my master wotteth not what he hath in the house wt me, but hath committed all that he hath to my hande. He hym selfe is not greatter in ỹ house than I, and hath kept nothing kepte nothing frõ me, but onely she becaus se thou art hys wyfe. How than can I do thys greate wyckednesse, for too synne agaynst God? And after this maner spake she to Joseph daye by daye: but he harkened not vnto her, to slepe nere her, or to be in her companye.

And it fortuned about the same season C that Joseph entred into the house, to doo hys busynes: and there was none of thee housholde by: in ỹ house. And she caught hym by the garmente sayinge: come slepe wyth me. And he lefte his garment in hyr hand and fled and got hym out. Whẽ she sawe that he had lefte hys garmente in hyr hande, and was fledde oute, she called vn to the men of the house, and tolde thẽ sayinge: See, he hath brought in an Hebrewe vnto vs to do vs shame, for he came in to me, for to haue slepte wyth me. But I cryed wyth a loude voyce. And when he heard, that I lyft vp my voyce and cryed, he lyft hys garment wyth me and fled awaye and got hym oute,

And she layde vp hys garmẽt by her, vntyl hyr Lord came home. And she told hym acordynge to these wordes sayinge. Thys Hebrues seruaunte whyche thou D hast brought vnto vs, cam vnto me to do shame. But as soone as I lift vp my voyce and cryed, he left hys garment with me and fled out. When hys mayster herd the woordes of hys wyfe which she told hym sayeng: after thys maner dyd thy seruãte to me, he waxed wroth.

And he toke Joseph and put hym in * psa.c.viii.b pryson: euen in the place where the Kinges prysoners laye bounde. And there contynued he in preson, but the Lord was wt Joseph, & shewed hym mercye, & got hym fauore in the syght of the keper of the preson whych committed to Josephs hande al the presoners ỹ were in ỹ preson house And what soeuer was done ther, that dyd he. And the keper of thee pryson loked vn to no thynge that was vnder hys hande, because the Lorde was wyth hym, and because that what soeuer he dyd, the Lorde made it come luckely to passe.

Joseph expoundeth the dreames of the two presoners.

The.xl. Chapter.

A AND it chaunced after thys, ỹ the chefe butlar of the kynge of Egypte and hys chefe baker had offended theyre lozd ỹ kyng of Egypt. And Pharao was angrye wyth theym and put thē in warde in hys chefe marshals house: euen in the pzeson wher Joseph was boūd And ỹ chefe marshal gaue Joseph a charge with them, and he serued thē. And thei contynued a season in ward.

And they dreamed ether of them in one nyght: both the butlar and the bakar of ỹ kynge of Egypte which were bownde in ỹ
B pzesone house, ether of them his dreame, ⁊ eche manes dreame of a sondzie interpzetation Whē Joseph came in vnto them in thee mozynge, and loked vpon them: behold, they were sadd. And he asked them sayinge wherfoze loke ye so sadly to daye they answered hym, we haue dreamed a dzeame, and haue noo man to declare it. And Joseph sayde vnto them. Interpzetynge belongeth too God but telle me yet And the chefe butlar told his dzeame too Joseph and sayde vnto hym. In my dzeame me thought there stode a vine befoze me, and in thee vyne were. iii. bzaunches, and it was as thoughe it budded, and her blossoms shot fozth: and the grapes there of wared rype. And I had Pharaos cup
C pe in my hand, and toke of the grapes and wrong into Pharaos cup and delyuered Pharaos cup in to his hand. And Joseph sayd vnto him, this is ỹ interpzetaciō of it The. iii. bzaūches ar thze days: foz within thze dayes shall Pharao lyfte vp thyne heade, and restoze the vnto thyne offyce agayne, and thou shalte delyuer pharaos cuppe in to his hand, after the olde maner euen as thou dyddest when thou wast his butler. But thynke on me with the, when thou arte in good case, and shewe mercye vnto me. And make mēcyō of me to Pharao, and helpe to bzynge me oute of this house. foz I was stollen oute of the lande of the Hebzeus, and here also haue I done nothynge at all wherfoze they shulde haue put me into thys dongeon.

When thee chefe baker sawe that he hadde well interpzetate it, he sayde vnto Joseph, me thoughte also in my dzeame, that I hadde thze wyker baskettes on my head. And in the vppermooste baskette of all maner bakemeates foz Pharao. And the byrdes ate theim out of the basket vpon my heade.

Joseph answered and sayd: this is the interpzetatiō thereof. The. iii. baskets are thze dāyes. foz thys daye thze dayes shall
D Pharao take thy head from the, and shall hange the on a tree, and the byrdes shal eate thy flesshe from of the.

And it came too passe the thyrde daye whych was Pharaos *byrthday, that he mat. xiiii. made a feast vnto all hys seruaūtes. And he lyfted vp the head of the chefe buttelar and of thee chefe baker amonge hys seruauntes. And restozed the chefe buttelar vnto hys buttelarshyp agayne, and he reched the cuppe into Pharaos handē, and hanged thee chefe baker: euen as Joseph had interpzetated vnto them. Notwithstā ding the chefe buttelar remembzed not Joseph, but forgat hym.

¶ Pharaos dzeames are expoūded by Joseph. He is made ruler ouer al Egypt. He hath twoo sonnes Manasses and Ephzaim. The derth beginneth in Egypt.

The. xl. Chapter.

AND it foztuned at two yeares ende, ỹ Pharao A dzeamed, and thoughte ỹ he stode by a riuers syde, ⁊ that ther came out of the ryuer. vii. goodly kyne and fatt flessh̄ed, and fedd in a medowe, and hym thought that. vii. other kyne came vp after them out of the ryuer euell fauozed and leane flessh̄ed and stode by the other vpon the bzincke of the ryuer And the euyll fauoured and leane flessh̄ed kyne ate vp the. vii. well fauozed and fatt kyne: and he awoke therwith. And he slepte agayne and dzeamed the seconde tyme, that. vii. eares of cozne grewe vpō one stalke, ranckē ⁊ goodly. And that. vii. thynne eares blasted wyth the wynde, sprang vp after them: ⁊ that the. vii. thynne eares deuoured the. vii. rancke and ful eares. And than Pharao awaked: and se, here is hys dzeame. Whē the mozynyng came, his spzite B was troubled. And he sente ⁊ called foz al

all the sothsayers of Egypte and all thee wyse men thorof, and tolde them his dzeame: but there was none of them that coulde interpzetate it vnto Pharao. Thā spake thee chefe buttelar vnto Pharao sayinge. I doo remēbze my faute thys daye, Pharao was angrye wyth his seruaūtes ⁊ put in warde in the chefe marshals house both me ⁊ the chefe baker. And we dzeamed both of vs in one nyght, ⁊ eche mās dzeame of a sondzye interpzetation.

And ther was wythe vs a ponge man, an Hebzewe bozne, seruaūt vnto the chefe marshal. And we tolde hym, and he declared oure dzeames to vs accozdynge to ether of oure dzeames. And as he declared them vnto vs, euen so it came to passe. I was restozed to myne offyce agayne, and he was hanged.

Than Pharao sente and called Joseph. And they made hym haste oute of * pzyson. And he chaued hym selfe ⁊ chaunged hys rayment, and went in to Pharao And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: I haue dzeamed a dzeame ⁊ no man can interpzete it, but I haue heard say of the that as soone as thou herest a dzeame, thou dooest interpzetate it. And Joseph answered pharao sayinge: God shall geue Pharao an answere of peace wythout me. Pharao
C sayd vnto Joseph: in my dzeame me thought, I stode by a ryuer syde. and ther came out of the ryuer. vii. fatte flessh̄ed and wel fauored kyne, ⁊ fedd in the medowe. And then seuen other kyne came vp after them, poore and very euell fauoured, and leane flessh̄ed: so that I neuer saw theyr like in all the lande of Egypte, in euell fauouredneſſe. And the. vii. leane and euell fauoured kyne ate vp the fyrst seuen fatt kyne. And when they had eaten them vp a man coulde not perceaue that they had eaten them: foz they were styll as euell fauoured as they were at thee begynninge. And I awoke. And I sawe agayn in my dzeame. vii. eares sprynge out of one stalke full and good, and seuen other eares wythered, thynne and blasted wyth wynd sprynge vp after them. And the thynne eares deuoured the seuen good eares. And I haue tolde it vnto the soth̄sayers, but no man can tell me what it meaneth. Thē Joseph sayde vnto Pharao: bothe Pharaos dzeames are one. And god doth shewe Pharao what he is aboute to do. The seuen good kyne ar seuen yeares: and the seuen good eares ar seuen yeare also, and it is but one dzeame. Lykewyse, the seuen thynne and euell fauozed kyne that came D out after them, are seuen eares: and the seuen empeye and blasted eares shalbe seuē yeares of hunger. Thys is that whych I sayde vnto Pharao, that God doth shew Pharao what he is about to do.

Behold there shal come seuen yeare of great plenteousnes throughe out all thee land of Egypt. And there shall aryse after them. vii. yeares of hunger. So that all the plenteousnes shall be forgotten in the lande of Egypt. And the hunger shall consume ỹ lande, so that ỹ plenteous shal not be once a sene in the land by reason of that hunger that shall come after, foz it shalbe exceadynge great. And as concerninge that the dzeame was doubled vnto Pharao the secound tyme, it betokeneth that the thynge is certaynly prepared of God: and that God wyll shortely bzing it to passe.

Now therfoze let Pharao pzouyde foz a man of vnderstandinge and wysdom, and sette hym ouer thee lande of Egypte. And let Pharao make offycers ouer thee land, and take vp the tyxt part of the lande of Egypte in the seuen plenteous yeares and lette them gather all the foode of these good yeares that come, and laye vp cozne vnder thee power of Pharao, that there may be foode in the cytyes, and ther let them kepe it: that ther may be foode in stoze in the land, agaynste the. vii. yeares of hunger whyche shall come in the lande of Egypt, and that the lande perysshe not thozow hunger.

And the sayinge pleased Pharao ⁊ all E hys seruauntes. Than sayde Pharao vnto hys seruauntes: where shall we fynde soche a man as this is: that hath the spzet of God in hym? wherfoze Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: foz as moche as God hath shewed the all thys, there is noman of vnderstandyng oz of wysdom lyke vnto the Thou therfoze shalt be * ouer my house, pſal. cxiiij. b ⁊ accozding to thy wozde shal al my people obeye: onely in the kynges seate wyl I Deut. xvij. b. 1. Machab. vj. ⁊ Dan. iij. g. be aboue the. And he said vnto Joseph: be holde holde, I haue set the ouer all the lande of Egypt. And he toke of his ynge frō hys fynger, and put it vpon Josephs fynger, and arayed hym in rayment of bysse, and put a golden cheyne about hys necke and sett hym vpon the best charett that he had saue one. And they cryed before hym ✝ Abrech, and that Pharao had made him ruler ouer all the land of Egypte.

And Pharao sayd vnto Joseph: I am Pharao, wythout thy wyll, shal noo man lyfte vp eyther hys hand or fote in all the land of Egypt. And he called Josephs name ✝ Zaphnath Paena. And he gaue hym to wyfe Asnath the doughter of Putiphar preest of On. Than wente Joseph abrode in the land of Egypt. And he was xxx. yere olde ✝ when he stode before Pharao kynge of Egipt. And than Joseph departed from Pharao, and wente thorowe out all the lande of Egypte.

And in the. vii. plenteous yeares they made sheues ✝ gathered vp all the foode of the. vii. plenteous yeres whych were in the lād of Egipt ✝ put it into cyties. And he put the foode of the feldes that grewe rounde about euery cytie euē in the same. And Joseph layde vp corne in store, lyke vnto the sand of the see in multitude out of measure, vntyl he left nombrynge. For it was wythout nōbre. And vnto Joseph were borne two sonnes before thee yeares of hounger came, whych Asnath the doughter of Putiphar preest of On, bare vnto him. And he called the name of the fyrste sonne *Manasse, for God (sayde he) hath made me forgett all my labour and all my fathers houshold. The second called he Ephraim, for God (sayde he) hathe caused me too growe in thee lande of my trouble.

And when the. vii. yeares of plentcousnes, that was in the lande of Egypt were ended, than came the. vii. yeres of* derth, accordinge as Joseph had sayd. And the derth was in al landes: but in the land of Egypt was ther yet fode. Whē now all ȳ land of Egypt began to hunger, thā cried the people to Pharao for bred. And Pharao sayd vnto al Egypt: go vnto Joseph and what he sayeth to you that doo. And when the derth was thorow out al the lād Joseph opened all that was in the cytyes and solde vnto the Egyptyans. And hunger waxed sore in the land of Egypt. And all countrees came to Egypte to Joseph for to bye corne: because that thee hunger was so sore in all landes.

¶ Josephs brethren come into Egypt to bye corne And he knoweth thē and tryeth them. Symeon is put in pryson, the other retorne to theyr father too fetche Ben Jamin. His father is lothe to let him go but at the last he graunted it.

The. xlii. Chapter.

When Jacob sawe that there was corne too be solde in Egipt, he sayd vnto his sōnes why ar ye negligent: behold I haue heard ȳ ther is corne to be solde in Egipte. *Gette you thyther and bye vs corne from thēce, that we may lyue ✝ not dye. So went Josephs ten brethren downe to bye corne in Egipt, for Bē Jamin Josephs brother wold not Jacob send wyth hys other brethren, for he sayd some myshortune myght happen hym.

And the sonnes of Israel came too bye corne amōg other that came, for ther was derthe also in the lande of Canaan. And Joseph was gouernet in thee lande, and solde corne to all the people of the lande. And hys brethren came, and fell flatte on the grounde before hym. When Joseph sawe hys brethren, he knewe them: But made straūge vnto thē, and spake rughly vnto them sayinge: Whence come ye: and they sayde: out of the lande of Canaā, to bye vytayle. Joseph knewe hys brethren, but they knewe not hym.

And Joseph remembred hys *dreames whych he dreamed of them, and sayd vnto them: ye ar spies, and to se where the lande is weake is youre commynge. And they sayde vnto hym: nay my lord: but to bye vytayle thy seruauntes ar come. We ar all one mans sonnes, ✝ meane truelye, and thy seruauntes are noo spies. And he sayde vnto them: nay verely, but euen to see where the lande is weake, is youre commynge. And they said: we thy seruauntes are. xii. brethren, the sonnes of one man in the land of Canaan. The youngeste is yet wyth our father, and one no man woteth where he is. Joseph sayde vnto them that is it that I sayde vnto you, that ye ar surelye spies. Here by ye shall be proued. For by thee lyfe of Pharao, ye shall not goo hence, vntyll youre youngest brother be come hyther. Sende therfore one of you and lette hym fett youre brother, and ye shalbe in prisonne in the meane season And there by shall youre wordes be proued, whether there be any trueth in you: or els by the lyfe of Pharao, ye ar but spies And he put them in warde thre dayes.

And Joseph sayde vnto them the thyrde daye: Thys doo and lyue, for I feare God. Yf ye meane noo hurte, lette one of youre brethren be bounde in thee pryson, and goo ye and bryng the necessary foode vnto your housholdes, and bryng vnto me youngeste brother vnto me: that youre wordes maye be beleued, and that ye dye not. And they dyd so.

Than they sayde one to another: we haue verelye synned agaynste oure brother, in that we sawe the angupshe of hys soule when he besought vs, and woulde not heare hym: therfore is thys trouble come vpon vs. Rubē answered them sayinge. Sayde I not vnto you that ye shulde not synne * agaynst the ladde: but ye wolde not heare. And now verely see, hys blonde is ✝requyred. They were not aware that Joseph vnderstonde them, for he spake vnto thē by an interpreter. And he turned from them and wepte, and than turned to them agayn and comened with them and toke oute Symeon from amōge them and bounde hym before theyr eyes, and commaunded to fyll theyr sackes wyth corne, and to putte euerye mans money in hys sacke, and to geue them vytayle to spende by the waye. And so it was done to them. And they laded theyr asses wyth the corne and departed thence. And as one of them opened hys sacke, for too geue hys asse prauender in thee Inne, he spyed hys moneye in hys sackes mouthe. And he sayde vnto hys brethren: my moneye is restored to me agayne, and is euen in my sackes mouth. Than theyr hartes fayled them, and were astoyned and sayd one to another: howe commeth it that god dealeth thus wyth vs. And they came vn to Jacob theyr father vnto thee lande of Canaan, and tolde hym all that had happened them sayinge. The Lorde of the land spake rughly to vs, and toke vs for spyes to serche the countrye. And we sayde vnto hym: we meane truely and are no spyes. We be twelue brethren, sonnes of oure father, one is away, and the yongest is nowe wythe oure father in the lande of Canaan. And the Lorde of the countreye sayde vnto vs: here by shall I knowe yf ye meane truelye: leaue one of youre brethren here wyth me, and take foode necessarye for youre housholdes and gett you awaye, and bryng youre youngeste brother vnto me. And thereby shall I knowe that ye are noo spyes, but meane truelye: So wyll I delyuer you youre brother agayne, and ye shall occuppye in the lande.

And as they emptyed theyr sackes, beholde: euerye mans bundell of moneye was in hys sacke. And when bothe they ✝ theyr father sawe the bundels of money they were afrayde.

And Jacob theyr father sayde vnto them: We haue ye robbed of my chyldren Joseph is awaye, and Symeon is away: and ye wyll take Ben Jamin awaye. All these thynges fall vpon me. Ruben answered hys father sayinge: Slee my two sonnes, yf I bryngе hym not to the agayne. Delyuer hym therfore to my hande, ✝ I wyll bryngе hym to the agayn. And he sayde: my sonne shall not go downe with you. For his brother is dead, ✝ he is lefte alone. Wherefore some myshortune might happen vpon hym by the waye whych ye go. And so shuld ye bryng my gray hed with sorowe vnto the graue.

The Notes

a✝ To requyre the bloud of the hande of another, is to take vengeaunce of thee euell done vnto hym, as in Genesis. ix. a. Psalm. ix. b and Ezech. xiii. e b✝ Bryngе me to my graue: that is, ye shall bryngе me to my death, as in Esa. xxxviii.

¶ Whē Bē Jamin was broughte, they returned wyttes. Symeon is delyuered out of pryson. Joseph gooth asyde and weyeth. They feast together.

The. xliii. Chapter.

And the derthe waxed sore in the land. And when they had eate vp the corne whych they brought brought out of the land of Egypte, their father sade vn to them: go agayne & bye vs a lytle foode. Than sayde Juda vnto hym: the mā dyd testifye vnto vs sayinge *loke that ye see not my face excepte your brother be wyth you. Therfore yf ȳ wylt send our brother w̄ vs, we wyl go & bye ȳ food. But yf thou wylt not sende hym, we wyll not goo: for the man sayde vnto vs: loke that ye see not my face, excepte youre brother be with you. And Israell sayde: wherfore delt ye so cruelly with me, as to tell the man that ye had yet another brother? And they sayde: The man asked vs of our kynred sayinge: is your brother yet alyue? haue ye not another father? And we tolde hym accordīg to these wordes. How coulde we knowe that he wold byd vs bringe our brother downe with vs? Then sayde Juda to Israell hys father: Send the lad with me, & we wyl ryse and goo, that we may lyue and not dye: bothe we, thou and also our chyldren. I wyl be suertye for hym: & of my handes requyre hym. Yf I bringe hym not to the and set hym before thyne eyes *then let me beare the blame for euer. For except we had made this tarryenge: by this we had ben there twyse and come agayne.

Then theyr father Israel sayde vnto them: Yf it must nedes be so now: then do thus, take of the best fruytes of the lande in your vessels, and bringe the man a present, a curtesye bawme, and a curtesye of hony, spyces & myrre, dates & almondes. And take as moch money more w̄ you. And the money that was brought agayn in youre sackes, take it agayne with you, peraduenture it was some ouersyght.

Take also your brother with you, and aryse & go agayne to the man. And God almyghtye geue you mercye in the syghte of the man and sende you youre other brother and also Ben Jamin, and I wyll be as a man robbed of his chyldren.

Thus toke they the present and twyse so moch more money with them, And Ben Jamin. And rose vp, wente downe to Egypte, and presented them self to Joseph When Joseph saw Ben Jamin with the he sayde to the ruler of his house: bryng these men home and sley and make redye: for they shall dyne with me at none. And the man dyd as Joseph bad, and brought them into Josephs house.

When they were brought to Josephs house, they were afrayed and sayd: because of the money that came in oure sackes mouthes at the fyrst tyme, ar we brought to pyke a quarel wyth vs, and to laye some thynge to our charge, to bringe vs in bondage and our asses also. Therfore came they to the man that was the ruler ouer Josephs house, & comened wyth hym at the doze and sayde.

Syr, we came hyther at the fyrst tyme to bye foode, and as we came too an inne and opened our sackes: beholde, euery mānes * money was in hys sacke wyth full weyghte: But we haue brought it agayn wyth vs, & other money haue we brought also in oure handes, to bye foode, but we cannot tell who putte oure money in oure sackes. And he sayd: be of good chere, fear not: your God and the God of your fathers hath putte you that treasure in your sackes, for I hadde youre moneye. And he brought Simeon oute to them and led them into Josephs house, and gaue them water to washe theyr fete, and gaue theyr asses prauender: And they made readye theyr presente agaynste Joseph came at none, for they hearde saye that they shuld dyne there. When Joseph came home, they broughte theyr present into the house to hym, whyche they hadde in theyr handes, and fell flatte on thee grounde before him. And he welcomned them courteously, sayinge: is youre father that old man whyche ye tolde me of, in good helth? and is he yet a lyue? they answered: thy seruāt our father is in good health, and is yet a lyue. And they bowed them selues and fel to the grounde.

And he lyfte vp hys eyes and behelde hys brother Ben Jamin hys mothers sonne, and sayde: *is thys your yongest brother of whom ye sayd vnto me? And said God be mercyfull vnto the my sonne. And Joseph made hast (for *his hart dyd melt vpon hys brother) and sought wher to wepe, and entred into hys chaumber, for to wepe there. And he washed hys face & came out & refrayned hym selfe, and bad sett bread on the table.

And they prepared for hym by hym self, & for thē by them selues, & for the Egiptiās which ate with hym by thē selues, because the Egyptians may not eat brad w̄ the Hebrues, for his an ‡ abhomynacyon vnto the Egyptians. The ende of the fyrste boke of Moyses.

Boke of Moyses called Exodus.

Of ỹ preface vpō Genesis mayst ỹ vnderstand how to behaue thy selfe in this boke also & in al other bokes of ỹ scripture. Cleaue vnto the texte & playn storie & endeuour thy self to serch out ỹ meaning of al ỹ is described therin & ỹ true sence of al maner of speakinges of ỹ scripture, of prouerbes, similitudes & borowed speach, wherof I entreated in ỹ ende of ỹ obediēce, & beware of sotle allegories. And note euery thing ernestly as thinges playning vnto thyne owne hert & soule. For as god vsed him self vnto thē of ỹ old testamēt, euē so shal he vnto ỹ worldes end vse him self vnto vs which haue receaued his holy scripture & ỹ testimonie of his sōne Iesus. As god doth al thinges here for thē ỹ beleue his promises & herkē vnto his cōmādemētes & wyth pacience cleaue vnto hym & walke wt him: euē so shal he do for vs, yf we receaue ỹ witnes of christ with a strong faith & endure patiētly folowing his steppes. And on ỹ other syde, as they ỹ fel frō ỹ promises of god thorow vnbeleefe & frō his law & ordināces thorow impacience of theyr owne lustes, were forsake of god & lo perysshed: euē so shal we as many as do lykewyse & as many as mock wt the doctrine of christ & make a cloke of it to lyue fleshly & to folow our lustes. Note therto how god is foūde true at the last, & how whē al is past remedy & brought into desperatiō, he thē fulfylleth hys promyses, & ỹ by an abiecte & a cast away, a despysed and a refused person: yea & by a waye impossible to beleue.

The cause of all captiuite of gods people is this. The world euer hateth them for theyr faith & trust which they haue in god, but in vayn vntyl they fal frō ỹ faith of ỹ promyses & loue of ỹ lawe & ordināces of god, & put theyr trust in holy dedes of theyr owne lust & pleasure wout regard of god or respect of theyr neybour. Thē god forsaketh vs & sendeth vs into captiuite for our dishonouring of his name & dispising of our neybour. But the world prosecuteth vs for our fayth in christ only (as ỹ pope now doth) & not for our wicked liuig, for in his kingdō ỹ mayst quietly & wt licēce & vnder a protectiō do what soeuer abhominatiō thy hart lusteth: but god prosecuteth vs because we abuse his holy testamēt, & because ỹ whē we knowe the truth we folowe it not.

Note also ỹ mighty hād of ỹ Lord how he playeth wt his aduersaries & prouoketh thē & sturreth thē vp a litle & a litle, & deliuereth not his people in an houre, ỹ both the pacience of hys elect & also ỹ worldly witte & wylye polycye of the wicked wherwt they fight agaynst god myght appeare. Marke ỹ lōge suffrīg & sokte pacience of Moses & how he loueth ỹ people & is euer betwen ỹ wrath of god & thē, & is redy to liue & dye wt thē & to be put out of ỹ boke ỹ god had wrytte for theyr sakes) as paul for his brethē, Ro.ix.) & how he taketh his own wrōges patiētly & neuer auēgeth him self. And make not Moses a figure of christ wt Rochester: but an ensāple vnto al princes & to al ỹ are in authorite, how to rule vnto gods pleasure & vnto theyr neybours profyte. For ther is not a pfecter life in this world both to ỹ honour of god & profite of his neybour nor yet a greater crosse, thē to rule christely. And of Aarō se ỹ ỹ make no figure of christ vntil he come vnto his sacrifisin, but an ensample vnto al preachers of gods word, ỹ they ad nothing vnto gods word or take ought therfro. Note also how god sendeth his prophyte to the people, & Moses cōfermeth it wt miracles & the people beleue. But whē temptation cometh they fall into vnbeleefe & fowe byde stādīg. Where thou seest that all be not christē ỹ wyl be so called, & ỹ the crosse tryeth the true frō the fayned: for yf the crosse were not, christ shulde haue disciples ynowe. Whereof also ỹ seest what an excellēt gyfte of god true fayth is, & impossible to be had wout the spyrit of god. For it is aboue al naturall power ỹ a mā in tyme of tēptation when god forgeth him shuld beleue stedfastly how ỹ god loueth him & careth for hi & hath sparēd al good thinges for him, & ỹ that forgeuinge is as ernest ỹ god hath elect & chose hym.

Note how oft Moyses sturreth thē vp to beleue & to trust in god, putting them in remēbraunce al waye in tyme of temptation of the myracles & wonders which god had wrought before tyme in theyr eyesyght. How diligently also forbiddeth he al that myght withdraw theyr hartes from god: to put nought to gods word, to take nought therefro: to do onely that whyche is ryghte in the syghte of the Lorde, that they shuld make no maner ymage to knele downe before it: ye that they shuld make none

ne altar of hewed stone for feare of ymages: to slee ꝑ hethē Idolatres vtterly & to de stroye theyr Idolles & cut down theyr groues wher they worshipped. And ꝑ they shul de not take ꝑ doughters of thē vnto theyr sonnes, nor geue theyr doughters to ꝑ son nes of thē. And ꝑ whosoeuer moued any of thē to worship false gods, how soeuer nye of kinne he were, they must accuse him & bring him to deth, ye & wher soeuer thei hard of mā, womā or cytie ꝑ worshipped false goddes, they must slee thē & destroye ꝑ cytie for euer & not bild it agayn. And al because they shuld worship nothing but god, nor put cōfidēce in any thing saue i his word. Yea & how warneth he to beware of witch craft, sorcery, inchātmēt, negromātie & al craftes of ꝑ deuel, & of dreamers, sothsayers and of myracledoers to destroye his word, & that they shuld suffer none soch to lyue.

Thou wylt happely say: They tel a mā ꝑ truth, What thē: God wyl ꝑ we care not to know what shal come. He wil haue vs care only to kepe his cōmādemētes & to cō myt al chaūses vnto him. He hath ꝓmysed to care for vs & to kepe vs frō al euel. All thinges ar in his hād, he cā remedy al thinges & wyl for his truthes sake, yf we praye him. In his ꝓmises only wyl he haue vs trust & ther rest & to seke no farther.

How also doth he prouoke thē to loue euer rehersing the benefites of god done to thē already, & the godly promises ꝑ were to come. And howe godly lawes of loue geueth he, to helpe one another: & ꝑ a mā shuld not hate his neybour i his hart, but loue him as him self, Leui. xix. And what a charge geueth he in euery place ouer ꝑ poore & nedy: ouer the straūger fredlesse & wedowe. And whē he desyreth to shew mercy, he re herseth vnto al the benefites of god done to thē at theyr nede, ꝑ they might se a cause at the lest way in God to shewe mercy of very loue vnto theyr neybours at theyr neade.

Also ther is no law so simple in apperāce throwe out al the fyue bokes of Moses, but ꝑ ther is a great reason of the māking therof, yf a mā serch diligētly. As ꝑ a man is forbid to seth a kid in his mothers milke, moueth vs vnto cōpassiō & to be pitiful.
As doth also ꝑ a mā shal not offer ꝑ syre or dame & ꝑ yōge both i one day. Le. xxii. For it might seme a cruel thing in as moch as his mothers milke is as it were his bloud, wherfore god wil not haue him sod therin: but wil haue a mā shew curtesy vnto ꝑ very beastes: As in another place he cōmādeth ꝑ we mosel not ꝑ mouth of the oxe ꝑ trea deth out the corne (which maner of threshing is vsed in hote cōūtrees) & ꝑ because we shuld moch rather not grudge to be liberal & kynd vnto mē ꝑ do vs seruice. Or hapely god wold haue no soch wātō meate vsed amōg his people. For the kynd of it self is norishing & the gotes milke is restauretyue, & both together myght be to rancke & therfore for bodē or some other like cause ther was. Of the ceremonies, sacrifices, & ta bernacle w al his glory & pōpe vnderstāde, ꝑ they were not permytted only, but also cōmaūded of god to lead the people in the shadowes of Moses & might of the old te-stamēt, vntyl the light of christ & day, of the new testamēt were come: As childrē ar led in the phātasies of youth, vntil the discretiō of mās age become vpō thē. And al was done to kepe thē frō ydolatrye. The tabernable was ordened to the entēte they might haue a place apointed thē, to do theyr sacrifices openly in ꝑ syght of ꝑ people & namely of ꝑ prestes which wayted therō: ꝑ it might be sene ꝑ they dyd all thinge according to gods word, & not after ꝑ ydolatrie of theyr own ymaginatiō. And ꝑ costlines of ꝑ ta bernacle & ꝑ bewtie also ꝓteyned ther vnto, ꝑ they shuld se nothig so bewtyfull amōg the hethē, but ꝑ they shuld se moze bewtiful & wōderful at home: because they shuloe not be moued to folow thē. And in lyke maner ꝑ diuers facios of ꝑ sacrifices & ceremonies was to occupie theyr mindes ꝑ they shuld haue no lust to folowe ꝑ hethē: & ꝑ multitude of thē was, ꝑ they shuld haue so moch to do in kepig thē ꝑ they shuld haue no leysur to ymagine other or theyr owne: yea & ꝑ gods word myght be by i al ꝑ they dyd, ꝑ they myght haue theyr fayth & trust in God, whych he cānot haue, ꝑ ether foloweth his owne inuētios, or traditios of mēs making wout gods worde. Finally god hath. ii. testamentes: ꝑ old & ꝑ newe. The old testamēt is those tēporall ꝓmyses whych god made the childrē of Israel of a good lād & ꝑ he wold defēd thē, & of welth & plen tie & of tēporal blessinges of whych ꝑ redest ouer al ꝑ lawe of Moses. But namely Leui. xxvi. & Deute. xxviii. & the auoyding of al threateninges and curses of whych

thou

thou readest lykewyse euery where, but specially in the twoo places aboue rehersed, and the auoydinge of all punishmēt ordeyned for the transgressers of the lawe.

And the olde Testamēt was bylt al together vpon the keping of the lawe and ceremonies and was the reward of kepinge of them in thys lyfe onely, and reached no further then thys lyfe and thys worlde, as thou readest Leuit. xviii. a man that doth them shal lyue there, in whych texte Paule reherseth Roma. x. and Galath. iii. That is, he that kepeth them shall haue thys lyfe glorious accordinge to all the promyses and blessinges of the lawe, and shall auoyde both all temporall punyshmente of the lawe, wyth all the threateninges and curssinges also. For neyther the lawe, euē of the
x. cōmaundemētes nor yet the ceremonies iustified in the hart before god or purified vnto the lyfe to come. In so moche that Moyses at his death cuen. xl. yeare after the lawe and ceremonies were geuen complayneth sayinge: God hath no geuen you an hart to vnderstande, nor eyes to se, nor eares to heare vnto thys daye. As who shulde saye God hath geuen you ceremonies, but ye know not the vse of them, and hath ge-uē you a lawe, but hath not wrytten it in your hartes.

Wherfore serueth the law thē, yf it geue vs no power to do ꝑ law? Paul answereth the, ꝑ it was geuē to vtter synne only & to make it appere. As a corosye is layde vnto an old sore, not to heale it, but to stere it vp & to make ꝑ disease aliue, ꝑ a mā might se in what ieoperdy he is & how nye death & not a vare, & to make away vnto ꝑ healig playster. Euē so saith paul Gal. iii. The law was geuē because of trāsgressiō (ꝑ is, to make ꝑ sinne alyue ꝑ it might be felt & sene) vntil ꝑ sede came vnto whō it was ꝓmy sed: ꝑ is to say, vntil ꝑ childrē of faith came or vntil christ ꝑ sede in whō god ꝓmysed Abrahā ꝑ al natiōs of ꝑ world shuld be blessed, came. That is, ꝑ law was geuē to vt ter syn, death, dānatiō & curse, & to dryue vnto christ in whō forgeuenesse, life, iustifi-
ing & blessinges were ꝓmised, ꝑ we might se so great loue of god to vsward in christ
ꝑ we hereafter ouercome w kindnesse might loue agayn, & of loue kepe ꝑ cōmādemē
tes. So now he ꝑ goeth about to quiet his cōsciēce & to iustifye him self w̄ law, doth but heale his woūdes w̄ kreatinge corosyes. And he ꝑ goeth about to purchase grace
w̄ ceremonies, doth but sucke ꝑ alepope to quēch his thyrst, in asmoch as ꝑ ceremony es were not geuē to iustifye ꝑ hert but to signifye ꝑ iusti. feng & forgeuenesse ꝑ is in christes bloud. Of ꝑ ceremonies ꝑ they iustifye not, ꝑ readest. Ebrues. x. It is impossible ꝑ syn should be done away w̄ ꝑ bloud of oxē & gootes. And of ꝑ lawe ꝑ readest.
Gal. iii. Yf ther had bene a lawe geuē ꝑ could haue quickened or geuē lyfe, thē hadde rightwoulnes or iustifieg come by ꝑ lawe in dede. Now ꝑ law not only quickeneth not ꝑ hart, but also woūdeth it w̄ cōsciēce of synne & ministreth death & dānatiō vnto hes
ii. Cor. iii. so ꝑ she must nedes dye & be dāned except she find other remedy, so farre it is of ꝑ she is iustified or holpe by the lawe. The new testamēt is those euerlasting ꝓmyses which ar made vs in christ ꝑ lord throwe out al ꝑ scripture. And ꝑ testamēt is bylt on fayth & not on workes. For it is not sayd of ꝑ testamēt he ꝑ worketh shal ly ue: But he ꝑ beleueth shal lyue, as ꝑ redest. Joan. iii. God so loued ꝑ world ꝑ he gaue his only begotte son, ꝑ none which beleue in hi should perish but haue euerlastig lyfe.

And whē this testamēt is preached & beleued, ꝑ spyrte entreth, ꝑ hart & quickeneth it & geueth her life & iustifieth her. The spyrte also maketh ꝑ law a liuely thing in ꝑ hert so ꝑ a mā bringeth forth good workes of his own accord wout cōpulsiō of ꝑ law, w̄ out feare of thretenynges or curssinges: yea & wout al maner respect or loue vnto any tēporal pleasure. But of ꝑ very power of ꝑ spirit receaued thorow faith. As ꝑ readest Joh. i. He gaue thē power to be ꝑ sonnes of God in ꝑ they beleued on hys name. And of ꝑ power they worke: so ꝑ he which hath ꝑ spirit of christ is nomore a child: he nether learneth or worketh now any longer for payne of ꝑ rod or for feare of bogges or ple sure of apples. But doth al thiges of his own courage. As christ saith. Joh. vii. He ꝑ beleueth on me shal haue riuers of lyuing water flowing out of his bely. That is. Al good workes & al gyftes of grace spring out of him naturally & by theyr own accor
de. Thou neadest not to wrest good workes out of him as a mā wold wring verjuce out of crabbes. May they flow naturally out of hi as spriges out of hylles or rockes.

The newe testament was euer, euē from the begynning of the worlde. For there were alwaye promyses of Christ to come by fayth in whych promyses the elect were then iustified inwardly before God, as outwardly before the worldly keppynge of the lawe and Ceremonies.

And in conclusyon as thou seeste blessynges or cursynges folowe the keppynge or breakynge of the lawe of Moyses: euen so naturallye do blessynges or cursynges folow the breakynge or keppynge of the lawe of nature, out of whych sprynge al our temporal lawes. So that when the people kepe thee temporall lawes of theyr lande temporall prosperite and all maner of soche temporall blessynge as thou readeste of in Moyses do accompanye them and fall vpon them. And contrary wyse when they synne vnpunysshed, and when the ruelars haue no respecte vnto naturall equyte or honestye, then God sendeth hys curses amonge them, as hunger, derth, mortenbaninge, pestilence, warre, oppression wythe straunge and wonderfull dyseases and newekyndes of myshortune and eupll lucke.

Yf any man are me, (seynge that fayth iustifieth me) why I worke: I answere loue compelleth me. For as longe as my soule fealeth what loue God hathe shewed me in Christe. I cannot but loue god agayne and hys wyll and commaundemētes and of loue worke them, nor can they seme harde vnto me. I thynke not my selfe better for my workynge, nor soke heauen nor an hyer place in heauen because of it. For a Christen worketh to make hys weake brother perfecter, and not to seke an hyer place in heauen. I compare not my selfe vnto hym that worketh not: No, he that worketh not to daye shall haue grace to tarne and to worke to morowe, and in the meane season I pytye hym and prayc for hym. Yf I hadde wroughte the wyll of god these thousande yeares, and another had wroughte the wyll of thee deupll as longe and thys daye turne and be as well wyllynge to suffer wyth Christe as I, he hathe thys daye ouertaken me and is as farre come as I, and shall haue as moche reward as I. And I enuye hym not, but reioyce most of all as of lokte treasure founde. For yf I be of god, I haue thys thousand yeare suffred to wynne hym for to come and prayse the name of God wyth me: thys thousande yeares I haue prayed, sorowed, longed, syghed and sought for that whyche I haue thys daye founde, and therefore reioyse wyth all my myght and prayse God for hys grace and mercye.

A These ar the names of the chyldren of Israell, whych came to Egypte wyth Jacob, euery man with hys housholde: Ruben, Symeon, Leui, Juda, Isachar, Zabulon, Ben Jamin, Dan Nephtali, Gad and Aser. All these soules that came out of the loynes of Jacob were .lxx. and Joseph was in Egipt already when Joseph was dead and all hys brethren and all the generation: the chyldē of Israell grewe, encreased multiplyed and waxed exceding myghty: so that the lande was full of them.

Then there rose vp a newe kyng in Egypte whych knewe not Joseph. And he sayde vnto hys folke: beholde, the people of the chyldren of Israel are moo and myghtyer than we. Come on, let vs playe wysely wyth them: lest they multyplye, and the (yf ther chaunce any warre) they ioyne the selues vnto oure enemyes and fyght agaynst vs, and so get thē out of the land.

And he sette taskemaysters ouer them to kepe them vnder wyth burdens. And they bylte vnto Pharao treasure cytyes: Phiton and Rameses. But the more they vexed them, the more they multiplied and grewe: so that they abhorred the chyldren of Israel. And the Egyptians helde thee chyldren of Israell in bondage wythout mercy, and made theyr lyues bytter vnto them wyth cruel laboure in claye and bryke, and all maner worke in the feldes, and in all maner of seruice, whych they caused them to worke cruellye.

And the kynge of Egypte sayde vnto the mydwyues of the Ebrewes wome, of whych the ones name was Sephora, and the other Phua: when ye do the office of a mydwyfe to the woman of the Ebrewes and see in the byrth tyme that it is a boye, kyll it. But yf it be a mayde, let it lyue. Notwythstanding the mydwyues feared god and dyd not as the kyng of Egipt cōmaūded them: but saued the men chyldren.

Then the kyng of Egypt called for the mydwyues and sayde vnto them: why haue ye dealt on this maner and haue saued the menchildren? And the mydwyues answered Pharao, that the Ebrewes wemen were not as the wemē of Egypt: but were sturdie womē, and were delyuered yer the mydwyues came at them. And God therfore delt well wyth the mydwyues. And the people multiplied and waxed very myghtye. And because the mydwyues feared God, he a made them houses.

Than Pharao charged all hys people sayinge. All the men chyldren that are borne, cast into the ryuer and saue the maydchyldren a lyue.

The Notes.

a He made them houses: that is, he encreased & multiplied them, and made housholdes of them: geuinge them both husbandes and chyldren, as in Genesis.ii.a

The second Chapter.

Exod.vi.a i.pa.xxiii.b A

And ther went a man of * the house of Leui. And toke a doughter of Leui. And thee wyfe conceaued and bare a sonne. And whē she sawe that it was a proper chylde, she hydhym thre monethes longe. And when she could no longer hyde hym, she toke a basket of bulrushes and dawbed it wyth slyme and pytche, and layd the chyld therin, and put it in the flagges by the ryuers brinke. And his syster stode a farre of, to wete what wold come of it. * And the doughter of Pharao came downe to the ryuer to washe her selfe and hyr maydens walked a longe by the ryuers syde. And when she sawe the basket among the flagges, she sent one of hyr maydes and caused it to be fett. And whē she had opened it, she sawe the chylde, and beholde, the babe wepte. And she hadde compassyon on it and sayde: it is one of the Hebrues chyldren. Then sayd hys syster vnto Pharaos doughter: shal I goo and call vnto the a nurse of thee Hebrues wemen, to nurse the that chylde? And thee mayde ranne and called the chyldes mother. Then Pharaos doughter sayde vnto her, Take thys chylde away and nurse it for

for me, and I wyll reward the for thy labour. And the woman toke the chylde and nursed it vp.

And when the chylde was growen, she brought it vnto Pharaos doughter, and it was made hyr son, & she called it ✠ Moses, because (sayd she) I toke hym oute of the water. And it happened in these dayes whē Moses was warre great, that he wēt out vnto hys brethren and loked on theyr burdens, & spyed an Egyptian smytynge one of his brethren an Ebrewe. And he loked rounde about, and when he saw that ther was no man by, he ✠ slewe the Egyptian and hydde hym in the sande. And he went oute another daye: and beholde, two Ebrewes stroue together. And he sayd vnto him that dyd the wrong: wherfore smytest thou thyne neyghboure? And he answered: who hathe made the a ruler or a iudge ouer vs? intendest thou to kyll me as thou kylledest the Egyptian? Then Moyses feared and sayd: of a suerty the thinge is knowen. And Pharao hearde of it and wente about to slee Moyses, but he fledde from Pharao and dwelte in the lande of Madian, and he sat downe by a welles syde.

The priest of Madian had .vii. doughters whych came and drewe water and fylled thee troughes, for too water theyr fathers shepe. And the shepehardes came & droue thē awaye: but Moyses stode vp & helped thē, and watered theyr shepe. And whē they came to ✠ Raguel theyr father, he sayd: howe happeneth it that ye are come so soone to daye? And they answered: there was an Egiptian that delyuered vs from the shepehardes, & so drewe vs water, and watered the shepe. And he sayde vnto hys doughters: where is he? why haue ye left the mā? Go cal hym that he may eate bread. And Moyses was content to dwell wyth the man. And he gaue Moyses Zephora his doughter whych bare a sonne, and he called hym Garson: for he sayde: I haue bene a straunger in a straūge land. And she bare yet another sonne, whom he called Eliezer, sayinge: the God of my father is myne helper, and had ryd me out of the handes of Pharao.

And it chaunced in processe of tyme, that the kyng of Egypte dyed, & the chyldren of Israel syghed by the reason of labour, and cryed. And theyr complaynte came vppe vnto God from thee laboure. And God remembred hys promyse wyth Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. And God ✠ loked vpon the chyldren of Israel, and knewe them.

The .iii. Chapter.

MOyses kepte the shepe of Jethro his father in lawe priest of Madian, & he droue ỹ floc ke to the backesyde of the a✠ desert, and came to the mountayne of God, Horeb. And the angel of the lorde appeared vnto him in a flame of fyre out of a bush. And he perceaued that the bushe burned wyth fyre, and cōsumed not. Than Moyses sayde: I wyll go hence, and see thys greate syght, how it commeth that the bush burneth not. And whē thee Lorde sawe that he came for too see, he called vnto hym oute of the bushe and sayde: Moyses, Moyses. And he answered: here am I. And he sayde: come not hyther, but put thy shoes of thy fete: for the place wherein thou stādest is b✠ holy groūde. And he sayde: I am thy God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the god of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moyses hyd hys face, for he was afrayed to looke vpon God.

Than the Lorde sayde: I haue suerly sene the trouble of my people whych are in Egypt, and haue heard theyr crye whych they haue of theyr taskemaysters. For I knowe theyr sorowe, and am come down to delyuer them out of the handes of the

Now therfore beholde, thee complaynt of thee chyldrē of Israell is come vnto me, and I haue also sene the oppressyon wher wyth the Egyptyans oppresse them. But come, I wyll sende the vnto Pharao, that thou mayste bringe my people the chyldren of Israel out of Egypte. And Moyses sayde vnto God: what am I to goo vnto Pharao and to bringe thee chyldren of Israell out of Egypte? And he sayd: I wyll be wyth the And this shalbe a tokē vnto ỹ that I haue sent the: after that thou hast brought the people out of Egypte, ye shall serue God vpon thys mountayn.

Than sayde Moyses vnto God: when I come vnto ỹ chyldrē of Israel and saye vnto them, the God of youre fathers hath sent me vnto you and they saye vnto me, what is hys name what aunswere shall I gyue them? Than sayde God vnto Moyses: ✠ I wylbe what I wylbe: and he sayde: this shalt thou saye vnto the chyldren of Israel: I wylbe dyd sende me vnto you. And God spake further vnto Moyses: thus shalt thou saye vnto the chyldrē of Israell: thee Lord of youre fathers the God of Abraham, ỹ god of Isaac and the God of Jacob hathe sente me vnto you: thys is my name for euer: and thys is my memoryall throw out all generacyons. Go therfore and gather the elders of Israell to gether and saye vnto them: thee Lord god of your fathers, ỹ god of Abrahā, the God of Isaac, & the god of Jacob appeared vnto me and sayd: I haue bene and sene both you āde that whych is done to you in Egypt. And I haue sayd it, that I wyll bringe you out of the tribulacion of Egypte vnto the lande of the Cananites, Ethytes, Amorytes, Pherezites, Heuites and Iebusites: euen a lande that floweth wyth mylke and hony.

If it come to passe that they heare thy voyce then goo, bothe thou and the elders of Israell vnto the kynge of Egypt, and saye vnto hym: The Lorde God of the Ebrues hath mette with vs: lette vs goo therfore .iii. dayes iourneye in the wyldernesse, that we maye sacrifice vnto the lord oure God. Notwythstandyng I am sure that the kynge of Egypt wyl not let you goo, excepte it be wyth a myghtye hande: yea and I wyl therfore stretche out myne hand and smyte Egypt wyth all my wonders whych I wyll do therein. And after that he wyll let you goo. And * I wyll gett thys people fauoure in the syghte of thee Egyptyans: so that when ye goo, ye shal not goo emptye: but euery wyfe shal borowe of hyr neyghbouresse and of her that sogeorneth in hyr house, Jewels of syluer and of gold and raymente. The .iiii. Chapter.

MOyses answered and sayde: Se, they wyll not beleue me A nor herken vnto my voyce: but wyll saye, the Lord hath not appeared vnto the. Thē thee Lorde sayde vnto hym: what is that in thyne hande? and he sayde: a rood. And he sayd: cast it on the grounde, and it turned vnto a serpente. And Moyses ranne awaye from it. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: put forth thyne hande and take it by the tayle. And he putte forthe hys hande and caughte it, and it became a rodde agayne in hys hande, that they may beleue that the Lorde God of theyr fathers the God of Abrahām, thee God of Isaac and the God of Jacob hath appeared vnto the.

And the Lorde sayde forthermore vn-

to hym thrust thyn hand in to thy bosome And he thrust hys hand in to hys bosome and toke it out. And beholde, hys hande was lepterous euen as snowe. And he said put thyn hande in to thy bosome agayne And he put hys hande in to hys bosome agayn and plucked it out of hys bosome and beholde it was turned agayn as hys other flesh. If they wyll not beleue the neither heare the voyce of ꝑ first token: yet wil they beleue the voyce of the second token.

C But and yf they wyll not beleue the two signes nether herken vnto thy voyce, the take of the water of ꝑ riuer & poure it vpon the drye lande. And the water whych thou takest out of thee ryuer shall tourne to bloude vpon the drye londe.

Jerem.i.a And Moyses sayde vnto ꝑ Lorde: oh my Lorde * I am not eloquent, no not in tymes paste and namely sence thou haste spoken vnto thy seruaũt: but I am slowe mouthed and slowe tongued. And thee Lorde sayde vnto hym: who hathe made mans mouth, or whohath made the dõme or the deafe, the seyng or the blynde? haue not I the Lorde? Goo therfore & * I wyll be with thy mouth and teache the what ꝑ thyalt saye. But he sayde: Oh my Lorde, sende I praye the whom thou wylt. And the Lorde was angry with Moyses and sayde I knowe Aaron thy brother the Leuite that he can speake. And moreouer beholde, he cometh to mete the, and when he seyeth the, he wyl be glad in his hart. And thou shalt speake vnto hym and putte the wordes in his mouth, and I wylbe vẽ thy mouth and with hys mouth, and wyl teache you what ye shall do. And he shall be thy spokesman vnto the people: * the shalt be thy mouth, and thou shalt be hys god: and take thys rodd in thy hande where vẽ thou shalt do myracles.

And Moyses went and retourned to Jethro his father in lawe agayne & sayde vnto hym: let me goo (I pray the) & turne agayne vnto my brethren which are in Egypte, that I may se whether they be yet alyue. And Jethro sayd to Moyses: go in peace. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses in Madian: retourne agayne in to Egypte matth.ii.d. * for they are dead whyche wente aboute to kyll the. And Moyses toke hys wyfe and hys sonnes and put them on an asse, and wente agayn to Egypte, and toke the rodde of God in hys hande.

And the lord sayd vnto Moyses, whe thou art come into Egypte agayn se that thou doo all the wonders before Pharao whych I haue put in thy hand: but I wyl harden hys harte, so that he shall not lette the people go. And tell Pharao, thus sayeth the Lord: Israell is myne eldest sonne and therfore sayth vnto the: let my sonne goo, that he maye serue me. Yf thou wylt not let hym goo: behold, I wyll slee thyne eldest sonne.

And it chaũced by the way in the ynne that the Lord mette hym and wolde haue kylled hym, Than Zepora toke a stone & circumcysed hyr sonne and fel at hys fete and sayd: a bloudy husband art thou vn to me. And he lette hym go. She sayde a bloudy husband, because of the circumcision. Than sayde the Lord vnto Aarõ: go mete Moyses in the wyldernesse. And he went and met him in the mount of god and kyssed hym. And Moyses tolde Aaron al ꝑ wordes of the Lord which he had sent by hym, and all the tokens whych he hadde charged hym wythall. So wente Moyses and Aaron and gathered all the elders of the chyldren of Israel. And Aaron tolde al the wordes whych the Lorde hadde spoken vnto Moyses, and dyd the myracles in the syghte of the people, and the people beleued. And when they heard that the Lorde hadde vysyted the chyldẽ of Israell, and hadde loked vppon theyr tribulatyon, bꝟ they bowed them selues & worshypped.

bꝟ They bowed them selues, that is, gaue thankes and praysed the Lorde.

C Moyses and Aaron goeth vnto Pharao. The people of Israell are oppressed more and more, and they cryed oute vpon Moyses and Aaron therfore.

The.v.Chapter.

THen Moyses & Aaron went and tolde Pharao, thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israell. Lette my people go, that they maye kepe holye daye vnto me in the wyldernesse. And Pharao aunswered: what fellowe is thee Lorde, that I shulde heare hys voyce for to lette Israell goo? aꝟ I knowe not the Lord, nether wyll let Israel goo. And they sayde, the God of the Ebrewes hath met with vs let vs goo (we praye the) iii. dayes iourney in to the deserte, that we may sacrifice vn to the Lorde our God: lest he smyte vs ether with pestylence or with swerde. The sayde the kynge of Egypte vnto theym: wherfore do ye Moyses and Aaron lette the people from theyr worcke, get you vn to your laboure. And Pharão sayde furthermore: beholde there is moch people in the lande, and ye make them play, and let theyr worke stonde.

And Pharao cõmaunded the same daye vnto the taskemasters ouer the people, & vnto the offycers sayinge: se that ye gyue the people no more strawe to make bryck with all, as ye did in tyme passed: let them goo and gather them strawe them selues, and the nombre of bryck whiche they were wonte to make in tyme passed, lay vnto theyr charges also, and mynych nothyng therof. For they be ydle and therfore crye sayenge: let vs goo and do sacrifyce vnto our God. They muste haue more worcke layde vpon them, that they maye laboure therin, and then wyll they not turne them selues to false wordes.

The wẽt the taskemasters of the people and the offycers out and tolde the people saying: Thus sayth Pharao: I wyl geue you no more strawe, but go your selues and gather you strawe where ye can fynd it, yet shall none of your laboure be mynyshed. Then the people scatered abrode thorowe out all the lande of Egypt for to gather them stubyll to be in stede of strawe.

C And the taskemasters hasted them forwarde sayinge: fulfyll your werke day by day, euen as when strawe was geuen you. And the offycers of the chyldren of Israell whiche Pharaos taskemasters had set ouer them, were beaten. And it was sayde vnto them: wherfore haue ye not fulfilled youre taske in makyng bryck, both yester daye and to day, as welas in tymes past.

Then wente the officers of the chyldrẽ of Israell and complayned vnto Pharao sayinge: wherfore dealest thou thus wyth thy seruauntes? there is no strawe gyuen vnto thy seruaũtes, and yet they saye vnto vs: make bryck. And loo, thy seruauntes are beaten, and thy people is foule intreated. And he aunswered: ydell are ye ydel, and therfore ye saye: lette vs go and do sacrifice vnto the Lorde. Goo therfore and worke, for there shal no strawe be geuen you, and yet see that ye delyuer the hole tale of bryck.

When the officers of the chyldren of Israell sawe them selfe in ylle case (in that he sayde ye shall mynyshe nothynge of youre daylye makinge of bryck) than they mette Moyses and Aaron standynge in theyr waye as they came oute from Pharao, and sayde vnto them: The Lorde looke vnto you and iudge, for ye haue made the sauoure of vs bꝟ stincke in thee syghte of Pharao and of hys seruauntes and haue put a swerde into theyr handes to slee vs.

Moyses returned vnto the lord and sayde: Lorde wherfore dealest thou cruelye wyth thys people: and wherfore haste thou sente me? For sence I came to Pharao too speake in thy name, he hath fared foulle wythe thys folke, and yet thou hast not delyuered thy people at all.

Then the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: Nowe shalte thou see what I wyl do vnto Pharao for wyth a myghtye hande shall he lette them goo, and wyth a mygh tye hande shall he dryue them out of hys lande.

The Notes.

aꝟ I knowe not thee Lord, that is, I feare hym not, I beleue not in hym: nether haue I any thing to do wyth hym. And euen thus saye all hardened hartes that haue not the feare of thee Lorde before theyr eyes.

bꝟ ye haue made vs stinke in the syght of pharao that is, by youre wordes and meanes: all the wrath and displeasure of Pharao is brought vpon vs, that he vtterly hateth & abhorreth vs.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, say vnto Aaron: take thy staffe and stretche out thyne hande ouer the waters of Egipte, ouer theyr streames, ryuers, pondes & all pooles of water, that they may be bloude, and that there maye be bloude in thee lande of Egypte, both in vessels of wodd and also of stone.

And Moyses and Aaron dyd euen as the Lorde commaunded. And he lyfte vp the staffe and smote the waters that were in the ryuer in the syght of Pharao & in ỹ syghte of hys seruauntes, & all the water that was in the ryuer, turned into bloude And the fyshe that was in the ryuer dyed *and the ryuer stanke, so that the Egyptians coulde not drincke of the water of the ryuer. ¶ The plage of frogges. Moyses prayeth for Pharao. The plage of flyes.

The .viii. Chapter.

The Lorde spake vnto Moyses: Goo vnto Pharao and tell hym, thus sayth the lord: *let my people goo, that they may serue me. Yf thou wylt not let them goo: beholde, I wyll smyte all thy land wyth frogges. And the ryuer shall scrale wythe frogges, and they shall come vp and goo into thyne house and into thy chambre where thou slepeste and vppon thy bedde, and into thee houses of thy seruauntes, and vpon thy people, and into thyne ouens, and vpon thy vytayles which thou hast in store. And the frogges

Thē Pharao called for Moyses and
C Aaron and sayd: praye ye vnto the Lorde that he maye take awaye the frogges frō me and from my people, and I wyll lette the people goo, that they maye doo sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And Moyses sayde vnto Pharao: Appoynte thou thee tyme vnto me, when I shall praye for the and thy seruauntes, and thy people, to dryue awaye the frogges from the and thy house so that they shall remayne but in thee ryuer onelye. And he sayde to morowe. And he sayde: euē as thou hast sayde, that thou mayest knowe that there is none lyke vnto the Lorde oure God. And the frogges shall departe from the and frō thyne houses and frome thy seruauntes and frome thy people, and shal remayne in the ryuer onely.

And Moyses and Aaron went out frō

Thē sayd the enchaunters vnto Pharao: it is the fynger of God. Neuerthelater Pharaos harte was hardened and he regarded thē not, as the Lorde hadde sayde.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Moyses: rise vp early in the morninge and stond before Pharao, for he wyll come vnto thee water: and saye vnto hym, thus sayth the lorde: lette my people goo, that they maye serue me. Yf thou wylte not let my people goo, behold, I wyll sende all maner flyes both vpon the and thy seruaūtes, and thy people, and into thy houses. And Pharaos seruauntes sayde vnto hym: how longe shall we be thus cuell intreated? Let thee men goo that they maye serue the Lorde theyr God: wylt thou not yet knowe that Egypt is destroyed? And than Moses and Aaron were brought agayne vnto Pharao and he sayde vnto them: Goo and serue thee Lorde youre God, but who are they that shall go? And Moyses answered: we wyl go with yong and olde: yea and wythe oure sonnes and with our doughters, and with oure shepe and oxen must we go. For we must hold a feast vnto the Lorde.

And he sayde vnto them: lette it be so: C

And Moyses stretched forthe hys hande vnto heauen, and there was a thick darkenesse vpon all the lande of Egypte, iii. dayes longe, so that no man sawe another, nether rose vp from the place where he was by the space of .iii. dayes, but all the chyldren of Israell had lyghte where they dwelled.

Then Pharao called for Moyses and sayde: goo and serue the Lorde, only lette
G your shepe, and your oxen abyde, but lette your chyldren go with you. And Moyses answered: ỹ must gyue vs also offrynges & burntoffrynges for to sacrifyce vnto the Lorde our God: our catell therfore shall go with vs, and there shall not one hoofe be lefte behynde, for therof muste we take to serue the Lorde oure God. Moreouer we can not knowe wherewith we shall a‡ serue the Lorde, vntyll we come thyther.

But the Lord herdened Pharaos hert so that he wolde not let them go. And pharao sayde vnto hym: get the fro me & take hede to the selfe that thou see my face no more. For when soeuer thou comest in my syght, thou shalt dye. And Moyses sayde Let it be as thou hast sayde: I wyl se thy face no moare.

J AND the lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypte sayinge: Thys moneth shall be youre cheke moneth: euē of the fyrst moneth of the yeare shal it be vnto you. Speake ye vnto all the felowshyp of Jsraell sayinge: That they take the .x. day of this moneth to euery housholde a shepe. Yf thee household be to few for a⁊ shepe, then lett hym ⁊ hys neyghbour that is nerte vnto hys house, take accordyng to the nōber of the soules, ⁊ counte vnto a shepe accordinge to euerye mans eatinge. A shepe wythout spot ⁊ a male of one yeare old shall it be, and from amonge the lambes and the gootes shall ye take it.

And ye shal kepe him in, vntyl the .xiiii. daye of the same moneth. And euery man of the multitude of Jsrael shall kyll hym about euē. And they shal take of the blou de ⁊ stryke it on the two syde postes, ⁊ on the vpper dorepost of the houses, wherin they eate hym. And they shal eate the flesh the same nyght, rost wyth fyre ⁊ with vnleuended bread, ⁊ wyth sowre herbes they shall eat it. Se that ye eat not therof raw nor sodē in water, but rost wyth fyre: both the head, fete, and purtenaunce together. And se that ye let nothynge of it remayne vnto the morning: yf ought remayne vnto it wyth fyre.

Of this maner shal ye eat it: with your loynes gyrded: ⁊ shoes on your fete, ⁊ your staues in your hādes. And ye shall eate it in haste, for it is thee Lordes b⁊ passeouer. For J wyl go about in the land of Egypt thys same nyght, ⁊ wyl smyte al the fyrstborne in the lande of Egipte, both of man and beast, ⁊ vpon all the Goddes of Egypte wyll J the Lorde doo execution. And the bloude shal be vnto you a token vpon the houses wherin ye are, for whē J se the bloude, J wyll passe ouer you, ⁊ the plage shall not be vpon you too destroye you, when J smyte the land of Egypt.

And thys daye shal be vnto you a remembraūce, and ye shal kepe it holy vnto the Lord: euen thorow out your generacions after you. shal ye kepe it holye daye, that it be a custome for ⁊euer. Seuē dayes shall ye eate vnleuended bread, so that euen the fyrst daye ye shal put away leuē out of youre houses. For whosoeuer eateth leuended bread from the fyrst day vntyll the .vii. daye, that soule shall be plucked oute from Jsracll.* The fyrste daye shalbe a holy feast vnto you, and the .vii. also. There shalbe no maner of worke done in them, saue about that only whych euerye man muste eate that onelye may ye doo. And se that ye kepe you to vnleuended bread. For vpon that same day J wyl bringe youre armyes out of the lande of Egypt, therfore ye shall observe thys day and all your chyldren after you, that it be a custome for euer. The fyrst moneth and the .xiiii. daye of thee monethe at euen, ye shall eate swete bread vnto the .xxi. day of the moneth at euē agayn. Seuē dayes se that ther be no leuēded bred foūd in your houses, For whoso euer eateth leuended bread, that soule shalbe roted out frō thee multitude of Jsrael: whether he be a straūger or borne in the land. Therfore se that ye eate not leuended bread, but in all your habitations eate swete bread.

And Moyses called for thee elders of Jsracll ⁊ sayde vnto them: chose out ⁊ take to euery household a shepe, ⁊ kyll passeouer. And take a bunch of yssope, ⁊ dyppe it in it in the bloud that is in the basyn, ⁊ stryke it vpon the vpper post and on the two syde postes, and see that none of you goo out at the doze of his house vntyl the morynge. For the Lord wyll goo about and smyte Egypte. And when he seeth thee bloud vpō the vpper dorepost and on the two syde postes, he wyll b⁊ passe ouer thee doze, and wyll not suffer thee destroyer to come into your house to plage you. Therfore see that thou observe thys thynge, that it be an ordinaūce to the and thy sonnes for euer.

And when ye be come into thee lande whych the Lord wyll geue the accordinge as he hath promysed, se that ye kepe thys seruyce. *And when youre chyldren are you what maner of seruice is thys ye do: Ye shal say: it is the sacrifice of the lordes passeouer, whyche passed ouer the houses of the chyldren of Jsrael in Egypt, as he smote the Egyptyans and saued our houses. Than the people bowed them selues and worshypped. And the chyldrē of Jsracll went, and dyd as the Lord had cōmaūded Moyses and Aaron.

E At mydnyght the Lorde smote all the fyrstborne in the lande of Egypte, frō the fyrstborne of Pharao that satt on his seat, vnto the fyrstborne of ỹ captiue that was in pryson, and all the fyrste borne of cattel. Thā Pharao arose the same night and all hys seruauntes and all the Egyptians: *and ther was a great cryeng thorow out Egypte, for there was no house where ther was not one dead.

And he called vnto Moyses ⁊ Aaron by nyght sayinge: Ryse vp and gette you out from amonge my people: both ye and also thee chyldren of Jsracll, ⁊ go ⁊ serue the Lord as ye haue sayd. And take your shepe, and your oxen wyth you as ye haue sayde, ⁊ departe ⁊ blesse me also. And the Egyptians were force vpon the people, ⁊ made haste to send them oute of the lande: for they sayd: we be all dead men.

And the people toke the dough before it was sowered whych they had in stoare, and bounde it in clothes, ⁊ putte it vppon theyr shoulders. And the chyldren of Jsracll dyd according to the saying of Moyses: ⁊ they borowed of the Egyptiās, Jewels of syluer, ⁊ Jewels of gold, ⁊ rayment. And the Lord gatte the people fauour in the syght of the Egyptians: ⁊ so they borowed and robbed the Egyptians.

Thus toke the chyldrē of Jsrael theyr journey frō Rameses to ⁊ Suchoth. vi. C M. men of foote, besyde chyldren. And moch common people went also wyth thē and shepe, ⁊ oxen, ⁊ cattell exceedyng moch And they baked swete cakes of the dough whych they brought out of Egypt, for it was not sowered: because they were thruste out of Egipt and coulde not tarye, nether had they prepared any other prouysyon of meate.

And the tyme of the dwellinge of thee chyldren of Jsrael whych they dwelled in Egypte, was .iiii. hundred and .xxx. yeare. And when the .iiii. hūdred and .xxx. yeares were expyred, euen the selfe same daye departed al the hostes of the Lord out of the lande of Egypt. This is a nyght to be observed to thee Lorde, because he brought them out of the lande of Egypt. Thys is a nyght of the Lorde to be kepte of al the chyldren of Jsrael, and of theyr generacions after them.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moyses and Aarō: this is the maner of passeouer: ther shal no straunger eate therof, but all thee seruantes that are bought for money shal ye circumcyse, ⁊ then let them eate therof. A straunger ⁊ a hyered seruaunt shal not eate therof. In one house shal it be eaten. Ye shal carye none of the flesshe out at the doores: moreouer *se that ye breake not a bone therof. All the multitude of the chyldren of Jsracll shal observe it.

Yf a straunger dwell among you and wyll holde passeouer vnto the Lord, lette hym circumcyse all that be males, and thē let hym come ⁊ observe it, and be take as one that is borne in the land. No vncircūcysed person shal eate therof. One maner of lawe shalbe vnto them that are ⁊ borne in the lande, and vnto the straungers that dwell amonge you. And all the chyldren of Jsrael dyd as the Lorde commaunded Moyses and Aaron. And euen the selfe same daye dyd the Lord bring the chyldren of Jsrael out of the lande of Egipt with theyr armyes.

The. xix. Chapter.

M

Nu. xiiii. c

IN the. iii. moneth after the childrē of Israel were gone oute of Egipt: ỹ same day thei came into ỹ wildernesse of Sinai. * For thei were departed frō Raphidim, & were come to ỹ desert of Sinai, & had pytched theyr tētes in ỹ wildernesse. And ther Israel pitched before ỹ mout. And Moses wēt vp vnto god. And the lord called to him out of the moūtayne saying: thus say vnto ỹ house of Jacob, & tel ỹ childrē of Israel: ye haue sene what I dyd vnto ỹ Egiptiās & how I toke you vp vpō egles wiges, & haue brought you vnto my self. Now therfore yf ye wyl heare my voyce & kepe myne appoyntmēt: ye shalbe myne owne aboue al nacīōs, for al ỹ erth is myne. Ye shalbe vnto me a king dō of prestes & an holy people: these ar the wordes whyche thou shalte saye vnto the childrē of Israel.

And Moses came & called for ỹ elders of Israel, & layd before thē al these wordes which ỹ lord had cōmāded hi And ỹ people āswered al together & sayd: All that ỹ lord hath sayd: we wil do. And moses brought ỹ wordes of ỹ people vnto ỹ lord. And the lord said vnto Moses: Lo I wil come vnto the in a thicke cloude, ỹ the people may heare whē I talke wyth the, & also beleue the for euer. And Moses shewed the wordes of the people vnto the Lord.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moyses: Go vnto ỹ people, & a‡sāctifye thē to day & to morowe, & let thē washe theyr clothes that they may be ready against the thyrd daye For the thyrd day the lord wil come down in the sight of al the people vpō moūt Sinai. And set markes roūde about the people & saye: beware ỹ ye go not vp into the moūt, & that ye touche not thee borders of it, for whosoeuer toucheth the moūte, shal surely dye. Ther shal not an hād touche it but ỹ he shal eyther be stoned or els shotte thorow: whether it be beast or mā, it shall not lyue, whē the horne bloweth: than lett them come vp into the mountayne.

And Moyses wēt down frō the moūt vnto ỹ people & sanctified thē & they washed theyr clothes: And he said vnto ỹ people: be ready agaynst the thyrd day, & le ỹ yes ‡come not at your wiues. And ỹ thyrd day in the morning ther was thūder, & ligh tening & a thicke cloude vpō the moūte, & the voyce of ỹ horne wared exceding lowde, and al the people that was in the hoost was afrayed. And Moyses brought the people out of the tentes to mete wyth god and they stode vnder the hyll.

And moūte Sinai was al together on a smoke: because the lord descended downe vpō it in fyre. And the smoke therof ascended vp, as it had bene the smoke of a kyll, & al the moūt was exceding feareful. And the voyce of the horne blew & wared lowder & lowder. Moses spake, & god āswered him & ỹ wyth a voyce. And the Lorde came down vpō moūt Sinai, euē in ỹ top of the hyl, & called Moses vp into the top of the hyll. And Moyses went vp.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moyses: goo downe & charge ỹ people ỹ they prcase not vp vnto the lord for to se him, & so manye of thē perish. And let the prestes also why che come to the lordes p̄sence sanctifie thē selues: lest the lord smyte thē. Thē moses sayd vnto ỹ lord: ỹ people cānot come vp into the moūt Sinai, for ỹ chargedest vs saying: set markes about the hyll, & sāctifye it. And the lord sayd vnto him: away, & gett the downe: & come vp bothe thou & Aarō w̄ the. But let not the Prestes & the people prcsume for too come vp vnto the lord: lest he smyte thē. And Moyses went downe vnto the people, and told them.

The Notes.

a‡ To sanctifie is here too purge & clense thē frō the fylthynesse of both theyr body & garmētes, as is in the same Chapter beneth at d, and. xxxi. e

b‡ Come not at your wyues, that is: whē ye wyll serue the Lord, ye shal put frō you al lustes & fleshly cōcupiscēces, geuing your self holy to prayer & abstinence, as Paul teacheth. i. Cozin. vii. c, that they ỹ haue wyues should be as though they had none.

Lawes Deut. xv. c Le. xxv. c Leui. xxv. f

THese are ỹ lawes which thou shalt sett before ỹ. * Yf thou bye a seruaūt ỹ is an hebru, syxe yeres he shal serue, & the seuenth he shall goo out free payeng nothing. Yf he came a lone, he shal goo oute alone. Yf he came mayed, his wyfe shal goo out with hym And yf hys mayster haue geuē hym a wyfe & she haue borne hym sonnes or doughters then that wyfe & hyr chyldren shalbe hyr maysters, & he shal go out alone. But & yf ỹ seruaunte saye I loue my mayster & my wyfe & my chyldren, I wyll not goo out free. Then let hys mayster bryng him vnto ỹ a‡ Goddes & sett hym too the doore or ỹ dorepost, & bore his eare thorow with a naule, & let him be his seruaūt for euer.

Yf a mā sell hys doughter to be a seruaunte: she shall not go out as the mē seruaūtes doo. Yf she plase not hyr maister so that he hath geuē her to no mā to wyfe then shal he let hyr go free: to sell her vnto a straunge nacyō shall he haue no power, because he despysed her. Yf he haue promised her vnto his sonne to wyfe, hee shal deale with her as mē do with their doughters. Yf he take him another wife, yet her fode, raymēt and duetye of martage shal he not mynisshe. Yf he doo not these thre vnto her, then shall she goo oute free and paye no money. * He that smyteth a man that he dye, shall be slayne for it. whether he shal sle. Yf a mā come presūptuously vpon hys neyghbour, & slee hym with gyle, thou shalt take him from myne aultar that he dye. And he ỹ smyteth hys father or his mother, shall dye for it.

He that stealeth a man & selleth him (yf it be proued vpon hym) he shall be slayne for it. * And he that curseth hys father or mother, shal be put to death for it. Yf mē stryue together & one smyte another wyth a stone or with his fyste, so that he dye not but lyeth in bed: yf he ryse agayne & walke wythout vpon hys staffe then shall he that smote him go quite: saue only he shal beare hys charges whyle he laye in bedde and paye for hys healynge.

Yf a mā smyte his seruaūt or his mayde with a staffe ỹ they dye vnder his hād, it shalbe auēged. But & yf they cōtynue a day or two, it shall not be auēged for they ar his money. Whē men stryue & smyte a woman wyth chyld so that hyr fruyte departe frō her & yet no myschyefe followeth: then shall he be mersed, accordinge as the womās husband wyl lay to hys charge, & he shal paye as the dayes mē apoynt hym. But * and yf any mischyefe folow then shall he paye lyfe for lyfe, eye for eye toth for toth, hande for hand, fote for fote burninge for burninge, woūd for wound and stryppe for stryppe.

Yf a man smyte hys seruaunte or hys mayde in ỹ eye & put it out, he shall let thē go free for the eyes sake. Also yf he smyte out hys seruauntes or hys maydes tothe, he shal let thē go out free for the tothes sake. Yf an ore gore a man or a womā that they dye, thē the * ore shalbe stoned, & his flesche shall not be eaten: and hys mayster shall goo quyte.

Yf the ore were wont to runne at men in tyme past & it hath bene tolde his mayster, & he hathe not kepte hym, but that he hath kylled a mā or a womā: then the ore shalbe stoned & hys mayster shal dye also. Yf he be set to a summe of money, then he shall geue for the delyuerance of hys lyfe accordīg to al that is put vnto him. And whether he had gored a sonne or a doughter, he shalbe serued after the same maner. But yf it be a seruaunte or a mayde that the ore hath gored, then he shall geue vnto theyr mayster the sūme of .xxx. ♁ sicles and the ore shalbe stoned.

Yf a man open a well or dygge a pyt, & couer it not, but that an ore or an asse fall therin, the owner of the pytt shall make it good and geue money vnto theyr mayster and the dead beast shalbe hys.

Yf one mans ore hurt anothers that he dye: then they shal sell the lyue ore and deuyde the moneye, and the dead ore also they shal deuyde. But and yf it be knowē that the ore hath vsed to pusshe in tymes paste, then because thee mayster hathe not kepte hym, he shall paye ore for ore, and the dead shalbe hys owne.

The Notes

a ♁ Judges & princes ar called in the scripture ofte tymes goddes: because they receaue theyr office of god, as in Exo. xxii. b, which the apostle calleth thre mynisters of God. Roma. xiii. a.

* ♁ God so abhorreth murther, ỹ the vnreasonable beastes must dye therfore, & theyr flesh cast awaye.

b ♁ Sicle, after the Ebrues is an ounce: but after the grekes & latynes it is but the fourth parte of an ounce. And it cōteyneth xx. geras as in Exod. xxx. b, wych is ten pence sterlyng or ther about.

Soch lyke lawes as ar in the chapter aboue.

The. xxii. Chapter.

Yf a mā steale an ore or shepe & kyll it or sell it, he shal restore. v. ore for an ore, & .iiii. shepe for a shepe. Yf a theefe be foūd breaking vp & be smytē ỹ he dye, ther shall no bloud be shed for him: except the sun be vp when he is foūd then ther shalbe bloud shed for hym.

A theefe shal make restitucion: Yf he haue not wherewyth, he shalbe solde for hys theefte. Yf the theefe be foūd in hys hād alyue (whether it be ore, asse or shepe, he shal restore double. Yf a mā dohurt feld or vyneyarde, so that he put in his beast to fede in anothers mans felde: of the best of hys owne feld, and of the best of his owne vyneyarde, shall he make restitution.

Yf fyre breake out & catche in ỹ thornes so ỹ the stackes of corne or thee standinge corne or feld be cōsumed therwith: he that kyndled the fyre shall make restitution.

Yf a mā delyuer his neyghbour money or stuf to kepe, & it be stolē out of his house: Yf ỹ theefe be foūd, he shal pay double. Yf the theefe be not foūde, thē the goodmā of the house shalbe brought vnto the goddes and swere, whether he haue putte hys hand vnto hys neyghbours good.

And in al maner of trespace, whether it be ore, asse, shepe, rayment or any maner lost thing which another chalengeth to be his thee cause of bothe parties shall come before the goddes. And whome thee goddes condemne: the same shall paye double vnto hys neyghbour.

Yf a mā delyuer vnto his neyghbour to kepe, asse, ore, shepe or whatsoeuer beastit be & it dye or be hurt or dryuē away & noo mā se it: thē shal ♁ an othe of the Lord go betwene thē, whether he haue put his hād vnto hys neyghbours good: & the owner of it shal take the othe, & the other shal not make it good. Yf it be stolē frō him, then he shal make restitucīō vnto ỹ owner. Yf it be torne with wylde beastes, thē let hym bring recorde of the tearinge: & he shal not make it good. Whē a mā borroweth ought of his neighbour yf it be hurt or els dye & yf the owner therof be not by, he shal make it good: Yf the owner therof be ther by he shal not make it good namelye yf it be an hyred thynge and came for hyre.

Yf a mā begyle a mayde that is not betrouthed & lye with her, he shal endote her & take her to his wyfe: Yf hyr father refuse to geue her vnto hym, he shal paye money accordyng to the dowrye of vyrgins.

Thou shalt not suffer a witch to lyue. Whosoeuer lyeth with a beast shalbe slayne for it. He that offreth vnto any goddes saue vnto the lord only, let him dye without redēptiō. * Vexe not a straunger neyther oppresse hym for ye were straungers in the lād of Egipt. * Ye shall trouble no wedow nor fatherlesse chyld. * Yf ye shal trouble thē: they shal crye vnto me, and I wyl surely heare theyr crye & thē wyll my wrath ware hoote & I wyl kyll you wyth the sweād, & your wyues shalbe wedowes and your chyldren fatherlesse.

Yf thou lende money to any of my people ỹ is poore by the, thou shalt not be as an vsurer vnto him, nether shalt oppresse hym with vsery. Yf thou take thy neyghbours raymēt to pledge, se ỹ thou delyuer it vnto him agayne by that the sunne goo downe. For that is his couerlet only: euen the raymēt for hys skynne wherein he slepeth: or els he wyl crye vnto me & I wyll heare hym, for I am mercyful.

Thou shalt not rayle vpō the goddes, nether curse the ruelar of thy people. Thy b ♁ frutes whether they be dryye or moyst, se thou kepe not backe. Thy fyrstborne sōne thou shalte geue me: lykewyse shalt thou do of thyne ore & of thy shepe. Seuē dayes it shalbe wyth the dāme, & the .viii. day thou shalt geue it me. Ye shalbe holy people vnto me, & therfore shal ye eate no flesh that is tooren of beastes in the felde. But shal cast it to dogges.

The Notes

a ♁ In othe is the ende of stryfe & deuysyō, ỹ whiche is lawful to be done, whē it is ether to the glory of God or profyt of oure neyghbour or for the commyn wealth or els not, as Math. v. f.

b ♁ By thyther & fyrst frutes ar vnderstād geuing of thākes wherby ỹ harte knowledgeth & cōfesseth to haue receaued it of God, as in. i. Timo. iiii. a.

And thee Lorde talked wythe Moyſes ſayinge: ſpeake vnto the chyldren of Iſrael that they geue me an heue offring and of euery mā that geueth it willyngly wyth hys harte, ye ſhall take it.*And thys is the heueoffringe whyche ye ſhall take of them: gold, ſyluer ⁊ braſſe and Iacincte colour, ſcarlet, purpul, byſſe and gootes here, rāmes ſkynnes that are red, and the ſkynnes of tarus and ſethim wood, oyle for lyghtes, and ſpices for annoyntynge oyle and for ſwete cenſe: Onix ſtones and ſet ſtones for the*Ephod and for the breſtlappe.

And they ſhall make me a ſanctuarye that I maye dwell amonge them. And I ſhall ſhewe the, the facion of the habitacion and of all the ornamentes therof, euen ſo, ſe that ye make it in al thynges. And they ſhall make an arcke of ſethim wood, ii. cubytes ⁊ an halfe longe, a cubyte and an halfe breede and a cubyte and an halfe hye. And thou ſhalte ouerlaye it wyth pure golde bothe wythin and wythoute, and ſhalte make an hye vppon it a crowne of golde round about. And thou ſhalt caſte. iiii. rynges of gold for it, and put them in the. iiii. corners therof. ii. ringes on the one ſyde of it, ⁊. ii. on the other. And thou ſhalt make ſtaues of ſethim wood ⁊ couer thē wyth gold. and put the ſtaues in the rynges along by the ſydes of the arke. to bear it wyth all. And thee ſtaues ſhall abyde in thee rynges of thee arcke, and ſhall not be taken awaye. And thou ſhalte putte in the arcke, thee wytneſſe whyche I ſhall geue the.

Ephod (or garmēt lyke an. amyce.

And thou ſhalte make a mercyſeate of pure golde. ii. cubytes and an halfe longe and a cubyte and an halfe brode. And make. ii. Cherubyns of thycke golde on thee ii. endes of the mercyſeate: and ſet the one Cherub on the one ende, and thee other on the other ende of the mercyſeate, ſo ſe that thou make them on the twoo endes there-

therof. And the Cherubyns shall stretche theyr wynges abrode ouer an hye, and couer the mercyseate wythe theyr wynges, & theyr faces shall loke one to another: euen to the mercyseate warde, shall the faces of the Cherubims be. And thou shalt put the mercyseate aboue vpon the arcke, & in the arcke thou shalt put the wytnesse whyche I wyll geue the.

There I wyl mete the and wyl comon with the frō vpon the mercyseate from be twene the two Cherubyns which are vpō the arke of wytnesse, & of al thing whyche I wyll geue the in cōmaūdemēt vnto the chyldren of Israell.

¶ Thou shalt also make a table of sethim wood of two cubytes longe & one cubyte brode and a cubytt and an half hye. And couer it wyth pure golde, & make therto a crowne of gold round aboute. And make vnto that an whope of .iiii. fingers brode, round about. And make a golden crowne also to ỹ whope round aboute. And make for it .iiii. rynges of golde & put thē in the corners that ar on the .iiii. fete therof: cuē harde vnder the whope shal the rynges be to put in staues to beare the table wythal. And thou shalt make staues of Sethym wood & ouerlaye them with gold, that the table may be borne wyth them. And thou shalt make hys dysshes, spones, pottes & flatpeces to poure out wythal, of fyne golde. And thou shalt sette vpon the table, ✠ shewebread before me al waye.

And thou shalt make a candelstick of pure thicke golde with his shaft, brāches, bolles, knoppes and floures proceadynge ther out. Syxe braūches shal procede out of the sydes of the candelsticke. iii. oute of the one side & .iii. out of the other. And ther shalbe .iii. cuppes lyke vnto almondes wt knoppes & floures vpon euery one of the vi. braūches that procede out of the cādelsticke: & in the candelstick selfe. .iiii. cuppes lyke vnto almōdes wyth theyr knoppes & floures: that ther be a knop vnder euery .ii. braunches of the syxe that procede out of the cādelsticke. And thee knoppes and the braunches shalbe all together, one pece of pure thycke golde.

And thou shalt make .vii. lampes and put thē an hye theron, to geue lighte vnto the other syde that is ouer against it: with snoffers & fyne pannes of pure gold. And an hundred pounde weyght of fyne gold shall make it wyth all the apparell. ✠ And se that thou make thē after the facion that was shewed the in the mounte. Ex. xxv.

The Notes.

✠ Shewbread because it was alwayes in the presence and syghte of the Lorde.

The .xxvi. Chapter.

And thou shalt make an habitacion wyth ten curtaynes of twyned * bysse, ✠ Jacynct scarlet and purpull, & thalte make them wyth Cherubyns of broderd worke. The length of a curtayne shalbe .xxviii. cubytes, and thee bredth .iiii. and they shalbe all of one measure: fyue curtaynes shalbe coupled together one to another: & the other fyue lykewyse shal be coupled together one to another. A * Byssus is a kynde of fyne lynen of Egipt

Then shalte thou make loupes of Jacincte coloure, a longe by the edge of thee one curtayne euē in ỹ selueedge of the couplinge curtayne. And likewyse shalt thou make in the edge of the vtmost curtayne that is coupled therwith on the other syde fyftye loupes shalt thou make in the one curtayne, & fyftye in the edge of the other that is coupled therwyth on the other syde: so that the loupes be one ouer agaynst another. And thou shalt make fyftye buttons of gold, and couple the curtayns together wyth the buttōs: that it may be an habitacyon.

And thou shalte make .xi. curtaynes of gotes here, to be a tente to couer the habitation. The lengthe of a curtayne shalbe .xxx. cubites, & the bredth .iiii. & they shalbe al .xi. of one measure. And thou shalt couple .v. by thē selues, & the other syxe by thē selues, & shalte double the sixte in the fore frōt of the tabernable. And thou shalt make fyftie loupes in the edge of the vtmost curtayne on the one syde, euen in the couplinge courtayne: & as manye in the edge of the couplinge curtayne on the other syde. And thou shalte make fyftye buttons of brasse and putt thē on the loupes, and couple couple the tent to gether wyth all, that ther may be one couering.

And thee remnaunt that resteth in thee curtaynes of thee tente: euen thee bredeth of halfe a curtayn that resteth, shalbe lefte on the backe sydes of the habytacion: a cubyte on thee one syde and a cubyte on thee other syde, of that that remaynethe in thee length of the curtaynes of the tabernacles whyche shall remayne of ether syde of the habytacyon to couer it with all.

And thou shalt make another coueryng for the tent of rames skynes dyed red and yet another aboue all of taxus skynes.

And thou shalt make bordes for the habytacion of sethim wod to stonde vp right te: ten cubytes longe shall euery borde be and a cubyte and a halfe brode. Two fete shal one bord haue to couple thē to gether wythe all, and so thou shalt make vnto al thee bordes of thee habytacyon.

¶ The facyon of the bordes of the tabernacle wyth theyr fete, sockettes and barres

And thou shalt make .xx. bordes for the habytacyon on the southe syde, and thou shalt make .xl. sockettes of syluer and put thē vnder ỹ .xx. bordes, ii. sockets vnder euery bord for theyr .ii. fete. In lyke maner in the north syde of thee habytacyon there shalbe .xx bordes and .xl. sockettes of syluer: two sokettes vnder euery borde.

And for the west end of the habytacyō shalt ỹ make syxe bordes & .ii. bordes moo for ỹ two west corners of the habitacyon so that thes two bordes be coupled together beneth and lykewyse aboue with clāpes. And so shall it be in both the corners. And so there shalbe .viii. bordes in all āde xvi. sokettes of syluer .ii. sockettes vnder euery borde.

And thou shalt make barres of sethim wod fyue for the bordes of the syde of the tabernacle, and fyue for the other syde: ād fyue for the bordes of the west ende. And the mydle barr shall goo alonge thorowe the myddes of the bordes and barre them together from the one ende vnto the other. And thou shalte couer thee bordes wythe golde and make goldenrynges for them to put the barres thorow, and shalt couer thee barres wythe golde also. And rere vp the habitacion according to the facyon thereof that was shewed thee in thee mounte.

And thou shalte make a vayle of Jacincte, of scarlett, purpull & twyned bysse, and shalt make it of broderd worke & full of Cherubins. And hange it vpon .iiii. pylers of sethim wood couered wyth gold also and stond vpon .iiii. sockettes of syluer. And thou shalt hange vp the vayle wyth rynges, & shalt bring in wythin the vayle the arcke of wytnesse. And the vayle shall deuyde the holy frō the ✠ moste holy. And thou shalt put the mercyseate vpon the arke of wytnesse in the holyeste place. And thou shalte putte the table wythoute thee vayle and candelsticke ouer agaynste the table vpon the south syde of the habitatiō And put the table on the north syde.

And thou shalt make an hanginge for the dooze of the tabernacle: of Jacincte, of scarlette, of purpull and of twyned bysse wroughte wythe nedle worke. And thou shalte make for the hanging .v. pylers of sethim wood, and couer both them and theyr knoppes with golde, and shalte cast fyue sockettes of brasse for them.

The Notes.

✠ Jacynct is a floure that we call a vyolet: and it is also a precyous stone of the coloure therof: but here it is take only for the coloze of Jacinct of whi the coloure thee curtaynes shulde be of, as afore in the .xxv. a.

✠ The most holy place, was the secrett and inwarde place of the sanctuary, wherin stode the arke & the mercyseate, into which none but the prestes only myght come, and that but once a yeare. The figure of wyche thynge is declared in the Hebrewes ix. a. iii. Regum. vi. c

C Aarons apparell, and hys sonnes.

The. xxviii. Chapter.

AND take thou vnto the Aarõ thy brother and hys sonnes I wyth hym, from amonge the childrẽ of Israel, that he may mynister vnto me, both Aarõ Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, ✠ Ithamar Aarons sonnes. And thou shalte make holye rayment for Aaron thy brother, both honorable and glorious. Moreouer speake vnto all that are wyse harted, which I haue fylled with the spirite of wysdom: that they make Aarons rayment to consecrate him with, that he maye minister vnto me.

These are the garmentes whyche they shall make: a ✠ brestlap, Ephod, a tunicle a strayte cote, a myter and a gyrdell. And they shal make holy garmentes for Aarõ thy brother ✠ his sonnes that he may minister vnto me. And they shall take thetto golde, Iacinct, scarlett, purpull and bisse.
And they shal make the Ephod of golde, B
Iacinct scarlett, purpull, and whyte twyned bysse with broderd worke. The two sydes shal come together, closed vp in the edges thereof. And the gyrdell of thee Ephod shall be of the same workemanshyp and of the same stuffe, euen of golde, Iacincte, scarlette, purpull and twyned bisse.

And thou shalt take two Onix stones, and graue in thẽ the names of the chyldrẽ of Israel: sixe in the one stone, ✠ the other sixe in the other stone: according to the order of theyr birth. After the worke of a stone grauer, euẽ as signettes ar grauẽ, shalte thou graue the. ii. stones with ẏ names of the childrẽ of Israel, ✠ shalte make thẽ to be set in ouches of gold. And thou shalte put the two stones vpon the two shoulders of the Ephod, and they shalbe stones of remembraunce vnto the childrẽ of Israell. And Aaron shall beare theyr names before the Lorde vpon hys two shoulders C for a remembraũce. And thou shalt make hokes of gold and two chenes of fyne golde: lynkewoorke and wrethed, and fasten ẏ wrethed cheynes to the hokes:

And thou shalt make the brestlappe of iudgement wyth broderd worke: euen after the worke of the Ephod shalt thou make it: of gold, iacyncte, scarlet, purple and twyned bysse shalte thou make it. Fore square it shalbe ✠ double *an hand brede Exod. xxviii. d longe and an hand brede brode. And thou shalte fyll it with iiii. rowes of stones. In thee fyrst rowe shalbe a Sardyos, a Topas and *Smaragdus. The second row Dyan∈me raude. *Some te de a carbũcle. a *Rubye, Saphyr dyamond. The thyrd Lygurpos an Achat and Amatyst. Thee fourth, a Turcas, Onyx and Jaspys. And they shalbe set in gold in theyr inclosers. And the stones shalbe grauen as signettes be grauen: with the names of thee chyldren of Israell euen wyth xii. names euerye one wyth hys name accordynge to the xii. trybes.

D And thou shalt make vpon the breyst lappe two fastening cheynes of pure gold ✠ wrethẽ worke. And ẏ shalte make lyke wyse vpon the brestlappe. ii. rynges of golde and put them on the edges of the brestlappe, and put thee. ii. wrethen cheynes of golde in the. ii. rynges whych are in the edges of thee brestlappe. And the. ii. endes of ẏ. ii. chenes thou shalt fastẽ in the. ii. ringes and put them vpon thee shulders of the Ephod on the forepside of it. And thou shalte yet make. ii. rynges of golde, and putt thẽ in the. ii edges of the brestlappe in the borders therof towarde thee inwarde of thee Ephod that is ouer agaynst it And yet. ii. other rynges of gold thou shalt make, and put thym on the. ii. sydes of the Ephod, beneth ouer agaynst the brestlappe alowe wher the sydes are ioyned to gether vpon the brodered gyrdell of the Ephod. And they shal bynde the brestlappe by hys rynges vnto the rynges of thee Ephod wyth a lace of iacynte, that it maye lye closse vnto the brodered gyrdel of the Ephod, that thee brestelappe be not loosed from thee Ephod.

E chyldren of Israel in the brestlapp of iudgement vpon his hert, when he goth in to the holy place for a remembraunce before the Lord alwaye. And thou shalt put in ẏ brestlappe of iudgemẽt ✠ vrim and Thumim: that they be euen vpon Aarons hert when he goeth in before the Lord and Aaron shall beare the ensample of the chyldren of Israell vpon hys harte before the Lord alwaye.

And thou shalt make the tunicle vnto the Ephod all together of Iacincte. And ther shalbe an hole for the head in the middes of it, and let ther be a bonde of wouen worke rounde aboute the coler of it (as it were the coler of a partlet) that it rent not. F
And beneth vpõ the hem, thou shalte make pongranates of Iacinct, of scarlet, and of purpull rounde aboute thee hem, and belles of golde betwene them rounde about: that there be euer a golden bell and a pomgranate, a golden bell and a pomgranate rounde aboute vpon the hem of the tunicle. And Aaron shall haue it vpon hym: when he mynystreth, that the sounde maye be herde when he goeth into the holy place before the Lorde and when he cometh out, that he dye not.

And thou shalte make a plate of pure golde, and graue thereon (as sygnettes ar grauen) b✠ The holynes of the Lord, and put it on a lace of Iacinct ✠ tye it vnto the myter, vnto thee forefronte of it, that it be vpon Aarons forehead: that Aaron beare the ✠ synne of the holy thinges whych the childrẽ of Israel haue halowed in al theyr holye gyftes. And it shalbe alwayes vpõ G
Aarons forehead, that they may be accepted before the Lord.

And thou shalt make an albe of bysse, and thou shalt make a myter of bisse, ✠ a gyrdell of nedle worke.

And thou shalt make for Aarõs sõnes also cotes, gyrdels and bonettes honourable and glorious, and thou shalt put them vpon Aaron thy brother and on hys sonnes wyth hym ✠ shalt anoynte them ✠ fyll theyr handes and consecrate thẽ that they maye mynistre vnto me. And thou shalte make them lynen breches to couer theyr pryuitties: from the loynes vnto the thyes shall they reache. And they shalbe vpon Aaron and his sonnes, when they go into the *tabernacle of wytnesse, or when they Luke in ✠. xxvii. d it shalbe a lawe for euer vnto Aarō and hys sede after hym.

The Notes

a ¶ Brestlappe or brestlappe is soche a lappe as is in the brest of a cope.

a ¶ Urim and Thumin, ar Hebrue wordes: Urim signifieth light & Thumin perfectnes: & I thinke þ the one were stones that dyd glyster & had lyghte in thē, & the other clere stones as cristal. And the lyghte betokened the lyght of gods worde, & thee purenesse cleane lyuinge according to the same, & was therfore called the ensample of the childrē of Israel, because it put them in the remembraunce to seke Goddes worde and to doo there after.

b ¶ The holynes of þ lord, was a name of god, made with .iiii. lettres, which þ Hebrues durst not nesme for honour which they had to god, in stedewher of they sayde Adonay. Whyche we haue interpzete in Exod. vi. a by thys name Jehouah.

C The consecration of Aaron and hys sonnes.

The.xxix. Chapter.

A THys is thee thinge that thou shalt do vnto them whē thou halowest them to be my prie-stes. Take one ore & two rāmes that ar without blemish and vnleuēded bzead, and cakes of swete bzed tēpered wyth oyle & wafers of swete bzed anoynted wyth oyle (of whetē floure shalt thou make thē) & put thē in a maūde and bzinge them in the maunde wyth the ore and the .ii. rammes.

And bzynge Aaron & hys sonnes vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse, and washe thē with water, & take the garmentes, & put vpō Aaron: the strayte cote, and the tunicle of thee Ephod, and the Ephod and the brestlappe: & gyrd thē to him with the brodered gyrdell of the Ephod. And put the mytre vpon hys head and put the holye crowne vpon the myter. Then take the anoyntinge oyle and poure it vpō his head and anoynte hym. And bzynge hys sonnes and put albes vpon them, & gyrd them wyth gyrdels: as well Aaron as his sonnes. And put thee bonettes on thē that the prestes office maye be theyrs for a perpetuall lawe.

And fyl the handes of Aaron & of hys sonnes, and bzing the ore before the tabernacle of witnesse. * And let Aarō and hys sonnes put theyr handes vpō hys head & kyll hym before the lord in the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And take of thee bloude of the ore & put it vpō the hoznes of the alter wyth thy fynger and poure al the bloude vpon thee botome of the alter, and take all thee fatte that coupereth thee inwardes, and thee kall that is on thee lyuer and thee .ii. kydneys with the fatt þ is vpon them: and burne them vpon thee alter: But the flesh of the ore & his skynne and hys donge shalte thou bourne wyth fyre wythout thee hoste. For it is a synne offerynge.

Then take one of the rāmes, & let Aarō and his sonnes put theyr hondes vpō the heade of thee rāme, and cause hym to be slayne and take of hys bloude and sprenkell it rounde aboute vpon the alter, and cutt the ram in peces ād wash the inwardes of him and his legges, and put them vnto thee peces & vnto his heed, & burne the hole ram vpō þ alter. For it is a burnt offerynge vnto the Lozde, and ¶ a swete sauoure of the Lozdes sacrifice.

And take the other ram and let Aaron and his sonnes put theyr hondes vpō his heed and let him than be killed. And take of hys bloude and put it vpon thee typpe of the ryght eare of Aarō and of hys sonnes, and vpon the thombe of theyr ryght handes and vpon thee greate too of theyr ryght fete and sprenkell the bloude vpon the alter rounde aboute.

Then take of the bloude that is vpon the alter and of the anoyntynge oyle, and sprenkell it vpō Aaron and his vestimentes, and vpon hys sonnes and vpon their garmētes also. Thē is he & his clothes holy & hys sonnes & theyr clothes holy also.

Then take the fatt of the ram and his rompe and the fat that coupereth the inwardes and the kall of the lyuer and the two kydneys and thee fatt that is vpon them and the ryght shoulder (for that ram is a full offrynig) and a cynnell of bzed and a cake of oyled bzed and a wafer out of the basket of swete bzed that is before þ lord and put all vpon the handes of Aaron & on the hādes of hys sōnes, & waue thē in & out a waueoffryng vnto þ Lord. Thē take it frō of theyr handes & burne it vpon thee aultar: euen vppon the burntoffrynge, to be a sauoure of swetnes before the Lozde. For it is a sacrifyce vnto thee Lozde. Then take thee brest of thee ram þ is Aarons fulloffrynge and waue it a waueofferynge before thee Lozde and lette that be thy parte. And sanctifie thee brest of the waueoffrynge and the shoulder shoulder of the heueoffrynge whyche is waued and heued vp of the ram whche is the fulloffring of Aaron and of hys sonnes. And it shalbe Aarōs and his sonnes dutye for euer of the childrē of Israel, for it is an heueoffring. And the heueoffring shalbe thee Lozdes dutye of thee childzen of Israell: euen of thee sacrifyce of theyr peaceoffrynges which they heue vnto the Lozde. And the holye garmentes of Aarō shalbe hys sonnes after hym, to anoynte them therin, and to fyll theyr handes therin. And that sonne that is prest in hys stede after hym shall put them on seuen dayes: that he goo into the tabernacle of wytnesse, to mynistre in the holy place.

Then take the ram that is the full offryng and sethe hys flesh in an holi place And Aaron and hys sonnes shal eate the flesshe of hym, & the bzed that is in the basket: euen in the doze of thee tabernacle of wytnesse. And they shall eate them, because thee attonemente was made therwyth to fyll theyr handes and to * sanctyfye thē: but a straunger shal not eate ther of, because they are holye.

Lo. in se ussuil. a

If oughte of the flesh of the ful offrinages or of the bzed remayne vnto the morynge thou shalte burne it wyth fyre: for it shall not be eated, because it is holye. And se thou doo vnto Aaron and his sonnes, euen so in all thinges as I hauecommaunded the: that thou fyl theyr handes seuen dayes and offre euery daye an ore for a synne offrynge for to reconcyle with all. And thou shalt halowe the alter when thou reconcyleste it and shalte anoynte it to sanctifye it. Seuen dayes thou shalte reconcyle the alter & sanctyfye it þ it maye be an alter most holye: so that no mā maye touche it but they that be consecrate.

Thys is that whiche thou shalte offer vpon the alter. ii. lambes of one yere olde, daye by daye for euer the one thou shalte offer in thee morninge and the other at euen. And vnto the one lambe take a tenth deale of floure myngled wyth the fourth parte of an hin of beatē oyle, & the fourth parte of an hin of wyne, for a drynckeoffrynge. And thee other lampe thou shalte offer at euen and shalt doo therto accordynge to thee meatoffrynge and drynckeoffrynge in the morynge, to be an odour of a swete sauoure of the sacrifyce of the Lozde. And it shalbe a continuall burntofferynge amonge youre childzen after you, in the dooze of the tabernacle of wytnesse before the Lozd, where I wyll mete you to speake vnto you ther. Ther I wyl mete wyth the childzen of Israell, & wyl be sanctified in myne honour. And I wyl sanctifye the tabernacle of wytnesse & the alter: & I wyl sanctifye also bothe Aaron and hys sonnes to be my prestes. And no reouer I wyll dwell amonge the childzen of Israell & wyll be theyr God. And they shall knowe that I am the lord theyr god that brought them out of the lande of Egypt for to dwell amonge them: euē I the Lozde theyr God.

C Thee altare of incense. Thee brasen lauer. Thee anoyntynge oyle.

The.xxx. Chapter.

AND thou shalt make an alter to burne cense therin, of Sethim wod: a cubyte longe, & a cubyte brode, euē foure lquare shall it be &. ii. cubytes hye wyth hoznes proceading out of it, & thou shalt ouerlaye it wyth fyne gold both the rofte & the walles rounde aboute, and hys hoznes also, & shalt make vnto it a crowne of gold rounde about. &. ii. golden ringes on ether side, euē vnder the crowne, to put staues therein for to beare it withall. And thou shalt make the staues of sethim wod and couer thē with golde. And thou shalt put it before the vayle that hangeth before the arcke of wytnesse, & before the mercyseate that is before the wytnesse, wher I wyll mete the.

And Aaron shall burne thereon swete cense euery morning when he dresseth the lampes: and likewyse at euen when he setteth vppe the lampes he shall burne cense perpetually before the Lozde thorow out your generacions. Ye shall put no straunge cense thereon, neyther burnte sacrifyce nor meate offerynge, neyther poure anye drynke offerynge thereon.

bornes of it once in a yere, wyth ỹ bloud of the synne offerynge of reconcylynge: euen once in thee yere shall he reconcyle it thorow youre generacyons. And so is it most holye vnto the Lorde.

Num.i a And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge:* when thou takest the summe of ỹ chyldren of Israel and tellest them, they shall geue euery man a reconcylynge of hys soule vnto the Lorde that there be no plage among them when thou tellest thẽ And thus moch shal euery man giue that goeth in the nombre: halfe a sycle, after Le.xxvii.d Num.iii.g Exo.xxx.b the sycle* of the sanctuarye: a sycle is.xx. geeras: and an halfe sycle shalbe the heue offrynge vnto thee Lord. And al that are nombred of them that are.xx. yere olde & aboue shall geue an heue offrynge vnto the Lorde. The ryche shall not passe, and the poore shal not goo vnder halfe a sicle when they geue an heue offrynge vnto the Lord for ỹ attonement of theyr soules And thou shalte take thee reconcylynge money of thee chyldren of Israel & shalt put it vnto ỹ vse of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and it shall be a memoryall of thee chyldren of Israell before the Lorde too make an attonement for theyr soules.

C Exodi.xl.d And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge:* ỹ shalt make a lauer of brasse and hys fote also of brasse to washe with al. and shalt put it betwene the tabernacle of wytnesse and the alter* and put water therin: that Aaron and hys sonnes maye wash both theyr hãdes and theyr fete thee out, when they goo into the tabernacle of wytnes, or when they go vnto the altare to mynister and to burne the Lordes offring lest they dye. And it shalbe an ordinaunce for euer vnto him and hys seede amonge youre chyldren after you.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge take pryncypall spyces: of pure mirre fyue hundred sycles, of swete synamõ halfe so moch two hundreth and fyftie sycles: of swete calampte two hundred and l. Of cassia two hundred and l. after the holy sycle, and of oyle olyue an hyn. And make of thẽ a holy anoyntynge oyle eue an oyle compounde after the crafte of the apotycare. And noynt the tabernacle of wytnesse therewyth & the arke of wytnesse & the table wyth al his apparel & the candelsticke wyth all his ordinaunce, and the alter of incense, and thee alter of burntsacrifyce and all hys vessels, and thee lauer and hys foote. And sacrifye thẽ that they may be most holye: so that no man touche thẽ, but they that be halowed. And anoynt Aaron & hys sonnes and consecrate thẽ to D mynister vnto me.

And thou shalt speake vnto the childre of Israel sayinge: this shalbe an holy oyntyng oyle vnto me, thorow out your generacõs. No mãs flesh shalbe anoynted therwith: nether shall ye make any other after the making of it for it is holy, se therfore that ye take it for holy: whosoeuer maketh lyke that, or whosoeuer putteth ãye of it vpon a straunger, shal perysshe from amonge hys people.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: take vnto the, swete spices: stacte, onycha, swete galbanũ & pure frankencense, of etche lyke moch: & make cens of thẽ cõpounde after the crafte of the apoticarye, myngled together, ỹ it may be made pure & holy. And beate it to pounder, and putt it before the wyttnesse in thee tabernacle of wyttnesse, where I wyll mete the, but lett it be vnto you holy. And se that ye make none after the makyng of that, but let it be vnto you holy for the Lorde. And whosoeuer shall make lyke vnto that, to smell thereto shal perysshe from amonge hys people.

a‡ This holy anoynting oyle doth figure the vertue of the holy goost declared or shewed by the worde of god: descendinge downe fyrst on the head of Aaron which is christ & consequently vpon the Apostles & al the faythful, as in Psalme.c xxiii.a

C The callinge of Bezaleel and Aholiab the worke men. The Sabboth is commaunded. Thee tables of stone are geuen Moyses.

The.xxxi. Chapter.

I Exo.xxxv.a And the lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: behold, *I haue called by name, Bezaleel the sonne of Ury, sonne too Hur of the tribe of Juda. And I haue fylled him wyth thee spyrete of God, with wysdom, vnderstanding & knowledge: euen in all maner worke, to fynd oute fotle feaytes, to worke in gold syluer and brasse and with the crafte to graue stones to set and to carue in tymbre and to worke in all maner workemanshypp. And beholde, I haue geuen him to be hys compaC nion Aholiab the sonne of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan, & in ỹ hartes of all that are wyse harted I haue putte wysdom to make all that I haue cõmaunded the: the tabernacle of wytnesse, & the arke of wytnesse, and the mercy seate that is ther vpõ all the ornamentes of the tabernacle, & the table with hys ordinaunce, & the pure candelsticke wyth all his apparell, and the alter of incẽs, & the alter of burntoffrynges wyth all hys vessels, and the lauer wythe hys fote, and the vestimentes to mynister in, and the holy garmentes for Aaron the Preest, and the garmentes of hys sonnes too mynister in, and thee anoyntynge oyle and the swete cense for the sanctuarye: according to al as I haue cõmaunded the shall they doo.

C And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell and saye: in any wyse see that ye kepe my ‡Sabboth, for it shalbe a sygne betwene me & you in your generacõs for to know that I the Lorde do sanctifye you. Kepe my Sabboth therfore, that it be an holye thinge vnto you. He that defyleth it shalbe slayne therfore. For whosoeuer worketh therein, the same soule shalbe rooted out from among hys people. Sixe dayes shall men worke, but the seuenthe daye is the Sabboth of the holye reste of the Lord so that whosoeuer doth any worke in thee Sabboth daye, shall dye for it: wherfore D lette the Chyldren of Israel kepe the Sabboth, that thei obserue it thorow out theyr generations, that it be an appoyntemente for euer. For it shalbe a sygne betwene me and the chyldren of Israell for euer. *Gen.ii.b For in syxe dayes the Lorde made heaue and earth and the seuenthe daye he rested and was refreshed.

And when he had made an ende of comenynge wyth Moyses vpon the mount Exo.xxxiii.c and.xxxiv.b Sinai* he gaue hym two tables of wytnesse: which were of stone and writtẽ with the ‡fynger of God.

The Notes.

*‡ The Sabboth before that it serued to come and beare the worde of God, & to seke his wyll & to offer & reconcile thẽ selues vnto god. It was a signe vnto thẽ also & dyd put thẽ in remẽbraũce that it was god that sanctified thẽ with his holy spyrite & not they them selues wyth theyr holy workes.

‡ With the finger of god ỹ is: wyth the spirit of God, or wyth the power of god. as in Luk.xi.c

C The Israelites worship the golde calfe. Moyses prayeth for them, puttynge God in remembraunce of hys promyse. He breaketh the tables for ỹer. He chydeth Aaron. The idolaters are slayne. Moyses prayeth God to forgeue them, or to put hym out of the boke of lyfe.

The.xxxii. Chapter.

A And whẽ the people saw that it was long or Moses came downe out of the mountayn, they gathered thẽ selues together and came vnto Aaron & sayd vnto hym.* Up and make vs a god Actes.vii.c to go before vs: for of thys Moses the fellowe that brought vs out of the lande of Egypt, we wote not what is become.

And Aaron sayd vnto them: plucke of the golden earynges whych are in the eares of youre wyues, youre sonnes and of youre daughters: and bringe them vnto me. And all the people plucked of the golde earynges that were in theyr eares, and brought them vnto Aaron. And he* receaued them of theyr handes and facioned it Psa.cv.b wyth a grauer and made it a calfe of molten metall. And they sayde:* Thys is thy iii.reg.xii.c God O Israel, whych brought the out of the lande of Egypte.

And when Aarõ sawe that, he made an B alter before it, & made a proclamaciõ sayinge to morow shalbe holy daye vnto the Lord. And they rose vp in the morninge & offered burntoffrynges, and brought offringes of attonemẽt also.* And thã they i.Corin.x.b satt them downe to eate and drinke, & rose vp agayne to playe.

Then the Lord sayd vnto Moyses:* Deute.ix.b goo gett the downe, for the people whyche thou brought est out of the land of Egipt haue mared al, they are turned at once out Psal.cv.b,c of the waye which I cõmaũded thẽ:* and haue made thẽ a calfe of molten metall, & haue worshypped it & haue offred therto and haue sayd: Thys is thy god thou Israell, whych hath brought the out of thee land of Egypt. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: behold,* I se this people ỹ it is a C Exo.xxxiii.a stYke necked people, & now therfore suffre me ỹ my wrath may ware hote vpon thẽ, and that I may consume thẽ: and thẽ wyll I make of the a myghty people.

Thẽ Moyses besought the Lorde his God and sayde: O Lorde, why shuld thy wrathe ware hote vpon thy people, whyche thou hast brought out of the lande of Egypte

Nū.xiiij.c of Egipt with great power & with a migh ty hand: *wherfore shuld the Egyptians speake and saye: For a myschefe dyd he bringe the out: euen for to slee them in the mountaynes, & to consume them from the face of the earthe. Turne from thy fearfe wrath, and haue compassion ouer the wyc kednesse of thy people. Remēbre Abrahā, Isaac and Israel thy seruauntes, to whō
thou swarest by thyne owne selfe and say dest vnto them: *I wyll multiplye youre sede as the starres of heauen, and all thys lande whyche I haue sayde: I wyll geue
vnto youre seede: and they shall enheret it for euer. And the lord refrayned hym selfe from that euell, whyche he sayde he wolde
do vnto hys people.

Deu.xiiij.c
x.xv.b.xii.a

And Moyses turned hys backe & wēt
downe from the hyl, & the.ii. tables of wit nesse in his hand: whyche were written on both the leaues & were the worke of God,
and the writyng was the wryting of god
grauen vpon the tables. And whē Io.ua herde the noyse of the people as they shou ted, he sayd vnto Moyses: ther is a noyse of warre in the hoste. And he said: it is not the crye of them that haue the maistie, nor of thē that haue the worse: but I do heare
the noyse of syngynge.

And as soone as he came nye vnto the hoste and sawe the calfe and the daūsinge
hys wrath wared hote, and he cast the ta bles out of hys hande, and brake thē euen
at the hyll fote. And he toke the calfe why che they had made and burned it with fyr
re, and stampte it vnto powder and straw de it in the water, and made the chyldrē of Israell drynke. And than Moyses sayde vnto Aaron: what dyd thys people vnto
the that thou hast brought so great a syn vpon them.

And Aaron sayd: let not the wrathe of my Lorde waxe fearse, thou knoweste the people that they are euen set on mysche fe:
they sayde vnto me: make vs a god to go before vs, for we wote not what is beco me of Moyses thee felowe that brought vs out of the lande of Egypt. And I said vnto them: lett them that haue golde, take and bringe it me: and I cast it into the fyr
re, and there of came out this calfe.

When Moyses sawe that thee people were naked (for Aaron had made them na ked vnto theyr shame when they made in surrection) he wēt and stode in the gate of the hoste & sayd: Yf any mā pertayne vn to the Lorde, lett hym come to me. And all the sonnes of Leui gathered them selues together and came vnto hym. And he said vnto them, thus sayth the Lord of Israel
*put euery man hys swerde by hys syde,
and go in and out from gate to gate thor
row out the hoste: and slee euery man hys
brother, euery mā his frend and euery mā hys neyghbour. And the chyldrē of Leui dyd as Moyses had sayde. * And there were slayne of the people the same day, a boute thre thousande men. Then Moy ses sayd: fyl youre handes vnto the Lord thys day, euery man vpon hys sonne and vpon hys brother: to bringe vpon you a blessynge thys daye.

1.Cor.x.

And on the morow, Moyses sayde vn
to the people: Ye haue synned a great syn
But now I wyl go vp vnto the Lord, to wyte whether I can make an attonement for your synne.

And Moyses went agayn vnto the lor de & sayd: Oh, thys people haue synned a great synne & haue made thē a god of gol
de: Yet forgeue them theyr synne I praye
the: Yf not at wype me oute of thy booke whych thou hast wrytten. And the Lorde sayd vnto Moyses: I wyll putt hym out of my boke that hath synned agaynst me.
But go & bringe the people vnto the lāde whych I sayd vnto the: beholde, myne an gell shall go before the. Neuerthelater in the day whē I vyset, I wyl bat vyset theyr synne vpon the. And the Lord plaged the people, because they made the calfe which Aaron made.

The Notes.

a‡ To wype hym out of the boke, is to putte hym
oute of the nombre of the chosen and too caste hym cleane out from god, as Roma.ix.a

b‡ To vyset theyr synne: is to haue theyr sinne in remembraunce to punishe it as in Gene.l.d.

¶ The Lorde sendeth an angell before hys people. The Lorde denyeth to goo vp with the people. The people lamēt theyr synne. Moyses talketh wyth the Lorde and desyreth to se hys face: and is commaun ded to stande vpon the rocke

The.xxxiij. Chapter

And thee Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: depart and go hen ce: bothe thou and the people which thou hast brought out of the lād of Egipt, vnto the lande whych I swore vnto Abrahā, Isa ac & Jacob sayinge: vnto thy sede I wyll
geue it. * And I wyl sende an angel befo re the, & wyll cast oute the Cananytes, the Amorites, thee Hethites, thee Pherezites,
the Heuithes, & thee Jebusytes: that thou mayst go into a lād that floweth with myl ke and hony. But I wyll not go amonge you my self, for ye are a stifnecked people lest I consume you by the way. And whē the people herde thys euel tydynges, they sorowed: and no man dyd put on hys best rayment.

Gene.xlv.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, say vnto the chyldren of Israell: ye are a styf necked people: I must come once sodenly vpon you, and make an ende of you. But now put your goodly rayment from you,
that I maye wete what too do vnto you.
And thee chyldren of Israell layde theyr goodly rayment from them euē vnder the mount Horeb.

And Moyses toke the tabernacle & pit ched it without the hoste a farre of frō the hoste, & called it the tabernacle of witnesse
And all that wold are any question of the Lord, wēt out vnto the tabernacle of wyt nesse whych was wythoute the hoste. And when Moyses went out vnto the taberna cle, all the people rose vp & stode euery mā
in his tent doze and loked after Moyses, vntyll he was gone into thee tabernacle.
And as soone as Moses was entred into the tabernacle, the cloudē pyler descēded &
stode in the doze of the tabernacle, & he tal ked wyth Moyses. And when all the peo ple sawe the clouden pyler stande in the ta bernacle doze, they rose vp & worshipped:
euery man in his tent doze.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses at face to face, as a man speaketh vnto hys frende. And whē Moyses turned agayne into the hoste, the ladd Josua his seruaūt
the sonne of Nun departed not out of the tabernacle. And Moses sayd vnto the lor de: se, thou saydest vnto me: leade this peo ple forth, but thou sheweste me not whom thou wylt send wyth me. And haste sayde moreouer: I know the by name and thou hast also found grace in my syght: Now therfore, yf I haue founde fauoure in thy syghte, then shewe me thy waye & lette me knowe the: that I may fynde grace in thy syghte. And looke on thys also, howe that thys nacion is thy people.

And he sayd: my presence shal go with the, and I wyl geue the rest. And he sayd:
Yf thy presence go not wyth me, carye vs
not hense for howe shall it be knowē now that bothe I and thy people haue founde
fauour in thy sight, but in that thou goest wyth vs: that bothe I and thy people ha ue a preemynence before all thee people that are vpon the face of thee earthe. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: I wyl do thys also that thou haste sayde, for thou hast founde grace in my syght, & I know the by name.

And he sayde: I beseche thee, shewe me thy glorie: And he said: I wil make al my good go before the, and I wyl be called in thys name Jehouah before the, & wyl shе
we mercy to whom I shewe mercy, & wyll
haue compassion on whom I haue com passion. And he sayde furthermore: thou mayst not se my face, for ther shal noma se me and lyue.

And the Lord sayd: beholde, there is a place by me, and thou shalt stande vpona rocke, and whyle my glorye goeth forth I wyl put the in a clyfte of the rocke, & wyll put myne hand vpō the whyle I passe by
And then I wyl take away myne hand, & thou shalt se my backe partes: but my fa ce shall not be sene.

The Notes.

a‡ To se God, or to speake to God face too face,
is: to haue a manifeste & a sure knowledge of hym,
as in Genesis.xxxij.g

b‡ Ther shal no man se my face and lyue. Not the face of god, which is the face of lyfe, is the cause of death to them that se it, for the sayntes that are in heuē do in dede se it. But that none that lyueth in the body can se nor cōprehend the maiestye of his face: but must be fyrst purifyed by death, as Paul declareth. i. Cor.xv.g

¶ The tables are renued. The mercye of God. To is the thing whych the Lorde cōmaunded sayinge: Geue from among you an heue-offringe, vnto the Lorde.

All that are wyllynge in theyꝛ hartes,
shall bynge heueoffringes vnto the Lord
gold, syluer, brasse, a & Jacinct, scarlet, pur pull, bysse, and b & gootes hayre: rammes skynnes redd and taxus skinnes and se thim wood: and oyle foꝛ lyghtes and spices foꝛ ỹ anoyntynge oyle and foꝛ the swe te cens: And Onix stones, and stones too be sette foꝛ the Ephod, and foꝛ the brestlappe.

And let all thē ỹ are wyse harted amōg B
you, come & make all that the Lorde hath cōmaunded: the habitacion & the tent ther of wyth hys couering and his ringes, boꝛ
des, barres, pylers & sockettes: thee arcke,
and the staues therof wyth the mercyseat
and the vayle that couereth it: thee table &
hys staues wythall that pertayneth ther-to & the shewebread: thee candelstycke of lyght wyth hys apparell and hys lampes
and the oyle foꝛ the lyghtes: the cens altar and hys staues, the annoyntyng oyle and the swete cens and thee hangynge befoꝛe
the tabernacle dooꝛe: the alter of burntsacryfyces and his brasen gꝛedyern that lō-geth therto wyth hys staues & all hys oꝛ-dynaunce and the lauer and hys fote, thee hangynges of the courte wyth his pylers and theyꝛ sockettes, and the hangynge to the dooꝛe of the courte: the pynnes of thee habytation, and the pynnes of the courte wyth theyꝛ boꝛdes: the mynystynge garmentes to mynyster wyth in holynes, and the holy vestymentes of Aaron the Prest and the vestimentes of hys sonnes to my nyster in.

And all the company of the chyldrē of Israel departed frō the presence of Moy C
ses. And they went (as many as theyꝛ har tes coꝛaged thē and as many as theyꝛ spi
rites made them willinge) and broughte heueoffeynges vnto the Lord, to the ma
kynge of the tabernacle of wytnesse & foꝛ al his vses & foꝛ the holy vestimētes. And the men came with the wemen (euē as many as were willynge harted) and bꝛought bracelettes, earynges, ryngs, & gyrdels and al maner Jewels of golde. And all thee men that waued wauceoffeynges of gold vnto the Lorde, and euery mā wyth whom was found Jacinct, scarlette, pur-pull, & bysse oꝛ gootes hayre oꝛ reed skyn nes, of rāmes oꝛ taxus skynnes, bꝛought
it. And all that howe vp golde oꝛ brasse, bꝛought an heueofferinge vnto the Lord
And all men wyth whom was founde se-thym wood mete foꝛ any maner woꝛke oꝛ seruyce, bꝛought it.

And

And all the wemen that were wyse herted to wozke wyth theyr handes, spāne, & brought the spōne wozke, both of Jacinct scarlet, purpull and bysse. And all the wemē that excelled in wysdom of herte, span the gotes hayre. And the Lozdes brought Onix stones and set stones foz the Epod, and foz the brestlappe, and spyce and oyle both foz the lyghtes & foz the annoynting oyle & foz the swete cens. And the chyldrē
D of Israel brought wyllyng offrynges vn to the Lozd, both men & wemen: as many as theyr hartes made thē wylling to bryng, foz all maner wozkes whych the Lozd had commaunded too make by the hande of Moyses.

And Moyses sayde vnto the chyldren
Exo. xxxi. a of Israell: beholde, *the Lozd had called by name of Bezaleel the sonne of Ury the sonne of Hur of thee trybe of Juda, and hath fylled hym wyth thee spryte of God, with wysdomme, vnderstanding & knowledge, euen in all maner wozke, & to fynde out curious wozkes, to wozke in gold, syluer and brasse: and wyth grauinge of stones to sett, & wyth kerupnge in wood and to wozke in al maner of sotle wozkes. And he hath putte in hys harte the grace to teache: bothe hym and Ahaliab thee sonne of Ahisamach of the trybe of Dan hathe he fylled wyth wysdom of harte, to wozke al maner of grauen wozke: they are also bozderers & wozkers wyth nedle, in Jacinct scarlett, purple and bysse, and are weuers that can make all maner wozke, and cā de vyse sotle wozkes.

The .xxxvi. Chapter.

A Nd Bezaleel wroughte & Ahaliab & all wyse harted men to whom the Lozd hath geuē wysdom and vnderstanding to know how to wozke al maner wozke foz the holye serupce, in all that the Lozde cōmaunded. And Moyses called foz Bezaleel Ahaliab and all the wyse harted men in whose hartes the Lozd had put wysdom, euen as many as theyr hartes sozaged to come vnto ꝯ wozke to wozke it. And they receaued of Moyses al the heueoffrynges which the chyldren of Israell had brought foz the wozke of the holy serupce too make it wythall. And they brought besyde that wyllyng offerynges euery mozninge.

And all the wysemen that wrought al the holy wozke, came euery man from his wozke whych they made, and spake vnto Moyses saying: the people bryng to moch and aboue that is ynough to serue foz the werke which the Lozd hath commaunded to make. And Moyses gaue a commaundemēt, and they caused it to be proclamed thozow out the hoste sayinge: se that neyther man noz woman prepare any moare wozke foz the holy heueoffering, and soch people were fozbidden too brynge: foz the stuffe they hadd, was suffycient foz them vnto all the wozke, to make it & to moche.

And al the wyse harted men amōg thē that wroughte in the wozke of the habytacio made: euē .x. curtaynes of twined bisse Jacinct, scarlet and purple, and made thē full of Cherubyns wyth brodērd wozke. The lengthe of one curtayne was .xxviii. cubytes, and the bredthe .iiii. and were all of one syse. And they coupled fyue curtaynes by them selues, and other fyue by thē selues. And they made fyfty louppes of Jacincte a long by the edge of the vtmost curtayne, euen in the seluedge of the couplinge curtayne. And lykewyse they made on the syde of the vtmost coupling curtayne, on the other side, fyfty loupes they made in the one curtayne, and fyfty in the edge of the couplynge curtayne on thee other syde: so that the loupes were one ouer agaynst another.

And they made fyfty rynges of gold, and coupled the curtaynes one to another wyth the rynges: & so was it made a dwellynge place.

And they made .xi. curtaynes of gootes hayre to be a tente ouer the tabernacle. xxx cubites long a pece and .iiii. cubites brode and they all .xi. of one syse. And they coupled .v. by them selues, and .vi. by thē selues, and they made fyfty loupes alonge by the borde of the vtmost couplyng curtayne on the one syde, and fyfty in the edge of the couplynge curtayne on the other syde. And they made fyfty riges of brasse ¶

¶ to couple the tent together that it myghte be one. And they made a coueringe vnto the tente of rammes skynnes reedde, and yet another of taxus skynnes aboue all.

And they made bordes foz the dwellinge place of sethim wod that stode vpright euery borde ten cubytes longe and a cubyte and an halfe brode. And they made two fete to euerye borde of the dwellyng place toynynge one to another. And they made twentye bordes foz the southesyde of thee habytacion, and .xl. sockettes of syluer vnder the twentie boordes, two sockettes vnder euerye boorde, euen foz the two fete of of thē. And foz the other syde of the dwellinge towarde the northe, they made other twentye boordes wyth .xl. sockettes of syluer two sockettes vnder euery borde. And behynde in the ende of the tabernacle toowarde the weste, they made syxe bordes & two other bordes, foz the corners of the habytatiō behynde, & they were toyned closse
D bothe beneth and also aboue wythe clampes and thus they dyd to both the corners so they were in all eyght boordes and .xvi. sockettes, vnder euery borde .ii. sockettes.

And they made barres of Sethym wood fyue foz the bordes of thee one syde of the habytacion, and fyue foz the other, and fyue foz the boordes of the west ende of the habitacion. And they made the mid dell barre to shote thozowe the bordes: euē from the one ende to thee other, and ouerlayde thee bordes wythe golde, and made them ringes of golde to thrust the barres thozow, and couered the barres with golde. And they made an hangyng of iacinct of scarlet, purpull and twyned bysse with Cherubins of brodērd wozke. And made there vnto foure pylers of Sethim wod, and ouerlayde them wyth golde. Theyr knoppes were also of golde, and they cast foz them .iiii. sockettes of syluer. And they made an hangyng foz the tabernacle doze of Jacinct, scarlette, purpull and twyned bysse of nedle wozke, and thee pylers of it were fyue with theyr knoppes, and ouerlayde the heades of them and the whoppes with golde, wyth theyr fyue sockettes of brasse.

¶ The arke of wytnesse. The mercyseate. The table The candelsticke. The lyghtes. The altare and the incense.

The .xxxvii. Chapter.

A Nd Bezaleel made the arcke of sethem wodd two cubites A and an halfe long, and a cubyte and a halfe brode, and a cubyte, and a halfe hye and ouerlayde it wyth fyne golde bothe within and wythout, and made a crowne of golde to it rounde aboute, and cast foz it .iiii. rynges of golde foz the .iiii. cozners of it: two rynges foz the one syde and two foz the other, and made staues of sethym wodd and couered them with golde, and put thee staues in thee rynges alonge by by the syde of the arcke to bere it wyth al.

And he made thes‡ mercyseate of pure golde two cubytes and a halfe longe and one cubyte and a halfe brod, and made two Cherubyns of thycke gold vpon the ii. endes of ꝯ mercyseate: One Cherub on B thee one ende and a nother Cherub on the other ende of the mercyseate. And the Cherubyns spred out theyr wynges aboue an hye, and couered thee mercyseat therwith. And their faces were one to āother: euen to thee mercyseate warde, were thee faces of the Cherubyns.

And he made the table of sethem wodd two cubytes longe and a cubyte brode, & a cubite and a halfe highe, and ouerlayde it with fine golde, & made therto a crown of golde rounde about, and made therto an whope of an hande brede roūde about and made vnto thee whope a crowne of golde rounde aboute, and cast foz it .iiii. ringes of golde and put the ringes in the iiii. cozners by thee fete: euen vnder thee whope to put staues in to bere thee table with all. And he made staues of Sethim wodd & couered thē wythe golde to beare C the table with all, and made the vessels ꝯ were on the table of pure golde, the dysshes, spones, flatpeces & pottes to poure with all.

And he made the candelstycke of pure thycke golde: bothe the candelstycke and hys shafte: with braunches, bolles, knoppes and floures procedyng out of it. Six braunches procedynge oute of the sydes therof .iii. out of the one syde, and .iii. oute of the other. And on euerye braunche were .iii. cuppes lyke vnto almondes wt knoppes and floures thozow out the syxe braunches that proceade out of the candel stycke. And vppon the candelstycke selfe were .iiii. cuppes after the facyon of almõdes wyth knoppes and flowres: vnder euery two braunches a knoppe. And the knoppes and the braunches proceded out of it, and were all one pece of pure thicke golde. And he made seuen lampes therto and the snoffers thereof, and fyre pannes of pure golde. An hundred weyght of pure golde, made bothe it and all that belonged therto.

And he made the cens alter of Sethim wodd of a cubyte longe and a cubite brode: euē foure square, and two cubytes hye wyth hornes proceadinge oute of it. And he couered it wythe pure golde, bothe the toppe and the sydes round about and the hornes of it, and made vnto it a crowne of golde rounde about. And he made two rynges of golde vnto it, euen vnder the crown vpon ether syde of it, to put staues in for to beare it withal: and made staues of Sethimwodd, and ouerlayde thē with golde. And he made the holy anoyntynge oyle and thee swete pure incens after thee apotecaryes crafte.

of Mercyseate was the place where god spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, which was vpō the arke of witnesse figuringe Christe as it is sayde, Hebrues. ix.b

¶ The altare of burntoffrynges. The brasen lauer The somme of that the people offred to the buyldinge of the habytation of the Lorde.

The .xxxviii. Chapter.

And he made the burntofferynge alter of Sethim wodd. v. cubytes longe and fiue cubytes brode euē. iiii. square, & iii. cubytes hye. And he made hornes in thee .iiii. corners of it proceadinge oute of it, and ouerlayde it with brasse And he made al the vessels of the alter: the caudrons, shouels, basyns, fleshokes and colepānes al of brasse.

And he made a brasen gredyern of net worke vnto the alter rounde about alowe beneth vnder the compasse of the alter: so that it reached vnto halfe the alter, and caste .iiii. rynges of brasse for thee .iiii. endes of the gredyern to put staues in. And he made staues of Sethim wood and couered thē wyth brasse, & put the staues in the ringes alōge by the alter syde to beare it with al, and made the alter holowe with bordes. And he made the lauer of brasse & the fote of it also of brasse in the syghte of them that dyd watch before the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse.

And he made the courte wyth hangynges of twyned bysse of an hundred cubytes longe vpon the southsyde, and .xx. pylers with .xx. sockettes of brasse: but thee knoppes of the pyllers and thee whopes were syluer. And on ỹ northsyde ỹ hāginges were an hundred cubytes longe with .xx. pylers and .xx. sockettes of brasse, but thee knoppes & the whopes of the pylers were of syluer. And on the west syde, were hangynges of .l. cubytes longe, and .x. pylers wyth theyr .x. sockettes, and the knoppes and thee whopes of thee pylers were siluer. And on thee east syde towarde thee sonne rysyng, were hāgynges .l. cubytes: the hangynges of the ouersyde of the gate were fyftene cubytes longe. and theyr pylers .iii. wyth theyr .iii. sockettes. And of the other syde of the court gate were hangynges also of: xv. cubytes longe, and theyr pylers .iii. wyth .iii. sockettes. Now all thee hangynges of thee courte rounde a boute, were of twyned bysse, and the sockettes of thee pylers were brasse: but thee knoppes and the whoopes of thee pylers were syluer, and ỹ heedes were ouerlayde wyth siluer, and all the pylers of ỹ courte were whoped aboute with siluer. And the hangynge of the gate of the courte was nedle worke, of iacinct, scarlet, purple and twyned bysse: xx. cubytes longe and fyue in the brodth according to the hanginges of the court. And the pylers were .iiii. with iiii. sockettes of brasse, and the knopes of syluer, and the heedes ouerlayde wyth syluer and whoped about with siluer, and al the pynnes of the tabernacle & of ỹ courte round aboute were brasse.

This is the summe of the habytacyon of witnesse, whych was counted at the cōmaundement of Moses: and was the office of the Leuytes by the hand of Ithamar sonne to Aaron the preast. And Beseleel sonne of Ury sonne to Hur of the tribe of Juda, made all that the Lord commaunded Moses and wyth hym Aholiab sōne of Ahisamach of ỹ tribe of Dan a cōpynge grauer and a worker of nedle worke in iacincte, scarlet purple and bisse

All the golde that was occupyed vpō al the worke of the holy place (which was the golde of the waueofferyng) was .xxix hundred weyght and seuen hundred and xxx. sycles, accordynge to thee holy sycle. And the summe of siluer that came of the multytude was .v. score hundred weyght and a thousande seuen hundred and .lxxv sycles of the holy sicle. Euery mā offring half e a sycle after the weyght of the holy sycle amonge them that went to be nombred from .xx. yere olde and aboue, amōg vi. hundred thousand and .iii: thousande and v. hundred and .l. men.

And the .v. score hundred weyght of syluer went to the castynge of the sockettes of the sanctuary and thee sockettes of the vayle: an hūdred sockettes of the fyue score hundred weight an hundred weight to euery sockette. And the thousand seuē hundred and .lxxv. sycles: made knoppes to the pylers, and ouerlayde the heedes & whoped them.

And the brasse of thee waueofferynge was .lxx. hundred weyght and two thousand: & .iiii. hūdred sycles. And therwyth he made the sockettes to thee doze of ỹ tabernacle of wytnes and thee brasen alter and the brasen gredyern that longeth therto, and all the vessels of the alter, and thee sockettes of thee courte rounde aboute, & the sockettes of the courte gate, and al the pynnes of the habytacyon, and all the pinnes of the courte rounde aboute.

The .xxxix. Chapter.

And of thee iacyncte, scarlet purple and twined bisse, they made the vestymētes of mynistracio to do seruice in that holy place, and made the holi garmentes that pertayned to Aaron, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And they made the Ephod of gold, iacincte scarlett, purple, and twyned bysse. And they dyd beate the golde into thynne plates, and cutte it into wyres: to worke it in thee iacincte, scarlet, purple and thee bysse, wt broderd worke. And they made the sydes come to gether, and closed them vp by the two edges. And the broderynge of the gyrdell that was vpō it, was of the same stuffe and after the same worcke of golde, Jacincte, scarlette, purpul and twyned bysse, as the LORD commaunded Moyses.

And they wrought Onix stones closed in ouches of golde and graued as signettes are grauen wyth the names of the chyldre of Israel, & putt thē on the shoulders of the Ephod that they shuld be a remembraunce of the chyldren of Israel, as thee Lord commaunded Moyses.

And they made thee brestlappe of conning worke, after the worke of the Ephod euen of golde, Jacinct, scarlett, purpull & twyned bysse. And they made it .iiii. square and double, an hand breadth long and an hande breadeth brode. And they fylled it with .iiii. rowes of stones (the fyrst rowe Sardios, a Topas and *Smaragdus: the seconde rowe, a ‡ Rubye, a Saphir & a Diamond: the thyrd rowe, Ligurios an Achat and an Amatist: the fourth rowe: a Turcas, an Onix and a Jaspis) closed in ouches of golde in theyr inclosers. And the .xii. stones were grauen as sygnettes wyth the names of the chyldren of Israel euery stone wyth hys name, accordinge to the .xii. trybes.

* Or an Emeraude.

And they made vpon the brestlap, two fastenynge cheynes of wrethen worke and pure golde. And they made two hokes of gold and two golde ringes, & put the two ringes vpon the two corners of the brestlappe. And they putte the two cheynes of golde in the two ringes, in thee corners of the brestlappe. And the two endes of thee two cheynes they fastened in thee two hokes, and put them on the shoulders of the Ephod vpon the forefront of it.

And they made two other rynges of golde and put them on the two other corners of the brestlappe a longe vpō the edge of it, towarde the inside of the Ephod that is ouer against it. And they made yet two other gold rynges, and putt them on the two sydes of the Ephod, beneth on the forsyde of it: euen where the sydes go to gether, aboue vpon thee broderynge of the Ephod, and they straynch the brestlap by hys rynges vnto the rynges of the Ephod, with laces of iacincte, that it might lye fast vpō the brodrynge of the Ephod and shulde not be lowsed frō the Ephod: as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

E And he made the tunycle vnto the Ephod of woué worke, and all together of iacinte, & the head of ỹ tunycle was in the middest of it as thee colet of a partlet, wt a bonde rounde aboute thee colet, that it shulde not rent. And they made beneth vpon the hem of thee tunycle: pongranates of iacinte, scarlet, purple and twyned bysse. And they made lytle belles of pure golde, and put thē amonge the pomgranates rounde aboute vpō the edge of the tunycle a bell and a pomgranate, a bell and a pomgranate rounde aboute thee hemmes of the tunicle to mynystre in, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

And they made cotes of bisse of woué worke for Aarō & hys sōnes, & a mytre of bisse, & goodly bonetes of bisse, & lyné breches of twined bisse, & a gyrdel of twined bisse, iacinct, scarlet & purple: euē of nedle worke, as the Lorde cōmaunded Moyses. F And they made the plate of the holye croune of fyne golde, and wrote vpon it wyth grauen worke, thee holynes of thee Lorde: and tyed it to a lace of iacincte to fasten it an hye vpon thee mytre, as thee Lorde commaunded Moses.

Thus was all the worke of the habytacyon of thee tabernacle of wytnesse fynysshed. And the chyldren of Israell dyd accordynge to all that the Lorde had cōmāded Moses. And they brought ỹ habytacyon vnto Moses: thee tent and all hys apparell therof: thee bottones, boordes, barres, pylers, pylers and sockettes, and G the couerynge of rams skynes red, and ỹ couerynge of tarus skynnes, and the hangyng vayle, and the arcke of wytnes with the staues therof, and the mercyseate: the table and all the ordynaunce therof, and the shewbred, and thee pure candlestycke, the lampes prepared there vnto wyth all the vessels therof, and thee oyle for lyghtes, and thee golden alter, and the anoyntynge oyle and the swete cens, and the hāgynge of thee tabernacle dooze, and thee brasen alter, and thee gredyren of brasse longyng thervnto wyth hys barres and al his vessels, and the lauer with his fote and the hangynges of the court with hys pylers and sockettes, and the hangyng to the courte gate, hys boordes and pynnes and all the ordinaunce that serueth to the habytacyon of the tabernacle of wytnesse and the mynistring vestimentes to serue in the holy place and the holy vestymentes of Aaron thee preast and hys sonnes raymentes to mynister in: accordynge to all that the Lorde commaunded Moses: euen so the chyldrē of Israel made all the worke. And Moses behelde al the worke: and se, they had done it euen as thee Lord commaunded: and then Moses & blessed them. Exod. 39.

¶ The tabernacle is reared vp. The glory of the lord appereth in a cloude couering the tabernacle

The. xl. Chapter.

AND the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: In the fyrst day of ỹ fyrst moneth shalte thou sett vp thee habytacyon of ỹ tabernacle of witnes and put therin the arcke of wytnesse, and couer the arcke wyth the vayle, and bryng in thee tabernacle and apparell it, and bringe in the candelstycke and put on his lampes, and sett thee cence alter of golde before the arcke of wytnesse, and put the hanging of the doze vnto the habytacyō. And set the burntoffryng alter before the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse and set the lauer betwene ỹ tabernacle of wytnes and thee alter, and putt water therin, and make the court rounde about, and set vp the hangynge of the courte gate. Exod. 30.

And take the anoyntinge oyle and anoynte the habitacion and al that is there in, and halowe it and all that belongethe therto: that it maye be holy. And anoynte thee alter of thee burnt offrynges and all hys vessels, and sanctyfye thee alter that it may be moste holy. And anoynte also the lauer and hys fote, and sanctyfye it.

Than bryng Aaron and his sonnes vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnes and washe them wyth water. And putte vppon Aaron the holye vestymentes, and annoynte hym and sanctyfye hym that he maye mynister vnto me, that theyr anoyntynge maye be an euerlastyng preisthode vnto them thorowe oute theyr generatiōs Num. 25. And Moyses dyd accordynge to all that the Lorde commaunded hym.

Thus was the tabernacle reared vp C the fyrst daye in the fyrst moneth in the seconde yere. And Moses reared vp the tabernacle and fastened hys sockettes, and set vp the bordes and put in theyr barres and reared vp the pyllers, & spred abrode the tent ouer the habytacyon, and put the couerynge of thee tent an hye aboue it: as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

And he toke and put the testymonye in the arcke, & set thee staues to the arcke, and put the mercyseate an hye vpon thee arcke, and brought the arke into the habytacyō and hanged vp the vayle and coue red the arcke of wytnesse, as the Lord cōmaunded Moses.

And he put the table in the tabernacle of wytnesse in the north syde of habytacyon with out the vayle, and set thee breade in order before the Lorde, euen as ỹ Lord had commaunded Moses.

And he put the candelstycke in the tabernacle of wytnesse ouer agaynst the table in the south syde of the habytacō, and set vp the lampes before the Lord: as the Lord commaunded Moses. And he put the golden alter in the tabernacle of wytnesse before the vayle, & brent swete cens theron as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And set vp the hangynge in the doze of the habytacion, & set the burntoffryng alter before the doze of thee tabernacle of wytnesse, and offred burntoffrynges and meatoffrynges theron as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

D * And he set the lauer betwene thee tabernacle of wytnes and the alter, and poured water therin to wasshe wyth all. And both Moses, Aaron and his sonnes washed theyr handes and theyr fete therat: bothe when they went into the tabernacle of wytnesse, or when they wente to the alter, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And he reared vp the courte round about the habytacyon and the alter, and sett vp the hangyng of the court gate: & so Moyses fynysshed the worke.

Numb. 9. And the cloude coucred the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the glorye of thee Lorde fylled the habytacyō: so that Moses could not enter into the tabernacle of wytnesse, because the cloud abode therin, and the glorye of the Lorde fylled the habytacyō.

When thee cloude was taken vppe from of the habitacyon, the chyldren of Israell toke theyr iorneyes as ofte as they hadde iorneyed. And yf the cloude departed not, they iorneyed not tyll it departed: for the cloude of the Lorde was vpon the habitacion by day, and fyre by nyght in the sight of al the house of Israell in all theyr iorneyes.

A Prologe vpon the thyrd Boke of Moyses called Leuiticus.

The Ceremonies which ar described in the boke folowing, were chiefely ordeyned of God, (as I sayd in the ende of the Prologe vppon Exodi) to occuppe the mynides of that people the Israelytes, and to kepe them from seruinge of God after the ymagynacion of theyr blynde zele and good entente: that theyr consciences might be stablysshed & they sure that they pleased God therin, whych were impossyble, yf a man dyd of his owne head that whych was not commaūded of God nor depended of any appoyntmēt made betwene hym and God.

Soche Ceremonies were vnto them as an. A. B. C. to lerne to spelle and read, and as a nurse to fede them wyth mylke and pappe, and to speake vnto them after theyr owne capacyte and to lispe the wordes vnto them accordyng as the Babes and chyldren of that age myght sounde them agayne. For all that were before Christ were in the infancye and chyldhoode of the worlde, and sawe but some whych we se openlye, but thorowe a cloude and hadd but feble and weake ymaginacions of Christ. as chyldre haue of mennes dedes, a fewe Prophetes excepte whych yet described hym vnto other in sacrifices and Ceremonies, lykenesses, types Prouerbes, and darke and straunge speakinge vntyll thee full age were come that God woulde shewe hym openly vnto the whole worlde, and delyuer them from theyr shadowes and cloudelyghte, and the Hethen oute of theyr dead slepe of starcke blynde ignorancye. And as the shadowe vanysheth away at the commynge of the lyghte, euen so doo the Ceremonies and sacrifyces at thee commynge of Christe, and are henceforth noo more necessarye, then a token lefte in remembraunce of a bargayn is necessarye when the bargayne is fulfylled. And though they seme playne chyldish yet they be not all together fruyteles: as the popettes and twentye maner of tryfles whyche mothers permytte vnto theyr yonge chyldren, be not all in vayne. For al beit that soche phantasyes be permytted to satysfye the chylders lustes, yet in that they are the mothers gyfte, and be done in place and tyme at hyr commaundement, they kepe the chyldren in awe and make them know the mother, and also make them more apte agaynst a more stronger age to obaye in thynges of greater ernestc.

And moreouer thoughe sacrifyces and Ceremonies can be no grounde or foundacion to bylde vpon: that is, thoughe we can proue noughte wyth them: yet whē we haue once founde oute Christe and hys mysteryes, then we maye borowe fygures, that is to saye allegoryes, similitudes or examples to open Christe and the secretes of God hydde in Christe euen vnto the quycke, and to declare them more lyuely and sensibly wyth them than wyth all the wordes of the worlde. For similitudes haue more vertue and power wyth them than bare wordes, and leade a mans wyttes further in to the pythe and marye & spyrytuall vnderstandinge of the thinge, than all thee wordes that can be ymagyned. And thoughe also that all the Ceremonies and sacrifices haue as it were a sterrelyghte of Christe, yet some there be that haue as it were thee lyghte of the brode daye a lytte before the sonne ryslinge, and expresse hym, and the circumstaunces and vertue of hys death so playnly as yf we shulde playe hys passyon on on a scaffolde or in a stage playe openlye before the eyes of the people. As the scape goote, the brasen serpente, the ore burnte wythoute the hoost, the passeouer lambe, &c In so moche that I am fullye persuaded, and cannot, but beleue that God had shewed Moyses the secrettes of Christe and the very maner of hys death before hande, and commaunded hym to ordeyne them for the confyrmacion of oure faythes whych ar now in the cleare day lyghte. And I beleue also that the Prophetes which folowed Moyses to confyrme hys prophesyes and to mayntayne his doctryne vnto Christes comynge, were moued by soche thynges to searche further of Christes secretes. And thoughe God wolde not haue thee secretes of Christe generallye knowen, saue vnto a fewe familyer frendes whyche in that infancye he made of mans witte to helpe the other Babes: yet as they hadde a generall promyse that one of the sede of Abraham shoulde come and blesse them, euen so they had a generall fayth that God wold by the same man saue them, thoughe they wiste not by what meanes as the verye Apostles when it was ofte tolde them yet they coulde neuer comprehende it, tyll it was fulfylled in deade.

And beyonde all thys theyr sacrifyces and Ceremonyes as farreforthe as thee promyses annexed vnto them extende, so farreforthe they saued them and iustyfyed them and stode them in the same steade as oure Sacramentes doo vs: not by the power of the sacrifyce or deade it selfe, but by the vertue of the faythe in thee promyse whyche the sacrifyce or Ceremonye preached. and whereof it was a token or sygne. For the Ceremonyes and sacrifyces were lefte wythe them and commaunded them to kepe the promyse in remembraunce and to wake vppe theyr faythe. As it is not ynough to sende manye on errandes and to tell them what they shall do: but they must haue a remembraunce wyth them and it be but a tynge of a ruthe about one of theyr fyngers. And as it is not ynough to make a bargayne wyth wordes onelye, but we muste putte thereto an othe and geue ernest to confyrme the fayth of the person with whom it is made. And in lyke maner yf a man promyse, what soeuer tryfull it be, it is not beleued excepte he holde vppe hys fynger also, soche is thee wyckednesse of the worlde. And therfore Christe hym selfe vsed ofte tymes dyuerse Ceremonies in cuttynge the seke, to sturre vppe theyr fayth wythall. As for an ensample it was not the bloude of the lambe that saued them in Egypte, when the angell smote the Egyptyans: but the mercye of God and hys truethe whereof that bloude was a token and remembraunce to sturre vppe theyr faythes wythall. For thoughe God made a promyse, yet it saueth none finallye but them that longe for it and praye God wythe a stronge faythe too fulfyll it for hys mercye and trueth onelye and knowledge theyr vnworthynesse. And euen so oure sacramentes (yf they be truelye mynystred) preach Christe vnto vs and leade oure faythes vnto Christe, by whych faythe oure synnes are done awaye and not by the deade or worke of the Sacrament.

For as it was impossible that the bloude of calues shoulde putte awaye synne: euen so is it impossible that the water of the ryuer shoulde washe oure hartes. Neuertheles the Sacramentes clense vs and absolue vs of oure synnes as the Prestes doo, in preachynge of repentaunce and faythe, for whych cause ether other of the were ordeyned, but yf they preache not, whether it be the Priest of the Sacrament, profyte they not.

And yf a man allege Christe, Iohan in the. iii. Chapter sayinge: Excepte a man be borne agayne of water and the holye goost, he cannot se the kyngdomme of God, and wyll therfore that the holye ghoste is present in the water and therfore the verye deade or worke dothe putt awaye synne: then I wyll sende hym vnto Paule, whych areth hys Galathyans whether they receaued the holye ghoste by the dede of the law or by preachynge of faythe, and there concludeth that the holye ghoste accompanyeth the preachynge of fayth, and wyth the worde of fayth, entreth the harte and purgeth it, whych thou mayeste also vnderstande by Saynte Paule sayinge: ye are borne a newe oute of the water thorowe the worde. So nowe yf Baptyme preache me thee

walthynge in Christes blonde, so doth the holye goost accompanye it and that dede of preachynge thorowe faythe dothe putt awaye my synnes. For the holye ghoste is no domme God nor no God that goeth a mummynge. Yf a man saye of the Sacramēt of Christes bodye and blonde that it is a sacrifice as well for thee dead as for thee quycke, and therfore the verye dede it selfe iustifyeth and putteth awaye synne. I answere that a sacrifice is the sleynge of thee bodye, of a beaste or a man: wherfore yf it be a sacrifice, then is Christes bodye there slayne and hys blond there shed: but that is not so. And therfore it is properlye no sacrifice, but a Sacramente and a memorial of that euerlastynge sacrifice once for all, whych he offered vpon the crosse, now vpon a.xv.hundred yeares a goo, and preacheth onelye vnto them that are alyue. And as for them that be dead, it is as profytable vnto them as is a candell in a lanterne wythoute lyghte vnto them that walke by the waye in a darcke nyghte, and as the gospell songe in latyn is vnto them that vnderstande none at al, and as a sermon preached to hym that is dead and heareth it not. It preacheth vnto them that are alyue onelye, for they that be dead, yf they dyed in the faythe whych that Sacrament preacheth, they be safe and are paste all ieoperdye. For when they were alyue theyr hartes loued the lawe of God and therfore synned not, and were sorye that theyr mēbers synned and euer moued to synne, and therefore thorowe faythe it was forgeuen them. And nowe theyr synnefull members be dead, so that they can nowe synne nomore, wherfore it is vnto them that be dead neyther Sacramente nor sacrifice: But vnder the pretence of theyr soule health it is a seruaunte vnto oure spyrytualtyes holye couetousnesse and an extorcyoner and a bylder of Abbayes, Colleges, Chauntryes, and cathedrall Churches wyth falsse gotten good, a pyckepursse, a pollar, and a bottomlesse bagge.

Some man wolde happelye saye, that the prayers of the masse helpe moch: not the lyuynge onelye, but also the dead. Of the hote fyre of theyr feruent prayer whych consumeth faster then all the worlde is able to bringe sacrifice, I haue sayde sufficientlye in other places. Howebeit, it is not possyble to bringe me in beleefe that thee prayer whych helpeth hyr owne mayster vnto no vertue, shulde purchesse me the forgeuenesse of my synnes. Yf I sawe that theyr prayers hadde obtayned them grace to lyue sochе a lyfe as Goddes worde dyd not rebuke, then coulde I sone be borne in hande that whatsoeuer they axed of God theyr prayers shoulde not bee in vayne. But nowe what good can he wysshe me in hys prayers that enuyeth me Christe the foode and the lyfe of my soule? What good can he wysshe me whose harte cleeueth a sunder for payne when I am taughte to repente of my euell?

Furthermore because that fewe knowe the vse of the olde Testament, and thee moost parte thynke it nothinge necessarye but to make allegoryes, which they fayne euerye man after hys owne brayne at all wyldaduenture wythout anye certayne rule: therfore (thoughe I haue spoken of them in another place) yet lest the booke come not to all mennes handes that shall reade thys, I wyl speake of them here also a worde or twayne.

We hadde nede to take hede euerye where that we be not begyled wyth false allegoryes, whether they be drawne oute of the newe Testamente, or the olde, ether oute of anye other storye or of the creatures of the worlde, but namely in thys boke. Here a man hadde nede to putt on all hys spectacles and to arme hym selfe agaynste inuysyble spyrytes.

Fyrst allegoryes proue nothynge (and by allegoryes vnderstande examples or symptudes, borowed of straunge matters and of another thynge than that thou entreateste of) As though circumcysyon be a fygure of Baptyme, yet thou canste not proue Baptyme by circumcysyon, for thys argumente were verye feble, the Iraelytes were circumcysed, therfore we must be Baptysed. And in lyke maner though the offerynge of Isaac were a fygure or ensample of thee resurrection, yet is thys argumente noughte. Abraham wolde haue offered Isaac, but God delyuered hym from death, therfore we shall ryse agayne, and so forthe in all other.

But the very vse of allegoryes is to declare and open a texte that it maye be the better perceaued and vnderstand. As when I haue a cleare texte of Christ and of the Apostles, that I must be baptysed, then I maye borowe an ensample of cyrcumcysyon to expresse the nature, power and fruyte, or effecte of baptyme. For as circumcysyon was vnto them a commen bagge sygnyfyenge that they were all sodiars of God to warre hys warre and separatynge them from all other nacyons disobediente vnto God: euen so baptyme is oure commen bagge and sure earnest, and perpetual memorial that we pertayne vnto Christe, and are separated frome all that are not Christes. And as circumcysyon was a token certifyenge them that they were receaued vnto the fauour of God and theyr synner forgeuē them: euen so baptyme certyfyeth vs that we are washed in thee bloude of Christe, and receaued to fauoure for hys sake, and as circumcision signyfyed vnto them the cuttynge awaye of theyr owne lustes & sleynge of theyr free wyll, as they call it, to folowe the wyll of God, euen so Baptyme sygnyfyeth vnto vs repentaunce and the mortyfyenge of oure vnruly membres and body of synne, to walke in a newe lyfe and so forthe.

And lyke wyse thoughe that the sauing of Noe and of them that were wyth him in the shyppe, thorowe water, is a fygure, that is to saye an ensample and lykenesse of Baptyme, as Peter maketh it. i. Petri. iii. yet I cannot proue Baptyme therwyth, saue describe it onely, for as the shyppe saued them in the water thorowe fayth, in that they beleued God, and as the other that wolde not beleue Noe perysshed: euen so Baptyme saueth vs thorowe the word of fayth whych it preacheth whē al the world of the vnbeleuinge perysshe. And Paule. i. Corinthians. x. maketh the see and thee cloude a fygure of Baptyme, by whych and a thousande mo I myghte declare it but not proue it. Paule also in the sayde place, maketh the rocke (out of which Moyses brought water vnto the chyldren of Israel) a fygure or ensample of Christ, not to proue christ (for that were impossyble) but to describe Christe onelye: euen as Christe hym selfe Johannis. iii. borowеth a similitude or fygure of the brasen serpente to lead Nichodemus from hys erthy ymagination into thee spirituall vnderstandinge of Christe sayinge: As Moyses lyfted vppe a serpente in the wyldernesse, so muste the sonne of man be lyfted vppe, that none that beleue in hym perysshe: but haue euerlastinge lyfe by whych similitude the vertue of Christes death is better described then thou coulde declare it wyth a thousande wordes, for as those murmuras agaynste God as sone as they repented were healed of theyr deadely woundes thorowe lokynge on the brasen serpent onely: wythoute medycine or any other helpe, yea & wythout any other reason but that God hath sayde it shulde be so: and not to murmoure agayne, but to leue theyr murmurynge: euen so all that repent and beleue in Christe are saued from euerlastynge death, of pure grace wythout and before theyr good workes, and not to synne agayne, but to fyght agaynst synne, and henceforth to synne no more.

Euen so wyth the Ceremonies of thys boke thou canste proue nothinge saue describe and declare onely the puttinge awaye of our synnes thorowe the death of christ for Christe is Aaron, and Aarons sonnes and all that offer the sacrifice to purge synne. And Christ is all maner offringe that is offred, he is the oxe, the shepe, the gote, the kyd and lambe: he is the oxe that is burnt wythoute the hooste and the scapegote that caryed all the synne of the people awaye into the wyldernesse, for as they purged thee people from theyr worldlye vnclennesses thorowe bloude of thee sacrifices, euen so dothe Christe purge vs from the vnclennesses of euerlastynge death, wyth his owne bloude, and as theyr worldly synnes coulde no otherwyse be purged then by bloude of sacrifice, euen so can oure synnes be no otherwyse forgeuē then thorowe the bloude of Christ. All the deades in the worlde, saue the bloude of Christ, can purchase noo forgeuenesse of synnes: for oure dedes doo but helpe oure neyghboure and mortefye the flesshe and helpe that we synne nomore, but and yf we haue synned, it must be freelye forgeuen thorowe the bloude of Christe or remayne euer.

And

The Prologe

And in lyke maner of the lepers thou canst proue nothing: thou canst neuer confute our confession thense, howbeit thou hast an handsome example there to open the bindinge and lowsynge of oure Prestes wyth the kaye of Goddes word, for as they made no man a lepre euen so oures haue no power to commaunde anye man to be in synne or to go to purgatorye or hell. And therefore (in as moch as bindinge and lowsynge is one power) as those Priestes healed no man, euen so oures can not of theyr mussible and dommie power dryue any mans synnes awaye or delyuer hym from hell or fayned purgatory. Howbeit yf they preached Goddes worde purely wherby is the authorite that Christ gaue them, then they shuld bind and lowse, kylle and make alyue agayne, make vncleane and cleane agayne, and send to hell and fett thense agayne so myghty is Goddes worde, for yf they preached the lawe of God, they shuld binde the consciences of synners wythe the bondes of thee paynes of hell and bringe them vnto repentaunce. And then yf they preached them the mercye that is in Christe, they shulde lowse them and quiete theyr raginge consciences and certefye them of the fauoure of God and that theyr synnes be forgeuen.

Fynally beware of allegorye, for there is not a more handsome or apte a thing to begyle wyth al, then an allegorye, nor a more sotle and a pestilēt thing in the world to persuade a falce matter then an allegorye. And contrarye wyse there is not a better vehementer or myghtyer thynge to make a man vnderstande wyth al, then an allegorye. For allegoryes make a man quicke wytted and pryute wysdom in hym and maketh it to abyde, where bare wordes goo but in at the one eare and out at the other. As thys wyth soche lyke sayinges: putt salte to all your sacrifyces, in stede of thys sentence, do al youre deades wyth discretiō, greteth and byteth (yf it be vnderstande) more then playne wordes. And when I saye in stede of these wordes bost not youre selfe of youre good deades, eate not thee bloude nor the fatt of youre sacrifyce, there is as great difference betwene them as there is distaunce betwene heauen and earth. For the lyfe and bewtye of all good deades is of God, and we are but the caren leane, we are onely the instrument whereby God worketh onely, but the power is hys. As God created Paule a newe, poured hys wysdomme in to hym, gaue hym myght, and promysed hym that hys grace shuld neuer fayle him, &c. & all wythout deseruynges, excepte that nurteringe the Sayntes and makinge them curse and raple on Christe be meritorious. Nowe as it is death to eate the bloud or fatte of anye sacrifice, is it not (thinke ye) damnable to robbe God of hys honour, and to glorifye my selfe wyth hys honoure.

¶ The thyrde boke of Moyses called Leuiticus

¶ The order of burntofferinges, whether it be of smal or great cattell, or foules.

The fyrst Chapter.

A And the Lord called Moses, and spake vnto hym oute of the tabernacle of witnes saynge: Speake vnto the chyldrē of Israel, & say vnto thē whosoeuer of you shal bringe a gifte vnto the Lord, shal bringe it of the catel, euē of the oxen and of the shepe.

B Yf he bringe a burntoffringe of the oxen he shall bringe a male wythoute blemyshe, and shall bringe hym too the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, that he may be accepted before the Lorde. And let him ‡put hys hande vpon thee head of thee burntesacrifyce, and fauoure shalbe geuen hym to make an attonement for hym, and let hym kyll the oxe before the Lorde And let the prestes Aarons sonnes bryng the bloud and let them sprinkle it rounde about vpon the alter that is before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And lette the burntoffringes be stripped and hewed in peces. And then let the sonnes of Aarō the priest put fyre vpon the alter, and put wodd vpon the fyre, and let them laye the peces wyth the head and the fatt, vpō the wood that is on the fyre in the altar. But the inwardes & the legges they shal wash in water, and the Priest shall burne al together vpon the alter, that it be a burntsacrifyce & an offering of a ‡swete odoure vnto the Lorde.

C Yf he wyll offer a burntsacrifice of the shepe, whether it be of the lābes or of the gotes: he shall offer a male wythout blemyth. And lett hym kyll it on the northside of the alter, before the Lord And let the Priestes Aarōs sonnes sprinkle the bloud of it round about vpon the alter. And let it be cut in peces: euen wyth hys head and hys fatte, and let the Priest put them vpon the wodd that lyeth vpon the fyre in the alter. But lette hym washe the inwardes and the legges wyth water, and than bringe all together and burne it vpon the alter: that is a burntoffringe and a sacrifyce of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde.

D Yf he wyll offer a burntofferyng of the fowles he shall offer eyther of the turtyll doues or of thee ponge pygeons. And the Priest shall bringe it vnto the alter, & wring the necke a sunder of it, and burne it on the alter, and let the bloud runne out vpon the sydes of the alter, and plucke awaye hys croppe and hys fethers, & caste them beside the alter on the easte parte vpon thee heape of asshes, and breake hys wynges, but plucke thē not a sundre. And then let the Priest burne it vpon the alter euen vpon the wodd that lyeth vpon thee fyre, a burntsacrifyce and an offeryng of a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde.

The Notes

a‡ Loke in Genesis. xviij. c

b‡ Thys swete odour is the sacrifyce of fayth & of pure affection, in whych god is delyted, as a mā is delyted in thee good sauoure of meates, as it is sayd of Noe genesis. viij. d

¶ The order of meatoffrynges, of swete cakes, of fyne flower, of frankencense, &c, wythoute leuen, & wythout hony, but not wythout salte.

The.ij. Chapter.

A Yf any soule wyl offer a meat offringe vnto the Lorde, hys offerynge shalbe fyne floure and he shal poure therto oyle and put frankencens theron, and shall bringe it vnto Aarons sonnes the Priestes. And one of them shall take there oute hys handfull of the floure, and of the oyle wythal ỹ frankencens, & burne it for a memoriall vpon the alter: an offeringe of a ‡swete sauour vnto the Lord. And the remnaunte of the meatoffringe shalbe Aarōs and hys sonnes, as a thyng most holy of the sacrifyces of the Lorde.

B Yf any man bryng a meatoffring that is baken in the ouen, lett hym bringe swete cakes of fyne floure myngled wyth oyle, and vnleuended wafers anoynted wythe oyle. Yf thy meatoffringe be baken in the frynge pan, then it shalbe of swete floure myngled wyth oyle. And thou shal mynce it smal, and poure oyle theron: and so it is a meatoffrynge.

C Yf thy meateoffryng be a thinge broyled vpon the gredyern, of floure myngled wyth oyle it shall be, And thou shalte bringe bring the meatoffring that is made of these thinges vnto the lord, & shalt delyuer it vnto the preste, and he shal bringe it vnto thee aulter. and shall heue vppe parte of the meatoffringe for a memoriall, & shall burne it vppon thee alter: an offeryng of a swete sauoure vnto thee Lorde. And that whych is lefte of the meatofferyng shal be Aarons and hys sonnes, as a thinge that is mooste holy of the offerynges of the Lorde,

All the meateoffringes whych ye shall bringe vnto the Lord shalbe made without leuen. For ye shall neyther burne leuē nor hony in any offring of the Lord. Not withstandyng ye shall bring the fyrstlinges of them vnto the Lorde: but they shal not come vpon thee altar to make a swete sauoure.

All thy meatoffringes thou shalt salte wyth salt: nether shalte thou suffer the [a] salt of the couenaunt of thy God to be lacking frō thy meatofferinge: but vpon all thyne offringes thou shalt bringe salt:

Yf thou offre a meatoffring of ỹ fyrst fruytes vnto the Lord, then take that whych is yet grene, & dryue it by the fyre & beat it small and so offer the meatoffring of thy fyrst fruytes. And than poure oyle thereto, and put frankencens theron and so it is a meateoffryng. And the preest shal burne parte of thee beaten corne and part of that oyle wyth all the frankēcens, for a remembraunce. That is an offringe vnto the Lorde.

The Notes.

[a] Thys swete sauour figureth thee prayers of the meke and faythful, as it is interpretate in Apo. viii. a. the whych prayers do wythstande thee furye of the Lorde.

[b] All offringes must be salted wyth salt, which signifieth, that all our good workes must be dyrected after the doctryne of the Apostles & Prophetes for then shal they be acceptable in the syghte of thee Lord, yf the y sauer of the salte therof, and elles not.

¶ The order of peaceoffringes, whych were offred for the keppynge of peace, made of oxen, shepe, lābes and gootes.

The.iii. Chapter.

A Yf any man bring a *peaceoffringe of ỹ oxen: whether it be male or female, he shal bring soch as is without blemyshe, before the lord: & let him putt hys hand vpon the head of hys offeryng, and kyll it before the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse. And Aarōs sonnes the preestes shall sprynkle the bloud vpō the alter rounde aboute. And they shal offre of the peaceoffring to be a sacrifice vnto ỹ lord: B the fat that couereth the inwardes and al the fatt that is vpō the inwardes: and the two kydneys with the fatt that lyeth vpō the loynes: & the kall that is on thee lyuer they shall [a] take away wyth the kydneys And Aarons sonnes shall burne them vpon the alter wyth the burntsacrifice whyche is vpon the wood on the fyre. That is a sacrifyce of a swete sauoure vnto thee Lorde.

Yf a man bryng a peaceoffering vnto the Lord, from of the flocke, whether it be male or female, it shalbe without blemish Yf he offer a lambe, he shal bring it before the Lord, & put hys hand vpon hys offerynges head, and kyll it in the dooze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, & Aarons sonnes shall sprynckle the bloud therof rounde about the alter. C

And of the peaccoffring they shal bringe a sacrifyce vnto the Lord: the fat ther of and the rompe al together, whyche they shal take of, harde by the backe bone: and the fatt that coureth thee inwardes & all the fatt that is vppon the inwardes & the two kydneys wyth the fat that lyeth vpō them and vpon the loynes, & the kall that is vpon the lyuer he shall take away with the kydneys. And the Preeste shall burne them vpon the alter to fede the Lordes of frynge wyth all.

Yf the offryng be a gote, he shal bring it before the Lorde, & put hys hand vpon D the head of it, and kyll it before the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the sonnes of Aarō shall sprenkle thee bloude thereof vppon the alter round about. And he shall bring thereof hys offerynge vnto the Lordes sacrifyce: the fatt that coureth thee inwardes, and al the fat that is vpon the inwardes, and the two kydneys and the fat that lyeth vpon them and vpō the loynes, and the kall that is vpon the lyuer he shall take awaye with the kydneys. And the preest shall burne them vppon thee alter to fede the Lordes sacrifyce with all, and to make a swete sauoure. And thus shal al ỹ fat be the Lordes, and it shal be a lawe for euer amonge youre generacions after you in your dwellynge places: that ye eate neyther fat nor bloude.

The Notes.

[a] By the takyng awaye of the fatt, the inwardes: the two kydneis and the kall is signified vnto vs, that yf we wylbe a swete sacrifice vnto the lord we must cut of al concupiscences and noughtely desyres of the flesche, and the euell vse of all sore mem bres, and must subdue and mortyfye our affections and offer them to God, by the mortyfycation of the crosse, as sayth the Prophete. Psalm. xxv. a

¶ The offerynge made for synnes done of ignorāunce.

The.iiii. Chapter.

A And the lord spake vnto Moses: sayng: speake vnto ỹ children of Israel & say: whē a soule sinneth thorow ignorāce, & hath done any of those thynges which the lord hath forbiddē in his cō maūdemētes to be done: Yf the preist ỹ is anoynted synne, & make the people to do a mysse, he shal bringe for hys synne which he hath done: an oxe without blemish vntō the Lorde for a synneofferinge. And he shal bring the oxe vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse before the Lord, and shal [a] put his hand vpon the oxe head, & kyll hym before the Lord. And the Preest that is *anoynted shal take of ỹ oxe bloude, & bring it into the tabernacle of witnesse, & shall dyppe hys finger in the bloud & sprinkle therof. vii. tymes before the lord euen before the hanging of the holy place And he shal putt some of the bloud vpon the hornes of the alter of swete cens before the Lorde whych is in the tabernacle of wytnesse, & shal poure all the bloud of the oxe vpon the botome of the alter of burnt offrynges whyche is by the doze of the tabernacle of witnes And he shal take away all the fat of the oxe that is the synne offering: the fat that coureth the inwardes & all the fat that is about them, and the two kydneyes wyth the fatt that lyeth vppon them and vpon the loynes, & the kal vpō the lyuer lett thē take away also wyth the kydneys: as it was takē frō the oxe of ỹ peaceoffring & let the preest burne thē vpō the alter of burntoffringes. But the skynne of the oxe and all hys flesshe with hys heade hys legges, hys inwardes with hys dounge shall he carye all together oute of the hooste vnto a cleane place: euen where the asshes are poured out, and burne hym on wodd wyth fyre: euē vpō the heape of asshes. If the hole comenalte of ỹ chyldrē of Israel synne thorow ignoraunce, and the thyng be hyd from theyr eyes: so that they haue cōmytted any of these thynges whyche thee Lorde hath forbydden to be done in his commaundemētes, and haue offended, and the synne whyche they haue synned be afterwarde knowne, than shall they offre an oxe for a synne offerynge, D and shal bring hym before the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the elders of thee multytude shall put their handes vpō his head before the Lord. * And the Preast that is Leuit. iii. b anoynted shall bringe of hys bloude into the tabernacle of wytnes, and shal dyppe hys fynger in thee bloude, and sprencle it seuen tymes before the Lord: euen before the vayle. And shall put of the bloude vpon the hornes of the alter whych is before thee Lorde in thee tabernacle of wytnes, and shall poure all thee bloude vpon thee botome of thee alter of burntoffrynges whiche is by the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and shall take all hys fatt from him, and burne it vpon the alter, and shal do wyth hys oxe as he dyd with the synne offryng oxe. And thee Preaste shal make E an atonement for thē, and so it shalbe for geuen thē. And he shall bringe the oxe wt out the host, and burne him as he burned the fyrste: so is thys the synneoffryng of the comenalte.

When a Lorde synneth and commytteth thorow ignoraunce any of these thynges whyche the Lorde hys God hath forbydden to be done in his commaundemētes and hath so offended: when his synne is shewed vnto hym, whyche he hath synned, he shall bringe for hys offrynge an he goote wythoute blemysh and laye hys hand vpon the head of it, and kyl it in the place where the burntoffrynges ar kylled before the Lord: thys is a synneoffrynge. Then let the Preast take of the bloud of the synne offryng wt hys fynger, & put it vpō ỹ hornes of ỹ burntoffrigalter, & poure hys bloud vpō the botome of the burnt offrynge alter and burne all hys fatt vpon the alter, as he doth the fat of the peace offrynges. And the Preast shal make an attonement for hym as concernyng hys synne, and so it shalbe forgeuen hym.

If one of ỹ comen people of the lande synne thorow ignoraunce and commytte any of the thynges whych the Lord hath forbidden in his commaundemētes to be done and so hath trespased, when hys synne wherin he hathe synned is come too his knowledge, he shal bringe for hys offrynge a she gote wythout blemish for his synne which he hath synned, and laye his hande vpon the heade of the synneofferynge, and slee it in the place of burntofferinges.

Leuit.iii.d *And the Priestе shall take of the bloude wyth hys fynger, and put it vpon the hornes of the burntofferinge alter, and poure all the bloude vpon the bottome of the alter, and shall take away al hys fatt as the fatt of the peaceoffringes is take awaye. And the Priest shall burne it vpon the alter for a swete sauour vnto the Lord, and the Priestе shall make an attonement for hym, and it shalbe forgeuen hym.

G Yf he bring a lambe & offer it for a synofferynge, he shall bringe a female wythout blemyth, and laye hys hand vpon the head of the synneoffryng. and slee it in the place where the burntofferinges ar slayne And the Priest shall take of the bloude of the synneofferynge wyth hys fynger, and putt it vpon the hornes of the burntofferynge alter, and shall poure all the bloude
Leuit.iii.d therof vnto the botome of the alter. *And he shall take awaye all the fatte therof, as the fatte of the shepe of the peaceofferynges was taken awaye. And the Priest shall burne it vpon the alter for the Lordes sacrifyce, and the Priestе shall make an attonemente for hys synne, and it shal be forgeuen hym.

¶ Of oothes. The clensynge of hym that toucheth vncleane thynges. The purgatyon of an oth and of synne done by ignorauncе.

The.v.Chapter.

A When a soule hath synned & herde the voyce of cursyng & is a witnesse: whether he hath sene or knowē of it yf he haue not vttered it, he shall beare hys synne. Ether when a man toucheth any vncleane thing: whether it be the carkon of an vncleane beast or of vncleane cattell or vncleane worme, and is not warre of it he is also vncleane and hath offended. Ether when he touchethe any vnclennesse of man (what soeuer vnclennesse it be that a man is defyled wyth all) and is not warre of it and afterwarde cōmeth to the knowe-
B weledge of it, he is a trespaser. Ether whē a soule sweareth: so that he pronounceth wyth his lyppes to do euell or to do good (whatsoeuer it be that a mā pronounceth wyth an othe) and the thyng be out of his mynde and afterwarde commeth to thee knowledge of it, then he hath offended in one of these. Then whē he hath synned in one of these thinges, he shall confesse that wherein he hath synned, and shall bringe hys trespaceoffrynge vnto the Lorde for hys synne wherof he hath synned. A female from the flocke whether it be a lambe or a she goote, for a synneofferynge. And the Priest shal make an attonement for hym for hys synne. *But yf he be not able too
*Leui.v.d brynge a shepe, then lette hym bringe for his trespace which he hath synned two turtyll doues or two younge pygeons vnto the Lord, one for a synneofferinge and another for a burntoffring. And he shal bring them vnto the Priest wherof shal offer the synneoffering fyrst, and wringe the necke a sunder of it, but plucke it not cleane of. And let hym sprinkle of the bloude of the synneofferinge vpon the syde of the alter and let the rest of the bloude blede vppon the bottome of the alter, & thē it is a synne offeringe. And lett hym offer the seconde for a burntofferinge as the maner is: and
C so shall the Priestе make an attonemente for hym for the synne wherof he hath synned, and it shalbe forgeuen hym. And yet yf he be not able to bringe two tuttyl doues or two younge pygeons, then let hym bringe hys offerynge for his synne, *the tenth parte of an Epha of fyne floure for a synneoffering, but put none oyle therto neyther put any frankencens thereon, for it is a synne offerynge. And let him bring it to the Priest, and the Priestе shall take hys handfull of it, and burne it vpon the alter for a remembraunce to be a sacrifice for the Lord: that is a synneoffring. And let the Priest make an attonement for him for his synne (whatsoeuer of these he hath synned) and it shalbe forgeuen. And the remnaunte shalbe the Priestes, as it is in the meateofferynge.

throwe ignorauncе in any of the holy thynges of the Lorde, he shall bringe for hys trespace vnto the Lord a ram without blemyth out of the flocke valued at two sycles after the sycle of the sanctuatye, for a trespaceoffring. And he shall make amendes for the harme that he hath done in the holy thynge, & put the fyfte parte more to and geue it vnto the Priest. And the priest shall make an attonement for hym wythe the ramme of the trespaceoffrynge, and it shalbe forgeuen hym.

When a soule synneth & cōmitteth any of these thinges whych are forbidde to be done by the cōmaundemētes of the Lord: though he wist it not, he hath yet offēded & is in synne, & shall bringe a ram without blemishe out of the flocke that is esteemed to be worth a synneoffring, vnto the priest And the Priest shal make an attonemente for hym for the ignorauncе whych he dyd and was not ware, and it shalbe forgeuen hym. Thys is a trespace offerynge, for he trespaced agaynst the Lorde.

¶ The offringes for synnes which ar done wyttingly. The law of the burntoffringes. The fyre muste abyde euermore vpon the altar. The offrynges of Aaron and hys sonnes.

The.vi.Chapter.

A And the lord talked with Moses sayinge: whē a soule synneth & trespaceth agaynst ỹ Lord, & denyed vnto his neybour that whyche was taken hym to kepe, or that was putte vnder hys hand, or that whych he hath violently taken away, or that which he hath deceyued hys neyghboure of, wyth sotylte, or hathe found that whych was loste & denyeth it, & sweareth falsely, in whatsoeuer thinge it be ỹ a mā doth & synneth therin. Thē whē he hath sinned or trespaced, he shal restore the wronge whych he dyd, or that whyche was delyuered hym too kepe, or the looste thynge whych he founde, or whatsoeuer it be about whyche he hathe sworne falsely, *he shall restore it agayne in the whole sume, and shall adde the fyft part more ther to, & geue it vnto hym to whom it pertayneth, the same day ỹ he offreth for his trespace, & shall bringe for hys trespace offetinge vnto the Lord a ram wythoute blemyshe oute of thee flocke, that is esteemed worth a trespace offrynge vnto the priest.

And thee Priestе shall make an attōnemente for hym before the LORD B and it shall be for gyuen hym, in whatsoeuer thyng it be that aman doth and trespaceth therin.

And thee Lorde spake vnto Moyses saying: Commaunde Aaron and his sonnes saying: this is the Lawe of the burnt offryng. The burnt offrynge shall be vpon the harth of thee alter all nyght vnto the morynge, and thee fyre of the alter shal burne therin. And thee Preast shall put on hys lynen albe and his lynen breches vpon his flesh, and take away thee asshes which ỹ fyre of the burntsacrifyce in the alter hath made, and put thē beside the alter, and then put of his rayment and put on other, and carie ỹ asshes out with out the host vnto a clene place.

The fyre that is vpon thee alter shall burne therin and not go out. And ỹ priest shal put wodd on the fyre euery morning and put the burnt sacrifyce vpon it, and he shal burne theron the fatt of the peace offrynges. The fyre shall * euer burne Iohe Gene xiii.d vpon the alter, and neuer go out.

Thys is the lawe of the meatoffrige: Aarons sonnes shall bringe it before the Lorde, vnto the alter: and one of thē shal take hys hande full of thee floure of thee meatoffrynge and of thee oyle wyth all thee franckencens whyche is theron, and shall burne it vnto a remembraunce vpō the alter to be a swete sauoure of the memoryall of it vnto the Lorde. And the rest therof, Aaron and hys sonnes shall eate vnleuended: it shalbe eaten in ỹ holy place geuen in the courte of thee tabernacle of wytnesse they shall eate it. C Theyr parte whych I haue geuen thē of my sacrifyce shall not be bakē with leue, for it is most holy, as is the sinneoffryng, and trespace offrynge. All the males amonge the chyldren of Aaron shall eate of it: and it shal be a dutye for euer vnto youre generacyōs of the sacrifyces of the Lorde, nether shall any man touche it, but he that is halowed.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saynge: thys is thee offrynge of Aaron and of hys sonnes which he shal offer vnto ỹ Lorde in thee daye when they are anoynted: the tenth parte of an Epha of floure, whych is a dayly meatoffryng ppetually halfe in the morning & halfe at night: & in ỹ frypege pan it shalbe made wt oyle. And whē it is fryed, thou shalt bring it in, as a bake meatoffring mynsed small, & shalt of fer it for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde.

And that preest of his sōnes that is anoyn ted in his stede shal offer it: & it shalbe the lordes dutye for euer, & it shalbe burnt al D together. For al ỹ meatoffringes of ỹ pre estes shalbe burnt al together, & shal not be eate. And the lord talked with Moses say inge: speake vnto Aarō & vnto his sonnes & say: This is ỹ lawe of the synneoffring
In the place wher ỹ burntoffryng is kylled, shal the synneoffring be killed also be fore the lord, for it is most holy. The preest that offreth it shal eate it in the holy place
euē in the court of the tabernacle of wyt-nesse. No mā shal touche the flesshe therof, saue he that is halowed. And yf any raynmēt be sprynkled therwyth, it shalbe was-Leuit.xv.b shed in the holy place, * and the erthē pot that it is sodē in, shall be broken. Yf it be sodde in brasse thē the pot shalbe scoured and rynesed in the water. All the males among the preestes shal eate therof, for it is most holy. Notwythstanding no synneof fryng that hath his bloude brought into the tabernacle of witnesse to reconcyle with all in the holy place shalbe eaten: but shal be burnt in the fyre.

The Notes.

* Vnto my neyghbour pertayneth satisfaction
but vnto god repentaunce thē the sacrifice of chris tes bloude is a full satisfaction and attonemēt and a pleasing of all wrath.

a‡ Ther shal none touche it, but he that is halowed, that is, but he that is dedicated, ordeyned and apoynted to minister before the lord, as it is Ex.xl.c

¶ Trespaceoffringes. Synneoffringes, and peaceoffringes. The fat and the bloud may not be eaten.

The.viii. Chapter.

A Thys is the lawe of the a‡ tres paceoffryngе wbych is most holy. In the place where thee burntoffryngе is kylled, thee
trespaceoffryngе shalbe kyl-led also: and hys bloude shalbe sprinkled rounde aboute vpon the alter. And al the fatt therof shalbe offered: the rompe and the fatte that couered thee inwardes, and the two kydneys wyth the fatt that lyeth
on them, and vpon the loynes, & the kalon
the lyuer shalbe taken away wyth the kid neys: & the Priest shall burne them vpon thee altare, too be an offeryngе vnto thee
Lorde: this is a trespas offryngе.

All the males amonge thee preastes shall eate therof in the holy place, for it is most holy. As the synneoffryngе is so is ỹ trespaceoffring, one law serueth for both:
and it shall be thee Preastes that reconcylleth ther wyth. And the preast that offred
a mans burnt offeryngе, shall haue thee skinne of the burntoffring which he hath offered. And all thee meatoffrynges that are baken in the ouen, and all that is dressed vpon the gredyren and in the frypnge
pan, shalbe the preastes that offreth them
And al the meatoffrynges that are myn
gled wyth oyle or dryе, shall pertayne vn to all thee sonnes of Aaron, and one shall haue as moche as another. ¶ Thys is the B lawe of ỹ peaceoffringes which shalbe of red vnto ỹ lord. Yf he offer to geue thau-kes, he shal bring vnto his thākoffring swete cakes mingled wt oyle & swete wa fers anoynted with oyle, & cakes mingled wyth oyle of fyne floure fryed, & he shall bryngе hys offeryngе vpon cakes made of leuended bred vnto the thanckoffryng of hys peaceoffringes, and of them al, he shall offer one to be an heueoffring vnto
the Lord, and it shal be the Preastes that sprynckleth the bloude of the peaceoffrin
ges. And the flesh of thee thankoffryngе of hys peaceoffrynges shalbe eaten thee
same daye that it is offred, and ther shal
none of it be laide vp vntyl the morning.

Yf it be a bt bowe or a free willoff
ryng that he bryngeth, thee same daye ỹ
he offreth it, shalbe eaten, and that which remayneth may be eaten on the morowe:
but as moch of the offered flesh as remay
neth vnto thee thyrde daye shalbe burnt wyth fyre. For yf any of the flesh of thee peaceoffrynges be eaten in ỹ thyrde day,
then shall he that offred it optayne no fa-uoure, nether shal it be rekened vnto him
but shalbe an abompnacyō, and the soule
that eateth of it shal beare the syn therof.
The flesh ỹ toucheth any vnclene thynge
shal not be eatē, but burnt wt fyre: & all ỹ
be cleane in theyr flesshe, maye eate flesshe.
Yf any soule eate of the flesh of the peace
offeryngеs that pertayne vnto the Lorde and hys vncleneſſe yet vpō him, the same soule shall perysshe from amōge his peo ple: Moreouer yf a soule touche any vn

cleane thinge, whether it be the vncleneſſe
of man or of any vncleane beast or any ab
hompnacion that is vncleane: & then eate
of the flesshe of the peaceoffringes wbych pertayne vnto the Lorde, that soule shall perysshe from hys people.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses:
saying: speake vnto the childrē of Israell & saye: Ye shal eate no maner fat oxē, she-pe or gootes: neuerthelater the fat of thee beast that dyeth alone & the fat of ỹ which is torne with wylde beastes, maye be occu
pyed in all maner vses: but ye shal in noo wyse eate of it. For whosoeuer eateth thee fatt of the beast of wbych men bryngе an offryng vnto the Lord, that soule that ea-teth it shall perysshe from hys people. Mo reouer ye * shall eate no maner of bloude, Leuit.xvii.b
wherſoeuer ye dwell, whether it be of fou-le or of beast. D Whatſoeuer soule it be that D eateth any maner of bloud the same soule shall perysshe from hys people.

And the Lord talked wyth Moses say inge: speake vnto the childrē of Israell & C saye: he that offreth his peaceoffryng vnto the Lorde, shall bringe hys gyfte vnto
the Lord of his peaceoffringes: his owne
handes shall bring the offring of the lord
euen the fat vpon the breſt he shal bringe
wyth the breſt to waue it a waueoffryngе before the Lord. And the Priest shal burne the fat vpō the alter, and the breſt shal-be Aarons and his sonnes. And the ryght shoulder they shal geue vnto the priest, to be an heueoffringe, of theyr peaceoffrin-
ges. And the same that offereth the bloud of the peaceoffringes & the fat, amōg the sonnes of Aarō shal haue the ryght shoul der vnto hys parte, for the wauebreſt and the heueshoulder I haue take of the chyl
dren of Israell, euen of theyr peaceoffrin
ges, & haue geuē it vnto Aaron the Priest and vnto hys sonnes: to be a dutye for e-uer of the chyldren of Israel.

Thys is the anoyntyng of Aaron & of thee sacrifyces of thee Lorde, in the daye
when they were offred to the Priestes vn
to the Lorde, wbych the Lord cōmaunded to be geuen them in the daye when he annoynted them, of the chyldren of Israell,
and to be a duetye for euer amonge theyr generations. Thys is the lawe of burnteoffringes: of meatoffringes, of synneof-feringes, of trespaceofferinges, of fulofferinges, of peaceofferinges, wbych thee Lord commaunded Moyses in the mount of Sinai, in the daye when he commaunded the chyldren of Israell to offer theyr offerynges vnto the Lorde in the wildernesse of Sinai.

And Moyses dyd as the Lorde commaū
ded hym, and the people gathered thē sel-ues together vnto the doore of the taberna cle of witnes. And Moyses sayd vnto the people: thys is the thynge which the Lord commaunded to doo.

And Moyses brought Aaron and hys
sonnes & washed them with water, & putt vpon hym the albe & gyrded hym wyth a gyrdell, & put vpon him the tunicle, & put the Ephod theron, & gyrded hym with the broderd gyrdell of the Ephod, & bound it vnto hym therwyth. And he put the breſt-

m and Thumim. And he put the myter vpon hys head, & put vpon the myter eue B
vpon the forefront of it the golde plateof
the holye crowne, as the Lorde commaun ded Moyses.

And Moyses toke the anoynting oyle and anoynted the habitacio & al that was therin and sanctified them, and sprinkled therof vpō the alter seuē tymes, & annoyn
ted the alter, & all hys vessels, & the lauer wyth hys fote, to sanctyfye them. And he poured of thee annoyntynge oyle vppon Aarons head, and anoynted hym to sanc-ſanctifie hym. And he brought. Aarons ſonnes and put albes vpō them, and gyr ded them wyth gyrdels, and put bonettes vpon their hedes: as the Lord commaun ded Moſes.

And the ſynne offringe was brought. And Aaron and hys ſonnes put theyr hā des vpon the heed of the ore of the ſynne offringe. And when it was ſlayne, Moy ſes toke of the bloud, and put it vpō thee hornes of the alter rounde aboute wythe hys fynger, and purifyed it, and poured the bloud vnto thee botome of thee alter and ſanctifyed it and reconſyled it. And he toke all the fatt that was vpon the in wardes, and the kall that was on the ly uer and the two kydneyes with their fat, and burned it vpon the alter. But the ore the hyde, his fleſh and his odng, he burnt with fyre wythout the hoſte, as the Lorde commaunded Moſes.

D And he brought the ram of the burnt offringe and Aaron and his ſonnes putt theyr handes vpon thee head of thee ram and it was kylled. And Moſes ſprinkled the bloude vpon the alter rounde aboute, and cut thee ram in peces and burnt thee head peces & the fatt, & waſhed the in war des and thee legges in water, and burnt the ram euen white vpon the alter. That was a burntſacrifice of a ſwete ſauoure, and an offrynge vnto thee Lorde, as thee lorde commaunded Moyſes.

And he brought the other ram that was the conſecrynge, and Aaron and his ſonnes put theyr handes vpon thee head of the ram: and when it was ſlayne, Moſes toke of the bloude of it and put it vp on thee typpe of Aarons ryghte eare, and vpon the thombe of hys ryght hand and vpō the great too of his ryght fote. Thē E were Aarons ſonnes brought, and Moſes put of ỹ bloud on ỹ tippe of the ryght eare of thē and vpō thee thombe of theyr ryght handes, and vpon the greate tooes of theyr ryghte fete, and ſprynckled thee bloud vpon the alter rounde aboute.

And he toke the fatt and thee tompe and al the fatt that was vpon the inwar des, and the kall of thee lyuer, and the. ii. kydneyes with theyr fatt and their ryght ſhoulder. And out of the baſket of ſwete bread ỹ was before ỹ Lorde he toke one ſwete cake of oyled breede & one wafer, & put thē on the fat & vpon the ryght ſhoul der: & put altogether vpon Aarons hādes and vpon hys ſonnes handes, & waued it a waueoffering before the Lord. And thē F Moyſes toke thē frō of theyr handes a gayne, & burnte them vpon the alter, euen vpon the burntoffryng: These ar the ful offringes of a ſwete ſauoure & a ſacrifice vnto the Lord. And Moſes toke the breſt and waued it a waueoffrynge before thee Lord, of the ram of the conſecrynges: and it was Moyſes parte, as the Lorde com maunded Moyſes.

And Moyſes toke of the annoyntinge oyle and of the bloud which was vpō the alter, & ſprinkled it vpō Aarō & vpon hys veſtimētes & vpō his ſōnes & on theyr ve ſtimentes wyth him, & ſanctified Aaron & his veſtures & his ſonnes & hys ſōnes ve ſtures alſo. Thē Moſes ſayd vnto Aarō & his ſonnes: boyle the fleſhe in the doze of the tabernacle of witneſſe, & there * eate it G Exo. wyth the bread that is in the baſket of ſac offringes, as the Lord cōmaunded, ſayin ge: Aaron and hys ſonnes ſhall eate it and that whyche remaynyth of the fleſhe & of the bread, burne it wyth fyre

The. ix. Chapter.

AND thee. viii. daye Moyſes called Aarō & his ſonnes, & ỹ I elders of Iſrael, & ſaid vnto Aarō: take a calfe for a ſinne offring, & a ram for a burnt offringe: both without bleminſhe, & bringe thē before the lorde. And vnto the childrē of Iſrael he ſpake ſaying: take ye an he goote for a ſynneoffryng, and a calfe & a lambe both two of a yere olde, & without bleminſhe for a burntſacrifice, & an ore & a ram for peaceoffrynges, to offer before the Lord, & a meatoffryng myngled with oyle, for to daye the Lord wyll appere vn B to you. And they brought that whyche Moyſes cōmaunded vnto the tabernacle of wytnes, and all the people came & ſtode before the Lord. And Moyſes ſayde: this is the thynge whych the Lord cōmaūded that ye ſhuld do: and thē the glorye of the Lord ſhall appeare vnto you. And Moy ſes ſayde vnto Aaron: goo vnto the alter and offer thy ſynneoffryng, and make an attonemēt for the and for the people, and then offer the offerynge of the people, and reconcyle them alſo, as the Lord commaū ded Moyſes.

And Aaron wēt vnto the alter, & ſlewe the calfe that was his ſynneoffryng. And the ſonnes of Aaron brought the bloude vnto hym, and he dypte hys fynger in the bloud & put it vpō the hornes of the alter, and poured the bloud vnto the botome of the alter. And the fatt & thee two kydneys wyth the kal of the lyuer of the ſynneoffe ring he burnt vpō the alter, as the lord cō maūded Moſes: but the fleſhe & the hyde, he burnt with fyre without the hoſte. Af terward he ſlewe the burntoffringe, & Aa C rōs ſonnes brought the bloud vnto hym, & he ſprinkled it rounde about vpō the alter And they brought the burntoffring vnto hym in peces & the head alſo, & he burnte it vppon the alter, and dyd waſſhe the in wardes and the legges, and burnt thē al ſo vpon the burntoffringe in the alter.

And then he brought the peoples offe ring & toke the gote that was the peoples ſynneoffrynge, and ſlewe it & offered it for a ſynneoffrynge: as he dyd the fyrſt. And then brought the burntoffrynge, & offred it as the maner was, & brought the meat offrynge and fylled his hande therof, and burnt it vpon the alter, beſyde the burnte ſacrifyce in the morynge.

Thē he ſlewe the ore & the ram that we re the peoples peaceofferinges, & Aarons ſonnes brought the bloud vnto hym, & he ſprinkled it vpon the alter rounde about, and toke the fat of the ore and of the ram the tāpe & the fat that couereth the inwar des and the kydneys and the ſkall of thee lyuer: & put thē vpō the breſtes and burnt it vpon the alter: but the breſtes and thee D ryght ſhoulders Aaron waued before the Lord, as the Lord cōmaunded Moyſes. And Aaron lyfte vp hys hande ouer thee people & bleſſed thē, & came downe frō of frynge of ſynneoffrynges, burntoffryn ges, and peaceoffringes. Thē Moyſes & Aaron went into the tabernacle of witnes and came out agayne and bleſſed the peo ple, and the glorye of the Lorde appeared vnto all the people. And there came a fyre out from before the Lord, and conſumed vpō the alter the burntoffring and the fat And al the people ſawe it, and ſhowted, & fell on theyr faces.

¶ Nadab & Abihu are ſlayne. Iſraell mourneth for them. The Prieſtes are forbidden wyne. The reſy dewe of the ſacrifice the Prieſtes eate.

The. x. Chapter.

AND a‡ Nadab & Abihu thee ſonnes of Aarō toke ether of thē his cenſor, & put fyre ther in, & put cens vpō, & brought ſtraūge fyre before the Lord whych he cōmaunded thē not, & ther went a fyre out from the Lord, & conſumed thē & they dyed before the Lorde. Thē Moy ſes ſayd vnto Aaron: this is that the lord ſpake ſaynge: I wyll be b‡ ſanctifyed in them that cōme nye me, & before al the peo ple I wylbe glorifyed. And Aaron helde hys peace. And Moyſes called Miſaell and Eliſaphā the ſonnes of Oziel the vn cle of Aaron, and ſayd vnto them: goo to B Luke in Ge and carye your * brethrē frō the holy pla ne. xlii. b. ce out of the hoſte. And they went to them and caryed them in theyr albes out of the hoſte, as Moyſes bad.

And Moſes ſayde vnto Aaron & vnto Eleazar & Ithamar his eldeſt ſonnes: vn couer not your head nether rent your clo thes, leſt ye dye & wrath come vpō al ỹ peo ple, let your brethē the hole houſe of Iſra ell bewepe the burninge wbych the Lorde hath burnt. But go ye not out frō the doze of the tabernacle of wytneſſe, leſt ye dye: for the annoyntynge oyle of the Lorde is vpon you. And they dyd as Moyſes bad

And the Lord ſpake vnto Aaron ſayin ge: drincke no wyne no ſtronge drinke, ne ther thou nor thy ſonnes wyth the: when ye goo into the tabernacle of wytneſſe, leſt ye dye. And let it be a lawe for euer vnto

vnto your chyldre after you: that ye may put differēce betwene holy and vnholy, & betwene vnclene & clene, and that ye maye teache the chyldren of Israell all the ordinaunces which the Lord had cōmaunded them by the handes of Moyses.

And Moyses sayd vnto Aarō & vnto Eleazār & Ithamar hys sonnes that were left: take the meatoffring that remaynyth of the sacrifices of the lord, & eate it without leuen beside the alter, for it is most holy: eate it therfore in the holy place, because it is thy dutye and thy sonnes dutye of the sacrifice of the Lorde: for so I am cōmaunded. And the wauebreste and heueshoulder eate in a cleane place: bothe thou & thy sonnes & thy doughters with the. For it is thy dutye & thy sonnes dutie with the of the peaces offeringes of the chyldren of Israel. For the heue houlder & the wauebrest whych they bringe with the sacrifyces of the fatt, to waue it before the Lord, shalbe thyne and thy sonnes with the: and be a lawe for euer, as the Lord hath cōmaunded.

And Moyses sought for the gote that was the synneoffringe, & se it was burnt And he was angrye with Eleazār & Ithamar the sonnes of Aaron, which were left a lyue, sayinge: wherfore haue ye not eate the synneoffringe in the holye place, seynge it is moost holye: and for asmoche as it is geuen you to beare the synne of the people, and make agreemente for them before the Lorde: Beholde, the bloude of it was not brought in within the holy place therfore shoulde ye haue eaten it in thee holye place, as I cōmaunded. And Aaron sayd vnto Moyses: behold thys daye haue they offered theyr synneoffringe & theyr burnt offryng before the Lord, and it is chaūced me after this maner. Yf I shuld eate of the synneoffryng to day, wold the Lord be cōtent wythal? And whē Moyses heard that he was content.

Of beastes whych be cleane, and whych vncleane

The.xi.Chapter.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses and Aarō saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell and saye, these ar the beastes whyche ye shall eate among all the beastes that are on thee erth: what soeuer hath hofe and deuyded it in to two clawes & cheweth cud among the beastes that shal ye eat. Neuerthelesse, these shall ye not eate of them that chewe cud & haue hookes. Thee camel, for he cheweth cud but he deuydeth not the hoofe in to two clawes therfore he shall be vncleane vnto you. And the conye for he cheweth the cud but deuydeth not the hooke in to two clawes, therfore he is vncleane to you. And thee hare, for he lykewise cheweth the cud, but deuydeth not the hooke in to two clawes, he is therfore vnclene to you. And the swyne, for though he deuyde the hoofe in to two clawes, yet he cheweth not thee cud, and therfore is vnclene to you. Of theyr flesh se that ye eāt not, & theyr carkasses se that ye touch not, for they ar vncleane to you.

These shall ye eate of all that are in the waters: what soeuer hath fynnes and skales in thee waters, sees & ryuers, that shall ye eate. And all that haue not fynnes and skales in thee sees and ryuers of all that moue and lyue in the waters shal ye abhorre. Se that ye eate not of theyr flesh, & also that ye abhorre theyr carkases: for al that haue no fynnes nor scales in the waters, shalbe abomynacyon vnto you. Thes are the foules whych ye shall abhorre and whych shall not be eaten, for they are an abhomynacyon. The egle, the gosshauke, the cormorāunte, the kyte, the bultur and all hys kynd, & all kynd of rauens, the estrich, the nyghtcrowe & cocow the sparowhauke, and all the kynde: the lytle oule, the storke, the great oule the backe, thee pellycane, the pye, the heron, thee iaye wythe thee kynde, thee lappewynge and the swalowe. And al foules that crepe and goo vpon all foure shalbe an abomynacyon vnto you.

Yet these maye eate of all the foules that moue & go vpon .iiii. fete euen those that haue no knees aboue vpō theyr fete to lepe wyth all vpon the erth, euen these of them ye maye eate: the Arbe and all hys kynde: thee Selaam with al hys kynde the Hargoll & all the kynde, the Hagab, & al his kynde. All other foules that moue & haue .iiii. fete, shalbe abhomynacion vnto you. In soch ye shalbe vncleane, whosoeuer touche the carkesse of thē shalbe vncleane vnto thee euen, and whosoeuer beareth the carkasse of thē, shal washe his clothes and so shalbe vncleane vntyll euen.

Amonge all maner beastes, that haue hookes & deuyde thē not in to two clawes or that chewe not the cud, shalbe vncleane vnto you: and all that touchethe thē shall be vncleane. And all that goeth vpon his handes among all maner beastes that go on all foure fete are vncleane vnto you: & as many as touche theyr carkasses, shalbe vncleane vntyl the euen. And he that beareth the carkasse of them, shall washe hys clothes and be vncleane vntyll thee euen, for soche are vncleane vnto you.

And these are also vncleane to you among the thynges that crepe vpō the erth the wesel, the mouse, the toode & al his kynde, the hedgehogge, stellio, the licerte, thee snaple and the moule: these ar vncleane to you among al that moue, & al that touche them when they be dead, shal be vncleane vntyll the euen. And whatsoeuer any of the dead carkasses of them fall vpon, shal be vncleane: whatsoeuer vessel of wood it be or raymēt, or skynne, or bagge, or what so euer thinge it be the any worke is wrought wythall. And they shall be plunged in the water, and be vncleane vntyll the euen, & then they shalbe cleane agayne.

Al maner of erthe vessel wher into any of them falleth is vncleane, wyth all that therin is: and ye shal breake it. Al maner meate that is eaten, yf any soch water come vpon it, it shal be vncleane. And al maner drinke that is drocke in al maner soch vessels shalbe vncleane. And whether it be ouen or kettell it shalbe broken. For they are vncleane & shalbe vncleane vnto you: Neuerthelater, yet the fountaynes & welles and pondes of water, shall be cleane styll. But whosoeuer touchethe theyr carkasses, shall be vncleane.

Yf the dead carkasse of any soch fal vpon anye sede vsed to sowe, it shall yet be cleane styll: but & yf any water be poured vpon thee sede and afterwarde the deade carkasse of them fall thereon, then it shalbe vncleane vnto you.

Yf any beast of whych ye may eate, dye, he that toucheth the dead carkasse shall be vncleane vntyll the euē. And he that eateth of any soch dead carkasse, shal washe hys clothes and remayne vncleane vntyl the euen. And he also that beareth the carkesse of it, shall washe hys clothes, and be vncleane vntyll euen.

All that scrauleth vpon the earth, is an abhomynacyon, and shall not be eaten And whatsoeuer goeth vpon the breaste, and whatsoeuer goeth vpon foure or mo fete amonge all that scrauleth vpon thee earth, of that se ye eate not: for they are abhomynable. Make not your soules abhomynable wyth nothinge that crepeth, neyther make your soules vncleane wyth thē that ye shuld be defyled thereby. For I am the Lorde youre God, * be sanctyfyed therfore that ye may be holy, for I am holy: and defyle not youre soules wyth any maner thynge that crepeth vpon the earth For I am the Lord that brought you out of the lande of Egypte to be youre God: be holy therfore, for I am holy.

Leuit. xix. d. i. Petr. i. d.

Thys is the lawe of beast and foule & of all maner thynge that lyueth and moueth in the water and of all thynges that crepe vpon the earth, that ye may put difference betwene vncleane & cleane, and betwene thee beastes that are eaten and thee beastes that are not eaten.

The.xii.Chapter.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, and sayde: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell and saye: when a woma hath conceaued, and hathe borne a man chylde, she shall be vncleane seuen dayes: euen in lyke maner as when she is putte a parte in tyme of her a natural diseale. And in the eyghte daye the flesshe of the chyldes foreskynne shall be cutte awaye. And she shall continue in the bloud of her purifyenge. xxxiii. dayes, she shall touche noo halowed thynge nor come into the sanctuarye, vntyll thes tyme of her purifyenge be oute. Yf she beare a mayde chylde, then she shall be vncleane two weks, as when she hath hyr natural disease. And she shal cõtynue in the bloud of hyr puritenge. lxvi. dayes.

C *Luke. ii. b. *And when the dayes of hyr purifyeng are out: whether it be a sonne or a doughter, she shall bringe a lambe of one yeare olde for a burntoffring and a younge pygeon or a turtyll doue for a synneoffring vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytnes vnto the Priest: which shal offer them before the Lord, and make an attonemẽt for her, and so she shalbe purged of hyr yssue of bloud.

D *leui. v. b. luke. ii. d. *This is the lawe of her that hath borne a child, whether it be male or female. But and yf she be not able to bring a shepe, then let her bringe two turtyls or two younge pygeons: the one for the burntoffringe, and the other for the synneoffring And the Priest shall make an attonemẽte for her, and she shalbe cleane.

The .xiii. Chapter.

A And the lord spake vnto Moses and vnto Aarõ saying: whether appeareth a a rysing in any mans flesh ether a scabbe or a glistring white: as though the plage of leprosye were in the skyn of hys flesh, then let him be brought vnto Aaron the Priest or vnto one of hys sonnes the Priestes, and let the priest loke on the sore that is in the skyn of his flesh. Yf the hayre in the sore be tourned vnto white, and the sore seme also to be lower then the skynne of hys flesh, then it is surely a leprosye, and let the Priest loke on him, and iudge him vncleane.

Yf ther be but a white plecke in the skin of his flesh, and seme not to be lower then the other skinne nor the hayre therof is tourned vnto white: then let the Priest shutte him vp seuẽ dayes. And let the Priest loke vpon him the. vii. day: yf the sore seme to him to abyde styll and to go no further in the skynne, then let the priest shut him vp yet. vii. dayes moo. And let the priest loke on him agayne the. vii. day. Then yf the sore be waxed blackeshe, and is not growen abroade in the skynne, lett the Priest make him cleane, for it is but a skyrf. And lette him washe his clothes, and then he is cleane But and yf the scabbe growe in the skyn after that he is sene of the Priest agayn. Yf the Priest se that the scabbe be growen abrode in the skynne, let him make him vncleane: for it is surely a leprosye.

Yf the plage of leprosye be in a mã, let him be brought vnto the Priest, and lett the B Priest se him. Yf the rysing apeare white in the skynne, and haue also made the hayre white, and there be rawe flesche in the sore also: then it is an olde leprosye in the skinne of hys flesche. And the priest shal iudge him vncleane, and shal not shutte him vp for he is vncleane.

Yf a leprosye breake out in the skynne and couer all the skynne from the head to the foote ouer all whersoeuer the Priest loketh, then let the Priest loke vpõ him. Yf the leprosye haue couered all hys flesche, let him iudge the disease clene: for in asmoch as he is all together white he is therefore cleane. But and yf ther be rawe flesch on him C whẽ he is sene, then he shalbe vnclene. Ther fore whẽ the Priest seeth the rawe flesshe, let him iudge him vnclene. For in asmoch as his flesche is rawe, he is vncleane and it is surelye a true leprosye. But and yf the rawe flesche depart agayne and chaũge vnto white then let him come to the priest, and let the priest se him: Yf the soore be chaũged vnto white, let the Priest iudge the disease cleane, and then he is cleane.

When there is a byle in thee skynne of any mans flesche, and is healed and after in the place of the byle ther appeare a whyte rysyng ether a shyning white somwhat readysshe. let him be sene of the priest. Yf whẽ the Priest seeth him it appeare lower thã the other skynne and the hayre therof be chaũged vnto whyte, let the Priest iudge him vncleane: for it is a verye leprosye, that is broken out in the place of the byle. But and yf (when the Priest loketh on it) ther be no whyte hayres therin nether the scabbe lower thẽ the other skynne, and be somwhat blackesh, then the Priest shall shutte him aparte seuen dayes. Yf it spreade abrode in the meane season, then let the priest iudge him vncleane: for it is a leprosye. But and yf the glystrynge whyte abyde styll in one place and go no further, then it is but the pynte of the byle, and the Priest shall D iudge him cleane.

When the skynne of any mãs flesche is burnt

burnte wythe fyre that it be rawe and there apere in thee burnyng a glystryng whyte ẽ is somwhat reddysh or altogether whyte let the Preaste loke vpon it. If the hayre in that brightnes be chaunged to whyte, and it also appeare lower then thee other skynne, then it is a leprosye that is broke out of the place of the burnyng. And thee Preast shal iudge him vncleane, for it is a leprosye. But and yf (when the Preaste loketh on it) he se that there is no whyte hayre in the brightenes, and that it is no lower then the other skynne, and that it is also blackesh, then let the preast shut him vp seuen dayes. And yf (when the Preast loketh on him ẽ seuenth daye) it be growne abrode in the skyn, let him iudge him vncleane: for it is a leprosye. But and yf that brightnesse abyde still in one place and go no further in the skynne and be blackesh then it is but a rysing in the place of thee burnyng, and the Preast shall make him cleane: for it is but the pynte of the burnyng only.

C When ether man or woman hath a breakyng out vpon the heed or the beerd, let the preast se it. And if it appeare lower than thee other skynne, and ther be therin golden hayres and thyn, let the Preaste iudge him vncleane, for it is a breakyng out of leprosye vpon thee heed or bearde. If (when the Preast loketh on the breakyng out) he se that it is no lower then the other skynne and that there are blacke hayres therin, let him shut him vp seuen dayes. And let the Preast loke on the disease the vii. daye: and yf ẽ breakyng out be gone no further nether be any golde hayres therin nether thee scabe be lower then thee other skynne, then let him be shauẽ, but lett him not shaue ẽ scabe: and lett ẽ priest shut him vp. vii, dãies mo. And let ẽ priest loke on the breakyng out the. vii. day agayn: Yf thee breakyng out be gone no further in the skynne nor more lower then the other skinne, then let the priest iudge him cleane and let him washe hys clothes, and then he is clene. Yf the breakyng out growe in skynne after that he is once iudged clene let thee Preast see him. Yf it be growne abrode in dede in the skynne, let the priest E seke no further for any golde hayres, for he is vncleane. But and yf he se that thee scabbe stande styll, and that there is blacke hayre growen vp therin, then thee scabbe is healed and he is cleane: and the Preaste shall iudge him cleane. Yf ther be found in the skynne of thee flesche of man or woman a glysterynge whyte, let the Priest se it. Yf there appeare in theyr flesche a glysterynge whyte somwhat blacke, then it is but frekels growen vp in the skynne and he is cleane.

Yf a mans hayre fall of hys head, the he is headbouldc and cleane. Yf hys hayre fal before in his forehead, thẽ he is fore headbalde and cleane. Yf there be in the bauldc head or bauldc forehead a redysh whyte scabbe, thẽ ther is leprosye sprounge vp in his bauldc head or bauldc forehead And let the priest se it: and yf the rysynge of the sore be reddysh whyte in hys bauld head or forehead after thee maner of a leprosye in the skynne of the flesche, thẽ he is a leper and vncleane: and the Preest shal iudge him vncleane, for ẽ plage of hys head And the leper in whom the plage is, shall G haue hys clothes rente and hys head bare and his mouth mofled, and shalbe called vncleane. And as longe as the dysease lasteth vpon hym, he shalbe vncleane: for he is vncleane, and shall therfore dwell alone, and euen wythout the hoofte shall hys habytacyon be.

¶ When the plage of leprosye is in a cloth: whether it be lyne or wolle, or whether it be in the warpe or wolfe of the lyne or of the wollen: ether in a skynne or anye thinge made of skynne, yf thee dysease be pale or somwhat reddysh in ẽ cloth or skyn whether it be in the warpe or wolfe or any thynge that is made of skynne, then it is a very leprosye, and muste be shewed vnto the prieste. And whẽ the priest seeth the plage, let him shut it vp. vii. dayes, and let him loke on the plage the. vii. daye. Yf it be increased in the cloth: whether it be in ẽ warpe or wolfe or in a skynne or in any thing that is made of skynne, then the plage is a freatynge leprosye, and it is vncleane: and that clothe shalbe burnte, eyther warpe or wolfe, whether it be wollen or lyne or any thynge that is made of skynne where in ẽ plage is, for it is a freatyng leprosye, and shalbe burnt in the fyre.

Yf ẽ priest see ẽ the plage hath freaten no further in the cloth: ether in the warpe

or

or wolfe or whatsoeuer thynge of skynne it be, then let the preest commaunde thē to washe the thinge wherin the plage is, and let him shut it vp. vii. dayes moo. And let the prieste loke on it agayne after that the plage is washed. Yf the plage haue not chaunged hys facion thoughe it be spred no further abrode, it is yet vncleane. And se that ye burne it in the fyre, for it is kept inward, whether in parte or in al together But and yf the preest se, that it is somwhat blackyshe after that it is washed, let hym rent it out of the clothe, or out of the skinne or out of the warpe or wolfe. But and yf it appeare anymore in the cloth ether in the warpe or in the wolfe or in any thinge made of skinne, thē it is a waringe plage. And se that ye burne that wyth fyre, wher in the plage is. Moreouer the clothe ether warpe or wolfe or whatsoeuer thynge of skynne it be, which thou hast washed and the plage be departed from it, shalbe washed once agayn: & then it is cleane. Thys is the law of ỹ plage of leprosie in a cloth whether it be wollē or linē: eyther whether it be in the warpe or wolfe, or in any thing made of skynnes, to iudge it cleane or vncleane.

The Notes

a‡ The lepre spryngeth properly mannes body tryne, whych spreadeth abrode lyke a canker: and to be shore all infection of vngoddelynes, therfore must the Leuytes geue dylygent hede thereto: for a lytel leuen soureth the whole lompe of doughe.

b‡ Couered al his flesshe. &c. Here is that called a leper whyche yet is none in deede, but semeth to be one: where as the rotnesse of humoures breakynge forth into the vtter partes al ỹ body ouer, is calles a leper, and yet must it be iudged to be cleane.

AND the lord spake vnto Moses saying: *thys is the lawe of a leper when he shalbe clēsed: He shalbe brought vnto ỹ Priest, & ỹ preest shal go out without the hoste & loke vpō hym. Yf the plage of leprosie be healed in the leper, thē shal the Priest cōmaūde ỹ ther be brought for hym that shalbe clensed two lyuing byrdes that are cleane, and cedar wodd, & a pece of purple clothe and ysope. And the Priest shal cōmaunde that one of the byrdes be killed in an erthen vessell with rennynge water. And the Priest shal take the lyuing byrde and the cedar wodd and the purple and the ysope, and shall dyppe thē and thee lyuinge byrde in thee bloude of the slayne byrde, and in the renninge water and sprinkle it vpon him that must be clensed of hys leprosye seuen tymes and clense hym, and shall let the lyuing byrde go free into the feldes.

And he that is clensed shall washe hys clothes and shaue of al hys hayre, & wash hym selfe in water, and then he is cleane. And after that he shal come into the hoste but shall tarye wythout hys tent. vii. dayes. When the seuēth daye is come, he shal shaue of al hys hayre both vpon his head and hys berde & on hys browes: & euē all the hayre that is on hym, shalbe shauē of. And he shal washe his clothes & hys flesh in water, and then he shalbe cleane.

And when the. viii. day is come, let him take two lambes without blemyshe and a ewe lambe of a yere old without blemish and thre tenthe deales of fyne floure for a meatoffryng myngled wyth oyle, and one logge of oyle. Thā let the Priest that maketh hym cleane, bringe the man that is made cleane wyth those thynges before ỹ Lorde vnto the dore of thee tabernacle of wytnes. And let the Priest take one of the lambes and offer him for a trespaceoffringe, & the logge of oyle: and waue them before the Lorde. And then lett hym slee the lambe in the place where the synneoffring and the burnteoffringe are slayne: euen in the holye place. For as the synneoffrynge is, euen so is the trespaceoffryng the priestes: for it is moost holye.

Then let the priest take of the bloude of the trespaceoffringe, & put it vpon ther typpe of the ryght eare of hym that is clēsed, & vpon the thombe of hys ryght hand and vpon the great too of his ryght foote. Then lett the Priest take of the logge of oyle and poure it into the palme of his lefte hande and dyppe hys ryghte fynger in the oyle that is in the palme of hys left hāde, and let hym sprinkle it with his fynger vii. tymes before the lord. And of the rest of the oyle that is in hys hande, shall the priest put vpō the typpe of the ryght eare of hym that is clensed, and vpon the thombe of hys ryght hand, and vpon the great too of his rightfote: euē vpō the bloud of the the trespaceoffryng. And the remnaunte of the oyle that is in the Preastes hande, he shall poure vpon the heed of hym that is clensed: and so shall thee Preeste make an atonement for hym before the Lorde.

Then let the Preest offer the synneoffrynge and make an atonement for hym that is clēsed for his vnclennesse. And thē let the burntoffrynge be slayn, and let the preest put both the burntoffrynge & meate offringe vpon the alter: and make an attonement for hym and then he shalbe cleane. If he be poore and can not gette so moch, then let hym bringe one lambe for a trespaceoffrynge to waue it and to make an attonement for hym, and a tenth deale of fyne floure myngled with oyle for a meat offryng and a logge of oyle, and two turtyll doues or two younge pygeons whyche he is able to gett, and lette the one be a synne offryng & the other a burntoffring. And let hym bryng them the. viii. day for hys clensyng vnto the Priest to thee dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse before thee Lorde.

And let the Preyste take thee lambe that is the trespaceoffryng and the logge of oyle, and waue them before the Lorde. And when thee lambe of the trespaceoffrynge is killed, the Preest shall take of the bloud of the trespace offring, and put it vpon the typpe of hys ryghte eare that is clensed, and vpon thee thombe of hys ryght hand, and vpon thee greate too of his right fote. And ỹ priest shal poure of ỹ oyle in hys ryght hand, and shal sprynkle w hys fynger of the oyle ỹ is in hys left hand seuen tymes before the Lorde.

And the Priest shal put on the oyle ỹ is in hys hād vpō the typpe of the right eare of him ỹ is clēsed, and vpō the thombe of hys ryght hand, and vpō the great too of his right fote: euē in ỹ place where the bloud of the trespaceoffring was put And the rest of the oile that is in his hand he shal poure vpon the head of him that is clensed: to make an attonemēt for him before the Lorde. And he shall offer one of the turtyll doues or of the younge pygeons, soche as he can gett: the one for a synneoffryng and the other for a burnteoffryng vpon the alter. And so shall thee Preest make an atonemēt for him ỹ is clēsed before the Lorde. Thys is thee lawe of hym that hathe the plage of leprosye: whose hand is not able to gett that whych pertayneth to hys clensynge.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayinge: when ye be come vnto the lande of Cānaā whych I geue you to possesse: yf I put the plage of leprosie in any house of the lād of your possessiō, let hym that dweth the house go & tel the preest sayingenne thinke that ther is as it were a leprosye in the house. And the Preest shal cōmaunde them to ryd all thynge out of the house, before the Preest go in to se the plage: that he make not all that is in the house vncleane, and then the priest shall go in and se the house.

Yf the preest se ỹ the plage is in ỹ walles of the house, & that ther be holowe strakes pale or redde which seme to be lower then the other partes of ỹ wall, thē let the preest go out at the house dores, and shut vp the house for. vii. dayes. And let the preest come agayne the seuenth day & se it: yf ỹ plage be increased in the walles of the house; let the Preest cōmaunde thē to take awaye the stones in whych the plage is, & lett thē cast thē in a foule place wythout the cytye and scrape the house within round about and poure out the dust wythout the cytye in a foule place. And let thē take other stones, & putt them in the places of those stones and other morter, & plaster the house with all. Yf now the plage come agayn & breake out in the house, after that they haue taken away the stones and scraped the house, & after that the house is playstered a new: let the Priest come and se it. And yf then he perceaue that the plage hath eate further in the house, then it is a freatinge leprosye that is in the house, and it is vncleane. Then they shall breake downe the house: both stones: tymber and al the morter of the house, & carye it oute of the cytye vnto a foule place. Moreouer he ỹ goeth into the house al the whyle that it is shutt vp, shalbe vncleane vntyll nyght. And he that slepeth in thee house shall washe hys clothes, and he also that eateth in the house shall washe hys clothes.

But and yf the Priestе come & see that ỹ plage hath spred no further in ỹ house after that it is newe playstered, thē let him make it cleane, for thee plage is healed. And let hym take to clense the house with all:ii. bydes, cedar wood, & purple clothe and yſope. And let him kyl one of the bydes in an erthē veſſel with running water & take ȳ cedar wood, the yſope, the purple, & the lyuing bryde, & dyppe thē in ȳ bloud of the clayne bryde & in the running water & ſprinkle vpon the houſe ſeuen tymes, & cleanſe the houſe wyth the bloud of the bryde, & wyth ȳ running water, & with the lyuing bryd, & with the cedar wood, and the yſope, & the purple cloth. And he ſhal let ȳ lyuinge bryd flee out of the towne into the wyloe feldes, & ſo make an attonemēt for the houſe, and it ſhalbe cleane. This is the lawe of al maner plage of leprоſye & byſa kynge out, & of the leprоſye of clothe and houſe: and of ryſynges, ſcabbes and glyſtrynge whyte, to teache when a thynge is vncleane or cleane. Thys is the lawe of leprоſye.

☞ When he that hath an yſſue is cleſed of hys yſſue, let hym nombre. vii. dayes after he is cleane, and waſhe hys clothes, and bathe hys fleſh in runnynge water, and then he is cleane. And thee. viii. daye let hym take two turyll doues or.ii. yōg pygeons, and come before the Lord vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witneſſe and geue thē vnto the Prieſt. And the Prieſt ſhal offer them: the one for a ſynneoffryng, and the other for a burnt offering: and ſo make an atonemente for hym before thee Lorde as concer nynge hys iſſue.

☞ If any mānes ſeed departe frō hym in hys ſlepe, he ſhal waſhe hys fleſh in water and be vncleane vntyll euen. And all the clothes or furres were on ſuche ſeede chanſeth ſhalbe waſhed with water and be vncleane vnto ȳ euē. And yf a woman lye wyth ſoche a one, they ſhall waſh thē ſelues wyth water and be vncleane vntill euen.

☞ When a womans naturall courſe of bloude runneth, ſhe ſhalbe put aparte vii. dayes: and whoſoeuer toucheth her ſhalbe vncleane vnto thee euen. And all that ſhe lyethe or ſytteth vpon as longe as ſhe is put a parte ſhalbe vncleane. And whoſoeuer toucheth her couch ſhal waſh his clothes and bathe hym ſelfe with water and be vncleane vnto thee euen. And whoſoeuer toucheth any thynge that ſhe ſatte vpon, ſhall waſhe hys clothes and waſhe hym ſelfe alſo in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen, ſoo that whether he touche her couche or anye thinge whereon ſhe hath ſytte, he ſhalbe vncleane vnto the euē, & yf a man lye wt her in the meane tyme, he ſhalbe put apart as well as ſhe & ſhalbe vnclene. vii. dayes, & all hys couch wherin he ſlepeth ſhalbe vncleane.

The.xvi. Chapter.

A Leuit.16.a. AND the Lorde ſpake vnto Moſes * after ȳ deeth of the two ſonnes of Aaron, when they had offered before the Lorde & dyed: And he ſayde vnto Moſes: ſpeake vnto Aaron thy bro ther ȳ he go not at al tymes into the holy place, that is within the vayle that hangeth before the mercyſeate which is vpō ȳ arcke ȳ he dye not. For I wyll appeare in a * cloude vpon the mercyſeate.

By ȳ cloud vnderſtāde the ſmoke of the fyre.

But of this maner ſhall Aaron goo in to the holy place: wyth a bullock for a ſyn neofferyngе, and a ram for a burnteoffe- rynge. And he ſhal put the holy lynen albe vpō him, and ſhal hauc a lynen breche vpon his fleſh, and ſhal gyrde him with a lynē gyrdell, and put the linē mitre vpon his heede: for they ar holy raymētes. And he ſhal waſſhe his fleſh with water, & put them on. And he ſhal take of ȳ multitude of the children of Iſrael two he gootes for a ſinneoffring and a ram for a burnt offerynge. B

And Aaron ſhal offer the bullock for hys ſynne offeryng & make an attonemēt for hym and for his houſſe. And he ſhall take the two gootes & preſente thē before the Lorde in the doze of the tabernacle of witneſſe. And Aaron ſhal caſt lottes ouer the.ii. gootes: one lotte for the Lorde, & another for a ſcapegoote. And Aaron ſhal bryngе the goote vpon which the Lordes lotte fel, & offer him for a ſynne offering. But the goote on whiche the lotte fell to ſcape, he ſhall ſett, aliue before ȳ Lord to reconcyle with & to let hym goo fre into ȳ wyldderneſſe. And Aaron ſhal bryngе the bullocke of hys ſynne offryng, & recōcyle for hym ſelf and for his houſholde, and kyll him. C

And then he ſhall take a cenſer full of burnyng coles out of the alter that is before the lord, & his handful of ſwete cence beten ſmall & bryngе them within the vayle & put the cence vpon the fire before ȳ Lord: that the cloude of the cence may couer the mercy ſeate ȳ is vpon ȳ wytneſſe, that he dye not. * And he ſhall take of the bloude of the bullock & ſprynkle it wyth hys fynger before ȳ mercyſeate eaſtward euen. vii. tymes. Hebr. 9.c. and 10.a.

Then ſhall he kyll the goote that is ȳ peoples ſinne offring, & bryng his bloude within the vaile, & doo wythe hys bloude as he dyd with ȳ bloude of the bullock, & let him ſprynkle it towarde ȳ mercyſeate and before the mercyſeate: and reconcile ȳ holy place from the vnclenneſſe of ȳ chyldren of Iſrael, and from their treſpaces & al their ſynnes. And ſo let hym doo alſo vnto the tabernacle of wytnes that dwelleth wt them, euen amonge their vnclennеſſes. D a‡ Catel may not gendre with a contrary kynde agaynst the order of nature: muche lesse reasonable creatures made to the ymage of God as men & women.

¶ They that geue of their sede to Moloch shal dye therfore. Other goodly lawes necessarye to be vsed in common wealthes.

The .xx. Chapter.

AND ỹ Lord talked with Moses saying: tel the children of Israel whosoeuer he be of ỹ chyldren of Israell or of the straungers ỹ dwel in Israel that geueth of his sede vnto ‡ Moloch he shal dye for it: the people of the land shal stone him wyth stones. And I wyll sett my face vpon that felowe, and wyll destroie him frō amonge his people: because he hathe geuen of his seed vnto Moloch, for to defyle my sanctuary and to polute my holy name. And though that the people of the lāde hide their eies from that felowe, whē he geueth of his sede vnto Moloch, so that they kyll him not: yet I wyll put my face vpon ỹ man and vpō hys generation, and wyl destroye him and all ỹ goo a whoorynge wyth hym and commit horedome wythe Moloche from amonge their people.

☞ If any soule turne him to enchaūters or crpounders of tokens and goo a whoorynge after them, I wyll put my face vpon that soule & wyll destroy him frō amōge hys people. Sāctifye your selues therfore & be holye for I am the Lorde youre God. And se that ye kepe myne ordynaūces and doo them. For I am the Lorde whyche sanctifye you.

☞ Whosoeuer curseth his father or mother shal die for it, his bloud on his head, because he hath cursed hys father or mother. ☞ He that breaketh wedlock with another mans wyfe shal dy for it, because he hath broke wedlocke with hys neyghboures wyfe, and so shall the lykewyse.

☞ If a man lye wyth his fathers wyfe & vncouer his fathers secretes, they shal both dye for it, their bloude be vpō their heedes. ☞ If a mā lye wyth hys daughter in lawe they shall dye both of them: they haue wrought abhominaciō, theyr bloud vpon theyr heedes. ☞ If a man lye with mankynde after the maner as vnto woman kynde, they haue both cōmytted an abhominacyon & shall die for it. Their bloude be vpon theyr heades.

☞ If

☞ Yf a man take a wyfe and her mother therto, it is wickednesse. Men shall burne wyth fyre both hym and the, that there be no wickednesse amonge you. ☞ Yf a mā lye wyth a beaste he shall dye, and ye shall slee the beast.

C ☞ Yf a womā goo vnto a beaste and lye downe therto: thou shalt kyll the womā & the beast also, they shal dye, & theyr bloud be vpon theyr heades. Yf a man take hys syster, hys fathers doughter or hys mothers doughter, & se her secretes, & she see hys secretes also: it is a wycked thynge. Therfore lett them perysh in the syght of theyr people, he hath sene his sisters secretnes, he shal therfore bere his synne. ☞ Yf a man lye wyth a womā in tyme of her naturall dysease and vncouer her secretes & open her fountayne, and she also open the fountayne of her bloud, they shal both perysche from amonge the people.

☞ Thou shalt not vncouer the secretes of thy mothers syster, nor of thy fathers syster, for he that doth so, vncouereth hys nerte kynne: and they shall beare theyr iniquitie.

They shall dye immediatly & not tary the byth as Juda wold de haue burnt.

☞ Yf a man lye wythe hys vncles wyfe, he hathe vncouered hys vncles secrettes: they shall beare theyr synne, and shall dye childelesse.

☞ Yf a man take hys brothers wyfe, it is an vncleane thynge, he hath vncouered hys brothers secretes, they shalbe childelesse therfore.

Thamar bringe great with childe ge. xxxviii. f.

* So that ye kepe therfore al myne ordinaunces and all my iudgementes, and that ye do them: that the lande whether I bringe you to dwel therin, spewe you not out. And se that ye walke not in ỹ maners of the nacyons wyche I caste oute before you: For they commytted al these thinges and I abhorred them.

But I haue sayde vnto you ỹ ye shall enioye theyr land, & that I wyl geue it vnto you to possesse it: euē a lād that floweth wyth milke & honye. I am the Lord your God, which haue separated you frō other nacions: * that ye shuld put difference betwene cleane beastes and vncleane, and betwene vncleane foules and them that are clene. Make not your soules therfore abhominable wyth beastes and foules, and wyth all maner thynge that creepeth vpon the grounde, wheych I haue separated vnto you to holde them vncleane. Be holye vnto me, for I the Lorde am holy & haue seuered you frome other nacyons: that ye shulde be myne.

Leuitici xxi

* Yf there be a man or a woman that worketh wyth a spyrite or that expoundeth tokēs they shal dye for it. Men shal stone them wyth stones, and theyr bloude shall be vpon them. Deu. xviii. Leuit. xx.

The Notes.

a Moloch, vnder this name Moloch is forbidden all maner of ydolatrye, specyally the exercysyng of chyldren thereto for that is abhominable before the Lorde. Moloch was an Idoll, of the chyldren of Ammon, whose Image was bolowe hauynge in it seuen closettes, one was to offer therin fyne floure, another for turtell doues, the thyrde for a Sepe, the fourthe for a Ram, the fyfth for a calfe, the syxt for an Oxe. And for hym that wolde offer hys sonne was opened the seuenth closet. And the face of thys Idoll, was lyke the face of a calfe, hys handes made playne readye to receaue of them that shode by

The preest is forbidde to be at the deth of any of hys people, & fewe of his kynne except. Preestes may not be shaue nether on the head nor pet of the beard The preestes wyfe muste be a mayde. The Preestes doughter may not be no harlott.

The. xxi. Chapter.

AND the Lord sayd vnto Moses: speake vnto the Preestes the sonnes of Aarō & say vnto thē. A a Preest shall defyle hym self at the death of none of his people, but vpō his kyn ỹ is nye vnto him: as his mother, father, sōne dought ter & brother: & on hys syster as lōg as she is a mayde & dwelleth nye hym & was neuer geuē to man: on her he may defile hym self. But he shall not make hym selfe vncleane vpon a ruler of hys people to polute hym selfe wythal.

☞ They shal make thē no baldnesse vpō theyr heades or shaue of ỹ lockes of theyr beardes, nor make anye marckes in theyr flesshe. They shalbe holy vnto theyr God & not polute the name of their god, for the sacrifices of the Lorde and the breade of their God they do offer: therfor they must be holy.

☞ They shall take no wyfe that is an whoore or poluted, or put frome her husbande: for a preast is holy vnto his god. Sanctifie hym therfore, for he offereth vp the bread of God: he shal therfore, be holy vnto the, for I the Lorde which sanctifye you, am holy.

☞ Yf a preastes daughter fall to playe the whore, she polutethe her father: therfore she shalbe burnt wyth fyre.

☞ He that is the hye preest among his bre thē vpon whose head the anoynting oyle was poured & whose hande was fylled to put on the vestimentes, shall not vncouer hys head nor rent hys clothes, nether shal goo to any dead body nor make hym selfe vncleane: no not on hys father or mother, nether shal go out of the sanctuarye, that he polute not the holye place of hys God, for ỹ crowne of ỹ anoynting oyle of god, is vpon hym. I am the Lord. He shall take a mayde vnto his wyfe: but no wedow nor deuorsed nor poluted whore. But he shall take a mayde of hys owne people to wyfe, that he defyle not his sede vpon his people: for I am the LORDE whych sanctifye hym.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto Aaron and say: No mā of thy sede in theyr generatiōs that hathe any deformyte vpon hym, shall preace for to offer the bread of hys God: for none ỹ hath any blemish shal come nere: whether he be blinde, lame, snot nosed, or that hath any mysshappē membre, or broke footed or broken handed, or crooke backed, or petleyed, or gogeleyed, or maunge, or skauld, or hath hys stones broken.

No mā that is deformed of the sede of Aaron the preest, shal come nye to offer sacrifices of the Lord. Yf he haue a deformite, he shall not preace to offer the bread of hys God. Notwythstandyng he shal eate of thee bread of hys God: euen as well of the most holy, as of the holye: but shal not goo in vnto the vayle nor come nye the alter, because he is deformed that he polute not my sanctuary, for I am the Lord that sanctifye them. And Moyses tolde it vnto Aaron and to hys sonnes, and vnto all the Chyldren of Israell.

The Notes

a The Preestes be warned that they shall not come at the common waylynges and lamentacyons of the dead lest they shulde thereby be thē more vnapte to doo theyr sacrifyces whereunto they were properlye appointed, and lest they shoulde by theyr weppyng geue an occasion to destroye the beleue of the resurrection of the dead.

What maner persons ought to abstayne from eatyng the thinges that were offred. Howe, what, & when they shulde be offred

The. xxii. Chapter.

AND the Lorde comened with Moses sayinge: bydd Aaron A and hys sonnes that they abstaine from the halowed thinges of the chyldrē of Israell whiche they haue halowed vnto me, that they polute not my holy name: for I am the Lorde. Saye vnto them: whosoeuer he be of al your seed among youre generatiō after you, ỹ goeth vntothe halowed thinges which the childrē of Israel shal haue halowed vnto the Lorde, hys vnclenes shalbe vpon him: & that soule shal perysh frō out of my syghte. I am ỹ Lord.

None of the seed of Aaron that is a leper or that hath a runnyng sore, shal eate of the halowed thynges vntil he be clēane. And whosoeuer toucheth any vncleane soule or man whose seed runneth frō hym by nyghte, or whosoeuer touchethe any wo:me that is vncleane to him, or mā ỹ is vncleane to hym, what soeuer vnclēnesse he hath: the same soule that hath any soch thynge, shalbe vncleane vntyl euen, and shal not eate of the halowed thinges vntyl he haue washed hys flesshe wt B wāter. And then when the sonne is downe he shalbe cleane & shall afterwarde eate of the halowed thinges: for they ar his fode. * Of a beest ỹ dyethe alone or is rēte vp wylde beastes, he shal not eate, to defyle him selfe therwyth: I am the Lord. Exo xxii. d Exe. xliiii g

But let them kepe therfore myne ordinaūce, lest they layde synne vpon them & dye therin whē they haue defiled them selues for I am the Lord whych sanctify them.

There shal no straunger eate of ỹ halowed thinges, nether a gest of the preastes, or an hyred seruaunt. But yf ỹ preest by any soule with money he maye eate of it, & he also that is borne in his hōuse may eate of his bred. If ỹ preastes daughter be maryed vnto a straunger, she may not eate of the halowed heue offrynges. Not withstāding, yf the preastes daughter be a wedowe or deuorsed & haue no childe but is returned vnto her fathers house a gaine, she shal eate of her fathers bred as wel as she did in her youth. But ther shal no straunger eate therof. If a man eat of the halowed thinges vnwittingly, he shal put the fyfte parte there vnto, and make goode vnto the Preaste thee halowed thyng

wed thing. And let the prestes se, that they defyle not the halowed thinges of the chil dren of Israell whyche they haue offered vnto the Lorde, lest they lade them selues wyth myl doynge and trespace in eatinge theyr halowed thynges, for I am the lord whych halowe them.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto Aarō and his sonnes & vnto al the chyldren of Israel & say vnto thē, whatsoeuer he be of the house of Israel or straūger in Israel that wyl offer hys offryng: whatsoeuer vowe or frewyllofferinge it be which they wyll offer vnto thee Lord for a burntoffring to reconcyle thē selues, it must be a male without blemysh of the oxen, shepe or gootes, let them offer nothynge that is deformed for they shall gett no fauoure therwyth.

If a ma wyll offer a peaceoffring vnto the Lord & separate a vowe or a frewil offrynge of the oxen or the flocke, it muste be wythout deformyte, that it maye be accepted. Ther may be no blemyshe therein: whether it be blinde, broken, wounded, or haue a wen, or be maunge or scabbed, se ye offer no soche vnto the Lorde, nor putt an offerynge of any soche vpon thee alter vnto the Lorde.

An oxe or a shepe that hath any membre out of proporcion, mayst thou offer for a frewyllofferinge: but in a vowe it shall not be accepted. Thou shalt not offer vnto the Lorde that which is broosed broken, plucked out or cutt awaye, neyther shalt make any soch in your lande, nether of a straungers hand shal ye offer an offryng to your God of any soch. For they marre all in that they haue deformites in thē, & therfore cannot be accepted for you. And ỹ lord spake vnto Moyses saying: whē an oxe, a shepe or a gote is brought forth, it shalbe seuen dayes vnder the dāme. And frō the viii. daye forthe, it shalbe accepted vnto a gyfte in the sacrifice of the lord. And whether it be oxe or shepe, ye shall not kyll it, & her younge both in one daye.

When ye wyll offer a thankofferinge vnto the Lorde, ye shall so offer it that ye maye be accepted. And the same daye it muste be eaten vp, so that ye leaue none of it vntyl the morowe. For I am the lord kepe now my commaundemētes & do thē for I am the Lord. And polute not my holy name, that I maye be halowed amonge the chyldren of Israel. For I am the lord whych halowed you, & brought you oute of the lande of Egipt, to be your God: for I am the Lorde.

The Notes

Thankeoffrynge, that is, an offeryng of thankes geuing. Thankes geuinge is whē the benefytes of God are receyued, wherby the fayth to Godward is strengthened the more lastly to seke for the thing that we desyre of god. Ephe. v. a. i. Timo. iiii. a. i. b.

Of the holy dayes, as the Sabboth: Easter: Whytsontyde, the feaste of the fyrste frutes. The feaste of clensyng. The feast of trompettes. The feast of the tabernacles.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

And the lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the chyldrē of Israel, & saye vnto thē. These ar the feastes of the Lord whyche ye shall call holy feastes. Sixe dayes ye shal worke, & the seuēth is the Saboth of rest an holye feast: so that ye maye do no worke therein for it is the Saboth of the Lorde, wherso euer ye dwell. These are the feastes of the Lorde whych ye shall proclayme holye in theyr seasons. * The. xiiii. day of the fyrst moneth at euē is the Lordes * Passeouer And the. xv. daye of the same moneth is ỹ feast of swete bread vnto the Lorde seuen dayes ye must eate vnleuēded bread. The fyrst daye shalbe an holy feast vnto you, so that ye maye doo noo laborious worke therin. But ye shall offer sacrifyces vnto the Lorde. vii. dayes, & the seuenth day also shalbe an holye feast, so that ye may do no laborious worke therein.

And ỹ Lord spake vnto Moyses sayinge: speake vnto the children of Israel & say vnto thē: whē ye be come into the land which I geue vnto you & repe downe your harueste ye shal bring a sheke of ỹ first frutes of your harueste vnto ỹ priest, & he shal waue the sheke before the lorde to be accepted for you: & euen the morowe after the Saboth ỹ priest shall waue it. And ye shal offer ỹ daye whē he waueth ỹ sheke, a lambe without blemish of a yere olde for a burntoffryng vnto the Lord: & the meat offringe therof, two tenthe deales of fyne floure mengled wyth oyle to be a sacrifice vnto ỹ lord of a swete sauour: & the drink offringe therto, the fourth deale of an hyn of wyne. And ye shall eate neyther bread nor nor parched corne, nor frumentye of newe corne: vntil the self same day that ye haue brought an offring vnto your God. And this shalbe a lawe for euer vnto your chyldren after you, wher soeuer ye dwell.

And ye shall coūte frō the morow after the Sabboth: euen from the daye that ye brought the sheke of the waueoffring. vii. wekes cōpletere vnto the morow after ỹ vii. weke ye shal nōbre. l. dayes. And then ye shal bryng a newe meatoffring vnto ỹ Lord. And ye shall bringe out of your habitatiōs two waue loaues made of two tenthdeales of fyne floure leuended & baken, for the fyrst frutes vnto the Lorde. And ye shall bringe wyth the bread seuen lābes without deformite of one yere of age, & one younge oxe and. ii. rammes, whych shall serue for burntoffringes vnto ỹ Lord, wyth meatoffringes & drynkeoffringes longinge to the same, to be a sacrifice of a swete sauour vnto the Lord.

And ye shal offer an he goote for a synneoffring: and two lābes of one yere olde for peaceoffringes. And the Priest shall waue thē with the bred of the fyrst frutes before the Lorde, & wyth the two lambes. And they shalbe holy vnto the Lord, & be the Priestes. And ye shall make a proclamation thee same daye that it be an holye feast vnto you, and ye shal doo no laborious worke therin: And it shalbe a law for euer thorowe out all your habitations vnto your chyldren after you.

Leui. xix. d * Whē ye repe downe your harueste, ỹ shalt not make clene ryddaūce of thy feld, nether shalt ỹ make any after gatheringe of thy harueste: but shalte leaue thē vnto ỹ poore and the straunger. I am the Lorde youre God.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell and saye. The fyrst daye of the seuēth moneth shalbe a rest of remembraunce vnto you, to blowe hornes in an holye feaste it shalbe, and ye shall do no laborious worke therin, and ye shall offer sacrifyce vnto the Lorde.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: also the tenth daye of the self seuēth moneth, is a daye of an attonemēt, & shall be an holy feast vnto you, and ye shall afflict humble your soules & offer sacrifice vnto the lorde. Moreouer ye shall do no worke the same daye, for it is a day of attonemēt to make an attonement for you before the lorde youre God. For whatsoeuer soule it be that humbleth not him selfe that day he shalbe destroyed from amonge his people. And whatsoeuer soule do any manr worke that daye, the same I wyl destroye from amonge hys people. Se that ye doo no manr worke therfore. And it shalbe a lawe for euer vnto youre generations after you in all your dwellynges. It shall both of rest it shall be vnto you, & ye shall humble your soules. The tenthe daye of the moneth at euen and so forthe from euen too euen agayne, ye shall kepe youre Sabboth.

And the lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell and saye: the. xv. daye of the same seuenth moneth shall be the feaste of the tabernacles seuē dayes vnto the lorde. The fyrste daye shalbe an holy feast, so ỹ ye shal doo no laborious worke therin. Seuē dayes ye shall offer sacrifice vnto the lord, & the viii. daye shalbe an holy feast vnto you, & ye shall offer sacrifice vnto the lord. It is the ende of the feast, and ye shall do no laborious worke therin.

These are the feastes of the lord which ye shall proclayme holy feastes, for to offer sacrifyce vnto the lorde, burntoffrynges, meatofferynges, and drynkeofferynges euerye daye: besyde the sabbothes of thee Lorde, and besyde youre gyftes, and all youre vowes, and all youre freewyll offerynges whyche ye shall geue vnto the lorde.

Moreouer in the fyftene daye of the seuenthe monethe after that ye haue gathered in the fruytes of the lande, ye shall kepe holye daye vnto the LORDE seuen dayes longe. The fyrste daye shalbe a daye of reste, and thee eyghte daye shall be a daye of reste. And ye shall take you the fyrst daye, the fruytes of goodly trees and the braunches of palme trees and the bowes of thycke trees, and wylowes of the broke, and shall reioyse before the lorde seuen dayes. And ye shall kepe it holye daye vnto the LORDE seuen dayes in the yeare. And it shalbe a lawe for euer vnto your chyldren after you, that ye kepe that feast in the seuenth monethe. And

ye

ye shal dwell in boothes seuen dayes: euē all that are Israelytes borne, shall dwell in boothes, that youre chyldren after you maye knowe howe that I made the chyldren of Israell dwell in boothes, when I brought them out of the lande of Egypte for I am the Lord your God. And Moyses tolde all the feastes of the Lord vnto the chyldren of Israell.

The Notes.

a‡ The fyrste frutes & tythes were ꝑ tygnes of ꝑ myght knowlegynge to haue receaued theyr goodes and catell of the lorde, as it is sayde, Exod. xxii. & and. xxiii. c

C The ople for the lampes and lyghtes, of the brede of remembraunce or shewebred. He that curseth must be stoned, He that killeth shalbe killed, &c

The. xxiiii. Chapter

A Nd the lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: commaunde the chyldren of Israell that they bringe vnto the pure ople dlyue beaten for lyghtes too poure into the lampes alwaye, wythoute the vayle of wytnesse wythin the tabernacle of wytnesse. And Aaron shal dresse the both euen & mornynge before the Lord alwayes. And it shalbe a lawe for euer amōge youre chyldren after you. And he shall dresse the lāpes vpon the pure candelstick before the Lord perpetually.

And thou shalt take fyne floure & bake xii. a‡ wastels therof, ii. tenth deales, shall euery wastell be. And make two rowes of them, syre on a rowe vpon the pure table before the Lorde, and put pure frankēces vpon the rowes. And it shalbe bread of remembraunce, and an offryng to the Lord Euery Sabboth he shal put thē in rowes B before the lord euermore, geue of the chyldren of Israell, that it be an euerlastinge couenaunt. And they shalbe Aarons and hys sonnes, and they shal eate them in the holy place. For they are moost holy vnto hym of the offrynges of the Lorde, & shall be a dutye for euer.

And the sonne of an Israelitysshe wyfe whose father was an Egyptian, went out among the chyldren of Israell. And thys sonne of the Israelytysh wyfe and a man of Israel stroue together in the hoste. And the Israelytysshe womans sonne blaspheme the *name and cursed, & they brought hym vnto Moyses. And hys mothers name was Salomyth, thee doughter of Dibry of the trybe of Dan: and they putt hym in warde, that Moyses shulde declare vnto them what the Lord sayd therto.

C And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses saying bryng hym that blaspheme with oute the hoste, and lett all that herde hym, put theyr handes vpon hys head, and lett all the multitude stone hym. And speake vnto the chyldren of Israel saying. Who soeuer b‡ curseth hys God, shall beare his synne: And he that blaspheme the name of the Lord, shall dye for it: all the multitude shal stone hym to death. And ꝑ straūger as wel as the Israelyte yf he curse the name, shal dye for it.

He that killeth any man, shall dye for it, but he that killeth a beast shall pay for it beaste for beaste. Yf a man mayme hys neyghbour, as he hathe done, so shall it be done to hym agayne: broke for broke, eye for eye, and toth for tothe: euen as he hath mayned a man, so shall he be mayned agayne. So nowe he that killeth a beaste, D shal paye for it: but he that killeth a man shall dye for it. Ye shall haue one maner of lawe amonge you: euen for the straunger as wel as for one of your selues, for I am the Lorde youre God.

And Moyses told the chyldren of Israel, that they shulde bringe him that had cursed, out of the hoste, & stone hym wyth stones. And the chyldren of Israel dyd as the Lord commaunded Moyses.

The Notes.

a‡ Wastels. The shewebreades or thee halowed loaues.

b‡ Curseth: he curseth god and blasphemeth the name of God, that despyseth and defyeth gods ordynaunces statutes and commaundemētes, or that magnifyeth mennes traditions & lawes aboue gods or that setteth as moch therby, as by the preceptes of the most mercyful god.

C The Sabboth of the. vii. yeares and of the yere of iubelie, otherwyse called the fyfty yeare

The. xxv. Chapter

A Nd the lord spake vnto Moses in mount Sinai saying, 1 speake vnto thee chyldren of Israell and saye vnto them. Whē ye be come into the lād whych I geue you, let the land rest a Sabboth Sabbothe vnto the Lorde. Sixe yeres ꝑ shalte sowe thy felde, and syxe yere thou shalte cut thy vynes & gether in thy frutes. But the seuenth yere shall be a Sabboth of rest vnto the lande. The Lordes Sabboth it shalbe and thou shalt nether sowe thy felde, nor cut thy vynes.

The corne that groweth by it selfe thou shalt not repe, nether gether the grapes ꝑ growe without thy dressynge: but it shalbe a Sabboth of rest vnto the land. Nevertheless the Sabboth of the lande shal be meate for you: euen for the and thi seruaunte and for thy mayde and for thy hyred seruaunte & for ꝑ straunger that dwelleth wyth the: and for thy catell and for ꝑ beastes that are in thy lande, shall all the encrease therof be meate Then nombre seuē a wekes of yeres, that is seuen tymes seuē yere: and the space of the seuē wekes of yeres wyll be vnto the. xlix. yere. And then thou shalte make an horne blowe: euen in the tenth daye of the seuenth moneth whych is the daye of attonemēt. And then shall ye make the horne blowe, euen thorowe out all youre land. And ye shall halowe the fyftieth yere, & proclayme lybertye thorowe out the lande vnto all the habyters therof. It shalbe a yere of b‡ iubelye vnto you & ye shall returne: euery man vnto hys possessiō, & euery man vnto hys kynred agayne. A yere of iubelye shal ꝑ fyftieth yere be vnto you. Ye shall not sowe nether repe the corne that groweth by it selfe, nor gether the grapes that growe wythout thy laboure. For it is a yere of iubelie and shalbe holy vnto you: how be it, yet ye shall eate of the encrease of the felde. And in thys yere of iubely ye shal returne, euery man vnto hys possessyon agayne.

C When thou sellest oughte vnto thy neyghboure or byest of thy neyghboures hande, ye shall not oppresse one another: but accordynge to the nombre of yeres after ꝑ c‡ iubelye yere ꝑ shalt bye of thy neyhbour, & accordig vnto ꝑ nōbre of frute yeres, he shall sell vnto the. Accordyng vnto the multytude of yeres, thou shalt encrease the pryce therof and accordynge to the fewnesse of yeres, thou shalte mynyshe the pryce: for the nombre of frute he shall sell vnto to the. And se that no man oppresse hys neyghboure, but feare thy God. For I am the Lorde your God Wherfore do after myne ordinaūces and kepe my lawes and do them, that ye may dwell in thee lande in safetye. And thee lande shall geue her frute, and ye shall eat your fylle and dwel therein in safety.

If ye shall saye, what shall we eate the seuenth yere in as moche as we shall not sowe nor gether in oure encrease. I wyll sende my blessynge vpon you in the syxte yere, and it shal bryng forth frute for thre yeres: and ye shall sowe the eyghte yere & eate of olde frute vntyll thee. ix. yere. & euen vntyll her frutes come, ye shall eate of olde store. Wherfore the lande shall not be solde for euer, because that the lāde is myne, & ye but straungers and soiourners wyth me: and ye shall thorowe oute all the lande of youre possession, lette the lande go home fre agayne.

*When thy brother is wared poore & hath solde away of hys possession: yf any of hys kyn come to redeme it, he shall bye oute ꝑ whych hys brother solde. And though he haue no man to redeme it for hym, yet yf his hand can get sufficient to bye it out agayne, thē let him counte how longe it hath bē solde, and delyuer the rest vnto hym to whom he sold it, & so he shal returne vnto hys possessyon agayne. But and yf hys hande can not gett sufficient to restore it too hym agayne, then that whyche is solde shall remayne in the hand of hym that hathe boughte it, vntyll the iubelye: and in the yeare of Jubelye it shall come oute, and he shall retourne vnto hys possessyon agayne. *Ruth. iiii. a Yf a mā sell a dwelling house in a walled cytye, he may bye it out agayn any tyme wythin a hole yere after it is solde: & ꝑ shalbe the space in which he maye redeme it agayne. But & yf it be not bought oute agayne within the space of a full yere, thē ꝑ house in ꝑ walled citte shalbe stablished for euer vnto him that bought it & to hys successours after hym, & shall not go oute in the yeare of iubelye. But the houses in vyllages which haue no walles round aboute them, shalbe counted lyke vnto the feldes of the countrey, & may be boughte out againe at any season, and shal go out free in the yere of iubelye.

If thy brother be wared poore and fall in decaye wt the, receaue him as a straūger or a soiourner, & let him liue by ꝑ.*

And thou shalt take none vsury of hi, nor yet vantage. But shalt feare thy God, ꝑ thy brother may lyue with the. Thou shalte not lende hym thy money vpon vsurye or lende hym of thy fode to haue auauntage by it: for I am the Lorde youre god whyche broughte you out of the lande of Egypte, to geue the ꝑlād of Canaan and to be youre God.

If thy brother that dwelleth by the ware poore and sell hym selfe vnto the, thou shalt not let hym laboure as a bondeseruaunt doeth: but as an hyred seruaunt & as a soiourner he shalbe wyth the, & shall serue the vnto ꝑ yere of iubely, & thē shal he departe frome the, bothe he and hys chyldren wyth hym, and shall retourne vnto hys owne kynred agayne and vnto the possessions of his fathers: for they ar my seruauntes whiche I brought of the lande of Egypte, and shal not be solde as bondmen. Se therfore that thou raygne not ouer hym cruellye, but feare thy God. If thou wylt haue bondseruauntes and maydens, thou shalt bye them of the heythē that are round aboute you, and of the chyldren of youre straungers that are soiourners among you, & of the generatiōs that ar wt you, whych they begate in your lande. And ye shal possesse them & geue them vnto your children after you, to possesse them for euer: and they shallbe your bondmen.* But ouer youre brethren the chyldren of Israel, ye shal not raygne one ouer another cruelly.

When a straunger & a soiourner wareth rich by the & thy brother that dwelleth by hym wareth poore and sell hym selfe vnto the straunger that dwelleth by the or to any of the stranngers kyn: after ꝑ he is solde he maye be redemed agayne: one of hys brethren may by him out: whether it be hys vncle or hys vncles sonne, or anye that is nye of kynne vnto hym of his kynred: ether yf his hande can get so moch he maye be loosed. And he shal rekē with hym that bought hym, from the yere that he was solde vnto the yere of iubelye, and the pryce of hys byeng shalbe accordynge vnto the nombre of yeres, & he shalbe wythe hym as a hyred seruaunte. Yf ther be yet many yeres behynde, accordinge vnto them he shal geue agayne for hys delyueraunce, of thee moneye that he was solde for. Yf there remayne but fewe yeares vnto the yere of iubelye, he shall so counte wyth hym, & accordinge vnto hys yeares geue hym agayne for hys redēption, & shalbe with hym yere by yeare as an hyred seruaūt & the other shal not raygne cruelly ouer hym in thy syghte. Yf he be not bought free in the meane tyme, thē he shall go out in the yere of iubelye and his chyldren wyth hym: for the chyldrē of Israell ar my seruauntes which I brought out of the lande of Egypte.

The.xxvi.Chapter.

I Am the Lord youre God. Ye shal make you no ydoles nor grauen ymage, neyther reare you vppe any pyller, neyther ye shall set vp any ymage of stone in youre lande to bowe youre selues therto: for I am the Lorde your God: kepe my Sabbothes and ‡ feare my sanctuary: for I am the Lord.

Ye

If ye shal walke in myne ordynaunces & kepe my commaundementes & do them, then I wyll sende you rayne in the ryght season & your land shal yelde her encrease and the trees of the felde shall geue theyr frute. And ꝑ threshing shal reache vnto wyne harueste, & the wine harueste shal reache vnto sowyng tyme, and ye shall eate youre breade in plentousnes, & shal dwel in your lande peasably. And I wyll send peace in youre lande, that ye shall slepe, and no man shall make you a frayde.

And I wyll rydd euell beastes out of your lande, and there shal no swerde goo thorow out youre lande. And ye shal chace youre enemyes, & they shall fall before you vpon the swerde. And fyue of you shall chace an hundred, & an hundred of you shall put .x. thousande to flyght, and youre enemyes shall fall before you vpō the swerde. And I wyll tourne vnto you and encrease you and multyply you, and sett vp my testamente wythe you. And ye shall eate olde stoare, and cast out the old for plenteousnes of the newe.* I wyl make my dwellynge place amonge you, and my soule shall not lothe you. And I wyll walke amonge you and wylbe your God, and ye shalbe my people. For I am the Lorde youre God, whyche broughte you out of the lande of ꝑ Egyptyās, that ye shulde not be their bondemen, and I brake the bowes of your yockes, and made you go vpryght.

And ye shall sowe youre seed in vayne, for youre enemyes shall eate it. And I wyll set my face agenste you & ye shal fal before youre enemyes, & they that hate you shall rayne ouer you, and ye shal flee whē no mā followeth you.

And yf ye wyll not yet for all this herken vnto me, then wyll I punysche you seuē times more for youre synnes, and wyl breake the pryde of youre strengthe. For I wyll make the heuen ouer you as hārde as yron, and youre lande as harde as brasse. And so your laboure shalbe spēte in vayne. in your enemies lande: euen then shal the lande kepe holye daye and reioyse in her Sabbothes. And as longe as it lyethe boyde it shall reste, for that it coulde not reste in youre Sabbothes, when ye dwelt therin.

And vpon them that are lefte alyue of you I wyll sende a fayntnesse in to theyr hertes, in the lande of theyr enemyes: so ỹ the sounde of a leef that falleth, shall chace them and they shall flee as though they fled a swerde, and shal fall no man folowynge them. And they shall fall one vpon another, as it were before a swerde euen no man folowynge them, and ye shall haue no power to stande before youre enemies: And ye shall perish amonge the hethē, and the lande of youre enemyes shall eate you vp.

And they that are left of you, shall pyne awaye in their vnryghteousnes, euen in their enemyes land, and also in the misdedes of their fathers shal they consume. And they shall confesse theyr mysdeades & the mysdeades of theyr fathers in theyr tresspaces whyche they haue tresspaced agaynst me, and for that also ỹ they haue walked cōtrary vnto me. Therfore I also will walke contrari vnto them, and wil bryngе them into the lande of theyr enemyes. AND ỹ Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge, speake vnto the Chyldrē of Israel and saye vnto them: If any man wyll geue a syngular vowe vnto the Lorde accordynge to the value of his soule, then shal the male from.xx. yere vnto.lx. be set at fyfty ye*sycles of syluer, after the sicle of the sanctuary, & the female at.xxx. sycles. And from.v. yeres to.xx. the male shalbe set at.xx. sicles, and the female at.x. sicles. And from a moneth vnto.v yere, the male shalbe set at.v. sicles of syluer, and the female at thre. And thee man that is.lx. & aboue, shall be valued at.xv. sicles, and the womā at.x. Yf he be to poore so to be set, then let him come before the Priest: and lette the priest value hym, accordinge as the hand of hym that vowed is able to gett.

Yf it be of the beastes of whych men bryng an offring vnto the Lord: al that any man geueth of soch vnto the lord: shal be holy. He may not alter it nor chaūge it: a good for a bad, or a bad for a good. Yf he chaunge beast for beast, thē both the same beast & it also wherwith it was chaunged shalbe holy. Yf it be any maner of vncleane beast of whiche men maye not offer vnto the Lord, let him bringe the beast before the Priest and let the Priest value it And whether it be good or badde as thee priest setteth it, so shal it be. And yf he will bye it agayne, lett hym geue the fyfte part more to that it was set at.

Ye

If any man dedycate his house, it shal be holy vnto the Lorde. And the preaste shall set it, whether it be good or bad, & as the preaste hath set it, so it shalbe. If he ỹ sanctyfied it wyll redeme hys house, lette hym geue the fyfte parte of moneye that it was iudged at therto, and it shalbe his.

If a man‡ halowe a pece of hys enheryted lande vnto the Lord, it shalbe set accordynge to ỹ it beareth. If it beare an homer of barlye, it shalbe set at fyfty sycles of syluer. If he halowe hys feld immedyatly from ỹ yere of iubely, it shalbe worth accordynge as it is esteemed. But and yf he halowe hys feld after the trompet yere the preast shall recke the pryce wyth him accordynge to the yeres that remayne vnto the trompet yere, and there after it shal be lower sett.

If he that sanctifyed the feld wyll redeme it agayne, let hym put the fyfte part of the pryce that it was set at there vnto, & it shallbe hys, yf he wyll not it shalbe redemed nomoare. But whē the felde goeth out in the yere of iubelye, it shalde holye vnto the Lorde: euen as a thynge dedycated, and it shallbe the preastes possession.

If a man‡ b sanctyfye vnto the Lorde a feld, whych he hath boughte and is not of hys enheryptaunce, then the preast shall reken wyth hym what it is worth vnto thee yeare of iubelye, and he shall geue the pryce that it is sette at thee same daye, and it shalbe holye vnto * thee lorde. But in the yere of iubelye, the felde shall returne vnto hym of whome he boughte it, whose enheritaunce of lande it was.

But the fyrstborne of the beastes that pertayne vnto thee Lorde, maye no man sanctyfye: whether it be oxe or shepe, for they are the Lordes all redye. If it be an vncleane beast, then let hym redeme it as it is sett at, and geue the fyfte parte moare therto. If it be not redemed, then let it be solde as it is rated.

Notwythstaudynge no dedycated thinge that a man dedycateth vnto the Lord, of all hys good, whether it be man or beaste or lande of hys enheryptaunce, shalbe sold or redemed: for all dedycate thynges are moste holye vnto the Lorde. No dedicate thynge therfore that is dccate of mā may be redemed, but muste nedes dye.

All these tythes of the lande, whether it be of the corne of ỹ feld or frute of ỹ trees shalbe holy vnto the Lorde. If any man wyll redeme ought of hys tythes, let hym adde ỹ fyfte parte moare therto. And the tythes of oxē and shepe: & of al that goeth vnder the herdemans keppynge, shalbe holy tythes vnto the Lord: Men shal not loke yf it be good or bad or shal chaunge it. ¶ The ende of the thyrd boke of Moyses.

The Prologe vpon the fourth Boke of Moyses/called Numeri.

IN the fecond & thyrde boke they receaued the lawe. And in thys .iiii. they begynne to worke and to practyse. Of whyche practy|nge ye fee manye good enfamples of vnbeleffe & what free wyll dothe, when fhe taketh in hand to kepe the lawe of her owne power wythoute helpe of fayth in the promyfes of God: howe fhe leaueth her mayfters carkeffes by thee waye in the wilderneffe and bringeth them not in the lande of reft. Why could they not enter in? Becaufe of theyr vnbeleffe. Hebre. iii. For had they beleued, fo had they bene vnder grace, and theyr olde fynnes had bene forgeue the, and power fhulde haue ben geuen them to haue fulfylleth the lawe thenceforth and they fhuld haue bene kept from all temptacions that had bene to ftronge for them. For it is wrytten Johan. i. He gaue them power to be the fonnes of God, throwe beleuinge in hys name. Nowe to be the fonne of God is to loue God and hys commaundementes & to walke in his waye after the enfample of hys fonne Chrift. But thefe people toke vppon them to worke wythout fayth as thou feeft in the .xiiii. of thys boke, where they wolde fyght and alfo dyd, wythout the worde of promyfe euen when they were warned that they fhoulde not. And in the .xvi. agayne they wolde pleafe god wyth theyr holy fayth|leffe workes (for where gods worde is not ther can be no fayth) but the fyre of god cōfumed theyr holy workes as it dyd Nadab and Abihu Leuit. x. And from thefe vnbeleuers turne thyne eyes vnto the pharefyes whych before the commynge of chrift in hys flefh, had layde the foundacion of freewyll after the fame enfample, Wherevpon they bylde holye workes after theyr owne ymagynation wythout fayth of the worde, fo feruently that for the greate zeale of them they flewe the kynge of all holy workes and the Lorde of free wyll whych onely throwe hys grace maketh the wyll free and loofeth her from bondage of fynne, and geueth her loue and luft vnto the lawes of god, and power to fulfyll them. And fo throwe theyr holye workes done by the power of free wyll, they exclude them felues out of the holye reffe of forgeueneffe of fynnes by fayth in thee bloude of Chrift.

And then loke on oure ypocrites whych in lyke maner folowing the doctryne of Ariftotle and other Hethen paganes, haue agaynft all the fcripture fette vpp freewyll agayne, vnto whofe power they afcrybe the keppnge of the commaundemetes of god. For they haue fett vp freewyll pouertye of another man, then any is commaunded of god. And the chaftite of matrimony bitterly defyed, they haue fet vp another wylfull chaftite not requyred of God, which they fwere, vowe & profeffe to geue god, whether he wyll geue it them or no and compell all theyr difciples ther vnto, fayinge that it is in the power of euery mans frewyl to obferue it, contrarye to Chriftc, and hys Apoftle Paule.

And the obedience of God and man excluded, they haue bowed another wilfull obedience condempned of all the fcripture whych they wyll yet geue God whether he wyll or wyll not.

And what is become of theyr wylful pouertie, hath it not robbed the whole world and brought al vnder the? Can ther be ether Kynge or Emperoure or of whatfoeuer degree it be, except he wyll hold of them & be fworne vnto them to be theyr feruaunte, to go and come at theyr luft and to defend theyr quarels be they falfe or true? Theyr wylfull pouertye hath all ready eaten vppe the whole worlde and is yet full gredyar then euer it was in fo moche that ten worldes moo were not ynoughe too fatisfye the honger therof.

Moreouer befydes dayly corruptinge of other mens wyues and open whoredome, vnto what abominacions to fylthye to be fpoken of hath theyr voluntarie chaftite brought them?

And as for theyr wylful obedience what is it but the difobedience & the diffiaūce both of all the lawes of god & mā in fo moch that yf any prince begine to execute any lawe of mā vpō the, they curfe him vnto the botom of hell, & proclayme hym no ryght

kynge & that his Lordes ought no lenger to obeye hym, and interdite hys comen people as they were Hethē Turkes or Saracenes. And yf any man preache them Gods lawe hym they make an hereteyke, and burne hym to aſhes. And in ſtreade of Goddes lawe and mans, they haue fett vp one of theyr owne ymagynacyon whych they obſerue wyth diſpenſations.

And yet in theſe workes they haue ſo greate confidence that they not onely truſt to be ſaued ther by and to be hyer in heauen then they that be ſaued throwe Chriſt: but alſo promeſſe to all other forgeueneſſe of theyr ſynnes throwe the merites of the ſame. Wherein they reſt and teache other to reſt alſo, excluding the whole world frō the reſte of forgeueneſſe of ſynnes throw fayth in Chriſtes bloud.

And now ſeyng that fayth only letteth a man in vnto reſt & vnbeleue excludeth him, what is the cauſe of this vnbeleffe? verely no ſynne the world ſeyth, but a pope holyneſſe & a righteouſnes of theyr owne ymagination as Paul ſayth. Rom. x. They be ignorāce of the righteouſnes wherwith god iuſtifieth & haue ſet vp a righteouſnes of theyr owne making throwe which they be diſobedient vnto the righteouſnes of god. And Chriſt rebuketh not phareſyes for groſſe ſynnes which the world ſawe, but for thoſe holy dedes whych ſo blered the eyes of the world the they were take as Gods reuē for log prayers, for faſting, for tithing ſo diligētly the they left not ſo moch as theyr herbes vntithed, for theyr cleneſſe in waſhig before meat & for waſhig of cuppes, diſhes, & al maner veſſels, for buylding the prophetes ſepulchres, & for keping the holy daye and for turning the hethen vnto the fayth, and for geuing of almes. For vnto ſoche holy dedes they aſcribed righteouſnes, and therfore when the righteouſneſſe of God was preached vnto them they could not but perſecute it, the deuyll was ſo ſtronge in them. Wyth whych thinge Chriſt well deſcribeth Luke. xi. ſayinge that after the deuyll is caſt out he cometh agayne and fyndeth his houſe ſwepte and made gaye and then taketh ſeuen worſe then hym ſelfe and dwelleth therein, and ſo is thee ende of that man worſe then the beginninge. That is, when they be a litle cleanſed frō groſſe ſinnes wht the the world ſeyth and then made gaye in theyr owne ſyght with the righteouſnes of traditions, then cometh ſeuen, that is to ſay the hole power of the deuyl, for ſeue with the Hebrues ſignifieth a multitude without nombre & the extremite of a thing & is a ſpeache borowed (I ſuppoſe) out of leuiticus where is ſo oft mencion made of ſeuen. Where I wold ſay: I wyll puniſhe the that all the worlde ſhall take an enſample of the, there the Jewe wold ſaye: I wyll circumciſe the or baptyſe the. vii. tymes. And ſo here by ſeuen is ment all the deuyls of hell & all the myght & power of the deuyl. For vnto what further blindneſſe coulde all the deuels in hel bringe the, then to make the beleue that they were iuſtified throwe theyr owne good workes. For when they once beleued that they were purged from theyr ſynnes, & made ryghtuouſe throwe theyr owne holy wyrkes, what rowme was ther left for the righteouſnes that is in chriſtes bloud ſhedding. And therfore whē they be falle into thys blindneſſe they cannot but hate & perſecute the light. And the more cleare & cuidently theyr dedes be rebuked the furiouſſer & malicteuſſer blind are they vntill they breake out into open blaſphemye and ſynning agaynſt the holy gooſt, whych is the malicious perſecuting of the cleare trouth ſo manifeſtly proued that they cannot once hyſſhe agaynſt it. As the phareſies perſecuted Chriſt becauſe he rebuked theyr holy dedes. And when he proued his doctryne with the ſcripture & myracles, yet though they coulde not improue hym nor reaſon agaynſt hym they tought that the ſcripture muſt haue ſome other meaning becauſe his interpretacion vndermyned theyr foundation & plucked vp by the rootes thee ſettes whych they had planted, & they aſcribed alſo his myracles to the deuell. And in lyke maner though oure Jpocrytes cannot denye but thys is thee Scripture, yet becauſe there can be none other ſens gathered therof, but that ouerthroweth theyr bylldynges, therefore they euer thynke that it hathe ſome other meanynges that as thee worde ſounde and that noo man vnderſtandethe it or vnderſtode it ſens thee tyme of thee Apoſtles. Or yf they thynke that ſome wrote vppon it ſence thee Apoſtles vnderſtonde it: they yet thynke that we in lyke maner as we vnderſtonde not the text not the text it selfe, so we vnderstand not the meaning of the wordes of that Doctour. For when thou layest the iustifieng of holy workes & denyest the iustifyenge of faith howe canst thou vnderstande sayntt Paule, Peter, Johan and the Actes of the Apostles or anye scripture at all, seynge the iustyfyenge of faythe is all moost all, that they entende to proue.

Fynally, concernynge vowes whereof thou readest Chapter. xxx. there maye be many questyons, whereunto I answere shortely that we ought to put salt to all oure offerynges: that is, we ought to mynister knowledge in all oure workes and to do no thynge wherof we coulde not geue a reason out of Gods wordes. We be nowe in the daye lyghte, and all the secretes of God and all hys counsell and wyll is opened vnto vs, and he that was promysed shulde come and blesse vs, is come alreadye and hathe shed hys bloude for vs and hath blessed vs wyth all maner blessynges and hathe obtayned for vs, and in hym we haue all. Wherfore god hence forth wyll receaue nomore sacrifices of beastes of vs, as thou readest Hebre. x. Yf thou burne vnto God thee bloud or fatt of beastes, to obtayne forgeuenesse of synnes therby or that god should the better heare thy request, then thou doest wronge vnto the bloude of Christ, & Christe vnto the is dead in vayne. For in hym god hath promysed not forgeuenesse of synnes onely, but also whatsoeuer we are to kepe vs from synne and temptation wythal And what yf thou burne frankencens vnto hym, what yf thou burne a candel, what yf thou burne thy chastite or virginite vnto him for the same purpose, doest thou not lyke rebuke vnto Christes bloude? Moreouer yf thou offer golde, syluer or any other good for the same entent, is there any difference? And euen so yf thou go in pylgrimage or fastiste or goest wolwarde, or sprinkleste thy self wyth holy water or els whatsoeuer dede it is, or obserueste whatsoeuer Ceremonie it be for lyke meanynge, then it is lyke abhominacion. We must therfore bringe the salt of the knowledge of gods word wyth all oure sacrifices, or els we shall make no swete sauoure vnto God thereof.

Thou wilt are me, shall I vowe nothinge at all? yes, Gods commaundemente whych thou hast vowed in thy baptyme. For what entent? Verely for the loue of christe whych hath bought the with his bloud and made the sonne and heyre of god with hym, that thou shuldest wayte on hys wyll and commaundementes and puryfye thy membres according to the same doctryne that hathe purifyed thyne harte. For yf thee knowledge of goddes worde haue not purified thyne hart, so that thou consentest vnto the lawe of God, that it is righteous and good and forowest that thy members moue the vnto the contrarye, so hast thou no parte wyth christ. For yf thou repent not of thy synne, so it is impossible that thou shuldest beleue that Christe had delyuered the from the daunger therof. Yf thou beleue not that Christ hath deliuered the, so is it impossible that thou shuldest loue gods commaundementes. Yf thou loue not the commaundementes, so is Christes spirete not in the whyche is the earnest of forgeuenesse of synne and of saluation.

For scripture teacheth, fyrst repentaunce: then faythe in Christe, that for hys sake synne is forgeuen to them that repent: then good workes, which are nothing saue the commaundeinent of god only. And the cōmaundemētes are nothing els saue the helpynge of oure neyghbours at theyr nede and the tamynge of oure members that they myghte be pure also as the harte is pure thorowe hate of vyce and loue of vertue as Gods word teacheth vs whych workes must procede out of fayth, that is, I must do the for the loue whych I haue to God for that great mercy whych he hath shewed me in Christ, or els I do them not in the syght of god. And that I fayne not in the payne of the seynge of synne that is in my flesh, myne helpe is the promyse of ỹ assistence of the power of god and the comforte of the reward to come whych reward I ascribe vnto the goodnesse, mercy & truth of the promyser that hath chosen me, called me, taught me and geuen me the eares thereof, and not vnto the merites of my dopinge or sufferinges sufferinges. For al that I do & suffre is but the way to the rewarde & not the deseruinge thereof. As yf the Kynges grace shuld promyse me to defend me at home in myne owne realme yet the way thyther is thorowe the see wherin I myghte happely suffer no litle trouble. And yet for all ỹ, yf I myght lyue in rest whe I come thyther, I wold thinke & so wold other saye, that my payenes were well rewarded: which reward & benefyte I wold not proudly ascribe vnto the merites of my paynes takinge by ỹ way but vnto the goodnesse, mercyfulnes & cōstaunt truth of the kinges grace whose gift it is & to whom the prayse & thanke therof belongeth of duety and right. So now a rewarde is a gyft geuē frely of the goodnes of the geuer and not of the deseruynges of the receauer. Thus it appereth, that yf I bowe whatsoeuer it be, for any other purpose then to tame my membres and to be an ensample of vertue & edifienge vnto my neyghbour, my sacrifice is vnsauery and cleane without salt and my lampe without oyle and I one of the folysh vyrgyns and shalbe shut oute from the feast of the brydegrom when I thynke my selfe most sure to enter in.

Yf I bowe voluntary pouerty, this must be my purpose, that I wyll be cōtent with a competent lyuing which cometh vnto me ether by succession of myne elders or whych I gett truly with my labour in ministringe & doynge seruice vnto the comenwelth in one office or in another, or in one occupatiō or other, because that ryches and honour shall not corrupte my mynde and drawe myne harte from God, and to geue an ensample of vertue and edifieng vnto other & that my neyghbour maye haue a lyuing by me as wel as I, yf I make a cloke of dissimulatiō of my bowe, layng a net of fayned beggerye to catche superfluous aboundaunce of ryches & hye degree and authorite and thorow the estimation of false holinesse to fede and mayntayne my slouthfull ydelnesse with the sweate, labour, landes, and rentes of other men (after the ensample of oure spiritualtie) robbinge them of theyr faythes and God of his honoure turninge vnto myne ypocrisie that confidence, which shoulde be geuen vnto the promises of God only, am I not a wylie fore and a raueninge wolfe in a lambes skynne and a paynted sepulchre fayre without and fylthy within? In like maner thoughe I seke no worldlye promotion thereby, yet yf I do it to be iustified therwith and to gett an hyer place in heauen, thinkinge that I do it of myne owne naturall strengthe and of the natural power of my free wyll, & that euery man hath myght euen so to do and that they do it not is theyr faute & negligence & so with the proud phareseye in cōparison of my self despise the sinfull publicanes: what other thing do I then cate the bloud & fat of my sacrifice deuouring that my self which shuld be offred vnto god alone and his christ. And shortly whatsoeuer a man doeth of his naturall giftes, of his naturall witte, wisdom, vnderstanding, reason, will, & good entent before he be other wyse & cleane cōtrary taught of goddes spirete & haue receaued other wyt, vnderstanding, reason, & wyl, is flesshe, worldly & wrought in abhominable blindnesse, with whiche a man can but seke him selfe, his owne profyte, glory & honour, euē in very spiritual matters. As yf I were alone in a wildernesse where no mā were to seke profyt or prayse of, yet yf I wold seke heuē of god there, I coulde of myne owne naturall gyftes seke it none other wayes then for thee merites and deseruynges of my good workes and to enter therin by another waye thē by the doore Christ, which were very theefte for Christ is lord ouer all and whatsoeuer any man will haue of God, he must haue it geuen hym frely for Christes sake. Nowe to haue heauen for myne owne deseruinge, is myne owne prayse and not Christes. For I cannot haue it by fauoure and grace in Christ and by myne owne merytes also: For fregeuinge and deseruinge cannot stonde together.

Yf thou wilt bowe of thy goodes vnto god thou must put salt vnto thys sacrifice that is thou must minister knowledge in this dede, as Peter teacheth. ii. petri. i. Thou must put oyle of gods worde in thy lāple and do it accordinge to knowledge, yf thou wayte for the comminge of the brydegome to entre in with hym into his reste. Thou

wylt hange it aboue the ymage to moue men to deuocō. Deuotō is a feruēt loue vn tō Gods cōmādemētes & a desyre to be wyth God & wyth hys euerlastīg promyses. Now shal the sight of soch ryches as ar shewed at S. Thomas shryne or at walsingham moue a man to loue the cōmaundemētes of god better and to desyre to be loosed from hys flesshe and to be wyth god, or shall it not rather make hys poore herte syghe because he hath no soch at home and to wysshe parte of it in another place? The Priest shall haue it in gods stede. Shall the preest haue it? Yf the Priest be bought with chri stes bloude, thē he is christes seruaunt & not his owne & ought therfore to feade christes flocke with Christes doctrine & to minister christes sacramētes vnto thē purelye for very loue & not for kelchy lucres sake or to be lord ouer thē as Peter teacheth. i. pe tri. v. & Paule. Actes. xx. Besyde this christ is oures & is a gyfte geuen vs, and we be heyres of christ & of al that is christes. Wherfore the Priestes doctrine is oures & we heyres of it, it is the fode of our soules. Therfore yf he minister it not truly & frely vn to vs without selling, he is a theefe & a soule murtherar: & euen so is he yf he take vpō him to fede vs & haue not wherwith. And for a lyke cōclusion because we also withal that we haue be christes, therfore is the Priest heyre with vs also of all that we haue receaued of god, wherfore in asmoch as the Priestes wayteth on the worde of god & is our seruaunt therin, therfore of right we are his detters & owe him a sufficient liuing of our goodes, & euen therto a wife of our doughters owe we vnto him yf he require her. And now whē we haue appoynted him a sufficient liuing, whether in tithes rētes or in perelye wages, he ought to be contēt & to require no more nor yet to receaue any more, but to be an ensample of sobernesse & of dispising worldly thinges vnto the ensample of his parisheoners.

Wilt thou bowe to offer vnto the poore people that is pleasaunte in the sighte of god, for they be left her to do our almes vpon in Christes steade and they be the right heyres of all oure abundaunce & ouerplus. Moreouer we must haue a scole to teache goddes word in (though it neded not to be so costly) and therfore it is lawful to bowe vnto the buylding or mayntenaunce therof & vnto helping of all good workes. And we ought to bowe to paye costume, tolle, rente and all maner duties and whatsoeuer we owe: for that is gods cōmaundemente.

Yf thou wilt bowe pilgrimage, thou must put salt therto in lyke maner yf it shal be accepted, yf thou bowe to go & viset the poore or to heare gods worde or whatsoeuer edifieth thy soule vnto loue & goodworke after knowledge or whatsoeuer god cō mādeth, it is wel done & a sacrifice that sauoreth wel ye wil happely say, ye wil go to this or that place because god hath chose one place more thē another & wil heare your peticion more in one place thē another. As for your praier it must be according too goddes worde. Ye may not desire god to take vengeaunce on him whom gods worde teacheth you to pitie and to praye for. And as for the other glose, that god will heare you more in one place thē in another, I suppose it sai infarnatum, salt vnsauerie, for yf it were wisdom how could we excuse the death of steuē. Actes. vii. which dyed for ỹ articles ỹ god dwelleth not in tēples made with hādes, we ỹ beleue in god are ỹ tēple of god sayth paul, yf a mā loue god & kepe his word, he is ỹ tēple of god & hathe god presently dwelling in him, as witnesseth christ. Joha. xiiii. saying: Yf a mā loue me he wyll kepe my worde, & then my father wyll loue hym and we wyl come vnto him and dwell wyth hym. And in the. xv. he sayethe: yf ye abyde in me & my wordes also abyde in you, then aske what ye wyll and ye shall haue it. Yf thou beleue in Christ & hast the promyses whych God hathe made the in thyne harte, then goo on pilgrymage vnto thyne owne harte and there praye and God wyll heare the for hys mercy and truthes sake and for hys sonne Christes sake, and not for a fewe stones sake. What careth God for the temple: The very beastes in that they haue lyfe in them be moche better then an heape of stones couched together.

To speake of chastite, it is a gyfte not geuen vnto all persones, testifieth bothe Christ and also hys Apostle Paule, wherfore all persones maye not bowe it. Moreouer ther be causes wherfore many persons maye better lyue chast at one tyme thē at another. Many maye lyue chast at twentye and thertye for certayn colde diseases following them, whych at. xl. when theyr health is come, cannot do so. Many be occupyed wyth wylde phantasyes in theyr youth that they care not for mariage whych same whē they be ware sad shalbe greatly delyroused, it is a dangerous thinge to make syn where none is, and to forswere the benefyte of God & to bynde thy selfe vnder payne of dāpnation of thy soule that thou woldeste not vse the remedye that God hath created yf nede required. Another thynge is this, beware that thou gett the not a false fayned chastite made wyth the vngodly perswasyons of Sayncte Hieromie or of Ouyde in hys fylthy boke of the remedye agaynst loue, lest when thorowe soch ymaginacions thou hast vtterly despysed, defyed and abhorred all womankynd, thou come in to soche cause thorowe the fyrye wrath of God, that thou canste neyther lyue chaste nor kynde in thy harte to marye and so be compelled to falle in to thee abhominacion of the Pope agaynst nature and kynde.

Moreouer God is a wyse father and knowethe all the infyrmyties of hys chyldren and also mercyfull, and therfore hath created a remedye wythout synne and geuen therto hys fauour and blessyng. Let vs not be wyser then God with our ymaginacions nor tēpte hym, for as godly chastite is not euery mās gyfte: euē so he ỹ hath it to day hath no power to cōtinue it at his owne pleasure, nether hath god promysed to geue it him still & to cure his infirmities without his naturall remedye nomore thē he hath promised to slake his honger without meat, or thyrst wythout drynke. Wherfore other let al thinges byde free as wyse God hath created them & nether bowe that whych God requyreth, nor not forswere that whych God permytteth the wyth his fauoure and blessynge also: or els yf thou wylt nedes bowe, thē bowe godly and vnder a condition, that thou wylt continue chast, so long as God geueth the the gyft and as long as nether thyne owne necessyte nether cheryte toward thy neyghbour nor the authorite of thē vnder whose power thou arte, dryue the vnto the contrarye.

The purpose of thy bowe must be salted also with the wisdō of god. Thou mayst not bowe to be iustified therby or to make satisfactiō for thy symnes or to wynne heauē nor an hyer place: for then diddest thou worshippe vnto the bloud of Christ & thy bowe were playn Idolatrie & abhominable in ỹ sight of God. Thy bowe must be only vnto the furtherance of the cōmaundemētes of God, which are as I haue sayd nothing but the taminge of thy mēbres & the seruice of thy neyghbour: ỹ is yf thou thinke thy backe to weake for the burthen of wedlock & ỹ thou canst not rule thy wyfe, chyldren seruauntes & make prouision for thē godly & without ouermoch busyeng & vnquietinge thy self & drowning thy self in worldly busynesse vnchristely or that thou canst serue thy neyghbour in some office better beyng chast then maried. And thē thy bowe is good & lawful. And euē so must thou bowe abstinēce of meates & drinkes so farre forth as it is profytable vnto thy neyghbours & vnto the taming of thy flesshe: But ỹ mayst bowe nether of thē vnto ỹ sleyng of thy body. And Paul cōmaundeth thy mother to drinke wyne & no more water because of his diseases. Thou wilt say ỹ Timothy had not happely forsworne wyne. I thinke the same, & that the apostles forsware not wedlocke though many of thē lyued chast nother yet any meate or drinke, though they abstayned frō thē, & that it were good for vs to folowe theyr ensample. Howbeit though I bowe & swere & thinke on none exception, yet is the breaking of gods cōmaundemētes except & all chaunces that hāge of god. As yf I swere to be in a certayne place at a certayn houre to make a loue daye without exception, yet yf the kynge in the meane tyme cōmaunde me another waye, I must goo by gods cōmaundemēt and yet breake not myne oth. And in lyke case yf my father & mother be seke & require my presence, or yf my wyfe, chyldē or household be visyted ỹ my assistence be required, or yf my neyghbours house be a fyre at the same houre & a thousande soche chaunces: in whych all I breake myne oth & am not forsworne & so forth. Read gods worde diligently and with a good hence & it shal teache the all thynges.

The nõbre of the armye of Israell.

¶ The fourth Boke of Moyses called Numeri.

¶ All that are apt for batell are nombred. The trybe of Leuy is appointed to mynister to the tabernacle.

The. j. Chapter.

A ND the LORD spake vnto Moyses in the wildernes of Sinai in the Tabernacle of witnesse, the fyrst daye of the seconde moneth, & in the second yeare after they were come oute of Exod.xxv.b Mayntenance. thee lande of Egypte sayinge: * take ye thee summe of all thee multytude of thee chyldren of Israell, in theyr kynredes and housholdes of theyr fathers and nombre them by name all that are males, polle by polle, from.xx. yeare and aboue: euen all that are able to go forthe in to warre in Israell, thou and Aaron shal nõbre them in theyr armeyes, and wyth you shalbe of euery trybe an headman in thee house of hys father.

And these are the names of the mẽ that shal stand with you: of Ruben, Elizur the sonne of Sedeur: of Simeon, Selumiel the sonne of Suri Sadai: of the trybe of Juda, Nahesson the sonne of Aminadab of Israchar, Nathanael ỹ sonne of Zuar: of Zabulõ, Eliab the sonne of Helon. Amonge the chyldren of Joseph: of Ephzaim, Elisama the sonne of Aminhud: of Manasse, Gamaliel the sonne of Pedazur: of Ben Jamin, Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni: of Dan, Ahiezer thee sonne of Ammi Sadai: of Aser, * Pagiel the sonne of Ocran: of Gad, Eliasaph ỹ sõne of Deguell: of Nephthali, Ahira the sonne of Enan. Of Phegiel.

B These were the councelers of thee congregation and Lordes in thee trybes of theyr fathers & captarnes ouer thousãdes in Israell. And Moyses and Aaron toke these mẽ aboue named and gathered all the cõgregatiõ together, the fyrst day of the second moneth, and rekened thẽ after theyr byrth and kynredes & houses of theyr fathers by name from. xx. yere and aboue hed by hed, as the Lord commaunded Moyses. euen so he nombred them in the wylderneſſe of Sinai.

Of Ruben. And the chyldren of Ruben Israels eldest sonne in theyr generations, kynredes & houses of theyr fathers, whẽ they were nombred euery mã by name, all that were males from.xx. yere and aboue, as many as were able to goo forthe in warre: were nombred in the trybe of Ruben, xlvi. thousand and fyue hundred.

Of Simeon. Among the chyldre of Simeon: theyr generacion in theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers (when euery mans name was tolde) of all the males from.xx. yeres & aboue, whatsoeuer was mete for ỹ warre: were nombred in the trybe of Simeon lix. thousande and. iij. hundred.

Of Gad. Among the chyldren of Gad: theyr generacyon in theyr kynredes and houshoC ldes of theyr fathers, when they were told by name from.xx. yere and aboue, all that were mete for the warre: were nombred in the trybe of Gad. xlv. thousand, syxe hundred and fyftye.

Of Juda. Among the chyldren of Juda: theyr generacion in theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers (by the nõber of names) frõ xx. yere & aboue, al that were able to warre, were tolde of the trybe of Juda. lxxiiij, thousande and syxe hundred.

Of Issa. Among the chyldren of Israchar: theyr generacion in theyr kynredes and houses D of theyr fathers (when theyr names were counted) from. xx. yere and aboue, whatsoeuer was apte for warre, were nombred in the trybe of Israchar. liiij. thousand and iiij. hundred.

Of Zabu. Among the chyldren of Zabulõ: theyr generacion, in theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers (after ỹ nõbre of names) xx. yere & aboue, whosoeuer was mete for the warre: were coũted in the trybe of Zabulon. lvij. thousand and. iiij. hundred

Of Ioseph. Among the chyldren of Joseph: fyrste amonge thee chyldren of Ephzaim: theyr generation, in theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers (when thee names of all that were apte to the warre, were told) frõ xx. yeares and aboue: were in nombre in ỹ trybe of Ephzaim. xl. thousande, and syxe hundred.

Of Manas. Among the chyldre of Manasse: theyr generation, in theyr kynredes and houses E of theyr fathers (whẽ the names of al that were apte to warre were tolde (frõ. xx. and aboue were nombred in the trybe of Manasse. xxxij. thousande and two hundred.

Of Ben Jamin. Amõg the chyldre of Bẽ Jamin: theyr generacion in theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers (by thee tales of names) frõ. xx. yere & aboue, of all that were able to warre, were nõbred in the trybe of Ben Jamin. xxxv. thousande & .iiij. hundred.

Of Dan. Amonge thee chyldren of Dan: theyr F generation, in theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers (the summe of names) of al that was apte for to warre: from. xx. yere & aboue, were nombred in the trybe of Dan. lxij. thousand and. vij. hundred.

Of Aser. Amonge thee chyldren of Aser: theyr generation, in theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers (when they were summed by name) from. xx. yeares and aboue: all that were apte to warre, were nombred in thee tribe of Aser. xli. thousande and fyue hundred.

Of Nephthali. Amonge the chyldren of Nephthali: theyr generacyon, in theyr kynredes and houses of their fathers (when their names were tolde) from. xx. yeares and aboue, what soeuer was mete to watre: were nombred in the tribe of Nephthali thre and.lxij. thousand and. iiij. hundred.

G These are the nombres which Moyses and Aaron nombred with thẽ. xij. princes of Israel: of euery house of their fathers a man. And all the nombres of the chyldren of Israell, in the houses of theyr fathers, from twenty yere and aboue, what soeuer was mete in the warre in Israell, euewe vnto the summe of syxe hundred & thre thousande, fyue hundred and fyftye. But the Leuites in the trybe of theyr fathers were not nombred among them.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses sayinge: only se that thou nombre not the trybe of Leui, neither take the summe of them amonge the chyldren of Israel. But thou shalt appoynte the leuites vnto the habitacyon of wytnesse, and to all the appatell therof, and vnto all that longethe therto. For they shal beare the tabernacle and al the ordynaunce therof, and they shal mynyster it and shall pytche theyr tentes rõde about it. And when the tabernacle goethe forthe the leuytes shall take it down: & when thee tabernacle is pitched, they shall sett it vp: for yf any straunger come nere, he shall dye. And the chyldren of Israel shall pytch their tentes, euery man in his owne companye and euery mã by his owne standert thorow oute all theyr hostes. But the leuites shall pytch round aboute the habytacyon of wytnesse, ỹ ther fall no wrath vpon the congregacyon of ỹ chyldre of Israel, and the leuytes shall waite vpon the habitacion of wytnesse. And the chyldren of Israel dyd accordig to all that the lorde commaũded Moyses.

¶ The order of the pytchyng of the tẽtes rounde about the tabernacle of witnes, The heades and the chefe Lordes of the kynredes of Israel are named.

The. ij. Chapter.

A ND the Lord spake vnto Moyses and Aaron sayinge: The chyldren of Israel shal pitch euery man by his owne standert with ỹ armes of their fathers houses, a waye from the presence of the tabernacle of wytnesse. A

On the eastsyde the cõpany of Juda Issachar & Zabulon

On the eastsyde to warde the rysynge of the sonne, shall they of the standert of the host of Juda pytch with their armes: And Nahesson thee sonne of Aminadab shalbe captayne ouer the sounes of Juda. And his hoste and the nombre of them. lxxiiij. thousande and. vj. hundred. And next vnto hym shall the trybe of Issachar pytch and Nathanel the son of Zuar captayne ouer the chyldren of Issachar, hys hoste and the nombre of them. liiij. thousande and. iiij. hundred.

And then the trybe of Zabulon: with Eliab the sonne of Helon, captayne ouer the chyldren of Zabulon and hys host in the nombre of them. lvij. thousande and iiij. hundred. So that al they that pertayne vnto the hoste of Juda, are an hundred thousande. lxxvj. thousand and. iiij. hundred in theyr companyes: and these shall goo in the forefronte, when they iourney. B

On ỹ southsyde the cõpany of Ruben Simeon and Gad

And on thee southsyde, the standert of the hoste of Ruben shall lye wyth their cõpanyes and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ruben, Elizur the sonne of Sedeur, & hys hoste and the nombre of them. xlvi. thousande, and. v. hundred. And faste by hym shall the trybe of Symeon pytche, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Simeon, Salumiel ỹ sõne of Zuri Sadai and his hoste and the nombre of them.lix thousande .C.iii.hundred. And the tribe of Gad also: And ꝑ captaynes ouer ꝑ sonnes of Gad. Eliasaph the sonne of Deguel & hys hoste & the nombre of them.xlv.thousande.vi.hundred and .l. So that all the nombre that pertaine vnto the host of Ruben, are an hundred thousande .k. thousād iiii hundred and fyfty, wythe theyr compaynes, and they shall be the seconde in ꝑ iourney.

¶ The Ieuites with the tabernacle in the middes.

And the tabernacle of wytnesse with ꝑ hoste of the Ieuites shal go in the middes of the hostes: as they lye in their tentes, euē so shall they procede in ꝑ iourney, euery man in his quarter aboute ꝑ standert.

On the west syde ꝑ cōpanye of Ephraim Manasse and Ben Iamin.

On the west syde, the standerte and the host of Ephraim shal lye with their companyes, And the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ephraim, Elisama the sonne of Ammihud: and his hoste & the nombre of thē. xl. thousande and .v. hundred.

And fast by hym, the trybe of Manasse and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Manasse, Gamaleel the sonne of Peda Zur and hys hoste and the nombre of them. xxxii. thousande and .ii. hundred. And the trybe of Bē Iamin also: and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Ben Iamin, Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni, and hys hoste and the nombre of them. xxxv. thousande and iiii. hundred. All the nombre that perteyned vnto the hoste of Ephraim, were an hundred thousande viii thousand and an hundred in their hostes: and they shall be the thyrd in the iourney.

On ꝑ north syde the company of Dā Asser & Nephthali.

And the standert and the host of Dan shall lye on the northsyde wyth ther companyes: and the captayne ouer the childrē of Dan, Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Sadai: and his hoste & the numbre of them lxii. thousande & vii. hundred. And fast by him shal the tribe of Aser pytch: & the captayne ouer the sonnes of Aser Pagiel the sonne of Ocran: and his host & the nōbre of them. xli. thousande & v. hundred. And the tribe of Nephtali also, & the captayne ouer the chyldren of Nephtali: Ahira the sonne of Enan: & his hoste and the numbre of them. liii. thousande and .iiii. hundred. So that the hole numbre of al that pertayned vnto the hoste of Dan, was an hundred thousande. lvii. thousande and vi. hundred. And they shall be the laste in the iourney vnto their standertes.

These are the summes of the childrē of Israel in the houses of their fathers: euē all the numbres of the hostes withe their companyes. vi. hundred. M. iii. M. v. hundred and fyfty. And yet the Leuites were not nōbred amōge the chyldrē of Israel, as the Lord cōmaunded Moses. And the chyldren of Israell dyd accordynge to al that the Lorde cōmaunded Moses, & so they pytched withe theyr standertes, & so they iourneyd euery man in hys kinred, & in the housholde of his fathers.

¶ The Leuites are not nombred to go to batel, but to minister to the holy place of Sanctuary. They must also pytche theyr tentes nere to the habitation.

The. iii. Chapter.

A These are the generacyons of Aarō & Moses, whē the lord spake vnto Moses in mouṫ Sinai, and these are the names of the sonnes of Aaron Nadab the eldest sonne, & Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamer. These are the names of the sonnes of Aaron whych were Preastes anointed & their handes filled to mynistre but * Nadab & Abihu dyed before the lorde, as they brought straunge fyre before the Lorde in the wylderneste of Sinai, & had no chyldren. And Eleazar and Ithamar mynystred in the sight of Aarō their father.

B And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saynge: bryng the trybe of Leui, and set thē before Aaron the preaste, & let them serue him & wayt vpō him & vpō al the multitude, before ꝑ tabernacle witnesse, to do the seruyce of the habytacyon. And they shal wayte vpon all the appparell of the tabernacle of witnes, & vpō the childrē of Israel, to do the seruice of the habitation. And thou shalt geue the Leuites vnto Aaron, and his sonnes, for they ar geuē vnto him of the childrē of Israel. And thou shalte appoynt Aaron & hys sonnes to wayt on theyr Priestes office: & the straunger that cometh nye, shal dye for it.

C Exod. Numb.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses saynge: beholde * I haue taken the Leuites from amōge the chyldrē of Israel, for all the fyrstborne that openeth the matrice amōg ꝑ childrē of Israel, so ꝑ the Leuites shalbe mine: because al the fyrstborne are myne: for ꝑ same daye that I smote al the fyrste fyrst borne in the lande of Egypte, I halowed vnto me all ꝑ fyrstborne in Israel both man and beast, and myne they shalbe: for I am the Lord.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses in the wylderneste of Sinai saying: Nōbre the children of Leui in the houses of their fathers and kynredes. all that are males from a moneth olde and aboue. And Moses nombred them at the word of the Lorde as he was commaunded. And these are the names of the chyldren of Leui: Gersō Cahath and Merari. And these are ꝑ names of the chyldren of Gerson in their kinredes: Libni & Semei. And the sonnes of Cahath in their kynredes were Amram, Iezhar, Hebrō & Oziel. And the sōnes of Merari in their kynredes were Mahely and Muli. These are the kynreds of Leui in the houses of their fathers.

D The Gersonites pytch on the west syde.

And of Gerson came ꝑ kynred of the Libnites and the Semeites, whych are ꝑ kynredes of the Gersonytes. And ꝑ sume of them (when all the males were told) frō a moneth olde and aboue, were. vii. thousande and fyue hundred. And the kynredes of the Gersonytes pytched behynde ꝑ habitacyon west warde. And the captaine of the most auncient house amōg the Gersonytes, was Elyasaph the sōne of Lael. And ꝑ offyce of the chyldren of Gerson in the tabernacle of witnesse was to kepe the habitatiō & the teinte with the couerynge therof and the hangynge of the doze of ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse and the hangynges of the courte, and the curtayne of the doze of the courte: whyche courte wente round aboute the dwellynge, and the alter, and the cozdes that perteyned vnto all the seruyce therof And of Cahath came the kinred of the Amramytes and the kynred of the Iezcharytes & of the Hebronites and of the Ozielites: And these are the kynredes of the Cahathites. And ꝑ nombre of all the males from a moneth olde and aboue, was. viii. thousande and syxe hundred: which waited on the holy place. And the kynred of the chyldren of Cahath, pitched on the southesyde of the dwellynge. And the captayne in the moste auncient housse of the kynredes of the Cahathites, was Elisaphan the sonne of Oziell, and their offyce was to kepe the arcke, ꝑ table

the candelstyck, and the alter, & the holye vessels to mynystre vnto and the vayle with al that serued therto. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the preast, was captayne ouer all the captaynes of the Leuites, & had the ouer syghte of them that wayted vppon the holy thynges.

E The Merarites assygned on the northsyde

And of Merari came the kynredes of the Mahelytes and of the Musites: and these are the kynredes of the Merarytes And the nombre of them (when al the males frō amoneth olde & aboue was told) drewe vnto. vi. thousande, and two hundred. And the captayne of the moste auncient housse among the kynredes of the Merarites, was Zuriel the sonne of Abihael whych pitched on the north syde of the dwellyng. And the office of the sonnes of Merari was to kepe the bozdes of the dwellyng & the barres, pylers with ꝑ sockettes therof, and al the instrumentes therof & al that serued therto: and the pylers of the courte rounde aboute & theyr sockettes with their pynnes & cozdes.

Moses and Aarō their sonnes on ꝑ eastsyde.

But on the forefrōte of the habitacyon & before ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse eastwarde shall Moses & Aaron & hys sonnes pytch & wayte on the sanctuary in the steade of the chyldren of Israel. And the straunger that cometh nye, shall dye for it. And the summe of ꝑ Leuites whych Moses & Aaron nombred, at the cōmaundement of the Lord throwout their kynredes, euen of al the males of a moneth olde & aboue, was. xxii. thousande.

F

And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: Nōber al the fyrst borne that ar males amōg the chyldrē of Israel, frō a moneth olde & aboue & take the nomber of theyr names. And thou shalte appoynte the Leuites to me the lorde, for all the fyrstborne among the childrē of Israel, & the catel of the Leuites for the fyrstborne of the chyldren of Israell. And Moses nombred as the lorde cōmaunded hym, al the fyrstborne of ꝑ chyldren of Israel. And al the fyrstborne males in the summe of names, from a moneth olde & aboue, were nombred. xxii. M. iii. hundred and. lxxiii.

G

And the lord spake vnto Moyses saynge: take the Leuites for al the fyrstborne of the chyldrē of Israel, & the catel of ꝑ Leuites for theyr catell: and thee Ieuytes shalbe myne whyche am the Lorde. And for the redemynge of the two hundred & lxxiii. whych are moo then the Leuites in the fyrstborne of the chyldren of Israell, take .v. sycles of euery pece, after* the sycle of the holye place .xx. gerás the sycle. And geue the money wherwyth the odde nombre of them is redemed, vnto Aaron and his sónes. And Moses toke the redé pcyon money of the ouerplus that were moo then the Leuites, amonge the fyrste borne of the chyldren of Israell: and it came to a thousande .iii. hundred and .lxv. sicles, of the holye sicle. And he gaue that redemptió money vnto Aaró & his sónes at the worde of the Lord, euen as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

The.iiii. Chapter.

AND the Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron, and bad them take the summe of the chyldren of Cahath from amóg the sonnes of Leui, in theyr kinredes and houses of their fathers, from .xxx. yere & aboue vntyll fyfty yre, al that were able to warre, for to do the worke in the tabernacle of witnesse. This shalbe the offyce of the chyldren of Kahath in the tabernacle of witnes which is moste holy. And when the hoste remoueth Aaron and hys sonnes shall come and take downe the vayle, and couer the arcke of wytnesse there wyth & shall put theron a couerynge of tarus skinnes, & shal spred a cloth that is altogether of iacynct aboue al, and put the staues therof in. And vpon the shewtable, they shal spred abroade a clothe of iacynct and put theron the dishes, spones, flat peces, & pottes to poure with, & the daylye bread shalbe theron: & they shal spreade vpon the a couerynge of purple, and couer the same with a couerynge of tarus skinnes, and put the staues therof in.

And they shall take a cloth of iacinct & couer the candelsticke of light & her lampes and her snoffers, & fyre pannes, and al her oyle vessels whiche they occuppye about it, and shall put vpon her and all her instrumentes, a couerynge of tarus skynnes, and put it vpon staues. And vpon the goldé alter they shal spred a cloth of Iacincte, and put on her staues. And they shall take all the thynges which they occuppye to ministre with in the holy place, & put a clothe of Iacynct vpon them and couer them wythe a couerynge of tarus skynnes and put them on staues. And they shall take awaye the asshes oute of the alter, and spred a scarlet cloth theron: and put about it, the fyre pannes, the flesh hoke, the shouels, the basens and all that belongethe vntó the alter, and they shall spred vpon it a couerynge of tarus skinnes, put on the staues of it. And when Aaron and his sonnes haue made an ende of couerynge thee sanctuarye and all thee thynges of the sanctuarye, agenste that the hoste remoue, then the sonnes of Cahath shall come in for to beare, & so let the not touche the sanctuary least they dy. And this is the charge of the sónes of Cahath in the tabernacle of witnes. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the preast, shall haue the charge to prepare oyle for the lightes & swete cens, and the dayly meateoffring & the anoyntynge oyle, and the ouer syghte of al the dwelling and of al that therin is both ouer the sanctuarye and all that pertayneth therto.

And the Lorde spake vntó Moses & Aaron sayenge: destroye not the trybe of the kynredes of the Cahathites, from amóg the Leuites. But thus do vnto them that they maye lyue and not dye, when they go vnto the moost holy place. Aaron and his sonnes shal go in and put them euery mán vnto his seruyce and vntó hys burthen, But let them not not go in to se whé they couer the sanctuary, lest they dye.

And the Lorde spake vntó Moses sayenge Take the summe of the chyldern of Gerson, in the houses of their fathers & in theyr kinredes: from .xxx. yere and aboue, vntyll .l. all that are able to goo forth in warre, for to do seruyce in the tabernacle of witnesse. And this is the seruice of the kynred of the Gersonites, to serue & to beare. They shal beare the curtaynes of the dwelling & the rouffe of the tabernacle of witnesse and his couerynge and the couerynge of tarus skynnes that is an hye aboue vpon it, and the hangynge of the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse: and the hangyng of the court and the hangynge of the gate of the courte that is rounde about the dwellyng & the alter, and the cordes of the, and all the instrumentes that serue vnto them and all that is made for them. And at the mouth of Aaron and his sonnes, shall al that seruice of the childern of the Gersonites be done, in all their charges & al their seruyce, and ye shall appoynte them vnto al their charges that they shal waite vpon. And this is the seruice of the kinred of the childrē of the Gersonites in the tabernacle of witnesse, & their wayte shalbe in the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the Preast.

And thou shalte nombre the sonnes of Merari in their kynredes & in the houses of theyr fathers, from .xxx. yeres and aboue vnto .l. All that is able to go forthe in warre, to do the seruyce of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And this is the charge of they muste wayte vppon in all that they must serue in the tabernacle of wytnesse. The bordes of the dwelling, & the barres, pylers, & sokettes therof and the pilers of the court round aboute, and their sokettes, pines & cordes wyth al that pertayneth and serueth vnto them. And by name ye shall reken the thynges that they muste wayte vpó to beare. This is the seruice of the kinreds of the sónes of Merari in al their seruice in the tabernacle of wytnesse by the hand of Ithamar the sonne of Aaró the preast.

And Moses and Aaron and the princes of the multitude nombred the sonnes of the Cahathites in theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers, from .xxx. yere & aboue vnto fyfty, all that were able to go forthe in the hoste and to do seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the nombre of them in theyr kynredes were two thousande, seuen hundred and .l. These are the nombres of the kynredes of the Cahathytes, of al the dyd seruice in the tabernacle of witnesse, which Moses & Aaró did nombre at the cómaundement of the Lorde by the hande of Moses.

And the sonnes of Gerson were nombred in their kiredes and in the houses of their fathers, fró .xxx. yere vp vnto fyfty, all that were able to go forth in the host for to do seruyce in the tabernacle of witnesse. And the nombre of thé in theyr kynredes, & in the houses of their fathers, was two thousand fyre hundred and .xxx. This is the nombre of the kynredes of the sonnes of Gerson, of all that dyd serupce in the tabernacle of witnesse, whych Moses and Aaron dyd nombre at the cómaundemente of the Lorde.

And the kynredes of the sonnes of Merari were nombred in their kynredes and in the houses of theyr fathers, from .xxx. yere vp vn to fyftye: all that were able to go forth with the host, to do seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the nombre of them was in theyr kynredes, thre thousande and two hondred. Thys is the nóbre of the kynredes of the sonnes of Merari, whych Moses and Aaron nombred at the byddynge of the Lorde, by the hande of Moses.

The whole summe which Moses, Aaron and the lordes of Israell nombred amonge the leuytes in theyr kynredes and householdes of theyr fathers, from .xxx. yere vp vnto .l. euerye man to do hys office and seruyce and to beare hys burthé in the tabernacle of witnesse: was .viii. thousand, fyue hundred and .lxxx. whych they nombred at the commaundemente of the Lorde by the hande of Moses euery mán vnto hys seruice and burthen: as the lord commaunded Moses.

¶ Who they be that ought to be cast out of the hoste. The knowleging of synne. The cleansynge of synne done of ignorāce. The lawe of the fyrste fruytes. & of gelousye.

The.v. Chapter.

AND the Lord spake vnto Moses sayenge: commaunde the chyldren of Israel that they put out of the host, all the lepers & al that haue yssues & al that are defiled vpon the deed whether they be males or females ye shall put thé out of the hoste, that they defyle not the tentes amóg which ye dwel. And the chyldren of Israel dyd so, & put them out of the host euen as the Lorde cómaunded Moses, so dyd the children of Israel.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayenge: speake vnto the children of Israel: whether it be man or woman, when they haue synned any maner of synne whych a man doeth where wythe a man trespaseth a-gest the Lord, so that the soule hath done amysse then they shal knowledg their sinnes which they haue done and restore again the hurte that they haue done in ỹ hole, and put the fyfte parte of it moare therto and geue it vnto him whō he hath trespased agenste. But and yf he that maketh the amendes haue no mā to do it to, then the amendes that is made shalbe the Lordes and Preastes, beside the ram of the attonement offeryng wherwith he maketh attonement for him selfe. And all heue offerynges of all the halowed thinges which the chyldren of Israell bringe vnto the preaste, shalbe the preastes, & euery mans holowed thynges shalbe hys owne but whatsoeuer any man geueth the preaste, it shalbe the preastes.

And ỹ Lord spake vnto Moses sayeg Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto thē. If any mās wyfe go a side and trespase against him, so that another man lye with her fleshly and the thyng be hyd from the eyes of her husband and is not come to light ỹ she is defiled (for there is no wytnesse agenst her) in as moche as she was not take with the maner, and the spirite of ỹ gelousy cometh vpon him & he is gelouse ouer his wyfe and she defiled, or happely ỹ spyret of gelousy cometh vpō him, & he is gelouse ouer his wife and she yet vndefiled. Then let her husbād bring her vnto the preaste and bringe an offeringe for her: the tenthe parte of an Epha of barly meele, but shall poure none oyle there vnto, nor put frankencens therō: for it is an offeringe of gelousye, and an offeringe that maketh remembraūce of sinne.

And let the preast bringe her & sett her before the Lord, and let him take holy water in an erthen vessel & of the dust that is in the flooze of the habytacyon and put it in to the water. And the preast shal set the wife before the lord and vncouer her heade, and put the memoryall of the offeryngē in her handes whyche is the gelousye offeryng, and the preaste shall haue bytter and cursynge water in his hande, and he shall conjure her and shal say vnto her If no man haue lyen with the nether hast gone a syde, and defyled thy selfe behynde thy husbande, then haue thou no harme of thys bytter cursynge water.

But & yf thou hast gone aside behynd thyne husband and art defyled and some other man hath lyen wyth the beside thyne husband (and let the priest conjure her wyth the conjuracion of the curse and say vnto her) the Lord make the a curse and a conjuration among thy people: so that the Lorde make thy thye rotte, and thy belye swell and thys bitter cursynge water goo into the bowels of thy, that thy bely swell and thy thye rotte, and the wyfe shall saye & Amen, Amen.

And the preaste shall wryte thys curse in a byll and washe it out in the bytter water. And when the cursinge water is in her that it is bitter, then let the priest take the gelousye offeringe out of the wyfes hande, & waue it before the Lorde, and bringe it vnto the alter: and he shal take an hand full of the memoriall offringe and burne it vpon the alter, and thē make her drinke the water, and whē he hath made her drinke the water, Yf she be defyled and haue trespased agaynst her husband, then shall the cursynge water go in to her & be so bitter, that her belye shall swell and her thye shall rotte, and she shalbe a curse amonge her people. And yf she be not defyled but is cleane, thē she shall haue no harme, but that she maye conceaue.

Thys is the lawe of gelousye, when a wyfe goeth a syde behynde hyr husband & is defyled, or when the spirite of gelousye cometh vpon a mā, so ỹ he is gelouse ouer his wyfe thē he shal bringe her before the Lord, and the priest shal minister al thys lawe vnto her, and the man shalbe giltles, and the wyfe shall beare her synne.

The Notes.

a ¶ Thys text is to be vnderstanded of soch trespaces wherwith we hurt our neyghbours in worldly goodes, as they cal thē, and therfore must ỹ hurt be restored and the fyfte part moze therto: If the partye remayned not to whō the restitucion was due, nor any of hys lawful heares, then must it be the preastes wages, whych at that tyme had none other lyuelode.

b ¶ The hole lawe of gelousy semeth to be a testre & a certayn nourture of wyues, that they shoulde be obedient to their husbādes, chaste, manerly & faithfull, & soch as geue no occasiō to be suspected: wherto serued this lawe whyle it kept thē vnder & gaue thē no licens to renne at large whereby they might haue come in some suspecte & so haue come to this greate shame before the congregation.

c ¶ Amen is an Hebrew word & signifieth, euen so be it, or be it fast and sewer, approuynge and alowing the sentence goinge before: and whē it is doubled it augmenteth the confyrmation, as in many Psalms, and Joh. en. v. and. vi.

The

¶ The lawe of thē that take vpon them abstinence The maner of blessing the people.

The. vi. Chapter

And ỹ Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel & saye vnto thē: whē ether man or woman apoynteth a vowe a vowe of abstinēce for to abstayne vnto ỹ Lord, he shall abstayne frō wyne & stroge drincke, & shal drynke no vineger of wyne or of stroge drynke, nor shal drinke whatsoeuer is pressed out of grapes: & shal eat no fresh grapes nether yet dryed as longe as his abstinence endureth. Moreouer he shal eate nothing that is made of the vine tree no not so moch as the cornels or ỹ huske of the grape.

And as longe as the vowe of his abstinēce endureth, ther shal no rasure nor sheres come vpon hys head, vntyl hys dayes be out which he fasteth vnto the Lorde, & he shalbe holy & shall let the lockes of hys hayre grow. As longe as he abstayneth vnto the Lord he shal come at no dead body: he shal not make hym selfe vncleane at the deathe of hys father, mother, brother or syster: for ỹ abstynence of hys God is vpō hys head. And therefore as longe as hys abstynence lasteth, he shall be holye vnto the Lorde.

And yf it fortune ỹ any man by chaūce dye sodenly before him, & defyle the heade of hys abstinence, then must he shaue hys head the daye of his clensing: euen the seuenth daye he shall shaue it. And the eyght daye he shal bringe .ii. turtels or .ii. younge pigeons to the priest, vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnes. And the priest shall offer the one for a synneoffringe & ỹ other for a burntoffring & make an attonemēte for him, as cōcerning that he synned vpō the dead, & shal also halowe his head ỹ same daye, & he shal abstayne vnto the Lord the tyme of his abstinencie, & shal bryng a lambe of an yere olde for a trespace offeryngē: but the dayes that were before are lost, because hys abstinencie was defyled.

And the preast shal bringe him before ỹ Lord & offer his synoffringe & hys burnt offering, & shall offer the ram for a peaceoffring vnto the Lord with the basked of swete bread, and the prieste shal offer also his meatoffring & his drinkeoffring. And the abstayner shal shaue his head in ỹ dore of the tabernacle of witnes & shall take the hayre of his sober head & putt it in the fyre whych is vnder ỹ peaceoffring. Thē the preest shal take the sodden shoulder of the ram & one swete cake out of the basket & one swete wafer also, & put thē in the hāde of the abstayner after he hath shauē his abstinēce of, & the priest shal waue thē vnto the Lord, which offring shal be holy vnto the preest with the wauebreest & heue shoulder: & then the abstayner may drinke wyne This is the lawe of the abstayner whyche hath vowed hys offrynge vnto the Lorde for hys abstynence, besydes that his hand can gett, And accordyng to howe whyche he vowed, euen so he must do in thee lawe of hys abstinence.

And the Lord talked wyth Moses sayinge speake vnto Aaron & his sonnes saynge: of this wise ye shal blesse the childrē of Israel saying vnto them.

The Lord blesse the and kepe the.

The Lord make hys face shyne vpō the & be mercyful vnto the.

The Lord lyft vp hys countenaūce vpon the, and geue the peace. For ye shall put my name vpon the chyldrē of Israel, that I maye blesse them.

The Notes

a ¶ Here it apperyth what a vowe is after ỹ old testament, whych was a fygure of the vowe that a Christen man ought to do, geuinge and dedicating hym selfe to God as it is spoken Roma. xii. a.

b ¶ To haue the abstinence of God vpon hys head is, to shew a token of refusing the care of bodely thinges by that he setteth not by the hayre of hys head, or by the trimmynge of hys bushe or beard, which thing the world so greatly esteemeth.

c ¶ To make hys face to shyne is to geue a toke of hys louing kyndnes.

¶ The offring of the Lordes and heades of Israel when the tabernacle was sett vp.

The. vii. Chapter.

And

A AND whē Moyses had ful set vp the habytatiō & anoynted it & sanctified it and al the ap parel therof, & had anoynted & sanctified the alter also and all the vessels therof: then the princes of Israel heades ouer the houses of theyr fa thers which were the Lordes of the tribes & stode & nōbred, offered & brought theyr giftes before the Lorde, sixe couered cha rettes and .xii. oxen: two and two a charet and an oxe euery man, & they brought thē before the habitacion.

And the lord spake vnto Moyses say inge: take it of thē & let thē be to do the ser uice of the tabernacle of witnes, and geue them vnto the Leuites, euery man accor dinge vnto hys office. And Moyses toke the charettes & the oxen, & gaue them vn to the Lenites. ii. charettes and .viii. oxē he gaue vnto the sōnes of Gerson accoding vnto theyr office. And .iiii. charettes and eyght oxen he gaue vnto the sonne of Me rari accordinge vnto theyr offices, vnder the handes of Ithamar thee sonne of Aa ron the Preest. But vnto the sonnes of Ca hath he gaue none, for the offyce that per tayned thē was holy, & therfore they must beare vpon shoulders.

B And the princes offred vnto the dedica ting of the alter in the daye that it was a noynted, and brought theyr gyftes before the alter. And the Lorde sayd vnto Moy ses: let the princes bringe theyr offringes euery daye one prynce, vnto the dedycatin ge of the alter.

The offring of Nahesson He that offered hys offeringe the fyrst daye, was Nahesson the sonne of Amina dab of the tribe of Juda. And hys offrin ge was: a syluer charger, of an hundred & xxx. sycles weyght: & a syluer boule of. lxx sycles of the holy sycle, both of thē full of fyne wheten floure mingled with oyle for a meatoffrynge: & a spone of. x. sycles of golde full of cens: and a bullock, a ram & a lambe of a peare olde for burntoffryn ges, and an he goote for a synneoffringe: and for peaceoffringes two oxen and fiue rāmes. v. he gootes and. v. läbes of a yere olde, & this was the gyft of Nahesson the sonne of Aminadab.

The offring of Nathanael The second daye, dyd Nathaneel offer the sōne of Zuar, captayne ouer Issachar And hys offringe whych he brought was a syluer charger of an hundred and. xx. sycles weyghte: and a syluer boule of. lxx. sycles of the holye sycle, and bothe full of fyne floure myngled with oyle for a meat offringe: and a golden spone of. x. sycles, ful of cens. And a bullock, a ram & a läbe of a peare old for burntoffringes, and for peaceofferyages. ii. oxen. v. rammes, fyue he gootes and fyue lambes of one peare olde. And thys was the offeringe of Na thaneel the sonne of Zuar.

The thyrd day, Eliab the sonne of He lon the chefest among the chyldren of Za bulon, brought his offeringe. And hys of feringe was a syluer charger of an hun dred and. xxx. sicles weyghte, and a syluer boule of. lxx. sycles of the holye sycle, and both ful of fyne floure mingled wyth oyle for a meatoffring: and a goldē spone of. x sycles ful of cens: and an oxe and a ram & a lambe of a yere olde for burntoffringes and an he goote for a synneofferinge: and for peaceofferinges two oxen. v. rammes C v. he gootes and. v. lambes of one peare olde. And whē Moses was gone into the tabernacle of witnesse to speke with hym, he harde ỹ voyce of one spekinge vnto him frō of the mercyseat that was vpō ỹ arke of witnesse: euē frō betwene the two cherubyns he spake vntō hym.

¶ The disposition and order of the lampes. The fourme of the candelstick. The cleanlinge & offeringe of the Leuites. The age of the same.

The .viii. Chapter.

A Exo. xxv. d. AND the lord spake vnto Moses sayng: speake vnto Aarō & say vnto him: * when thou puttest on ỹ lampes se ỹ they light all seuē vpon the foze front of the candelstick. And Aarō dyd euē so & put the lāpes vpō the foze front of the candelstick, as the Lorde cōmaunded Moses. and the worke of the candelsticke was of stiffe golde: both ỹ shafte & the floures therof. And accordyng vnto the vision which the Lord had shewed Moyses euē so he made the candelsticke.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: take the Leuites frō among the chyldren of Israel, & clense them. And thys do vnto them whē thou cleansest them, sprynkle water of purifienge vpon them & make a rasure to runne alonge vpon all the B flesshe of them, and lette them washe theyr clothes, and then they shall be cleane. And let them take a bullocke and hys meatofferinge, fyne floure myngled wythe oyle: and another bullocke shalt thou take too be a synneoffringe.

Then bringe the Leuites before the tabernacle of witnesse & gether the hole multitude of the chyldren of Israell together. And bringe the Leuites before the Lord, and let the chyldren of Israell putte theyr handes vpon the Leuites. And let Aaron heue the Leuites before the Lorde, for an heueoffryng geuen of the chyldren of Israell, & then let thē be appoynted to wayte vpon the seruice of the Lorde.

And let the Leuites put theyr handes vpō the heades of the bullockes, & thē offer thē: the one for a synneoffring and the other for a burntoffring vnto the Lord to make an attonemēte for the Leuites. And make the Leuites stand before Aarō and hys sonnes, & heue them to be an heueoffringe vnto the Lord. And thou shalt separate the Leuites from among the chyldrē of Israell, that they bee myne: & after that let them go and do the seruice of the tabernacle of wytnesse.

Clense thē & waue thē, for they ar geuē C vnto me frō among the chyldrē of Israel for * I haue taken thē vnto me for all the Numilij. fyrstborne that open any matrice among the chyldren of Israel.

* For al the fyrstborne among the chyldren of Israel are myne both man & beast Exodi xiii. because the same tyme ỹ I smote the fyrstborne in the lande of Egypte, I sanctifye them for my selfe: and I haue taken the Leuites for all the fyrstborne amōg the chyldrē of Israell, & haue geuen thē vnto Aaron and his sonnes from amonge the chyldren of Israel to do the seruice of the chyldren of Israel in the tabernacle of witnes and to make an attonemente for the chyldrē of Israel, that ther be no plage amōg the chyldrē of Israel, yf they come nye vnto the sanctuary.

And Moyses & Aaron and al the con- D gregation of the chyldren of Israell dyd vnto thee Leuytes accordynge vnto all that the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And thee Leuytes purifyed them selues, and washed theyr clothes. And Aaron waued them before thee Lorde and made an attonement for them to cleane them. And after that they went in to do theyr seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse before Aarō and his sonnes. And accordyng as the lorde had cōmaunded Moyses as cōcerning the

the Leuites, euen so they dyd vnto them.

And the lord spake vnto Moyses sayinge: this shalbe the maner of the Leuites Numer. viii. c. *frō .xxv. yere vpward they shall go in to wayte vpō the seruice in the tabernacle of witnes, & at fyftie they shal ceasse waytinge vpō the seruice therof, & shal labour no more: but shal minister vnto theyr brethrē in the tabernacle of witnes, & ther wayte, but shal do nomore seruice. And se that ỹ do after thys maner vnto thee Leuites in theyr wayting tymes.

¶ The ester or passeouer offeing of the cleane & vncleane. A cloude coueting the tabernacle leadeth the hoost.

The .ix. Chapter.

A AND the lord spake vnto Moses in the wildernes of Sinai in the fyrste moneth of the second yere after they * were come out of the land of Egipte saying: let the chyldrē of Israel offre Passcouer in his season: euen the .xiiii. daye of thys moneth at euen they shall kepe it in hys season, accordynge to al the ordinaunces and maners therof. And Moyses bad the chyldren of Israel that they shuld offer Passeouer, and they offred Passeouer the .xiiii. daye of the fyrst monethe at euen in the wyldernesse of Sinai: and dyd accordynge to al that the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

Exodi xii. d. Leui. xxiii. d Nu. xxviii. Deu. xvi. a.

And it chaunced that certaynme which were defyled wythe a dead corse that they myght not offer Passeouer the same daye came before Moyses and Aaron the same B tyme, and sayde: We are defyled vpon a dead corse, wherfore are we kepte backe ỹ we may not offer an offring vnto the lord in the due season, amonge the chyldren of Israell? And Moyses sayde vnto them: tary, that I maye heare what thee Lorde wyll commaunde you. And the Lord spake vnto Moyses saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and saye. Yf any man amonge you or youre chyldren after you be vncleane by thee reason of a corse or is in the way ferre of, yet lett hym offer Passeouer vnto thee Lorde: thee .xiiii. daye of the second moneth at euen, and eat it with swete bread and soure herbes, and lett the leaue none of it vnto thee morninge nor breake anye boone of it. And accordyng to all the ordinaunce of thee Passeouer lette them offer it.

But yf a man be cleane and not let in a iourney, & yet was negligēt to offer a Passeouer the same soule shal perishe frō his people, because he brought not an offering vnto the Lorde in his due season: & he C shall beare his synne. And whē a straūger dwelleth amōge you and wyl offer Passeouer vnto the Lord, accordyng to the ordinaunce of Passeouer & maner therof shal he offer it. And ye shal haue one law both for the straunger & for him that was borne at home in the lande.

And the same daye that the habitacion was reared vp, a cloude coucred it an hye vpon the tabernacle of witnesse: and at euen ther was vppon thee habitacion, as it were the similitude of fyre vntyl the morninge. And so it was alwaye, that the cloude couered it by day, AND the similitude of fyre by nyght. And when thee cloude was taken vp from of the tabernacle, then thee chyldren of Israell iourneyed: & wher the cloude abode ther the chyldren of Israell pitched theyr tentes. At the mouthe of the Lord the chyldren of Israell iourneyed, & at the mouth of the lord they pitched. And as long as the cloude abode vpon the habitacion, they laye styl, & when the cloude taryed styl vpon the habitactō long tyme D the chyldren of Israell wayted vpon thee Lorde and iourneyed not.

Yf it chaunced that thee cloude abode any space of tyme vpon the habitactō, the they kepte theyr tentes at thee mouth of ỹ Lorde: and they iourneyed also at the cōmaundement of the Lorde. And yf it happened that the cloude was vpon the habitacion from euen vnto morning and was taken vp in the morninge then they iourneyed. Whether it was by daye or by nyght that the cloude was taken vp, they iourneyed. But when the cloud taryed * two dayes or a moneth or a longe season vpon the habitacion, as longe as it taryed theron, the chyldren of Israel kepte theyr tentes and iourneyed not. And as soone as the cloude was takē vp, they iourneyed. At the mouth of the Lorde they rested, and at the cōmaundemēt of the lord they iourneyed. And thus they kept the watche of the Lorde, at the commaundemente of the Lorde by the hande of Moyses.

The.x. Chapter.

1 AND the lord spake vntō Mō ses saying: Make the.ii. trō pettes of beaten syluer, that thou mayst vse thē to cal the cōgregation together, & whē the hoste shal iourney. When they blowe with them, all the multytude shall resorte to the, vntō the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. Yf but a one trumpet blow onlye, then the princes whyche are heades ouer the thousandes of Israell shall come vnto the. And when ye trompe thee fyrste tyme, the hoostes that lye on the eastе partes shall goo forwarde.

And when ye trompe the seconde tyme then the hostes that lye on the southe syde shall take theyr iourney: for they shall trō pe whē they take theyr iournеyes. And in gatheringe the congregation together, ye shall not blowe and not trōpe. And the sonnes of Aaron the prieستes shall blowe the troupettes & shall haue them and it shalbe a lawe vnto you for euer and amonge youre chyldren after you.

2 And when ye shal go to warre in youre land agaynst your enemies that vexe you ye shal trompe with the trompettes & ye shalbe remēbred before the lord your god & saued from youre enemyes. Also when ye be mery in your feast dayes & in the fyrst dayes of your monethes, ye shall blowe the trōpettes ouer your burnte sacrifices and peaceoffringes, that it maye be a remembraūce of you before your God. I am the Lorde youre God.

And it came to passe the.xx. day of the second moneth in the secōd yere, the clou de was take vp from of the habitation of wytnesse. And the chyldren of Israel toke theyr iourney out of the desерte of Sinai and the cloude rested in the wyldernes of Pharan. And they fyrste toke theyr iourney at the mouth of the lord by the hand of Moyses: euen thee standerte of the hoode of Juda remoued fyrst wyth theyr armyes, whose captayne was Nahalson the sonne of Aminadab. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the children of Issachar, was Nathanael the sonne of zuar. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of thee chyldren of Zabulon, was Eliab the sonne of Helō. And the habitacion was taken downe: and the sonnes of Gerson and Merari wēt forth bearynge the habitacion.

Then the standert of the hoste of Rubē went forth with theyr armyes, whose cap tayne was Elizur thee sonne of Sedeur. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyl dren of Simeō, was Salamiel the sonne of Suri saddai. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Gad, was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguel. Then the Cahathites went forwarde and bare the holy thin ges, and the other dyd set vp the habytacion agaynst they came.

Then the standert of the hoste of thee chyldren of Ephraim wēt forth with theyr armeyes whose captayne was Elisama the sonne of Amiud. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the sonnes of Manasse, was Gamalyel thee sonne of Pedazur. And ouer thee hoode of thee trybe of thee sonnes of Ben Jamin, was Abydan thee sonne of Gedeoni.

And hyndemost of all the hoste came the standert of the hoste of the chyldren of Dan wyth theyr armyes: whose captayne was Ahiezer the sōne of Ammi Saddai. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Aser, was *Pagiel the sonne of Ochyā And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyl dren of Nephthali, was Ahira thee sonne of Enan, of this maner were the iourneyes of the chyldren of Israell, wyth theyr armyes when they remoued.

And Moyses sayd vntō Hobab the sonne of Raguel the Madianite, Moses father in lawe: we goo vntō thee place of whych the Lord sayde I wyl geue it you Go with vs and we wyll do the good, for the Lord hath promysed good vntō Israell. And he sayd vntō him: I wyll not, but wyll go to myne owne lande & to my kyn red. AND Mir Jam & Aarō spake agēst Moses, because of his I wyfe of Inde which he had take: for he had take to wife one of Inde. And they sayde doth the Lord speake onlye thorow Mo- ses: doth he not speake also by vs? And ỹ Lord herde it. But Moses was a verye meke mā aboue al the men of ỹ erth. And the Lord spake attonce vnto Moses vn to Aaron and Mir Jam: come out ye .iii. vnto ỹ tabernacle of wytnesse: and they came out all thre.

And the lord ✠came doune in the piler of the cloude and stode in the dore of the Luke Gen xiii. tabernacle and called Aaron and Mir J B
ain. And they wēte both out of thē. And he sayede heare my wordes. If there be a prophet of ỹ lordes among you, I wyll shewe my selfe vnto him in a visiō & wyll speake vnto him in a dreame. But my ser uaunt Moses is not so, which is faithful in al myne house. Unto hym I speake ✠ mouth to mouth & he seith the syghte and the faction of the Lord, and not thorow ry dels. Wherfore thē were ye not afrayed C to speake agenst my seruaunte Moses?

And the Lorde was angry with them and went his way, and the cloude depar- ted frō of the tabernacle. And beholde Myr Jam was become leprous, as it we re snow. And whē Aarō loked vpon Mir Jam and sawe that she was leprous, he sayde vnto Moses: Oh I beseche the my Lorde, put not the synne vpon vs whych we haue folishly commytted and synned Oh, let her not be as one that came dead out of his mothers wombe: for halfe her flesche is eaten awaye.

And Moses cried vnto ỹ Lord sayēg: Oh god heale her. And ỹ Lord said vnto B
Moses: If her father had✠ spitte in her face, shuld she not be ashamed. vii. dayes let her be shutte out of the host. vii. daies, & after that let her be receaued in agayne. And Mir Jam was shutt out of ỹ hoste. vii. dayes & the people remoued not, tyll she was braught in agayne. And after warde they remoued from Hazeroth, and pitched in the wildernesse of Pharan.

Mouth

a✠ Mouth to mouth, that is, I speake not to him in dreames, but by manyfest tokes and vysyble ly- nes and vndoutedly geue I hym knowledge of my mynde: here is no bodely mouth meant.

b✠ To spyet in her face is, to punische her & cause her to se her offence. The Lorde is a father & punyc- theth his chosen not to vtterly thē, but to correct and feare thē, & to driue thē to ernest repentāce. After se- uen dayes was she receaued agayne into the hoose so after repentaunce had must we be receaued into the congregation.

C Certen are sent to searche the lande of Canaan: wyych bringe wyth them a clouster of grapes for a figure of fertylytye and fruytefulnes.

The.xiii. Chapter

AND ỹ Lord spake vnto Mo I ses saying: * Send men out to serche the land of Canaan whych I geue vnto the chyl- dre of Israell: of euery trybe of theyr fathers a mā & let thē all be sothe as at ruelars among thē. And Moses at the cōmaundemēt of the Lorde sent forth out of the wildernesse of Pharan: soch mē as were all heades among the chyldren of Israell, whose names are these.

In the trybe of Ruben, Sammua the sonne of Zacur: In the trybe of Simeō, Saphat the sonne of Hori. In the tribe of Juda, Caleph the sonne of Jephune. In the trybe of Issachar, Igeal thee sonne of Joseph. In the trybe of Ephraim, Hosea the sonne of Nun. In the trybe of Bē Ja- min, Palthi the sonne of Raphu. In ỹ trybe of Zabulon, Gadiel the son of So di. In the trybe of Joseph, ỹ was of Ma nasse, Gaddi the son of Susi. In ỹ trybe of Dan. Amiell the sonne of Gemalt. In the trybe of Aser, Sethur ỹ sonne of Mi- cheel. In the trybe of Nephthali: Nahebi the sonne of Waphsi. In the tribe of Gad Guel ỹ sonne of Machi. These ar the na- mes of the mē which Moses sente to spye out the land. And Moses called the name of ✠ Hosea the sonne of Nun, Josua.

And Moses sent thē forth to spie oute the land of Canaan, & sayd vnto thē: gett you southward & go vp into ỹ hie cōtrey & se that lāde what maner thing it is & the people that dwelleth therin: whether they be stronge or weake, ether fewe or many, & what thee lande is that they dwell in: whe- ther it be good or bad, & what maner of cy ties they dwell in, whether they dwel in tē- tes or walled townes, and what maner of lande it is: whether it be fatt or leane, and whether there be trees therein or not.

And be of a good courage, and bringe of the frutes of the lande. And it was about the tyme that grapes are fyrst rype. C

And they wēt vp and searched out the lande from the wylderneſſe of Zin vnto Rehob, as mē go to Hemath, and they as- cended vnto the south and came vnto He bron, where Ahiman was & Sesai and Thalmiai the sonnes of ✠ Enacke. Hebrō Luke Judic. i.d. was bilt. vii. yere before * Zoā in Egipte * Otherwy se Tanis, af- ter ỹ chalde And they came vnto ỹ riuer of Escol and they cutt doune ther a braunch wt one clo uster of grapes & bare it vpō a staffe bet- wene twayne, and also of the pomgrana- tes and of the fygges of the place. The ryuer was called ✠ Nehel Escol, because of the clouster of grapes which ỹ childre of Israel cutt doune there.

And they turned back agayne frō sear ching the land, at .xl. daies ende. And they D went and came to Moses and Aarō & vn to all the multytude of the children of Is- raell, vnto the wylderneſſe of Pharan: re- uen vnto Cades, and broughte them wor de and also vnto all the congregacyon, & shewed them the frute of the lande. And they tolde hym sayinge: we came vnto ỹ lande whether thou sendest vs, and sure- ly it is a land that flowyth with mylke & hony & here is of the frute of it. Neuerthe lesse the people be strong that dwel in the land, and the cytyes are walled and exce- dynge greate, and moreouer, we sawe the chyldren of Enack there. The Amalec- kes dwell in the south contre, and the He chites, Jebusites and the Amorites dwel in the mountaines, & the Cananites dwell by the see & a longe by the cost of Jordā,

And Caleb stylled the murmur of the people agēst Moses saying, let vs go vp and conquer it, for we be able to ouercom it. But the men that went vp wythe hym sayde: We be not able to go vp agaynste the people, for they are stronger then we: And they brought vp an euel reporte of the lād which they had serched vnto ỹ chil dren of Israel sayinge: The land which we haue gone to serch it out, is a lande ỹ deuoureth vp the inhabiters therof, and the people that we saw in it are men of statu re. And there we sawe also geauntes, the chyldren of Enack which are of the geau- tes. And they semed in oure syght as it were grethoppers, and so we dyd in theyr syght.

The Notes.

¶ Hosea or Osee, signifieth sauing or sauioure. Iosua or Iehosua signifieth the saluatiō of the lord

¶ Methel Escol signifieth by interpretation the cluster of the grape or as some wyl the valeye of the clouster.

¶ Floweth with milke and hony that is, full of good pastures, herbes, bees, cattell, wynes, trees, pleasaunt woodes. so that vnder heauē there was not a moare chosen pece of grounde for abundance and plenteousnes.

¶ Eateth vp, &c. that is, suffereth them not to lyue, but wyth battell and vyolēce of geauntes consumeth them.

¶ The people displeasing of coming to the land pro mysed, do murmur agaynst God, & wold haue stoned Caleb and Iosue. The Searchers of the land dye. Amalech kylleth the Israelites.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

A Nd all thee multitude cryed out, & thee people wepte throwe out that nyght, & al the chyldrē of Israel murmured agaynst Moses and Aaron, And the whole congregation sayde vnto thē: wold God that we had dyed in the lād of Egypt: ether we wold that we had died in this wildernesse. Wherefore hath the Lorde brought vs vnto thys lande to fal vppon the swerde, that both oure wyues, and also oure chyldren shulde be a praye: is it not better that we retourne vnto Egypte agayne. And they sayde one to another: let vs make a captaine and retourne vnto Egipte agayne.

B And Moyses & Aaron fel on theyr faces before al the congregatiō of the multitude of the chyldrē of Israel. And Iosua the son of Nun, & Caleb the sonne of Iephune which were of thē that serched thee land a rent their clothes & spake vnto all the cōpanie of the childrē of Israel saynge: The land which we walked thorow to searche it, is a very good land. Yf the lord haue lust to vs he will bring vs into thys land and geue it vs, which is a lande that floweth with milke and hony. But in any wyse rebel not agaynst the Lord, Moreouer feare ye not the people of the land, for they are but bread for vs. Their chylde is departed frō them, and the Lorde is wyth vs: feare them not therfore.

And all the whole multitude bade stone them with stones. But the glorie of the Lord appeared in the tabernacle of wittenes, vnto al the chyldren of Israell. And

C thee Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: Howe longe shall thys people prayle vpon me, & how long will it be yer they beleue me, for al my signes which I haue shewed among them? I wyl smite thē wt the pestilēce and destroy thē, and will make of the a greater nacyon & a mightyer then they.

And Moses saide vnto the Lord: then ỹ Egiptiās shal heare it, for thou brought este thys people wyth thy myghte from amonge them. And it wylbe told to the inhabiters of this lāde also, for they haue herde likewise, that thou the Lorde arte a mōg this people, & that thou arte sene face to face, & that thy cloude standeth ouer them & that thou goest before thē by ỹ dai tyme in a piler of a cloude and in a pyler of fyre by nyght. If thou shalt kil al this people as they were but one mā thē the naciōs which haue herde the fame of the, will speake sayeng: because the Lord was not able to bryng in thys people into the land which he sware vnto thē, therfore he slew them in the wyldernesse.

So nowe let the power of my Lorde be greate, accordynge as thou hast spoke saying: the Lorde is long yer he be angry and ful of mercy, and suffereth sinne and trespace, and leaueth no man innocente, & vysytethe the vnryghtuousnesse of the fathers vpon the children, euē vpō the third and fourth generation. be mercyful I beseche the therfore vnto the synne of thys people accordynge vnto thy greate mercye, and accordynge as thou haste forgeuen thys people from Egypte euen vnto thys place.

And the Lorde sayde: I haue forgeuē it, accordinge to the requeste. But as truly as I lyue, al the erth shalbe fylled with my glorye. For al those men wych haue sene my glorye & my myracles wyych I dyd in Egipt and in the wildernesse, & yet haue tēpted me now this. x. tymes & haue not herkened vnto my voyce, there shall not one se the land whiche I sware vnto theyr fathers, nether shall any of them ỹ called vpō me, se it. But my seruaunt Caleb: because there is another maner spirit with him, & because he hathe followed me vnto the vtmost: him I wyll brynge into the land which he hath walked in, and his sede shall conquere it, and also the Amalechites and Cananites which dwel in the lowe

E lowe cōtres. To morow turne you & get you in to the wyldernesse: euen the waye towarde the redd see.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayinge: how longe shal this euell multitude murmure agaynst me? I haue herd ỹ murmurynges of the childrē of Israel which they murmure agaīst me. Tell them, that the Lord saieth. As truly as I

Exod vi. b against me come into the lād ouer which * I lyfted mine hād to make you dwel therin, saue Caleb the sonne of Iephune, and Iosua the sonne of Nun.

And your childrē which ye saide shuld be a pray, them I wil bring in, & they shal know the lande which ye haue refused, & your carkesses shall ly in this wildernes. And your childrē shal wandre in this wildernesse. xl. yeres & suffre for your ¶ whoredome vntil your carkesses be wasted in the wildernesse, after ỹ nombre of ỹ daies in which ye serched out ỹ land. xl. daies, & euerye daye a yeare: so ỹ they shall beare your vnrighteoulnes. xl. yere, & ye shal fele my vengeaunce I the Lord haue sayed that I will do it vnto all thys euel cōgregacyon that are gethered together against me: euē in this wyldernesse ye shal be consumed, and here ye shal dye.

And the men which Moses sent to serch the lād, & which (when they came agayne) made all the people to murmure agēst it in that they brought vp a sclaunder vpon ỹ lande dyed for theyr bringinge vp ỹ

G euel sclaūder vpō it, & were plaged before the Lord. But Iosua the sonne of Nun & Caleb ỹ sonne of Iephune which were of the men that went to serche the land, liued styl. And Moses tolde these sayenges vnto al the children of Israell, and ỹ people toke greate sorowe, Blind reason wyych yet whyle wold not let thē beleue in gods word, teacheth thē howe too trust their owne wyzdes.

And they rose vp yerly in the morning & gatt them vp into the toppe of ỹ mountaine sayeng: lo we be here, & wil go vp vnto the place of which ỹ lord said, for we haue synned. And Moses sayd: wherfore wyll ye go on thys maner beyond the word de of the Lorde? it wyll not come well to passe go not vp for the Lord is not amōg you that ye be not slayne before your enēmies. For the Amalechytes and the Cananytes are there before you, and ye wyl fal vpon the swerde because ye are turned awaye from the Lorde, & therfore the Lord wyll not be wyth you.

But they were blinded to go vp into ỹ hyl toppe: Neuerthelater, the arcke of thē testament of the Lord & Moses departed not out of the hoste. Thē the Amelechites & the Cananites wyych dwelt in that hyl, came downe & smote thē & hewed thē: euen vnto Horma.

The Notes

¶ Rent theyr clothes, lyke Genesis. xxxvii. f

¶ To rayle vpon the Lorde, to prouoke hym, to resyst, wythstand or stryue agaynst hym all soch maners of speache where ye fynd them, do synnyge no thinge elsbut not too beleue hys wordes as in thee Psalm. v. c and. xx. f

¶ That he wyll haue the earth fylled wyth hys glorye is, that he wyl be magnified, preached spoke of, honoured & praysed, throwoute the earth. Psal. xxii. d.

¶ Whoredom for infidelitie or Idolatrye as in iiii. Regum. xx. e. and Sapiens. xiii. b.

¶ The drinkofferinges of thē ỹ enter into the land & the punishmente of hym that synneth of arrogance or pryde. The man is stoned that gethered stickes on the Sabboth. Gardes must be made vpō the quarters of theyr garmentes.

The. xv. Chapter.

A Nd the lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel & saye vnto them: whē ye be come into the lande of your habitacion whyche I geue vnto you, and wyll offre an offeryng vpon the fyre vnto the Lord, whether it be a burntofferinge or a specyall vowe or freewyll offeryng or yf it be in your principyall feastes to make a swete sauoure vnto the Lorde, of the oxen or of the flocke.

Then let him that offereth hys offring vnto the Lord, bringe also a meatoffring of a tenthe deale of floure myngled wythe the fourth parte of an hin of oyle, and the fourth parte of an hin of wyne for a drinkeoffringe and offer with the burntoffringe or any other offring when it is a lambe

B And vnto a ram thou shalt offer a meate offeryng of. ii. tenth deales of floure, mingled with the thyrd part of an hin of oyle, and to a drinkoffring thou shalt offer the thyrde part of an hin of wine, to be a swete sauoure vnto the Lord.

When thou offerest an oxe to a burntofferynge or in any specyall vowe or peace

peaceoffcrynge vnto ỹ Lozde, then thou shalt bzyng vnto an ore, a meateoffering of .iii. tenth deales of floure mingled with halfe an hin of oile. And thou shalt bzing foz a dzinke offering halfe an hin of wine that is an offerynge of a swete sauour vn to the Lozde. This is the maner that shal be done vnto one ore, one rā a lambe oz a
kyd. And accozdynge to the nōbze of soch offerynges, thou shalte encrease the meate offerynges and the dzynkofferynges.

All that are of youre selues shal do the se thynges after thys maner, whē he offereth an offerynge of swete sauoure vnto ỹ Lozd And yf there be a straunger with you oz be amonge you in your generacyons and will offer an offeryng of a swete sauoure vnto ỹ Lozde: euē as ye do, so he shal do. ¶ One ozdinaūce shal serue both foz you of the congregacion, and also foz
the straunger. And it shalbe an ozdynaūce foz euer amōge youre childzē after you that the straunger and ye shalbe lyke be-foze the Lozd. One lawe and one maner shal serue both foz you and foz the straun
ger that dwelleth wyth you.

And the lozd spake vnto Moses saiēg:
speake vnto the childzen of Israel & say vnto them When ye be come into the lāde
whether I will bzinge you, thē whē ye wyl
eate of the bzead of the lād, ye shal geuean heue offeringe vnto the Lozd. Ye shal ge ue a kake of the fyzst of youre dowe vn-
to an heuecofferyng: as ye do the heucoffe
rynge of the barne, euen so ye shall heue
it. Of the fyzst of youre dowe ye muste geue vnto thee Lozde an heue offeryng,
throzow out youre geueracyons:

If ye ouer se your selues & obserue not al these commaundemēts which the Loz de hath spoken vnto Moses, & al that the Lozde hath cōmāded you by the hand of Moses, from the fyzst day forwarde that the Lozd commaūded amōg your genera
cyon: when oughte is committed ignozan
tly befoze the eyes of the congregaciō, thē
al ỹ multitude shal offer a calfe foz a bur nt offerynge to be a swete sauoure vnto ỹ Lozde, and the meateofferynge and thee
dzinkoffring therto, accozdinge to the ma ner: and an he goote foz a synne offering
And the preaste shall make an attone-mente foz all the multytude of the childzē of Israel, and it shall be forgeuē thē foz it was ignozaūce. And they shal bzing theyz giftes vnto the offering of the Lozd, and theyz synoffryng befoze the lozd foz theyz ignozaunce. And it shalbe forgeuen vnto al the multitude of the childzen of Israel & vnto the straunger that dwelleth amōg
you: foz the ignozaūncle pertayneth vnto al the people. Yf any one soule synne tho-row ignozaūce he shal bzing a she gote of a yere olde foz a synoffring And the pzieſt shal make an attonemēt foz the soule that synned ignozauntly wyth the synoffringe befoze the Lozd and reconcyle him, and it shalbe forgeuen him. And both thou that art bozne one of the childzē of Israel and the straunger that dwelleth amonge you shall haue bothe one lawe yf ye synne tho
rowe ignozauncye.

And the soule ỹ doth oughte pzesumptuously e. whether he be an Israelyte oz a strāger, the same hath despysed the Lozd.
And ỹ soule shalbe destroyed frō amonge
his people, because he hath despised ỹ woz
de of the Lozd & hath bzoken his cōmaun
dementes, that soule therfoze shal perishe
and his synne shalbe vpon hym.

And whyle the childzen of Israel wēt
in the wildernesse, they found a man bzge
therynge stickes vpon the Sabothe daye.
And they that founde hym gatheryng stic
kes, bzoughte hym vnto Moyses and Aa ron and vnto all thee congregatyon: and they putt hym inwarde, foz it was not declared what shuld be done vnto him. And the Lozd sayd vnto Moyses: the mā shal dye, let al the multitude stone him with sto nes without the hoste. And al the multitu de bzought him wythout the hoste and sto ned hym wyth stones, and he dyed as thee Lozd commaunded Moyses.

And ỹ lozd spake vnto Moses saying speake vnto the childzē of Israel and bid
them: that they make thē gardes vpō thee quarters of theyz garmētes throzowe out theyz generacyōs, and lette thē make the gardes of rybaundes of Jacincte. And the garde shalbe vnto you too loke vppon it,
that ye remembze all the commaundemen
tes of the Lozde and do them: that ye seke
not a way after your owne hartes, and af ter youre owne eyes, foz to go a whozyng
after thē, but ỹ ye remēbze & do al my com maun

maundemētes & be holy vnto your God,
foz I am ỹ lozd your god which bzought
you out of the land of Egipt foz to be you re God, I am the Lozde God.

AND* Cozah the sonne of Je sechar the sonne of Cahath ỹ
sonne of Leui and Dathan & Abiram the sonne of Eliab, and On the sonne of Pe-leth, the sonne of Ruben: stode vp befoze Moyses, wyth other of the childzen of Is rael .ii. hundzed & fyftie, heades of the cōgregacion, and councelers, and men of fame, and they gathered thē selues together
agaynst Moyses and Aaron & sayd vnto them: ye haue done ynough. Foz al ỹ mul titude are holy euerye one of them, and the Lozd is among them. Why therfoze heue ye oure selues vp aboue the congregatyō of the lozde.

Whē Moses heard it, he fel vpon hys face & spake vnto Cozah, and vnto al his cōpanye saying: to mozowe the lozde wyll shewe who is his & who is holye, and wyll take them vnto hym, and whom soeuer he hathe chosen, he wyl cause to come to him.
This do: take fyzepannes, thou Cozah & al thy companye, and do fyze therin & put cens thereto befoze thee lozde to mozowe.
And then whō soeuer the lozd doth chose,
the same is holy. Ye make ynough to doo ye chyldzen of Leui.

And Moses sayde vnto Cozah: heare ye chyldzē of Leui. Seemeth it but a smal thynge vnto you, that thee God of Jsrael hathe separated you frome the multitude of Jsracll to bzynge you to hym, to do the seruyce of the dwellynge place of the lozd and too stande befoze thee people too my-nyster vnto them: he hathe taken thee too
hi & al thy bzethzē ỹ sonnes of Leui wyth
the, and ye seke the office of the pzeast also Foz which cause both thou and al thy cōpanye are gathered together againste the Lozde: foz what is Aaron, that ye shulde murmure agaynst hym.

And Moses sent to cal Dathan & Abi-ram the sonnes of Eliab, & they answered
we wyl not come. Seemeth it a smal thing vnto the that ỹ hast bzought vs out of a lande ỹ floweth with mylke and honye, to kyl vs in the wildernesse. But that thou shuldest raygne ouer vs also? Moreouer ỹ hast bzought vs vnto no land that flow eth with mylke & hony, nether hast geuen vs possessyons of feldes oz of vynes. Ether wilt ỹ pul out the eyes of these men:
we wyll not come.

And Moses wared very angry & said
vnto ỹ Lozd: Turne not vnto their offri
ges. I haue not taken so moch as an asse from thē neyther haue hurted any of them
Then Moses sayd vnto Cozah: Be ỹ & al thy companye befoze the Lozd both ỹ
they & Aaron to mozow. And take euerye man his censer & put cens in them, and co me befoze the lozde euery man with his cē ser: two hundzed & fifty censers, and Aaron with his censer. And they toke euery man his censer and put fyze in the & laied cens theron, and stode in the dooze of the tabernacle of witnesse, & Moyses and Aa ron also. And Cozah gethered al the cōgre gation agaynst thē vnto the dooze of the ta bernacle of witnesse.

And the glozye of thee lozde appeared vnto al the congregatiō. And the lozd spake vnto Moyses and Aaron sayinge:
seperate youre selues from this congrega
cyon, that I maye consume them atonce.
And they fell vpō theyz faces & sayd* O
most myghty god of the spirits of al flesh
one man hath synned, & wylt thou be wzo
th withal the multitude. And the lozd spa ke vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the congregacyon and saye: Gett you awaye
from aboute the dwellyng of Cozah, Da

in all their synnes. And they gate them from the dwellynge of Cozah, Dathan and Abiram on euery side. And Dathã & Abirame came out & stode in doze of their tentes with theyr wyues, ther sonnes and theyr chyldzen.

And Moses sayd: Here by ye shal know we ỹ the Lozd hath sent me to do all these wozkes, & that I haue not done thẽ of mine owne minde: If these men dy ỹ comen deth of all men oz yf they be* visyted after ỹ visitacyon of al men, thẽ the lozd hath not sent me. But and yf the Lozd make a new thing, and the erth open hir mouth & swalow them and al that pertaine vnto them, so that they go downe a quick in to hel: then ye shall vnderstand, that these men haue rayled vpon the Lozde.

And as sone as he had made an ende of speakyng al these wozdes, ỹ grounde clouen a sonder that was vnder them, & the erth opened her mouth & swalowed them & their houses and al the mẽ that were with Cozah & al their goodes. And they and al that pertayned vnto them, wẽte downe a liue vnto hel, & the erth closed vpon them, & they perysshed from amonge the congregacyõ. And al Israel that were about thẽ fledd at the cry of thẽ. For they sayd: The erthe myghte happelye swalowe vs also.

And ther came oute a fyre from the Lozde and consumed the two hundzed & fifty men that offered cens.

And the Lozd spake vnto Moses sayenge: Speake vnto Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the preaste and let him take vpthe censers oute of the burning, & scatter the fyre here and there, for thee b‡ censers of these synners ar holowed in their deathes & let them be beaten into thyn plates and fastened vpon the altare. For they offred them before the Lozde, and therfore they are holy and they shalbe a signe vnto the chyldzen of Israell.

And Eleazar the preast toke the brase cẽsers which they that were burnt had offered, & beate them & fastened them vpon the altare, to be a remembraunce vnto the chyldzen of Israell, that no straũger whych is not of the sede of Aaron, come nere to offer cens before the Lozde, that ye be not made lyke vnto Cozah and hys companye as the Lozd saide vnto hym by the hande of Moses.

And on the mozow al the multitude of the chyldzen of Israel murmured agaynst Moyses and Aaron, sayinge: ye haue kylled the people of the Lozde. And when the multytude was gathered agaynst Moyses and Aaron they loked towarde the tabernacle of witnesse. And behold, the cloud had couered it and the glozy of the Lozde appeared. And Moyses & Aaron went before the tabernacle of witnesse. And the Lozd spake vnto Moyses sayinge: Gett you from thys congregation, that I may consume them quyckly. And they fel vpõ theyr faces.

And Moses sayd vnto Aarõ: take a cẽser and put fyre therin oute of the alter, & poure on cẽs, & go quickly vnto the cõgregatiõ and make an attonement for them. For ther is wrath gone out from the lozd, and ther is a plage begõne. And Aarõ toke as Moyses cõmaũded him, & ran vnto the cõgregation: & behold, the plage was begon among the people, and he putte on cens, & made an attonemẽt for the people. And he c‡ stode betwene ỹ dead, and thẽ ỹ were a lyue, and the plage ceased. And the nõbze of them that dyed in the plage, were xiiii. thousand & seuẽ hundzed: besyde thẽ that dyed about ỹ busines of Cozah And Aarõ wẽte agayne vnto Moses vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse, and the plage ceased.

The. xvii. Chapter.

AND ỹ Lozd spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the childzẽ of Israel and take of thẽ, for euery principall house a rod, of theyr princes ouer ỹ houses of theyr fathers: euen. xii. roddes, and wryte euery mãs name vpon hys rod And wryte Aarons name vpon the staffe of Leui: for euery head man ouer the houses of theyr fathers shall haue a rod. And putte them in the tabernacle of wittenesse where I wyll mete you. And hys rodde whom I chose, shall blossome: So I wyl make cease from me the grudgyns of the chyldzen of Israel whych they grudge agaynst you.

And Moyses spake vnto the chyldzen of Israel, & al the princes gaue him for euerye pryncе ouer theyr fathers houses a rod: euen. xii. roddes, and the rod of Aarõ was among the roddes. And Moses put the roddes before the Lozd in the tabernacle of witnesse. And on the mozowe, Moyses went into the tabernacle: and behold* the rodde of Aaron of thee house of Leui was budded and bare blossomes & almondes. And Moyses brought out al the staues from before the Lozd, vnto al the chyldzen of Israel, and they loked vpon them and toke euerye man hys staffe.

C Of the redde kowe. The lawe of hym ỹ dyeth in the tabernacle: and of hym also that toucheth the anye vncleane thinge

The .xix. Chapter.

AND ỹ Lord spake vnto Moses & Aaron saying: this is ỹ ordinaũce of the lawe whych the Lord cõmaũdeth saying: speake vnto thee chyldren of A Israell and let them take the redde kowe without spot wherein is no blemyche and which neuer bare yocke vpon her. And ye shal geue her vnto Eleazar the preest & he shal bringe her wythout the hoste & cause her to be slayne before hym.

And Eleazar the preest shal take of her bloude vpõ hys fynger, & sprinkle it streyght toward the tabernacle of witnesse, vii tymes. And he shal cause thee kowe to be burnt in hys syghte: both skyn, flesshe and bloud, with the dounge also. And let thee preest take Cedar wood and Isope & purple cloth, and cast it vpon the kowe as she burneth. And let ỹ preest washe his clothes and bathe his flesshe in water, & then come into the hoste, and the preest shalbe vncleane vnto the euen.

And he that burneth her, shal wash his clothes in water & bathe hys flesshe also in B water, & be vncleane vntyl euen. And one that is cleane, shall go and take vp the asshes of the kowe, and put thẽ without the hooste in a cleane place, wher they shall be kepte to make sprinklinge water for thee multitude of the chyldren of Israel: for it is a synneoffring. And let hym that gathe red the asshes of the kowe, washe hys clothes, & remayne vncleane vntil euen. And thys shalbe vnto the chyldren of Israel & vnto the straunger that dwelleth among them, a maner a‡ for euer.

He that teacheth any dead person, shal be vncleane seuen dayes. And he shall purifye hym selfe wyth the asshes the thyrde daye and then he shal be cleane the seuẽth C daye. This is the lawe of the man that dyeth in a tent: al that come into the tent and all ỹ is in the tente, shall be vncleane. vii. dayes. And al ỹ vessels that be opẽ which haue no lyd nor couerynge vpon them, are D vncleane. And whoso toucheth one ỹ is slaine with a sword in the feldes, or a deed person, or a bone of a deed man, or a graue: shall be vncleane. vii. dayes.

And they shal take for an vncleane persone of the burnt asshes of the synoffering & put runnynge water therto in to a vessel. And a cleane persone shal take Isope & dippe in the water, and sprynkle it vpon ỹ tent & vpon al the vessels & on ỹ soules that were there, and vpõ him that touched a boone or a slayne persone or a deed body or a graue. And the cleane persone shal sprinkle vpõ the vncleane the thyrde daye and the seuenth day. And ỹ seuenth day he shal purifye hym selfe and washe his clothes and bath him selfe in water, & shalbe cleane at euen.

If any be cleane and sprynkle not him selfe the same soule shalbe destroyed frõ amõg the cõgregaciõ: for he hath defiled ỹ holy place of the Lorde & is not sprynkled wt sprinkling water therfore is he vncleane. And this shalbe a perpetuall lawe vnto them. And he that sprynkleth ỹ sprynklynge water, shal wassh his clothes.

And he that toucheth the sprynklyng water, shalbe vncleane vntyl euen. And whatsoeuer the vncleane person toucheth shalbe vncleane. And the soule that touchethe it, shallbe vncleane vntyll the euen.

AND the whole multitude of the chyldren of Israel, A came into the desert of Sin, in thee fyrste moneth, and the people dwelt at Cades. And ther dyed Mir Iam and was buried ther. Moreouer ther was no water for the multitude, wherfore they gathered thẽ selues together agaynst Moses & against Aarõ And the people chode wyth Moyses and spake sayinge: wolde god that we had perished when our brethren perished before the Lorde. Why haue ye brought the congregaciõ of the lord vnto this wildernes, that both we and our catel shulddye here? Wherfore brought ye vs out of Egipt to bring vs into this vngracious place, which is no place of sede nor of fygges nor vynes nor of põgranates, neyther is ther any water to drinke? B

And Moyses & Aaron went frõ the cõgregatiõ vnto the doze of thee tabernacle of witnesse, & fel vpõ theyr faces. And the glorye of the Lorde appeared vnto them. And the Lord spake vnto Moses saying take the staffe, & gether thou & thi brother Aarõ the congregatiõ together, & saye ye vn to the rocke before theyr etes, that he geue forth his water. And thou shalt bring the water out of the rocke, and shalt geue the company drinke and theyr beastes also.

And Moyses toke the staffe frõ before the Lorde, as he commaunded hym. And Moyses and Aarõ gethered the cõgregacion together before the rocke, and he saide vnto thẽ heare ye rebellious, muste we fet you water out of this rocke? And Moses lyfte vp hys hãde wyth hys staffe and smote the rocke. ii. tymes, and the water came out abundantly, & the multitude dranke and theyr beastes also. C

And the elders of Moab went wythe the elders of Madian, and the reward of the sothe sayenge in their handes. And they came vnto Balam, and told him the wordes of Balac. And he sayde vnto the tarye here all nyghte and I wyll bringe you worde, euen as the Lorde shall saye vnto me. And the lordes of Moab abode wyth Balam.

And God came vnto Balam: and ℭ sayd: what men are these which are withe the? And Balā sayd vnto god: Balac the sonne of Ziphor kynge of Moab hathe sent vnto me sayenge: beholde, there is a people come out of Egypt and couereth ȳ face of the erthe: come nowe therfore and curse me thē, that so peraduenture I may be able to ouercome thē in batel, & to dryue thē out. And God sayde vnto Balam: thou shalt not go wyth them, nether curse the people, for they are blessed.

And Balam rose vp in the morynge and sayde vnto the Lordes of Balac: get you vnto youre lande, for the Lorde wyl not suffre me to go with you. And the lordes of Moab rose vp & went vnto Balac and sayd Balā wolde not come wyth vs. And Balac sēt agayne a greater cōpanie of lordes & more honorable thē they. And they came to Balā and tolde him: Thus sayeth Balac the sonne of Zipbor: oh, let nothynge let the to come vnto me, for I wyl greatly promote the vnto greate honoure, and wil do whatsoeuer thou sayest vnto me, come therfore I praye thee, curse me thys people.

And God came vnto Balam by nyghte and sayde vnto him: If ȳ men come to fett the, ryse vp and go with them: but what I saye vnto the, that only thou shalt do.

And Balam rose vp early and sadelde his asse, & went with the lordes of Moab. But God was angry because he wēt. And the angel of the Lord stode in ȳ way againste him. And he ryd vpon his asse & two seruauntes with him. And when the asse saw the angell of the Lord stand in ȳ way & his swerde drawen in his hand, she turned a syde oute of the way & went out in to the felde. And Balam smote the asse to turne her into the waye.

And the angel of the Lord went and stode in a path betwene ȳ vineyardes, where ℭ was a wall on the one syde & another on the other. When the asse saw the angel of the Lorde, she wrenched vnto the walle & thrust Balams fote vnto the wall, and he smote her agayne. And ȳ angel of the lord wēte forther and stode in narowe place, where was no waye to tourne, ether to the ryghte hande or to the lyfte. And when the asse saw the angel of the Lord, she fel downe vnder Balam: & Balā was wrath & smote the asse with a staf. And the lorde opened the mouth of the asse, & she sayde vnto Balam: what haue I done vnto the, ȳ thou smitest me thus. iii. times? And Balam sayde vnto the Asse: because thou hast mocked me? I wold ȳ I had a swerd in myne hand, that I mighte now kyll ȳ. And the asse sayd vnto Balam: am not I thyne Asse whiche thou hast rydden vpō sence thou waste borne vnto thys daye? Was I euer wont to do so vnto the? And he sayde, nay.

And the Lord opened the eyes of Balā ȳ he sawe the angel of the Lord standing in the waye, withe his swerde drawen in his hande. And he bowed him selfe & fell flat on his face. And the angel of the Lorde sayde vnto him. Wherfore smitest ȳ thyne asse thus. iii. tymes? behold I came out to resyst the, for the waye is contrary vnto me, & the asse sawe me and auoyded me thre tymes: or else (had she not turned fro me) I had surely slaine the and saued her a lyue. And Balam sayd vnto the angel of the Lord: I haue sinned for I wist not that thou stodest in the waye against me. Now therfore yf it displease thine eyes, I wil turne againe. And ȳ angel sayd vnto Balā, go with the men: but in anye wyse, what I saye vnto the, that say. And Balam wente with the lordes of Balac.

And when Balac herde that Balam was come he wēt out against him vnto a ℭ cytye

A ND on the morning Balac toke Balam & brought him vp into thee hye place of Baall, and thence he sawe vnto thee vttemost parte of the people. And Balam sayde vnto Balac: bylde me here seuē alters & prouide here seuē bullockes & seuen rammes. And Balac dyd as Balam sayd. And Balac & Balam offred on euery alter a bullock & a ram. And Balam sayd vnto Balac: stand by the sacrifice, whyle I go to wete whether the Lorde wyll come & mete me, & whatsoeuer he sheweth me, I wyll tel the, and he went forth wyth. And God come vnto Balam, & Balam sayd vnto hym: I haue prepared. vii alters, and haue offered vpon euery alter, a bullock, and a ram. And the Lorde put a sayinge in Balams mouth and sayd: go agayne to Balac & say on this wyse. And he went agayne vnto hym and lo, he stode by hys sacrifyce, both he and all the Lordes of Moab. And he began hys parable and sayd: Balac the kyng of Moab hath fet me frō Mesopotamia out of the mountaynes of the easte saying: come and curse me Jacob, come & defye me Jsrael. And he answered and sayde: must e I not kepe that and speake it, whych the Lord hath put in my mouth And Balac sayd vnto hym: Come I pray the wythe me vnto another place whence thou shalt se them, and shalt se but the vtmoste parte of them and shalt not se them all and curse me them there. And he brought hym into a playne felde where men myghte se farre, euē to the toppe of Phasgah, and bylte seuen alters and offered a bullock and a ram on euerye alter. And he sayde vnto Balac: stande hereby thy sacrifyce whyle I goo yonder. And thee Lorde mett Balam and putte wordes in hys mouthe and sayde: goo agayne vnto Balac and thus saye. And when he came too hym: beholde, he stode by hys sacrifyce, and thee Lordes of Moab wythe hym. And Balac sayde vnto hym: what sayeth the Lorde?

And he toke vp his parable & sayde: ryse vp Balac & heare, & herkē vnto me thou sonne of Zipbor. The Lord is not a man that he can lye, neyther the sonne of a man that he can repent: shulde he saye and not do, or shoulde he speake and not make it good? beholde, I haue begonne to blesse & haue blessed, and can not goo backe there fro. These thynges ye shal do vnto the Lorde in youre feastes: beside youre vowes & free wyll offerynges. in youre burntofferynges meateofferynges drynkeofferynges and peace offrynges. And Moses tolde the chyldrẽ of Israel, accordynge to al that the Lorde cõmaunded him.

¶ Of vowes when they shalbe kept or when not.

The.xxx. Chapter.

AND Moses spake vnto the heades of the tribe of ỹ chil- A
dren of Israell sayeng: this is the thing which the Lorde cõmaunded. ‡ If any mã vowe a vow vnto the lord or swere an othe & bynd his soule, he shal not go backe ẅ his worde: but shal fulfill al that proceadeth out of hys mouth.

If a damsell yowe a vowe vnto the Lorde and bynde her selfe byinge in her fathers house and vnmaryed. If her father heare her vowe and bonde which she hath made vpon her soule, & hold his peace therto: thẽ al her vowes & bõdes which she hath made vpon her soule shal stande in effecte. But & yf her father forbyd her B
the same daye ỹ he heareth it, none of her vowes nor bondes whych she hath made vpon her soule shalbe of value, & the Lorde shall forgeue her, because her father forbade her.

If she had an husband whẽ she vowed or pronounced oughte out of her lyppes wherwith she bond her soule, and her husbande hearde it & helde his peace there at the same daye he hearde it. Then her vowes and her bondes wherwith she bounde her soule, shall stande in effecte. But & yf her husbande forbade her the same daye that they heard it, then hathe he made her vowe which she had vpon her of none effecte, & that also which she pronounced ẅ her lyppes wherwyth she bound her soule, & the Lord shall forgeue her.

The vowe of a wedowe and of her that is deuorced, and all that they haue bound C de their soules with all, shall stande in effecte with them.

If she vowed in her husbandes house or bound her soule with an oth, & her husbande hearde it and helde his peace and forbad her not: thẽ all her vowes & bõdes wherẅ she bound her soule, shal stãd But yf her husbãde disanulled them the same daye that he hearde them, then nothige that proceded out of her lippes in vowes & boundes wherwithe she bounde her soule shal stande in effecte: for her husbãd hath loused them. And the Lorde shal forgeue her.

All vowes & othes that bynd to humble the soule, maye her husband stablysh D or breake. But yf her husbãd hold his peace frõ one day vnto another, thẽ he stablisheth al her vowes & bõdes which she hath vpõ her, because he held hys peace ỹ same day ỹ he hearde thẽ. And yf he afterwarde breake thẽ, he shal beare her syn him selfe.

These are the ordinaunces whiche the Lorde cõmaunded Moses, betwene a mã and hys wyfe, & betwene the father & hys daughter, beinge a damsell in her fathers house.

The Notes.

‡ This vowe here is that which a mã voweth for a certayn space, whether it be to fast or to chastise the body, or any other thinge, as it is sayde. Leui. vii. D

¶ The Madianites & Balam are slayne. The praye was brought to Moses & equally deuided. A present of Israel because none of theyr mẽ were slaine

The.xxxi. Chapter.

AND the lord spake vnto Mo- A ses sayeng: *auenge the chyl- Num.xxv.b
drẽ of Israel of the Madianites, & afterward be gathered vnto thy people. And Moses spake vnto the folke sayeng: Harnesse some of you vnto warre, & let thẽ go vpon the Madianites & auenge the lorde of the Madianites. Ye shal send vnto the warre a thousande of euery tribe thorow out all the tribes of Israell. And ther were take out of the thousãdes of Israel. xii thousande prepared vnto warre, of euery tribe a thousande. And Moyses sent thẽ a thousand of euery tribe, with Phinees the sonne of Eleazar the preste to warre, & the holy vessels & the trompettes to blowe Iudicũ.vi in his hande.

*And they warred agaynst the Madianites, as the Lord cõmaunded Moses, & slewe al the males. And they slewe the kynges of Madian amonge other that were slayne: Eui, Rekem, Zur, Hur & Reba: fyue kinges of Madian. And they slewe Balam the sonne of Beor with ỹ sword. And the chyldrẽ of Israel toke all the wemẽ of B Madian prisoners and theyr childrẽ. and spoyled all theyr catel, theyr substaunce & theyr goodes. And they burnt all theyr cytyes wherin they dwelt, & all theyr castels with fyre. And they toke al the spoyle and al they could catche, both of mẽ & beastes. And they brought the captyues and that which they had take and all the spoyle vnto Moyses and Eleazar the priest and vnto the companye of the chyldren of Israel euen vnto the hoste, in thee feldes of Moab by Jordan nye to Jericho.

And Moyses and Eleazar the Priestes and all the Lordes of thee congregatyon went oute of the hoste agaynst them. And Moyses was angrye with the officers of the hoste, with thee captaynes ouer thousandes and ouer hundredes, whych came from warre and batell, & sayd vnto them: C
Haue ye saued the weinen alyue? beholde, Num.xxxi.d
these caused the chyldren of Israell thorowe Balam, to cõmyt trespace agaynst ii.Petri.ii.d
the Lorde, by the reason of Peor, and ther folowed a plage amonge the cõgregation Iudi.xxi.b of the Lorde. Now therfore *slee all the men chyldren and thee wemen that haue lyen with men kyndely: But all the wemen chyldren that haue not lyen with mẽ kepe a lyue for youre selues. And lodge without the hoste seuen dayes al that haue killed any person * and all that haue touched anye dead bodye, and purifye both youre selues and your prisoners the iii. daye and the. vii. And sprinkle al your rayments & all that is made of skynnes, & al worke of gootes hayre, & all thinges made of wood. Numerũ.v

And Eleazar the prieste sayde vnto all the men of warre which wẽt out to batell: thys is the ordinaunce of the lawe whych B
the Lord cõmaunded Moses: Golde, syluer, brasse, yron, tyn and lead, and all that may abyde the fyre, ye shal make it go thorowe the fyre, & then it is cleane. Neuertheles later, it shalbe sprinkled with sprinklinge water. And all that suffereth not the fyre, ye shal make it go thorow the water. And washe youre clothes the seuenth daye, and then ye are cleane. And afterwarde come into the hoste.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: take the sũme of the praye that was take, both of the wemen and of catel, thou and Eleazar the priest and thee aunciente heades of the congregation. And deuyde it in to two partes, betwene them that toke the warre vpon them and went out to batell and all the cõgregatiõ. And take a portion vnto the Lorde of thee men of warre whyche wente oute to battell: one of fyue hundred, of thee wemen and of thee oxen and of thee asses and of thee shepe: and ye shall take it of theyr halfe and geue it vn-
to

vnto Eleazar the preaſt, an heuecofferyng vnto the Lord. And of the halfe of ꝑ chyldren of Iſrael, take one of fifty, of ꝑ women of the ore, of the aſſes & of the ſhepe, and of all maner of beaſtes, & geue them vnto ꝑ leuites which wayte vpō the habitacyon of the Lorde.

And Moſes & Eleazar the preaſt did as the Lorde commaunded Moſes. And the boty and the praye which the me of warre had caught was. vi. hundred thouſand & lxxv. thouſād ſhepe: & lxxii. thouſand ore lxi. thouſand aſſes: & xxxii. thouſand women that had lyen by no man.

And the halfe which was the parte of the that wente out to warre, was. iii. hundred thouſand and. xxx vii. thouſand and fiue hundred ſhepe: And the Lordes part of the ſhepe was. vi. hundred and. lxxv. And the oxen were. xxx vi. thouſande, of which the Lordes parte was. lxxii. And ꝑ aſſes were. xxx. thouſande fyue hundred, of whych the Lordes part was lxi. And ꝑ women were. xvi. thouſande, of which the Lordes parte was. xxxii. ſoules. And Moſes gaue that ſumme whych was the Lordes heuc offeryng vnto Eleazar the preaſte: as the Lord cōmaunded Moſes. And the other halfe of the chyldren of Iſraell which Moſes ſeparated from the men of warre (that is to wete, the halfe that pertained vnto the* cōgregacion) was. iii. hūdred thouſande and. xxx vii. thouſande & fyue hūdred ſhepe: & xxxvi. thouſand oxē and. xxx. thouſande aſſes and fiue hūdred & xvi. thouſand women. And Moſes toke of thys halfe that pertayned vnto the chyldren of Iſrael: one of euery fyftye, bothe of the women and of the catell, and gaue thē vnto the Leuites whych wayted vpō the habitacyon of the Lorde, as the Lord commaunded Moſes. And the officers of thouſandes of the hoſte, the captaynes ouer the thouſandes & the captaynes ouer the hundredes came forth and ſayd vnto Moſes: Thy ſeruauntes haue taken the ſumme of the me of warre, which were vnder oure hand, & there lacked not one mā of the. We haue therfore brought a preſēt vnto the Lord what euery mā fōud of Jewels of golde, cheyns, bracelettes, ringes, earynges & ſpangels, to make an attonement for our ſoules before the Lorde.

* Why the was not at the warre.

And Moſes and Eleazar fōke the golde of them: Jewels of all maner facyons. And all the golde of thee heuoffeting of the lord, of the captaynes ouer thouſādes & hūdredes was. xvi. thouſād. vii. hūdred and. l. ſycles, for the me of warre had ſpoyled, euery man for him ſelfe. And Moſes & Eleazar ꝑ preaſt toke the golde of ꝑ captaynes ouer the thouſandes ouer the hundredes, and broughte it in to the tabernacle of wytneſſe: to be a memoryall vnto ꝑ chyldren of Iſraell, before the Lord.

¶ To Rubē and Gad and to halfe the trybe of Manaſſes, is promyſed the poſſeſſion beyounde Jordane eaſtwarde: yf they bring theyr brethre into the lād of promyſe.

The. xxxii. Chapter.

The chyldrē of Ruben and the chyldren of Gad, had an exceadyng great multitude of catel. And whē they ſawe the land of Jazer & the lande of Galaad ꝑ it was an apte place for catell, they came & ſpake vnto Moſes & Eleazar the preaſt & vnto the Lordes of the cōgregacyon ſaying. The land of Ataroth & Dibō & Jazer, and Nemrah & Hebon & Elealeh and Sabam and Nebo & Beō which contre the Lorde ſmote before ꝑ cōgregaciō of Iſrael: is a lande for catell & we thy ſeruauntes haue catell wherfore (ſayde they) yf we haue founde grace in thy ſyght, lett this lande be geuen vnto thy ſeruauntes to poſſeſſe, & bring vs not ouer Jordan.

And Moyſes ſayd vnto ꝑ chyldren of Gad & of Ruben: ſhal your brethrē go to warre & ye tarye here? Wherfore dyſcorage ye the hertes of the chyldren of Iſrael for to go ouer into the land whych the lorde hath geuen them:* Thys dyd youre fathers, when I ſent them from Cades barne to ſe the lande. And they wente vp euē vnto the ryuer of Eſcol and ſawe the lād and diſcoraged ꝑ hertes of the chyldren of Iſrael, ꝑ they ſholde not go in to ꝑ lande whych the lorde had geuen them.

And the lorde was wroth the ſame tyme and ſware ſayenge,* None of the me that came out of Egipte from twentye yere olde aboue, ſhall ſe the lande whych I ſware vnto Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob because they haue not cōtinually folowed me: ſaue Caleb the ſonne of Jephune the Kenezite

Kenezite, & Joſua the ſonne of Nun, for they haue folowed me cōtinually. And ꝑ lord was angry with Iſrael, & made thē wādre in the wyldernes. xl. yere, vntyl al that generacion that had done euell in the ſyght of the Lorde were conſumed.

And beholde, ye are ryſen vp in youre fathers ſteade, to the encreaſe of ſynfull men, & to augment ꝑ feirce wrathe of the Lord to Iſraell warde. For yf ye tourne awaye from after him, he wyll yet againe leaue ꝑ people in the wildernes, ſo ſhal ye deſtroy all this folke. And they went nere him and ſayde: we wyl bylde ſhepefoldes here for oure ſhepe & for oure catell, and cyties for oure chyldren: But we oure ſelues wil go ready armed before the childrē of Iſrael, vntyll we haue brought thē vn to their place. And our children ſhal dwel in the fenced cyties becauſe of the inhabiters of the lande. And we wil not retourne vnto oure houſes, vntyll the chyldren of Iſrael haue inhereted: euery man his enheritaunce. For we wil not enheret with them on yonder ſyde Jordan forwarde, becauſe our enheritaunce is falled to vs on this ſyde Jordan eaſtwarde.

Joſue. 1.c And Moſes ſayde vnto them:* If ye wyl do this thyng, that ye wyl go all harneſſed: before the Lord to warre, and wil go al of you harneſſe ouer Jordan before ꝑ lord, vntyl he haue caſt out his enemyes before him, & vntil the lande be ſubdued before ꝑ Lord, thē ye ſhal retourne & be without ſinne againſt the lord & againſte Iſrael, & this lande ſhalbe youre poſſeſſiō before the Lord But & yf ye wil not do ſo, beholde, ye ſinne agēſt the lord: & be ſure your ſynne wyl fynde you out. Bild youre cyties for your chyldren & fouldes for your ſhepe, & ſe ye do that ye haue ſpoken. And the Chyldrē of Gad and of Ruben ſpake vnto Moſes ſayenge: thy ſeruauntes wyl do as my lord cōmaundeth. Oure chyldrē our wyues ſubſtance & all oure catel ſhall remayne here in the cityes of Galaad. But* we thy ſeruauntes will go al harneſſed for warre vnto battel before the Lorde, as my lorde hath ſaide.

Joſu. iiii. c And Moſes cōmaunded Eleazar ꝑ preaſte: & Joſue the ſonne of Nun and ꝑ auncient heades of the trybes of the chyldren of Iſrael, & ſayde vnto them: If the chyldren of Gad & Ruben wil go with you ouer Jordan, al prepared to fyghte before ꝑ Lord: then when the lande is ſubdued vnto you, geue thē the land of Galaad to poſſeſſe, but & yf they wyl not go ouer wt you in harneſſe, then they ſhall haue their poſſeſſions among you in the lād of Canaan. And the chyldrē of Gad & Rubē anſwered ſaying: ꝑ which ꝑ Lord hath ſayd vnto thy ſeruauntes we wil do.* We wyl go harneſſed before the Lord into the lād of Canaan, & the poſſeſſion of our enheritaunce ſhalbe on thys ſyde Jordan. Joſu. xxi. a

And Moſes gaue vnto the chyldren of Gad and of Ruben & vnto halfe ꝑ tribe of Manaſſe the ſonne of Joſephe the kyngdome of Sehon kynge of the Amorites, and the kyngdome of Og kyng of Baſon, the land that lōged vnto the cities therof in ꝑ coſtes of the countre rounde about. And the chyldren of Gad bylt Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer, Atroth, Sophan, Jaeſer, Jegabea, Bethnimra and Betharan fencend cytyes, and they bylte foldes for the ſhepe. And the chyldren of Rubē bilte Hebon, Elealc, Kiriathaim, Nebo, Baal Meon & turned their names, and Sibama alſo: and gaue names vnto the cytes whych they bylte. G

And the* chyldren of Machir the ſōne of Manaſſe went to Galaad and toke it and put out ꝑ Amorites that were therin. And Moſes gaue Galaad vnto Machir the ſonne of Manaſſe, & he dwelte therin. Gen. xv. d.

And* Jair the ſonne of Manaſſe went and toke the ſmall townes therof, and called them the townes of Jair. And Nobah went and toke Kenath with the townes lō gynge therto, and called it Nobah after hys owne name. Deut. iii. d.

A And the lord spake vnto Moses saying: cōmaunde the chyldren of Israel and saye vnto thē: whē ye come into the land of Canaan, this is the land ỹ shall fall vnto your enheritaunce, the lād

Josu.xv.a. of Canaan wyth al her costes. And * your southe quarter shall be from thee wyldernes of Sin a longe by the coste of Edom, so that your southe quarter shall be from the syde of the salt see eastward, and shall fet a compasse from the south vp to Acrabim, and reache to Zinna. And it shall go out on thee southsyde of Cades Barne, & go out also at Hasar Adar, & goo a longe

B to Azmon. And shall fett a compasse from Azmon vnto the ryuer of Egipt, and shal go out at the see.

And your west quarter shalbe ỹ greate see, which coste shalbe your west coste.

And this shalbe your north quarter: ye shal cōpasse frō the great see vnto mount Hor. And from mounte Hor, ye shall compasse and goo vnto Hemath, and the ende of the coaste shall be at Zedada, and thee coaste shall reache out to Ziphron and goo out at Hasar enan. And thys shalbe your northquarter.

And ye shall cōpasse your east quarter frō Hasar enan to Sephā. And the coaste shall goo downe from Sepham to Ribla

the right vse of sāctuaries.

If any man smyte another with a weapon of yron that he dye, then he is a murtherer, and shall dye for it. If he smyte hym wyth a throwynge stone that he dye therewithe, then he shall dye: For he is a murtherer and shalbe slayne therefore. If he smyte hym wyth a handewepon of C wodd that he dye therwythe, then he shal dye: for he is a murtherer and shal be slayne therfore.

The iustice of bloude shal slee the murtherer, as sone as he findeth him: If he thrust at him *of hate, or hourle at him vp Deu.xix. laying of waite that he dye or smyte hym with his hād of enuye that he dye, he that smote him shal dye, for he is a murtherer. And se ỹ ye polute not ỹ land which ye ar in, for blou de defyleth the lande And the lande can none otherwyse be clensed of the bloude ỹ is shed therein, but by the bloude of hym that shed it. Defyle not therfore ỹ lande which ye inhabite, & in the middes of why che I also dwell amonge the chyldren of Israell.

¶ In order for the mariage of the daughters of zelaphead. One of the tribes maye not marye wyth a nother: but euery one muste take him a wyfe of hys owne tribe.

The .xxvi. Chapter.

A And the auncyente heades of the chyldren of Galaad the sonne of Machir the sōne of Manasse of the kynred of ỹ children of Joseph, came for th and spake before Moses and the pryn ces which were auncyente heades amonge nu.xxvi.f the childrē of Israel and sayd.* The lorde commaunded my lorde to geue the lande to enheret by lotte to the children of Israell. And then my lorde commaunded in the name of the Lorde to geue the enheri Nu.xxvii.a taunce of* zelaphead oure brother vnto hys daughters. Now when any of the sōnes of the trybes of Israel take thē to wyues, then shall theyr enheritaunce be take frō the enheryptaunce of oure fathers, & shall be put vnto the enheryptaunce of the tribe in whiche they are and shall be take frō the lott of oure enheryptaūce. And whē the yere of iubelye comethe vnto the children of Israell, then shall theyr enheryptaunce be put vnto the enheryptaunce of ỹ tribe wherin they are, and so shal theyr enheryptaunce be taken awaye fromc the enheryptaunce of the tribe of our fathers.

And Moses commaunded the childrē of Israell at the mouthe of the Lord sayinge: the tribe of the chyldren of Joseph haue sayde well. This therfore doethe the Lorde commaunde the daughters of Eob.xii.d zelaphead sayenge: *let them be wyues C to whom they them selfe thyncke best, but in the kynred of the tribe of theyr father shall they marye, that the enheryptaūce of the chyldren of Israell roule not from tribe to tribe. But that the chyldren of Israel maye abyde euery man in the enheryptaunce of the tribe of hys fathers. And e-D uery daughter that possesseth any enheryptaunce amonge the trybes of the chyldrē of Israel, shalbe wife vnto one of the kinred of the tribe of her father, that the chyldren of Israell maye enioye euerye mā ỹ enheryptaunce of hys father, and that the enheritaunce go not from one tribe to another: but that the trybes of the children of Israell, maye abyde euery man in hys owne enheryptaunce.

And as the Lorde commaunded Moses euē so dyd the daughters of Zelaphe ad: Mahela, Thirza, Hagla, Milcha and Noa, & were maryed vnto their fathers brothers sonnes, of the kinred of the chyldrē of Manasses the sōne of Joseph: and so they had their enheritaūce in the tribe of the kynred of their father.

These are the commaundementes & lawes which the Lord commaunded thorow Moses, vnto ỹ children of Israell in ỹ feldes of Moab vpō Jordā ny vnto Jericho.

¶ The ende of the .iiii. Boke of Moyses.

A Prologe vpon the fyfte Boke of Moyses called Deuteronomium.

This is a Boke worthy to be rede in, daye & nyght, & neuer to be out of handes. For it is the moste excellent of al the bokes of Moses. It is easie also, & light, & a very pure gospell that is to wete, a preachinge of fayth & loue: deducing the loue to God out of faith & the loue of a mans neyghbour, out of the loue of God. Herein also ye mayst learne righte meditacio or contemplation, whych is nothing els saue the calling to mynde & a repetinge in the hert of the gloriouse & wonderfull dedes of God, & of his terrible handeling of his enemies and mercyful entreating of the that come when he calleth them which thing this boke doth and almost nothinge els.

In the.iiii. fyrst chap. he reherseth the benefites of god done vnto the: to prouoke the to loue, & his mighty dedes done aboue al natural power & beyonde al natural capacite of faith, that they might beleue God & truste in him, & in his stregth. And thyrdly he reherseth the fyrce plages of God vpo his enemies & on the which thorow impacience & vnbeleefe fell fro him: partly to tame & abate the appetites of the flesche which alway fight agaynst the spirite: & partly to bridle the wilde raging lustes of the in who was no spyryte: that though they had no power to do good of loue, yet at the lest way they shuld abstayne fro outward euel for feare of wrath & cruel vengeaunce which shuld fal upo the & shortly finde the out, yf they cast vp goddes nurture & runne at riotte beyonde his lawes & ordinaunces. Moreouer he chargeth the to put nought to, nor take ought away fro gods wordes, but to be diligent only to kepe the in remembraunce & in the hart & to teache theyr chyldre, for feare of forgetting. And to beware ether of making ymagerie, or of bowinge the selues vnto ymages saying: Ye sawe no ymage whe god spake vnto you, but herde a voyce only & that voyce kepe & ther vnto cleaue, for it is your lyfe & it shal saue you. And finally yf (as the frayltie of al flesche is) they shal haue falle from god & he haue brought the in to trouble, aduersyte, & cobraunce and all necessyte: yet yf they repent and turne, he promyseth the that God shal remembre his mercy & receaue the to grace agayne.

In the fifte he repeteth the.x. commaundmetes & that they myght se a cause to do them of loue, he biddeth the remembre that they were bound in Egipt & how God delyuered them with a mightie hand & a stretched out arme, to serue him and to kepe his commaundmetes: as Paule sayeth y we ar bought vd christes bloude & therfore are hys seruauntes & not our owne, & oughte to seke his wyl & honoure only and to loue and serue one another for hys sake.

In the sixt he setteth out the fountayne of al comaundemetes: that is that they beleue how that ther is but one God y doeth al, & therfore ought only to be loued with al the hert, al the soule & al y myght. For loue only is the fulfilling of the commaudmetes, as paule also saieth vnto the Romaines, & Galathians likewise. He warneth the also that they forgett not the commaundmetes, but teach the their chyldern & to shew their children also how God delyuered the out of thee bondage of thee Egyptians to serue him and hys commaundmentes, that the children myght se a cause to worke of loue, lykewyse.

The seuenth is all together of faith: he remoueth all occasions that mighte withdrawe them from the fayth, and pulleth them also from all confidence in the selues, and sturreth the vp to trust in god boldly and onlye.

Of the eyght chaptre thou seyst how that the cause of al temptation is, that a man might se his owne herte. For whe I am brought into that extremite that I muste either suffre or forsake god, the I shal feale how moche I beleue & trust in him, & howe moch I loue him. In lyke maner, yf my brother do me euel for my good, the yf I loue him when ther is no cause in him, I se that my loue was of god, & eue so yf I then hate hym, I fele and perceaue that my loue was but worldly. And finally he sturreth the to the fayth & loue of God, & dryueth them fro all confidence of theyr owne selues.

In the.ix. also he moueth the vnto faith & to put their trust in god, & drawe th them fro confidece of the selues by rehersing al the wickednes which they had wrought fro the.i. day he knew the vnto y same day. And in y end he repeteth how he coured God in horeb & ouercame him vd prayer, wher thou mayst learne the right maner to praye

In the.x. he rekeneth vp the pith of al lawes & the keping of the lawe in the harte: which is to feare god, loue him, & serue him withal their hart soule & might & kepe his comaudemetes of loue. And he sheweth a reason, why they shuld that do: euen because god is lord of heue & erth, & hath also done al for the of his owne goodnes thout their deseruing. And the out of the loue vnto god he bringeth the loue vnto a mas neyghbour saying: god is lord aboue al lordes & loueth al his seruautes indifferetly as wel the poore & feble & the straunger, as the riche & mightye, & therfore wil that we loue the poore & the strager. And he addeth a cause, for ye were stragers & god deliuered you & hath brought you vnto a lad wher ye be at home. Loue therfore a strager therfore for his sake

In the.xi. he exhorteth the to loue & feare god, & reherseth y terrible dedes of god upo his enemies, & on the y rebelled agest him. And he testifieth vnto the both what wil folow yf they loue & feare god, & what also yf they despise hi & breke his comademet.

In the.xii. he comaundeth to put out of the way al y might be an occasio to hurt y fayth & forbiddeth to do ought after theyr owne myndes, or to altre the word of god.

In the.xiii. he forbiddeth to herke vnto ought saue vnto gods word: no though he which counseleth contrarie shuld come with miracles, as Paul doth vnto y Galathias.

In the.xiiii. the beestes ar forbidde, partly for y vncleines of the, & partely to cause hate betwene the hethe & them, y they haue no conuersatio together, in y one abhorreth what y other eateth. Vnto this.xv. chap. al pertayne vnto fayth & loue chefly. And in this.xv. he beginneth to entreate more specially of thinges pertayning vnto the comwelth & equite & exhorteth vnto the loue of a mas neyghbour. And in the.xvi. among other he forgetteth not the same. And in the.xvii. he entreateth of right & equite chefly in so moch y when he loketh vnto fayth, & vnto the punishmente of ydolatres, he yet endeth in a lawe of loue & equite: forbidding to condemne any man vnder lesse then.ii. witnesses at the lest & comaundeth to bringe the trespacers vnto the open gate of the cyte where al the men go in & out, that al men might heare the cause & se that he had but right. But the pope hath founde a better waye, euen to appoynte him without any accuser & that secretely, that no ma knowe whether he haue right or no, ether hate his articles or answere: for feare lest the people shuld serche whether it were so or no.

In the.xviii. he forbiddeth al false & deuelish craftes y hurt true faith. Moreouer because y people coude not heare y voyce of the lawe spoke to the in fyre, he promiseth the another pphet to bring the better tidinges which was spoke of christ our sauiour

The.xix. & so forth vnto y ende of the.xxvii. is almost al together of loue vnto our neyghbours & of lawes of equite & honestie with now & then a respect of fayth.

The.xxviii. is a terrible chap. & to be trebled at: A christe mas hart might wel blede for sorow at y reding of it, for feare of the wrath y is lyke to come upo vs according vnto al y curses which y ther readeth. For according vnto these curses hath god delte with all nations, after they were fallen into the abhominacions of blindnesse.

The.xxix. is lyke terrible vd a godly lesso in y ende y we shuld leue serching of gods secretes & geue diligence to walke according to that he hath opened vnto vs. For the keping of the commaundementes of god teacheth wisdo as thou mayst se in the same chapter, where Moses sayth, kepe the comaundementes, that ye may understande what ye ought to do. But to serch gods secretes blindeth a ma as it is wel proued by the swarmes of our sophisters, whose wyse bokes are now when we loke in the scripture, founde but full of folishnes.

The fyfte Boke of Moyses called Deuteronomium.

¶ A breke rehersal of thinges done before, from the pitching at mount Horeb vntyl they came to Cades barne.

The.j.Chapter.

A THese be thee wordes whyche Moyses spake vnto al Israell, on the other syde Iordan in the wildernesse & in the feldes by the redde see, betwene Pharan and Tophell, Laban, Hazaroth and Disahab. xi. dayes iourneye from Horeb vnto Cades barne, by thee waye that leadeth vnto mounte Seir. And it forturned the fyrste daye of the. xi. moneth in the fortyethe yeare that Moyses spake vnto thee chyldren of Israell accordynge vnto all hat the Lorde hadde geuen hym in cõmaundement vnto them after that he had smytten Sehon the kynge of thee Amorites whyche dwelte in Hesbon, and Og kynge of Basan whyche dwelte at Astaroth in Edrai.

On the other syde Iordan in the lande of Moab, Moyses began to declare thys lawe saying: the Lord our God spake vnto vs in a‡ Horeb saying: Ye haue dwelte longe ynough in this mount: depart therfore & take your iourney & go vnto ỹ hylles of the Amorites & vnto all places nye there vnto: both feldes, hylles, and dales, and vnto the south & vnto the sees syde in the land of Canaan, & vnto Libanon: cuẽ
B vnto the great ryuer Euphrates. Behold I haue set the land before you: go in therfore and possesse the lande whych the Lorde sware vnto youre fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to geue vnto them and theyr seade after them.

And I sayd vnto you the same season I am not able to beare you my selfe alone. For the Lorde your God hath multiplied you: so that ye are thys day as the starres of heauen in nombre (thee Lorde God of youre fathers make you a thousande tymes so many moo as ye ar, and blesse you as he hath promysed you) howe (sayde I) can* I my selfe alone, beare the combraũce, charge and stryfe that is amonge you:
Exo. xviii. c. bryng therfore men of wysdomme and of vnderstandinge and expert, knowẽ among youre trybes, that I maye make them ruelars ouer you. And ye answered me & sayd: that whych thou hast spokẽ is good to be done. And then I toke the heades of youre trybes, men of wysdomme and that were experte, and made them ruelars ouer you: captaynes ouer thousandes & ouer hundredes ouer fyftie and ouer ten, and offycers among your trybes.

C Judges And I charged youre Iudges the same tyme sayinge: heare youre brethren & iudge ryghteously betwene euerye man and hys brother and the straunger that is wyth hym. Se that ye knowe noo man in Iudgemente:* but heare the smal as wel as the greate and be afrayed of noo man, for the Iudgemente is Gods. And the cause that is to harde for you, bryng vnto me and I wyll heare it. And I cõmaunded you thee same season, all the thynges whych ye shulde doo. And then we departed frome Horeb and walked thorowe all that great and terryble wylderneſſe as ye haue sene alonge by the waye that leadeth vnto thee hylles of thee Amorites, as thee Lorde oure God commaunded vs, and came to Cades barne. And there I sayde vnto you: Ye are come vnto the hylles of the Amorites, whyche the Lorde oure God dothe geue vnto vs. Behold, thee Lorde
D thy God hath sette the lande* before the, goo vp and conquere it, as the Lorde god of thy fathers sayethe vnto thee: feare not, neyther be discoraged. And then ye came vnto me euerye one and sayde: Let vs sende men before vs, to searche vs oute thee lande and too bryng vs worde agayne, bothe what waye we shall goo vp by, and vnto what cyties we shall come. And thee sayinge pleased me well and I toke twelue men of you, of euerye trybe one. And they departed and wente vp into thee hye countrey and came vnto the ryuer Escoll, and searched it oute, and toke of the frute of the lande in theyr handes and brought it downe vnto vs and broughte vs word agayne and sayde: it is a good land whyche the Lorde oure God dothe geue vs.

The people beinge vnfaythfull wold not go vnto ỹ lande ꝓmysed Notwythstandynge ye wouldc not consente to goo vppe, but were dysobedyente vnto the mouthe of the Lorde youre God, and murmured in youre tentes and sayde:

sayde: because the Lord b‡ hateth vs, therfore he hath brought vs out of the land of Egypt, to deliuer vs into the handes of ỹ Amorites and to destroye vs. Howe shall we go vp? Our brethren haue discoraged
E oure hartes sayinge: the people is greater and taller then we, and the cyties are great and walled euen vp to heauen, and moreouer we haue sene the sonnes of the Enakimes there.

And I sayd vnto you: dreade not nor be afrayed of them: The Lord your God whych goeth before you, he shal fyght for you, according to al that he dyd vnto you in Egypt before your eyes and in the wildernesse: as thou hast sene howe that thee Lord thy God bare, the as a man shoulde beare his son, thorowout al the way whyche ye haue gone vntyl ye came vnto thys place. And yet for all thys sayinge ye dyd not beleue the Lord your God whych goeth the waye before you, to search you out

Bolde him therfore for he shall deuyde ỹ heritage vnto Israel.* Moreouer your childrẽ which ye sayd shuld be a praye, & your sonnes which know nether good nor bad thys daye, they shall goo in thyther & vnto thẽ I wyl geue it, and they shal enioye it. But as for you, turne backe & take your iourneye into the wyldernesse euen the way to the red see. Thẽ ye answered and sayd vnto me: We haue synned a gaynst the Lord: we wyl go vp and fyght according to al that the Lord our God cõmaunded vs. And when ye had gyrde on
G euery man hys wepõs of warre and were ready to goo vp into the hylles, the Lorde sayde vnto me: saye vnto thẽ, se that ye go not vp & that ye fyghte not, for I am not amonge you: lest ye be plaged before your enemies.*‡ And whẽ I told you ye wold not heare: but disobeyed the mouth of the Lorde, and wente presumptuously vp in to the hylles.

Then the Amorites whyche dwelte in those hylles, came out agaynst you & chased you as bees do, & hewed you in Seir, euen vnto Horma. And ye came agayn & wepte before thee Lorde: but thee Lorde wolde not heare vnto youre voyce nor gyue you audience. And so ye abode in Cades a longe season.

The.ij.Chapter.

THen we turned and toke our B iourneye into the wyldernes, euen the waye to the reddesee as thee Lorde commaunded me. And we compassed the mountaynes of Seir a longe tyme. Thẽ the Lorde spake vnto me sayinge: Ye haue compassed these mountaynes longe ynoughe, tourne you northward. And warne the people sayinge: Ye shal go thorowe the coostes of youre brethren the chyldren of Esau whyche dwell in Seir, and they shall be afrayed of you: But take good heade vnto youre selues that ye prouoke them not, for I wyl not geue you of theyr lande, no not so moche as a foote breade: because I haue geuen mounte Seir vnto Esau to possesse. Ye shall bye meate of them for monye to eate, and ye shall bye water of them for monye to drinke. For the Lorde thy God hath blessed the in all the workes of thyne hande, and knew the B as thou wentest thorowe thys great wyldernesse. Moreouer thee Lorde thy God hath bene wyth the thys. xl. yeares, so that thou hast lacked nothynge.

And when we were departed frõ oure brethrẽ the chyldrẽ of Esau whych dwelt in Seir by the felde waye frõ Elath & Ezion Gaber, we turned and went the waye to the

to the wylderneſſe of Moab. Thē ỹ lorde ſayd vnto me ſe that thou vexe not ỹ Moabites, nether prouoke thē to battel for I wyll not geue the of their land to poſſeſſe becauſe I haue geuen Ar vnto the chyldren of loth to poſſeſſe. The a‡Emims dwelt therin in tymes paſt, a people greate, many & tall, as the Enakims: which alſo were take for geauntes as ỹ* Enakims And ỹ Moabites called thē Emims In lyke maner ỹ b‡Horims dwelt in Seir before tyme which the chyldre of Eſau caſt out, & deſtroyed them before thē & dwelte there in their ſtede: as Iſrael dyd in the lāde of his poſſeſſion which the Lord gaue them. Now riſe vp (ſaid I) & get you ouer ỹ riuer Zared: & we wēt ouer ỹ riuer Zared: The ſpace in whyche we came from Cades barne vntil we were come ouer ỹ riuer Zared was .xxxviii. yeres vntyll all the generation of the men of warre were waſted out of the hoſt as the Lord ſware vnto thē. For in dede the hand of the lord was againſt thē to deſtroye them oute of the hoſte, tyll they were conſumed.

And as ſoone as al ỹ mē of warre were cōſumed & deed from amonge the people thē the lord ſpake vnto me ſaying. Thou ſhalt go thorow Ar ỹ coſt of Moab this daye, and ſhalt come nye vnto the childre of Ammon: ſe that thou vexe thē not, nor pet prouoke them. For I will not geue ỹ of the lande of the chyldren of Ammon to poſſeſſe, becauſe I haue geuē it vnto the chyldren of Loth to poſſeſſe. That alſo was takē for a lande of geauntes & geauntes dwelt therin in olde time, & the Ammonites called thē c‡Zāzummins A people ỹ was great, many & tall, as the Enakims But the Lord deſtroyed them before the Ammonites, & they caſte them out & they dwelt there in their ſteade: as he dyd for ỹ childre of Eſau which dwell in Seir: euen as he deſtroied the Horims before thē and they caſt them out and dwell in their ſteade vnto this daye. And ỹ Auims which dwelt in Hazarim euen vnto Aza, thee Caphthorymns whych came out of Caphthor deſtroyed them and dwelte in theyr townes.

Ryſe vp, take youre iourney and go ouer the riuer Arnon. Behold, * I haue geuen in to thy hande Sehon the Amorite, kynge of Heſbon, & his lande. Go to and conquere & prouoke him to battel. Thys daye I wyll begynne to ſende the feare & dreade of the vpon al nacions that ar vnder all portes of heauen: ſo that whē they heare ſpeake of the they ſhal trēble & quake for feare of the.

Then I ſent meſſengers out of the wyldernesſe of the eaſt vnto Sehon king of Heſbon, with wordes of peace ſayenge. * Let me go thorow thy lande I wyl go al waies a long by the hye way & wil nether turne vnto the right hand nor to the left. Sel me meate for money for to eate, and geue me drink for money to drinke. I wil go thorow by fote only (as the children of Eſau did vnto me whyche dwel in Seir and the Moabites whyche dwell in Ar) vntyl I become ouer Iordan, in to the Lande whyche the Lorde oure God geuethe vs.

But Sehon the kinge of Heſbon wolde not let vs paſſe by hym, for the Lorde thy God hadde hardened hys ſpyrye and made hys herte toughe becauſe he wolde delyuer hym in to thy hādes as it is come to paſſe thys daye.

And the Lorde ſayde vnto me: behold I haue begonne to ſett Sehon & his lande * before the: go to & cōquere, that thou mayſt poſſeſſe his lande. Then both Sehon and all his people came out agaynſt vs vnto batel at * Jahaza. And the Lord ſet him before vs, and we ſmote hym and his ſonnes and all hys people.

And we toke al thys citye ỹ ſame ceaſon and deſtroyed al the citye with them wemen and childre & let nothing remayne ſaue ỹ catel only we caught vnto our ſelues & the ſpoyle of the citye whyche we toke, frō Aroer vpon the brynke of the ryuer of Arnon, and the cytye in ỹ ryuer, vnto Galaad: ther was not one city to ſtrōg for vs. The Lorde oure God delyuered al vnto vs: only vnto the land of the chyldren of Ammon ye came not nor vnto al the coſt of the riuer Jabock nor vnto the citye in the mountaynes, nor vnto whatſo euer the Lord our God forbade vs.

The.iij. Chapter.

Then we turned & went vp ỹ way to Baſan. * And Og ỹ kyng of Baſan came out a-geſt vs: both he & all his people to battel at Edrai. And ỹ Lord ſayde vnto me: feare him not for I haue delyuered hym and all his people & his land into thy hand & thou ſhalt deale with him as thou dealedſt wt Sehō king of the Amorites which dwelt at Heſbon. And ſo the Lord our God deliuered into oure handes, Og alſo the kyng of Baſā & al hys folke. And we ſmote him vntyll nought was left hym.

And we toke all hys cities the ſame ceaſon (for there was not a citie which we toke not frō them) euen .iij. ſcore cyties, all ỹ region of Argob, the kingdome of Og in Baſan. All theſe cities were made ſtrong wt hye walles gates and barres beſyde * vnwalled townes a great meany. And we vtterly deſtroyed them as we plated with Sehō king of Heſbō bringing to nought al pcities with mē, wemen and children But all the cattell and the ſpoile of the cyties, we caught for our ſelues.

And thus we toke ỹ ſame ceaſon, ỹ lād out of ỹ hande of two kinges of ỹ Amorites on the other ſyde Jordan, from the ryuer of Arnon vnto moūt Hermon (which Hermō ỹ Sidons call Sirion, but the Amorites call it Senyr) al the citye in the playne and al Galaad and al Baſan vnto Salecha & Edrai, cytyes of the kingdome of Og in Baſā. For only Og king of Baſan remayned of the remnaunte of the geauntes: beholde, his yrō bed is yet at Rabah amonge the chyldren of Ammō .ix. cubites longe & .iiij. cubites brode, of ỹ cubites of a man. And when we had conquered thys land the ſame tyme, I gaue from Aroer whyche is vpon the ryuer of Arnō, & halfe moūte Galad & the cytyes therof vnto ỹ Rubenites & Gadites. And the reſt of Galaad and al Baſā the kingdome of Og, I gaue vnto ỹ halfe tribe of Manaſſe: al the region of Argob with al Baſā was called the lād of geauntes Jair the ſonne of Manaſſe toke al the regiō of Argob vnto the coſtes of Geſuri & Maachati and called thē after his owne name: Baſā * Hauoth Jair vnto this day. And I gaue halfe Galaad vnto Machir. And vnto Rubē & Gad I gaue from Galaad vnto the riuer of Arnon & halfe the valey & the coſt, euē vnto the riuer Jabock whych is the border of the chyldren of Ammō, & the feldes and Jordan with the coſt, frō Cenereth euē vnto ỹ ſee in the felde why che is the ſalte ſee vnder the * ſpringes of Phaſgah eaſtwarde.

And I cōmaunded you the ſame tyme (ye Ruben & Gad) ſaying: the Lord your God hath geuē you this land to enioy it: ſe that ye go harneſſed before your brethrē ỹ children of Iſrael, al ỹ are men of warre amonge you. And I warned Joſua ỹ ſame tyme ſaying: thine eyes haue ſene al that the Lord your God hath done vnto theſe two kinges, euen ſo the Lorde wyll do vnto all kyngdomes whither thou goeſt. Feare them not for the Lorde youre God he it is that fyghteth for you.

And beſoughte the Lord the ſame time ſayinge: O lorde God thou haſt begōne to ſhewe thy ſeruaunte thy greatneſſe & thy mightie hande, for there is no God in heauē nor in erth ỹ can do after thy workes & after thy power: let me go ouer and ſe the good lande that is beyonde Jordā, that goodly hye contre and Libanō. But the Lord was angrie with me for your ſakes & wolde not heare me, but ſayd vnto me, be content, and ſpeake hereforth no moare vnto me of this matter. * Get the vp into the toppe of Phaſgah & lyfte vp thine eyes weſt, north, ſouth & eaſt, and beholde it wythe thyne eyes for thou ſhalte not go ouer this Jordan. A Nd now herken Israel vnto
the ordinaunces & lawes whi che I teache you, for to do the
that ye maye lyue & go & con
quere the land which the lord God of your fathers geueth you. Ye shal put nothing vnto the worde which I cō maunde you nether do ought there from,
that ye maye kepe the cōmaundemētes of the Lord your God which I commaunde
you. Youre eyes haue sene what the Lord dyd vnto Baal Peor: for all the men that folowed Baal Peor, the Lord youre God hath destroyed from amonge you. But ye that cleaue vnto the Lorde your God are alyue euery one of you this daye. Behold
I haue taught you ordinaunces & lawes soche as the Lord my god cōmaunded me that ye shuld do euen so in the lande whether ye go to possesse it.

Kepe them therfore and do them * for that is your wysdom and vnderstanding
in the syghte of the nations: whiche when they haue herde all these ordinaūces, shal
saye: O what a wyse and vnderstandyng people is this greate nacion. For what na cion is so greate that hath Goddes so nye vnto hym: as the Lorde oure God is nye
vnto vs, in all thinges, when we cal vnto hym? Ye, & what nacyon is so greate that hath ordinaunces and lawes so ryghteou se, as all this lawe which I set before you
thys daye.

Take hede to thy selfe therfore onely &
kepe thy soule diligently, that thou forget
not the thinges which thyne eyes haue se-ne, and that they departe not out of thyne
harte, all the dayes of thy lyfe: but teache
them thy sonnes and thy sonnes sonnes.
The daye that I stode before the Lorde your God in Horeb, when he sayde vnto me, gether me the people together, that I maye make them heare my wordes & they maye learne to feare me as longe as they lyue vppon the earth and that they maye teache theyr chyldren: ye came & stode also vnder the hyll, and thee hyll burnte wythe fyre: euen vnto the myddes of heaue, and there was darkenesse, cloudes and myste.

¶ Take hede vnto your selues diligēt-ly as pertayning vnto your soules, for ye sawe no maner of ymage the daye when the Lorde spake vnto you in Horeb oute of the fyre lest ye marre your selues & make you grauen ymages after what soeuer lykenesse it be: whether after the lykenesse

is on the earth or of anye maner fethered foule that flyeth in the ayre, or of any maner worme that crepeth on the earth or of

The.vi.Chapter.

A THese are the commaundemētes, ordynaunces and lawes which the Lord youre God cōmaunded to teache you, that ye myghte do thē in the lande whether ye go to possesse it: e thou myghtest a‡feare the Lord thy God, to kepe all hys ordinaunces and commaundementes wbych I commaunde the, bothe thou and thy sonne and thy sonnes sonne all dayes of thy lyfe, that thy dayes maye be prolonged. Heare therfore Israell and take hede that thou doo there after, that it maye goo well wythe the, and that ye maye encrease myghtely euē as the Lorde God of thy fathers hath promysed the, a lande that floweth wyth mylke and hony.

B ¶ Heare Israel the Lord thy God is Lord only & thou shalt loue the Lord thy God wyth all thyne harte, wyth al thy soule and wyth all thy myght. And these wordes wbych I cōmaunde the this day, shal be in thyne harte & thou shalte ‡whet thē on thy chyldrē, & shalt talke of thē when e art at home in thyne house & as thou walkest by the waye, & when thou lyest downe and whē thou rysest vp: & thou shalt bind thē for a sigue vpon thyne hāde. And they shalbe papers of remembraunce betwene thyne eyes, & shalt wryte thē vpon the postes of thy house & vpon thy gates.

And whē e lord thy god hath brought the into the land which he sware vnto thy fathers Abraham, Isaac & Jacob to geue the: wyth greate and goodly cyties which thou byldedst not, & houses full of al maner goodes wbych thou fylledest not, and welles dygged wbych thou diggedest not and vynes & olyue trees which thou plantedest not, & whē thou hast eate & arte full Then beware lest e forget the lord which brought the out of the land of Egipte the house of bondage. But feare the Lorde thy God & serue him, & ‡ sweare by hys name, se that ye walke not after straūge gods of the goddes of the nacyons whyche are aboute you. For the Lorde thy god is a ‡gelouse God among you lest e wrath of the Lorde thy God ware whote vpon you and destroye the from the earth. C

Ye shall not tempte thee Lorde youre God as ye dyd at * Masa. But se that ye Or Massah kepe the commaundementes of the Lorde youre God, hys wytnesses and hys ordynaunces which he hath commaunded the, and se thou do that which is right & good Wyghte is good & right is that which the lord commaundeth in the syghte of the Lord: that thou mayst prospere & that thou mayst go and cōquere that good lande whyche the Lorde sware vnto thy fathers, and that thee Lorde maye cast out al thyne enemies before the as he hath sayde.

Teache your chyldren D ¶ When thy sonne asketh the in tyme to come sayinge: What meaneth the wytnesses, ordinaūces & lawes wbych e Lord our god hath cōmaunded you? Thē thou shalt saye vnto thy sonne: We were bond men vnto Pharao in Egypt, but the lord brought vs out of Egipt wyth a myghty hande. And the Lord shewed signes and wonders both great & euell vpon Egipt, Pharao and vpō al his houshelde before our eyes & brought vs frō thence to bringe vs in and to geue vs the land which he sware vnto our fathers. And therfore cōmaunded vs to do al these ordinaunces & for to feare the Lorde oure God, for oure welthe alwayes and that he myghte saue vs, as it is come to passe thys daye. Moreouer it shall be * ‡ ryghteousnesse vnto vs before the Lorde oure God yf we take hede to kepe all these commaundementes as he hath commaunded vs.

The.vii. Chapter.

A WHē the Lord thy God hath brought the into the lād whether thou goest to possesse it, & hath cast out many naciōs before the: thee Hethites, the Gergesites, the Amorites, the Cananites the Pherezites, the Heuites & the Jebusites. vii. nations mo in nombre & mightier than thou: & when the Lord thy god hath set thē before the that thou shuldest smyte thē se that thou vtterly destroye them and make no couenaunt with them nor haue compassyon on thē. Also thou shalt make no mariages with them, neyther geue thy daughter vnto his sōne, nor take his daughter vnto thy sonne: For they wyl make your sonnes departe fro me & serue straūge Goddes, and then wyll thee wrathe of the Lorde ware whote vpon you and destroye you shortely.

B But thus ye shall deale with them: ouerthrow their alters, breke downe their pilers cut downe theyr groues and burne theyr ymages with fyre. For thou art an holy nacyon vnto the Lorde thy God thee Lorde thy God hath chosen the to be a seuerall people vnto hym selfe of all nacyons that are vpon the earth. It was not because of the multitude of you aboue al nacions, that the lord had lust vnto you and chose you. For ye were fewest of al naciōs But because the Lord loued you, & because he wolde kepe ỹ othe which he had sworne vnto your fathers, therfore he brought you out of Egipte with a myghtie hande and delyuered you out of the house of bōdage: euē from the hand of Pharao, king of Egipte.

¶ Moses putteth the Israelytes in remembrance of the afflictyons and benifites that they hadde the. xl. yere which they were in the wildernesse.

The.viii. Chapter.

A ALl the cōmaundemētes whych I commaund the this day ye shall kepe for to do them, that ye may lyue & multiplye and go and possesse the land which the lord sware vnto youre fathers. And thynke on all the waye which ỹ Lorde thy God lead the this. xl. yere in ỹ wildernesse, for to humble the and to proue the, to wete what was in thyne herte, whether thou woldest kepe his commaūdinētes or no. He * humbled the and made the hōgre & fead the with mā which nether ỹ nor thy father knew of, to make the know that a man must not lyue by bread only: but by al that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord must a man lyue. b ‡ Thy ray B mēt waxed not olde vpon the, nether dyd thy fete swel thys. xl. yere. the word is lyfe.

Understande therefore in thyne herte that as a man nourtereth his sonne, euen so the Lorde thy God nourtereth ỹ. Kepe therfore ỹ commaundementes of the lord thy God that thou walke in hys wayes & ỹ thou feare him. For the Lord thy God bringeth the in to a good lande, a land of Whē ỹ hast eaten therfore and fylled thy selfe, then blesse the Lord for the good lād which he hath geuen the.

But beware that thou forgett not the C Lord thy god, that thou woldest not kepe his commaundmētes, lawes and ordinaūces which I cōmaunde the this day: yee & whē thou hast eaten and filled thy selfe & hast bylt godly houses and dwel therin, & when thy beasse and thy shepe are waxed many & thy siluer and gold is multiplied & al that thou hast encreased, thē bewarre lest thyne hert rise & thou forgett the Lorde thy God which brought the out of the land of Egipte ỹ house of bondage, and which lead ỹ in the wildernesse both greate and terrible with fyry serpētes and scorpiōs and drouth wher was no water which brought the water out of the rocke of flint: which fead the in ỹ wyldernesse with Man wherof thy fathers knewe not for to * humble the and to proue the, that he myght do the good at thy later ende.

d‡ And beware that thou say not in thine D herte, my power & the might of myne owne hand hath done me al these actes: But remembre the Lord thy God, how that it is he whiche gaue the power to do māful lye, for to make good the promesse which he sware vnto thy fathers, as it is come to passe thys daye.

For yf thou shalt forgett the Lorde thy God and shalt walke after straunge goddes & serue them & worshippe them. I tel you this day, that ye shal surely perysh. ¶ Idolatry must ꝺ Israelytes destroy and flee frō They must eate no bloude. They must only do that thyng whych god commaundeth.

The. xii. Chapter.

A THese ar the ordinaunces and lawes which ye shal obserue to do in the land which ꝺ lord the god of thy fathers geueth the to possesse it, as lōg as ye lyue vpō the. * Se that ye destroye al places where the nacions which ye conquere serue their Goddes, vpō hie mountaines and on hie hilles & vnder euery grene tree. Ouer throw their alters and breake their pilers & burne their groues with fire and hew downe the ymages of their Goddes, and bringe the names of them to nought out of that place. So ye do not so vnto ꝺ Lorde your God but ye shall enquere the place which ꝺ lorde your God shall haue chosen out of all youre trybes to put his name there and there to dwel. And * thyther thou shalt come, and thyther ye shall bynge youre burntsacrifyces and your offerynges, youre tythes and heueofferin ges of youre handes, youre vowes and youre free willofferynges and the fyrste borne of youre oxen and of youre shepe. And there ye shal eate before the lorde youre God, & ye shal reioyce in al ꝺ ye take your handes on, both ye and youre housholdes, because ꝺ lorde thy God hath blessed the. Deut. xvii. c

B ☞ * Ye shall do after nothynge that we do here this daye, euery man what semeth hym good in his owne eyes. For ye ar not yet come to rest nor vnto the enheritaūce whych the lorde youre God geuethe you. But ye shal go ouer Iordan and dwel in the lande whiche the lorde youre God geueth you to enheret and he shall geue you rest from al your enemies rounde about: and ye shal dwell in sāfetie.

Therefore when the lorde youre God hath chosē a place to make his name dwel there thyther ye shal bryng al that I commaunde you, your burnt sacrifyces and youre offerynges, youre thythes, and the heueofferinges of youre handes al youre Godly vowes which ye vow vnto the lorde. And ye shal reioice before the lord youre God, both ye youre sonnes and youre daughters, youre seruauntes and youre maides and the leuite that is within your gates * for he hathe nether parte nor enheritaunce with you. deute. x. b. k. xviii. a

Take hede that thou offer not thy burnt offerynges in what soeuer place ꝺ seyste: but in the place whiche the Lorde shall haue chosen amōg one of thy trybes, ther thou shalt offer thy burntofferinges and there thou shalt do al that I commaund the. Notwithstandynge thou mayst kil & eate flesshe in all thy cytyes, what soeuer thy soule lustethe after, accordynge to the blessynge of the Lorde thy God whyche he hath geuen the both the * ‡ vncleane & the cleane mayst thou eate, euē as ꝺ roo & the hert: only eate not the bloude, but pour it vpō the erth as water. Thou mayste C not eate within thy gates the tithe of thy corne, of thy wyne & of thy oyle, ether the firstborne of thyne drē or of thy shepe, ne ther any of thy vowes which ꝺ vo weste, nor thy frewilofferinges or heueoffery nges of thine hādes: but ꝺ must eate thē be fore ꝺ Lord thy god, in the place which ꝺ Lorde thy God hath chosē: both ꝺ thy sōne & thy daughter, thy seruaunt and thy mayde, & the leuite ꝺ is with in thy gates: and ꝺ shalte reioyce before the Lorde thy God, in al that thou puttest thyne hād to.

And

Eccle.viii.d. And *beware that thou forsake not ỹ Leuite as longe as thou lyuest vpon ỹ erth.

If (whē ỹ Lord thy God hath enlarged thy costes as he hath promysed the) thou say I wil eate flesh, because thy soule longeth to eate flesh: thē thou shalt eate flesh, whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth. If the place which the lord thy God hath chosē to put his name ther be to ferre frō the, thē thou maist kyl of thy orē and of thy shepe which the Lord hath geuen the as I haue cōmaūded ỹ & thou maist eate in thine owne citie what soeuer thy soule lusteth. Neuer the later as the roo and the hert is eaten, euen so thou shalte eate it: the *vncleane & ỹ cleane indifferētly thou shalt eate. But be strōg ỹ thou eate not the bloude. For the bloude, that is ỹ life & thou maist not eate ỹ life with ỹ flesh: thou maist not eate it: but must powre it vpō ỹ erth as water. Se thou eate it not therfore that it maye go wel vnto the and with thy children after the, whē thou shalt haue done that which is ryghte in the syght of the Lord.

Deut.xv.d

D Deu.xiiii.b. and.xvi.b.

*But thy holy thinges which thou hast & thy vowes, thou shalt take and go vnto ỹ place which the Lord hath chosē & thou shalt offer thy burntoffrynges, both flesh and bloude vpon the alter of the lord thy God, and the bloude of thyne offerynges thou shalt poure out vpon the alter of the lord thy God, and shalt eate ỹ flesh. Take hede & heare al these wordes which I cōmaunde the ỹ it may go wel with the and with thy children after the for euer, when thou doest that which is good and ryghte in the syght of the Lord thy God.

When the Lord thy God hath destroyed the naciōs before ỹ, whether thou goest to conquere them, & when thou hast cōquered thē and dwelt in their lādes: Beware that thou be not takē in a snare after thē, after that they be destroyed before the, & that thou aske not after their Goddes saying: how dyd these naciōs serue their goddes, that I may do so lykewise: *Nay: ỹ shalte not do so vnto the Lorde thy God: for all abhomynacyons whyche the Lorde hated dyd they vnto theyr Goddes. For they burnte bothe theyr sonnes and theyr daughters wythe fyre vnto theyr Goddes. But whatsoeuer I cōmaūd you ỹ take hede ye do: and *put nought therto nor take oughte therfrom.

of them from amonge men. Were it not that I feared the rayling of theyr enemies leste theyr aduersaries wolde be proude & saye: our hye hand hath done al these wor kes and not the Lorde.

For it is a natiō that hath an vnhappie forcast, & hath no vnderstāding in thē: O wolde they were wyse & vnderstode this & wolde consyder theyr later ende.

How it commeth that one shall chace a thousande, and two put ten thousande of them to flyghte: excepte theyr rocke hadde solde them, and because the Lord had de liuered them.

For our rocke is not as theyr rocke, no though oure enemies be iudge. But theyr vines ar of the vines of Sodō, & of ỹ fel des of gomorra. Theyr grapes ar grapes of gal, and theyr clusters be bitter.

Theyr wyne is the poyson of dragōs, & the cruel gal of aspes. Ar not soth thinges layde in store with me, & sealed vp amōge my treasures:* Vengeaunce is myne & I wyl reward: theyr fote shal slyde, whē the tyme cometh. For ỹ tyme of theyr destruc tion is at hande, & the tyme that shal come vpon them maketh haste.

Rom.xii. d Hebr.x.f

For the Lord wyll do iustyce vnto hys people, and haue compassyon on hys ser uauntes. For it shalbe sene that theyr po wer shall fayle, and at the last they shalbe preserued and forsaken.

And it shalbe sayd: wher ar theyr Godes and theyr rocke wherin they trusted?

The fatt of whose sacrifices they ate & drāke the wyne of theyr drynckoffringes, let them ryse vp & helpe you and be youre protection.

See nowe howe that I, I am he, & that ther is no God but I. I can kyl and make alyue, and what I haue smytē that I can heale: nether is ther ỹ can delyuer any mā out of my hande.

For I wyl lyft vp myne hād to heaue, and wyl saye: I lyue euer.

Yf I whet ỹ edge of my swerd, & myne hād take in hād to do iustice, I wyl shewe ven geaūce on myne enemies and wyll re warde them that hate me.

I wyl make myne arowes dronke wyth bloude, & my swerde shal eate flesche of the bloud of the eraine & of the captiue and of the bare head of the enemye.

Prayse ye bethē his people, for he wyll auenge the bloud of his seruaūtes, & wyll auenge hym of his aduersaries, & wyll be mercyful vnto the land of his people.

And Moses wēt & spake al the wordes of this song in ỹ eares of the people, both he & Josua the sonne of Nun. And when Moses had spokē al these wordes vnto ỹ end to al Israel, thē he sayd vnto thē. Set youre hertes vnto al the wordes whych I stretstitie vnto you this day: that ye com maūde thē vnto your thyldren, to obserue & do all the wordes of this lawe. For it is not a vayne word vnto you: but it is your lyfe, & thorow thys word ye shall prolong your dayes in the lād whether ye go ouer Jordan to conquere it.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses the selfe same day saying: get thy vp into this mountayne Abarim vnto mount Nebo, whi che is in the land of Moab ouer agaynste Jericho. And behold the land of Canaan wyych I geue vnto the chyldrē of Israel to possesse. And dye in the mount which ỹ goest vpō, & be gathered vnto thy people As Aaron thy brother dyed in mount Hor and was gathered vnto his people. For ye trespased agaynst me amōg the childrē of Israel at the waters of strife, at Cades in the wildernesse of Zin: because ye sanctified me not among the chyldrē of Israel. Thou shalt se the land before the, but shal not go thether vnto the land wyych I ge ue the chyldren of Israell.

Josua. vi. c. Or fewe

And or euer they were a slepe, she came vp vnto them vpon the rooke, & sayde vnto the men, I knowe that the Lorde hath geuen you the land, both because that the feare of you is falle vpō vs, and because that the enhabiters of the lande faynte at your commynge. For we haue heard how the Lorde * dryed vp the water of the red see before you, when you came oute of Egypte, & what you dyd vnto the two kynges of the Amorites on the other syde Jordan * Sehon & Og, whych ye vtterly destroyed. And as sone as we had heard these thinges, our hartes dyd faynt. And ther remayned no more courage in any mā for feare of youre commynge. For the Lorde youre God, he is the God in heaue aboue: and on the earth beneth.

¶ The water of Jozdā dryeth vp, and Josue wyth the people passe ouer.

The. iii. Chapter.

AND Josua rose earlye: & they remoued from Settim, & came to Jozdan, both he and al ỹ chyldrē of Israel, & lodged ther before they wēt ouer And after thre dayes ỹ officers went thorow out the hoste, & cōmaunded the people saying: whē ye se the arcke of the testamēt of the Lord your God, & the Priestes that are Leuites bearing it: then departe ye frō your places & folowe after it. So yet that there be a space betwene you & it, aboute a two thousande cubytes by measure. And come not nye vnto it, that ye maye knowe the waye by which ye must go: for ye haue not gone by it in tymes paste. And Josua sayde vnto the people, * purifye your selues, for to morowe the Lorde shall shewe wonders amonge you.

Then Josua spake vnto thee Priestes saynge: Take vp the arcke of the Testament, and goo before the people. And they toke vp the arcke of the Testamente, and went before the people.

And the lord sayd vnto Josua: this day wyl I begin to *‡magnifie the, in ỹ syght of al Israel, that they maye knowe how ỹ as I was with Moyses, so wil I be wyth the. And cōmaunde thou the prestes ỹ bea re the arcke of the testamēt, saying: whēye are entred a lytle into the water of Jozdā then stande styll in it.

Thē spake Josua to the chyldrē of Israell, saying: come hether & heare the wordes of the Lorde youre God. And Josua sayd: Hereby ye shal know, that the liuing God is amōg you, & that he wyl wythout fayle cast out before you, the Cananites, the Hethites, the Heuites, the Pherezites, the Gergesites, the Amorites, & the Jebusites. Behold, the arcke of the apoyntment of the Lord of al the world shal go before you into Jozdā. And now take you twelue men of the chyldren of Israel, of euery tribe a mā. And as sone as the soles of the fete of the Priestes that beare the arcke of Jehouah (the Lord of al the world) treade in the water of Jozdan, the water of Jozdan shal deuyde it selfe: & the waters that cometh from aboue shal stand styll vpon an heape. And whē the people were departed frō theyr tētes to go ouer Jozdan (* ỹ priestes bearing the arke of the appoyntment before the people) as soone as they ỹ bare the arke came vnto Jozdā, & the fete of the priestes that bare the arke were dipped in the brim of ỹ water. * Jozdā being ful ouer al his banckes al the tyme of harueste: the water that came downe frō aboue dyd stoppe & stode vpō an heape a greate way frō Adā, a cytie beside Zarthā. And the water that went downe vanished into the see of the wyldernes called the salt see as sone as it was deuyded: & the people * wēt right ouer against Jericho. And ỹ prie stes ỹ beare the arke of the appointemēt of the Lord stode styll vpō drye land, vntyll al the people were cleane ouer Jozdan.

The. iiii. Chapter.

AND as sone as the people were all gone ouer Jozdan, the Lord spake vnto Josua saynge. Take you twelue men out of thee people, of euerye tribe a man. And commaunde you them saynge: take you hence out of the middes of Jozdan euen out of the place whete the Priestes stode in a redynes, twelue stones. And take ye them awaye wyth you & put them in the place whet you lodge at night And Josua called vnto thee twelue men whych he had prepared of the chyldren of Israell, of euerye tribe a man, and sayde vnto them: *gette you before the arcke of the Lorde youre God euen into the myddes of Jozdan, and take vp euerye man a stone vpon hys shoulder, accordynge vnto the nomber of the trybes of the chyldrē of Israell, that thys maye be a sygne amonge you. And when youre chyldren aske theyr fathers in tyme to come sayinge: what meane ye with these stones: then say vnto them, howe that the water of Jozdā deuyded at the presence of the arcke of the appoyntment of the Lorde: euen whyle it went ouer Jozdan, the water of Jozdā deuyded. And these stones shalbe a memorial vnto the chyldren of Israell for euer.

And the chyldren of Israel dyd euē so as Josua commaunded, and toke vp twelue stones out of the myddes of Jozdā, as the Lorde sayde vnto Josua accordynge to the nombre of the trybes of the chyldrē of Israell, and caryed them awaye wythe them vnto the place where they lodged, & layed them downe there. And thereto Josua sett vppe twelue stones in the middes of Jordan in the place where the fete of ỹ Priestes whyche bare the arcke of the Testament stode.

And there they be euen a‡ vnto thys daye. For the Priestes which bare the arcke stode in the myddes of Jozdan, vntyll all was fynished that the Lord commaunded Josua to saye vnto the people, accordynge to al that Moyses charged Josua And the people hasted and went ouer.

¶ When all the people were cleane ouer, thē went ouer the arcke of the Lorde, and also the Priestes before the people. And the chyldren of Ruben, and thee chyldren of Gad, & halfe the tribe of Manasses went before thee chyldren of Israell armed, as Moyses charged them. Vpon a fourtye thousande trymmed for warre, went before the Lord vnto battel, euen vnto the wilde feldes of Jericho. That daye the Lord magnified Josua in the syght of al Israel & they b‡feared hym, as they feared Moyses all dayes of hys lyfe.

And the Lorde spake vnto Josua saynge: cōmaunde the prestes that beare the arcke of wytnesse to come vp out of Jozdan. And Josua cōmaunded the Priestes saynge: Ascende vp out of Jozdan. And when the prestes that bare the arcke of ỹ appoyntment of the Lorde were ascended out of Jozdan: as sone as the soles of the prestes fete were brought to drye lande, the water of Jozdan returned agayne vnto hys place & went ouer al his bankes as he dyd before. And thee people came vppe out of Jozdan the tenth daye of the fyrste moneth and pitched in Galgall euē in the easte borders of Jericho.

And the twelue stones whych they toke out of Jozdā, Josua pitched in c‡Galgal. And he spake vnto the chyldrē of Israell saynge: whē your chyldrē aske you in tyme to come, saying: what meane these stones, shewe your chyldrē & saye: Israel came ouer thys Jozdan on drye land. For ỹ Lorde youre God dryed vp thee water of Jozdan before you, vntil ye were ouer, as the Lorde your God dyd vnto the red see whych he dryed vp, before vs tyl we were ouer, that al the people of the worlde may knowe the hande of the Lorde how mygh tye it is, and that ye myght feare the Lord youre God for euer.

That same tyme the Lord sayde vnto Josua: Make ỹ knyues *of stone, & goo to agayne and circumcyse the chyldren of Israel the secōde time. And Josua made him knyues of stone & circūcised the chyldrē of Israel in ỹ hil of foreskinnes. And this is the cause why Josua circumcised. All the people that came oute of Egypte that were males, al that were mē of warre dyed in the wyldernes by the wayc after they came out of Egipt. Now all the people that came out were circumcysed. But all the people ỹ were borne in the wyldernesse by the way after they came out of Egipt, they circūcysed not. For the chyldren of Israel walked fourty yeares in ỹ wildernes, tyl all the people of mē of warre ỹ came out of Egypt were cōsumed, whych hackened not vnto the voice of God, so ỹ the Lord sware, that he wolde not shewe them the lande which the Lord sware vnto their fathers, ỹ he wolde geue vs, euē a land *ỹ floweth withe mylke and honye.

And the childrē of Israel pytched their tentes in Galgal, and helde the feast of passeouer the fourtene day of the moneth at euen in the feldes of Jericho. And they ate of ỹ corne of the lande on the morowe after passeouer, swete cakes & parched corne in ỹ self same daye. And Manna ceased on the morow, after they had eatē of the corne of the lād, nether had the childrē of Israel Mānā any moare, but did eate of the frutes of the lande of Canaan that yere.

And whē Josua was come to Jericho, he lyft vp his eyes & loked: & behold ther stode a mā before him wh his swerde drawē in his hād. And Josua went vnto him and sayde vnto him, art thou on our syde or on oure aduersaries. And he answered, Naye, but I am ỹ captaine of the host of the lord & am now come. And Josua fell on his face to the erth & dyd reuerēce, and sayde vnto hym, what saith my Lord vnto hys seruaunt. And the captayne of the lordes hoste sayde vnto Josua: * do thy shoes of thy feate, for the place wheron ỹ standest is holy. And Josua dyd so.

Josu.xxii.b Para.xi.c

Thē Josua sent mē frō Jericho to Ai which is beside Bethauen, on ỹ eastside of † Bethel, and spake vnto thē sayinge: gett you vp and bewe the contrey. And ỹ men went vp & spyed oute Ai. And returned vnto Josua & sayd vnto him, lett not al ỹ people go vp, but let as it were a two or thre thousand men go vp and destroye Ai, and make not al the people to labour thether, for they are but fewe.

And so ther wēt vp thether about a thre thousande men, which fledde before ꝑ mē of Ai. And the mē of Ai smote of thē vpō a thyrtye and sixe men, and chased them before the gates euē vnto Sabarim, and smote them in the goynge downe. And ꝑ hertes of ꝑ people were discouraged and melted like water. And Josua rēt his clothes & fel to ꝑ erth vpō his face before the arcke of the lord vntyl the euē tyde, bothe he and the elders of Israel, and put erthe vpon theyr heddes.

And Josua sayde, Ah lord Jehouah, wherfore hast ꝑ brought this people ouer Jordā to deliuer vs into the hādes of the Amorites to destroye vs: wold to god we had aduenturēd & dwelte on ꝑ other syde Jordā. Oh Lord what shal I saye, when Israel turnethe their backes before theyr enemyes: Moreouer the Cananites, and al the enhabiters of the lād shall heare of it, and shal come about vs & destroye the name of vs out of ꝑ world. And thē what wilt thou do vnto thy myghtie name.

And the Lord sayd vnto Josua, gett ꝑ vp, wherfor liest thou thus vpō thy face? Israel hath sined & also trāsgressed mine appointmēt, which I cōmaunded them, & haue takē of the excōmunicate thinges, & haue stolen and hydde thē, and also put thē vnto their owne stuffe: And therfore ꝑ childrē of Israel cannot stād before their enemyes. They shall turne their backes before their enemyes, because they be excōmunicate. Nether wyl I be wt you any moare, except ye destroy the excommunycate from among you.

Up & *sanctifye the people and bydde them to sanctyfy thē selues against ꝑ morow: for so sayth the lord God of Israel, the excommunicacion is among you Israel, and therfore ye cannot stande before your enemyes, vntyll ye haue put the excommunicacion frō among you. To morow morning ye shall come by your trybes. And the trybe which ꝑ Lord shal fynde gyltie, shall come by kynredes. And ꝑ kinred which the Lord shal fynde gyltie, shal come by housholdes. And ꝑ household which the lord shal fynd fautie, shal come mā by mā. And he ꝑ is fownd in the excommunicatiō shalbe burnt wt fire, both he and al ꝑ pertayneth vnto him, because he hath trāsgressed ꝑ couenāt of the lorde, & because he hath wrought folye in Israel.

And so Josua rose vp erly in the morning and brought Israel by their trybes: and the tribe of Juda was caught. Thē he brought the kinredes of Juda, & founde ꝑ kynred of ꝑ Zahertites gylty. And he broughte the kynred of the Zahertites by housholders, and Zabdi was caughte. And he brought hys household mā by mā, and Acan the sonne of Carmi, the sōne of Zabdi, the sonne of Zarch in the trybe of Juda was caughte.

And Josua said vnto Acan: my sonne, geue glory to the Lord God of Israell, & gene him prayse, & shewe me what thou hast done, & hide it not from me. And Acā answered Josua and sayde: of a truthe I haue synned against the lord God of Israel, & so and so haue I done. I sawe amōge the spoyle a goodlye Babilonyth garment, and two hundred sicles of syluer, & a *tong of golde of fyfty sicles weight: & I coueted thē, and I toke them. And behold they lye hydde in the erth in my tente and the syluer ther vnder.

And then Josua sēt messengers which rāne vnto the tēt. And behold, it was hidd in his tente, & the syluer there vnder. And they toke thē out of the middest of his tēt & brought them vnto Josua and vnto al the chyldrē of Israel, and powred thē out before the Lord.

And Josua toke Acā the sonne of Zareh, and the syluer, and the garment, and the tonge of golde, and hys sonnes and hys daughters, hys oxen, asses, shepe, hys tent and all that he had, and all Israell wythe hym, and broughte them vnto the valeye of Acor.

And Josua sayd: In as moch as thou hast troubled vs: the lord shal trouble the this daye. And all Israel stoned han with stones, and burnt them wyth fyre, & ouerwhelmed them with stones. And they cast vpon hym a great heape of stones that remayneth vnto thys day. And so the lorde turned from his fearse wrath. Wherfore the name of the place is called ꝑ valey of *Acor vnto thys daye.

And he rose vp early in the morning & nōbred the people & went vp, both he & the elders of Israel before the people, vnto Ai. And all the mē of warre ꝑ were wyth him, wēt vp & drue nye, & came before the cytie, & pitched on ꝑ northside of Ai, a valey beinge betwene thē & Ai, & he toke vpō a .v. M. mē & put thē to lye awayt, betwen Bethel & Ai, on the westsyde of the cytie. And he put the people euen all the hoste, on the northsyde of the cittie, & the lyers awayt on the west. And Josua went the same night into the middes of the valeye.

And whē the king of Ai sawe that they hasted & rose vp earlye, then thee people of the cytie went out agaynst Israel, to battel, both the kinge and al hys people, at a tyme apoynted, euē before the playne, and wyste not that there were lyers awayte on the backsyde of the cytie.

And Josua and Israel were put to the worse before them, & fled toward the wyldernes. And al the people of ꝑ towne cryed to folowe after thē. And they folowed after Josua tyll they were drawen awaye from the cytie: so that ther was not a man lefte in Ai, or in Bethel, that went not oute after Israel. And they lefte the cytie opē & folowed after Israel.

Thē the lord sayd vnto Josua stretche out the bouckelar that is in thyne hand toward Ai, for I haue geuē the it. And Josua stretched oute the bouckelar ꝑ was in his hāde, toward the cittie. And the liers awayte rose quickly oute of theyr places, & came, assone as Josua had stretched out his hand, & they entred into the cytie, & toke it, & hasted & sett it on fyre. And when ꝑ men of Ai loked backe after them & sawe, Behold, the smoke of the cytye ascended vp to * heauen. And they had noo place to flee ether this way or that, for the people ꝑ fled to the wyldernesse turned backe agayne vpon the folowers.

That is by ghe.

And whē Josua & al Israel sawe that the lyers awayte had takē the cytye & that ꝑ smoke of it ascēded. They turned again & layed on the men of Ai. And the other issued out at the citie agaynst them. And so were they in thee myddes of Israell, these being on the one syde of them, & the rest on the other. And thei layed vpon thē, so that they let none ether remayne or skape. And the king of Ai they toke a liue & brought him to Josua. And whē Israel had made an ende of slayng al the enhabiters of Ai in the feldes & in the wildernes by which they chased the, & whe they were al fallen on the edge of the swerde, vntil they were wasted. The all Israel returned vnto Ai & smote it wt the edge of ꝑ swerde. And al ꝑ kel ꝑ day, both of me & wemē, were twelue thousande, euen al the men of Ai.

For Josua plucked not his hād backe agayn which he stretched out with ꝑ bouc kelar, vntil they had bitterly destroyed all the enhabitours of Ai. * Only the catel & the spoyle of the said citie, Israel toke vn to the selues accozding vnto the wozd of the lozd, which he cōmaūded Josua. And Josua sett Ai on fyze & made it an heape foz euer & a wildernes, euē vnto this day And the king of Ai he hāged on tree, vntyl euē. And assone as ꝑ sunne was down Josua cōmaūded * & thei toke the carkās downe of the tree, & cast it in the entringe of the gate of the cytie, & * caste thereon a great heape of stones, that remayneth vn to thys daye.

The Josua bilt an altare vnto ꝑ Lozd god of Israel in moūt Ebal as Moyses the seruāt of the lozd cōmaūded ꝑ childzē of Israel, accozding as it is wzittē in the *boke of the law of Moses: an altare of *rough stone, ouer which no toole of yzō was lyft. And they sacrificed therō buntsacrifice, & offred peaceoffringes. And he wzote ther vpō the stones the * Seconde lawe of Moses which he wzote in the pzesence of the chyldzen of Israell.

And al Israel & the elders therof, and theyz officers, & iudges stode, part on this syde the arcke, & part on that syde, before the pzestes: ꝑ were leuites whych bare the arke of the apoyntmēt of the lozd, as wel the straūger, as they ꝑ were bozne among them: halfe of thē on the fozefrōt of the Mount of Garezim, & halfe of them on ꝑ fozefrōt of moūt Ebal: as Moses the seruaūt of the Lozd cōmaūded, fyrst to blesse the people Israell. And after ꝑ he read al the wozdes of the lawe, both the blessinge & cursing, accozding to al that is wzitten in the boke of the lawe: so ꝑ there was not one wozde of al that Moses cōmaunded, which Josua reade not, before al the congregatyon of Israell, wyth wemen & chyldzen, and the straungers that were amonge them.

¶ The Gabaonites obteyne peace of Josua by craftie, but are after excommunicate.

The.ix. Chapter

And whē al the kiges ꝑ dwell on this syde Jozdā, in the hilles & valeys, & a long by all the costes of the great see, euē vnto Libanō, the Hethites, the Amozites, the Cananites, the Pherezites, the Heuites, & the Jebusites heard they gethered thē selues together to fight agaynst Josua & Israel with one accozd.

But when the Enhabitours of Gabaō heārde what Josua had done vnto Jericho, & Ai, they played wyplye, & went and sent ambasadours, & toke olde sackes vpō theyz Asses, & wyne bottels olde & rent and knyt together agayne, & olde clouted shoes vpō theyz fete, & olde rayment vpō them & al theyz pzouysyon of bzead was dzyed vp and bozed. And they came vnto Josua into the hoste, to Galgal & said vn to him & vnto the men of Israel: we be come frō a farre contrey, now therfoze make agrement wyth vs. And the men of Israel sayde vnto the Heuites, paraduenture you dwell among vs, & then how shulde we make peace wyth you.

And they sayde vnto Josua, we ar thy seruauntes. And Josua sayd then, what are ye, & whence come ye. And they answered hym. Frō a very farre cōtrepe thy seruauntes are come in the name of the lozd thy God: foz we haue heārde the fame of hym, & al that he did in Egipt, & al that he dyd to the two * kinges of the Amozites, beyonde Jozdan, Sehon king of Hesbō and Og kyng of Basan which dwelt at Astharoth. Wherfoze our elders & al the Enhabitours of our contrey spake to vs saying: take vitayles wt you to seruе byꝑ way, & go agaynst thē, & say vnto thē we ar your seruaūtes. Now therfoze make a couenāt of peace wt vs. This our pzouisiō of bzed, we toke wt vs out of our houses, whote, ꝑ day we departed to come vn to you. And now beholde it is dzyed vp & bozed. And these botels of wine which we filled were new & se, they be rēt. And these our garmētes & shoes ar warē olde by the reason of the exceding lōg Journeye.

* And the men toke of theyz vitayles, & counceled not with the mouth of the Lozde

Lord. And Josua made peace with thē, & * made a couenant with thē, to saue theyz lyues: & the Lordes of the congregacyon sware vnto thē. But thze dates after they had made peace wt thē, they heārde ꝑ they were neyboures vnto them, and that they dwelt among thē. Foz the childzē of Israel toke their Journey & came vnto their cities ꝑ thirde daye: & their cities were Gabaō, Caphira, Beeroth & Kariath Jarim. And ꝑ childzē of Israell slewe thē not, because ꝑ Lordes of the congregacyon had swozne vnto thē by the Lord God of Israel. And therfoze al ꝑ multitude murmured against ꝑ Lordes. But al the Lordes sayde vnto al the congregacyon: we haue swozne vnto thē by ꝑ lozd God of Israel, & therfoze we may not hurt thē. But thys we wil do to thē & lett thē liue: and so shal no wzath be vpon vs because of the othe which we sware vnto them. And the Lordes saide vnto thē, ꝑ they shuld liue: And they were made * hewers of wodd & dzawers of water vnto all the congregacion, as the Lordes sayd vnto them.

Deu.xxix.b

The Josua sente foz them, and talked with them, and saide: wherfoze haue ye begiled vs and yet ye dwel among vs? and now therfoze cursſed be you, and there shal not ceasse to be of you, bond men and hewers of wodd and dzawers of water vn to the house of my God.

And they answered Josua and sayd: it was tolde thy seruauntes, how that the Lozde thy God had cōmaunded his seruaunt Moses to geue you al the lande, & to destroy al ꝑ Enhabitours therof out of your sight, & therfoze we were exceadinge sore afrayed of our lyues because of you, and now beholde, we are in thyne hande, as it semethe good and ryght e in thyne eyes to do vnto vs, so do.

And he dealt as it is sayde, with them, and ridde them oute of the handes of the chyldzen of Israell, that they slewe them not. And Josua made them that same day hewers of wodd and dzawers of water vnto the congregacyon and vnto the aulter of God vnto this day, in the place which God shulde chose.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

And whē Adonizedec Kynge of Jerusalē had heard how Josua had takē Ai, & had destroied it, & how ꝑ * as he had done to Jericho & her kinge, euē so he had done to Ai & her kinge, and how ꝑ Enhabitours of Gabaō had made peace with Israel & dyd remaine among thē: then they feared exceadinglye, foz Gabaō was a great cytye, as any cytye of the kingdome, and therto greater then Ai, and all her men were myghtye.

Josua. vi. e and. viii. a

Wherfoze Adonizedec king of Jerusalē sent vnto Hoham king of Hebzō, & vnto Pharam king of Jermoth, & vnto Japhia king of Lachis, & vnto Dabir king of Eglō saying. Come vp vnto me & healpe me, ꝑ we maye smyte Gabaon foz they haue made peace with Josua & the childzē of Israel. Then .v. kinges of ꝑ Amozytes, the king of Jerusalem ꝑ king of Hebzon, the kynge of Jermoth, the king of Lachis the kyng of Eglon gathered thē selues to geather, both they and al theyz hostes and went vp and beseged Gabaō, and made warre agaynst it.

The hoste of the kinges of ꝑ Amozites was thre hundreth thousande. Wo. seuē. xii. M. chariottes after Josephus lib. v. Capi. xii

But the mē of Gabaō sent vnto Josua vnto ꝑ host to Galgal, saying: withdraw not thy hādes frō thy seruauntes, but come vp to vs: foz all ꝑ kinges of ꝑ Amozytes which dwel in ꝑ mountaines are gathered to geather agaynst vs.

And Josua ascended frō Galgal, both he and al the people of warre with hym, & al the men of might, and the Lorde sayde vnto Josua, feare thē not, foz I haue delyuered thē into thyne hāde, there shall not a mā of them stād before the. And Josua came vnto thē sodenlye, & iourneyed from Galgal al nyght. And the Lozde tormoyled thē before Israell and slewe of them a great slaughter at Gabaon, & chased thē a long the way that goithe vp to Bethozō and slewe them tyl they cam to Azaka and Makeda. And as they flodd from Israel euen in the going downe to Bethozon, the Lord cast downe great stones from heauē vpō thē, vntyl they cam vnto Azaka, that they dyed. And there were mo ꝑ dyed with hayle stones, then the chyldzen of Israell slewe wyth the swerde.

Then spake Josua vnto the lozd, ꝑ day whē the Lozd delyuered the Amozytes before the chyldre of Israel, & he sayd in the sight of al Israel: Sunne stand thou stil vpō Gabaō, & thou Mone, in the valeye of Ialō. And ỹ sunne abode, & the mone stode stil, vntill the people had auenged thē selues vpō their enemies. Is not this writtē in the boke of the * righteous, how that the sunne abode in the middes of heuē & hasted not to go downe by the space of a whole day. And ther was no daye lyke that, before it, or after it, that the Lord obeyed the voyce of a man: & all because the Lorde fought for Israell.

Exod. xvii. a

That is (after ỹ opiniō of many) Moses wryting of suche signes & tokēs, as god had promysed. The booke wherin he thulde wryte thys remayneth not.

And Josua returned & al Israel with him, vnto ỹ hoste to Galgal: but the fyue kinges fled & hyd them selues in a caue at Makeda. And it was told Josua, sayng: the .v. Kinges are founde hid in a caue at Makeda. And Josua sayde, rowle greate stones vnto the mouthe of the caue & appoynt men therto, for to kepe thē. And stāde ye not stil, but folow after your enemies & smyte the hindmost of thē. And suffre thē not to entre into theyr cytties, for ỹ Lord your god hath delyuered them into your hādes. And when Josua & the chyldre of Israel had made an ende of slayng thē vō a great slaughter tyll they were wasted, yet ther remayned a certen of thē, whych entred into walled cytties.

And al the people returned to ỹ host, to Josua at Makeda in peace, so ỹ no man durst moue his tong agenst ỹ children of Israel. Then sayd Josua: open ỹ mouth of the caue, & bringe out these .v. Kinges vnto me out of ỹ caue. And they dyd so, & brought those .v. Kinges vnto hym, oute of the caue: the king of Jerusalem, ỹ king of Hebrō, the king of Jerimoth, the king of Lachis, and the kyng of Eglon.

And when they had brought out those kinges vnto Josua: Josua called for al ỹ men of Israel, & sayde vnto ỹ captaynes of the men of warre, which came vō hym, come nere & put your fete vpō the neckes of these kinges. And they came neare & put theyr fete vpō ỹ neckes of thē. And Josua sayd vnto thē feare not nor dread But be strong & plucke vp youre hertes, for so shal the Lord serue al your enemyes agaynst whych ye fyght.

And then Josua smote thē & slewe thē & hanged thē on fyue trees tyl euen. And at the goinge downe of the sonne, Josua gaue commaundement, & they toke them downe of the * trees & cast them into the caue, where they hyd them selues, & layed greate stones on the caues mouth, which remayne vnto this daye.

after Deut. xxi. Josue. viii.

And ỹ same day Josua toke Makeda & smote it vō the edge of the swerde, & the king therof also, & vtterly destroyed thē & al the soules ỹ were therin, & let nought remayne. And he dyd to the king of Makeda, as he dyd to the kinge of Jericho.

Then Josua wente frō Makeda, & all Israell with him vnto Libna, & fought against Libna. And the lord deliuered it also into their hādes, with the kyng also & smote it with the edge of the swerd and al the soules ỹ were therin, & let nought remayne in it, & dyd vnto the king therof as he dyd vnto the king of Jericho.

After ỹ Josua departed from Libna, & al Israell with hym, vnto Lachis, and beseged it, & assaulted it. And the lord deliuered into the hādes of Israel Lachis, that they toke it the Second day, & smote it with the edge of the swerde, & al the soules that were therin, accoyding to all that he dyd to Libna.

Then Horam kynge of Geser came vp to helpe Lachis: But Josua smote hym and hys people, vntyll he lefte hym naught remayninge.

And frō lachis Josua departed, vnto Eglon, & al Israell wyth hym, and there beseged it, & assaulted it, & toke it ỹ same day, & smote it with the edge of the swerd and al the soules that were therein: & vtterlye destroyed thē the same daye, accoyding to al that he dyd to Lachis.

Then Josua departed vp from Eglō and al Israel with him, vnto Hebrō. And they fought agaynst it, and toke it, & smote it wyth the edge of thee swerde, and the kynge therof, and al the townes that pertayned too it, and all the soules that were therin, so that they left nought remaynig but in all thinges as they dyd to Eglon, so they destroyed it vtterlye, and all thee soules that were therein.

Then Josua returned & al Israel with him to Dabir, and they fought agaynste it, & toke it, and the king therof and al the townes that pertained therto. And smote them them with the edge of the swerde, and vtterly destroied al the soules that were ther in, and let nought remaine. And as he dyd to Hebron, so he dyd to Dabir and ỹ king therof, and as he dyd to Lybna and her kynge.

And Josua smote all the hille contreys & the south contreys, and the valeyes, and ỹ springes of water, with all their kinges & let nought remaine, but vtterly destroyed al that * breathed, as the Lord God of Israell commaunded. And Josua smote thē from Cades barne, vnto Hsah, and al the cōtrey of Gosan, euen vnto Gabaon. And al those kinges & their lande, Josua toke at one tyme: because the Lorde God of Israel fought for Israell. And thē Josua returned and all Israel with hym vnto the hoste to Galgall.

the Amorites which raygned in Hesbon, whõ Moses smote * vẽ the lordes of Madian, Eui, Rekem, Zur, Hur and Reba, ỹ Lordes of Sehõ, and the enhabitoures of the contrey. And Balam also the sonne of Beor the sothesayer, the chyldren of Israel slewe with the swerde, amonge other that were slaine. And the borders of ỹ children of Ruben was Jordan with the contrey that lyeth theron. This is the enherytaunce of the chyldren of Ruben in theyr kynredes, wythe the cytyes and vyllages pertaynynge therto.

Num.xxxi.a

And Moses gaue vnto the tribe of Gad D euen vnto the chyldren of Gad he gaue by kynredes. And their costes were Jazer, & al the cyties of Galaad, and halfe the lãd of the chyldren of Ammon, vnto Aroer ỹ lyeth before Rabah: And from Hesbõ vntõ Ramoth maspha, and Betonim: and frõ Mahanaim vnto the borders of Dabir. And in the valeye they had Betharã, Bethnimra, Socoth, and Zaphon, the reste of the kyngdome of Sehon kynge of Hesbon, & Jordan and the costes that lye theron, euen vnto the edge of the see of Cenerothe, on the other syde Jordan Estwarde. This is the enheritaũce of the chyldren of Gad in their kynredes, the cytyes with their vyllages.

And Moses gaue vnto the halfe tribe of Manasses. And the halfe tribe of Manasses had theyr parte by their kinredes. And their costes were from Mahanaim, euẽ al Basã, the kingdom of Og, kynge of Basã, and al the townes of Jair which lye in Basã, euẽ thre skore cities, and halfe Galaad & Astaroth, & Edrai, cities of the kingdome of Og in Basan, *whiche pertaine vnto the childrẽ of Machir the sõne of Manasses, & that vntõ halfe the chyldren of Machir by theyr kynredes. Num.xxxii.c

These are they to which Moses gaue enherytãunce in the feldes of Moab, on the other side Jordan by Jericho Estwarde. But vnto the trybe of Leui Moses gaue none enheritaunce, for the lord God of Israell he is their enherytaunce, * as he sayde vnto them. num.xviii.a

¶ Caleb requireth the heritage that was promised hym, and Hebron was geuen hym.

The.xiiii. Chapter

And

A AND these ar ỹ contreyes why ch ỹ childzen enhereted in the land of Canaan, vnto which Eleazar the preast, & Josua
the sonne of Nun and the aũ
cient heades of the tribes of the childzē of Israell, gaue them their enheritaunce by lotte, as the Lozd cõmaunded by the hād of Moses, to geue vnto the nyne tribes, &
vnto ỹ halfe tribe of Manasses. For Mo ses had geuē enheritaunce vnto two trybbes and an halfe on the other side Jozdā.
But vnto ỹ Leuites he gaue none enheri taunce among thē. For the childzē of Joseph were two tribes, Manasses and Ephraim. And therfoze they gaue no parte vnto ỹ Leuites in the lande, saue cities to dwell in & ỹ suburbes of ỹ same, foz theyz beastes & cattel. As the lozd commaũded Moses: euen so the childzē of Israel did when they deurded the lande.

B And ỹ childzē of Juda came vnto Josua in Galgal. And Caleb the sõne of Je phune the Kenesite sayd vnto him: thou wottest what the Lozd said vnto Moses the mā of God, about me and ỹ in Cades Barne. * Fourtie yere olde was I when Moses the seruaunt of the Lozd sent me frõ Cades Barne to spie out the lād. And I brought hym wozde agayne euē as I thought in myne herte. Neuertheless my bzethren that went vp with me discouraged ỹ hertes of ỹ people. But I folowed the Lozd my God euen vnto the ende.

C And Moses sware the same ceasõ saying * ỹ lande wherõ thy fete haue troodē, shalbe thyne enheritaũce & thy childzē foz euer because ỹ haste folowed the lozd my God continually. And nowe beholde, the Lozde hath kepte me luslic (as he sayd) *
this fourtie and fiue yeres, euen sence the lozd spake vnto Moses, while the childzē of Israel wanderyd in ỹ wildernes. And now se I am thys day foure skoze & fyue
yeres: and yet am as strong at thys tyme, as I was when Moses set me: loke how strõg I was then, so strõg I am now, to warre and to do al maner of thinges.

Now therfoze geue me thys mountayn
ne which the Lozd at that time promesed,
foz thou herdest at ỹ tyme, how ỹ * Ena-kim s were there and how the cyties were greate & walled. I trust the Lozd wyllbe wyth me, and I shall dzyue them oute as the Lozde sayde. And Josua blessed Caleb the sonne of Jephune & gaue him He bzon to enheret. And Hebzon became the enheritaunce of Caleb the sõne of Jephu ne the kenesite, vnto this dayc: because he folowed the Lozd God of Israel perpetually. And the name of * Hebzon was called in olde tyme, Kariath arbe, whiche was a huge man amõg ỹ Enakims. And the lande ceased from warre.

The notes.

* Hebzon is a pzoper name of a Cytie which be foze was called the Cytie of Arbe wyche Arbe after the Hebze, was a Geaũte bothe stronge & mygh tye and of a famouse name.

C The Lotte of the childzē of Juda and the names of the cytyes and byllages of the same.

The .xv. Chapter

AND the Lotte of the trybe of the childzen of Juda in their kinredes was the wildernes of Zyn ỹ stretched to the cos
tes of Edom southwarde, &
is the vtmooste parte of the southe costes.
And their southcostes were from the bzin ck of the salt see & from a certē point of ỹ see that leaneth southwarde. And it went out on the south syde of the going vp to Acrabim, and went a long to Zinna, &
ascended vp on the southe syde of Cades Barne, & went a long to Hezron & wēt vp to Adar, & fett a compase to Karca & wēt
a long to Azmon, & it went oute to the ryuer of Egypt: so ỹ the ende of that cost is the see. And these are their south costes.

And their easte costes are the salt seeuē vnto the edge of Jozdā. And their boz ders in the nozth quarter were from another point of the see wher Jozdan endeth.
And went vp to Bethhagla and wente a long by the nozth syde of Betharabah & went vp to the stone of Bohen the sõne of Rubē. And then went vp to Dabir from the valey of Acoz, and so nozthward, turning toward Galgal that lieth before the goyng vp to Adomim, which is of the sou
the syde of the Riuer. And they wēt a lon ge to the water of Ensemes, & ended at ỹ wel of Rogel. And thē went vp to the va leye of the sonne of Hennō, euen vnto the southe syde of the Jebusites the enhaby-tours of Jerusalem. And thē went vpto
the toppe of the hille ỹ lyeth before the va
leye of Hennom, westward, & by the edge of the valey of Raphaim nozthward. And thē it drayweth frō the lande hylle vnto the fountayne of water called Nephthoah, and goeth out at the cities of mount Ephzon: & drayweth to Bālah, otherwise called Karithiarim: & then it compaseth from Balah westward, vnto Epr, & then goeth alonge
vnto the syde of mount Jarim, otherwyse called Chesalon, on the nozthside therof.
C And commeth down to Bethsames & goeth to Thamnah, & goeth oute on the syde of Akaron nozthward: And then drayweth to Secron & goeth a longe to mount Balah, and goeth out at Jabnel: & the ende of the costes is ỹ see. And the west bozders are ỹ great see & the costes that lye theron. And these ar the costes of the chyldzen of Juda
rounde aboute in theyz kynredes.

Jud.i.b * And vnto Caleb the sonne of Jephune was ther a part geuē amõge the chyldzen of Juda, by the mouth of the Lozd to Jo
sua, euē the cytie of Kariathsarbe father of Enack whych cytie is called Hebzon. And Caleb drzoue thence the thze sonnes of Enack, Sesai, Ahiman, & Thalmai, the son-nes begottē of Enack. And he wēt vp thēce, to the enhabitours of Dabir, whose na me in thee olde tyme was Kariath sepher.
Jud.i.c And Caleb sayd: * he that smiteth kariath
sepher & taketh it, to him will I geue Ac-sah my doughter to wyfe. And Othinel, ỹ
D sonne of Kenes, the brother of Caleb toke
it. And he gaue hym Acsah hys doughter to wife. And as she wēt she moued him, to Under stād to fall at her fathers fote, to aske of him fielde. aske of her father a felde. And she * alygh ted of her asse. And Caleb sayde vnto her:
what ayleth the. And she sayde: geue me a blessing: foz ỹ hast geuē me a southwarde & dzye land: geue me also springes of water. Then he gaue her springes of water, both aboue & beneth. Thys is the enheritaunce of the tribe of the chyldzē of Juda
in theyz kynredes.

And the cities of the tribe of the childzē
of Juda, in al quarters, to ward the costes of Edō southward, were: Kabzel, Eder, &
Jagur: Kinah, Dimonah, & Adada: Kedes
Hazor, & Jethnā: Ziph, Telem, & Baloth Hazor, Hadathah & Kariothhesrō, other wyse called Hazor: Eman, Sami, & Mo-ladah: Hasargadah, Hasimō, & Bethpheleth: Hazarsuall, Berseabe, & Bazlothiah:
Baalah, Jim, & Ezem: Eltholad, Cesill, &
Horma: Ziklag, Medemenah, & Sensē-nah: Labaoth, Selhim, Ain, & Remon: all these cyties are twentie & nyne wyth theyz villages. And in the lowe cõtreye thet had Esthaol, Zareah, & Asenah: Zoneah, En ganim, Thaphuah & Enam: Jermoth, A dulam, Socoh, & Azah: Saarē, Adytha-im, Gederah, & Gederothaim: Fourtene cy ties wyth theyz villages.

Zenā, Hadasah, & Magdalgad, Delcā Māsphah, & Jekthiel: Lachis, Bazcath,
and Eglon: Cabon, Lahamam, & Cethlis Gaderoth, Bethdagon, Naamah & Ma-
kedah: Sixtene cities with theyz villages

Lebnah, Ether, & Asān: Jephthah, Al-
nah, & Nezib: Keilah, Zaheziph, & Maresah
nyne cyties wyth theyz villages.

Akron with theyz townes & villages. F
And frō Akron out to the see, al that lyeth aboute Asdod wythe theyz villages. Asdo-dod wyth her townes and villages. Azah with her townes and villages, euen vnto
the ryuer of Egypte: & the great see wyth
the costes that lye theron.

And in the mountaynes, they had Sa
mir, Jathir, & Socoh: Danah: & Kariath
senath, which is Debir: Anab, Esthemoh & Anim: Gozen, Holon, & Giloh: a leuē cy-ties wyth theyz villages. Arab, Dumah, & Esan: Janim, Bethtapuah & Aphekah Humatah, and Kariatharbe: which is Hebzon & Zior: nyne cyties wyth theyz villages. Maon, Carmel, Siph, and Jutah: G Jesrael, Jukadam, & Sanoch: Cain, Gabaah, & Thamnah x. cyties with theyz vil lages. Halhull, Bethzur, & Gedor: Maa-rath, Bethanoth, and Eltheton: Sixe cy-ties wythe theyz villages. Kariath Baal whych is Kariath Jarim, & Harabba, two cyties wyth theyz villages.

And in the wyldernes they had Beth-arabah, Meddin, & Sacacah: Nebson, the cytie of salte, & Engadi: Sixe cities wyth theyz villages. But the Jebusites ỹ were the enhabiters of Jerusalē: the chyldzē of Juda could not caste oute. Wherfoze the Jebusites dwel among the chyldzē of Ju da vnto thys daye.

C The lot of the childzē of Ephraim.

The .xvi. Chapter.

AND the lot of the chyldzen of Joseph fel frō Jozdā by Jericho, vnto the water of Jeriche

cho eastward, & the wildernesse that goeth vp frō Jericho thorow out moūt Bethel: and then goeth out frō Bethell to Lus, & runneth a long vnto the borders of Archa taroth: & goeth downe westwarde, euen to
B the costes of Japhlethi, & vnto the costes of Bethhoron the nether, & so to Gasor, & the endes of theyr coostes came to the see. And so the childzen of Joseph Manasses and Ephzaim toke theyr enheritaunce.

And the childzē of Ephzaim toke theyr costes by kynredes. And ỹ costes of theyr enheritaunce Eastward were, Ataroth Ador, euen vnto Bethhoron the vpper, and
C went oute westwarde to Machmathah on the Northsyde, & cōpassed Eastward vnto Thaanath Silo, & past it on the Eastsyde vnto Janoah, & wēte downe frō Janoah to Ataroth & Naarath, & met at Jericho, & wēt oute at Jordan. And theyr borders went frō Thaphuah westward vnto the ryuer Kanah, & the endes were the see. This is the enheritaūce of the trybe of the D childzen of Ephzaim in theyr kinredes, & the bozderinge cyties of the childzē of Ephzaim, lye among the enheritaūce of the childzen of Manasses: euen all the cyties wyth theyr villages. Notwythstandinge they dzyue not oute thee Cananites that dwelt in Gasor: but the Cananites dwelte among the Ephzaites vnto thys daye, & pape tribute.

¶ The lot or porcion of the halfe trybe of Manasses. The Cananites become tributaries to the Israelites. Manass. & Ephzaim require a greater portion of heritage.

The .xvii. Chapter.

A Nd thee trybe of Manasses whych was the Eldest sonne of Joseph receiued a lot. And Machir the Eldest sonne of Manasses which was the father of Galaad (& a mā of warre) had Galaad & Basan. And the rest of the childzen of Manasses receaued by theyr kinredes: which were the childzē of Abiezer: the childzen of Heleck: the childzē Asriel: the childzen of Sichē, thee childzē of Hepher: the childzen of Semida. These are the male childzen of Manasses thee sonne of Joseph in theyr kynredes. * But Zelaphead the sonne of Hepher the sonne of Galaad the sonne of Machir, the sonne of Manasses, had noo sonnes saue daughters. And

Num. xxvii. d and xxxvi. a and xxvi. a these ar ỹ names of thes doughters: Mahela, Noa, Hagla, Melcha & Thirza: wht B che came before Eleazar the ptiest, & before Josua the sonne of Nun, & before thee Lordes saying: * the Lord commaunded Moses to geue vs an enheritaunce amōg our brethrē. And he gaue thē at the mouth of the Lord, an enheritaunce amonge thee brethren of theyr fathers. And there fell ten porciōs to Manasses besyde the land of Galaad & Basan whyche are on the other syde Jordan: because the daughters of Manasses dyd enherytte amonge hys sonnes. And Manasses other sonnes had the land of Galaad.

Num. xxvii. b, xxxvi. a

And the coostes of Manasses reached frō Aser to Machmathah that lyeth before Sichē & went a long on the right hand euen vnto the enhabiters of Enthaphuah & the land of Thaphuah belōged to Manasses, whych Thaphuah laye in the borders betwene Manasses and the childzen of Ephzaim. And the costes descended vnto thee ryuer Canah on whose southesyde Ephzaim hath cyties among the cyties of C Manasses. For the coostes of Manasses were on ỹ northsyde of the ryuer & ỹ endes of them was the see: so that the south pertayned to Ephzaim, & the northe to Manasses, and the see is his border. And they met together in Aser northwarde, & in Issachar eastward. And Manasses had in Issachar & in Aser, Bethsean, and her townes: & the enhabiters of Dor, wythe the townes pertaining to the same: & the enhabitours of Endor wyth the townes of the same: & the enhabitours of Thaanath wyth her townes and the enhabitours of Magedo wyth the townes of the same, euē thze con treys yet the childzē of Manasses coulde not ouercome those cyties: But the Cananites began to dwel in the same land. Neuertheless assone as the childzē of Israel were wared strong, they put the Cananites to tribute, but expelled them not.

And the childzē of Joseph spake vnto D Josua, saying: why haste thou geuen vs but one lotte & one porciō to enheret, seing we be moche people, & for as moche as the Lord hath blessed vs so: & Josua answered thē: yf ye be moch people, then get you vp to thee wood contreye, and pzepare for youre selues there in the lande of the Pherezites

rezites and of the * Raphaites, yf mounte Genes. xli. a Ephzaim be to narowe for you, Then the childzen of Joseph sayde agayne the hyl wil not begote of vs: for all ỹ Cananites ỹ dwel in the lowe contrey haue charettes of yron, and so haue they ỹ enhabite Bethsean, & the townes of the same & they also that dwel in the valey of Jezreel. And Josua answered ỹ house of Joseph, Ephzaim & Manasses saying: ye be moch people and haue great power & shal not therfore haue one lot. But the hill shall be youres, for it is a wodde contrey & ye shal brynge it to facion, and it shalbe youres euen vnto the endes of it, for ye shalbe able to cast out ỹ Cananites for al their yron charettes, and for all they be so stronge.

¶ Seuen are sende to deuyde the lande to the other seuen trybes. The Lotte of the childzen of Ben Jamin.

The .xviii. Chapter.

A Nd the whole congregacyon of the childzē of Israel came to gether at Siloh, & set vp ỹ tabernacle of witnesse ther, & the lande was in subiectiō before them. But there remayned among ỹ childzen of Israel seuen tribes which had not their enheryptaunce deuyded out. And Josua sayd vnto ỹ childzē of Israel, how lōg are ye so slacke to go & possesse ỹ land which ỹ Lord God of your fathers hathe geuē you? Bzing of euery tribe thze mē ỹ I may sende thē. And ỹ they may rise and walke thorowe the land & distribute it by their enheritaunces & come againe to me.
B Deuide it into seuē partes. For Juda shal abyde by their coostes in ỹ south, & ỹ house of Joseph shal stand to their coostes in the north. Descrybe ye ỹ land therfore into seuē partes, & bzyng ỹ descripciō to me hether, ỹ I maye caste lottes for you here before the Lord oure God. The Leuites haue no parte amonge you for the preasthype of the lord is their enheritaūce. And Gad, Ruben, & halfe the trybe of Manasses haue receaued their enheritaunce beyōde Jordan Eastwarde, whiche Moses the seruaunte of the Lorde gaue them.

And ỹ men arose and went their waye. And Josua charged thē ỹ wēt to discribe the land saying: hence and go thorow the lande & describe it, & come againe to me hether: and I will cast lottes for you before the Lorde in Siloh. And the men departed, & walked thorow the lande and described it by cities into seuē partes in a boke, and returned to Josua into the host at Siloh. And Josua caste lottes for thē in Siloh before the Lord, & ther he deuided the lande vnto the childzen of Israell, to eche their porcion. And the lotte of the trybe of C the childzen of Beniamin came vp accordynge to their kinredes. And the coostes of their lotte came out betwene the childzē of Juda & ỹ childzē of Joseph. And their northe coostes were frō Jordan and went vp to the side of Jericho on the northside, & wēt vp thorow the moūtaines westwarde, & they ended at the wyldernesse of Bethauē: & went frō thence to ỹ southsyde of Lus, other wyse called Bethel: & descēded to Ataroth Adar vpon the hylle ỹ lieth on the southe side of ỹ nether Bethhorō. And the west coost draweth & cōpasseth southwarde, euen from the hille ỹ lyethe before Bethhoron, & gothe oute at Kariathbaall which is kariath Jarim, a citte of ỹ childzē of Juda: & thys is the west quarter: & the southe coost goth frō the edge of Kariathiarim westward, & goth out to the water welle, of Nephthoah & cometh downe to ỹ edge of the hil that lyeth before the valeye of the sōne of Hennō which is in the valey of Raphaim northwarde, and descendeth D thorowe the valeye of Hennon vnto the syde of Jebusy southward & goth downe to the well of Rogell. And compasseth frō the north and gothe forthe to Ensames & to the coostes that lye before the goynge vp vnto Adomim: and gothe downe to the stoone of Bohan the sonne of Ruben: and then gothe alonge towarde the syde of * the playne northewarde: and goth downe in to the plaine: and gothe a longe to the syde of Bethhaglah northewarde, and endeth at ỹ point of the salt see northe ther from, and at the ende of Jordā south ther from. This is the south coost. Greec. Arabathah.

And Jordā is their east coost, thys is the enheritaunce of the childzē of Beniamin wyth theyr coostes round about and by their kynredes. And these ar the cytyes of the trybes of the childzē of Beniamin in theyr kynredes: Jericho, Bethhaglah, and the valey of Kasis: Betharabah, Zamarim, and Bethell: Auim, Pharah, and Ophzah: Chepar Ammonai, Ophni, and Gabai, twelue cytes with their villages. Gabaō, Ramah, and Beroth: Maspha, Caphairah, and Mozah: Rekē, Jarephel and Tharelah, Zela, Eleph, and the cytie of the Jebusytes which is Jerusalē, Gabaath, & Kariath, fourtene cytes wᵗ theyr villages. This is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Beniamin in their kinredes.

¶ The lottes or partes of Zabulon, Issachar. Aser. Nephthali, Dan, and Josua.

The. xix. Chapter.

A AND the second lott came out vnto the tribe of the children of Simeō by their kinredes. And their enheritaunce fell in the myddes of ꝑ enheritaūce of the children of Juda. And their enheritaunce was, Bersabe, Sabe, and Moladah, Hasorsual, Balah, & Asem, Eltholad Bethul and Hormah Zikelag, Bethmarcaboth & Hasersusah, Bethlebaoth, & Saruhē thertene cities wythe their villages. Ain Remō Ether, & Asan, foure cities wᵗ their villages: & therto al ꝑ villages ꝑ lye rounde about these cities, euē vnto Balath Beor, & Ramath southwarde. Thys is the enheritaūce of the trybe of the chyldrē of Simeon in their kinredes out of ꝑ porcion of the children of Juda came the enheritaunce of the chyldrē of Simeon. For the part of the chyldrē of Juda was to moch for them: and therfore the childrē of Simeon had their enheritaunce in the enheritaunce of them.

And the thyrd lotte came vnto the chyldren of Zabulō accordyng vnto their kinredes. And the coostes of theyr enherytaunce came to Sarid, & went vp to the Sees, and to Marialah, and touched at Dabaseh, & mette at the riuer that lyethe before Jokneuē: and turned from Sarid estward toward the sunne rising vnto the border of Chisloth in moūt Thabor: and then gothe out to Daberath and goth vp to Japhia: and from thence gothe a long estwarde towarde the sunne rysynge, to Sethah, Hepher Ithah, and Jasin, and goth to Remon, Methoar, & Neah. And cōpaseth it on the nozth syde and goeth to Nathan, and endeth in the valey of Jephthahell. And Jatath, Nahaloll, Semron, Jedalah, & Bethlehem: twelue cities with their byllages. Thys is the enheritaunce of the Childrē of Zabulon, in their kynredes. The said cities with their villages

And the fourth lott came out to the childrē of Issacar by their kinredes. And their coostes were Jesraelah, Casuloth, Sunē, Haphataim, Sihō, Anaharath: Harabith, Kision, and Abez: Rameth, Enganim, Enhadah, & Bethphazez. And his coostes meth at Thabor, Sahazimah & at Bethsames & endeth at Jordā, Syxtene cytyes wyth their villages. This is the enheritaūce of the trybe of the childrē of Issacar by their kinredes the cytyes and their byllages.

And the fyft lott came out vnto ꝑ tribe of the chyldren of Aser by their kynredes. And their coostes were Helkah, Hali, Beten and Achsaph: Alameleth, Amaad and Miseal: & mette at Carmel on the see, & at Sihor and at Labanath and turneth towarde the sunne rysyng to Bethdagon, & mette at Zabulon & in the valey of Jehthah, and toward the nozthsyde of Bethemek & Negel, & goth out on ꝑ lefte syde of Cabul: and Hebron, Rohob, Hamon, and Kanah euen vnto great Sidon. And then the coost turneth to Ramah & to the strōg citte of Azor and turneth to Hozah and endeth at ꝑ see: by the possessiō of Achzibah: Amah, Apheh, and Rohob: Twentye and two cities with their vilages. This is the enherytaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Aser by their kynredes: These cytyes wyth theyr byllages.

And the Syxt lotte came out vnto the chyldren of Nephtali by theyr kynredes. And their coostes were frō Heleph & from Elon in Zaananim, & Adami, Nekeb & Jabneel euen to Lakum, and go oute at Jordan. And then the coostе turnethe westward to Asanoth in moūt Thabor, & then gothe out from thence to Hukokah and meteth wyth Zabulon on the southsyde, and wyth Aser on the west, & at Juda vpon Jordā toward the sunne rysyng. And their strong cytyes are Zidim, Ber, Hamath, Racath & Cenerethe Adamah, Hermah and Hazor: Kedes, Edrai, & Enhazor: Jeron, Magdelel: Horem, Bethanah & Bethsames: nintene cytyes wᵗ their byllages. Thys is the enherytaūce of the trybe of the childrē of Nephtaly by theyr kynredes: these cyties and their villages:

And the seuenth lotte fell to the trybe of the childrē of Dā by their kynredes. And the coostes of their enheritaunce was Saraah Esthaol, Ysames, Saclabin, Ialō & Jethlah: Eglō, Themnathah & Akarō: Elthekeh Gibethō and Baalath: Jehud, Banebarak & Gathermon, Meiericon & Harron with the contrey that lyeth before Japho. And ꝑ coostes of ꝑ childrē of Dā went out frō beyond thē. For the chyldren of Dan went vp and fought agaynst Lesē and toke it, and smote it with ꝑ edge of the swerde, and conquered it, and dwelte therin and called it Dā, after the name of Dan their father.

Thys is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Dan in their kinredes: these cyties with their byllages. When they had made an ende of deuiding the lāde by her coostes then the chyldrē of Israel gaue an enheritaūce vnto Josua ꝑ sōne of Nun amonge them: at the mouthe of the Lorde they gaue him the cytye whych he asked, euen Thamnah serah in mount Ephraim. And he bylte the cytye & dwelt therein. These are the enheritaunces why the Eleazar ꝑ preaste and Josua the sōne of Nun, and the auncient fathers of the trybes of the chyldren of Israell deuided by lotte in Siloh before the Lorde, in the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and so made an ende of deuydyng the cōtrey.

¶ The Cytyes of refuge or Sanctuaryes.

The. xx. Chapter.

A THen the Lorde spake vnto Josua saying: comen with ꝑ chyldren of Israel and saye: *Appoynt out free cities, of whych I spake vnto you by Moses, that the slear that kylleth any person vnwares & vnwyttynglye, maye flee thether. And those cytyes shalbe youre refuge from the auenger of bloude. And the slear shall flee vnto one of those Cytyes and shall stande in the entrynge of ꝑ gate of the cytte and shal shew hys cause in the eares of the elders of the sayd cytie. And they shal take hym in to the cytye vnto them, and shal geue him a place that he maye dwell amonge them.

num. xxxv. a Deut. xix. b Josu. xx. a

B And when the auenger of bloude folowth after hym they shall not delyuer the slear into his hande because he smote hys frend ignorantlye, and hated hym not before tyme. And he shall dwell in the sayde cytye vntyl he stand before the congregacyon in Judgement, and vntyl the death of ꝑ hye preast that shalbe in those dayes. And then shall the slear returne and come vnto hys awne cytte and vnto hys owne house, & vnto the cytye frō whēce he fledd. And they apoynted Kedes in Galyle, in mount Nephthali, and Sichem in moūte Ephraim, & kiria: harbe which is Hebrō, in the moūtaines of Juda. And on the otherside Jordā ouer against Jericho estward, they gaue Bosor in the wildernesse vpō the plaine out of the tribe of Rubē & Ramoth in Galaad out of ꝑ tribe of Gad & Golan in Basā oute of the tribe of Manasses. These were the cities apointed for al the childrē of Israel, & to the straūgers that soiourned amōge thē ꝑ whosoeuer killed any persō ignorātly, ꝑ same myght flee thether & shulde not dye by the hād of the auenger of bloude, vntyll he stode before the congregacyon.

¶ The cytyes geuē to the Leuites, in nōbre. xlviii. The promeses of geuing the land of Canaan ar fulfylled. The Israelites are at rest.

The. xxi. Chapter.

A AND then came the principall heades of the Leuytes vnto Eleazar the preaste, & vnto Josua ꝑ sōne of Nū, & vnto the auncient heades of the trybes of the childrē of Israel, & spake vnto thē at Siloh in the lād of Canaā saying: *the lord cōmaunded by Moses, to geue vs cities to dwel in and the feldes aboute thē, for our catel. And the childrē of Israel gaue vnto ꝑ Leuites out of their enheritaūces, at the bidding of the lorde, these cities folowynge withe their Suburbes.

num. xxxv. b Deut. xii. b Josu. xx. b

And the lott cam out vnto the kinredes of the Cahathites: & the children of Harō the preast which were of the Leuytes had geuen them by lott, out of the tribe of Juda, out of the tribe of Simeon, & out of ꝑ tribe of Beniamin. xiii. cities. And the reste of the chyldren of Cahath had by lott, out of the kynredes of the trybe of Ephraim, out of the trybe of Dan, and oute of the halfe tribe of Manasses tē cities. And the children of Gerlō had by lott oute of the kinredes of ꝑ tribe of Issacar out of ꝑ trybe of Aser, out of ꝑ tribe of Nephthaly & out of ꝑ other halfe tribe of Manasses in Basā, xiii. cities. And ꝑ childrē of Merari by

by their kynredes, had out of the trybe of Ruben, out of the trybe of Gad, and oute of the tribe of Zabulō, twelue citties. And the childzen of Israel gaue by lott vnto ỹ Leuites these citties with their Suburbes as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

And they gaue out of ỹ tribe of ỹ childzē of Juda, & out of ỹ trybe of the childzē of Simeō, these cyties by name: whiche the childzē of Aarō being of the kinredes of ỹ Cahathites, & of the childzen of Leui, obtained: foz theirs was ỹ first lot. And they gaue them Kariath Arbe of the father of *Enack, which is Hebzō, in the hyl cōtrey of Juda, with the Suburbes of the same round about it. But the contrey that pertained to the citte and the villages therof, they gaue to Caleb the sone of Jephune, to be hys possessyon.

And thus they gaue to the chyldzen of Aarō the preast the kraūcheted cyties of ỹ slear, Hebzon with her Suburbes: & Libna with her Suburbes, and Jathir wyth her Suburbes, & Esthmoa with her Suburbes, and Holon with her Suburbes, and Dabir with her Suburbes, and Ain with her Suburbes, and Jutah with her Suburbes, & Bethsames withe her Suburbes: nine citties out of those two tribes. And out of ỹ tribe of Beniamin they gaue Gabaō with her Suburbes: Gaba with her Suburbes: Anatoth wt her Suburbes: Almon with her Suburbes: foure cities. All these citts of ỹ chyldzē of Aaron preastes were xiii. cyties withe their Suburbes. And ỹ kynredes of the childzē of Cahath that were Leuites: ỹ is to say the other chyldzē of Cahath had the cyties of their lott, out of ỹ trybe of Ephzaim. And they gaue them the kre cytie of the slear: Sichē wyth her Suburbes, in mount Ephzaim: & Gazer withe her Suburbes: & Kabzaim wyth her Suburbes: Bethhorō with her Suburbes: foure cities. And out of the tribe of Dan: Eltheke with her Suburbes: Gibthon wyth her Suburbes: Alalon wythe her Suburbes, and Gathzemō with her Suburbes: foure cytes. And oute of the halfe trybe of Manasses, Thanach wt her Suburbes: Gathzemō wyth her Suburbes: two cytyes. So that all the cyties whych were geuen vnto the kynredes of the other chyldzē of Cahath, were ten wyth their Suburbes.

And vnto the chyldzen of Gerson why che were of the kynredes of the Leuytes, they gaue oute of the other halfe tryde of Manasses, the cytie of refuge foz ỹ slear, Golan in Basan wythe her Suburbes: Beestherah wyth her Suburbes: two cyties. And out of the trybe of Issacar, Kisyon wyth her Suburbes: Daberath wyth her Suburbes: Jarimoth with her Suburbes: Enganim wyth her Suburbes: foure cities. And out of the tribe of Aser, Misseal wher Suburbes, Abdō with her Suburbes, Halakath wyth her Suburbes: Rohob with her Suburbes: foure cyties. And out of the tribe of Nephthali, ỹ cytie of refuge foz the slear, Kedes in Galile, wyth her Suburbes: Hamothdoz, wher Suburbes: Carthan wyth her Suburbes: thze cytyes. So that all the cytyes of the Gersonytes in theyz kynredes were. xiii. wyth their Suburbes.

And vnto the kynredes of the childzen of Merari, the reste of the Leuytes, they gaue out of the tribe of Zabulon: Jecnā wyth her Suburbes: Carthah wyth her Suburbes Daimna wythe her Suburbes, & Nahalal wyth her suburbes: foure cytyes. And out of the tribe of Rubē, they gaue Bozor with her suburbes: Jahesoh with her suburbes Kedmoth wyth her suburbes, & Maphaath wyth her suburbes foure cities. And out of the tribe of Gad, they gaue ỹ kraūchised citte of ỹ slear, Ramoth in Galaad wt her suburbes, Mahanaim wt her suburbes, Hesbon wt her suburbes: & Jazer wt her suburbes: foure cyties in al, so ỹ al the cityes of the childzē of Merari in their kynredes, whych were the rest of the kinredes of the leuites, were by their lot, twelue citties. And all the cities ỹ ỹ Leuites had in the possessiō of ỹ childzē of Israel were. xlviii. wt theyz suburbes. And these cyties had eche theyz suburbes round about her thozow out all the sayde citties. And the lozde gaue vnto Israel al ỹ lād whych he swarc to geue vnto theyz fathers. And thei cōquered it, & dwelt ther in. And ỹ lozd gaue thē rest round aboute accozding to all ỹ he sware vnto theyz fathers. So ỹ ther stode not a mā of al their enemies befoze thē. But ỹ lozd delyuered all their euempes into theyz hādes. There spaked nothinge of all the good thynges which the Lozd had sayde vnto the house of Israel, But al came to passe.

Rubē, Gad, and the halfe tribe of Manasses are sende againe to their possessyons. They bylde an altare foz a memoyral.

The. xxii. Chapter.

Then Josua called vnto the Rubenites, ỹ Gaddites and to the halfe tribe of Manasses and sayd vnto them: *ye haue kept al that Moses the seruaunt of the Lozd cōmaunded you, & haue obeyed my voyce in all that I commaunded you: ye haue not lefte your bzethzen of a lōg season vnto thys daye but haue kept the cōmaundement of ỹ Lozde your God. And now ỹ lozd hath geue rest vnto your bzethzen as he promised them. Wherfoze returne and go vnto your tentes & vnto ỹ lande of your possession, whi che Moses the seruaunt of the lozd gaue you on the other syde Jozdan.

*num. xxxii. f

But in any wise take exceding good heade that ye do the cōmaundemēt & law which Moses ỹ seruaūt of ỹ lozd charged you: which is, that ye loue the Lozd youre God, and walcke in hys wayes and kepe hys commaundementes, and cleaue vnto him, and serue hym wythe al youre hertes and al youre soules. And so Josua blessed them and sent them awaye. And they wente vnto theyz tentes.

Vnto the one halfe of the trybe of Manasses Moses gaue possessyō in Basan: and vnto the other halfe therof gaue Josua wythe their bzethzen on thys syde Jozdan westward. And also whē Josua sent them away vnto their tentes and blessed them, he sayde vnto thē, returne wyth moch richesse vnto your tentes, and wyth very moch catel, with syluer gould, brasse, yron, and wythe raymente aboue measure, and deuide the spoyle of youre enemyes wyth your *bzethzen.

*Understād that ar: at home & cam not a warre yare.

And the chyldzē of Rubē, the chyldzen of Gad and halfe the tribe of Manasses, returned and departed from the chyldzen of Israel out of Silch which is in the lād de of Canaan, to go vnto the contreys of Galaad, & to the land of their possessyon, wherin they were possessed at ỹ mouth of the Lozde by the hande of Moses. And when they came vnto the costes of Jozdā that lye in ỹ land of Canaan: ther the chil dzen of Ruben, the chyldzen of Gad and ỹ halfe trybe of Manasses, bylt an altare fast by Jozdan & that a great altare to se to. And when the childzē of Israell hearde say: behold the chyldzen of Ruben, the childzē of Gad & the halfe tribe of Manasses haue bylt an altare in the forefrount of ỹ land of Canaā in the bozders of Jozdan on the syde of the childzē of Israel: ỹ hole congregacyon of the chyldzen of Israell gathered them to gether to Siloh, to go vpon them wyth batel. And the childzē of Israel set vnto the childzen of Ruben, to the childzen of Gad and to the halfe tribe of Manasses into ỹ lād of Galaad, Phinches the sonne of Eleazār the preast, and with him x lozdes of eucry eheke howse a lozd thozow out all the trybes of Israell, which heades of their fathers housholdes were ouer ỹ thousādes of Israel. And thei wēt vnto the childzē of Rubē, of Gād & to the half tribe of Manasses, vnto the land of Galaad and spake with them sayinge.

Thus say the hole congregacion of the Lozde: what transgression is this that ye haue trangressed against the God of Israel, to turne away this day from after ỹ Lozde and to bylde you an altare foz to rebelle this day against the lozd, Is thetz wicked deade of Peoz to litle foz vs, wher of we ar not cleansed vnto this day, & ther was a plage in the congregacyon of thee Lozde: But that ye also shoulde turne awaye thys daye from folowyng the lozd: ye shall rebelle to daye agaynst the Lozd, and to mozow he shall be wroth wyth all the congregacyon. Not withstandynge yf the land of youre possessyon be vncleane, then come ouer vnto the lāde of the possessiō of the Lozd, wher the lozdes tabernacle dwelleth, & be possessed amōg vs. But rebel not against the Lozde noz agaynste vs, to bupld you any other aulter saue ỹ aulter of the lozd our God. Dyd not Acā the sonne of Zareth trespase in the excommunicate thinges, and wrath fel on al the congregacion of Israel, so ỹ he alone perysshed not foz his wyckednesse.

Then the childzen of Ruben & of Gad, and halfe the trybe of Manasses answered and sayde vnto the heades ouer the thousandes of Israel: The myghty God Jehouah he knowethe, and Israell shall knowe yf it be to rebelle or transgresse agaynst the Lorde, then the Lord saue vs not thys daye. Or elles yf we haue bylte vs an aulter to turne from folowing the Lorde, or to offer theron burnte offrynge or meateoffringes, or to offer peace offrinｇes thereon: let the Lorde requyre it: And haue not rather done it for feare of thys: leaste in tyme to come your chyldren shulde saye vnto oures: what haue ye to do with the Lord god of Israel, seynge: ye Lord hath made Jordā a border betwene vs & you ye childrē of Rubē & of Gad: ye haue no parte therfore in the lord: and so shal your childrē make oure childrē cease from fearinge the lorde.

And therfore we said: Let vs cause an aulter to be made, not for burntoffriges, nor sacrifices, but it shalbe a wytnesse betwene vs & you and our generacyons after vs, that we should serue the Lord, with our offeringes, sacrifyces and peaceoffe-rynges: and that your chyldren should not saye to oures in tyme to come, ye haue no parte in the Lorde.

And we thought yf they should so say to vs or to our generacyōs in tyme to come, ye we wold say agayne: Behold the facyō of the aulter which our fathers made, nether for burntoffriges nor sacrifices, but that it shulde be a wytnesse betwene vs & you. God forbydde that we should rebel a gainst the lord & that we shuld turne this day frō after him, and byld an aulter for burntofferinges or sacrifyces, saue ye al-tare of the Lord, oure God that is before hys tabernacle.

And when Phinehes the preast & the Lordes of the congregatiō & heades ouer ye thousandes of Israel which were wyth him, hearde the wordes that the childrē of Ruben, the chyldren of Gad & the chyldrē of Manasses spake, they were wel cōtēte. And Phinehes ye sone of Eleazar ye preast sayd vnto the chyldrē of Ruben, of Gad & of Manasses, this daye we perceaue ye the Lorde is amonge vs, because ye haue not done this trespase agaynst the Lord. And now ye haue ridde ye childrē of Israel out of the handes of the Lorde.

And Phinehes the sone of Eleazar ye preast and the lordes returned frō ye chil-dren of Ruben & of Gad oute of the land of Galaad vnto the land of Canaan, to ye chyldren of Israel, & brought them word agayne. And the answere pleased the chyl-dre of Israel wel, and they praysed God, and dyd not entend to go against them in batell, to destroy the land whiche the chyl-dren of Rubē & Gad dwelt in. And ye chyl dre of Ruben & the chyldre of Gad called the aulter * Ed, because it is a wittnesse be twene vs, that the Lorde is God.

* After the Hebr. The cōmō tradi. our witnes ye the Lord is God.

But I toke youre father Abrahā from the other syde of thee floude, & brought him into the land of Ca naan, and multiplied his sede, & gaue him Isaac. And I gaue vnto Isaac Jacob & Esau. And I gaue vnto Esau mōt Seir to possesse it. But Jacob & his childrē wēt downe into Egipt.

* Thē I sent Moses and Aarō. And I Exo. viij. &c * plaged Egipt, after the maner as I dyd * Exo. viij. viij. &c. x. &. among thē, and after that I brought you oute & I brought your fathers out of E-gipt. And ye came vnto the see: & the Egip tians folowed after youre fathers wythe charettes & horsmē, vnto the redd see. And they cryed vnto the Lord. And he put dar-kenesse betwene you & the Egiptians and brought the see vpō thē & couered thē. And your eyes haue sene what I haue done in Egipt. And ye dwelte in the wyldernesse a long ceason. And I brought you into the land of ye Amorites which dwelt on the o-ther syde Jordan. And they fought wyth you: & I gaue thē into your handes. And ye cōquered theyr contrey. And I destroy-ed them in your syghte.

And I sent * thornettes before you & ye C cast out before you: euē the two kinges of the Amorites: but not ✝ your own swerd or with your owne bowe. And I gaue you a land in which ye dyd no labour, & cyties whych you bylt not, & ye dwelt in thē. And vynes, & Oliuetrees which ye planted not and ye ate of them.

And now feare the Lord and serue hym in pureneſſe and truth: And put away the Goddes which your fathers serued on the other syde of the floud, & in Egypt, & serue the Lord. But yf it seme euel vnto you to serue the Lord, then chose you thys daye, whom

whō you wyll serue whether the Goddes which youre fathers serued ꝑ were on the other syde of the floude, ether the Goddes of the Amorites in whose land, ye dwelt, & I and my house wyl serue the Lorde.

And the people answered & sayde, God forbid that we shulde forsake the Lord & serue straūge Goddes. For the Lord oure God he it is ꝑ brought vs & oure fathers out of the land of Egipt, the house of bondage, & whych dyd those myracles in oure syght, and preserued vs in al the waye we went & amonge all the nacyons whych we came thorow. And the lord dyd cast out before vs al the nacions with the Amorites which dwelt in the land, wherfore we wyl serue the Lorde for he is oure God.

But Josua sayd vnto the people, ye cā not serue the Lord: for he is an holy god & cannot beare your transgressiō and synne But whē ye haue forsaken the Lord and haue serued straūge Goddes, he wyll turne and doo you euell & consume you, after that he hath done you good. And ꝑ people answered Josua: naye, but we wyll serue the Lorde.

Thē Josua sayd vnto the folke, ye are wytnesses vnto your selues, ꝑ ye haue chosen you the Lord, to serue him: & they said we are witnesses. Then putt awaye, sayde he, the straūge Goddes whych are among you, & bowe your hertes vnto the lord god of Israel. And the people answered Josua the Lord our God we wil serue & his voyce we wyl obeye. And so Josua made a couenaūt wō the people the same day, & set ordinaūces & lawes before thē in Sichem.

After Josua was dead. Juda was cōstituted Lord ouer the armye whē Jerusalē was besieged. The people that were not destroyed became tributaries.

The. I. Chapter

After the death of Josua thee chyldren of Israel asked thee Lord sayinge: Who shall go vp fyrst vnto the Cananites to fight agaynst thē? And the Lord sayde: * Juda shall go vp: behold I haue delyuered the land into hys handes. Then Juda sayd vnto * Simeō hys brother: come wyth me into my lotte, & let vs fyght agaynst the Cananites: And I lyke wyse wyll go wyth the into thy lotte. And so Simeon went wyth hym.

Vnderstād here no one particular tribe, but the whole tryb of Juda. * Simeon for the tryb of Symeon.

And Juda went vp, and the Lord delyuered the Cananites and Pherezites into theyr handes. And they slewe of thē in Bezek ten thousand mē. And they found at Adonibezek in Bezek. And they foughte agaynst him, & slewe the Cananites & Pherezites. But Adonibezek fled, & they followed after him, & caught him, & cutt of hys thombes & hys great toes. Then Adonibezek sayde: thye skore & ten kinges hauing theyr thombes & great toes cut of, gathered theyr meat vnder my table: ꝑ wherfore as I haue done so god hath done to me agayne. And they brought hym to Jerusalem, and there he dyed.

The chyldrē of Juda fought agaynst Jerusalē & toke it, & smote it with the edge of the swerde, & set the citie on fyre. And after that the chyldren of Juda went euē to fyght agaynst the Cananites that dwelte in the mountayne, in the south, & in ꝑ lowe contreye. And Juda went vnto the Cananites that dwelt in Hebron, whyche before tyme was called Kariath Arbe. And slewe Sesai, Ahiman and Thalmai. And from thence they went to the inhabiters of Dabir, whose name in olde tyme was called Kariathsepher.

And Caleb sayd: he that smyteth Kariathsepher, & taketh it, to hym wyll I geue Achsah my daughter to wife. And Othoniel the sonne of Kenez Calebs younger brother toke it: to whome he gaue Achsah hys daughter to wyfe, & as they went she counceled him to aske of her father a feld. And thē she * lighted of her asse: & Caleb sayde vnto her: What ayleth the? She sayd vnto him: geue me a blessing: for ꝑ hast geuē me a southwarde & drye land, geue me also springes of water. And Caleb gaue her springes both aboue & beneth. And ꝑ chyldren of the Kenite Moyses father in lawe wēt vp out of ꝑ citie of paulmetrees, with the chyldrē of Juda into thee wyldernesse of Juda that lyeth in the South of Arad and dwelt amonge the people.

And Juda wēt & Simeō wō him, & they slew the Cananites ꝑ enhabited Zephath, & vtterly destroyed it, & called the name of the citie Hormah. And Juda toke Azah wō the costes therof, & Askalō wyth the costes therof, & Akaron wyth the costes therof. And the Lord was with Juda that he conquered ꝑ mountaynes, but they could not dryue oute the enhabiters of the valeyes, because they had charettes of yron. And they gaue Hebron vnto Caleb as Moyses sayde. And he expelled thence the thre sonnes of ꝑ Enack.

And the chyldren of Ben Jamin dydde not cast out the Jebusites that enhabited Jerusalem, but the Jebusites dwell wyth the chyldren of Ben Jamin in Jerusalem vnto thys daye.

And in like maner the house of Joseph went vp to Bethel & the Lord with them, & the house of Joseph serched out Bethel which before tyme was called Lus. And the spies sawe a man come out of the cytie and they sayd vnto him shewe vs the way into the cytie. And we wyll shewe the mercy. And he shewed thē the waye into the cytie, and they smote it wyth the edge of the swerde, but let the man & al hys household goo free. And the man went into the lande of the Hethites, & bylte a cytie & called the name therof Lus whych is the name therof vnto thys daye.

Nether dyd Manasses expelle Bethsean with her townes, nether Thaanach wō her townes, nether ꝑ enhabitours of Dor with her townes, nether ꝑ enhabitours of Jeblaam wyth her townes, nether the enhabitours of Magedo wyth her townes, and so the Cananites wente to and dwelt in the sayd land. But as soone as Israell was waxed myghty, they put the Canani tes to trybute: But expelled them not.

In lyke maner Ephzaim expelled not ỹ Cananites ỹ dwelte in Gazer, but the Ca- nanites dwelt styl in Gazer among them.

Nether dyd Zabulō expelle the enhabi- tours of Ketrō, nether the enhabitours of Nahalol: But the Cananites dwelt amōg them and became trybutaries.

G Nether dyd Aser cast out ỹ enhabitou- res of Acho, nether the enhabitours of Z i don, of Ahalab, Aczib, Halbah, Aphek, nor of Rohob, but the Aserites dwelt amonge the Cananites the enhabitours of the lād and dzaue them not out.

Nether dyd Nephthalim dzyue out the enhabitours of Bethsames, nor the enha- bitours of Bethanath, but dwelt amōgest the Cananites the enhabitours of ỹ lande Neuertheless the enhabitours of Bethsa mes, & of Bethanath be caine trybutaries vnto them.

And the Amozites kepte the chyldzē of Dan in the mountaynes, & suffered them not to come downe to the valeyes. And so the Amozites went to & dwelled in mount Heres in Hailon & in Salabim. Neuerthe later the hand of Joseph waxed heuy vpō thē, so that they be caine trybutaries. And the coostes of the Amozites was from the goynge vp to Acrabim, and frō the rocke vp ward.

The.ii. Chapter

AND the angel of the Lord ca me vp frō Galgal to Bocim & sayd: I brought you out of Egypt & haue broughte you vnto the lande whych I swa re vnto your fathers. And I sayde that I wolde neuer breake myne appoyntmente wyth you, but ye shulde haue made no co- uenaūt with the enhabitours of this land ye shuld haue broken downe theyr alters: But ye haue not obeyed my voyce, why haue ye thys done? wherfoze I haue lyke- wyse determyned that I wyl not caste thē out before you: a but they shalbe in the sy des of you, and theyr Goddes shalbe snā- res vnto you. And when the angell of the Lozde had spoken these wozdes vnto all the chyldzen of Israell, thee people cryed oute & wepte. And called the name of thee sayde place, Bocim and offered ther vnto the Lozde.

And whē Josua had sent the people a- waye, the childzē of Israel went euery mā into hys enheritaunce to possesse the land. And the people serued ỹ lozd al the dayes of Josua, and al the dayes of the elders ỹ out lyued Josua, and had sene al the great wozkes of the Lozd that he dyd to Israel And Josua the sonne of Nun the seruaūt of thee Lozde dyed when he was an hun- dzed and ten yeares olde: whom they bu- ryed in the costes of hys enheritaunce: eue in Thamnath hares in mounte Ephzaim on the nozth syde of the hyll Gaas. And euen so all that generation were put vnto theyr fathers, and there arose another ge- neration after them whych neyther knewe the Lozd, nor yet the wozkes which he dyd vnto Israell.

And then the chyldzē of Israel dyd wic kedly in the syght of the Lozd, and serued Baalim, & b‡ forsoke the lozd god of theyr fathers, which brought thē out of the lāde of Egypte, & folowed straunge Goddes, eue of the Goddes of the nacions that we re rounde about them, and bowed them selues vnto them, and angred the Lozde. And so they forsoke the Lozde and serued c‡ Baal & Astharoth. Wherfoze the Lozd C waxed angrye wyth Israell, & delyuered thē into the handes of raueners to spoyle thē & solde thē into the hādes of theyr ene mies round about thē, so that they had no powe powet any longer to stande before their e- nemies. But vnto whatsoeuer thing they went, the hand of the Lozd was vpon thē with euel lucke, eue as the Lozd promised them, and as he sware vnto thē. And they were sore vexed.

Neuertheles ỹ lozd rayled vp Judges, which delyuered thē out of the hāndes of theyr oppzessers, & yet foz al ỹ they wolde not herke vnto their Judges: But wēte a whozinge after straūge Goddes & bowed thē selues vnto thē, and tourned quickly out of ỹ way which theyr fathers walked in obeying the cōmaūdemētes of the lozd, and dyd not so.

And whē the Lozd rayled thē vp Jud- ges, he was wyth the Judge, & deliuered thē oute of the hādes of theyr enemies all the dayes of the Judge: foz ỹ Lozd had cō passyō ouer theyr sozowinges whych they had by the reason of thē that oppzessed thē & vexed them: yet foz all that as sone as ỹ D iudge was dead they turned & dyd wozsse then theyr fathers in folowinge straunge goddes, & in seruing them, and ceased not frō theyr inuentions nor from theyr malti- cyouse wayes. E

Wherfoze the lozd was angrye vō Is- rael & sayd: because this people hath trās- gressed mine appoyntmēt which I cōmaū ded theyr fathers & haue not obeyed my voyce, therfoze hencefozth I wyll not cast out one mā before thē of the nacōs which Josua lefte when he dyed, & that to proue Israel through thē whether they wil kepe the waye of the Lozde to walke therein as theyr fathers dyd oz not. And so the Lozd lefte those nacions alone, & dzoue thē not out immediatlye, neyther delyuered thē in to the handes of Josua.

THese ar the nacōs whych thē Lozd left to tēpt Israel: euen A as many of Israel as hadde not knowē al ỹ warres of Ca naā: Only foz ỹ lerning of ỹ generatiō of the chyldzē of Israel: whych before knew nothing of warre he left ỹ. v. And as the childzē of Israell dwelt a- mong the Cananites, Hethites, Amozites Pherezites, Heuites, and Jebusytes, they toke the doughters of them to be theyr wy ues, & gaue their owne daughters to their sonnes, & serued theyr Goddes. And so ỹ childzen of Israel dyd wickedly in ỹ sight of the Lozd & forgat the Lozd theyr God and serued Baalim & Aseroth. And thē the chyldzē of Israell went to agayne, & cōmitted wickednesse in the sight of the Lozd. And then the Lozde hardened Eglō the king of ỹ Moabites, agaynst the childzē of Israel, because they had cōmitted wickednesse before the lozd. And this Eglon gethered vnto him ỹ chil dzen of Ammon, and the Amalekites, and went and smote the childzē of Israel, and conquered the cytte of Paulmetrees. And the chyldzen of Israel serued Eglon thee king of the Moabites, xviii. yeares. And then they cryed vnto the lord. And the lorde sterred them vp a sauer, Ahud the sone of Gera, the sonne of Jemini, a man that coulde do nothinge handsomlye wyth his eyght hande.

then

By whom the chyldren of Israel sent a
C present vnto Eglon the king of the Moabites whych Ahud made him a dagger w two edges, of a cubite lengthe, and he dyd gyrde it vnder hys cote vppon hys ryghte thyghe and caryed the present vnto Eglō the kyng of the Moabytes, whych Eglō was a very fat man. And when he had presented the present, he sente the people that bare it awaye, but he hym selfe turned agayne frō the Idols by a Galgal, & sayd I haue a secret vnto the O king: and the king commaūded hym to holde his peace vntyl al that stode about hym, were gone out from hym.

And Ahud came in vnto him into a somer parler, which he had seuerall vnto him selfe alone, and sayd: I haue a b message vnto the frō God. And he arose out of his seate. And Ahud put forth hys lyfte hand and toke the dagger frō hys right thyghe and thrust it into hys belye, so that ꝑ hafte went in after the blade. And the hafte stopped in the fatte, for he drue not the dagger out of hys belye. And the dyrt came oute.
D But Ahud gat him out at a posterne doze and shutte the dozes of thee parler vppon hym and locked them.

When he was gone out, his seruaūtes came and loked. And behold, the dozes of the parler were locked. And they sayde, A, he is a doynge of hys easement in his somer chamber. And when they had tarryed tyl they were a shamed, for no man dydde the dozes of the parler open: thē they toke a keye & opened them. And beholde theyr Lorde was fallen downe dead vnto thee earth. But Ahud eskaped whyle they taryed and was gone beyonde the Idolles & eskaped into Setrath.

And whē he was come he blew a trom pet in mount Ephraim. And the chyldren of Israel went downe wyth him of ꝑ hyll & he before thē. And he sayde vnto thē, folowe me: for the Lord hath delluered your enemies, the Moabites into your handes And they descēded after him and toke the
Or ferryes *passages of Jordan frō the Moabites, and suffred not a man to passe ouer. And they slew of the Moabites, the same tyme vpon a ten thousand men, al fatt, and mē of might: that ther skaped not a man, and so the Moabites were subdued that daye vnder the handes of Israell: and the land had rest. lxxx. yeares.

And after him came Samgar the sōne of Anath, whych slewe of the Philistines vi. hundred men wyth an oxe gode, & delyuered Israel also.

C Israel is committed into the hādes of Jabin, because they were returned to Idolatrie: Debora and Barak delyuer them. Sisara is kylled of Jael.

The. iiii. Chapter

AND the chyldrē of Israel began agayne to do wyckedlye A in the syght of the Lord, whē Ahud was dead. And ꝑ lord *solde thē into the handes of Jabin king of Canaan, ꝑ raygned in Hazar, whose captayne of warre was Sisara which dwelt in Haroseth of the gentyles. And the chyldrē of Israell cryed vnto the Lord: for he had nyne hundred charettes of yron, he oppressed the chyldren of Israell wyth power. xx. yeares. That is, round about.

And Debora a Prophetisse, ꝑ wyfe of Lapidoth iudged Israel the same tyme, & dwelt vnder the paulmetre of Debora, betwene Ramath and Bethel, in mounte Ephraim.

And the chyldren of Israel came to her for iudgemēt. And she sente & called Barak the sonne of Abinoam, oute of Kedes Nephthalim, and sayd vnto hym.

The Lord god of Israel cōmaundeth the, that thou go & drawe to mount Thabor, and take wyth the. x. thousande men, of the chyldren of Nephthalim and of the chyldren of Zabulon. And I wyll bryngе vnto the ryuer Kison Sisara, the Captayne of warre vnto Jabin, wyth hys charettes, and his people, and wyll delyuer them into

B them into thyne handes. And Barak said vnto her, yf thou wylt go with me, I will go: But and yf thou wilt not go with me, then I will not goo. And she answered, I wyll suerlye go wyth the, but thē the prayse shall not be thyne, in the waye whyche thou goest, for ꝑ Lord shall delluer Sisara into the handes of a womā. And she arose and went with Barak to Kedes. And Barak called Zabulō and Nephthalim to Kedes. And he wente vp a foote withe ten thousande men: and Debora wente wythe hym.

But Haber ꝑ kenite was remoued out
Of Hobab Numeri. x. of Kin, whych was of the chyldrē of* Hobab the father in lawe of Moses, and pyght his tēt vntill he was come to ꝑ Oke of Zaanaim, by Kedes.

And then it was shewed vnto Sisara how ꝑ Barak the sonne of Abinoam was gone vp to mount Thabor. And Sisara called for all hys charettes, euen. ix. hundred charettes of yron, and for all the people that he had, from Haroseth of the gentyles vnto the ryuer of Kison. Thē sayde Debora vnto Barak: vp, for thys is the daye in whych the Lorde hathe delyuered
C Sisara in to thyne handes: for the Lord is gone oute before the. And so Barak wente downe from mounte Thabor, and ten thousande men after hym.

But the Lorde trouned Sisara and al hys charettes and al hys host wyth the edge of ꝑ swerde before Barak. And Sisara lighted doune of hys charett & fled a fote. But Barak folowed after ꝑ charettes & after the host, euen vnto Haroseth of the gentiles. And al the host of Sisara fel vpon the edge of the swerde, that there was not a man leafte. Howbeit Sisara fled a fote to the tent of Jaell the wyfe of Haber the kenite: for there was peace betwene Jabin the kyng of Hazor, & the houshold of Haber the kenite.

And Jael went out agaynst Sisara & sayde vnto hym: turne in my Lord, turne into me: & feare not. And he turned into her into her tēt: & she couered him wyth a mātel. And he said vnto her, geue me a litel water to drincke, for I am thirsty. And
D she opened a bottel of mylke & gaue hym dryncke and couered hym. And he sayde vnto her, stand in the doze of thy tent, & yf any mā come & aske the, or enquere of the whether there be any man here, saye nay.

Then Jael Habers wyfe toke a nayle of the tent, & an hamer in her hand, & went softly vnto hym, & smote ꝑ nayle thorowe ꝑ tēples of his head in to the grouīd, as he slombered beyng wery: And so he dyed.

And beholde as Barak folowed after Sisara, Jael came oute against hym, and sayde vnto hym: come and I wil shew the the mā whom thou seekest. And when he came into her tent: Beholde, Sisara laye dead & the nayle thorowe his tēples. And so God brought Jabin the kyng of Canaā into subiectyon that daye, before the chyldren of Israel. And the hande of the chyldren of Israel prospered & was sore vpon Jabin the kyng of Canaan, vntyll they had brought hym to naught.

why tarye ye wheles of his waggās? The wyselt of her ladies āswered her: yea & she answered her owne wordes her self, haply
they haue found, and deuyde the spoyle: A maydē, ye two maydes for a pece: a spoyle of diuerse colours for Sisara, a spoyle of dyuerse colources wyth brodered workes, diuerse coloured brodered workes for the necke for a praye. So perishe al thine ene mies Lord: but they that loue the, let them be as the sunne ryssynge in hys myghte.

And the land had rest fourtie yeres.

The Notes.

*¶ Some reade because he hath aūged the ben geaunce done to Israel, the people offering thē selues Willingly, prayse ye the Lorde.

a¶ The meaning is, ye Sisara had done so great iniuries vnto the Israelites, ye the wayes were not occupyed: that neither husbādmā nor Cītesē might safely passe to exercyse marchaundyse or other ihin
ge, nor wayfaring man tourneye, nor plowman tyll
the feldes. Whosoeuer dyd once prepe out of hys Cytie towne or village, was streyghtway snatched vp of the theues that belonged to Sisara.

b¶ The pryde of these Rubenites is here noted,
because they refused to go wyth Debora to ouercō
me the oppressour of Israel.

c¶ By these wordes signifieth Debora that the Kynges hostes of the Cananites came to Thanach and Magedo thinking verely, because of the multitude of the hoste, that they came not to fyght but to take a praye, but they were sore deceaued, for it so chaunced that they were rather a praye to Israel, than Israel to them.

am ye lorde your God, & therfore feare not the goddes of the Amorites in whose lāde you dwell. But you haue not obeyed my voyce. And the angel of the Lorde came & sate vnder an Oke in Ephrath, ye pertayned vnto Joas the father of the Esrrites.
And hys sonne Gedeon presed out where out of ye eares in a presse, for to flee frō the Madianites. And the angel of the lord ap peared vnto him & sayd: the lord is wt the,
thou mā of might, And Gedeō answered
him: Oh my Lord, yf the lord be with vs, why is al this come vpō vs: ye & where be his miracles which our fathers told vs of & said, the Lord brought vs out of Egipt
But now the lord hath forsakē vs, & dely
uered vs into the hādes of the Madianites.
And ye lord loked vpō him & sayd: Go
hence in this thy myght & delyuer Israell out of the hādes of the Madianites: Behold I haue sent the: And he āswered him Oh lord wher wt shuld I saue Israel: Be hold my kynred is the poorest in Manasses, & I am the least in my fathers house.
But then the Lord sayd vnto him: I will be with the: & thou shalt smyte the Madianites, as thei were but one mā. And he an swered him, yf I haue found grace in thy syght, thē shewe me a synge, ye thou art the Lord ye talked with me. Departe not hēce until I come agayne vnto the & bring my ne offring, & haue set it before the.

And he sayd I wyll tarye vntyll thou come agayn. And Gedeō went & made re-dye a kyd, and swete cakes of an Epha of flowre, & put the flesche in a basket and the broth in a pot, & brought it out vnto hym vnder the Oke & presented it. And the angel of God sayd vnto hym: take the flesche

& the swete kakes & put thē upō this rock & powre out the broth. And he did so. Thē the angel of the lord put forth the ende of the staffe that was in hys hand & touched the flesche & the kakes. And there arose vp fyre out of the rocke & consumed the flesche and the kakes. And the angel of the Lord vanished out of his sight. And whē Gede on perceaued ye it was an Angel, he sayde:
Alas my Lord Jehouah, that I haue sene an angel of the Lord face to face. And the Lord sayd vnto hym, peace be wyth the & feare not, for thou shalt not dye. Thē Gedeon made an altare ther vnto the Lord & called it* Jehouah Salom, whyche vnto
thys daye is yet in Ephrath ye perteyneth vnto the father of ye Esrrites. And ye same night the Lord said vnto him, take an ore
of thy fathers & another of. vii. yeres old, & destroy the altare of Baal that belōgeth
vnto thy father, & cutt downe the groue ye is about it, & make an altare vnto the lord thy god vpō the toppe of this rocke & fur nesshe it. And take the second ore and offer burntsacrifice wyth the wood of the gro-ue which thou shalt haue cut downe. Thē Gedeon toke ten men of his seruauntes & dyd as the Lord bad him. But because he durst not do it by daye for feare of hys fa thers housholde & of the men of the cytye,
he dyd it by nyght.

*That is, ye Lord, or peace.

When the mē of the cytie were vp early in the morning: Behold the aultar of Ba-al was brokē, & the groue that stode about it cut downe. And the secōd ore offred vpō the altare that was made. And they sayde
one to another, who hath done this thinge, & they enquered & asked. And it was tolde thē that Gedeō the sōne of Joas had done
it. Thē the men of the cytie sayd vnto Jo-as, bring oute thy sonne ye he may dye, because he hath brokē the aultes of Baall, & cut downe the groue ye was about it. And Joas sayd vnto al ye stode by hym, wyl ye sight for Baal, or wil ye be his defēders:
he ye striueth for him shal dye this morn
nge. Yf he be a God let him striue with him that cast downe his aultare. And he called Gedeon Jerobaal the same tyme sayinge:
let Baal stryue wyth him because he hath broken downe hys aultare.

The. viii. Chapter.

A Then Jerobaal otherwyse cal led Gedeon rose erlye & al the people that were with hym, & pitched beside the wel of Ha rad, so that the hoste of ꝑ Ma dianites were in a valey on the northside of the hyl Hamoreh. And the lord sayd vn to Gedeon, the people ꝑ are wyth the ar to many for me to geue ꝑ Madianites into theyr hãdes, lest Israel make their vaunte to my dishonour & say, our owne hãd hath saued vs. Now therfore make a proclama

B And the Lord sayde vnto Gedeon: the people are yet to many, bring them downe vnto the water, & I wyll trye thẽ vnto the there. And of whom I saye vnto the, thys shall go wyth thẽ, the same shal goo wyth the. And whosoeuer I saye vnto the, thys shall not go with the, the same shal not go And whẽ he had brought downe the people vnto the water. The Lord sayde vnto Gedeõ: as many as lappe the water wyth theyr tonges, as dogges do, thẽ put by thẽ selues, & so do thẽ that kncle downe vpon theyr knees to drynke. And the nomber of thẽ that put theyr hãdes to theyr mouthes and lapped, were. iii. hundred men. And al the remnaunt of the people kneled downe vpõ theyr knees to drynke water. And the Lord sayd vnto Gedeon, wyth the. iii. hun dred men that lapped wyl I saue you, and delyuer the Madianites into thyne hand, And al the other people shal go everyman vnto hys owne whome.

And they toke vitayles with thẽ for the folke, & their trõpettes. And he sente al the C

And the same nyght the Lorde sayde vnto hym, vp & go downe vnto the hoste, for I haue delyuered it into thyne hande. But & yf thou feare to go downe, then go thou downe vnto the hoste, & Pharah thy ladde, & herke what they saye, & so shal thy ne handes be strong, & then thou shalte go downe vnto the hoste.

Thẽ he wẽt downe wt Pharah his lad, euẽ hard vnto the men of armes that were in the hoste. And the Madianites, the Amalekites, & al they of the East, lay a long in ꝑ valeye, lyke vnto grashoppers in mul titude, & theyr camelles were without nõbre, euẽ as the sand by the see syde in mul titude. And when Gedeon was come: Beholde, there was a man that told a dreame vnto hys felowe & sayd: Behold I dream de a dreame & me thoughte that a broyled D loofe of barleybread tõbled into the hoste of Madian, & came vnto a tent & smote it that it fel, & ouerturned it, that the tent lay a longe. And his felowe answered & sayd: this is nothing els saue the sword of Gedeon the sonne of Joas a man of Israell, into whose hand the Lord hath delyuered Madian & all the hoste.

Whẽ Gedeon hearde the telling of the dreame & the interpretation of the same, he bowed him selfe to the earth and returned vnto

E vnto the hoste of Israel, and sayd: vp for the Lord hath delyuered into your hãdes the host of the Madianites. And he deuy-ded the thre hundred mẽ into thre compa-nies and gaue euery mã a trõpet into hys hand, wt an emptie pitcher & lampes ther-in, and sayde vnto them loke on me & do likewyse: and behold, when I come to the syde of the host, euen as I do, so do you. And when I blow with a trompet and al that are with me, blowe ye wt trompettes also on euery syde the hoste and saye, here be the Lorde and Gedeon.

And so Gedeon & the thre hundred mẽ ꝑ were with him, came vnto the side of the host in the begynning of ꝑ middel watch, and reysed vp the watche men. And they
F blew with their trõpettes & brake the pyt-chers ꝑ were in their hãdes. And al thre cõ panyes blewe with trompettes & brake ꝑ pitchers, & helde ꝑ lãpes in their lefte hã-des, & ꝑ trompettes in their right, to blow with all. And they cryed the swerde of the Lord & of Gedeõ. And they stode stille, e-uery mã in his place round about ꝑ host. And al the hoste ranne & cryed and fled. And as the thre hundreth blew with trõ-pettes, ꝑ lord sett euery mãnes sword vp-on his neyghboure, thorow out all ꝑ host. And ꝑ host fled vntil they came to Beth-sitah, to Zercrath, & to the edge of Abel-meholah beside Thabah. And the men of G Israel geathered together of the tribe of Nephthalim, of Aser, & of al Manasses, & folowed after the Madianites. For Gede on had sẽt messẽgers thorow out al mõt Ephraim sayinge: come downe agaynst the Madianites and take from thẽ ꝑ wa-ters both of Bethbarath and also of Jor-dan. Then all the men of Ephraim gea-thered to gether and came downe & toke the waters both of Bethbarath and also of Jordan. And they toke two captaynes of the Madianaites, Oreb & Zeb, & slew Oreb vpon the rocke Oreb, and Zeb at the presse Zeb and folowed after Madi-an. And brought the heades of Oreb and Zeb to Gedeon on the otherside Jordan.

¶ Ephraim maketh insurrectiõ against Gedeõ, but is sone pacifyed. The inhabiters of Socoth refuse to geue Gedeon & his armie breed. The towre Phe-nuel is destroied. Gedeon is cõstitute rular ouer the Israelites. He hath. lxx. sonnes. He dyeth.

The. viii. Chapter.

AND the mẽ of Ephraim sayd A vnto him. Why hast thou ser ued vs thus, ꝑ thou calledst vs not, when thou wẽtest to fight wt ꝑ Madianites. And they chode with him a good. And he sayd vnto them: What deade haue I done like vnto yours: ar not ꝑ* clusters of Ephra-im better then the wyne heruestе of Abie-zer? God hath deliuered into your handes the Lordes of Madian, Oreb and Zeb. And what was I able tõ do lyke as you haue done. And then their spirites abated trõ of him, whẽ he had sayd that. And thẽ Gedeõ came to Jordã & passed ouer, both he and the thre hundred men that were wt him, very fayntе & yet folowed the chase. And he said vnto the mẽ of Socoth: geue I pray you kakes of breed vnto ꝑ people B ꝑ folow me: for they be fainty, that I may folowe after Zebah and Zalmona kin-ges of Madian. And the Lordes of So-coth saide: are the handes of Zebah and Zalmona nowe in thyne handes that we shuld gyue breed vnto thy company. And Gedeon sayde, therefore when the Lorde hath delyuered Zebah & Zalmona into myne hande, I wyll teare the flesh of you with the thornes of the wildernes & wyth breers. And he went thence to Phanuel, & spake vnto them lykewyse. And the men C of Phanuel answered him, as dyd the mẽ of Socoth. And he sayd also vnto the mẽ of Phanuel, when I come againe in peace, I wil breake doune this towre. Zebah & Zalmona were in Arker & their hostes with thẽ, vpõ a. xv. thousand, which were al that were lefte of all the hostes of them of the Easte. And they that were slayne were a hundred and twentie thousand mẽ that drewe swerdes.

And Gedeon went thorow them ꝑ dwel in tabernacles on the eastside of Nobah & Jebahah, & smote the host: for the host did cast no perrelles. Zebah & Zolmona fled But he folowed after them, & toke ꝑ two Kynges of thee Madianites, Zebah and Zalna and discomforted all the hooste.

And Gedeon the sonne of Joas retur-ned from battell, the sõne beying yet vp, & D caught a ladd of the mẽ of Socoth, & en-quered of him. And he wrote him of the Lordes & Elders of Socoth. lxxvii. men.

Then he came vnto the men of Socoth & sayd: Behold Zebah & Zalmona, vp whyche ye cast me in the teth saying: are the hãdes of Zebah & Zalmona al ready in thyne hande, that we shulde gyue bread vnto thy fayntie men. And he toke the elders of the cytie, & thornes of the wyldernesse and breers, & al to teare them therwith. And he brake downe thee towre of Phanuell and slewe the men of the cytie.

And then sayd vnto Zebah and Zalmona, what maner men were they whyche ye slew at Thabor? & they answered, the lyknesse of the & thẽ is all one, euẽ after the facyon of the chyldren of a kynge. And he sayd, they were my brethren, euen my mothers chyldren, & as truely as the Lord lyueth, yf ye had saued theyr lyues, I wolde not slaye you. And he said vnto Jether his eldest sonne, vp & slee thẽ: But the lad drue not hys swerde, for he feared, because he was yet young. Then Zebah & zalmona sayd. Ryse thou & fall vpõ vs, for as the mã is so is his strength. And Gedeõ arose & slewe them: & he toke away the Chaynes that were on theyr camels neckes.

Thẽ ỹ men of Jsrael sayd vnto Gedeõ Raygne ouer vs, bothe ỹ, thy sonne & thy sonnes sonne, for ỹ hast delyuered vs out of ỹ hãdes of ỹ Madianites. And Gedeõ sayd vnto thẽ, I wil not raygne ouer you nether shal my chyldren raygne ouer you, but the Lord shal raygne ouer you.

Neuertheles later Gedeõ said vnto them I wold desyre a certayne request of you, euẽ that you wold geue me euery mã the earinges of his pray. For they had golde earinges, because they were Jsmaelites. And they sayd we wil doo it. And they spred a mãtel & dyd cast ther into euery mã the earinges of his pray. And the weyght of the golden earinges was a thousand & .vii. C sycles of golde, besyde brouches, ouches & garmentes of skarlette that were of thee kynges of Madian, and besyde the chaynes, that were about theyr cameles neckes. And Gedeon made an Ephod therof, and putt it in his cytie Ephzah. And al Jsrael wente a whoringe after him there, whych thynge was the ruine of Gedeons house. Thus were the Madianites brought lowe before the chyldren of Jsrael, so that they lyfte vp theyr heades no moare. And the countreye was in quietnes fourtye yeres in the dayes of Gedeon.

And Jerobaal the sonne of Joas wẽt & dwelt in his owne house. And Gedeõ had lxx. sonnes of his body begotte, for he had many wyues. And his concubine ỹ dwelte in Sichẽ bare him a sonne also, whose name he called Abimelech. And Gedeon thee sõne of Joas dyed, whẽ he was of a good age, & was buried in ỹ burial of Joas his father, euẽ in Ephzath that pertayned vnto the father of the Ezrites.

But as sone as Gedeon was dead, the chyldren of Jsrael turned away and wẽte a whoring after Baall, & made Baall beyth their god, & thought not on the Lord theyr God whych had delyuered them out of the handes of al theyr enemies on euery syde. Neyther shewed they mercye on the house of Jerobaall, otherwyse called Gedeon, accordinge to all the goodnesse whiche he shewed them.

The .lx. Chapter.

Dor Abimelech the sõne of Jerobaal went to Sichem, vnto hys mothers brethrẽ, & communed with thẽ & with al his mothers fathers kynred sayinge: say I pray you, in the eares of all the enhabitoures of Sichẽ: whether is better for you ỹ al the sonnes of Jerobaal which are .lxx. personnes raygne ouer you, ether that one raygne ouer you. And remember therto, that I am your bone & your flesche. And his mothers brethrẽ rehersed of hym in the audience of all the Cytezens of Sichem, al these wordes, & moued theyr hartes to folowe Abimelech, in that they sayd how he was theyr brother. And they gaue hym .lxx. peces of syluer out of the house of Baal Berith, wyth whyche Abimelech hyred Jebell and lyghte personnes which wente wyth hym. And when it was tolde Joatham, he went & stode in the toppe of mõt Garizim, and lyfte vp his voice & called, & said vnto them: Herken vnto me you citezens of Sichem, ỹ god may herken vnto you. The trees went to anoynt a kynge ouer them, & sayd vnto the olyue tree, raigne ouer vs. But the olyue tree sayd vnto thẽ: shuld I leaue my fattenesse which bothe God & man prayseth in me, and go to be promoted ouer ỹ trees. Thẽ said the trees to the figge tree, come ỹ and be king ouer vs. And the figge tree answered thẽ, shuld I forsake my swetnes & my good frute, & shulde go to be promoted ouer the trees. Then sayd the trees vnto the vine, come ỹ & be king ouer vs. And ỹ vine answered shuld I leaue my vine ỹ chereth both God and man, and go to be promoted ouer the trees. Then sayd al the trees vnto the * fyre bushe come thou and raygne ouer vs. And the fyre bushe sayde vnto the trees: yf it be true that ye wyll anoynte me kynge ouer you, then come and reste vnder my shadowe, and ye shal se that a fyre shall come oute of the fyre bushe & waste the Ciper trees of Libanõ.

And euen so now, yf ye haue done truly & vncorruptly to make Abimelech kig. And yf ye haue dealte well wythe Jerobaall & his house, & haue done vnto hym accordyng to the deseruing of his hãdes, for as much as my father fought for you & aduẽtured his life, And rydd you out of the hãdes of the Madianites. And ye are risen vp against my fathers house thys day. And haue slaine his childrẽ, euen .lxx. personnes * with one stone and haue made Abimelech the sõne of his mayd seruaunt kyng ouer the cytezens of Sichẽ, because he is your brother, yf then ye haue dealt purelye and trulye wythe Jerobaal and with his house this daye: then reioyce ye in Abimelech, and lett hym also reioyce in you. But yf you haue not dealt truly, then I praye God a fyre maye come out of Abimelech & consume the cytezẽs of Sichẽ & the house of Mello. And ỹ there come a fire out of the cytezens of Sichem, & out of the house of Mello & consume Abimelech. And Joatham ranne away & fledde & went to Beer & dwelt there, for feare of Abimelech his brother. When Abimelech had raigned thre yere God sẽt an hate betwene Abimelech & the cytezens of Sichẽ. And the citezens of Sichem rayled vpon Abimelech, and wisshed that the wickednes done to the .lxx. sonnes of Jerobaall might come on him & layd the bloude of thẽ vnto Abimelech their brother whyche slew thẽ, & vnto the other citezens of Sichẽ which ayded him in the kylling of his brethrẽ. And ỹ cytezens of Sichẽ set men to laye awayte for hym in the toppe of the mountaynes, whych men robbed all that came a longe the waye by them. And it was tolde Abymelech.

And Gaal the sonne of Abed & his brethrẽ went & gat them to Sichem. And ỹ men of Sichẽ put their cõfidence in him. And they went out into ỹ feldes & geathered in their grapes & troade them, & made mery: and wẽt into the house of their god, & dyd eate & dryncke & cursed Abimelech. And Gaal the sonne of Abed sayd: what is Abimelech? and what is Sichem? that we shulde serue hym, is he not the sõne of Jerobaal? and Zebul is his officer? serue soche as come of Hemor the father of Sichem, for what reasõ is it that we shuld serue him? wold God this people were vnder my hand, then I wolde take Abymelech out of the way. And one sayde vnto Abimelech, make thyne hoste greater & go out. And when Zebul ỹ ruler of ỹ cytie hard the wordes of Gaal ỹ sõne of Abed, he was wroth & sent messengers vnto Abimelech priuely saying: Behold Gaal ỹ sõne of Abed & his brethrẽ be come to Sichẽ: & behold they set ỹ cytie against ỹ. Now therfore vp by night, both ỹ & al the people ỹ is wt thee, & lye in wayte in the feldes. And rise early in the morning as sõne as the sõne is vp & come vpõ ỹ cytie. And whẽ he & ỹ people ỹ is wt him come out against ỹ, do to hi what thine hãdes shalbe able. And Abimelech rose vp, & al ỹ people ỹ were wt him, by night. And they laid awayt to the cytie in foure cõpanyes. And Gaal the sonne of Abed wẽt out & stode in the entring of the gate of the cittie. And Abimelech rose vp & the folcke ỹ were wyth hym, frõ laying awayte. And when Gaal sawe the people, he sayd to zebul: Beholde ther come people downe frõ the top of the mõntaynes. And zebul sayd vnto him, the shadowe of the hylles seme men vnto the. And Gaal answered agayne and sayde: se ther come folcke downe by the mydle of ỹ land & another cõpany come a lõge by the charmars Ocke. Then sayde zebul vnto him: where is now thy mouth that sayde, what felowe is Abimelech, that we shulde serue hym. These are the people ỹ thou so despysedest. Go out now a felowshipe & fyght with thẽ. And Gaal went out before ỹ cytizens of Sichem, & foughte w̃ Abimelech. And Abimelech chased him ỹ he fledd before him & many were ouerthrowen and slayne, euen vntyl they came vnto the entering of the gate. And then Abimelech wẽt & dwelt at Arumah. And then zebull thruste out Gaal & his brethrẽ, and wold not suffre them to dwel in Sichem.

F And on the morow the people wẽt oute in to the felde. And it was tolde Abimeleeh. And he toke his people & deuided thẽ into thre cõpanies, & lay awayte in the feldes. And whẽ he saw ỹ people were come out of ỹ citie, he rãne vpõ thẽ & laide vpõ thẽ.

And Abimelech & the cõpanyes ỹ were w̃ him, ranne & stode in the entrynge of ỹ gate of the cytie. And ỹ two other compapanies rãne vpõ al the people ỹ were in ỹ feldes and slue thẽ. And then Abimelech fought against ỹ cittie al ỹ day, & toke it, & slewe the people that was therin, & destroied the cytie & sowed sal: in ỹ place. And when al ỹ mẽ of the towre of Sichẽ hearde that, they entered into a strong hold of the house of their God Baal Berith. And whẽ it was tolde Abimelech, that all ỹ mẽ of the towre of Sichẽ were geathered together, he gat him to mount zelmon both he & al that were w̃ him, & toke axes with him & cut downe an arme of a tree, & toke it vp, & put it on his shoulder, & said vnto ỹ folcke ỹ were with him, what soeuer ye se me do: spede your selues & do likewyse. And all the people cut downe also euerye man a bowghe, and folowed Abemilech, and put them into the holde, and sett the holde a fyre vpon them: so that all the mẽ of the towre of Sichem were slayne, vpon a thousande personnes what of men & wemen to gether.

Then went Abimelech to Thebez and beseged it, & toke it. But there was a strõge towre in the myddes of the citye, and thither ranne al the men & wemen & al the cytezens of the cittie & shut it to thẽ, & gott thẽ vp vpõ thee top of ỹ towre. Thẽ came Abimelech vnto ỹ towre & fought against it, & went harde vnto the enterynge of the gate, to set it on fier. But a woman cast a pece of a mylstone vpon hys hedde and al to brake hys brayne panne.

Then Abimelech called hastelye vnto the young man that bare his harnes, and sayde vnto him: drawe thy sword and slee me, that men saye not of me, a woman slewe hym. And his ladde thruste hym thorowe and he dyed.

And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was deed, they departed, euery man vnto hys awne house. And thus all the wyckednesse of Abimelech whyche he dyd vnto his father, in sleyng his .lxx. brethrẽ, and therto all the wyckednesse of the men of Sichem, God dyd brynge vpon their hedes: And vpõ them came the curlse of Joathams the sonne of Jerobaal.

Asse coltes, Iudi.xii. and had .xxx. cines for thẽ, which ar called the townes of Jair vnto this daie, & are in B the lãd of Galaad. And Jair died, & was buried in Kamon.

✱ And the childzen of Israel wrought wickednesse yet agayne, in the syght of ỹ Iudi.xiii. lord, & serued Baalim & Astharoth, & the Goddes of Syria, & the Goddes of Sidõ, the Goddes of Moab, the Goddes of the childzen of Ammon, & the Goddes of the Philistines, & forsoke the lord & serued him not. And the lord was wroth w̃ Israel, and solde them in to thee handes of thee Philistines, & into the hãdes of the childzẽ of Ammõ: which pild & oppressed ỹ childzẽ of Israel in those daies. xviii. yere, al ỹ were on the other side Jordã in ỹ lãd of ỹ Amorites in Galaad. Moreouer the childzẽ of Ammon went ouer Jordã to fight against Juda, Bẽ Jamin, & the house of C Ephraim: so ỹ Israel was sore combred. Thẽ ỹ childzen of Israel cryed vnto the Lord saying: we haue sinned against the: for we haue forsaken oure owne God, & haue serued Baalim. And ỹ lord sayd vnto ỹ childzẽ of Israel: did not ỹ Egipciãs, ỹ Amorites, ỹ childzẽ of Ammõ, ỹ Philistines, ỹ Sidonites, ỹ Amalechites, & the Maonites, oppresse you? And ye cryed to me, & I delyuered you out of their hãdes. And for al that ye haue forsakẽ me, & serue straung goddes, wherfore I will helpe you no moare. But go & crye vnto the D Goddes whiche ye haue chose, & lett them saue you in the time of your tribulacion.

But the childzẽ of Israel sayd vnto ỹ Lord we haue sinned: do ỹ vnto vs what soeuer please ỹ, & delyuer vs only at thys tyme. And they put awaye the straunge Goddes frõ thẽ, & serued the Lorde. And the mysery of Israel greued hys soule.

Then the childzẽ of Ammõ geathered togeather & pitched in Galaad. And the childzẽ of Israel geathered thẽ to geather & pitched in Mazphah. And ỹ cõpanye of the lordes of Galaad sayde eche to other, whosoeuer wil beginne the battel against the childzẽ of Ammõ, the same shalbe hed ouer all the enhabiters of Galaad.

C Jephthah the sõne of a Harlot delyuereth Israel frõ the Ammonites after they asked forgeuenes.

The .xi. Chapter.

And ther was one Jephthah A a Galaadite, a stronge man, which was ỹ sõne of an harlot: How be it Galaad begat Jephthah. But Galaades wife bare hym sonnes, whych when they were come to age, thruste oute of Jephthah, & said vnto him: thou shalt not enheret in oure fathers house, for thou art the sonne of a straung woman. Then Jephthah fledde frõ his brethrẽ and dwelt in ỹ lande of Tob. And there geathered Idle people to Jephthah, & wente out w̃ hym. But it chaunced in processe of tyme, ỹ the chyldzen of Ammon made warre against Israel, then the elders of Galaad went & fett Jephthah out of ỹ lãd of Tob, & said vnto him: come & be our captaine, & let vs fyght w̃ the childzẽ of Ammõ. And Jeph- B thah sayd vnto ỹ elders of Galaad. Dyd not ye hate me & expelle me out of my fathers house: how happeneth it then ỹ you come vnto me nowe in tyme of youre trybulacio? And the elders of Galaad answered Jephthah. Therfore we turne againe to the nowe, that thou go w̃ vs, & fight against the chyldzen of Ammon, & be oure heed ouer all the enhabiters of Galaad. And Jephthah sayde vnto the elders of Galaad: If ye bryng me home againe, to fight w̃ the childzẽ of Ammõ, then yf the lord deliuer thẽ before me, I shalbe youre hed. And ỹ elders of galaad said to Jephthah, the lord be witnes betwene vs yf we do not accordig to thy wordes. Thẽ Jephthah wẽt w̃ ỹ elders of galaad. And ỹ people made hi hed & ruler ouer thẽ. And Jephthah rehersed al his wordes in Mazphah.

Then Jephthah sent messengers vnto the king of the childzẽ of Ammõ, saying: what ayleth the w̃ me ỹ ỹ comest vpõ me to fight against my lãd? And the king of the childzen of Ammõ answered vnto the messengers of Jephthah, because Israel toke away my lãd, when they came out of Egipt: euen frõ Arnõ vnto Jabock, & frõ C thẽce vnto Jordan. Now therfore restore those lãdes againe w̃ faire meanes. And Jephthah sẽt messẽgers againe vnto the childzẽ of Ammõ, & sayde vnto him: thus saith Jephthah. Israel toke not awaye ỹ lãd of Moab, nor ỹ lãd of ỹ childzẽ of Ammõ. But whẽ Israel came out of Egipt, they walked thorow the wildernesse, euen vnto the redde see, and came to Cades, & sent messengers vnto the kyng of Edom saying: let vs we pray ỹ go thorow thy lãd. But the King of Edõ wold not agre ther to. And in like maner they sẽt vnto ỹ kig of Moab, but he wold not consẽt. And so Israel abode stil in Cades. And then they went a long thorow the wildernes, & com-

passed the lād of Edom, & the lād of Moab, and came a long by the east side of the lād of Moab, & pitched on ỹ other syde of D the ryuer of Arnon, & came not within the coostes of the Moabites: for Arnon was their vtmost border. And then Israel sent messengers vnto Sehon kyng of the Amorites, and kyng of Hesbon, & sayd vnto hym: Lett vs passe thorowe thy lande vnto owre awne contreye. But Sehon trusted not Israel, to go thorowe hys coostes: but gathered all hys people to geather & pitched in Jazah, & fought vp Israel. But the Lord God of Israel deliuered Sehon & all his folcke into the hāndes of Israel. And so Israel smote thē & conquered al the land of the Amorytes, the enhabiters of the said cōtrey. And they cōquered al the coostes of the Amorites, frō Arnon vnto Jabok, & from the wyldernesse vnto Jordan. So now seing ỹ lord God of Israel hath cast out ỹ Amorites before his people shuldest thou possesse the lād?
E Naye, but what people Camos thy God dryueth out, that lande possesse thou. But whatsoeuer naeyons the Lord our god expelleth, that lande oughte we to enioye. And therto art thou better then Balack ỹ sonne of Zephor King of Moab? dyd he stryue wyth Israell or fyght against thē all the while Israel dwelt in Hesbon and her townes, & in Aroer & her townes, & in al the cities ỹ be a lōg by ỹ coostes of Arnō. xii. hundred yeres? why didst thou not recouer thē in al ỹ space, wherfore I haue not synned agaynst the. But thou doeste me wronge, to warre agaynst me. The lorde therfore be iudge this daye, betwene ỹ children of Israel, and the chyldrē of Ammon. Now be it the kyng of the childrē of Ammō harkened not vnto the wordes of Jephthah whych he sente hym.

Then the spryte of the Lord came vpō Jephthah. And he passed ouer Galaad & Manasses, & came to Mazphah ỹ lieth in Galaad, & frō thence vnto the children of F Ammō. And Jephthah vowed a vow vn the lord & sayd: If thou shalt delyuer the childrē of Ammō into my hādes, thē ỹ thinge that cometh out of the dores of my house against me, whē I come home in peace, from the chyldren of Ammon, shall be the Lordes, & I wil offer it vp a burntofferinge. And so Jephthah went vnto the chyldren of Ammon to fyght vp thē. And the lord deliuered thē into his hādes. And he smote thē frō Aroer vnto Menith, xx. cyties. And so forth to ỹ plaine of the vynyardes, made an exceding great slaughter. And thus the children of Ammō were brought vnder before ỹ childrē of Israel.

Then Jephthah came to Mazphah vn to his house. And se, his daughter came out against him, wt temberelles & dāsses, which was his only childe: so ỹ beside her he had neither sonne nor daugheter. And G when he sawe her, he rent his clothes and said: Alas my daughter, ỹ hast* made me stoupe & art one of them that trouble me. For* I haue opened my mouth vnto the Lord, & cānot go backe. And she sayd vn to him: my father, yf ỹ haue opened thy mouth vnto the lord, then do vp me accordyng to that prorceded out of thy mouth, for as much as the Lord hath auenged ỹ of thyne enemies the chyldren of Ammō. And she sayde vnto her father, do this moch for me: lett me alone two monethes that I may go downe to the mountaines & bewaile my virginite with my felowes. And he sayde: go, and so he sent her away two monethes. And she went with her cōpanīōs & lamented her maydenheed vpō ỹ mountaines. And after ỹ two monethes she turned agayne vnto her father which dyd vp her accordyng to hys vowe which he had vowed, & so she knewe no mā. And it became an ordinaūce in Israell yere by yere, that the daughters of Israel shulde go & lamēt the daughter of Jephthah the Galaadite, foure dayes in a yere.

¶ The batell of Jephthah against Ephraim. After the death of Jephthah succedeth Elon. After Elon Abdon.

The. xii. Chapter.

AND the mē of Ephraim gathered thē selues to gether, & I went northward, & sayde vn to Jephthah: Wherfore wentest ỹ to fight vp ỹ childrē of Ammō, & dydest not call vs to go wt thee we wil therfore burne thine house vpō ỹ, vp fire. And Jephthah said vnto them: I & my people were at great strife vp ỹ children of Ammō. And I called you. But ye deliuered me not out of their hādes. And whē I saw ỹ ye deliuered me not, I* put my lyfe

B lyfe in my handes & wēt vpon the childrē of Ammō. And the Lord delyuered thē in to my hādes. Wherfore then are ye come vpon me to fyght with me.

And Jephthah gathered to gether al ỹ mē of Galaad, & fought with the Ephraites. And the men of Galaad smote the Ephraites, because they sayde: Ye Galaadites ar but runnegates of Ephraim amōge the Ephraites and the Manassites. Moareouer the man of Galaad tokc the passages of Jordan from the Ephraites. And whē those Ephraites ỹ were escaped, sayd lett vs go ouer. Then the mē of Galaad sayde vnto thē: Ye are Ephraites, & they sayd nay. Then the other answered:
C thē say* Scibboleth. And they said Sibboleth, and could not so pronoūce, where vp on the other tokc them and slewe them at the passages of Jordā. And there were ouerthrowē at that tyme of the Ephraites xlii. thousande. And when Jephthah had iudged Israel. vi. yere he dyed, & was buried in one of the cities of Galaad. After D this man iudged Israell one Abezan of Bethlehem, & he had. xxx. sonnes and. xxx. daughters, & sent also his. xxx. daughters out, & tokc. xxx other in, for his sōnes. And when Abezan had iudged Israel. vii. yere he dyed, and was buryed at Bethlehem.

And after hym Elō a Zabulonite iudged Israel tē yere, and he died & was buried in Ailon, in the contrey of Zabulon.

And after him, Abdon the sonne of Hellel a Pharathonite iudged Israel. And he had fourtie sonnes, & thirtie nevewes, ỹ*

The. xiii. Chapter.

AND the children of Israel began againe to cōmitte wickednesse in ỹ sight of ỹ lord. And ỹ Lord deliuered thē in
A to ỹ hādes of the Philistines fourtye yere. And ther was a mā in Zaraah of ỹ kynred of ỹ Dānites, named Manoah, whose wife was barren & bare not. And ỹ Angel of ỹ lord apeared vnto hys wyfe and sayd vnto her: Behold, thou art barrē and beariest not: But thou shalt conceaue and beare a sōne. And now beware, and dryncke no wyne, ner strong dryncke, neather eate any vncleane thyng: for se, ỹ shalt conceaue & beare a sonne. And there may not rasor or sherers come on his hed: For the ladde shall be an abstayner vnto god, euen from the time of his birth. And he shall begynne to deliuer Israel oute of the handes of the Philistines.

Then the wyfe went and tolde her husbande sayinge: a man of God came vnto me, and the facyon of him was lyke the facion of an Angel of God exceadynge fearful. But I asked him not whēce he was, neither tolde he me hys name. And he said vnto me: * beholde thou shalt be with childe and beare a sonne, and now dryncke no wine nor stronge dryncke, neither eate any vncleane thyng: for the ladd shalbe an abstayner to God euen from hys byrthe to the daye of hys deathe.

B Genesis xvi. c. Luke. i. c

Then Manoah made intercession to ỹ Lorde, and sayde: I praye the my Lorde lett the man of God whiche thou sendeste come once moare vnto vs and teache vs what we shal do vnto the ladd, when he is borne. And God heard the voyce of Manoah, & ỹ angel of god came againe vnto ỹ wyfe as she satt in the feldes: But Manoah her husband was not wt her. Then ỹ wife made hast & rāne & shewed her husbād & sayd to him: Behold ỹ mā apeared vnto me ỹ came the other daye vnto me.

And Manoah arose and wēt after his wife and came to the man and saide vnto him: art thou the man that spakeste vnto my wife? And he said, yea. Thē Manoah said, now whē thy saying is come to passe what shalbe the maner of the childe, and what shal he do? And the Angel of the lorde sayd vnto Manoah: the wife must abstaine frō al that I said vnto her: she may eate of nothyng that cometh of the vyne tree, ner dryncke wyne or strong dryncke, nor eate any vncleane thynge: But muste obserue al that I bad her. Then said Manoah vnto the Angel of ỹ lord, graūt vs to tary vntyl we haue made redy a kidd & haue set it before ỹ. And ỹ angel of ỹ lord saide vnto Manoah: though ỹ make me abyde abyde, I wyll not eate of thy meate. And moreouer yͤ thou wylt prepare a burntof fering, that thou muſt offer vnto the lord For Manoah wiſt not that it was an angel of the lord. And Manoah ſayd vnto ỹ angel of ỹ Lord: what is thy name, ỹ whē thy ſaying is come to paſſe, we may do the ſome worſhip. And the angel of the Lord ſayd vnto hym: why aſkeſt thou after my name, when it is maruclouſe.

D And Manoah toke a kyd with a meat offring, & offered it vpon a rocke vnto the Lord. And the angel did wonderlye, Manoah & his wyfe loking vpō. For whē the flame came vp out of the altare, the angel of the Lord aſcēded vp in the flame of the aulter. And Manoah & his wife loked vp on & fel flat on theyr faces vnto the grouñ But ỹ angel of ỹ lord dyd nomore apeare vnto Manoah & his wyfe. And thē Manoah knew that it was an angel of ỹ lord & ſayd vnto his wyfe: we ſhall ſurely dye, becauſe we haue ſene God. But his wyfe ſayd vnto hym: Yf the Lord wold kyl vs he wold not haue receaued a burntoffring and a meatoffring of our handes, neyther wold he haue ſhewed vs all theſe thinges nor wold haue tolde vs as he hath of thinges to come. And the wyfe bare a ſonne, & called hys name Samſon. And the ladde grewe, and the Lorde bleſſed hym. And the ſpyrite of the Lorde beganne fyrſte to be wyth the houſe of Dan, betwene Zaraah and Eſthaol.

¶ The mariage of Samſon. He kylleth a Lyon. He propoundeth a rydle. He kylleth .xxx. men. Hys wyfe forſaketh him & taketh another.

The.xiiii. Chapter.

A Samſon wēt downe to Thamnath & ſawe a womā in Thānath of the daughters of the Philiſtines, & came vp & tolde his father & hys mother, & ſayd: I haue ſene a womā in Thānath of the daughters of ỹ Philiſtines. And now geue her me to wyfe. Thē his father & mother ſayd vnto him, is ther neuer a womā of the daughters of thy brethrē, amōg all my people: but that thou muſt go & fett a wyfe of thee vncircumcyſed Philiſtines. And Samſon ſayd vnto hys father, geue me thys woman for ſhe pleaſeth me well. But his father & mother wyſte not that it was the Lordes doyng, & that he ſought an occaſyō of ỹ Philiſtines, whych at that tyme raygned ouer Iſracll.

B Thē went Samſon & hys father and his mother downe to Thānath. And whē they came to the vyneyardes of Thānath behold a young Lion rored vpō him. And the ſpyrete of the Lord came vpō him. And he tare him, as a man wold rent a kydde, & yet had nothing in hys hande. Neuerthelater he told not his father & mother what he had done. And he went downe & talked with the womā, which ſemed wel fauored in the ſyght of Samſon.

And wythin a ſhorte ſpace after, as he went thyther agayne to take her to wyfe, he turned out of the waye, to ſe the carkeſſe of the Lyon. And behold ther was a ſwarme of bees in the carkaſſe of the lyon and honye. And he toke of the hony in hys handes and went eating, and came to hys father and mother & gaue them alſo. And they dyd eate. But he tolde not them, that he had taken the honye out of the carkeſſe of the Lyon.

C And whē his father was come vnto the womā. Samſon made ther a feaſt, for ſo vſed the younge men to do. And whē her frendes ſawe him, they brought .xxx. cōpanyons to beare felowſhyp. And Samſon ſayd vnto them: I wyl put forth a rydle vnto you. And yf you cā declare it within vii. dayes of the feaſt & fynd it out, I wyl geue you thyrtye ſhertes & thyrtye chaūge of garmentes: But & yf you cannot declare it me, then ſhal ye geue me thyrtye ſhertes & thyrtye chaunge of garmentes. And they anſwered hym, putt forth thy rydle & let vs heare it. And he ſayd vnto thē. Out of the eater came meat: and out of the ſtōge came ſwetenelle. And they could not in thre dayes expounde the rydle. And when the ſeuēth daye was come, they ſayd vnto Samſons wyfe. Flatter with thyne husD band, that he maye declare vs thy rydle, or elles we wyl burne the & thy fathers houſe with fyre, haue ye called vs to make vs beggers or not? Thē ſamſons wyfe wept vnto hym and ſayde: it cannot be but that thou hateſt me and loueſt me not: for thou haſte putte forth a rydle vnto the chyldrē of my folke and wylte not tell me what it meaneth. And he ſayde: Beholde, I haue not tolde it my father, nor my mother, and ſhulde ſhulde I tell it the?

And ſhe wepte vnto hym. vii. dayes, while the feaſt laſted. And the ſeuēth day he tolde her, becauſe ſhe laye ſo ſore vpon him. And ſhe told it ỹ childrē of her folke. And ỹ men of the citie ſaid vnto him ỹ ſeuenth daye before the sōne wente downe. What is ſweter then honye, and what is ſtrōger then a Lyō. Thē ſayd he vnto thē: If ye had not *plowed with my caulfe, ye had not found out my ridle. Thē ỹ ſpyrite of the Lorde came vpō him. And he went downe to Aſkalon, & ſlewe thyrtie men of them, and ſpoiled thē, and gaue their garmentes vnto them whyche expounde the rydle. And he was wrothe and wente vp to his fathers houſe. But Samſōs wyfe was geuen to one of hys companyōs that bare hym companye.

That is, yf ye had not take the hel ger of my wyfe as in Deu.

¶ Samſon tieth fyre bādes to foxtayles & letteth them runne in to the corne and burne it, to be auenged of them ỹ toke his wife frō him. With the Iawbone of an Aſſe he kylleth a thouſand men. Out of a great toth in the Iawe god geueth him water, to ſatisfye hys thyrſt.

The.xv. Chapter.

A But it chaūced withyn a while after, euen in ỹ time of whete heruеſt, ỹ Samſon viſyted his wyfe wyth a kydde. And whē he ſuppoſed to haue gone in vnto hys wife into the chāber, her father wolde not ſuffre hym to go in: But ſayd: I thought that thou haddeſt hated her, & therfore gaue I her vnto one of thy companiōs. How be it, her younger ſiſter is fayrer then ſhe. Take her in ſteade of the other. Then ſayd Samſon vnto thē: Now I am blameleſſe cōcerning the Philiſtines, though I do them euell.

And Samſon went out & caught thre hundred Foxes, and toke fyre brandes, & faſtened tayle to tayle, and put a fyrebrāde in ỹ myddes, betwene two tayles. And he ſett ỹ fyre brandes on fyre, & put them into the corne of ỹ Philiſtines, and burnt vp bothe the reped corne and alſo the ſtādynge, with vyne & oliues. Thē the PhiB liſtines aſked, who had done that? And it was tolde them that Samſon ỹ sonne in law of the Thamnite, becauſe he had takē his wife and geuē her to one of his cōpanyons. And the Philiſtines came and burnt her and her father with fyre.

And Samſon ſayd vnto them: ſhuld ye do ſo? I wyl ſurely be auēnged of you, and then I wyll ceaſe. And he ſmote thē* legge and thyghe with a myghtye plage. And then he went and dwelte in the caue of the rocke Etam.

Then the Philiſtines came vp & pytched againſt Juda & laye in Lehi. And ỹ men of Juda ſayde, why are ye come againſt vs? And they āſwered to bind Sāſon are we come, euen to do him as he hath done to vs. Then thre thouſande men of Juda went downe to the caue of ỹ rocke Etam, and ſayde to Samſon: wotteſte ỹ not that the Philiſtynes are rulers ouer vs? Wherfore then haſte thou ſerued vs thus? And he anſwered them, as they ſerued me, ſo haue I ſerued them.

C And they ſayde vnto him, we are come to bynde the & to delyuer the into ỹ hādes of the Philiſtines. And Samſon ſaid vnto thē: ſwere vnto me, ỹ ye ſhall not hurte me your ſelues. And they ſayde we wyll not hurte the, ſaue only bynd the & deliuer the vnto their handes: But we wil not kil the. And ſo they boūde him with two new cordes and brought him vp from the rocke. And when he came to Lehi, the Philiſtines ſhowted agaynſte hym. And the ſpyrete of the Lorde came vpon hym, and the cordes ỹ were vpō hys armes became as flare that was burnt with fire, and the bandes louſed frō his hādes. And he foūde a Iaw bone of a ratten Aſſe, and put forthe hys hande and caught it, and ſlue a thouſande men therwith.

And Samſon ſayd: with the Iawe of an aſſe, haue I made heapes: wyth the Iaw of an aſſe haue I ſlayne a thouſand men. D And whē he had left ſpeakig, he caſt away ỹ Iawe out of his hand & called the place *Ramath Lehi. And he was ſore a thirſt, & called on ỹ Lord & ſayde. Thou Lorde haſt geuē this great victory, thorowe the hād of thy ſeruaūt. And now I muſt dye for thyrſt & falle into the handes of the vncyrcumcyſed. But god brake a great toth ỹ was in the Iawe, and there came water therout. And whē he had dronck his ſpyrete came agayne, & he was refreſſhed, wherfore the name therof was called, *the wel of the caller on, whyche is in Lehi vnto this day. ¶ Samson lyfteth vp the Gates of Gaza & carieth thē vp into the mōntayne. He was deceaued by Dalilah & made blinde. He pulleth doune the house vpō the Philistines and dyeth with them.

The.xvi. Chapter.

A THen went Samsō to Gaza, and saw there an whore, and wēt in vnto her. And it was tolde ỹ Gazites, that Samson was come thither. And they wēt about and layde awaite for him all nyght in the gate of the cytie, but were styl al the night saying: Tarye tyl ỹ morning that it be daye, & then let vs kyl him And Samson toke hys reste tylle mydnyghte, and rose at mydnyghte and toke the dores of the gate of the cytie, and the two syde postes, and rente them of, barres and al, and put them vpon his shoulders, and caried them vp to the toppe of an hyl that lyeth before Hebron.

And after that he loued a woman, vpō the ryuer of Sorek, called Dalilah vnto whom came the Lordes of ỹ Philistines, and sayde vnto her: Flatter with him & se wherin hys great streugth lyethe, and by what meane we maye haue power ouer B him, that we may bynde him, to bring him vnder, and we wyll geue euerye man a leuen hundred syluerlynges.

And Dalilah sayde to Samson. Oh, tel me where thy great strength lyeth, and yt thou were boūde wherwith men might constrayne the. And Samson sayde vnto her. If men boūd me with .vii. grene withes ỹ were neuer dryed, I shuld be weake and as another man. And then the lordes of the Philistines brought her .vii. withes ỹ were yet grene & neuer dryed & she bound him therwith. Not withstandynge she had men lying in waite withe her in ỹ chaimbre. And she sayde vnto hym, the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And he brake the cordes as a stynge of towe breaketh, when it fealeth fire. And so his strength was not knowen.

C Then saide Dalilah to Samson: Se thou haste mocked me and tolde me lyes. Now yet tel me I pray ỹ, wherwith thou mightest be bounde. And he sayde: If I were bound with new ropes ỹ neuer were occupyed, then shulde I be weake, & as another mā. And Dalilah toke new ropes & bounde him therwith, & sayd vnto him, the Philistines be vpon the Sāson. And there were lyers of wayte in the chamber, and he brake them from of his armes, as they had bene but a threde. And Dalilah sayd vnto Samson, hitherto thou hast begyled me & tolde me lyes: I praye the yet tell me wherwith mē may bynde ỹ. And he sayd vnto her. If thou plattedest the seuē lockes of my heed wythe an heatre lace & fastnedeste them wythe a nayle. And she sayde vnto hym, the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And he awaked out of hys slepe, & plucked & went away wt the nayle that was in the plattinge & wyth ỹ heatre lace. Then she sayde vnto him: How canst D thou say ỹ thou louest me, when thine hert is not wt me: for ỹ haste mocked me this. iii. times, & hast not told wherin thy great strength lyeth. And as she lay vpō him & her wordes cōtinually vexyng of him, his soule was encombred euē vnto the death. And he tolde her al his hert, and sayd vnto her: there neuer came rasor nor sheres vpō mine heed, for I haue bene an abstainer to God euen frō my mothers wombe: If myne heatre were cut of, my strengthe wold go frō me, & I shuld ware & be lyke al other men. And when Dalilah saw ỹe had tolde her all hys hert, she sente for the Philistines saying, come vp yet this once. for he hath shewed me all his herte.

Then the Lordes of the Philistines E came and brought the money in their hādes. And she made him slepe vpō her lapp and sent for a man, and cut of the seuē lockes of hys heed & beganne to vexe hym. But his strength was gone frō him. And she saide the Philistines be vpō ỹ Samson. And he awooke out of his slepe and thought to go oute as at other tymes before & shake him selfe, & wist not that the lord was departed from him. But ỹ Philistines toke him and put out his eyes, & brought hym doune to Gaza, and bounde hym wyth fetters. And he was made to grinde in the prison house, howe be it the F heatre of his heed begāne to growe againe after that he was shorne.

Thē the lordes of ỹ Philistines geathered thē to geather, for to offer a solempne offrig vnto Dagō their god, & to reioyce: for they sayde, oure God hathe delyuered Samson oure enemye into oure handes.

And

And when the people saw him, they prayed their God: for they sayd our god hath delyuered into our handes our enemye, ỹ destroyed oure contreye and slue many of vs. And whē their hertes were mery, they sayd: sende for Samson & lett him playe before vs. And they fett Samson out of ỹ prisonhouse, & he played before them, & they set him betwene ỹ pillers. And Sāsō G said vnto the ladd that leed him by ỹ hād: lett me that I may touche the pillers that the house stande vpō, & that I may leane to them. And the house was full of men and wemen. And al ỹ lordes of the Philistines. And there were vpon the rouffe a three thousād mē & wemen, that beheld how Samson played.

And Samson called vnto the Lord, & sayde: my Lorde Jehouah thynke vpon me, & strengthen me, at this tyme only O God, that I may be auēged of the Philistines for my two eyes. And Samson caught the two myddel pyllers on whych ỹ house stode and on whiche it was borne vp, the one in his ryght hande, & the other in his lefte, & sayde: my soule dye with the Philistines, and bowed thē with mighte. And the house fel vpō the lordes and vpon al the people ỹ were therin. And so the deed which he slew at his death, were moo then they which he slewe in hys lyfe. And then his brethren and all the house of his father came downe and toke hym vp, & broughte hym and buryed hym betwene Zarah and Esthaol, in the buryng place of Manoah his father. And he iudged Israel twentye yere.

¶ Micah whose mother made him an Idoll of silver. Of the young preast of the lynage of Leui of Bethlehem.

The.xvii. Chapter.

A THer was a mā in mounte Ephraim, named Micah whyche sayd vnto his mother: ỹ leuē hundred sylueryinges ỹ were takē frō ỹ, about which ỹ cursedst & saidest in mine eares: Behold thē syluer is with me for I toke it away. Thē sayd his mother, blessed be thou my sone, in ỹ lord. And so he restored the leuē hūdred sylueryinges to his mother againe. And hys mother sayde: I vowed the sylver vnto the Lorde of myne hand for my sone: to make a grauē ymage & an ymage of metall. Nowe therfore I geue it the a- B gaine. And he restored the moneye againe vnto his mother. Then his mother toke two hūdred sylueryges & put thē to a gold smyth, to make therof a grauē ymage & a ymage of metal, which remained in ỹ house of Micah. And ỹ mā Micah had a chapel of gods, & made an Ephod & ymages, & filled the hād of one of his sōnes whych became his preast. For in those daies ther was no king in Israel, but euery mā dyd C what thought hym best.

And there was a younge man oute of Bethlehē Juda, & oute of the kinredes of Juda: whiche young mā was a Leuite & soiourned there. And the mā departed out of ỹ cytie of Bethlehem Juda, to go dwel wher he could find a * place. And he came to moūt Ephraim, & to ỹ house of Micah as he iourneyed. And Micah sayde vnto hym, whence comest thou? and the Leuite answered him: I am of Bethlehē Juda, & go to dwell where I maye fynde a place. And Micah sayde vnto him dwel wt me, and be vnto me a father and a preast. And I wyll geue the ten sylueryinges by yere and rayment of all sortes, and thy meate and drynke.

And ỹ Leuite went & beganne to dwel with the man, & was vnto him as dere as one of his owne sōnes. And Micah filled ỹ hand of the Leuite, & the young mā became his preast, and cōtinued in the house of Micah. Then sayd Micah now I am sure ỹ lorde wilbe good vnto me, seyng, I haue a Leuite to my preast.

¶ The children of Dan take the goddes & the preast of Micah away. They destroye Lais, & after bylde it agayne.

The.xviii. Chapter.

A IN those dayes there was no king in Israel. And in those daies ỹ tribe of Dā soughte thē an enheritaūce to dwelin, for vnto that tyme there fell none enheritaūce vnto thē amōg ỹ tribe of Israel. And the children of Dā sēt of their kynredes fyue mē of actiuite, out of their rootes, euē out of Zarah and Esthaol, to bewe the lād & search it out, & said vnto thē: go & searche out ỹ lande. And they came to moūt Ephraim, euē to ỹ house of Micah & lodged ther. And whē they were come vnto ỹ house of Micah, they knew ỹ voice of ỹ yong mā ỹ Leuite, & turned in thither, & sayde vnto him: who brought ỹ hither? & what makest thou in this place? & what hast ỹ here. And he sayd vnto thē, thus and thus dealeth Micah wyth me & hathe hired me to be his preaste. And they said vnto him: Aske of God I pray the, ỹ we may knowe whether ỹ way whiche we go, shalbe prosperous or no. And ỹ preast sayd vnto thē: go in peace, for ỹ way whyche ye go is before the Lorde.

Then the fiue men departed and came to Lais, & sawe ỹ people that were therin, how they dwelte carelesse, & after the maner of ỹ Sidōs, still, & without casting of parelles, & that no man made any trouble in the lande or vsurped any dominion, & howe they were farre from the Sidons & had no busynes with any nacō. And they came vnto their brethren, to Zaraah, and Esthaol. And their brethren sayde vnto them: what tydinges bryngeste you?

And they sayd vp and lett vs go vnto them, *for we haue sene the lād, ỹ it is very good. Hast therfore & be not slouthfull to departe and to go and cōquere the lād. When ye be come, ye shall come vnto a people that casteth no parelles, and vnto a large contreye: for God hathe geuen into your handes a place wherin is no lacke of any thyng that is in the worlde.

And there departed thence of the kynred of the Danites, oute of Zaraah and Esthaol sixe hundred men apointed with instrumētes of warre. And they wēt & pitched in Kariath Iarim in Juda. Wherfore the place is called Mahanah Dā vnto this day, which is on ỹ backside of Kariath Iarim. And they wente thence vnto mounte Ephraim, & came to the house of Micah. Then answered the fyue mē that wēt to spye out the cōtrey of Lais, & sayde vnto their brethrē wot ye not that there is in these houses an Ephod & Images, & a graue Image, and an Image of meatal? Now therfore cōsidre what ye haue to do.

And they turned thither warde & came to the house of the younge man the Leuite in the house of Micah, & saluted him peasably. And ỹ fyue hūdred men gyrded wt wepons of warre which were of ỹ childre of Dā stode in the entering of ỹ gate. And the fyue mē that went to spye oute ỹ land, went in thyther and toke the kerued Image, & ỹ Ephod the kerued Image, & the Image of metal. And ỹ preast stode in the entering of the gate with the syx hūdred men ỹ were armed vnto battel while ỹ other went to Micahs house, and fette the kerued Image, the Ephod, the kerued Image and the Image of metall. Then sayde the preast vnto thē: what do ye? and they answered him, holde thy peace & *put thyne hande vpon thy mouthe, and come with vs, & be vnto vs a father & a preast, whether is it better for the to be a preaste vnto the house of one man, or to be preast vnto a tribe or a kynred in Israel? And ỹ preast was glad & toke the Ephod and ỹ Images, and the grauen Image, & went wt ỹ people. And they turned & departed, & put the childre, the catell & their costlye thynges before them.

Whē they were a good way frō the house of Micah, the mē ỹ were in the houses ỹ were by Micahs house, made an oute crye, & folowed after the childre of Dan & called vnto thē. And they turned their faces, and sayd vnto Micah, what ayleth ỹ, that thou makest an out cry? And he said, ye haue take away my Goddes whiche I made also the preast, and go your wayes wyth them: And what haue I meare, how then say ye vnto me, what ayleth the? And the childre of Dan sayd vnto him, let not thy voyce be heard amōg vs, leste angrye felowes runne vpon the, & thou loose thy lyfe, with the lyues of all thyne housholde to. And so the childrē of Dan went theyr wayes. And when Micah sawe that they were to strōg for him, he turned & wēt backe vnto hys house agayne.

And they toke the thynges which Micah had made, and ỹ preast whiche he had, and went vnto Lais, euē vnto a people ỹ were at reast and without mystruste, and smote thē wyth the edge of the swerd and burnt the cytye wyth fyre. And there was no mā to helpe, because it was farre from Sydon, & they had no medelynge wythe anye other nacyon. And the cytye stode in the valey that lyeth by Bethrehob. And they bylt the citye and dwelt therin. *And called it Dā, after ỹ name of Dā their father which was borne vnto Israell. Howbeit in verye deade the name of the cytye was was Lais at the begynnynge.

And the childzen of Dan set them vp the grauen Image. And Jonathan the sonne of Gerson, the sōne of Manasses & hys sonnes were the preastes vnto ỹ tribe of the Danites, vntyll they were caryed awaye out of the lande captiue. And they sett them vp the kerued Image whyche Micah made, all the whyle that the house of God was in Silo.

Of the Leuite whose wife was vyllanously kylled in Gabaah. She is deuyded in to xii. partes & of her sent to euery tryde of Israel a peace.

The. xix. Chapter.

IT chaunced in those dayes, whē ther was no king in Israel, that a certē Leuite dwellyng on ỹ syde of mounte Ephraim, toke to wyfe a cōcubine out of Bethlehem Juda: which concubine playde the whore in his house, and went away frō him, vnto her fathers house to Bethlehem Juda, & there contynued foure monethes. And her husbande arose and went after her, to speake frendly, vnto her, & to bring her home agayne, & hys lad with him and a couple of Asses. And she brought him vnto her fathers house, & when the father of ỹ damosel sawe him he reioyced of his coming. And his father in law the damoselles father kepte him ỹ he aboade withe him thre dayes and so they ate and dranke and lodged there.

The fourth daye they arose erly in the morning, & the man stode vp to departe. But the damoselles father sayd vnto his sōne in law, cōfort thine hart wt a morsell of breed & then go youre waye. And they sate downe & did eate & drinke both of thē to geather. Then sayd the damoselles father vnto the man, go to I pray the and tarye al nyght and let thyne hert be mery. How be it the mā stode vp to departe: but his father in law cōpelled him to turne againe & to tarie al night ther. And he rose vp erly ỹ fyfth day to departe. Thē saide ỹ damoselles father cōfort thine hert: & so made him tarye vntil after middaye. And they did eate bothe of them to geather.

And then the man arose to depart with hys concubine and hys ladde. But his father in law the damoselles father sayd vnto him behold the day gothe fast awaye & drayweth towarde euē, tary al night: at ths least way tarie this day here and let thine hert be merie. And to morow get you erlie vpon youre waye and get the to thy tent. Neuerthelater ỹ mā wold not tarie, but arose & departed and came as ferre as Jebus, whych is Jerusalem, & his two asses ladē, and his concubine & his ladd with him. And whē they were fast by Jebus, ỹ daye was sore spent and the younge man sayd vnto hys master, come I praye the & let vs turne in, into thys citte of ỹ Jebusites & lodge all night there. But his master sayd vnto him, we wyll not turne into a straung cytte that are not of the childzen of Israel: we wil go forth to Gabaah. And he sayd vnto his ladd, go forwarde, & we shall come to one place or other & shal lodge all nyght in Gabaah or in Ramah. And they went forward vpon theyr waye, and the sōne went downe vpon thē when they were fast by Gabaah which is in Beniamin. And they turned thytherward to go and lodge al nyght in Gabaah. And when they came in, they sat them doune in a streat of the citte, for there was no man toke them into lodge. But behold there came an olde man from his worke, out of the feldes at euē which was also of moūt Ephraim, and but a straūger in Gabaah for the mē of ỹ place were of the childzē of Jemini. And when he had lyfte vp his eyes, & saw a wayfaring mā in ỹ streates of ỹ citte he said: whether goest ỹ? And whence comest ỹ? And the other answered him, we come frō Bethleh Juda toward the syde of mount Ephraim: from thence am I, and went to Bethleh Juda, and go now to the house of the lord. But ther is no man that receaueth me to house: and yet I haue straw and prauender for oure Asses, and breade and wyne for me and thy hādmaide, & thy ladd that ar with thy seruaunt, and lacke nothynge.

The olde man sayd, peace be with the, al that thou lackest shalt thou fynde with me: only abide not in ỹ streates al nighte, and he brought him into hys house, & gaue fodder vnto his Asses. And they washed their fete, and dyd eate and dryncke. And *as they were making theyr herttes merye, the men of the cytte whyche were wycked, sett the house rounde about, and thrust at the doze, & spake to the mā of the house the olde man sayinge: bringe forth the man that came into thyne house, that we maye knowe hym.

But the man of the house went out to thē & sayd vnto thē. Oh, nay my brethren, do not so wickedly seing that thys man is come into myne house: doo not this folye. Behold my daughter a mayde & this mānes concubyne, thē I wyl bring out vnto you, and *humble thē, and doo with them what semeth you good: but vnto this mā, do not thys folye. But the men wolde not herke to hym. Neuertheles the man toke his cōcubyne & brought her out vnto thē, and they hadde to do with her, & entreated her shamefully, all the nyght euē vnto the morninge. And when the daye beganne to springe, they let her go.

*Humble of this loke Gen. 19. b

G And then came the woman in the dawning of the daye & fell downe at the dooze of the mannes house, wher her Lord was, & ther she laye tyll daye. And her Lorde arose vp in the morning & opened the dozes of the house, & went out to goo hys waye. And behold, his concubine laye along before the doze of the house, and her hand vpon the thze sholde. And he sayd vnto her: vp & lett vs be goying. But she answered not. Thē he toke her vp vpō an Asse & rode vp, and gat hym vnto hys owne home. And whē he was come vnto his house, he toke a dyssling knife, & caught his cōcubine and deuyded her thorow the bones into xii. peces, & sent her into al quarters of Israel. And al that saw it sayd: there was no soch dede done or sene sence the chyldrē of Israel came out of Egipt vnto thys day, consyder the matter, geue councel and say youre myndes.

¶ The battel of al the Israelites agaynst the tribe of Ben Jamin for the Leuites wyfe kylled.

The .xx. Chapter

A hat is all some consent, & generally as eneth in his 3 b.

Then al the chyldren of Israel went out: and there gathered a cōgregation to gether * as it had ben but one man, euē frō Dā to Berseba & out of the lande of Galaad, vnto the lande to Marphah and there stode folke oute of al quarters of all the trybes of Israell, in the cōgregatyon of thee people of God, foure hundred. M. footemē that drewe swerdes. And thee chyldren of Ben Jamin hearde that the chyldren of Israel were gone vp to Marphah.

Then sayd the chyldren of Israell, tell vs how thys wyckednesse happened. And the Leuite the womās husband that was slayne, answered & sayd: I came into Gabaah that is in Ben Jamin with my cōcubyne to lodge al nyght. And the cytezēs of Gabaah rose agaynst me, & sett the house round about vpō me by nyght, & thought to haue slayne me: and caughte my concubyne and forced her, that she dyed. And I toke my concubyne and cutte her in peces and sente her thorowe oute all the landes of the enheritaunce of Israell. For they haue cōmitted abhominnation and folly in Israell. Behold ye are al chyldren of Israell. Se therfore and geue youre aduyse in the case.

Then al the people arose, as it had ben one man saying: ther shall not a mā of vs go to hys tent, nether turne into his house And now this is it that we wyl do to Gabaah & cast lottes agaynst it. And we wyl take ten men of the hundred thorowe oute all the trybes of Israell, & an hundred of the thousande, and a thousande out of the ten thousande, to fette vitayle for the people to make that they may go agaynst Gabaah Ben Jamin, accordyng to al the folye that they haue wrought in Israel. And so all the men of Israell gathered together, vnto Gabaah, knit together as it had ben but one man. And the trybes of Israell sent men thorow all the trybe of Ben Jamin sayinge: what wickednes is thys y is happened amōg you. Now therfore delyuer vs the men, those wycked wretches of Gabaah that we maye slay them, and put awaye euell from Israell.

Neuertheles the chyldren of Ben Jamin wold not herke vnto y voyce of theyr brethren the chyldren of Israell: but gathered them selues together out of the cyties vnto Gabaah, to come out in batayle agaynst y chyldrē of Israel. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin were nombred at that tyme tyme, out of the cities .xxvi. thousande mē that drewe swerdes beside the enhabiters of Gabaah which were nōbred seuen hūdred chosē mē. And among all these folke were seuē hundred lefte hāded mē, whych euery one could slig stones at an heer breadeth, & not misse. And the chyldrē of Israell beyde the children of Beniamin, were nombred foure hundred thousand men y drewe swerdes, and al men of warre.

C And the children of Israel arose & wēt vp to * Bethel, & asked of God, who shulde begynne the battell agaynste the chyldren of Beniamin, and the Lord sayd Juda shal begynne. And the chyldren of Israell stode vp erlie and beseged Gabaah. And the mē of Israell went out to battel against Beniamin, and put thē selues in aray agaynst them, to fyght against Gabaah. And the chyldrē of Beniamin came oute of Gabaah and destroyed in Israell that daye .xxii. thousande men, and brought them to the erth.

*Before v. xvi. c

And the folke of the chyldrē of Israel plucked vp their hartes, and wente to agayne and made battell in the same place where they dyd the first day: but they wēt fyrst vp and wept before the Lorde vnto euen, and asked of the Lord sayng: shall we go agayne to battel against y children of Beniamin oure brethren. And the lord sayde: go vp vnto them and when y chyldren of Israel were come to the chyldren of Beniamin the second day, the chyldren of Beniamin went against thē out of Gabaah, the second daye, and destroyed to the erth of the chyldren of Israell once agayne .xviii. thousande men y drew swerdes euery man of them.

D Then the children of Israel and al the people wente vp and came vnto Bethell, and wepte and sat ther before the Lord, & fasted the same daye vnto euen, and offered burntofferynges & peace offerynges before the Lorde. And they asked the Lorde: for there was the arcke of the apoyntment of God, in those daies. And * phinehes y sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron waytinge vpon it at that tyme & they sayd shall we go out any moare to battell against the children of Beniamin our brethē, or shall we cease? And the lorde saide go: for to morowe I wyll delyuer them into your handes. And Israel sett layers awayte agaynst Gabaah rounde about. G And the children of Israel wēt against y children of Beniamin y thirde tyme, & put thē selues in araye against Gabaah, as twyse before. Then came y children of Beniamin against y people, tyl they were drawē a great way frō the citie. And they began to smite of y people deed (as twise before, by two hie wates of which one goeth vp to Bethell & the other to Gabaah thorowe the felde) vpon a thyrtye men of Israel. For the chyldrē of Beniamin though y the other had ben beatē before them, as at the fyrst tyme. But the chyldren of Israell sayde, let vs flee and plucke them away from the cytye, vnto the hye wayes.

Which after the Hebrues stoned till .xiii. dyed yeres. Of whom also Num. xxv

And then al the men of Israel rose vp out of their standing, & put them selues in aray at Baal Thamar. And likewyse the layers in wayte of Israel came forth oute of their places, euē oute of y medowes of Gabaah, & came before Gabaah: ten thousande chosen men out of al Israel, & there was sore battel. But y other wyst not y euyl was so nye them. And the lord plaged Beniamin before Israel, so that the children of Israell destroyed in Beniamin y same daye .xxv. thousande and a hundred men, that drue swerdes euery one of thē. It semed the children of Beniamin, that the other had ben put to the woorsse. For the men of Israel gaue Rome to Beniamin, because they trusted vnto the layers in wayte whyche they had layde agaynste Gabaah. And the layers in wayte hasted and ranne vpon Gabaah, and wente and smote al the citie w the edge of the swerd. And the apoyntment of the mē of Israel w the laters in waite to runne vpō Beniamini w y swerd, was whē they shuld make y smoke rise vp out of the citie. And y mē of Israel fleed in the battell. And Beniamin begā to smite deed of y children of Israel, about a thirty persones, for they supposed y the other had ben put to y woorsse before them, as in the fyrste battell. Then began to aryse oute of the cytie, a piller of smoke. And the Beniamites loked backe: and beholde the waistynge of the hole citie began to ascende vp to heuen.

When y men of Israel turned againe, the men of Beniamin were abashed: for they they sawe that euell apprꝛochꝛed them. And they turned before the men of Israell vnto the waye that leadeth to the wildernes, the other folowing thē at the harde heles. G And beside that they of the citie destroyed thē in the myddle of them. And they cōpassed Ben Jamin about, & chased thē to Menuah, & ouer came them before Gabaah on the east syde: & ther were slayne of Ben Jamin. xviii. thousand, & al men of might And they turned & fled to thee wyldernes warde & vnto the rocke *of pōgranettes And ꝯ other flue by ꝯ way of ꝯ rest of thē, fyue thousand mē, & sticked vnto thē vntyl they came to Gadaam, & slue two thousand moo of thē. So ꝯ al that were slayne that same daye of Ben Jamin were. xxv. thousand men that dꝛue swerdes, & all mē of myght: onelye. vi. hundꝛed men turned and fled to the wyldernes, vnto the rocke of pomgranettes and abode there. iiii. monethes. And then the men of Israell tourned backe agayne vnto the chyldrē of Bē Jamin, and smote them wyth the edge of thee swerde in thee cytyes bothe man and beaste and all that came to hande, and moreouer sette all the cytyes they could come by, on fyre.

¶ The trybe of Ben Jamin being vtterly destroyed for theyr fornication with the Leuites wyfe, is restored agayne.

AND the men of Israell sware in Mazphah saying: ther shal none of vs geue hys daughter vnto any of Bē Jamin to wyfe. And the people came to Bethel & abode ther tyll euen, before God & lyfte vp theyr voyces & wept sore & said O Lord God of Israel, why is this chaūced in Israel, that ther shuld be thys daye one trybe lackinge in Israell? And on the morowe the people rose vp be tyme & made there an altare and offered burntoffrynges and peaceoffeinges.

And the chyldren of Israel asked, who are they among all the trybes of Israell ꝯ came not with the congregation vnto the Lord? for they had made a great othe concerning thē that came not vp to the Lorde to Mazphah saying that they shuld suerly dye. And the chyldren of Israel had pytie on Ben Jamin theyr brethren, & sayde: ther is one trybe cutt of from Israel this daye: what shal we do vnto the remnaunt of them, for too gette them wyues, for as moch as we haue swoꝛne by the Lord that we wyll not geue them of oure daughters to wyues. Then they sayde, what are they of the trybes of Israel that came not vpp to Mazphah to the Lorde. And beholde there came none of the enhabitours of Jabes Galaad vnto the congregation. And when the people were vewed: behold there were none of the enhabiters of Jabes Galaad there. And the congregation sent thether. xii. thousande men of the strongest of them, & commaunded them saynge: go & smyte thee enhabiters of Jabes Galaad wyth the edge of the swerde both wemē & chyldren. *And thys is that ye shal do: vtterly destroy al the males and al the wemē that haue lyen by mē. And they founde amōg the enhabiters of Jabes Galaad. iiii C. damoselles virgines ꝯ had knowen no man by lying wꝫ any male. And they brought them vnto the hoste to Siloh whych is in the land of Canaan.

*Marginal

And the hole congregattō sent and spake wyth the chyldren of Ben Jamin that were in the Rocke of Pomgranettes, and called peaceably vnto them, and Ben Jamin came agayne at that tyme, and they gaue them the wemen whych they had saued a lyue of the wemē of Jabes Galaad But they so suffised thē not. And the people had compassion on Ben Jamin, because that God hadde *made a gappe in the trybes of Israell. And then the elders of the congregation sayde: what shall we do to the remnaunt of them, to get them wyues seynge all thee wyues of Ben Jamin are destroyed? And they sayde there must be an enheritaunce for them that be escaped of Ben Jamin that a trybe be not destroyed out of Israel: howbe it we maye not geue them wyues of oure daughters. For thee chyldren of Israell had made an adiuration saying: acursed be he that geueth a wyfe to Ben Jamin.

*That is, had bene a trybe of Israel.

Then they sayd: behold, ther is a feaste of the Lord yearlye in Siloh which is on the northsyde of Bethel, & on the east syde of the waye that goeth frō Bethel to Sichem and southe from Libanon. And they commaunded the childꝛen of Ben Jamin saynge: goo and lye in wayte in the vyne-yneyardes. And whē ye se that ꝯ daughters of Siloh come out to daūce in a rowe then come ye oute of the vyneyardes, and catche you euery mā a wyfe of the daughters of Siloh and get you vnto the lande of Ben Jamin. And yf theyr fathers or brethren come vnto vs too complayne, we wyll saye vnto them, haue pytye on them, because we reserued not to eche man hys wyfe in tyme of warre, and thereto because that ye gaue them noꝛe in due tyme, ye were to blame.

And the chyldrē of Ben Jamin dyd euen so: & toke thē wyues accoꝛdinge to the nōbꝛe of them of the dauncers whych they caught. And then they went and returned vnto theyr enheritaunce, and bylt theyr cyties and dwelt in them.

And the chyldren of Israell departed thence at that tyme and wente euerye man to hys trybe, and to hys kynred, and went oute from thence euerye man to hys enheritaunce. In those dayes there was no kynge in Israell: but euerye man did what semedhim ryghte.

¶ The ende of the Boke of Judges.

¶ The Boke of Ruth

¶ Elimelec goeth with his wyfe & chyldren into the land of Moab. After his death hys wyfe Noemi returneth agayne into her contreye, & wyth her Ruth, her daughter in lawe.

The. I. Chapter

IN the time when the Iudges iudged, ther fell a dearth in ꝯ land. Wherfore a certen man of Bethlehē Juda wente for to soiourne in the cōtreye of Moab with hys wyfe & two sonnes. The name of thee man was Elimelec, and hys wyfe Noemi, and the names of hys twoo sonnes were, Mahalon and Chilion and they were Ephrattes, out of Bethlehē Juda. And when they came into the lande of Moab, they continued there. And Elimelec Noemies husbande dyed, and she remayned wyth her two sonnes whiche toke them wyues of the nacions of the Moabites: thee ones name Orphah & thee others Ruth. And when they hadde dwelled ther about a ten yeare, Mahalon and Chilion dyed also euen both two of them, so that ꝯ wyfe was lefte desolate of her two sonnes and of her husbande thereto. Then she rode vp wyth her daughters in lawe and returned frō ꝯ cōtrey of Moab: for she had heard say, being i ꝯ cōtrey of Moab: how that the Lorde hath vysyted hys people & geuen them fode. Wherfore she departed out of the place wher she was and her two daughters with her. And as they went by the waye returnyng vnto the land of Juda, Noemi saide vnto her two daughters in lawe: go and returne eche of you vnto youre mothers house: the Lorde deale as kyndlye with you, as ye haue dealt wythe the deed and with me. And the Lord geue you that you maye fynde reaste ether of you in the house of her husbande: and so she kyssed them.

Then they cryed and wepte & sayd vnto her we will go with the vnto thy folke. But Noemi said, turne againe my daughters: for what cause wolde you go wythe me: thinke you that ther be any more childꝛen in my bowelles, to be youre husbandes? Turne agayne my daughters & go: for for I am to olde to haue an husbād. Yf I ¶ said I haue hope, also yf I toke a mā this nyght: ye & though I had all ready borne sonnes, wold ye tarye after thē, tyl they were of age? or wold ye for thē so long refrayne from taking of husbandes? Not so my daughters: for it greueth me moche for your sakes, that the hande of the Lorde is gone out agaynst me.

Therwith they cryed and wept agayne howbeit, Orphah kissed her mother in law but Ruth abode still by her, thē she sayde: se, thy syster in lawe is gone backe agayne vnto her people & vnto her god: returne & after her. But Ruth sayd: entreate me not to leaue the, and to returne from after the, for whether thou goeste, I wyll goo, and where thou dwellest, there I wyll dwelle: thy people are my people, and thy God is my God. Where thou dieste, I wyll dye, & ther wylbe buried. at The Lord do so & so to me, except that death only departe the & me a sondre.

D Whē she saw that she wold neades go wt her, she lefte speaking vnto her. And so they wēt both together vntill they came to Bethlehem. And when they were come to Bethlehē, it was noysed thorow all ỹ cytie and the wemen sayd: is not thys Noemi? But she sayd vnto them, cal me not * Noemi: cal me * Mara, for the al mightie hath made me very bitter. I went out ful: but ỹ lord hath brought me home empty. Why shuld ye then cal me Noemi: seing the lord hath hūbled me, & ỹ almighti hath brought me vnto aduersite? And the tyme when Noemi wt Ruth the Moabitesse her daughter in lawe returned out of ỹ countreye of Moab & came to Bethlehem, was in ỹ beginning of barley haruest.

¶ Ruth leaseth corne in the feldes of Booz, and fyndeth fauour in hys syght.

The. ii. Chapter.

A Nd Noemi had a kynsmā of her husbādes, a mā of might of the kynred of Elimelec, named Booz. And Ruth ỹ Moabitesse sayd vnto Noemi, let me go to the feld & lease & gether eares, after whō soeuer I fynd grace in his syght. And she sayde vnto her: go my doughter. And she went & came & gethered after the haruest men, & her chaunce was that parte of the felde pertayned vnto Booz whyche was of the kinred of Elimelec. And behold he, Booz came frō Bethlehem & sayd vnto the haruest mē, the Lorde be wyth you. And they answered hym, the Lorde blesse the. Thē sayd Booz vnto the young man that had the ouersyght of the heruest mē. Whose damosel is this? And the younge man that was sette to ouer se the heruestmen answered and sayde: it is the Moabitische damosel that came wyth Noemi out of the countreye of Moab, and she sayde, lett me I praye the, lease and gether after the heruest men, the eares that remayne, & so she came and hath cōtinued euen from the morning vnto now, & tarryed not long in the house.

Thē sayd Booz vnto Ruth: heareste ỹ my daughter: go to none other feld to gether, nether go frō hence: but abyde by my maydēs. Thyne eyes ar on a feld ỹ shalbe reped: go after the maydēs therfore, for I haue charged the young mē, that they touche the not. Moreouer when thou arte a thyrst, go vnto ỹ vessels & drincke of that which the laddes haue drawen. Then she fell on her face & * bowed her selfe to the ground & sayd vnto hym: how is it that I haue found grace in thyne eyes, to knowe me, seing I am an alyaunt?

Bowed, or worshipped.

And Booz answered & sayd vnto her: al is tolde me ỹ thou hast done vnto thy mother in lawe sence ỹ death of thine husbād how thou hast left thi father & thy mother & the lād wher thou wast borne, & art come vnto a nacion whyche thou knewest not in tyme passed. The Lord qupte thy worke, & a full rewarde be geuē the of the Lorde god of Israel vnto whō thou art come, to trust vnder his winges. Thē she sayd vnto him, let me fynd fauour in thy sight my lord, for ỹ hast comforted me & hast spoke hartely vnto thy mayde, which yet cannot be lyke vnto one of thy maydes. And Booz whē the tyme of refectiō was come, said vnto her: come hither & eate of the bread, & dippe thy sop in the vinagre. And she sate down by the repers, & he raught her * parched corne. And so she dyd eat & was sufficed & left part. And whē she was ryssen vp to gether to gather. Booz said to ỹ yong mē saying: let her gather ỹ eares ỹ remayne & doo her no despite. And therto pul out of ỹ sheues for her & let it lie, ỹ she may gather it vp, & rebuke her not. And so she gathered vntyl euē & thē threshed ỹ she had gathered, & it was vpō an Epha of barley. And she toke it vp & went to the cytie, & shewed her mother in lawe what she had gathered. And therto she plucked out & gaue to her ỹ she had reserued when she had eaten ynough. Thē sayd her mother i law vnto her, wher gathered ỹ ỹ to day? & wher wroughtest ỹ blessed be he ỹ knewe the. And she shewed her mother i law wt whō she had wrought & sayd: ỹ mānes name wt whō I wrought to daye is Booz. Thē sayde Noemi vnto her doughter in lawe: blessed bee he for he ceaseth not to do the same goodnes to the dead, ỹ he dyd to the lyuinge. And Noemi sayd vnto her: ỹ mā is nye vnto vs, euē of our next kin. And Ruth the Moabite sayd he bad me also, ỹ I shuld cōtinue with his yōg mē, vntil they had ended al ỹ heruest he hath. Thē saide Noemi vnto Ruth her daughter i law, it is best my daughter, ỹ ỹ go out wt his maydens, & that no mā mete the in any other feld. And so she kepte her by the maydēs of Booz, to gather vnto ỹ ende of barley haruest & not of whete haruest also: & dwelt with her mother in law

A Thē Noemi her mother i law sayde vnto her: my daughter I wil seke rest for the, ỹ thou mayste be in better case. For now this Booz oure kynsmā with whose maydens ỹ waste, wenoweth his barley to night in the threshing floure: washe thy selfe therfore & anoynt the & put thy rayment vpō the, & get the to the threshing floure. But let not the mā beware of the, vntil he haue left eating & drinkinge. And when he goeth to slepe, marke the place wher he layth hym downe, & then go & lyft vp the clothes that ar on his fete, and laye the downe & so shal he tell the what ỹ shalt doo. And she answered her: al ỹ thou biddest me I wil do. And so she went vnto the floure, & dyd according to al ỹ her mother in lawe bad her. And when Booz had eaten & dronken & made hym mery, he went & laye downe by the side of the heape. And she came softly & lyft vp the clothes of his fete, & layde her downe. And at midnighte the mā was afrayd & groped. And behold a womā laye at his fete. Thē he said what art thou, & she answered, I am Ruth thine handmayde, spreade thy mātell ouer thyne handmayde, for ỹ art the next of the kinne And then he sayd blessed be ỹ in the Lord my daughter, for thou haste shewed more goodnes in the later ende, thē at the beginning, in as moch as ỹ folowdest not yonge mē, whether they were poore or ryche. And now my daughter feare not, I wil do to ỹ al that ỹ requirest, for all the gates of my people know that ỹ art a womā of vertue And it is true ỹ I am of thy nexte kynne: how beit, ther is one nyer then I. Tary al nyght. And when morninge is come yf he wil marye ỹ it is good, so let hym do. But & yf he wyl not haue the, as sure as thee lord liueth I wil haue the, lye stil vntil the morning. And so she laye at his fete vntyl the morning. And she arose vp before one could know āother. And he said: let nomā beware, ỹ there came any woman into the throshig floure. And he said: bring thy mātel ỹ ỹ hast vpō the & holde it vp. And she held it vp. And he mette in. vi. mesures of barley & layed it on her. And she gat her into thee citie: & she came in, to her mother in law which said: what tidinges my daughter? And she tolde her all that the man had done to her. And said therto, these. vi. measures of barleye gaue he me & sayde: thou shalt not go emptie vnto thy mother i law Thē sayd she: my daughter syt styl, vntyl thou knowe how the matter wyl chaunce. For the mā wyl not be in rest vntyl he haue fynished the matter thys same daye.

¶ Booz taketh Ruth to wyfe, of whō he begetteth Obed. The. iiii. Chapter.

Then went Booz vn to the at gate & satt hym downe there: & behold, the kynsmā of which Booz spake came by. Vnto whō he sayd come & syt downe here, and called him by hys name. And he turned in & sate down. Thē he

he toke ten mē of the elders of the cytye, & sayd, syt ye downe here. And they sat downe. Thē he sayd vnto the kynsmā: Noemi that is come agayne out of the cōtreye of Moab, wyl sell a parcel of lād which was our brother Elimelecs. And I thought to do the to wete & bidde the bye it before the enhabitources and elders of my people, yf thou be dysposed to calenge it: but and yf thou wilt not purchase it, then tell me that I may wete it. For there is none to calēge it saue thou, & I nert the. And the other answered I wyll purchase it.

B Then sayd Booz, what day thou byest the feld of the hand of Noemi, thou must take also Ruth thee Moabite the wyfe of the dead, to steare vp the name of the dead vpon his enheritaūce. Thē sayd the kinsmā, I cannot purchase it for marriage of my owne enheritaūce: take thou my righte to the, for I cannot purchase it. Now this was the maner of olde tyme in Israell concerning purches & chaungynge, for to stablithe al thing: that a man must plucke of hys showe & geue it hys neyghboure, and thys was a wytnesse in Israell.

And the kynsman sayd to Booz, bye it thou: & so drue of hys showe. Then sayde Booz vnto the elders & vnto al the people ye are witnesses thys daye, that I haue boughte all that was Elimelecs, & all that was Chilions & Mahelons, of the hande of Noemi. And Moreouer Ruth the Moabite the wyfe of Mahelon, do I take vn to me to wyfe to stere vp the name of the dead vpon hys enheritaunce, that hys name be not put oute from amonge hys brethren, and from the gate of hys cytie: ye are witnesses thys daye.

And al the people that were in the gate, & the elders sayd we ar witnesses: the lord make thee woman that is come into thyne house like Rahel & Lea, which twayne did bylde the house of Israell: that she may * do vertuously in Ephrathah, & be famouse in Bethlehem, & that thyne house be like the house of Pharez, whom Thamar bare vnto Juda, euē of the sede which the Lord shal geue the of this young woman.

* That is, ye may prayse the well & honestly.

D And so Booz toke Ruth, & she was his wyfe. And he wēt in vnto her, & the Lorde gaue that she cōceaued and bare a sonne. And the wemen sayd vnto Noemi: blessed be the Lorde, the whyche hath not lefte the wythoute an heyre thys daye * that shall haue a name in Israell, and that shal bringe thy lyfe agayne and cherishe thyne old age. For thy daughter in lawe whych loueth the hath borne hym that is better to ȳ then seuen sonnes. And Noemi toke the chylde and layed it in her lappe, and became nourse vnto it. And her neyghboures gaue it a name sayinge: there is a chylde borne to Noemi, and called it Obed: he is thee father of Jsai, thee father of Dauid.

* That is to say, a name that remayne in Israell

Thys is thee generatyon of Pharez, Pharez begat Hezron: Hezron begat Ram, Ram begat Aminadab, Aminadab begat Nahason, Nahason begat Salmō, Salmō begat Booz, Booz begat Obed, Obed begat Jsai, Jsai begat Dauid.

¶ Thus endeth the Boke of Ruth.

The fyrst Boke of Samuel, called the fyrst boke of the Kynges.

¶ Elkanah hath two wyues, Hannah and Phenenah, Phenennah vpbrayeth Hannah, because she is childlesse. Hannah after prayer made to god, byngeth forth Samuel.

The. j. Chapter.

A There was a mā of Ramathaim Zophim of moūt Ephraim named Elkanah, the sōne of Jerohā, the sonne of Elihu, the son of Thohu, ȳ sōne of Zuph an Ephrathite: whyche had two wyues, the one called Hannah & the other Phenennah. And Phenennah had childrē but Hannah had none. And the sayd man went out of hys cytie euery feastful daye to praye and to offer vnto the lorde of hostes: where thee two sonnes of Eli (Hophni & Phinehes) were the Lordes prestes.

And

And it fel on a day as Elkanah had offered ȳ he gaue to Phenēnah his wife & to al her sōnes & daughters porciōs. But vnto Hānah he gaue a * porcion wythe a heupe chere, for he loued her, neuertheles the Lorde had made her barren. And thereto her enemye Phenennah vexed her a good in castynge her in ȳ tethe how ȳ Lord had made her barren. And so did she yere by yere as oft as she wēt vp to the house of ȳ lord. And so chafed her, wherfore Hānah wepte & ate not. Then saide Elkanah her husband to her: Hannah why weapest ȳ and why eatest thou not? & why is thyne herte so troubled? am not I better to the, then ten sonnes? Thē Hannah rose vp after ȳ they had eaten & droncke in Siloh. And Eli the preast sate vpō a stole by one of ȳ syde postes of the tēple of the Lorde. And she was troubled in her sprytes, and prayed vnto the Lord & wepte sore, & vowed a vowe & sayde. Lord of hostes, yf ȳ wilt loke on the wretchednes of thine hād mayde & shalt remembre me & not forget thine hādmayde, & shalte geue vnto thyne hādmayde a mā chylde I will geue hym vnto ȳ lord, al the dayes of hys life & ther shal nether rasor ore sheres come vpon hys heed. And as she cōtinued praying before ȳ Lord, Eli marked her mouth. For Hannah she spake in her hert, & her lippes dyd but moue onli, but her voice was not heard. And therfore Eli toke her for dronken & said vnto her, how lōg wilt thou be dronkē? put away frō the, ȳ wyne ȳ thou hast. Hānah answered & sayd: not so my lorde, I am a woman sorowfull in myne hert, & haue dronck nether wyne nor any strong dricke, but I haue * poured out my soule before the Lorde. Count not thyne handmaide to be like a daughter of vnthriftines: for out of the aboūdaunce of my meditatiō and greafe haue I spoke hitherto.

Eli answered and sayd: go in peace the god of Israel shal graunt the thy petitiō that thou hast asked of him. Thē she said let thine hāmaide find grace in thy syght. And so the woman went her way, and did eate and loked no more so sadd. And they rose vp erly & bowed them selues before ȳ Lord, & thē returned & wēt to their house to Ramath. And Elkanah lay by his wife Hannah, & the Lord remembred her. And in processe of tyme she conceaued & bare a sonne and called his name * Samuell: because she had asked him of the Lorde.

* That is, asked of god.

And Elkanah and al hys house went vp to offer vnto the Lorde, bothe the offerynges due for the feast and also his vowes: but Hannah went not vp for she sayd vn to her husbande: I wyll tarye vntyll the ladd be wened, and thē I wil bryng him, ȳ he maye apeare before the Lord & there abyde for euer. And Elkanah her husbande sayd to her: do what semith the best: tarye vntyll thou hast wened hym, onlye the Lorde make good his sayinge. And so the womā abode and gaue her sōne sucke, vntil she wened him. And thē she toke him vp her, when she had wened him, vp thre bullockes & an Epha of flourc & a bottell of wine, & brought him vnto ȳ house of the Lorde in Siloh how be it ȳ child was yet younge. And they slue the bullockes and brought in ȳ ladd to Eli, & then she sayde Oh my lord: as truly as thy soule lyueth my lord: I am ȳ womā ȳ stode by ȳ here, praying vnto the Lord & for thys ladd I prayed, & ȳ Lord hath geuē me my desyre whiche I asked of him: & therfore I also lēde him ȳ Lord, as lōg as he may be lēt ȳ lord. And so they prayed ther vnto ȳ lorde.

And he wente and layde him downe to slepe. And the lozd called ouce agayne: B Samuel, and Samuel arose & wẽt to E-li & sayd: I am here, thou dyddest cal me. And he answered: I called ꝯ not my sõne. Go agayne & take thy reste: but it was yet Samuel knew ꝯ lozd & yet ꝯ woꝛd of the Lord was opened vnto him. And the lozd wẽt to & called Samuell the thꝛyd tyme. And he arose & wẽt to Eli and sayd: I am here, foz thou hast called me. Thẽ Eli pꝛe-ceaued ꝯ the Lord had called the lad. And sayd vnto hym, go & lye downe: & yf he cal the agayne, thẽ saye, speake on Lorde, foz thy seruaũt heareth. And Samuel wẽt & layed him down in his place. And the lozd came & stode & called as befoze, Samuel, Samuel. And Samuell sayd: speake on, foz thy seruaũt heareth the. And the Lozd sayd to Samuel: behold I wil do a thing in Israel, that ꝯ eares of as many as hea-reth it, shal tingle. In that day I wyl pꝛe-foꝛme to Eli, al that I haue spokẽ concer-ninge hys house: I wyl begin it & ende it. Foz I haue tolde hym ꝯ I wyl iudge hys house foz euer. Foz the wyckednes whych he knoweth, how hys sonnes are vngraci-ouse & he was not wroth therewyth. And C therfoze I haue swoꝛne vnto the house of Eli, that the wyckednesse of Elies house, shal not be purged with sacrifice noꝛ offe-ring, whyle the woꝛlde standeth. And Sa muel laye tyll the moꝛnyng & then opened the doꝛes of the house of the Lord.

But Samuel feared, to shewe Eli the vision. Then Eli called Samuel & sayd: Samuel my sonne. And he answered here I am. And he sayde what is that he sayde vnto thee? See ꝯ hyde it not frõ me. * The Lord do so & so to the, yf thou hyde anye thing frõ me, of all that he sayde vnto the. And Samuel tolde him euery whit & hyd it not frõ hym. And he answered: it is thee Lord, let him do what semeth hym best.

And Samuel grewe, & the Lorde was D with him, & left none of his woꝛdes vnper foꝛmed. And al Israel frõ Dan to Berse-be wist that Samuel was truly made the Lordes pꝛophete. And the Lord apeared agayne in Siloh: foz the lozd opened him selfe to Samuell in Siloh, thoꝛowe the woꝛde of the Lorde.

¶ The batel of the Philistines. Israell fleeth. The Arcke of the Lorde is taken, Elies childꝛen dye, and he hym selfe also.

The. iiii. Chapter

AND Samuell spake vnto all A Israel. And Israel went out A against the Philistines to ba tel, & pitched beyde the * help stone. And the Philistines pit ched in Aphek. And put them selues in aray against Israel. And in ꝯ ende of the battel

a a. ii Israel

Israel was put to the woorsse before the Philistines. And the Philistynes slue in arate alonge by the feldes, about a fowre thousande men.

And when the people were come into their tētes, the elders of Israel said: wherfore hath the lord beaten vs this daye before the Philistines? let vs fetch the arck of the apoyntment of the lord out of Siloh vnto vs, and let it come amōge vs and saue vs oute of the handes of our enemies. And the people sēt to Siloh, and fet frō thence the arck of the B apoyntmēt of the lord of hostes whych dwelleth betwene the Cherubins. And ther were the two sōnes of Eli, Hophni and Phynehes with the arck of the apoyntmente of God. And whē the arck of the apointmēt of the lord came into the host, all Israel showted a myghtie showte, so that the erth range agayne.

Whē the Philistines herd the noise of the showte they said: what meaneth the soūd of this myghtye showt in the host of the Ebrues? And they vnderstode how that the arck of the lorde was come into the hoste. And the Philistines were afrayed, when it was told how that God was come into the host and said. Wo vnto vs, for it was neuer so before this. Wo vnto vs, who shal deliuer vs out of the hād of this mighty god? this is the god that smote the Egipcias with all mauer of plages in the wildernes. Be strōg and quitte your selues like mē, ye Philistines, Iudi.xiii.a that ye be not seruaūtz vnto the Ebrues, * as they haue ben to you. Be mē therfore and fight. And the Philistines fought and Israel was put to the woorsse and fled, euerye mā into his tēt. And ther was a mighty great slaughter, so that ther were ouer thrown of Israel thirty thousād foteme. And the arck of god was take, and the two sōnes of Eli, Hophni and Phinehes were deed. And ther cā a mā of Beiamin out of the aray and came to Siloh the same daye, with his clothes rent and erthe vpō his heed. And when the mā came in, Eli sate vpon a stole by the waye syde lokynge: for hys herte feared for the arcke of God. And the man came in and tolde it in the cytte. And all the cytie cried.

Whē Eli heard the noise of the criege, he asked what the noyse of the rumor mēte. And the man hasted and came in and told Eli. Eli was foure thoze and eighten yere olde, 1.Regu.iii.a and * his syght fayled him that he could not se. And the man said vnto Eli: I am he that came out of the aray and fled out of the host thys day. And he said how is it fortuned, my sonne? And the messēger answered and said: Israel is fled before the Philistines D and ther is a great slaughter chaūsed amōg the people, and thy two sōnes, Hophni and phynehes ar deed, and therto the arck of God is take. And whē he made mēcīō of the arck of God, Eli fel frō of hys stoole backwarde toward the gate, and hys necke brake, and he dyed: for he was olde and vnwieldye, and he had iudged Israel fourtye yeres.

And hys daughter in law Phynehes wife was with chyld and nye the byrth. And whē she heard the tydynges of the taking of the arck of god, and her father in law, and her husband were deed, she bowed her self and traueled, for her paynes came vpō her. And about the time of her deeth, the weme stode about her, sayd vnto her: feare not for that hast borne a sōne. But she answered not nor regarded it. And she named the chylde Ichabod saying: honoure is departed frō Israel. Because the arck of god was taken, and her father in law and her husbād were deed. And therfore she sayd, honour is gone from Israel, because the arcke of God was taken.

C Dagon the God of the Philistines is cast flat before the arck. The Philistines are plaged in the secret places. The Enhabiters of Ikaron refuse to receaue the arcke.

The.v.Chapter.

AND the Philistines toke the arcke of god and caried it from A *the help stone, vnto Asdod, Hebr. Eben. ezer. and brought it into the house of Dagon, and sett it by Dagon. And when they of Asdod were vp in the mornyng behold, Dagō lay grouelyng vpō the erth before the arck of the Lord. And they toke Dagon and sette hym in hys place agayne. And when they were vp early in the next mornyng behold, Dagō lay grouelyng vpō thee groūd before the arck of the Lord, and hys heed and his two handes cut of vpō the threshold, the body only was lefte on hym. Wherfore nether the prestes of Dagō, nether any mā that cometh into Dagōs house might treade on the threshold of Dagō in Asdod, vnto this daye. But

But the hand of the lord was heuy vpon thē of Asdod, and he destroyed them, and smote thē vnto Emerodes, both Asdod and all the costes thereof. And when the mē of Asdod saw that it was so, they said: that arcke of C God of Israel shal not abyde here with vs, for his hand is sore vpō vs and vpō Dagō our god. And so they sēt and geathered al the lordes of the Philistynes vnto thē and sayde: what shal we do with the arcke of the God of Israel. Then sayd they of Geth let the arck of the god of Israel be caried about. And they caried the arke of the god of Israell about. And whē they had caried it about, the hand of the Lord was in the cittie with a mighty greate plage, and he smote the men of the cytye bothe smalle and greate: and they were smytten in theyr secrete places, D with the Emerodes. Then they sente the arcke of God to Akaron. And as sone as the arcke of God came to Akaron, the Akaronites cryed out sayinge: they haue brought the Arcke of the God of Israell to vs: to slee vs and oure people.

Then they sent and kette al the Lordes of the Philistines vnto them and sayde: sēd away the arcke of the God of Israel, and let it go home againe vnto his awne place, that it slee vs not with our people. For ther was a plage of deeth throw out al the cytye, and the hād of God was exceding sore ther, in so moch that they which died not, were smyte with the Emerodes: so that the crie of the cittie went vp to heauen.

The Notes.

at At the presence of the arcke falleth the Idoll when the Gospel of the Lord raungeth throwe the gentiles, then is all superstitiō vtterly ouerthrowē. When the worde of God is preached are Heresies, the fautes of maners, and errours of fayth destroyed.

C The heyfers bringe home the arcke with the rewardes. The Bethshamites were plaged after they had sene the arcke.

The.vi.Chapter.

AND so whē arcke of the Lorde A had bene in the contreye of the Philistines seuen monethes, the Philistines called for the prestes and the sothsayers sayinge: what shal we do with the arcke of the lord? tell vs wherwith we shal sende it home againe. They answered yf thou sende the arck of the god of Israel home againe sende it not emptye: But rewarde it with a trespasse offering: and then ye shalbe whole, and it shalbe knowen to you, why hys hand departeth not from you.

Then sayde they, what shalbe the trespaceofferyng whych we shall reward hym with? And they answered: fyue golde arsses with the Emerodes and fyue golden myce, accordyng to the nōbre of the lordes of the Philistines, for it was one maner of plage that was on you all, and on your Lordes to. Wherfore ye shall make images lyke to your arsses with Emerodes and images lyke to your mice that destroyed your land, and shal B geue glory vnto the God of Israell: that he may take his hād frō of you, and from of youre Goddes, and from of youre lande. Wherfore should ye harde your hertes as the Egyptians and Pharao hardened their hertes, whyche for all that (when he had played his pageauntes with them) were fayne to lette the people go and depart.

Now therfore make a new carte and take two mealche kyne, on whose necke neuer came yock. And tye the kyne in the carte, and bring the calues whom frō thē. Thē take the arck of the lord and put it in the cart, and put the Iuelles of gold (whych ye reward him with for a trespace offering) in a forcer by the side therof and send it awaye and let it go. And marke yf he go vp by the way that leadeth vnto his owne cost, to Bethsames, thē it is he that did vs this great euyll. But and yf he do not, then it is not hys hande that smote vs, but it was a chaūce that happened vs. And the mē did euē so: they toke two kine that gaue milck and tyed thē in the cart, and kept the calues at home, and they laid the arck of the lord vpō the cart and the forcer with the myce of golde and the images of their arsses with Emerodes. And the kine toke the straight way to Bethsames, both one way, and as they wēt, lowed, turning neither to the right hād ner to the leaft. And the lordes of the Philistines wēt after thē vntyl they came to the borders of Bethsames.

And they of Bethsames were reppynge their wheteharuest in the valeye. And they lift vp their eyes and spied the arcke. And reioyced whē they saw it. And the cart came into the groue of one Iehosua a Bethsamite, and stode styl ther. Ther was ther also a great stone. And they claue the wood of the cart and offered the kine a burntoffering vnto the Lorde. And the Leuytes toke

downe the arcke of the Lorde & the forcer & was thereby, wherein the Iuelles of gol de were & put thē on the greate stone. And & mē of Bethsames sacrificed burnt sacri fice & offered offerynges & same daye vnto the Lord. And whē the kyng Lordes of the Philistines had sene it, they returned to Akaron the same date. These are & gol den arses wythe Emerodes whyche thee Philistines gaue to amēdes for a trespace offering, to the Lorde: for Asood one: for Gaza one: for Askalon one: for Geth one:
& for Akarō one. And & goldē myce were according to the nōbre of al the cities of & Philistines thorow &. v. lordshipes: both of walled townes & of townes vnwalled,
euē vnto the greate stone, wherō they sett
downe & arck of & lord: which stone remai
neth vnto this day in & feld of Iehosua & Bethsamite. And he plaged & mē of Beth sames, because they had sene the arcke of the lorde. And he slue of the people & kyng thousād & thre skore & tē persones. And & people lamēted, because the lord had slain so greate a slaughter of the. And the mē of bethsames said who is able to stād before the lord so holy a god & to whō shal he go from vs? And they sent messengers to the enhabyters of Kariath Iarim sayinge:
The Philistines haue broughte home againe the arcke of the lorde: come downe & fet it vp to you.

¶ The arck is brought to Kariathiarim. The peo ple wepe, for whych Samuell maketh intercession to the Lord. The Philistines are smytten.

The. vii. Chapter.

AND the mē of Kariathiarim
cam & fet vp & arck of & lord, & * brought it vnto the house of Abinabad in Gabaah and sanctified Eleazar his sōne to waite vpō the arck of the lord. And while the arck abode in Kariathiarim, the daies multiplyed, that it was twentye yeres, &
all Israell lamented after the Lorde.

And Samuell spake vnto all Israell saying yf ye become againe vnto the lord wal your hertes, thē * put away the strā ge goddes frō amōg you, & Astharoth, & prepare your hertes vnto & lord & serue hi alone, & so shal he rydd you out of the hādes of the Philistines. And thē the childrē of Israel did put away * Baali & Astha-roth, & serued & lord only. Thē said samuell gather al Israel to Mazphah, & I may pray for you vnto the lord, & they gathered together to mazphah, & drew water & pow red it out before the lord & fasted the same day & sayd ther: we haue synned against & Lord. And Samuel iudged the causes of the chyldrē of Israel in Mazphah. When the Philistines heard & the chyldrē of Israel were gethered together to Mazphah, the lordes of & Philistines wēt vp against Israel. And whē & chyldrē of Israel heard it, they were afrayde of thee Philistines & said to Samuel: cease not to crie vnto the Lord our god for vs, that he may saue vs out of the handes of the Philistines. And Samuel toke a sucking lābe & offred it al together for a burntoffring, vnto the lord & cryed vnto the Lorde for Israel: & the Lord heard him. And as Samuel offered the burntoffring, the Philistines come to fyght agaynst Israel. But the Lord thūdred a great thūder the same day vpō the Philistines, & turmoyled thē, & they were beate before Israel. And Israel issued out of Mazphah & pursued the Philistines &
slue thē, vntyll they came vnder Bethcar.
And thē Samuel toke a stone & pitched it betwene Mazphah & Sen, & called the na me therof * the stone of helpe, saying: thus farre hath the lord holpe vs. And so & Phi listines were broughte vnder & they came nomore into the coostes of Israel: for the hād of the lord was vpō the philistines al
the dayes of Samuel. Therto the cytyes which the Philistines had take frō Israel came agayne to Israell, euē frō Akarō to Geth, wyth the coostes of the same, whych Israell plucked oute of the handes of the Philistines. For there was peace betwene Israell and the Amorites. And Samuell iudged Israell all thee dayes of hys lyfe,
and wente aboute yeare by yere, to Bethel Galgall and Mazphah, and iudged Isra ell in all those places, and came agayne to Ramath: for ther was hys house, and ther
he iudged Israel, and there he bylt an aul
ter vnto the Lord.

Israel requyreth i.Kinges a king Cis

WHen Samuel was olde, he made hys sonnes iudges ouer Israel. The name of his eldest sonne was Joell, & the name of the seconde Abiath, which were iudges in Berlabe. Neuerthe lesse his sonnes folowed not his steppes:
but turned a side after lucres & * toke rewardes, & peruerted the right. Thē al the elders of Israel geathered thē together & came to Samuel vnto Ramath and said
vnto him: behold, thou art olde & thy son-nes folow not thy waies. Now therfore * make vs a king to iudge vs, as all other naciōs haue. But the thig displeased Sa muel, whē they sayde, geue vs a kynge to iudge vs. And Samuel prayed vnto the lord. And & lord sayd vnto samuell, heare
the voice of the people in al & they say vnto the. For they haue not caste the awaye, but me: that I should not raigne ouer thē.
And as they haue euer done (sēce I brought them out of Egipte vnto this daye, & haue forsaken me & serued other goddes) euē so do they vnto the. Now therfore her ken vnto their voice howbeit yet, testifye

told al the wordes of the lord vnto the people & asked a king of him, & he saide: thys shalbe the * duty of the king & shal raigne
ouer you: he wil take your sōnes & put thē
to his charetes & make his horsemē of thē & they must rūne before his charet, & wyll make hi captaines of thē ouer thousāde &
ouer fyftyes, & wil set thē to eare his grōd, & together in his herucst, & to make instru
mētes of warre & apparel for hys charets
And he wyll take youre daughters & ma-

your oliue trees, & geue thē to his seruaūtes. And he shal take & tēth of your seed & of your vines, & geue it to his lordes, & to his seruaūtes. And he shal take the beste of your menseruaūtes & maideseruaūtes &
yōug men, & of your asses, & do his worke wthē. And he shal take the tenth of youre shepe, & ye shalbe his seruaūtes. And whē ye crye out at that tyme vpon your king, whych ye shall haue chosen you, the Lord
wyll not heare you at that daye.

Neuertheles the people wold not heare
the voyce of Samuell, but dyd saye: naye not so: But ther shalbe a kyng ouer vs, &
we wilbe like al other naciōs. And our kin ge shal iudge vs, & go oute before vs and fight our battels. And Samuel hearde al
the wordes of the people & rehersed thē in the eares of the lord. And the lord sayd to Samuel: herkē vnto theyr voyce & make thē a king. Then sayd Samuell vnto the men of Israel go euery man to his cytie.

¶ Saul the sonne of Cis seketh his fathers Asses & is chosen kynge.

The. ix. Chapter.

NOw ther was a mā of Bē Ja
min named Cis thee sonne of Abiell, the sonne of Zeror, the sonne of Bechorath, the sōne
of Aphiah, the sonne of a mā
that was a Jemmite, a mā of might the sa me had a sōne called Saul, a goodli yōug
mā, so & amōg the chyldrē of Israel, there was none goodlyer thē he, and was therto frō the shoulders vpward hier then al the other people. And it chaūced that the asses of this Cis Sauls father were lost. Then sayd Cis to Saul hys sonne: take one of the laddes with the & vp & go seke the Asses. And they wēt thorow moūt Ephraim & thorow the lād of Salisa, & foūd thē not Thē they wēt thorow the land of Salim, & ther they were not. Then they wente also thorow the lād of Jemini, & they foūd thē
not. Then whē they were come to the land of Zuph, Saul sayd to the yōuge mā that was with him: come let vs returne, lest my father leue caringe for the Asses, and take thought for vs. And he answered him: behold, ther is in this citie a worshipfull mā
of god, & al & he saith, cometh to passe, now
then let vs go thether: peraduēture he shal shew vs what way we may go. Thē sayd Saul to his ladde yf we go what shal we bring the mā? For our bred is al spent out of our hāpers, & ther is none other present to bring the man of God, what haue we?
And the yōug mā answered Saul agayn & sayd: I haue foūd about me the fourthe part of a Sicle, that wyl we geue the man of God to tell vs our waye.

Before tyme in Israel whē a mā wēt to seke an āswere of god, thus wise he spake come & let vs go to yat Seer. For he that is nowe

now called a prophet, was in the old tyme called a Sear. Then sayde Saull to hys yong man: wel sayd of the: come let vs go And so they went vnto the cytie where the man of God was, And as they were goynge vp into the cytie, they met with damo selles that came out to draw water, & sayd vnto the: is ther here a sear. And the maydens answered the, yea: beholde, he goeth before you. Make haste nowe, for he came thys day to the cytie, for ỹ people must offer this day in ỹ hyl. Whē ye be come into the cytie, so shal you finde him, yet he goo vp to the hyll to eate: for the people wyll not eat vntil he come, because he must bless the offring. And thē eat they that be bidde to ỹ feast. Now therfore get you vp for euē now shal ye fynd hym. And they wēte vp into the cytie. And whē they were come into the middes of ỹ citie: behold, Samuel came out against the, for to go vp to the hyl. But the lord had told Samuel a day before Saul came, saying: ℣ morow this tyme I wyl send the a mā out of the lande of Bē Jamin, him shalt thou annoynte to be captaine ouer my people Israel: that he may saue my people oute of the hād of the Philistines, for I haue loked vpō my people, and theyr crye is come vnto me. Whē Samuel saw Saul, the Lorde answered him: se, this is the mā whō I spake to ỹ of This same shal raygne ouer my people.

Thē went Saul to Samuel in ỹ middle of the gate, & sayd: tell me I praye the, where about the sears house is. & Samuell answered Saul & sayd: I am the sear, go vp before me vnto the hyll, for ye shall eate with me to daye. And to morow I wil let the go earlye, & wyll tel the al that is in thyne herte, & as for thyne asses that were lost thys daye thre dayes, care not for thē, for they are found. And Moreouer whose shal the bewtiful thinges of Israel be? be longe they not to the, & vnto al thy fathers house? But Saul ānswered & said: am not I the sonne of a Jemmite of the smalleste tribe of Israel, & my kinred the least of al the kynredes of thee trybe of Ben Jamin, wherfore then spakest thou so to me.

And Samuell toke Saul & his ladd & brought thē into the parler and made thē syt in the chefest place amonge thē ỹ were bidde: which were vpō a thirtye personnes. Thē sayd Samuel vnto the cooke: bring forth the portion whyche I gaue the, & of which I said kepe it wt the. And the cooke toke vp the shoulder & brought it, & sett it before Saul. And Samuel sayd: behold ỹ which is left: put it before the & eate, for I kept it for the of purpose, whē I called the people. And so Saul dyd eate wt Samuell that day. And when they were come downe frō the hyll into the cytie, Samuel comuned with Saul vpō the toppe of the house: & thei arose erly. And about ỹ spryg of the day Samuel called Saul vpō the top of the house saying: vp ỹ I may send the away. And Saul arose. And they wēt out at ỹ dores both of thē, both he & Samuel. And whē they were come almost out of the towne, Samuel sayd to Saul: byd the lad go before vs, & he went, but stand thou still a whyle euen now, that I maye shewe the what God sayth.

Thei bleu then that houres.

Then Samuel toke a bottle of oyle & powred it vpon his head & kissed hym & sayd: the lord hath anoynted the to be a captayne ouer his enheritance. And now whē ỹ art departed frō me, ỹ shalte mete two mē by ✱Rahels sepulchre in the borders of Ben Jamin euē at Zalzah. And they wyll saye vnto the, the asses which ỹ wentest to seke, are found, se, thy father hath lefte ỹ care of ỹ asses & sorowth for you saying: what shal I do for my sōne? Then thou shalte goo forth frō whence & shalte come to the oke of Thabor. And when he had made an ende of prophesieng, he came to thee hyll. Saules fathers brother sayd vnto hym & hys lad: whether wēt ye? And he answered: to seke the asses, & when we saw that they were no where, we wente to Samuel. Then sayde Sauls vncle: tell me what Samuel sayd vnto you? And Saul ānswered hys vncle: he told vs ỹ the asses were found. But of ỹ kingdō wherof Samuel spake told he hī not. After that Samuel called the people together vnto the lord to Maspha & said vnto the childrē of Israel: thus sayth the lord god of Israel, I brought you out of Egipt, & deliuered you out of the hand of the Egiptiās, & out of the hādes of al kingdōs that oppressed you. And ye haue thys day cast away your God ỹ holpe you out of al your aduersites & tribulations. And ye haue sayd vnto him, ✱ make a kinge ouer vs: Now therfore stād before the lord by your tribes and your thousandes: And whē Samuel had brought all ỹ tribes of Israel the tribe of Bē Jamin was caught When he had brought the tribe of Bē Jamin by theyr kinredes, the kinred of Metri was caught: & Saul the sonne of Cis was caught, And they sought him; but he could not be found. Thē thei asked the lord further: whether ỹ mā shuld come thither. And the lord ānswered: behold, he hath hyd him self amōg the stuffe. And they rāne & fet him thēce. And whē he stode amōg the people, he was hyer then any of the people frō the shoulders vpward. And Samuel sayd to al the people: ther se ye whō ỹ lord hath chosen & how ther is none like him among all the compaine. And al the people showted & sayd: God lende the King lyfe.

Then Samuel tolde the people the duetie of the kingdō, & wrote it in a boke, and layd it vp before the Lord, & so sent al the people awaye, euery mā to his house. And Saull also went home to Gabaah. And ther went wyth hym an hoste, soth as god had touched theyr hartes. But the chyldrē of vnthrftinesse sayde: how shall he saue vs? and despysed hym and broughte hym not presentes. And he made as though he had not heard it.

The .xi. Chapter.

Then Nahas thee Ammonite came & beleged Jabes in Galaad. And al the people of Jabes sayd vnto Nahas: make a couenaūt with vs & we wyl be thy seruaūtes. And Nahas the Ammonite sayd: hereto wyl I make a couenaūte with you, euen to thrust out al your righte eyes, ỹ I may bring ỹ shame vpō al Israel Then sayde the elders of Jabes: geue vs vii. dayes respite ỹ we may sende messengers vnto al ỹ costes of Israel. And thē ỹ ther come no mā to helpe vs, we wyl come out to ỹ. Then came ỹ messengers to Gabaah where Saul dwelt, & told this tidinges in the eares of ỹ people. And al ỹ people lift vp theyr voices & wept. And behold Saul came folowig hys oxen out of ỹ feld, & asked what ayled ỹ people to wepe And they tolde him ỹ tidinges of the men of Jabes. Thē cam the spryte of god vpō Saul, when he heard those tidinges, & he was exceding angrye. And toke a youke of oxen & hewed thē in peces, & sent them throwe out al ỹ costes of Israel by ỹ hādes of messengers saying: whosoeuer cometh not forth after Saul & after Samuel, so shall hys oxen be serued. Then the feare of the of the Lord fel on the people, & they came out as it had bene but one man. And whē they were nōbred in Bezek the childrē of Israel were thre hundred thousande, and the mē of Juda thirtie thousād. And they sayde vnto ỹ messengers that came, so say vnto ỹ mē of Jabes i Galaad: to morowe by ỹ tyme, the sonne be hote, ye shal haue helpe. And the messengers came and shewed the men of Jabes, & they were glad. And then the men of Jabes sayde: to morowe we wyll come oute vnto you, that ye may do with vs all ỹ pleaseth you. And on ỹ morow Saul put the people in thre partes. And they came in vpō ỹ host in the mornyng watche, & slue ỹ Ammonites vntyl ỹ heat of ỹ day. And they ỹ remayned, skattered: so ỹ two of them were not lefte together. Then said ỹ people to Samuel: what are they ỹ said: shal Saul raigne ouer vs? bringe thē ỹ we may slay thē. But Saul sayd: ther shal no mā die this day, for to day the lord hathe saued Israell.

Thē sayd Samuel vnto ỹ people: come & let vs go to galgal, & renew ỹ kingdome ther. And ỹ people wēt to Galgal & made Saul kyng ther, before ỹ Lorde in Galgal. And ther they offered peace offrynges before the Lord. And there Saul and all the people reioysed exceedyngly.

The. xii. Chapter.

THē said Samuel vnto al Israel: beholde I haue obeyed your voice in al ỹ ye sayd vnto me, and haue made you a king. And se your king walketh before you. But I am old & gray headed: & behold my sōnes ar wt you & I haue walked before you frō my childhode vnto this day. Behold here I ā: answere me before ỹ lord & before his anoynted, whose ox haue I take? or whose asse haue I take? whō haue I done wrōg to? or whō haue I pilled? And of whose hād haue I receaued any bribe, to blynd mine eyes ther wt? and I wil restore it you againe. And they say thou hast done vs no wrong, nor pylled vs, nether hast thou taken ought of any mānes hande. Then sayde he to them: the Lord is witnesse vnto you, and hys anoynted is wytnesse this day, that ye haue founde nought in my handes. And they answered: we are witnesses. Then sayde Samuel vnto the people it is the Lord* ỹ made Moses & Aarō, & which brought youre fathers oute of Egipte. Now therfore stande styll, and let me reason wythe you before the Lord of al the ryghtewesnesses of the Lorde which he shewed both you and youre fathers.

After that Jacob was come into Egipt, youre fathers cryed vnto the Lorde, & the lord sent Moses & Aaron, which brought your fathers out of Egipte, & made them dwel in this place. Neuerthelater they forgat the Lorde their God. And he sold thē into the hande of Sisara cheke captayne of Jabin kynge of Hazor, and into the hādes of the philistines and into the handes of the kynge of Moab, which fought against them. Then they cryed vnto the lorde and sayde: we haue synned, because we haue forsake the Lord & haue serued Baalim and Astharoth. But now deliuer vs out of the handes of our enemyes and we wyl serue the. a AND it fel on a daye, that Jonathas the sonne of Saull sayd vnto his yōg mā that bare his harnes: come and let vs go ouer to ꝑ watchme of ꝑ Philistines that are pounder on the other side, & tolde not his father. But Saul ta-ryed in the vtmost part of Gabaah vnder
a pomegarnet tree, that was in Magron, & the people that were wt him were vpon a sixe hūdred men. And Ahiah ꝑ sonne of A hitob Jehabodes brother, the sōne of Phi nehes, the sōne of Eli, was ꝑ lordes priest in Siloh and bare an Ephod. But ꝑ peohath delyuered them into our hādes. And thys shalbe a sygne vnto vs. And when they had both shewed thē selues vnto the garison of the Philistines, the Philistines sayde: se, the Ebrues come oute of the holes wher they had hydd thē selues in. And the men of ꝑ garison answered Jonathas and his harnesbearer & sayd: come vpp to vs, & we wyll shew you a thing. Thē sayd Jonathas vnto hys harnesbearer: come vp after me, for the Lorde hath delyuered them into the handes of Israell. And Jo-also which had hydd them selues in mout Ephraim, as sone as they hearde howe ꝑ

the Philistines were fledde, they folowed
D after them in battell. And so God holpe Israell that daye. And the battell continued vntyll they came to Bethauen.

And the mē of Israel toyned thē selues together ꝑ daye: & Saul adiured the peo ple sayng: Cursed be he that eateth anye
fode vntyll nyghte, that I maye be aduē-ged of myne enemyes. And so there was none of ꝑ people that tasted any sustinaū
ce. And * al the land came to a wood wher
* the side honye lay vpon the groūd. And when the shal seme people were come into the wodde: Beholde, the honye dropped. How be it ther was no mā that moued his hād to his mouth,
because that ꝑ people feared the curse.
But Jonathas heard not whē his father
adiured ꝑ people, wherfore he put forth ꝑ end of the staffe ꝑ was in his hand & dept
it in an hony combe, & put his hand to his mouth, & * his eyes receaued syght. Thē spake one of the people & sayd: thy father adiured ꝑ people saying: Cursed be ꝑ mā that eateth any sustinaūce this daye, & yet
the people were fayntye. Then sayde Jonathas: my father hath troubled ꝑ * lād:
for se, myne eies hath receaued sighte, because I tasted a lytle of this honye: howe thē yf al ꝑ people had eaten of ꝑ spoile of ther enemies which thei found had ther not ben thē a moch greater slaughter amōg ꝑ
E Philistines? And they laied on the Philistines that daye, frō Machmas to Alalō.
And the people were exceding fayntye.

Then the people gatt thē to the spoyle & toke shepe oxen & calues, & slue them on the groūd & dyd eate with the bloud. Thē men tolde Saul sayinge: Behold the peo ple synne agaynst the Lorde, in that they eate wyth the bloude. And he sayd: ye hau
e trespaced: But rowle a great stone vn
to me now, and go abroade amōg the peo ple & bydd them bynge euery mā his ox & euery man his shepe, & slay them here, & synne not agaynst the Lord in eatyng wt
the bloude. And the people brought euery man his ox in hys hande by nyght & slue them ther. And Saul made an altare vn to the Lord. And ꝑ was ꝑ first altare that he made vnto the Lord. And Saul said:
lett vs go downe after the Philistines by nyght, & lett vs make hauoke amōg them
vntyl it be date in the morninge, & lett vs
not leue one of thē. And ꝑ people āswered:
do whatsoeuer thou thinkest beste. Then F sayd ꝑ priest: let vs come hither vnto god.
And Saul asked of god: shal I go downe
after ꝑ philistines & wilt ꝑ deliuer thē into mine hādes? But he answered him not at ꝑ time. Then sayd Saul let the people come hyther out of al quarters. & know &
se, in whō this synne is chaūced thys day:
for as truly as the Lord lyuethe whyche hath saued Israell, thoughe it be in Jonathas my sonne, he shall dye for it. But no man answered him of al the people.

Then he sayd vnto all Israel: be ye on one syde, & I and Jonathas my sōne wil be on another. And the people sayde vnto
Saul: what thou thynkest beste that do.
And Saul said vnto the Lord god of Is rael: geue perfect knowledge. And Saul and Jonathas were caught, & the people skaped free. Thē said Saul: cast lotes be twene me & Jonathas my sōne. And Jonathas was caught. Thē Saul sayde to G Jonathas tell me what thou haste done.
And Jonathas tolde him & said: I tasted
a lytle honye vpon the ende of my staffe ꝑ
was in myne hande, and se, I must dye.

Then sayd Saul * God do so & so to Ruth. 1.

Jonathas, ꝑ he dyed not. And thē Saull departed frō folowing ꝑ philistines. And ꝑ philistines wet to their owne place. And so Saul toke ꝑ kyngdom ouer Israell, & fought against al his enemyes on euery side: against ꝑ Moabites: against ꝑ children of Ammō: against Edomites: against the kinges of Zobah & agaynst the Phi-

The.xv. Chapter.

THen sayde Samuell vnto Saul: ye lord sẽt me to anoit the kyng ouer his people Israell. Nowe therfore obeye ye the voice of the wordes of ye Lorde. Thus sayth the Lord of hostes: I haue called to remembraũce ye whiche Amalech did to Israel * how they lay i wait for thẽ in the way, as they came out of Egipt. Now therfore go & smite ye Amalekites, & only destroy ye al that pertaineth vnto them & se thou haue no cõpassiõ on thẽ. But slay bothe man & womã, infante and sucklynge, & ore, shepe, camel & Asse.

And Saull tolde it the people, & nombred them in Telaim two hundred thousand footemen, & ten thousãd men of Juda. And Saul came vnto a citie of the Amaleckites, and foughte in a valeye. But Saul said vnto the Kenites go & depart & get you downe frõ amõg ye Amaleckites lest I destroye you with them for ye shewed mercy wythe Israel when they came out of Egipte. And the Kenites departed from among the Amaleckites.

And Saull slue the Amaleckites frõ Heuila to Sur that lyeth before Egipte, and toke Agag the kinge of the Amaleckites a liue, & vtterly destroied al ye people with the edge of the swerde. But Saul & the people spared Agag, and they left of ye shepe and of the oxen and * fatt thinges & the lambes & al that was good, and wold not destroy thẽ. But al that was noughte worth & slaggye, that they destroyed vtterly. Then came the word of the Lorde vnto Samuel saying: it ‡ repenteth me that I haue made Saul kig. For he is turned frõ me & hath not parformed my cõmaũdemẽtes, wherfore Samuell was euell a paide & cried vnto ye Lord al nyghte. And Samuel rose erly, to mete Saul in ye morning. And it was tolde Samuel ye Saul was come to Carmell, and had sette hym vp a piller of triumphe. And was turned and departed and gone to Galgal.

And whẽ Samuel was come to Saul, Saul sayde vnto him: Blessed be ye in the Lord. I haue done the cõmaundement of the Lord. And Samuel answered: what meaneth thẽ the bleatynge of the shepe in mine eares, & the noyse of the oxẽ which I heare. And Saul said, thei haue brought thẽ from the Amaleckites. For the people spared the best of the shepe & of the oxẽ, to sacrifice vnto the lord thy god. And the remnaunt we haue destroyed.

But Samuel sayde to Saul: cease & let me tel the what the Lorde hathe sayde to me thys nyght. And he sayd vnto him: saye on. And Samuell sayde when thou wastest ‡ lytle in thyne owne syght, wast ye not made the hed of the trybes of Israel. And the Lorde anoynted the kynge ouer Israel. And Saull sayde vnto Samuell: I haue obeyed the voyce of the Lorde, and went the waie which ye Lord sent me, & haue brought Agag the kinge of the Amaleckites. And haue vtterly destroyed ye Amaleckites. And ye people toke of ye spoile, shepe, oxen, & the cheefest of ye thinges why che shuld haue bene destroied, to offer vn to ye lord thy god in galgal. Thẽ said Samuel hath ye lord as great plesure in burnt sacrifyces & offerynges, as he hathe that thou shuldest obeye his voyce: Beholde, to ‡ obeye is better then offerynge, and to geue geue hede is better then the fat of rãmes. For rebellyousnes is as ye synne of witch craft, and stoburnesse is wyckednes and Idolatrye. Because therfore thou haste cast away the word of the Lord, therfore hathe the Lorde cast away the also, from beynge kynge.

Then sayd Saul to Samuel: I haue synned for I haue trespaced the mouth of the Lord, and thy wordes, because I feated the people & obeyed their voyce. But now take away my synne, & turne ãgaine wyth me, that I may worshipe the Lord. Then sayde Samuel vnto Saul: I wyl not returne wt ỹ: for thou hast cast awaye the byddyng of God, & therfore the lorde hath cast away the also, ỹ thou shalt not be kynge ouer Israell. And as Samuell turned to go away, he caught the lappe of his coote, and it rent. Thẽ Samuel sayd, the Lord hath rent the kyngdome of Israell from the thys daye, & hathe geuen it to a neyboure of thyne that is better then thou. And therto he that geuethe victorye to Israell, wyll not begyle nor repent: for he is not a man, that can repent.

Then he sayd: I haue synned. But yet honour me before ỹ eldets of my people, and before Israel, and turne ãgaine with me, that I maye pray vnto the Lorde thy God. And Samuell turned agayne and folowed Saull. And Saul prayed vnto the Lorde. Then sayd Samuel: Bryng ye hither to me, Agag the kyng of the Amaleckites. And Agag came vnto hym * delycately. And Agag sayd: truly ỹ bitternes of deth cometh on. And Samuel said: As thy swerd hath made wemẽ childelesse, so shal thy mother be childelesse amõg other wemẽ. And so Samuel hewed Agag in peces before ỹ lord in Galgal. And thẽ Samuell departed to Ramath. And Saul wẽt home to his house to gabaah Saull. But Samuel came no moare to se Saul vntyl the daye of his deeth. Neuertheles Samuell mourned for Saull, because the Lord repented that he had made him kynge ouer Israel.

¶ The battel of the Philistines agaynst Israel. Ca
tel Dauid ouercometh great Goliath.

The. xvii. Chapter.

THe philistines gethered their hooste to battel, & came together to Socoh in Juda, and pitched betwene Socoh & A zekah, in the ende of Domim And Saul and the men of Jsrael came & pitched in Ockedalē & put thē selues in a raye, to fyghte agaynste thee Philistines.
And the Philistines stode on an hyll on ỹ
one syde, & Jsrael stode on an hyll on thee
other syde, & a valey betwene thē. And thē came a mā & stode in the myddes, oute of the tentes of the Philistines named Golīath, of Geth syxe cubites & an hādbredeth
longe, & had an helmet of brasse vpon hys head, and a cote of mayle about hym. And the weyght of hys coote of mayle was fy ue thousand Cikles of brasse. And he had harnesse of brasse vpō his legges, & a shilde of brasse vpon hys shoulders. And the shaft of his speare was like a weuers bea
me. And his spearehead weyed. vi. hūdred sikles of syon. And one bearinge a shylde went before hym.

And he stode & called vnto the hoste of Jsrael, & sayd vnto thē: what nedeth that ye shulde come oute in araye to battel: am not I a Philistine, and you seruauntes to Saul, chose you a mā, & let him come down to me, yf he be able to fyght with me & too
beate me, then we wyl be your seruauntes
But yf I can ouercome hym & beate hym
then ye shalbe our seruauntes & serue vs.
And the Philistine sayd: I haue defyed ỹ
hoste of Jsrael thys daye geue me a man
& let vs fight together. When Saul & al Jsrael hearde those wordes of the Philistine, they were discouraged & greatlye a-frayed. And this Dauid was the sonne of an Ephzathite of Bethlehē Juda, named Jsai, which Jsai had eyghte sonnes. And was an olde mā in the dayes of Saull a-mōg the people. And the thre eldest sonnes of Jsai wēt and folowed Saul to battell,
And the names of hys thre sonnes ỹ went to battel, were: Eliab the eldest, & the nexte
to him Abinadab, & the thyrde Samah, & Dauid was ỹ youngest. And whē the thre eldest were gone after Saull, Dauid wēt and departed from Saul, to fede hys fathers

thers shepe at Bethlehem. And the Phili stine came forth euery morynyng & euenin
ge, and contynued fourtye dayes.

And Jsai sayd vnto Dauid hys sōne:
take for thy brethren thys Epha of parched corne, and these ten loues, & runne to the hoste, to thy brethren. And carye these ten freshe cheses vnto the captaine, & loke
how thy brethre fare, & fet out their pled ges. And Saul & they and all the men of Jsrael were in ocke valey fyghting wt ỹ Philistines. And Dauid rose vp erlye in the morning and left the shepe with a ke-per, & toke and wēt, as Jsai had cōmaunded him, and came where ỹ host laye. And ỹ host was goying out in aray, and showe ted in the battel: for Jsrael & the Philistines had put thē selues in araye, the one a gainst ỹ other. Thē Dauid put ỹ panyer from him, vnto the hādes of the keper of the vessels, & ranne into the host & came & saluted hys brethrē. And as he talked wt them: Beholde, there stode a mā in ỹ mid-des. Goliath the Philistine by name, of Geth, which came out of the Araye of the Philistines, & spake of the maner aboue rehersed, ỹ Dauid hearde it. And all ỹ mē of Jsrael, whē they saw the man, ranne away frō hym, & were sore afrayed. And e-uery man of Jsrael sayde: Se ye this mā that is come forthe, euen to reuyle Jsrael is he come. And to hym ỹ beateth hym will the kynge geue great ryches, & will geue him his daughter therto: ye and make his fathers house free in Jsrael.

Then spake Dauid to the men ỹ stode
by and said: What shalbe done to the mā that beateth this philistine & taketh away
the shame from Jsrael: for what is thys vncircumcysed Philistine, that he shulde reuyle the hoste of the lyuinge God? And the people answered as it is rehersed sayinge: so shall it be done to the man ỹ bea-teth hi. And Eliab his eldest brother hear-de when he spake vnto the man & was an gry withe Dauid & sayde: Why camest thou away, & with whom haste thou lefte
those few shepe in ỹ wildernesse? I know thy pryde and the malice of thyne herte, ỹ thou art come to se ỹ battell. And Dauid answered, what haue I now done? is ther any moare saye a worde? And departed frō by him into another fronte, and spake
of the same maner, & the people answered him agayne, as before.

And they that heard the wordes which Dauid spake, rehersed thē before Saull, which caused hym to be fett. And Dauid sayde to Saull: Lette no mannes herte fayle him because of him. Thy seruaunte will go & fyght with this Philistine. And Saul sayde to Dauid agayne, thou arte not able to go vnto this philistine, to fight wt him. For thou art but a ladd, & he hath ben a mā of warre euē frō his youth. Thē sayd Dauid vnto Saul, as thy seruaūte kept hys fathers shepe, there came a Lyō & likewise a Beare, & toke a shepe oute of ỹ flock. And I wēt out after him & smote him, & toke it out of his mouth. And whē he arose agaynste me, I caughte hym by the bearde and smote him & slue him. For both a Lyō and also a Beare hath thy ser uaūt slayne. And this vncircumcised phi listine shalbe as one of thē, for his railing
on the host of ỹ liuyng God. And Dauid spake moreouer, the Lorde that deliuered me oute of the hādes of ỹ Lyon & oute of ỹ handes of ỹ Beare, he shall delyuer me
also oute of the handes of the Philistine.

Then sayd Saul to Dauid go, & the lord be with the. And Saul put hys ray-ment vpon Dauid, and put an helmet of brasse vpon his heede, and put a coote of mayle vpō hym, & gyrde Dauid with his owne sword vpon his rayment. And he al saied to go, for he neuer proued it. Then sayd Dauid vnto Saul: I can not go in these, for I haue not bene vsed therto, and put thē of him & toke his staffe in his hā-de, & chose him fyue smothe stoones oute
of a broke & put thē in a shepardes bagge which he had, & in a poke, & hys slinge in his hande, & went to the Philistine.

And ỹ Philistine came & drue nere to Dauid, withe the man ỹ bare a shylde before him. And whē ỹ philistine loked and saw Dauid: he disdained him, for he was
but a lad, roudy & goodlye to loke vpon.
And ỹ philistine said vnto Dauid: am I a dog, ỹ thou comest to me wt a staffe? & he cursed Dauid in the name of his goddes
And he sayd to Dauid: come to me and I will geue thy flesh vnto the fowles of the ayre, and to the beastes of the felde.
Then sayd Dauid to the Philistine: thou comest to me wyth a swerd & speare and a shilde: But I come to the in the name of ỹ Lord of hostes, the god of the host of Israel whom thou hast rayled vpon. Thys daye shal the Lord delyuer the into my hãde, and I shal swyte the & take thyne head from the, & I wyl geue the karcases of the hoste of the Philistines thys day vnto the fowles of the ayre & to the beastes of thee earth, and all the worlde shall knowe, that there is a God in Israel. And all this congregation shall knowe, that the Lorde saueth not with the swerd & speare. For thee battel is the Lordes, and he shal geue you into our handes.

And whẽ the Philistines arose & came & dryue nye vnto Dauid. Dauid hasted & ranne in araye euẽ agaynst the Philistine And Dauid put his hand in his poke and toke out a stone and slange it, & smote thee Philistine in his forehead that the stoone soncke into his forehead, & he fel groueling to the earth. And so Dauid ouercame the Philistine with a sling & a stone, & smote ỹ Philistine & slue hym. And because Dauid had no swerde in his hand, he ranne & stode vpõ the Philistine, & toke his swerde & drue it out of hys sheathe & slue hym & cutt of his head therwith. And whẽ the Philistines sawe that theyr champion was dead, they fled. And the men of Israel & of Iuda arose & showted and followed after the Philistines, vntyl they came to the valeye & vnto the gates of Akaron. And the Philistines fel downe dead by the waye, euen vnto Geth & Akaron. And whẽ the chyldrẽ of Israel returned from chasing after the Philistines & robbed theyr tẽtes. And Dauid toke the head of the Philistine & brought it to Jerusalem: But he put hys armoure in hys tente.

Whẽ Saul sawe Dauid goo forth agaynst the Philistine, he sayd vnto Abner the captayne of his host: Abner, whose son is this lad? And Abner answered, as truly as thy soule lyueth, O king, I cannot tel. Then sayd the king: Enquere thou, whose sonne the youngeling is. And so whẽ Dauid was returned frõ the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner toke him & broughthim before Saul, wyth the head of the Philistine in his hand. And Saul sayd to him: Whose sonne art thou, ỹ lad? And Dauid answered the sonne of thy seruaunt Isai the Bethlehemite.

¶ The bõd betweene Dauid & Jonathas. Saul goeth aboute to slee Dauid. Dauid marieth Michol the daughter of Saul.

The.xviii.Chapter.

AND when he had made an ende of speakyng vnto Saul, the soule of Jonathas was knit withe ỹ soule of Dauid. And so moche ỹ he loued hym as his owne soule. And Saul toke hym that daye and wolde let him go no moare home to his fathers house. And Jonathas & Dauid bound them selues the one to the other, for Jonathas loued hi as his owne soule. And Jonathas put of hys owne coote ỹ was vpon him, & gaue it Dauid, & thereto his mãtle, his swerde, his boowe & his gyrdle. And Dauid went out to al that Saull sente hym, and behaued him selfe wysely. And whẽ Saul had set him ouer his men of warre, he pleased al ỹ people, and Sauls seruauntes therto.

And it happened as they wẽt, whẽ Dauid was returned from the slaughter of thee Philistine, that wemen came oute of al cyties of Israel synging & daunsing, agaynst Saul, wyth tymbzeiles, wyth ioy, and with fiddles. And the wemen ỹ played sange therto, and sayde: Saull hathe slayne his thousande, and Dauid hys ten thousande. Then was Saull exceedynge wroth & ỹ sayig displeased him, & he said: they haue ascrybed vnto Dauid tẽ thousand, & to me but a thousande, & what can he moze haue saue the kyngdome? wherefore Saul loked on ỹde of Dauid frõ ỹ daye forward. And it happened on ỹ morow, that ỹ euel spzete sent of god came vpõ Saul, so that he prophesyed in ỹ middes of the house. And Dauid played on ỹ instrument with his hãde as he was dayly wõt. And Saul had a speare in his hãde, & hourlde it entending to to haue nailed Dauid to the wall. But Dauid auoyded out of his presẽce two tymes. For Saull was afeerd of Dauid, because ỹ lord was with him, and was departed from Saul. And then Saul put Dauid from hym & made him a captayne ouer a thousande, & he wente oute & in before the people. And Dauid was wyse in al that he toke in hãde, and the Lorde was wt him. Wherfore when whẽ Saul saw that he was so excedynge wise, he was afraid of hym. But al Israel & Juda loued Dauid, because he went out and in before thẽ. Thẽ sayd Saul to Dauid. Beholde my eldeste daughter Merob, her I wyl geue the to wife: Only play the man & fyght the lordes battelles. For Saul thought mine hãd shall not be vpõ him, but the hãde of ỹ philistinz. And Dauid answered Saul * what am I? & what is my life or the kinred of my father in Israel, ỹ I should be sonne in law to the King: How be it when the time was come ỹ Merob Sauls daughter shoulde haue bene geuen to Dauid she was geuen vnto Adriel a Meholathite, to wife. Now but Micholl Sauls daughter loued Dauid. And when it was shewed saul: ỹ thing pleased hym wel. And he sayde: I wyll geue hym her that she maye be a snare to hym, to bzing the hande of the philistines vpon hym. And Saul sayd to Dauid: ỹ shalte thys day be my sõne in law againe. And Saul commaunded his seruauntes to comen wyth Dauid secretly & say: Behold the kyng hath a fauoure to the, and al hys seruauntes loue the, be therfore the kynges soune in law.

And Sauls seruauntes spake those wordz in the eare of Dauid. But Dauid ãswered: semeth it to you a lyght thing to be the kynges sonne in law, when I am a poore man & of smalle reputacion? And Sauls seruauntes told hym agayne saying: of thys maner ãswered Dauid. Thẽ sayde Saull: thys wyse saye to Dauid: the kyng careth for no nother dowzye but for an hũdzed foreskynnes of the Philistines, to be aduẽged of the kinges enemies. For Saull thoughte to make Dauid fal into the handes of the Philistines. Then his seruauntes tolde Dauid these wordz, and it pleased Dauid wel to be the kinges sõne in law. And shortlye after ỹ Dauid arose wyth hys men, and wente, and slue of the Philistines two hundzed men, and brought their foreskynnes, & satisfyed the King therof to be his sonne in law.* And so Saul gaue him Micholl hys daughter to wife. And when Saul saw & vnderstode how that the Lord was wt Dauid, & that Micholl hys daughter loued hym, he was the moare afrayed of Dauid, & became Dauids enemie for euer. And when the Philistines went out to warre, Dauid behaued hym selfe wyselyer then all the seruauntes of Saull: so that hys name was moche sett by.

THen Saul comuned with Jonathas hys sonne, & wyth all hys seruaũtes, ỹ they shulde kyl Dauid. * But Jonathas Sauls sonne had a great fauoure to Dauid, & tolde Dauid sayinge: Saul my father goeth aboute to slee the. And I wyl go out & stande by my father in the felde where thou arte, & wyl comẽ with my father of the, & yf I can parceaue ought I wyll tell the.

And Jonathas spake the beste of Dauid vnto Saul his father and sayd vnto him: let not the king synne against his seruãt Dauid, for he hath not sinned against the, and his wozkes are to the warde very good. For he dyd put his lyfe * in his hãde & slue the Philistine, and the Lord gaue a great victozie to al Israel. And ỹ sawest it, & thou reioycedest, wherfore then shuldest thou synne against innocent bloud, & slee Dauid for nought? And Saull harkened vnto the voyce of Jonathas & sware: as trulye as the Lorde lyueth, he shall not dye. Then Jonathas called Dauid & shewed him al those wordes, and brought him to Saul. And he was in hys presens as in tymes past.

And the warre began agayn, & Dauid wẽt out & fought wt the philistines & slue a great slaughter, & put thẽ to flyght. And the euel spzete of the lord was vpõ Saul as he sat in hys house hauing a Jauelinge in hys hande, and Dauid played wyth hys hande. And Saull entended to nayle

And Jonathas answered hym: God forbid, thou shalt not dye. For se my father wyl do nothing ether great oz smal but that he wil shew it me. For why shuld my father hyde this thing from me? there shalbe no soch thing. And Dauid swarc a gayne and sayde: thy father knoweth that J haue founde at grace in thyne eyes and therfoze he thinketh, Jonathas shall not knowe it, lest he be sozye. For in very dede euen as truelye as the Lozde lyueth, and as truely as thy soule lyueth, there is but a steppe betwene me and death. Then sayde Jonathas vnto Dauid, what so euer thy soule desyzeth that J wyl do vnto the And Dauid sayd vnto Jonathas: Behold, to mozowe is thee * fyzste daye of the moneth, and J shulde sytt wyth the kyng at meat. But lett me go that J maye hyde in the feldes vnto thys daye thze dayes at euen. Yf thy father mysse me, then saye: Dauid asked leaue of me, that he myght goo too Bethlehem to hys owne cytie, foz there is holden a yearely feast foz all hys kynne. And yf thy father saye thus: it is well donc, then thy seruaūt shall haue peace. But and yf he be angrye: then be sure ȳ wickednes is vtterlye concluded of hym. And then thou shalte at shewe mercye vn to thy seruaunte, foz thou hast made with me thy seruaunte a bonde in the Lozde. Notwithstandinge yf there be in me anye trespace, then sleye me thy selfe, foz what needeth the to bzing me to thy father.

And Jonathas answered: God kepe ȳ frō the, ȳ J shuld know, ȳ wickednesse weare concluded of my father, to come vpō the: & shuld not tell it ȳ. Thē sayde Dauid, who shal tel me, yf thy father answere cruelly? Thē said Jonathas to Dauid, come & let vs go out into the feldes. And they wente out both of them into the feldes.

And Jonathas sayd vnto Dauid: O Lozd god of Jsracll, whē J haue groped my fathers mynde, one time oz other with in this thze dayes, that it stand well wyth Dauid: and J then sende not vnto the & shew it the, the lozd do so & so vnto Jonathas. And in lyke maner, yf euell to ȳ warde pleasse my father, J wyl shewe the and sende the awaye, that thou mayste go in peace. And the lozd be with the as he hath ben with my father. And ȳ shalt perfozme vnto me the merry of the Lozde, not only whyle J lyue but euen when J am deed plucke not thy mercye awaye from my* house foz euer: No not when the Lozde hathe destroied ȳ enemies of Dauid euery one from the face of the erth.

* that is frō my posteritie oz ofspring

And so Jonathas made a bonde wyth the house of Dauid, desyzynge that the Lozde shoulde seke oute of the handes of Dauids enemyes their wickednesse. And wythe other wozdes Jonathas adiured Dauid, because he loued him. Foz as hys owne soule he loued him.

D Thē said Jonathas to Dauid: to mozowe shall be the fyzste daye of the mone. And thou shalt be mysse'd, because ȳ place shall appere emptye. But thys daye thze dayes come in anye wyse vnto the place where thou shalt hyde thy selfe, when it is worckedaye, euen by the stone Ezell. And J wil shote thze arowes by ȳ one side ther of, as though J shott at a marke, & wil sēde after a ladd, and bidde him go seke the arowes. If J saye vnto the ladd: se the arowes are on this syde ȳ, bzynge thē: then come ȳ: foz it is peace & nothing to do, as sure as ȳ lozd liueth. But & yf J say thus vnto the youg felow, behold, ȳ arowes ar beyōd ȳ, thē go, foz the lozd hath set the away. And of this which ȳ & J haue spoke: behold the Lozd is witnesse betwene the & me foz euer. And so Dauid hyd him selfe in the felde. And when the new mone was come, ȳ king sat him downe at meate, foz E to eate. And the king sat him downe after the old maner, in his seat by the wall. And Jonathas arose, & Abner sate by Sauls side, & Dauids place was emptie. Neuer theless yet Saul sayd nothing at al that day. Foz he thought some thing had chaūced him that he is not cleane. But on thee mozow which was the seconde day of the mone, whē Dauids place apered emptye. Saull sayde vnto Jonathas hys sonne: whe fore cometh not the sonne of Jsai to meate, nether yesterdaye noz to daye. And Jonathas ānswered vnto Saull. Dauid asked lycence of me to go to Bethlehē saying: let me go J pzay the, foz our kynrede holde an offerynge in the cytie, & my bzother hath sent foz me. Now therfoze yf J haue found fauour in thyne eyes, lett me go and se my bzother. And therfoze he cometh not vnto the table of the king. Thē F was Saul angrie with Jonathas & said vnto him: O froward & rebellyous, thinkeste thou J knowe not howe thou hast chosē the sonne of Jsai vnto thyne owne rebuke, & vnto the rebuke & shame of thy mother. Foz as longe as the sonne of Jsai lyueth vpon the erthe, thou shalte not be stablished, noz yet thy kingdome, wher foze nowe sende and fett hym vnto me, * foz he is the chylde of deeth. 1. Re. xxvi. c. 11. Mat. xii. a

But Jonathas answered Saull hys father & sayde to him: wherfoze shulde he dye? what hath he done? Then Saul cast a speare at him to hyt him, whereby Jonathas wiste well, ȳ it was vttelye determyned of hys father, to sleye Dauid. And so Jonathas arose frō ȳ table in a great anger & dyd eate no meat the second day of the monethe, foz he was sozy foz Dauid, because his father had done hi shame. On the next mozning Jonathas went out into the felde, at the time apoynted vō Dauid, & a lytle lad with him. And he said vnto the boy: ruime & find out myne arowes whiche J shote. And as the boye ran, he shote an arow beyonde him. And whē the ladd was come to ȳ place whether Jonathas had shot the arowe, Jonathas cryed after him & sayd: the arow is beyōde the. And he cried after ȳ lad: hast, make spede & stād not still. And Jonathas lad gathered vp thee arowe & came to his mayster. But ȳ lad wist nothig of ȳ matter: Only Jonathas & Dauid wist it. Then Jonathas gaue his wepōs vnto the lad & sayd

And they kissed ether other & wept to gether, but Dauid more abundantly. And Jonathas sayd to Dauid: go in peace whyche * we haue sworne bothe of vs in thee name of thee Lorde saying: the Lorde be betwene the and me, and betwene thy sede and myne for euer. And he rose and departed. And Jonathas wēt in to the towne.

The .xxi. Chapter.

THen came Dauid to Nob to Ahimelech the priest: And Ahimelech was astonied at his coming & said vnto hi: Why comest thou thy selfe alone, & no man with the? And Dauid sayd to Ahimelech the priest: the king hath cōmaunded me to do a certē thing & said vnto me, let no man know where about I sende & what I haue commaunded the to do. And therfore I haue appoynted my seruauntes to soche and soche places. And nowe what haste thou vnder thyne hande? geue me fyue loaues of bread or what cometh to hande.

And the priest answered Dauid & said ther is no comen bred vnder myne hande, but ther is halowed bred yt ỹ young men had abstained onli frō wemē. And Dauid answered the priest & sayde vnto him: of a truthe wemen hathe bene locked vp from vs about a thre dayes, when I came out: and the * vesseles of the young men were holy. Howbeit a‡ this way is vnpure, but it shal be halowed in the vessel. And so the priest gaue hym halowed bread, for there was none other bred ther saue the we breades that were taken from before the lord, to putte fresshe bread there, the daye that it was taken awaye.

* That is, ỹ bodies.

And ther was ther the same day a certen man of the seruaūtes of Saull abidinge before the lord named Doeg an Edomite the chefest of Sauls heard mē. And Dauid sayde vnto Ahimelech: is not here vnder thyne hande other speare or swerd? for I haue nether brought my swerde nor myne harnes wythe me, because thee kynges busines requyred haste. Then the Priest answered: the swerd of Goliath the Philistine whome thou slouest in Ockdale, that is here wrapt in a cloth behind the Ephod Yf thou wylt take that, take it: for there is no nother saue that here. And Dauid said there is none to that, geue it me.

And Dauid arose & fled the same daye frō the presence of Saul, & wēte to Achis the kinge of Geth. And the seruauntes of Achis sayd of him: is not this Dauid the king of the lande? dyd they not syng vnto this felow in daunses saying: Saul hath slayne his thousand, & Dauid hys .x. thousande? And Dauid putt those wordes into hys hart & was sore afrayed of Achys the king of Geth. And he chaunged his countenaunce before them, and raued in theyr hādes, & trabled on the dores of the gate, and lett hys spittell fall downe vpon hys beard. Then sayde Achis vnto hys seruaunt. Lo ye sawe that this mā was besyde hym selfe, wherfore then haue ye brought hym to me? lacke I mad men, that ye haue brought thys felow to play the mad man in my presence? he shal not come into my house.

all men that were in combraunce and in det and troubled in their hertes and he became a captayne ouer thē. And there were with him vpon a foure hundred men. And Dauid wēt thence to Mazphah in the lād of Moab, and sayde vnto the kynge of Moab: Let my father and mother I pray the, haue their abydynge with you, tyll I knowe what God will do wythe me. And he left thē with ỹ king of Moab, and they dwelt w̄ him all the whyle ỹ Dauid kepte him self in holde. And the prophete Gad sayd vnto Dauid: Abide not in castelles, but departe & go to the lād of Juda. Thē Dauid departed and came into the forest Hareth. And Saul hearde of it: for Dauid was knowen & also the men that were with him. And as Saull satt in Gabaah vnder a grouе vpō a hye baucke with his speare in hys hand and al hys men about him, he sayde vnto his seruauntes ỹ stode about him. Heare I pray you, you sōnes of Jemini: wil the sōne of Jsai also geue euerye one of you feldes & vineyardes, & make you all captaines ouer thousandes and ouer hundredes? that ye haue al conspired agaynst me, so that ther is none of you that * openeth myne eare, in so moche that my sonne hath made a bonde with ỹ sonne of Jsai, nether is there anye of you that mourneth for me or shewethe it in myne eare: because my sonne hathe set vp my seruaunte to lye a wayte againste me, as it appeareth this daye.

* That is, shewyth me any thinge

Then answered Doeg the Edomite, which had the ouer syght of the seruaūtes of Saul and sayd: I saw the sonne of Jsai, when he came to Nob, to Ahimelech ỹ sonne of Ahitob, which asked counsell of the Lorde for him, & gaue him vitayles, & the swerde of Goliath the Philistine also. Then the kynge sente to calle Ahimelech the preast the sonne of Ahitob, & al hys fathers house: that is to say, ỹ preastes that were in Nob. And they came al to ỹ kyng. And Saul said: here thou sonne of Ahitob. And he said: here I am my lord. Thē sayd Saull to him: why haue ye conspyred agaynst me, thou and the sonne of Jsai, in so moch ỹ thou hast geuen him vytaile & a swerd, & hast asked coūcel of god for him, that he shulde arise agaynste me and lye awayte as it is come to passe thys day. And Ahimelech answered the kynge and sayd: who is so faythful amonge all thy seruauntes as Dauid & therto the kinges sonne in lawe, and gothe at thy bydding, and is had in honour in thyne house haue I thys day begōne first to aske counsel of god for him? God forbid that from me: let not the kyng put soche a thyng vnto his seruaunte & on all the house of my father. For thy seruaūt knoweth nothing of all this, ether lesse or moare.

But for al ỹ the kyng sayd: thou shalt surelye dye Ahimelech, both thou and all thy fathers house. Then sayde the kynge vnto hys fote men that stode aboute him, turne & slay the preastes of the Lord, both because theyr hande is wyth Dauid and because they knewe when Dauid fleed and shewed it not to me. But the seruaūtes of the king wold not moue their hādes, to runne vpon the preastes of the Lorde. Then said the King to Doeg: turne thou and smyte the preastes. And * Doeg ỹ Edomite turned & slewe vpon the preastes & slue that same daye foure skore and fyue persones that dyd weare eche man a linne Ephod. And Nob the cytie of the preestes he smote with the edge of the swerd, both man and woman, chylde and sucklynge, wyth ore asse and shepe. * 1. Reg. xii. g

But yet one of the sōnes of Ahimelech ỹ sonne of Ahitob named Abiathar, escaped & fled to Dauid, and shewed Dauid, how that Saul had slaine the lordes preestes. And Dauid sayd vnto Abiathar: I wist it the same day, ỹ Doeg the Edomite which was there wolde tell it Saul. And I am cause of the deethe of all the soules of thy fathers house. Abide w̄ me & feare not: he ỹ seketh thy soule, shal seke mine, & with me thou shalt be in sauegard.

¶ Dauid deliuereth Keilah. Ise fleeth into ỹ wyldernes of Ziph. He is comforted of Jonathas. The Siphiens wold haue betrayed him, but he shapeth he.

The .xxiii. Chapter.

THē tolde Dauid saying: Behold, ỹ philistines fighte agaynst Keilah, & spoyle the bernes. Thē Dauid asked ỹ lordes aduise saying: shall I goo and smyte the Philistynes? And the Lorde sayde vnto Dauid: go & smyte the Philistines and saue Keilah. Then sayde Dauids men vnto hym: se we be afrayed here here in Juda. What shal we the be, when we come to Keilah, to the hoste of the Philistines. Then Dauid asked the Lorde agayne. And the lord answered him & sayd: vp & goo to Keilah, for I wyl delyuer the Philistines into thyne handes.

And so Dauid and hys men wente too Keilah and fought with the Philistines, & draue awaye theyr catell and slue a greate slaughter of them. And so Dauid saued the enhabiters of Keilah. And it chaunced whē Abiathar the sone of Ahimelech fled to Dauid to Keilah that he brought an Ephod in hys hande.

B And it was tolde Saull, that Dauid was come to Keilah. Then sayde Saull: God hath delyuered him into myne hand. For he is shut in, ỹ he is come into a town wyth gates and barres. And Saul called all the people to warre, for to go to Keilah to belege Dauid and hys men. But Dauid had knowledge that Saul ymagened myscheke agaynst him, and sayde therfore to Abiathar the preest: * Bring the Ephod Then sayd Dauid, O Lorde God of Israel, thy seruaūt heareth that Saull is about to come to Keilah to destroye the cytie for my sake: wyll the men of Keilah deliuer me into his hande? for wil Saul come as thy seruaunt heareth saye? Lorde God of Israel tell thy seruaunt. And the Lord sayd: he wyll come. Thē sayd Dauid: wyl the men of Keilah deliuer me and my men into the hand of Saul? and the Lord said they wyl delyuer you.

Then Dauid and his men which were vpō a. vi. hundred, arose and departed out of Keilah and went whether chaunce draue thē. And when it was tolde Saul, that Dauid was fled from Keilah, he lette the iourneye alone. And Dauid abode in thee wyldernesse in stronge holdes, & in a mountayne in the wyldernesse of Ziph. And Saul soughte hym all hys lyfe, but God C delyuered hym not into hys hande. And Dauid sawe that Saul was come out, to seke his lyfe, whyle Dauid was in the wilderneſſe of Ziph in a thicket. And Jonathas Saules sōne arose & went to Dauid to the thicket, & strengthed hym in God, & sayde vnto hym: feare not, for the hand of Saul my father shall not fynde the, and thou shalte be kynge ouer Israell, and I muste be nexte vnto the: And Saul my father therto knoweth that it shalbe so. And they made * a bonde both of them to geather before the Lorde. And Dauid taried styll in the thicket, and Jonathas went to hys house. 1.re.xviii.a and.xx.b

Then came the Ziphites to Saul to Gabaah sayinge: Dauid hydeth hym selfe by vs in stronge holdes that are in a thycket in the hyl of Hachilah on the right syde of the wyldernesse. Now therfore syr kynge, come downe wyth all the lust that thy soule hath to come. And our part shall be to delyuer hym in to the handes of thee kynge. Then sayde Saul: Blessed are ye in the Lord: for ye haue compassiō on me Go I praye you and marke more dyligētly, & know & se his haunte, where hys fote hath bene, and who hathe sene hym there: D for it is tolde me that he is very sotel. Se therfore and knowe all the lourkyng places where he lourkethe, and come agayne to me wyth certentye, and I wyll go wyth you. And then yf he be in the land, I wyll hunte hym oute wythe all the thousandes of Juda.

And they arose & went to Ziph before Saull. But Dauid and hys men were in the wyldernesse of Maon, in the wylde feld, on the ryghte hand of the wyldernesse. For when Saul was gone with hys men to seke, it was tolde Dauid. And therfore he wente vnto a Rocke and dwelte in thee wyldernesse of Maon. And when Saull hearde that, he folowed after Dauid into the wyldernes of Maon. And Saul and hys men went on the one syde of the mountayne, and Dauid and hys men on the other. And Dauid as a man amased, made haste to gette from Saul. For Saul and hys men had compased Dauid & his men round about to take them.

But there came a messenger to Saull sayinge: Hast the and come, for the Philistynes are come in and roue thee lande. Wherfore Saull returned from persecutynge Dauid, and went agaynst the Philistines. And therfore the place is called, * Sela Hahelecoth. And then Dauid went thence and dwelte in stronge holdes at Engadi. That is rocke of deuision

The .xxiiii. Chapter.

A Whē Saul was come againe from the Philistines, there were ỹ tolde him saying: behold, Dauid is in the wildernesse of Engadi. Thē Saul toke thre thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seke Dauid & his mē in the Rockes, where nothing hauted but wild gootes. And he came to the flockes of the shepe by awayes syde where was a caue. And Saul wēt i to couer his feate. And Dauid & his men sat a longe by the sides of the caue. And the men of Dauid saide vnto him: se ỹ day is come, of which the Lorde sayd vnto the: Beholde I wyl delyuer thyne enemye into thine hande, & thou shalt do vō him what it pleaseth the. Then Dauid arose and cut of a lappe of sauls cote priuely. And immediatly Dauidshert smote him, because he had cut of B a lapp of Sauls cote. And he sayde vnto his mē: the lord kepe me frō doyng ỹ thinge vnto my master ỹ is the Lordes anoynted, to laye myne hande vpon him, seyng he is the lordes anoynted. And so Dauid kept of his seruaūtes vō wordes, and suffred them not to go vpon Saul.

¶ Samuel dyeth. Dauid fleeth in to the wildernesse of Phatan. He is angry with Nabal, but is pacyfyed by the wysdom of Abigail. Nabal dyeth & Dauid marieth Abigail.

The .xxv. Chapter.

A Nd thē Samuell dyed, & all Israel gethered together, & lamented him & buryed hym in his owne house at Ramath. A

And Dauid arose & gat him to ỹ wildernes of Phatan. And there was a man in Maon whose catel was in Carmel, & ỹ mā was exceding mighty, & had thre thousād shepe and a thousād gootes. And he was shearynge hys shepe in Carmell. The name of the man was Naball, & the name of his wyfe was Abigail, and was a woma of good wysdom and bewti full. But the man was churlysshe and of shrewde conditions, and was a Calebite.

And when Dauid hearde in the wyldernesse, that Nabal share his shepe, he sente oute ten of his younge men, & sayde vnto the: get you vp to Carmel and go to Nabal and greete him in my name. And thus wise saye vnto my frende: peace be to the, peace be to thine house and peace be vnto all that thou hast. I haue hearde say that thou hast sheters. Nowe thy sheperdes were wyth vs, and we dyd them no spite, nether was there ought missing vnto the, all ỹ whyle they were in Carmel: aske thy laddes, & they wyll shewe the. Wherefore let these young men finde fauour in thine eyes (for we come in a good season) and* geue I praye the whatsoeuer comethe to thyne hande vnto thy seruauntes and to thyne sonne Dauid.

*1. Mo. xxi. c.

And Dauids yongmē came & told Nabal al those wordes in ỹ name of Dauid & thē stopped. And Nabal ānswered dauids seruaūtes & said: What is Dauid & what is the sonne of Isai: ther is plentie of seruaūtes now a dayes, that breake awaye euery mā frō his master I shuld take my breed, my water & my flesshe ỹ I haue killed for my sheerers, and geue it mē whych I wot not whence they be?

And Dauids seruaūtes turned their way and went agayne, & came and tolde hym accordyng to al those sayinges. Thē Dauid sayd vnto his mē: girde euery mā his swerd about him. And they gyrded euery man his swerde on, & Dauid therto gyrd on his swerde. And there folowed Dauid vpon a foure hundred men, & two hūdred abode by the stuffe.

But one of the laddes tolde Abigaill Nabals wife sayinge: se Dauid sent messengers vnto oure master out of the wyldernes to salute him, and he railed on thē. And yet the men were very good vnto vs and dyd vs no displeasure, nether myssed we any thyng, as long as we were cōuersāt wt thē, whē we were in the feldes. But they were a wall of defence vnto vs both by nyght and also by day, al the while we were with them keppyng shepe: Now take hede & se what thou hast to do, for it is cōcluded to do myscheue vnto oure master and to all hys housholde. And he is vngracyous to speake to. Then Abigaill made hast and toke two hundred loues & two botelles of wyne & fyue shepe readye dressed & fiue measures of parched corne, and an hundred bondelles of reasinges, & two hūdred frayles of figges, & laded thē on asses, & sayde vnto her younge mē: go before me, & se I come after you, & tolde her husband Nabal nothing therof. And as she rode on her asse and was comynge downe i a slade of ỹ hyl, Dauid & hys mē came downe agaynst her, & she met them.

And Dauid sayde: in vayne haue I kept all that this fellowe had in the wildernesse: so that nought was myssed that pertayned vnto hym, for he hathe quytte me wyth euell for good. So & so do God vnto the enemyes of Dauid, as I wyll not leaue of all that pertayne to hym, by the dawnynge of the daye, ought* that pysseth agaynste the walle.

When Abigail saw Dauid, she hasted and lyght of her asse & fell before Dauid on her face, and bowed her selfe to ỹ grou de, and fell at hys fete and sayd: Let this vnhappie deade be counted myne, my lorde, and lette thyne handemayde speake in thyne audyence, and heare the wordes of thy handmayde. Let not my Lord regard thys vnthryfftie man Naball, for as hys name is, so is he. * Naball is hys name & folye is wyth hym. But I thyne handemayde sawe not the younge men of my Lorde which thou sendest.

that is, fole

And now my Lord as sure as the lord lyueth and as thy soule lyueth, the Lorde hath with holden the frō cōmyng to shede bloude & from auengyng thy selfe with thyne owne hande. Furthermore I praye god that thyne enemyes & they that entēd to do my Lorde euell may be as Naball. And now this* blessing which thine hād mayde hath brought, lett it be geuē vnto ỹ young men that folowe my Lorde. For geue the trespace of thyne handemayde & the Lorde maye make my Lorde a sure house, because my Lorde fyghteth ỹ battelles of the Lord, and ther could none euel be founde in the in al thy lyfe. And yf any man rise to persecute the & to seke thy soule, yt the soule of my Lord be bounde in a bondell of lyfe wt the Lorde thy God. And the soules of thy enemyes be slōg in the myde of a slyng. And moreouer when the

the Lorde shall haue done to my Lorde al the good that he hathe promysed the, and shall haue made the ruler ouer Israel: thē shall it be noo grudge of conscience vnto the or discourage of herte vnto my Lord, that thou sheddeste bloude causelesse and dydest auenge thy selfe.

And moreouer whē the Lord shal haue dealt wel wt my Lord, then thinke on thine handmayde. Thē said Dauid to Abigail blessed be the Lord God of Israel whych sent the this daye to mete me. And blessed be thy behaueour, & blessed be thou which hast kept me this daye frō comyng to shed bloud & frō auenging my selfe with myne owne hand. For in very dede assure as the Lorde God of Israell lyueth whyche hath kept me backe frō hurting the, except thou haddest hasted and met me, there had not bene left Nabal by the dawninge of ỹ daye, a pysser āgaynst ỹ wal. And so Dauid receaued of her hād that she brought hym, and sayd to her: go in peace to thyne house. And se I haue obeyed thy voyce & haue receaued the to grace.

And whē Abigaill came to Nabal: behold, he held a feaste in hys house lyke the feast of a king, & Nabals herte was merry wtin him & he was dronke a good. Wherfore she tolde him naught nether little nor more, vntyll the morowe daye. But in the morning, when the wyne was gone out of Nabal, his wyfe told hym these wordes, & hys herte dyed within him, and he became as a stone, and vpon a ten dayes after the lord smote Nabal, that he dyed. And whē Dauid hearde that Nabal was dead, he sayd: Blessed be the lord that hath iudged the cause of my rebuke of the hand of Nabal, & hath kept his seruaunt frō euel, and hath turned the wickednes of Nabal agayne vpon hys owne head. And Dauid sent to comē wt Abigail, to thintēte to take her to his wyfe. And whē the seruaūtes of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmell, thei spake vnto her saying: Dauid sent vs vnto ỹ, to take the to hys wyfe. And she arose and bowed her selfe on her face to the earth, & sayd: Beholde thy handmayde, to be a seruaūt to e wasche the fete of the seruaūtes of my Lord. And Abigail hasted & arose & gat her vp vpō an Asse, with fyue damoselles of hers ỹ wēt at her fete, & wēt after the messengers of Dauid & was his wyfe. Dauid also toke Ahinoā of Jezrahel, & they were both his wyues. But saul gaue Michol his daughter Dauids wife to Phalti the sonne of Lais of Gallin.

The Notes.

a‡ Blessing for rewarde or present, after the maner of the Hebrues.

b‡ The meaning is, The lyfe of my Lord Dauid shalbe so preserued of the Lord, as it were in the bondel of Gods prouision, in whych are al ỹ haue lyfe: And the lyfe of hys aduersaryes shalbe caste in thee rowling of gods iudgement as it were with a sling and so horybly whyrled, and without hope of reste that they shal not knowe whether to turne them, tyll they be consumed.

c‡ By thys washing of fete is signified that she wolde be so gentyl and so seruisable to Dauid, that she wolde not refuse to washe the fete of hys seruaūtes. Tim. v. b.

The. xxvi. Chapter.

AFter that came the Ziphites vnto saul to Gabaah saying Dauid hydeth him selfe in the hyll of Hachilah euē before ỹ wildernes. Thē Saul arose & wēt to the wildernes of Ziph & the. Wt chosen men of Israel with him, for to seke Dauid in the wyldernesse of Ziph. And Saul pitched in the hyll of Hachilah whiche lyeth before thee wyldernesse, by thee wayes syde. But Dauid dwelt in the wyldernesse. And when he sawe that Saul came after hym into the wyldernesse, he sent out spies and vnderstode that Saul was come of suertye.

Wherfore Dauid arose & wente to the place where Saul had pitched, & beheld ỹ place where Saul laye wt Abner ỹ sonne of Ner his chefe captayne. For Saul lay within a round banke, and the people pitched round about him. Thē ānswered Dauid & spake to Ahimelech the Hethite and to Abisai the sonne of Zaruiah & brother to Joab saying: who wil go downe wt me to Saul to ỹ hoste? & Abisai sayde: I wyl go downe wyth the.

And so Dauid & Abisai came to ỹ people by night. And beholde, Saul laye slepinge within a rounde banke & his speare pitched in the ground at his head, Abner & the people lying round aboute him. Then said Abisai to Dauid: God hath closed in thyne enemie vnto thyne hande this daye. Now therfore let me smyte hym a felowshyp wyth my speare to the earth, euē one stroke, and I wyl not smyte him the secode time. But Dauid sayde to Abisai: destroy him not, for who can lay his hād on ỹ Lordes anoynted & be giltles? And Da uid sayd furthermore: as sure as the lord liueth, the Lorde shall smyte hym, or hys

date shall come to dye, or he shal descende into battell & there perysshe: but the Lorde kepe me frō laying myne hand vpon the Lordes anoynted. Now then take a flow shippe ỹ speare ỹ is at his heed, & ỹ crewse of water, & let vs go. And Dauid toke the speare & the crewse of water that were at Sauls heed, & they gat them awaye, & no mā saw or wist it or awoke. For they were al a slepe, because the Lord had sent a slōber vpō thē. Thē Dauid wēte ouer to the other syde & stode on the toppe of an hil a farre of (a great space being betwene thē) & cryed to the people & to Abner the sonne of Ner sayying: Answerest thou not Abner? and Abner answered & sayde: What art thou that* cryest to the king? and Da uid sayd to Abner: art not thou a mā and who is lyke the in Israell? But wherfore hast ỹ not kept thy Lord the kynge? For ther came one of the folke to destroye the king thy lord. It is not good ỹ thou haste done. As truly as the lord liueth yeat wor thy to dye, becau[se] ye haue no better kept the lordes anoynted. And nowe se where the kinges speare is and the crewse of wa ter that were at his heed.

Then Saul knew Dauids voyce and said: is this thy voyce my sōne Dauid? & Dauid sayde: it is my voyce my Lorde king. And he sayd therto wherefore dothe my lord persecute his seruaūt: for what ha
ue I done? or what euel is in mine hande?
Now heare therfore (my lord kyng) ỹ wor
des of thy seruaunt. If the lord haue ste-red ỹ vp against me, he shal* smel ỹ sauour of sacrefice. But & yf they be ỹ chyldrē of me, cursed be they before ỹ lorde. For they haue cast me out frō abydyng in the enhe ritaūce of ỹ lord, sayig: hēce & go serue other gods. And yet I hope my bloud shal not fal to ỹ erth before ỹ face of ỹ Lorde, though ỹ kyng of Israel be come oute to hūt a flee, as mē hūt ỹ partreges in ỹ mou taines. Thē sayde Saul: I haue synned, come again my sonne Dauid for I wyl
do the no moare harme, because my soule
was precyouse in thyne eyes thys daye.
Beholde, I haue played the fole & haue erred exceding mocche. And Dauid answe red and sayde: Behold ỹ kinges speare: let one of the younge men come ouer and fet
it. The lord rewarde euery mānes righte-wesnes & faith: for the Lord deliuered the into my hād this day, but I wold not lay mine hād vpō ỹ lordes anoynted. And as thy lyfe was moch set by this time i mine eyes: so be my lyfe set by in ỹ eyes of the Lord, that he delyuer me out of al tribula cion. And Saull sayd to Dauid: Blessed art ỹ my sonne Dauid, for thou* shalt be a doer and also able to bryngе to an end.
And so Dauid went his waye, and Saul turned to his place agayne.

*Chyld, thoughe ye call him a sonne and prophet.

That is, why noyse & wakest the kynge.

That is he shal declare me vn righteous & cast me out of the enheritaūce of Cain. Gen. iiii.

me, then to flee into the lande
of the Philistines, that Saull of verye
dispayre to fynde me, maye ceasse to seke me any moare in al the coostes of Israel:
for so I maye escape his hand. And Da-uid arose, and he and the fyre hundred me that were with him went vnto Achis, the sonne of Maoch, kyng of Geth. And Da uid dwelt with Achis at Geth, bothe he & hys men, euery man with hys housholde, and Dauid with hys two wyues. Ahinosayde vnto Achis: If I haue fouid grace in thyne eyes, let me haue a place in some towne in the feldes, that I maye dwell

there. For what shulde thy seruaunt dwel in the heed citte of the kingdom with the.
Then Achis gaue him Zikeleg the same

¶ The Philistines moue warre agaynst Saul and the Israelites. Saul requireth counsel of God but hath no answere: and then seketh after an enchaunter, which rayseth him vp the spyrite of Samuel.

A The .xxviii. Chapter.

ANd it chaūced in those dates, A that the Philistines gethered their host to gether to warre, entendynge to fight with Is rael. And Achis sayd to Da-uid: Be sure, thou shalt go out wt me in ỹ host, and thy men also. And Dauid sayde agayne to Achis: then thou shalt knowe, what thy seruaunt cā do. And Achis sayd to Dauid: Then I wyll make the* keeper of my heed for euer. Samuel was thē dead, & all Israel had lamēted hym & buried hym in Ramath his owne cytye. And Saul had put the wemē ỹ had spyrites of prophesy & the Sozcerars out of the lād.
And the philistines geathered to gether & came and pitched in Sunam. And Saul & al Israell geathered to geather and pitched in Gelboe. And when Saul sawe ỹ host of the Philistines, he was afrayed, & his hert was sore a stonied. And Saul al ked councel of the Lord: But the lord answered him not, nether by dreame nor by †Urim, nor yet by prophetes.

Then sayd Saul vnto his seruaūtes:
seke me a woman ỹ is mastres of a spyrite of prophecye ỹ I maye go to her & aske of her. And his seruaūtes said to him: se ther is a wyfe ỹ hath a spyrite of Prophesye in her possessiō at Endor. And Saul chaūged his clothes and put on other raynēt, & then wente he and two men withe him, & they came to the wife by nighte. And he sayd: prophesie vnto me by the spyrite, and bring me him vp whō I shall name vnto
the. And the wife said vnto him: Behold, B thou knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath destroyed the wemen that had pro phesying spyrites, & the Sozcerars out of the lād. Wherfore thē *layest thou a net That is, layest a net or trō. w herbs I might be brought to den: for my soule to kyl me? And Saul swore to her by the Lorde sayinge: As surely as the Lord liueth, ther shall no harme chaū ce the for thys thyng. Then said the wife:
whom shall I fetche vp vnto the? and he sayde: Bryngе me vp Samuel. Whē the woman saw Samuell she cryed wythe a lowde voyce & spake to Saull sayinge:
why haste thou mocked me? for thou arte Saul. And the king said vnto her, be not afrayde. But what seyst thou. And the wyfe sayd vnto Saul: I se* a God ascē The chald. the angell of God facion is he of? And the woman sayde:

there cometh vp an olde man wt a mantel C vpon him. And Saul perceaued ỹ it was † Samuel, & stouped with his face to the ground & bowed him self. And Samuell sayd to Saul: why haste thou vnquieted me, to make me be brought vp? And Saull answered: I am sore encombred. For the philistines make warre against me, & god is departed frō me & answered me nomore, nether by Prophetes, nether by dreames.
And therefore I haue called the, to tell me what I shal do. Thē said Samuel: wher fore doest thou aske of me? while the lord is gone frō the & is thyne enemye, the lord wyl do the as he sayd by my hād. For the Lord will rent the kyngdome out of thine hande, & geue it thy neyboure Dauid, because thou obeydst not ỹ voice of the lord, nor executedst his featre wrath vpō ỹ A-malechites. Therfore hath the lorde done this vnto the this day. And moreouer the lord wil deliuer Israel wt the, into the hād of ỹ philistines. And to morow shalt ỹ & thy sōnes be wt me, & the lord shall geue
the host of Israel into the hādes of ỹ philistines. Then Saul fell streyghte waye flatte on the erth as lōg as he was, & was sore a dread of the wordes of Samuel.

D And therto there was no strengthe in him, for he had not eaten al the daye & the nyght before. And the woman came vnto Saul & saw ỹ he was sore troubled, and sayd vnto him. Se, thine hād maide hath obeyed thy voyce & haue put my soule in my hande, & haue rekened vnto thy wordz which thou saydest vnto me. Now ther fore herkē thou also vnto ỹ voice of thine hand mayd, & let me sett a morsel of bread before the, & eate & gett the strength to go thy iourney. But he refused it & sayde: I wyl not eate. But his seruaūtes & ỹ wyfe togethether cōpelled him, ỹ he heard theyr voice. And so he arose frō ỹ erth & sat him on a bed. The womā had a fat calfe in the house, & ỹ she hasted & killed it, & toke flower & kneed it, & dyd bake hi swete cakes, & brought thē before saul & before his ser uaūtes. And whē they had eatē, they stode vp, and went awaye the same nyghte.

¶ Dauid goyng with king Achis to fight against Saul is send againe by the meanes of the lordes of the Philistines.

The. xxix. Chapter

A THe Philistines geathered all their hostes to geather vnto Aphec: And Israell pytched by *a fountaine i Jezrahel. And ỹ lordes of ỹ philistines wēt forth by hundredes & by thousandes. But Dauid & his men came behinde wt Achis Then sayd the lordes of the Philistines: what ar youder Ebrues? And Achis sayd vnto the lordes of the philistines: Is not this Dauid ỹ seruaunt of Saul ỹ kyng of Israel, which hath bene wt me dates or yeres, & I haue foūd no fault in him sēce he fled vnto me vnto this daye. Neuertheles ỹ lordz of ỹ philistines were wroth wt him and sayd vnto him: Make this fe low returne, and let him go agayne to his place whiche thou haste appoynted hym. For he shal not go wt vs to battel, leste he be an aduersarye to vs in the battell. For wherewythe coulde he better obtayne the

B fauour of his maister, thē ỹ pō the heades of our mē. Is this not Dauid to whō they sang in daūces: *Saul slue his thousand but Dauid his x. thousand? Then Achis called Dauid & sayde vnto hym: As sure as the Lord lyueth ỹ art honest, & it pleaseth me wel ỹ thou shuldest accōpanye me in the hoste, for I haue foūd none euel wt the sence thou camest to me vnto this day Neuertheless the Lordes of the Philistines fauour the not: wherfore returne & go in peace, that thou displease not thee Lordes of the Philistines. And Dauid seyde agayne to Achis: Why what haue I done and what hast thou founde in thy seruaūt as long as I haue ben with the vnto this daye, that I may not go fight against the enemies of my Lord the kinge.

Achis answered and said to Dauid: I wot wel thou pleasest me, as it were an Angel of God. Notwithstādinge the Lordes of the Philistines haue sayd, that ỹ shalte not go with them to batel. Wherfore ryse vp early in the morning with thy masters seruaūtes that ar come with the. And whē ye be vp early as sone as ye haue light de parte. And so Dauid & his men rose early to departe in the morning & to returne into the lāde of the philistines. And the Philistines went vp to Jezrahel.

¶ Dauid returning frō king Achis fyndeth zkeleg burnt. He pursueth after the burners therof, & killeth them and recouereth the praye.

The. xxx. Chapter.

BVt yet Dauid & his mē were come to Zikeleg ỹ thyrde day the Amalekites had runne in a running vpō the south and vpon Zikeleg, and had smyt ten Zikeleg & burnt it with fyre, and had taken the wemen that were therein pryso ners, bothe small and great: but slew not a man, saue caryed thē wyth thē & wēt theyr wayes. When Dauid & hys men came to the citte: behold, it was burnt with fyre, & theyr wyues, theyr sonnes & theyr daughters were take prisoners. Thē Dauid & ỹ people ỹ was with hym lift vp theyr voyces & wept, vntyl they could wepe nomore And Dauids two wiues were taken prysoners also. Ahinoam the Jezrahelite and Abigaill the wyfe of Naball thee Carmelite. And Dauid was in a shrowde strayt: for thee people entended to stone hym be cause because ỹ hertes of al the people were vexed for their sonnes and their daughters.

But Dauid toke a good courage to him in the Lord his God and *said to Abiathar the preest Ahimelechs sōne: bringe me the Ephod. And Abiathar brought ỹ Ephod to Dauid. And Dauid asked the Lord saying: shal I folow after this com panye? & shall I ouer take them? And he sayd to hym: folowe, for thou shalte ouer take them and recouer the pray.

And he went and the syxe hundred mē that were with him, & they came to the ryuer Besor,, wher a part of thē abode. But Dauid and foure hundred men folowed: But two hundred abode behinde beynge to wery to go ouer the riuer Besor. Then they found an Egipcian in the felde, and brought him to Dauid & gaue him breed to eate & water to drynke, & gaue hym a few figgz & ii. cloustets of reasiges. And whē he had eatē, his spyrytes came agayne to him: for he had eatē no bread nor dronck no water in thre dayes and thre nyghtes. Thē Dauid sayd vnto him: to whō belōgest ỹ & whēce art thou? and the lad āswered: I am an Egyptian and seruaūt to an Amalekite: & my master left me behind, be cause I fell sicke: we came a rouing vpō the south of Cerethis, & vpon them of Juda & on the south of Caleb. And we burnt Zikeleg wt fire. And Dauid sayd to him: cānst thou bring me to this cōpany? And he sayd: I swere vn to me by god, ỹ thou wylte neither kyll me nor deliuer me into ỹ hād of my master, & I wyll bringe the vnto them. And when he had brought him: se, they laye skatered al abroade vpō ỹ erth, eating & drynckig & tryūphing ouer al the great pray ỹ they had caried awaye oute of the lande of the Philistines, & out of the lande of Juda.

And Dauid layde vpō thē frō the twy light vntil the eue on the morow: so ỹ ther escaped not a mā, saue foure hundred yōge men which rodde awaye vpon camels and fled. And Dauid recouered al ỹ the Amalekites had caryed awaye, & hys two wiues: so ỹ there was no person lackinge small or great, sōne or daughter, or of the spoyle of al ỹ they had takē awaye, Dauid brought al agayne. And Dauid toke all the shepe, & the oxen. And they draue the cattel before, & sayde: thys is Dauids praye. And thē Dauid came to the two hūdred mē ỹ were to wery for to folow Dauid whych they made to abyde at the riuer Besor. And they came to mete Dauid & ỹ people that were with him. And whē Dauid came to the people, he saluted thē. Thē answered all the wycked & the vnthryftes of the men that went with Dauid, & sayde because they wente not wythe vs, therfore shall none of the praye that we haue recouered, be geuen vnto thē, saue to euery mā hys wyfe and hys chyldrē: whych let them carye away & be walkinge.

Thē sayd Dauid: ye shal not dō so (my brethrē) with ỹ the Lord hath geuen vs, & hath preserued vs, & deliuered the cōpany that came against vs, into our hādes. For who shuld herke vnto you in this matter? But as hys parte is ỹ goeth & fighteth, so good shal his part be, ỹ tarieth by ỹ stuffe thei shal part it a like. And so frō that day forward: was that made a lawe & a costume in Israel, & dureth to this day. When Dauid came to Zikeleg, he sente of hys pray vnto the elders of Juda & to his frēdes sayēg: se ther a *blessing for you, of ỹ spoyle of ỹ enemies of the lord. He sent to thē of Bethel: to thē of south Ramath: to thē of Gether: to thē of Arder: to them of Sephamoth: to thē of Esthamo: to thē of Rachal: to them of the cyties of the Jerhameelites: to them of the cyties of the Kentes: to them of Harmanah: to them of Bozasan: to them of Athach: to them of Hebron and to al places where Dauid & hys men were wont to haunt.

The .j. Chapter.

A Fter the death of Saul, whē Dauid was returned frō the ſlaughter of ꝑ Amalekites & had ben .ii. dayes in Zikelag: Behold, ther came a man the thyrde day out of the hoſte frō Saul with his clothes rent & erth vpō hys head. And whē he came to Dauid, he fell to the earth & dyd obeyſaūce. To whō Dauid ſayde: whence comeſt ꝑ? And the other anſwered him: Out of the hoſt of Iſrael am I eſcaped. And Dauid ſaid to him agayn: How hath it chaūced? tel me. And he ſayd: ꝑ people fled frō the battell: & many of ꝑ people are ouerthrowē & dead: & Saull & Ionathas hys ſonne are dead therto.

And Dauid ſayd vnto the yoūg mā ꝑ told hym: how knoweſt thou that Saul & Ionathas his ſonne be dead? & the young mā that told him, ſayd: I was by chaūce in moūt Gelboe. And ſe, Saul lened vpō hys ſpeare, and the charettes & horſemen folowed him at ꝑ heles. And Saul lokt backe & called me. And I anſwered: here am I. And he ſayd vnto me: what arte ꝑ? and I ſayd vnto him: I am an Amalekite And he ſaid vntome: come on me & ſlee me For anguiſhe is come vpō me & my life is yet al in me. And I wēt on him & ſlue him: for I was ſure ꝑ he coulde not lyue, after that he was fallē. And I toke the crowne that was vpō his head & the Bracelet that was on his arme & haue brought them vnto my Lorde hyther.

Thē Dauid toke hys clothes & rent thē, & ſo dyd all the men ꝑ were with hym. And they mourned, wepte & faſted vntyll euē, for Saul & Ionathas his ſonne, and for the people of the Lord, & for the houſe of Iſrael, becauſe they were ouerthrowen wyth the ſwerde.

Thē ſaid Dauid vnto the young mā ꝑ C brought him tidinges. Whēce art ꝑ? And he ſayd: I am the ſonne of an alyaunte an Amalekite. And Dauid ſayde vnto hym: Howe is it that thou waſte not afrayed to laye thine hād on the Lordes anoynted, to deſtroy him? And Dauid called one of his young mē & ſayd: Go to & runne vpō him And he ſmote him ꝑ he dyed. Then ſayde Dauid vnto him: ✠ thy bloud vpō thyne owne head. For thine owne mouth hath teſtifieth agaynſt the ſaying: I haue ſlayne the Lordes anoynted.

C Dauid is anoynted in Hebron. The battel of the ſeruauntes of Dauid and Iſboſeth.

The .ii. Chapter.

A Fter thys Dauid aſked thee Lord ſaying: Shal I go vp in to any of the cyties of Iuda? And the Lord ſayde: go. And Dauid āſwered whither ſhal I go? He anſwered, vnto Hebron. And ſo Dauid went thether wyth hys two wiues alſo Ahinoam the Iezrahelite & Abigaill Nabals wyfe the Carmelyte. And the mē that were with hym, dyd Dauid carye vp alſo, euery man wyth his houſe. And they
G dwelte in the townes of Hebron. And the men of Iuda came and there annoynted Dauid king ouer ꝑ houſe of Iuda. Whē it was tolde Dauid, howe the men of Iabes in Galaad had buried Saul, he ſente meſſengers vnto them & ſeyd vnto them: bleſſed are ye vnto the Lorde, that ye haue ſhewed ſoche kyndnes vnto youre Lorde Saul, and haue buried hym. Wherfore ꝑ Lord ſhew you mercy and truth agayne. And I wyll do you good alſo, becauſe ye haue done thys thing. And now lett youre handes ſtere thē & playe ye the mē, though your mayſter Saul be dead. And finally vnderſtande that the houſe of Iuda haue anoynted me kyng ouer them. But Abner
C thee ſonne of Ner that was captayne of Sauls hoſte, toke Iſboſeth thee ſonne of Saul and brought hym to Mahanaim & made hym kynge ouer Galaad and ouer the Aſſurites, & ouer Iezrahell: & ouer Ephraim & Ben Iamin & ouer all Iſraell. And Iſboſeth Sauls ſonne was fourtye yeare olde when he began to raygne ouer Iſraell, and raygned two yeare. But the houſe of Iuda onelye folowed Dauid. * ii. Reg. v. a
And the tyme whyche Dauid raygned in Hebron ouer the houſe of Iuda, was .vii. yere & syxe monethes. And Abner the ſōne of Ner & thee ſeruauntes of Iſboſeth the ſonne of Saul went out of Mahanaim, to Gabaon. And Joab thee ſonne of Zaruiah & the ſeruauntes of Dauid wēt out & mett them by the Pole of Gabaon. And they ſatt downe, the one part on ꝑ one ſyde the Pole & the other on the other ſide. And Abner ſayd to Joab: let the young men aryſe & playe before vs. And Joab anſweted: be it. Then there aroſe and went ouer:
D twelue of Ben Iamin by nombre whyche pertayned to Iſboſeth the ſonne of Saul and twelue of the ſeruauntes of Dauid. And they caught eche hys felowe that came agaynſte hym, by the head and thruſte hys ſwerde in hys ſyde, and ſo fell downe all at once. Wherfore the place was called * Helath Zurim wyych is in Gabaon That is, ꝑ fylde of the ſtrong or myghtie. And there begānne an exceding cruell battell that ſame day. But Abner and the mē of Iſraell were put to the worſſe of the ſeruauntes of Dauid.

And ther was thre ſonnes of Zaruiah there: Joab, Abiſai & Aſahel: whych Aſahel was as ſwifte of fote as a wild Roo, & folowed after Abner & * turned nether to Gen. xxiii. f
the ryghte hande nor to the lefte from Abner. Then Abner loked behynde hym and ſayde: arte thou Aſahel? And he ſayde: ye.

E Then

Then sayde Abner: turne the ether to the right hand or to the left and catche one of the younge men and take the hys spoyle. But Asahell wolde not departe frō hym. And Abner sayd agayne to Asahel: turne from me, for I were loth to smyte ȳ to the grounde. For then how shulde I hold vp my face before Joab thy brother? howbeit he wolde in no wyse departe.

F * Then Abner with the hinder ende of ȳ speare smote him vnder ȳ short ribbes, that ȳ speare came out behynde hym: ȳ he fell downe in the same place & dyed there. And as many as came to ȳ place wher Asahel fel down & dyed, stode still. But Joab & Abisai folowed Abner tyll the sunne wēt downe. And when they were come to ȳ hil Amah that lyethe before Giah in the way ȳ goeth thorow the wildernes of Gabaō, ȳ children of Benamin gethered them selues together after Abner on a plumpe & stode stil on ȳ toppe of an hil. Thē Abner called to Joab and sayd: shal ȳ swerd deuoure without ende? knowest ȳ not ȳ bitternes is wont to come in ȳ later ende? how long shal it be, yer thou bydde ȳ people returne from folowing their brethrē?

G And Joab answered: as truly as God liueth, yf ȳ haddest so sayd, thē euē in ȳ morning had ȳ people departed, eche frō folowinge his brother. And therwithe * Joab blew a trōpet, and al the people stode still and pursued after Israell no more nor fought no more. And Abner & his mē walked all that nyghte by the wylde feldes, & went ouer Jordan, & past thorow al Berthoron and came to Mahanaim.

And Joab returned frō after Abner & gethered al ȳ people to gether. And there lacked of Dauid seruaūtes nyntene persons & Asahel. But the seruaūtes of Dauid had slayne of Beniamin & of Abners mē, thre hūdred & thre score mē. And they toke vp Asahel and buried him in ȳ sepulchre of his father in Bethlehem. And Joab and hys men went al nyght, and came in the dawnyng to Hebron.

¶ Abner cōmeth to Dauid & bringeth hym hys wife Michol. Joab killeth Abner. Dauid bewepeth his dede and curseth Joab.

The.iii.Chapter.

THer was long strife betwene the howse of Saull and the house of Dauid. But dauid waxed stronger and stronger, and ȳ house of Saul waxed weaker & weaker. * And Dauid had children borne him in Hebrō: his eldest sonne was Ammon of Ahinoam the Jezrahelite: the secōde Cheleab of Abigail the wyfe of Nabal the Carmelite: the thyrde Absalom the sonne of Maachah ȳ daughter of Tholmai the kyng of Gessur: the fourth Adoniah the sonne of Hagith: the fyfte Saphatiah the sonne of Abital: the syxt Jethraā by Egla Dauids wife. These were borne to Dauid in Hebrō. And as long as there was battell betwene the house of Saul & ȳ house of Dauid, Abner helde vp the house of Saull, And Saul had a * cōcubyne named Rizpha the daughter of Aiah. And Isboseth sayd to Abner. Wherfore lyest thou with my fathers concubine? Then was Abner verye wroth for the wordes of Isboseth & sayde: Am I not a * dogges heed, whiche Against Juda haue shewed mercye this day vnto the house of Saul thy father & to his brethren & frendes, & haue not delyuered thē into ȳ hāde of Dauid: leynge ȳ fidest a fault in me this day for a womā? * So do God to Abner and so therto: except that as the lord hath swore to Dauid, I so do to him, and bryng the kyngdom from the house of Saul & sett vp ȳ throne of Dauid ouer Israel & ouer Juda, euen from Dan to Berlsabe. And he coulde geue Abner neuer a woorde to answere because he feared hym.

And Abner sent messengers to Dauid forthwith, saying: whose is the land? & he sayde therto: make a bonde with me, & se, my hād is wt the, to bring al Israell vnto the. And Dauid ānswered wel sayd, I wil make a bōd wyth the. But one thing I requere of the, ȳ thou se not my face, excepte ȳ fyrst bringe Michol Sauls daughter, when thou comest to se me.

And Dauid sente messengers to Isboseth Sauls sonne saying: delyuer me my wyfe Michol whych I maryed wythe an hundred foreskinnes of ȳ philistines. And Isboseth sent and toke her from her husband Phaltiel the sōne of Lais. And her husband wēt wt her, and came weping behinde her, tyl they came to Bahurim. Thē sayde Abner vnto him go & returne. And he returned. And Abner had communicatiō wyth with the elders of Israel, sayinge: ye haue long gone about ȳ Dauid shuld be kinge ouer you. Now thē do it: for the lord hath sayd of Dauid, by ȳ hand of my seruaūt D Dauid, I wyl saue my people Israel, out of the hādes of the Philistines, & out of ȳ hand of al their enemies. And like wordes had he with Benjamin, & then went to tell in the eares of Dauid itt Hebrō al ȳ Israel was content wyth & the whole house of Benjamin. And whē Abner was come to Dauid to Hebrō & twentie men with him Dauid made him & the mē that were with him a feast. Then Abner sayde vnto Dauid: I wyl vp & gō geather all Israel vnto my Lord the king, that they may make an appoyntmēt wyth the, that thou mayst be kyng ouer all that thyne hart desyreth. And so Dauid lett Abner departe, and he went in peace.

And se, the seruaūtes of Dauid & Joab came frō chasing robbers and brought a great praye with thē. But Abner was not with Dauid in Hebrō: for he had sent him E away to depart in peace. Wh̄e Joab & all the host that was with him were come, mē tolde Joab saying: Abner ȳ sonne of Ner came to ȳ king, & he hath sent him away & he is gone in peace. Then Joab went to ȳ kyng & sayde: what haste thou done? Se, Abner came vnto the, why hast thou sente hym awaye, that he shoulde skape quyte? Thou mightest know Abner the sonne of Ner, ȳ he came to slater with the, & to know thy cōuersation & behauoure, & to knowe al ȳ thou doest. And whē Joab was come out frō the king, he sent messengers after Abner, which brought him agayne frōthe well of Sirah vnweting to Dauid. And whē Abner was come agayne to Hebron, Joab toke hym a syde in ȳ gate, to speake with him gilefully, & there smote hym vnder the short ribbes ȳ he dyed, for the bloude of Asahel his brother. And whē it after F warde came to Dauids eare, he sayd: I & my kingdō are gyltlesse before the Lorde for euer, cōcerning the bloud of Abner the sonne of Ner. It fall therfore on the head of Joab & on all hys fathers house, ȳ the house of Joab be neuer without one or other ȳ hath running issues? without lepers & goers on crouches, & that fal on ȳ swerd and that lacke bread. And the cause why Joab & Abisai slue Abner was, ȳ Abner had slayne their brother Asahel at Gabaō in battell. And Dauid sayde to Joab & to all ȳ people that were with him, rent your clothes & * putt on sacke clothe & mourne before Abner. And king Dauid hym self folowed ȳ bere. And whē they had buryed Abner in Hebron, the king lift vp his voyce & wept ouer the sepulchre of Abner, & so dyd al the people. And the king lamented ouer Abner & sayde: Abner dyed not as a wretche dieth. Thy hādes were not manacled nor thy fete brought into gyues: but as men fall before wycked children, so fel lest thou. And al the people wept yet more ouer hym.

And whē al the people came to eat meat G with Dauid, while it was yet day, Dauid swate saying: so do God to me & so thertō yf I tast bred or ought elles, tyl the sunne be downe. And the people wist it, & it pleased them, as wel as al other good thinges which the king dyd in the syght of the people. And al the people & al Israell thertō vnderstode that daye how that it was not the kinges mynde, to slee Abner the sonne of Ner. And the king sayd vnto his seruātes: know ye not, how that there is a Lorde & that a great fallen this daye in Israell? And I am thys daye tender, though I be anoynted king. And these men the sonnes of Zaruiah be * to good for me too rule. or to stroge But the Lord reward the doer of euel according to his wyckednesse.

¶ Baanah and Rechab slay Isboseth the sonne of Saul.

The.iiii.Chapter.

WHē Sauls sonne heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, his handes fāynted & al Israell was troubled. Nowe thys Saules sonne hadde twoo men that were become Captaynes ouer the Soudiars, thee one called Baanah & the other Rechab, the sonnes of Remon a Berothite, and of thee chyldren of Ben Jamin: for Beroth was reckened too pertayne to Ben Jamin. And these Berothites fledde too Gethaim and soiourned there vntyl the same tyme. And Jonathas Saules sonne, hadde a sonne that was lame lame on hys fete: .v. yere olde was he whē the tydinges came of Saull & Jonathas out of Jesrahel. And hys nource toke him vp & fled awaye. And as she made haste to flee & was amased, the chyld fel & became halt & was called Mephiboseth. And these sonnes of Remō the Berothite, Rechab & Baanah went, & came in the heate of the daye to the house of Isboseth, as he slepte on a bed at none. And behold they came in to the house as thoughe they wolde haue bought *whete, & smote him vnder ȳ short ribbes & fled. For they came into the house as he slept on his bed in his resting chamber, & smote him & slue him & beheded him & toke his head & gat them awaye thorowe the wylde feld al night. And they brought the head of Isboseth vnto Dauid to Hebron & sayd to the kyng: beholde there the head of Isboseth Sauls sonne thyne enemye, which sought thy soule. But the lord hath auenged my Lorde the kinge thys daye, of Saul and of hys sede.

And Dauid answered Rechab & Baanah hys brother, the sonnes of Remon the Berothite & sayd vnto thē: * as surely as the Lord liueth whych hath deliuered my soule out of al aduersytes: hym *that told me how that Saul was dead, thynkynge too haue brought me good tydynges, I caught & slew in Zikeleg, to geue him a reward for his tidinges bringing. And how moch more ought I so to deale with wycked mē that haue slayne a ryghteouse person in his owne house vpō hys bed. Now therfore thinke ye that I wyll not require his bloud of your hādes & take you frō ȳ erth. And Dauid cōmaunded his younge men, & they slue thē & cut of theyr hādes & theyr fete and hanged thē vp by the poole in Hebron. And they toke the head of Isboseth and buryed it in thee sepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

C Dauid is yet agayne anoynted King: and taketh the arke from Sion. He casteth out the blynde and the lame. He marieth mo wyues and getteth mo children. He smiteth the Philistines.

The. v. Chapter.

Then came al the tribes of Israel to Dauid to Hebron and sayd: se, we are thi bones and thy flesche. And therto in time past when Saul was kynge ouer vs, thou leddest Israel in & out. And the Lord hath sayd to the: thou shalt fede my people Israel, and thou shalt be a captayne ouer Israel. And so all the elders of Israell came to the kinge to Hebron. And King Dauid made a couenaūt with them in Hebron before the Lorde. And they annoynted Dauid kynge ouer Israel. Dauid was thyrtie yeare olde when he began to raygne, and he raygned fourtye yeare. In Hebron he raygned ouer Juda seuen yeare and syre monethes. And in Jerusalem he raygned thyrtye and thre yeres ouer all Israell and Juda.

Then went the kinge and hys men to Jerusalem, vnto the Jebusites the enhabiters of the land. And they sayd vnto Dauid: excepte thou take awaye the blinde & thee lame thou shalte not come in hyther, meaninge therby that Dauid shoulde not haue come in thither. Neuertheles Dauid toke the holde of Sion, which is the cytie of Dauid. Then sayd Dauid the same day. Whosoeuer winneth the walles and the lame and the blynd hated of Dauids soule. * Wherfore ȳ blind & the lame shal not come into ȳ house. And Dauid dwelt in the towre & called it the cytie of Dauid. And Dauid bylt round about it frō Mello inwarde. And Dauid waxed great and the Lorde God of hostes was wyth hym. And Hyram kyng of Tire sent messēgers to Dauid wyth Cedar trees and carpenters & Masons, to bylde Dauid an house

Wherby Dauid perceaued that the Lord had stablished hym kynge ouer Israell & had exalted hys kyngdom for hys people Israels sake. And Dauid toke hym mo concubines and wyues out of Jerusalem after he was come from Hebron, and mo sonnes and daughters were yet borne too Dauid. And these be the names of the sonnes that were borne hym in Jerusalem: Samua, Sobab, Nathan, Salamō, Jebahar, Elilua, Nepheg, Japhia, Elisama Eliada, and Eliphalet.

But when the Philistines hearde that they had anoynted Dauid King ouer Israel, they came al vp to seke Dauid. And as sone as Dauid hearde of it, he gat him to anhold. And ȳ philistines came & layed them a longe in thee valeye of Raphaim. And Dauid asked of the Lorde sayinge: shal I goo to the Philistines, & wilt thou deliuer

And Dauid came to * Baal Pharazi & smote thē there & sayd: the Lorde hath deuided myne enemyes a sondre before me, as a man wolde deuyde water. And therefore he called the name of the sayd place, Baal Pharazim. And ther they left their Images and Dauid & his men toke them vp. And the philistines came yet agayne & layd them in ȳ valey Raphaim. And Dauid asked ȳ lorde, & he sayde go not. But compasse them on the backside & come vpon them from ȳ Peretrees. And when thou heareste the noyse of a thing going in the toppes of ȳ Peretrees, then moue. For then ȳ lorde is gone out before the, to smite ȳ hoste of the philistines. And Dauid did as ȳ lord cōmaunded hym and smote the Philistines from Gobaah to Gezer.

The. vi. Chapter.

Ffter ȳ, Dauid chose oute all the cheke yoūg men in Israel to the soume of thirty thousād, & arose & went and all the folke that were wt him of the men of Juda, to fett away ȳ arcke of god vpon which is called the name of the lord of hostes that dwelleth betwene ȳ cherubyns. And they put the arck of God vpō a new cart and brought it oute of ȳ house of Abinadab that dwelt at Gabaah. And Ozah and Ahio the sonnes of Abinadab drawe ȳ new carte. And whē they brought it out of that house of Abinadab ȳ dwelt at Gabaah with the arcke of God, Ahio went before the arck. And Dauid and al the house of Israell playde before the lorde with al maner instrumentes of fyre woode, wt harpes, psalteryes, timberelles, tedylles and symbals.

And whē they came to Nachōs threshig floure, Ozah put his hād to ȳ arck of god & held it, for the oxē stōbled. And the lorde was wrath with Ozah & god smote hym in the same place for his faulte, and there he died by ȳ arck of god. And Dauid was displeased because ȳ Lord had rēt Ozah. And the name of the place was called Perez Ozah vntyll this daye. And Dauid was thē afraied of the Lorde and sayde: how shuld the arcke of ȳ lord come to my house? And so Dauid wold not bring the arcke of the Lord with him into ȳ citie of Dauid. But caried it into the house of Obed Edom a Gethite. And the arck of the lorde contynued in the house of Obed Edō the Gethite, thre monethes, & the lorde blessed Obed Edō and al hys housholde. And whē it was tolde kyng Dauid how ȳ the lorde had blessed the house of Obed Edō & all ȳ pertayned vnto him, because of ȳ arck of god, he wēt & brought ȳ arck of God frō the house of Obed Edō vnto the citie of Dauid wt gladnesse. And euē whē they ȳ bare the arck of the Lord had gone syre passes, he offered an oxe & a fat shepe. And Dauid daunsed before the lorde wt al his might in a lynnē Ephod gird vnto him. And Dauid and all the house of Israell brought the arcke of the Lord with showtyng and trompet blowyng.

C

And as the arcke of the Lord came into the cytye of Dauid, Micholl Sauls daughter loked thorow a wyndow & saw king Dauid spryng & daunce before the lord, & therfore dyspysed hym in her hert. And when they had brought in the arcke of the lord, & had set it euē in his place, euen in the tabernacle that Dauid had prepared for it: Dauid offered burntofferynges & peaceofferynges before the Lord, & as sone as Dauid had made an ende of offering burntofferynges & peaceofferynges he blessed the people in the name of ȳ lord of hostes, & gaue amōg al the folke, euē amōge the hole multytude of Israel, as well to the wemen as mē euerye one a Cake of breed & a pece of flesche and a flacket of wyne. And so the people departed euery man to hys house.

Then Dauid returned to salute hys housholde. And Micholl the daughter of Saul came out agaynst him & sayd: Oh how glorious was the king of Israell to day, which stript him self to day before the eyes of the maydēs of his seruauntes, as a light brained felow is wōt to stripe him self. But Dauid sayd againe to Micholl, I wil make spoyle before the lord whiche chose me before thy father & before al his kynne, cōmaundynge me to be ruler ouer al his people Israell. And I wilbe yet more vile then so, and wilbe meke in mine owne syght: & shall for all that of ỹ verye same mayde seruaūtz which thou speakest of, be had in honour. But ỹ sayd Michol daughter to Saul had no childe vnto the daye of her deeth.

*That is, of clothes & hāgynges ỹ were set vp at the makynge of the tabernacle. Exo. xxvi. a. b

But that same night the word of ỹ lorde came vnto Nathā saying: go & tel my seruaūt Dauid, thus sayth the lord: shalt thou go bylde me an house to dwel in? For I haue not dwelte in any house sence the tyme I broughte the chyldren of Israell oute of Egipte, vnto thys daye: but haue walked in a tēt & in a tabernacle. In anye way where I wēt among al the childrē of Israel, spake I one word wt any of ỹ tribes of Israel which I cōmaūded to fede my people Israel saying: why bild ye not me an house of Cedar trees? Now therfore so say vnto my seruaūt dauid, thus sayth the lord of hostes I toke ỹ out of a shepardes cote frō folowinge shepe to be a ruler ouer my people Israel. And I was wt the in al ỹ thou wētest to, and haue destroyed al thine enemies out of thy syght, & haue made ỹ a great name, lyke vnto the name of the great mē of the world. And I wyll appoint a place for my people Israell, & wil plante it & they shall contynew in one place & shall moue no moare, nether shall wickyd people trouble thē anye more as they did at the beginning, & sēce the tyme I cōmaunded Judges to be ouer my people Israell, & I wyll geue the rest from al thyne enemyes. And the Lord telleythe the that he wyll bylde the an houshold.

And whē thy dates be fulfilled & thou layde to rest with thy fathers, thē I will set vp thy seede after the, whych shal proceade out of thy body, & wyll stablysh his kyngedome. And he shall bylde an house for my name, & I wyll stablyshe the seate of hys kyngdome for euer: I wylbe hys father & he shalbe my sonne: in so moch ỹ yf he synne, I wyll but rebuke hym wyth soche a rodde as mē be rebuked wt and wt soche plages as the children of mē be plaged wt. But my mercy wyl I not take away from him, as I toke it from Saull, whom I put downe before the. And thine house & thy kyngdome shal endure wout ende after ỹ, & thy seate shalbe stablyshed for euer. And when Nathan had told Dauid al these wordes and al thys vysyon. Then wēt kyng Dauid & set hym downe before the Lord and sayd: what am I lorde Jehouah, and what is my kynne, that thou shuldest haue brought me this farre forthe? And is this a small thynge in thy sight Lord Jehouah but ỹ thou shuldest speake also of thy seruauntes house for a great while to come? is this a law amōge mē lord Jehouah? And what can Dauid say moare vnto the, seing * ỹ knowest thy seruaūt Lord Jehouah? Euē for thy wordes sake & according to thine owne † hert hast thou donc all these greate thinges to make them knowen vnto thy seruaunt.

* that is, ỹ chyefest thy seruāt and ge al other

† Or, hert

Wherfore thou art great O Lord god & there is none like the, nether is ther anye God saue thou accordyng to all ỹ we haue heard with oure eares. And what one people in the erth is lyke thy people Israel, which god wēt & deliuered to be his people, & to make him a name, & to shewe thē great & terrible thigz in ỹ erthe, before thy people which ỹ redemedst to the out of Egipt, cue * frō ỹ people & frō their Gods. And ỹ hast ordeined thy people Israel to be thy people for euer. And ỹ Lorde arte their god. And now lord God ỹ thinge ỹ hast said of thy seruaūt and of his house make it good for euer & do as ỹ hast sayd. And let thy name be great for euer & men may say, the lord of hostes is the God of Israel: & let the house of thy seruaūt Dauid be stablisshed before the. For ỹ Lord of hostes God of Israell hast told in the eare of thy seruaunte sayinge. I wyl bilde the an house. And therefore hathe thy seruaūt found in his harte to prayse this prayer ¶ Dauid restoreth all ỹ feldes of Saul, to Miphibosheth the sonne of Jonathas.

The. ix. Chapter.

THen sayd Dauid: is ther yet any man left of the house of Saull, that I maye shewe hym mercye for Jonathas sake? And there was of the houshold of Saul a seruaūt named Zibah, which was called vnto Dauid. And the kyng sayd vnto him: art thou Zibah? And he sayd: thy seruaunt is the mā. Thē sayd the kyng remaineth ther yet any mā of the kynred of Saul, whō I may shewe the mercye of God vpō? And Zibah sayd vnto the kyng: Jonathas hath yet a sōne which is lame on both fete. And the kyng said vnto hi: whet is he? And Zibah said vnto the kig: behold he is in the house of Machir: the sonne of Amiel in Lodaber. Then kyng Dauid sent & fet him out of the house of Machir ẏ sõne of Amiel, out of Lodaber. Nowwhen Miphiboseth the sõne of Jonathas the sõne of Saul was come vnto Dauid, he bowed him self and fel on his face. Then said Dauid: Miphiboseth. And he answered. Behold thy seruaũt. And Dauid said: feare not for I wil surely shewe the kyndnesse for Jonathas sake & wil restore the al the feldz of Saul thy father, and thou shalte eate meate on mine owne table all waye. And the other bowed him self & said: what is thy seruaũte that thou shuldeste vouchesake to loke vpon sothe a dead dogg as I am.

Then the kyng called vnto Ziba Sauls poũg mã saying vnto him: I gene vnto thy maisters sonne al ẏ pertained to Saul & to all hys kynne. Se therfore ẏ thou & thy sõnes and thy seruaũtes tyll the lande for him, and bring in, ẏ thy maisters sonne maye haue fode to eate. For Miphiboseth thy maisters sonne shal eate meate all waye vpon my table. For thys Ziba had fyftene sonnes & twentye seruãtes. Thẽ said Ziba vnto ẏ kyng: al ẏ my Lorde hathe sayde vnto hys seruaũt, thy seruaũt shall do. For (sayd the kyng) Miphiboseth muste eate vpõ my table, as one of the kynges sounes. Thys Miphiboseth had a sõne ẏ was younge named Micha, & all that dwelled in the house of Ziba were seruauntes vnto Miphiboseth. And Miphiboseth dwelt in Jerusalem, for he ate euer at the kynges table, & was therto hault on bothe legges.

¶ The messengers of Dauid are spitefully & villanously entreated of the kyng of Moab which thinge Dauid aduengeth.

The. x. Chapter.

AIt happened after this ẏ the kig of ẏ childze of Ammõ died, & Hanõ his sõne raygned in his steade. Thẽ sayd Dauid: I will shewe kindnes vnto Hanõ ẏ sõne of Nahas, as his father shewed kindnes vnto me. And ther vpõ Dauid sent to cõfort hym by ẏ hãd of his seruaũtz ouer ẏ deth of his father. Now whẽ Dauids seruaũtes were come into ẏ land of the chyldzen of Ammon, the Lordes of the childzen of Ammon said vnto Hanon their Lorde: thynkeste thou that Dauid dothe honoure thy father, because he hath sente to comforte the? Naye, he hathe rather sent his seruauntes vnto the, to serche the cytye and to spye it oute, euen to ouerthrow it.

Wherfore Hanõ toke Dauids seruaũtes and shaued of the one halfe of euerye mannes berd & cut of their garmẽtes euẽ in the myddle, euen harde by ẏ buttockes of thẽ and sent thẽ awaye. When it was told Dauid he sent agaynste thẽ (for they were mẽ exceedingly a shamed) & saide: tary at Jericho vntil your beerdz be growẽ, & thẽ returne. And whẽ ẏ childzen of Ammõ saw ẏ they stancke vnto Dauid, they set & hired ẏ sõnz of Bethrehob & of ẏ Sotties of Zobah. xx. thousãd fote men & of kig Maacah a thousãd men, & of Istob twelue thousãd mẽ. And whẽ dauid hard of it, he sent Joab & al ẏ host of stõg mẽ. And the chyldzẽ of Ammõ came out & waged battell before the gate & the Sirtiens of Zobah, of Rehob, Istob & Maacah were by them selues in the feldes.

When Joab saw that the front of the battell was before and after, he chose of all the best of Israel & put them in araye agaynst the Sirtiens. And the reste of the people he deliuered in ẏ hãd of Abisai his brother, which put them in aray agaynste the childzen of Ammon. And he sayde: yf the Sirties ouercome me, thẽ succour me. But yf ẏ childzen of Ammon be to good for ẏ, I will come & succoure ẏ, quyte the like a mã, & let vs fight lustelye for oure people & for the cities of our god. And the lord do what semith best in his eyes. And forth yd Joab procedded & the people that was yd him into battel against ẏ Sirties, which fled before him. And whẽ ẏ childze of Ammõ saw ẏ the Sirties were fled, thẽ fled they also before Abisai, & entered into the citie. And so Joab returned frõ ẏ childzẽ of Ammõ & came to Jerusalem. And whẽ ẏ Sirtiens saw ẏ they were put to ẏ worse before Israel they gethered thẽ toge ther. And Hadadezer sent & brought out ẏ Sirtiens ẏ were beyoũd the ryuer. And ẏ host of them came, & Sobah the captayne of the host of Hadadezer before them.

And when it was shewed Dauid, he gethered al Israel and passed ouer Jorda & came to Helam: where the Sirtians put them selues in araye agaynste Dauid and fought wyth him: howe be it the Sirtiens fled before Israell. And Dauid destroyed seuen hundred charettes of thẽ & fourtye thousand horsemen, & smote Sobah the captayne of hys hoste, that he ther dyed. And when all the kinges that were seruauntes to Hadadezer sawe that they were put to the worsse before Israel, they made peace with thẽ and serued thẽ. And so the Sirtiens feared to helpe the childzẽ of Ammon any moare.

¶ The aduoutry of Dauid with Bethsabe ẏ wife of Vrias, Urias is spitefully slayne. After that Dauid taketh Bethsabe to wyfe.

The. xi. Chapter.

A (1 Par. 20. a)And it came to passe in the beginning of a new yere, in the times whẽ kinges are wõt to go forthe to battell, ẏ Dauid sent Joab & hys seruauntes with him & al Israel. And they destroyed the childzẽ of Ammon, & besieged Rabah. But Dauid tarved styl at Jerusalẽ. And it chaũced in an euenynge ẏ Dauid arose frõ his cowche & walked vpõ the rouffe of ẏ kynges palace, & frõ the rouffe saw a beautyful womã washyng her self. And he sẽt to enquyre what womã it shuld be. And it was answered agayne, ẏ she was Bethsabe the daughter of Eliã & wife to Urias ẏ Hethite. And Dauid sẽt messengers & fett her, & she came vnto hym & he laye wyth her. And she was strayght wayes purified frõ her vncleãnes, & returned vnto her house. And when the woman had perceaued that she had cõceaued, she sẽt & tolde Dauid, and saide: I am with child. Then Dauid sente to Joab, to send vnto him Urias the hethite. And Joab sẽt Urias to Dauid. And when Urias was come vnto him he demaunded how Joab fyd, and how the people fared, and howe ẏ warre prospited. And Dauid said moze ouer to Urias: go downe to thine house & washe thy fete. And Urias departed out of the kinges place, and ther folowed him a seruice frõ the kyngz table: But Urias slept at the doze of ẏ kynges palace withe all ẏ seruaũtes of his Lorde, and wẽt not downe to his house.

(that is, her floures or monethes disease ceased: & why, that is a token ẏ wemẽ haue cõceyued)

Then they told Dauid saying: Urias descendyd not into his house. Then sayd Dauid vnto Urias: Seynge that ẏ artt come frõ iorneynge, why dõste thou not go downe vnto thyne house? And Urias said vnto Dauid: ẏ arcke & Israel & Juda dwell in paulliõs: & my Lord Joab & the seruaũtes of my Lord lye in tẽtes vpon ẏ flat earth: & shuld I thẽ go into mine house, to eate and to drynke & to lye wyth my wife? * By thy life and as sure as thy soule liueth I wil not do that thing. Thẽ said Dauid vnto Urias: * tary here this day also, & to morow I will lett ẏ departe. And so Urias abode in Jerusalẽ ẏ daye & on the morow. And Dauid called hym, and he ate & dranke before him, & he made him droncke. And at euẽ he wẽt out to lye on his couch wythe the seruaũtes of ẏ lorde, & went not downe to his house. Wherfore on ẏ morow Dauid wrote a letter to Joab and sent it by Urias. And he wrote in the letter saying: put Urias in the forefront of the battel where it is most stõg, and come back from him that he maye be smytte to deeth. And as Jacob besieged ẏ citie he assigned Urias vnto a place whee he wist ẏ stõg men were. And the men of ẏ citie came out & fought with Joab. And there were certen onet thrown of the people and of the seruauntes of Dauid, and Urias the hethite dyed also.

(Leuit. 18. d)

(Iudic. 19. a)

Then Joab sent and tolde Dauid all the processe of the warre and charged the messengers saying: when thou hast made an ende of tellyng the story of warre vnto the kyng yf he begynne to fume & saye vnto the: wherfore approched ye so nie vnto the citie to fyght? wyst ye not that men wolde hourle and shote from the walles? who smote Abimelech sonne of * Jerobeseth? did not a woman cast a pece of a mil stone vpon hym from of the walles, that he dyed in Thebes? why then went ye nye the walles, then saye thou: thy seruaunte Urias the hethite is deed also.

(That is, dead, otherwise called Jerobaal)

And the messengers went and came & shewed Dauid al that Joab had set him wyth, and sayde vnto Dauid: ẏ men preuaile against vs, & came oute vnto vs into the feld, & we stack vnto thẽ, euẽ vnto ẏ entetinge of the gate. And the shothers shote frõ the walles, & some of the seruaũtes of the kyng be deed: And thy seruaũte Urias the hethite is deed also. Thẽ sayde

Dauid vnto ỹ messegers, thus wyse saye vnto Ioab, let not that thing trouble the. For the swerd deuoureth one as wel as another: make thy battel more strōg agaīst the citie and destroye it, and se that ỹ courage Ioab. And when the wyfe of Uzias hard that her husbād was deed, she moured for hym, & as sone as the mournynge was ended, Dauid sente & fett her to hys house, and she was his wife & bare him a sonne. But the dede that Dauid had committed, displeased the Lorde.

¶ Dauid is reproued for the slaughter of Urias, & then repenteth. The childe conceaued in aduoutry dyeth. After it, is Salomon borne.

The. xii. Chapter.

AND ỹ lorde sent Nathā vnto Dauid. And he came vnto him and sayde vnto hym: there were two men in one tyme, a ryche and a poore. And the ryche hadde exceadinge greate aboundaunce of shepe and oxen. But thee poore hadde nothynge saue one litle lambe whyche he bought and norysshed vppe. And it grewe vp with him and hys childzen, and dyd eate of hys owne meate and dzancke of his owne cuppe, and slepte in hys bosoue, & was as dere vnto him as his daughter. And there came a straunger vnto the ryche man. And he couldе not fynde in hys hert to take of his owne shepe nor of hys beestes to dzesse for ỹ straūger ỹ was come vnto him. But toke the poore mānz lābe & dzessed it for the mā that was come to him. And Dauid was exceding wroth wythe the man, and sayde to Nathan: as surelye as the Lorde lyueth the felowe that hathe done thys thynge. *is the childe of deeth & shall restore the lambe foure folde, because he dyd thys thynge and because he had no pytye.

*that is, is worthy too dye

The Nathā sayd to Dauid: ỹ art the mā. Thys sayth the Lord God of Israel: I anointed the kyng ouer Israel & tridde the out of the handes of Saul. And I gaue ỹ thy maistres house & thy masters wyues into thy bosome, and gaue the, the house of Israell and of Juda, and wolde yf that had bene to lytle: haue geuen the twyse so moche moare. Wherefore haste ỹ despysed the commaundemente of the lorde, to do wyckednesse is hys syghte? thou haste kylde Uzias the Hethite wythe the swearde and haste taken hys wyfe to thy wife, & hast slayne hym with the swerd of the chyldzen of Ammon.

Now therfore the swerd shal neuer departe frō thyne house, because (sayth the Lorde) thou hast despysed me & taken the wyfe of Uzias the hethite, to be thy wyfe. Thus sayth the Lord: beholde I wil stere vp euell agaynste the ellen of thyne owne house and wil take thy wiues before thine eyes, and geue them vnto thy neyboure, wyych shall slepe with them *in the syght of the sunne. And thou dydest it secretlye, yet wil I do this thing before all Israell and in the open sunne lyght.

*thatis, in the syghte & daye of the peoples

Then sayde Dauid vnto Nathan: I haue synned agaynst the Lord. And Nathā sayd agayne to Dauid: the lord hath put away the synne ỹ shalt not die. Howe be it betause in doynge thys deade thou haste geuen the enemyes of the Lorde a cause to rayle, ỹ child that is borne, ỹ shal die surely. And Nathā departed vnto his house. And ỹ lord stroke ỹ child that Uzias wife bare Dauid and it sickened. And Dauid besought god for the boy & fasted & went & laye al nyght vpō the erthe. And the elders of his house arose & wēt to hym to take him vp frō the erth. But he wolde not, nether yet eate meate with them.

And it hapened the seuenth daye that the child died. But ỹ seruaūtes of Dauid durst not tel him that the child was deed. For they sayd: le, while the chyld was yet alyue, we spake vnto hym, and he wolde not herken vnto oure voyce. How moche moare then wyll he vexe hym selfe yf we tell him that the chylde is deed? But Dauid saw his seruauntes whysperinge and therby perceaued that the child was deed, & said vnto his seruauntz: is ỹ child deed. And they sayd ye. Then Dauid arose frō the erth and washed & anoynted him selfe and chaunged his apparel, and went into the house of the lorde and prayed, & after came to hys owne house & bade that they shulde set meate before him, & he dyd eate. Then sayd his seruaūtes vnto him: what is this ỹ thou hast done? Thou fastedeste and wepeste for thy chyld while it was alyue, and ue, and as soone as it was dead thou dydeste ryse vp & dyddest eate meate. And he answered: whyle the chyld was a lyue, I fasted & wept. For I thys thought: who can tel whether God wyl haue mercy on me ỹ child may lyue. But now seing it is dead wherfore shuld I fast? can I bring him agayne any more? I shall go to him: but he shall not come agayne to me. And Dauid cōforted Bethsabe hys wyfe, & wēt in vnto her & laye with her, & she beare a sonne whose name was called *Salomō, & the Lord loued him. And he sent by the hād of Nathan the prophete & called his name * Jedidiah, of the Lordes behalfe.

*Heb. Salomoh

*that is, beloued of ỹ Lorde.

And as Joab fought agaynst Rabah ỹ citie of the childzen of Ammon he toke the kinges Towze, & sent messengers to Dauid saynge: I haue made assawte to Rabah, & also haue take *the castel frō whēce they had theyr water. Nowe therfore geather the rest of the people to gether, & come & besege the citie & take it: lest yf I take it, the victory be ascribed to me. And Dauid geathered al the people together, & wēt to Rabah & assawted it & gat it. * And he toke the kinges crowne frō of his head whyche wayed an hundzed wayght of golde, & was set with precious stones. And Dauid ware it on his head. And he brought out ỹ spoyle of the citie in exceding great aboundance. And he brought out ỹ people ỹ was therin & sawed thē & dzewe haro wes of yrō vpō thē, & shzed some of thē with shzeding knyues of yrō, & thzust some into fornaces And so he served al the cities of the childzē of Ammō. And then Dauid & all the people returned vnto Jerusalem.

*which was the chefe de fence of the cytie.

1 Par. xx. b

¶ Ammon Dauids sonne defileth his sister Thamar Absalom therfore kylleth Ammon and after fleeth a way for feare of hys father.

The. xiii. Chapter.

AND it chaūced that Absalom Dauids sonne had a fayre syster named Thamar, whō afterward Ammon another sōne of dauid loued. And this Ammon was so vexed that he fel sycke for the loue of his syster Thamar: for it thought him harde to come by hys purpose of her, seinge she was yet a vyrgyn. But Ammon had a cōpanion called Jonadab the sonne of Samah the brother of Dauid: whiche Jonadab was a verye wyse man. And he sayd vnto him how cometh it that thou being the kinges sonne art thus consumed euery morning? mayst thou not tell it me? And Ammon answered hym: I loue Thamar my brother Absaloms syster. Then sayd Jonadab vnto him: lye on thy bedde and fayne thy selfe sycke. And whē thy father is come to se the, say vnto hym, let my sister Thamar come & geue me meate and dzesse it in my syght, that I maye se it and eate it of her hand.

And Ammō laye dowīe & made him selfe sicke. And whē ỹ king was come to se him Ammō sayd vnto him: let Thamar my syster come & make me a couple of frytters in my syghte, that I may eat of her hande. And Dauid sent home to Thamar saying go to thy brother Ammons house & dzesse hym meat. Whē Thamar came to her brother Ammons house he laye. And she toke flowze and made paste and made frytters in hys syghte and dyd bake them, and toke a platter and powred them oute before hym. And Ammon wolde not eate, but cōmaunded to haue oute all men from hym. And they went all oute from hym.

Then sayd Ammon vnto Thamar, bringe the meate into the chambze that I maye eate of thyne hande. And Thamar toke the frytters wyche she hadde made, and brought them into thee chambze too Ammon her brother and sette them before hym to eate. And he toke her and sayde vnto her, come lye wyth me my syster. And she answered hym: naye, my brother doo not force me, for it oughte not too be so in Israel, doo not thys folly. * For whether shall I goo wyth my shame? And thou shalte be as one of thee fooles in Israell. But speake vnto the kyng & he shall not denye me vnto the.

2 Re. xvii. a

Howbeit he wolde not herken vnto her voyce but was to stronge for her and *forced her and laye wyth her. And then Ammon hated her exceadyngelye: so that the hate wherwyth he hated her was greater then the loue wyth whyche he before loued her. And he sayde vnto her: vp and awaye. Then she sayde vnto hym, thys greate cruelnesse that thou putteste me awaye passeth the other that thou dyddeste vnto me. Neuertheles he wold not heare heare her, but called his lad ỹ wayted vpõ him & sayd: put her out at the dozes frõ me & bolt the doze after her. And she had a kirtel of diuerse coloures vpõ her: for vñ soch were the kinges daughters ỹ were virgines apparele, made strayt vnto thẽ. Thẽ his seruaũt brought her out at the dozes & locked the doozes after her. And Thamar put ashes on her head & rent her gaye kyrtell that was on her & putt her hand on her head & so went & as she went cryed. Then Absalom her brother sayd vnto her: hathe Amnon thy brother bene wyth the? Nowe then be styl my syster: for he is thy brother And let not thys thyng greue thyne herte. And so Thamar remayned disconsolate in her brother Absalõs house. And king David herd of al these thinges & was verye wroth. And Absalom sayde vnto hys brother Amnon nether good nor bad. Howbeit Absalõ hated Amnõ because he had forced hys syster Thamar.

And it happened two yere after ỹ Absalom had a shepe shering in Baal Hazor be sydes the tribe of Ephraim, & bad all the kinges sonnes & he came to the king & sayde: behold thy seruaũt hath a shepesheringe, let the king & his seruaũtes come wyth thy seruaũt. And the king said vnto Absalõ: Oh naye my sonne let vs not go euery one of vs that we be not chargeable vnto ỹ. And Absalõ laye sore vpõ him: howbeit he wold not goo, but blessed him. Then sayd Absalõ: then lett my brother Amnon go with vs. And the king answered what nedeth it that he go with the. But Absalõ made soch instance that he let Amnon goo wyth hym, & all the kynges chyldren.

Then Absalõ cõmaunded hys younge men saying: marke when Amnons hert is mery with wyne, & when I byd you smyte Amnon then kyl hym: feare not, for it is I that byd you, be bold ther fore & playe the lusty bloudes. And the young men of Absalom serued Amnõ euẽ as Absalõ cõmaũded thẽ. And all the kinges sonnes arose & toke eche man hys Mule & fled. And while they were yet in the way, tydinges came to Dauid that Absalom had slayne al the kinges sonnes, so that none was left a lyue. Then the kynge arose and tare his garmentes and laye alonge on the earth: and all hys seruauntes stoode by wythe theyr clothes rent. Then Jonadab the sonne of Samah Dauids brother answered and sayde: let not my Lorde suppose that they haue slayne all the young men the kinges sonnes, saue Amnon onely is dead. For ỹ hath bene euer in Absaloms mouthe sence he forced his syster Thamar. Now therfore lette not my Lorde the kynge take the thinge so greuously to thincke that al the kynges sonnes were dead, when Amnon onelye is dead.

But Absalõ fled. And the youge man ỹ kept the watche lyfte vp hys eyes & loked about. And behold, ther came moch people by awaye that was behynde hys backe along by an hilles side. Thẽ said Jonadab vnto the kyng: behold, ỹ kinges sonnes are come, and as thy seruaunte sayde, so it is. And as sone as he had left speakinge: behold, the kinges sonnes came and lifte vp theyr voyces & wept. And therto the king and al his seruauntes wepte exceedingly. But Absalõ escaped & went to Tholmai the sõne of Amihud kyng of Gesur. And the king mourned for his sonne cõtinually. And so Absalom escaped and went to Gesur, & was there .iii. yeres. And by that tyme the king turned hys mynde frõ pursuing Absalõ. For he had left mourninge for the death of Amnon.

¶ By the wyldõ of the womã of Thekoa Absalom is called. The cometicnesse & Bouche of Absalõ, Absalom sleyth Joabs cosyn. His father kylleth hym.

The .xiiii. Chapter.

Whe Joab the sõne of Zarulah perceiued that ỹ kinges hert was turned again to Absalom, he sente to Thekoa and fette thence a wise woman, and saide vnto her, feyne thy selfe to be a mourner, & put on mourning apparel. And anoynt not thy self wyth oyle, but be as a womã ỹ had longe tyme mourned for ỹ death of some body. And go to ỹ kinge & speake of this maner vnto him. And so Joab taught her what she shuld saye.

And whẽ the wife of Thekoa was come to speake with the king, she fel on her face to ỹ groũde & dyd obeysaũce & sayd: helpe me O king. And the kynge sayd vnto her what ayleth ỹ? & she ãswered. I am a wedow, and myne husband is dead. And thy hãdmayde had two sõnes which fought together in ỹ feldes wher was noman to go betwene thẽ, & the one slewe the other. And behold, ỹ whole kinred arose agaynst thy hãdmayde & said: deliuer vs him ỹ smote his brother: ỹ we may kil him for ỹ soule of his brother whõ he slue, for we will destroy ỹ heyre also. And so they shal quenche my sparkle which is left ỹ he shal store vp nether name or issue vpõ the erth vnto my husbãd. And the king sayd vnto the wyfe go hõe to thine house, & I wyl geue a charge for ỹ. And ỹ womã of Thekoa said vnto ỹ king. My Lorde kyng, the trespace be on me & on my fathers house, & the king & hys seate be giltlesse. And thẽ sayd the kinge: yf any man saye ought vnto the, bring hym to me, & he shall no more trouble the. Then sayd she: let the king remember hys Lord God, that the next of the bloude geather not on heapes to gether tõ destroye, & ỹ they sleye not my sonne. And he sayde as sure as the Lord lyueth, there shal not one heare of thy sonnes head fall to the erth.

Then the womã sayd: let thine hãdmayde speake one word more vnto my Lord ỹ kynge & he sayd: saye on. And the woman sayd wherfore then hast thou determyned on thys same maner against the people of god: that the king shuld speake this thing & be fautye therein, so that the kyng shuld not fett home agayne hys banesshed. For we must nedes dye and perysshe as water spylt on the grounde wbych cãnot be gathered vp agayne & God wyll not take awaye the lyfe but kynde the meanes that ỹ banysshed be not vtterly expelled frõ hym. And now cõcerning ỹ I am come to speake of this thing vnto the king my Lord in the presence of the people: thy handmayde thought: sucrlye I wyll speake vnto the kyng, paraduenture the kyng wyll heare the request of his hãdmayde. And the kinge shal heare hys hãdmayde & delyuer her out of the hande of the mã that wold haue destroyed me & my sonne also out of the enheritaunce of God. Then thine handmayde sayd: I praye God that the word of my Lord the king maye be * vnmutable. For my Lord the king is as an Angel of God in heatinge of good or badd: and therfore the Lord thy God be wyth the.

* Or to, for vnmutable.

Thẽ the king answered & sayd vnto ỹ womã: hide not frõ me I praye the: ỹ thing that I shal aske the. And the womã sayd: let my Lord the kyng say on. Then sayde the king. Is not the * hand of Joab with the in al this matter? And ỹ womã answered & sayd: as sure as thy soule lyueth my Lord king, it is * nether on the right hand nor on ỹ lefte that my Lord the kyng hath spoke. For thy seruaunt Joab he bad me, & he put all these wordes euẽ in the mouth of thyne handmayde. And the turning of my talc another way, ỹ made thy seruaũte Joab. And so I se that my Lorde is wyse euẽ as an Angell of God, to vnderstande all thinges that are in the earth. Thẽ sayd the king to Joab: behold, I am content to do this thing. Go therfore fett home ỹ lad Absalõ. And Joab fel to the groũd on his face & bowed him self & * blessed the kyng and sayd: now thy seruaunt knoweth that I haue founde grace in thee syghte of my Lorde the kynge in that he hath fulfylled the request of hys seruaunt. And so Joab arose & went to Gesur & brought Absalõ to Jerusalẽ. Then sayd the king: let him turne tõ hys owne house, but se that he come not in my presence. And so Absalõ went to his owne house, but came not in the kinges presence.

* That is, the counsell.

* That is, my lord ỹ king hath spoken no lye, but spoke euẽ ỹ very thinge as it is. Deute. vii. b

Moreouer in al Israel ther was not so goodly a mã as Absalõ, or so greatly prayse, frõ the soole of his fote to ỹ top of his head there was nõ blemische in hym. And whẽ he shaued his head (for at euery yeres ende he shaued it because it was heuye on hym, & therfore he shaued it) ỹ heare ther of waied two hundred sycles weyghte of the kynges weyght. And this Absalõ had thre sonnes borne hym & one daughter named Thamar, which was a fayre womã tõ loke vpon. When Absalom had dwelt two yeare in Jerusalẽ wythoute comminge into the kinges presence he sent for Joab, to haue sent hym to the king. But he would not come to him. And he sent agayne, & for all that he wold not come. Thẽ he said vnto his seruaũtes: behold, Joab hathe a parcell of land fast by mine, & hath barlye therin. Go and set it on fyre. And Absalõs seruauntes went & set it on fyre.

Thẽ Joab arose & came tõ Absalom vnto hys house & sayde vnto hym: wherfore haue thy seruaũtes burnte my felde wyth fyre

kyze. And Absalō sayd to Joab: behold, I sent for the desiring the to come, because I wolde haue sent the to the kinge, for to say wherfore am I come from Gesur. It had ben as good for me to haue bidde ther stil. Nowe therfore lett me come to the kinges presence, or else yf ther be anye trespace in me, kyll me. And Joab went to the king & tolde hym. And he sent for Absalō: whiche whan he was come, fell to the grounde on hys face before the kynge. And the kyng kyssed hym.

¶ Absalom maketh insurrection agaynst his father. Dauid is fayne to flee for feare of him

The. xv. Chapter.

AFter thys Absalom gatt hym charetes & horses & fyfty me to runne before him. And ther to he vsed to rise vp earlye in the mornynges & to stande by the wayes syde that led to the gate of the cytte. And all the men of Israell that had cōplayntes & came to ỹ king for iudgemēt he called vnto him & sayde: of what cytye arte thou? And when the other answered: thy seruaunt is of soch a tribe of Israell. Thē sayd Absalom vnto hym: se, thy matter is good & ryghteousse, & yet no man is deputed of the kinge to heare the. Thē Absalom sayde moreouer: Oh, that I were a iudge in the land, & that al mē which haue pleyes & matter in the lawe, shuld come to me. For I wold do them iustice. And also when any mā came nye to hym to do hym obeysaunce, he put forth hys hand & toke hym to hym and kissed hym. And on thys maner dyd Absalom to all Israel that came to the kyng for iudgement, & therwith *† stale the hartes of ỹ mē of Israel. And at fourtye yeres ende Absalom sayd vnto the king: let me go I praye the to Hebrō, & paye my vowe which I haue vowed vnto the Lord: for thy seruaunt vowed a vowe when I was in Gesur in the land of Siria saying: yf the lord shal bring me agayne to Jerusalē, I wyl serue the lorde. And the kynge sayd: go in peace. And so he arose and went to Hebron.

Then Absalom sent spies thorow oute al ỹ tribes of Israel saying: as sone as ye heare ỹ voyce of the trompett blowe, saye: Absalom raygneth kinge in Hebron. And with Absalom went two hundred mē oute of Jerusalem that were called. And they went wyth pure hertes and wist nothinge of the matter. And Absalom sente also for Ahithophel the Gelonite Dauids counsellor, and fet him out of his citte Giloh, whē he sacrifyed sacrifyces. And there was wrought stronge treason. And the people drue to Absalom in great multitude. And there came a messenger to Dauid & sayde: the hartes of the men of Israel are to folowe Absalom. Then sayde Dauid vnto al his seruaūtes that were with him at Jerusalē: vp & let vs flee, for we shall not else escape from Absalom. Make spede to departe: lest he come sodēly & catche vs & bringe some mischeue vpon vs, & smyte the citie with the edge of the sword. And the kinges seruaūtes sayd to hym: behold thy seruauntes are redy to what soeuer my Lord the kynge shal appoynte.

And the king & al his houshold departed a fote. And he left behinde him .x. wiues that were his *† concubines, to kepe ỹ house. And so the kinge & al the people went out a fote & taryed farre frō ỹ house. And al his seruaūtes went by his syde. And all the Cerethites & all the Phelethites, & all the Hethites euen .vi. hundred men whych were come a fote frō Geth, wēt before the king. Then sayd the kyng to Ethai ỹ Gethite, wherfore shouldest thou go with vs also? Returne & abide wyth the kinge, for thou art a straūger & art remoued frō thyne own place. Thou camest but yesterday and shuld I vnquiet the to daye to go wt vs? I wyl go whether I go. But returne thou & carie agayne thy brethrē. Mercy & truth be with the. And Ethai answered the kyng & sayd: as surely as the lord lyueth, & as surely as my lorde the king lyueth, in what place my Lord the king shalbe, whether in death or lyfe, euen there wyl thy seruaūt be. Then sayd the king to Ethai, come & go forward. And Ethai the Gethite went forth, & all his men, & all the childzen that were wyth hym. And al the countreye wepte wyth a lowde voyce. And al ỹ people went forwarde the strayght waye to the wildernes. And behold, Sadock & al ỹ Leuites were wt him & bare the arcke of ỹ appoyntmēt of god. And whē they had set downe the arke of god, Abiathar came vp vntyll the people were all come ouer oute of

out of the cytte. Then sayd the kynge vnto Sadock. Carye the Arke of God agayne into the citie. Yf I shal fynd fauour in the eyes of the lord, he wyl bring me agayne, & shewe me both it & the tabernacle ther of also. But and yf the Lord thus saye: I haue no luste vnto the. Beholde, here am I, lett hym do wyth me what semeth beste in hys eyes.

The king sayd also vnto Sadock the preest thou art a Sear. Returne therfore into the citie in peace. And take youre two sonnes with you: Ahimaaz thy sonne, & Jonathas the sonne of Abiathar. And see, I wyll tarye in the feldes of the wyldernesse vntyll ther come some worde from you to be tolde me. And so Sadock & Abiathar caryed the Arke of God agayne to Jerusalem, & they taryed ther. And Dauid went vp on mount olyuet & wepte as he went, & had his head couered & wēt thetto barefote. And al the people that was wyth hym, had euery man hys head couered, and as they went wepte also. And one told Dauid saying: Ahithophel is one of them that haue conspyred wyth Absalom. Then sayde Dauid: O Lord, turne the councell of Ahithophel into folishnes.

Whē Dauid was come to the top of ỹ mount & had bowed him selfe vnto God: behold, Husai the Arachite came agaynste him wt his coote torne & erth vpō his head. Unto whō Dauid sayd: yf thou go withe me thou shalt be a burthen vnto me. And yf thou returne to the cytie: thē shalt thou saye vnto Absalom I wyl be thy seruaūt O king: thus lōg haue I bene thy fathers seruaūt, & now I am thyne. And dest toye me the counsel of Ahithophel. And ỹ haste ther with the Sadock & Abiathar the preestes, vnto whych thou shalt shewe al ỹ thou canst heare out of the kinges house. And behold, ye haue ther with you theyr .ii. sonnes: Ahimaaz Sadockes sonne, & Jonathas Abiathars sonne, by whyche ye shall send me all that ye can heare. And so Husai Dauids frend gatte hym to the cytte. And Absalom also entred into Jerusalē.

The Notes.

*† That is, vnder pretence of iustice tolde away their hartes & wāne thē they wist not howe: and so deceaued them that they consented to hym and drue on hys syde.

*‡ Betwene wyues & concubynes, in the olde testament, is this differaūce: wyues had the honoure (as they cal it) of ỹ maistresse of ỹ house. Cōcubines were as vnderlinges & keyberars. Their childzen were also legitimate & lefull childzē, but might not enherit, only had their goat begetters of their fathers the patrimonie pertayned properly vnto the childzē of the wyues. genes. xxv.

Ziba bringing presentes to Dauid, doth falsely accuse Miphiboseth. Semei curseth Dauid & throweth stones at him. Absalō by the councel of Ahithophel lyeth with his fathers concubynes.

The. xvi. Chapter.

AND whē Dauid was a lyttle past the top of the hyl: behold Ziba the seruaūt of Miphiboseth came agaynst hym wt a couple of Asses sadelled, & vpō thē .ii. hūdred loues & one hūdred bōches of Resinges, & an hundred frayles of dryed figges, & a bottel of wyne. Thē said the kinge to Ziba: what haste thou there? And Ziba sayd: Asses for the kinges housholde to ryde on, & bread & frute for the young men to eate, and wyne to drinke, yf any man faynt in the wyldernesse. Then sayd the king: wher is thy masters sonne? And Ziba sayd vnto the king: beholde, he taryeth styl at Jerusalē. For he sayd: this daye shal the house of Israel restore me ỹ kingdom of my father. Thē said the king to Ziba: behold thyne al that pertayned vnto Miphiboseth. And Ziba answered: I beseche the that I maye fynde grace in thy syght my Lord kinge.

And whē kynge Dauid came to Bahurim: behold, there came oute a man of the kinrede of the house of Saul named Semei the sonne of Gera & he came oute cursing. And therto he caste stones at Dauid and at al the seruaūtes of king Dauid, al the people & all the men of warre goynge part on his right hand, & part on his lefte. And thus sayd this Semei as he cursed: come forth, come forth, thou bloud shedder & thou vnthryfftie mā. The lord hath brought vpon the al the bloud of the house of Saul, in whose stede thou hast raygned, & he hath deliuered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy sonne. And thou art wrapped about wyth thyne owne mysche ue, because thou art a bloudshedder.

Thē sayd Abisai the sonne of Zaruiah vnto the king: why doth this dead dogge curse my Lord the kinge? let me go & take of the head of him. And ỹ king said: what haue I to do wt you ye sōnes of Zaruiah let him curse? for the lord hath bidde hym curse, curse Dauid. And who dare presume to say wherfore doth he so? And Dauid said to Abisai & to al his seruautes: behold, my sonne whych came oute of myne owne bowelles seketh my lyfe. Howe moche more then may thys sone of Jemini do it? Suffre hym therfore to curse, for ỹ Lord hath bidde him: haply ỹ Lorde wyl loke on my wretchednes, & do me good for his cursinge this day. And thus as Dauid & his me wet by the waye. Semei wet along on the hilles syde ouer agaynst him, & cursed as he went, and threw stones at hym and cast dust. And the king and al that were with hym came werye, and refreshed them selues there.

And Absalō & al the people of the men of Israel came to Jerusalē & Ahithophell with hym. And as soone as he was come: Husai the Arachite went vnto Absalom & sayde vnto hym: God saue the kyng, God saue the kyng. And Absalom sayd agayn to Husai: is this the kindnesse thou owest to thy frende? Why wentest thou not with hym? And Husai sayd vnto Absalom: nay not so, but whō the Lorde & thys people & al the men of Israel chose, his wyl I be, & with him wyll I dwell. And furthermore vnto whō shal I do seruice but cue to his sonne? And as I was seruāt before wyth thy father, euen so shal I be with the. The spake Absalō to Ahithophel geue councel what is best for vs to do. And Ahithophel said vnto Absalom: get the in vnto thy fathers * cōcubines which he hath left to kepe the house. For whē al Israel shal heare that thou hast made thy father to stincke, then shal the handes of al that ar with the be strong. And so they pitched Absalom a tent vpō the * toppe of the house. And he went in vnto hys fathers concubynes in the syght of all Israell.

And the cōsel of Ahithophel which he cōceyled in those dayes, was as a mā had asked councell of God: euen so was al the councell of Ahithophel, both vnto Dauid and also vnto Absalom.

¶ Ahithophel, seing his cōsel disalowed of Husai and forsaken, hangeth hym selfe

The .xvii. Chapter.

When Ahithophel sayd vnto Absalom: let me I chose out I praye the twelue thousand mē. And I wyll vp & followe after Dauid by nyght. And I wyl to me vppon him whyle he is werye & weake handed, & wyll feare hym, that all the people that are wyth him shal flee. And so wyl I smyte the kyng only, & wyl bring agayne al the people vnto the. And when all these men whyche thou seekest are turned to the, al the people shall haue rest. And the saying pleased Absalō well and all the elders of Israel. Thē sayde Absalō: call also Husai thee Arachite & let vs heare hys sentence. When Husai was come to Absalom, Absalō spake vnto him saying: Ahithophel hath geuē soch councel: whether it be best we do after hys saynge or not, tell thou.

Then sayd Husai to Absalom: the councell ỹ Ahithophel hath geuen is not good at this tyme. For (sayde Husai) thou knowest thy father & the mē that are with him how that they be strong men. And they be chafed in theyr myndes, euen as a * Beare robbed of her whelpes. And thy father is a man practised in warre, & wyll not lye a nyghtes among the comen people. Behold he lurketh now in some caue or in some other place. And therto thoughe some of hys men be ouerthrowē at the fyrst brunt, yet they that heare it wyll thynke the people that foloweth Absalom be putte to the worsse. By the reason wherof the best men thou hast whose hartes are as the hartes of Lyons, shall chyncke thereat. For all Israel knoweth that they father is a man and that they whych be wyth hym be chyldren of actiuite.

But my councell is, that all Israell be geathered vnto the, from Dan to Berlabe, as the sande of the see in nombre, & that thou go to batayle in thyne owne person. And we wyll come vpon hym in one place or other, where we shall fynde hym, & we wyll pytche a felde agaynst hym, euen as thicke as the dewe falleth on the grounde. And ther shal not one of them be lefte, neyther he nor any of all that are wyth hym. Moreouer yf he take a towne then shal al the the mē of Israel * bryng ropes to that cytie, and we will draw it into the ryuer, vntil there be not one stone found vpon another. And Absalō and all the men of Israel said: that the councel of Husai the Arachite was better then the cōsel of Ahithophell. For it was cue the lordes determynacyon to destroye ỹ * councel of Ahithophel: which was good, that ỹ lord myght bring euel vpō Absalō. Then sayd * Husai vnto Sadock & Abiathar ỹ preistes: of this & that maner did Ahithophel & the elders of Israel cōsel Absalō. And thus & thus haue I cōseled. Now therfore sēde quickly & shew Dauid saying: tary not al nyght in the feldes of ỹ wildernes, but gett the ouer, lest the king be deuoured & al the people ỹ are with hym. Now Jonathas & Ahimaas abode by ỹ well Rogel: for they myght not be sene to come into the cytye. And a wenche went and tolde them. And they to go and shewed kynge Dauid.

Neuertheles there was a lad saw thē whyche tolde it to Absalom. But they wēt bothe of thē a waye quyckly & came to a mānes house in Bahurim, whyche had a well in his yarde, into whiche they wente downe. And the wife toke & spred a couerlet on the top of the wel & strawed theron steaped barleye to drye. And ỹ thing was not spyed. And whē Absaloms seruātes came to ỹ wife to the house & asked where one Ahimaas & Jonathas were, the wyfe said vnto thē: they be gone ouer ỹ litel broke of water. And whē they had sought thē & could not finde thē, thē they returned to Jerusalē. And as sone as they were departed, the other came out of ỹ well, & went & tolde kynge Dauid & sayd vnto hym: vp & get you quyckly ouer ỹ water for soche cōsel hath Ahithophel geuē. Then Dauid arose & al the people ỹ were wyth hym, & they were come ouer Jordan be fyre it was day, that ther lacked not one of thē ỹ was not come ouer Jordā. And when Ahithophel saw ỹ his cōsel was not folowed, he sadelled his asse & arose & gate him home to his owne house and to hys owne cytie, and put hys housholde in order and hanged hym self and died, and was buried in the sepulchre of hys father.

Thē Dauid came to Mahanaim. And Absalom passed ouer Jordā, both he & all the men of Israell wyth him. And Absalom made Amasa captaine of the host in stede of Joab which Amasa was a mannes sōne named Jethra a Jesrahelite that went into Abigail the daughter of Naah sister to Zaruiah Joabs mother. And Israell & Absalō pytched in the land of Galaad. And whē dauid was come to Mahanaim, Sobi ỹ sōne of Naah out of Rabath the cytie of the childrē of Ammō, & Machir ỹ sonne of Amiel out of Lodabet & Berzelai ỹ Galaadite out of Rogeli brought beddes, basens, & erthen vesselles: and also corne, barly, floure & parched corne, benes & rice honye, butter, ihepe & chese of kyne, for Dauid & al the people that were with hym to eate. For they supposed that the people should be hongrye, kaynye, and thurstye in the wyldernesse.

¶ Absalom is ouercome in battell. He hangeth by ỹ heare on an Oke. He is kylled & put in a ditch. Dauid is so sorowful for ỹ deth of Absalō ỹ he wepeth

The .xviii. Chapter.

And ỹ kynge nōbred ỹ people that were with hym, and sett captaynes of thousādes and of hūdredes ouer them. And he set one part of thē vnder Joab, & a nother parte wyth Abisai the sōne of Zaruiah Joabs brother, & the thyrde part with Ethai the Gethite. And ỹ kinge sayd vnto the people: shall I go w̄ you? And the people answered: naye, for yf we flee, oure aduersaryes wyl not care for vs: nether thoughe halfe of vs were slayne, shall they regarde vs. But thou were worth ten thousande of vs. And therto it is better ỹ thou be readye to succoure vs out of ỹ cytie. Then sayd the kyng: what semeth you best, that wyll I do.

And the kyng stode by the gates syde, & al the people came out by hundredes & by thousādes. And the kyng cōmaunded Joab Abisai, & Ethai saying: intreate me gently my sonne Absalō. And al the people heard whē the king gaue all the captaines charge ouer Absalō. And the people wēt out into the felde against Israel, & the battel was in ỹ woode of Ephraim. Wher ỹ people of Israel were put to the worsse before ỹ seruaūtz of Dauid, & ther was a great slaughter ỹ day, euē of twentie thousād men. And ỹ felde was fought in diuerse places, all abroade vpō ỹ erthe.

And the woodes deuoured moo people ye daye than dyd the swerde. And it chaūced Absalom to come before the seruauntes of David ryding vpon a Mule whyche carved hym vnder the thycke bowes of a great Oke. And hys heed caughte in the Oke, & he was lefte betwene heuē & erth, and the Mule that was vnder him went his waye. And one that saw it tolde Joab saying: beholde, I saw Absalom hang in an Oke: and Joab sayde vnto hym that told him: lo, sawest ye hym? And why didest not thou there smyte him to the ground, & I shuld haue geuē ye ten sicles of syluer & a soudyoures gyrdle.

And the man answered Joab: though I had a thousand sicles of syluer tolde in my hande yet wolde I not stretche oute myne hande agaynste the kynges sonne. For we heard vē oure eares whē the king charged vē, Absai and Ethai, saying: spare me the lad Absalō. Wherefore though I had ieoparded my life & done falsly therto, yet could nought of al the matter haue bene hid frō the kynge: ye & thou thy selfe woldest be agaynst me. Thē sayd Joab* I may not stand tarying with the.

That is, it is not likely ye starte vp ryght, & tolde ye thou shuldest go kyll hym.

And therwythe he toke thre speares in his hand & thrust thē into the hart of Absalom, while he was yet a lyue on ye bodye of ye tree. And ten seruauntes that bare Joabs wepōs, turned & smote Absalom and slue him. Then Joab blew a trōpet, & the people returned frō folowing Israel: for Joab spared ye people. And they toke Absalō & cast him into a great pit ye was in ye wood, and cast a mightye greate heape of stones vpon him. And all Israel fled euery mā to his tent. And thys Absalom yet in his life tyme, toke & reared vp a pyller, which is yet in kynges dale. For he sayd: I haue no male chylde. And therefore to kepe my name in remēbrance do I it. And he called ye piller after his owne name. And it is called vnto this day, Absalōs pyller.

Then sayd Amiaas ye sōne of Sadock: let me runne I pray the, & beare the kyng tydinges, how that ye Lorde hath iudged him quyte of the hādes of al his enemies. And Joab said vnto him: thou art no mā to beare tydinges to day: thou shalt beare tydynges a nother tyme: but to daye thou shalt beare none, because ye kynges sonne is deed. Then sayde Joab to Chusi: go & tell ye kyng what thou hast sene. And Chusi bowed him selfe vnto Joab & rāne. Thē sayde Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock againe to Joab: come what come wil, let me rūne I pray the after Chusi. And Joab sayd: wherfore shuldest thou rūne my sōne: for & thou rūne thou gettyst no rewarde: wel come what wyl let me runne. And he said vnto him: rūne. Thē Ahimaaz rāne by the playne and ouer ranne Chusi.

And David sat betwene the two gates. And the watchmen went vp to the rouffe ouer the gate vnto the walle, and lyft vp his eyes and sawe: and behold, there came a man runnyng alone. And the watchmā called & tolde the kynge. And the kynge sayde: yf he come alone, ther is tydynges in his mouth. And he came and drewe nye. And the watchmā saw a nother man runnyng and called vnto the porter & sayde: behold ther cometh a nother runnynge alone. And the king answered: he is also a tidinges bringer. And ye watchmā saide: me thinketh the rūning of the formost is like the rūning of Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock. And the king sayd: he is a good mā & cometh vē good tydyngs. And Ahimaaz called and sayd to the kynge: good tydinges, and bowed him selfe to the erthe vpon hys face before the kynge and sayde: blessed be the Lorde thy God which hath *shut vp al ye mē that lifte vp their hādes agaynst my Lord the king. And the king saide: is the lad Absalom safe? And Ahimaaz āswered I saw a greate a do, when the kinges seruaūt Joab sent me thy seruaūt. But I wotte not what it was. And the kyng sayd: turne and stand here. And he turned and stode.

*That is, cut vpon.

And behold Chusi came and said: tidinges my Lorde the kyng, the Lorde hathe quyte the thys day out of the handes of all that rose agaynste the. And the kynge sayde to Chusi: is the lad Absalom safe? And Chusi answered the enemyes of my lord the kynge & all that ryse agaynst the, to haue the, be as thy lad is. And the king was moued & wēte vp to a chābre ouer ye gate & wept. And as he wēt thus he said: my sonne Absalom, my sonne, my sonne, my sonne Absalō wold to god I had died for the Absalom, my sonne, my sonne.

David

¶ David is restored to hys kingdom, and brought agayne to Jerusalem.

The. xix. Chapter.

And it was told Joab, how ye king wept & mourned for Absalō. And the victory was turned that daye into mourning vnto al the people. For the people heard say that day, how ye kinge sorowed for hys sōne, & the people wēt stealynge into the cytye, as people confounded stele awaye, when they flee in battel. And the kynge hyd hys face and cryed vē a loude voyce: my sonne Absalom Absalom my sonne my sonne.

And Joab went into ye house to ye king & saide: thou hast shamed thys day the faces of al thy seruaūtes, whych thys daye haue saued thy lyfe, & the lyues of thy sōnes & daughters, & ye lyues of thy wyues & cōcubines, in ye ye louest thine enemyes & hatest thy frendes. Thou hast declared thys day ye thou camest nether for thy lordes nor seruaūtes. For this daye I do perceaue, yf Absalō had lyued, & all we dyed this day, ye thē it had pleased ye wel. Nowe therfore vp & come out, & speake kindly vnto thy seruaūtes, I swere by ye lord except ye come out, ther wyl not tary one mā with the this nyght. And that wilbe worsse vnto the, thē al the euell that fell on the from thyne youthe vnto thys houre. Then the kyng arose and sat downe in ye gate. And it was tolde vnto all the people, howe the kynge satte in the Gate. And then all the people came before the king. But Israell fled euery man to his tent.

And all the people were at stryfe throw out al the tribes of Israel saying: the kyng delyuered vs out of the hād of oure enemyes. And he deliuered vs out of the hād of the philistines. And now he is fled out of the lāde for Absalō. But Absalom whō we anoynted ouer vs is deed in battel. Now therfore why ar ye so stil, that ye bring not the king againe. And king David sēt to Sadock & Abiathar the preistes saying: speake vnto the elders of Juda & say: why shuld ye be the last ye shuld bringe againe ye king to his house, seing ye soch tidinges is come frō al Israel vnto ye kinge cuē to his house? ye are my brethre, my bones and my flesche: wherfore then shuld ye be the last that shulde come to bryng ye kyng home agayne? And saye to Amasa: art thou not my bone and my flesche? And god do so to me & so therto: except thou be captaine of ye host to me for euer in ye roume of Joab. And he bowed the hertes of al the mē of Juda, as a man wolde bowe the herte* of one man: so ye they sēt worde to the kynge, that he shulde returne vē all his seruaūtes. And the king returned and came to Jordā. And Juda came to galgal for to go against the king to cōuey him ouer Jordan. And Semei* ye sōne of Gera the sōne of Jemini which was of Bahuri hasted & came vē ye mē of Juda agaīst king David, & a thousād mē of Bēiamin vē him, & *Ziba the seruaūte of the house of David & hys .xv. sonnes and twentye seruauntes wyth him. And they whypt ouer Jordā before the kyng. And ther wēt ouer a Bott to carye ouer the kynges houshold and to do hym pleasure.

Judi. xxi. d. i. Reg. xi. b

ii. Reg. xvi. a.

And Semei the sonne of Gera fell before the kyng, as he was come ouer Jordan & sayd vnto him: let not my lorde impute wickednes vnto me, ner let hym not remēber the wyckednesse ye thy seruaunte did, whē my Lord the kyng departed out of Jerusalem that the kinge shuld take it to hert. For thy seruaūt dothe know how that I haue done amisse. And therfore be hold, I am the first this day of al ye house of Joseph ye am come to mete my lord the king. But Abisai the sōne of Zaruiah āswered & sayd: shall Semei not die for ye cause: which cursed the Lordes anoynted? And the kyng sayde: what matter is betwene you & me ye sonnes of Zaruiah, ye ye shuld this day beaduersaries vnto me? Ther shal no mā dye this daye in Israel: for I know that I am this day kynge ouer Israel. And the kyng said vnto Semei: thou shalt not dye, & I swate vnto him.

And Miphiboseth the sonne of Saul came to mete ye king, & had nether dressed his fete ner shaue his beerde ner washed his clothes from the time the king departed, vntil he came againe i peace. And whē he was come to Jerusalē toward thee king, the king said vnto him: wherfore wente not ye with me Miphiboseth? And he said: my lord kig, my seruaūt deceaued me. For thy seruaunte sayde: that I wolde haue mine Asse sadled to ride therō, for to go to ꝧ kīg, because thy seruaūt is lame. And he hath therto cōplained on my seruaūt vnto my lord ꝧ kīg. But my lord ꝧ kinge is as an angell of God: do therfore what leemeth best in thine eyes. For al my fathers house were but deedmē vnto my lord ꝧ kinge: & yet didest ꝧ put me amōge thē ꝧ eate at thine owne table. What right therfore haue I yet, to crie any more vnto ꝧ kyng? And ꝧ kīg said: it needeth ꝧ not to speake any moare, for I haue sayde: ꝧ thou & Ziba shal deuide ꝧ lādes betwene you. And Miphiboseth sayd vnto ꝧ kyng: yee let hi take al: for so moche as my lord the kinge is come in peace vnto hys owne house.

F And Berselai ꝧ galaadite came frō Rogeli & wēt ouer Jordā wt ꝧ kyng, to accōpanie hi ouer Jordā: which Berselai was a very aged mā, euē foure skore yeres old, & had prouided ꝧ kīg of sustenaūce while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a mā of very great substaūce. And ꝧ king said vnto Berselai: come ꝧ wt me, & I may fede ꝧ wt me i Jerusalē. But Berselai said vnto ꝧ king of what age am I of, ꝧ I should go wt ꝧ kīg ito Jerusalē. I am this day foure skore yere old: & therfore cānot decerne sauery frō vnsauery, nether hath thy seruaūt te pleasure in ꝧ he eateth or drincketh: nor yet delectatiō in ꝧ sōgs of mē or womē. It is no nede ꝧ thy seruaūt be a burthē vnto my lord ꝧ kynge: let thy seruaūt go a litle way ouer Jordā wt ꝧ king: for why should ꝧ kyng rēder me soche a rewarde? But let thy seruaūt turne back agayne, ꝧ I maye die in mine owne citye, by the graue of my father and mother. But lo here is thy seruaūt Chamaā: let him go wt my lorde the king, & do to hym what shal please the.

And ꝧ kyng answered: Chamaam shall G go wt me. And I wyl do to hym that thou shalt be cōtent wt. And therto whatsoeuer thou shalt require of me, that same wyl I do for the. And al the people wēt ouer Jor dā. And whē ꝧ king was come ouer Jordā, he kissed Berselai & toke hys leaue of him, & he wēt back againe vnto his owne place. And then the king wēt to Galgal, & Chamaam went wt him. Now al the men of Juda were at the bringing ouer of the king, and but halfe the men of Israel.

Wherfore al the mē of Israel came to ꝧ kig & said vnto hym: why haue oure brethren the men of Juda stolen the away & haue brought the kig & his household & al Dauids men wt him ouer Jordā? And al the mē of Juda āswered ꝧ men of Israel. For ꝧ kig is nere of kynne to vs: wherfore be ye angrye for that matter? thynke ye ꝧ we eate of the kinges cost, or ꝧ the king geueth vs any gyftes? And ꝧ men of Israel āswered the men of Juda & said: we haue tē partes in the kynge, & haue therto more right to Dauid then ye. Why then did ye despise vs, that oure aduise had not bene first had in restorynge our kynge agayne? And the wordes of the mē of Juda were fearcer thē the wordes of the mē of Israel ¶ Seba the sōne of Bochri reaseth Israel against Dauid. Joab killeth Amasa traiterously. The head of Seba is deliuered to Joab. Dauids receauers are nombred. The. xx. Chapter.

AND there happened to be an vnthryftie felow named Seba ꝧ sōne of Bochri a mā of Gemini which blew a trōpet & said: we haue no part i Dauid, nor enhertaūce in the sonne of Jsai, O Israel, lette vs departe therfore euerye mā to hys tent. And all Israell went from Dauid & folowed Seba the sonne of Bochri. But the mē of Juda claue fast vnto the king, from Jordan to Jerusalem.

And whē Dauid was come to his house to Jerusalem, he toke the tē wiues his cōcubines ꝧ he had left behinde hi to kepe ꝧ house, & put the in warde & impryſoned all thynges vnto them: but lay no moare wt thē. And so they were enclosed vnto ꝧ day of the deeth of thē, & liued a widowes life.

Then said the king to Amasa: cal me ꝧ men of Juda togeather wt in thre dates & present thy selfe here. And Amasa went to gether the men of Juda together: but taried lōger thē ꝧ time which was apoynted B him. Wherfore ꝧ kig said to Abisai: now shal Seba ꝧ sōne of bochri be worse to vs then Absalō. Take ꝧ therfore thy *lordes *That is Joabs. seruaūts & folow after hi: lest he gett hym walled cities & escape vs. And ther wente out after him Joabs mē & ꝧ Cerethites & ꝧ Pheletthites & ꝧ mē of mighte. And they departed out of Jerusalē to folowe after Seba ꝧ sonne of Bochri. And when they were come to the great stone in Gabaō, Amasa met thē. And Joab had hys garmēt that ꝧ he had about him, gyrd vnto him, & had gird therō a knife coyned fast to his loinz, in soche a shethe that as he wēt it fel some times out. And Joab said to Amasa: ar al thiges in rest & peace my brother. And Joab toke Amasa by ꝧ chinne wt the righte hād, as though he wolde haue *kyssed hi. pro. xxvii. a And Amasa toke no hede to the knyfe ꝧ was in Joabs hād, wt which Joab smote hym in the short rybbes & shed out his bowelles to ꝧ groūd and smote hym but one stroke, and he dyed.

D And thē Joab & Abisai his brother followed after Seba ꝧ sōne of Bochri. And one of Joabs mē ꝧ stode by hi sayd: what is he ꝧ he wolde be as Joab, & what is he ꝧ wold be vnto dauid istede of Joab? And Amasa lay walowig in bloud in ꝧ middes of ꝧ way. And ther was a mā that saw all the people stād styl. And whē he sawe that 2 Reg. ii. f *al ꝧ came by hi stode stil, he rowled Amasa out of ꝧ way into the feld & cast a cloth vpō hym. And as sone as he was tōbeled out of the way, al ꝧ people wēt after Joab, to folow after Seba ꝧ sōne of bochri.

E And he wēt thorow all the trybes of Israel vnto Abel, Bethmaacah & al Barim. And ꝧ people gethered vnto hi & wēt also after hym. And they came & beseged hi in Abel bethmaacah. And they cast vp a bāke against ꝧ citie. And it was beseged. Al ꝧ people ꝧ was wt Joab labored busely to ouer throw the wal. Then cried a wyse womā out of the citie, heare heare, byd I pray you Joab that he come hither, that I may speake wt hi. When Joab was come the womā said: art thou Joab? And Joab F āswered yam I. And she said to hi: heare ꝧ wordes of thy hādmaid? And he said: I am ready to heare. And she said: it hath ben a comē saying in the olde time, men* muste aske of Abel, & then go to and kynde the worck. Abel is one of the quieteſt & faithfullest cities ꝧ ar in Jsrael. And ꝧ goest a bout to destroy a citie that is as a mother in Jsrael. Why deuowrest thou ꝧ enhertaunce of the Lord. *Vnderstād whether it wyl accept reparacion ꝛ ꝛ according to the law of Moyses. Deut. xx. c.

And Joab āswered & said: god forbid, God forbid it me, ꝧ I shuld ether deuowre or destroy it. The matter is not so: But there is a mā of moūt Ephraim, Seba ꝧ sōne of Bochri by name, which hath *lifte That is to become an enemye vp his hād against king Dauid. Deliuer vs him only, & I wyl depart frō the citie. And the womā said vnto Joab: Behold, G his heed shalbe throwē thorow the wal to the. And thē the womā wente vnto all the people *in her wisdom. And they smote of the heed of Seba ꝧ sōne of Bochri, & cast it to Joab. And he blew a trompet, & they skatered frō the citie, euery mā to his tēte, & Joab returned to Jerusalē vnto ꝧ king *That is counselyng the wysely

And Joab was ouer al ꝧ host of Jsrael. And Banaiah the sōne of Jehoiada was ouer the Cerethites & ꝧ Pheletthites. And Adurā was ouer the tribute. And Jehosaphat the sonne of Ahilud was *Recorder. Seua was scrybe. And Sadock & Abiathar were ꝧ prestes. And Jra the Jairite was lykewyse Dauids *preast. *Aboue in this boke ꝧ viii. cha. b. Chald. Chald. Interpre. the beare peres. The vengeaunce of the sonnes of Saul lyghteth on his. vii. sonnes, which are hanged. Foure great battelles, which Dauid had against the Philistines. The. xxi. Chapter.

THen ther fel an hongre in the dayes of Dauid thre yeres, yere by yere. And Dauid enquired of ꝧ lord. And ꝧ lorde āswered: it is for Sauls sake & ꝧ house of bloude, because he slue the Gabaonites. And ꝧ king called ꝧ Gabaonites & said vnto thē. Now these Gabaonitz ar not of ꝧ childrē of Jsrael, but a rēnaūt of ꝧ Ammonites, & ꝧ children of Jsrael sware vnto thē. And yet Saul soughte to slay them, for a zele ꝧ he had to the children of Jsrael & of Juda. Wherfore Dauid said vnto thē: what shal I do for you? & wherwith shal I content you ꝧ ye may *blesse the enhertaunce of the Lord. *That is to pure & set by. As in Gal. xxxvi. d

And the Gabaonites said vnto him: we haue no matter of siluer or of gold wythe Saul or wt his house: nether haue we any mā ꝧ we wold kil i Jsrael. Thē he said: what say ye ꝧ I shal do for you? And they sayd vnto the king: ꝧ mā that cōsumed & imagened to bryng vs to nought, him we ought to destroy, that nought of him cōtnew in any of ꝧ costes of Jsrael, let seuen men of his sonnes be deliuered vnto vs, ꝧ we may hāg thē vp vnto the lorde, in Gabaah of Saul ꝧ lordes elect. And Dauid sayde: I wyll geue them you.

But the king had cōpassion on Miphiboseth the sōne of Jonathas, the sonne of Saul, because of ꝧ lordes othe that was betwene thē: ꝧ is to saye betwene Dauid & Jonathas ꝧ sōne of Saul. But he toke

the two sonnes of Rezphah ꝑ daughter of Aiah which she bare vnto Saul, Armoni & Miphiboseth, & the fiue sonnes of Michol ꝑ daughter of Saul which she bare to Adriel ꝑ sone of Berselai ꝑ Moolathite, & deliuered thē vnto the hādes of the Gabeonites, which hāged thē in ꝑ hill before the lord. And they fel all seuen to geather in ꝑ first dayes of haruest: euē in ꝑ beginnyng of barley haruest.

And Rezphah ꝑ daughter of Aiah toke sackclothe & spred it vnder her vpō the Rocke, euē frō ꝑ begining of haruest vntill rame dropped vpō thē out of heuen & suffered neither ꝑ birdes of ꝑ aire to fal on thē by day nor beastes of the felde by night. And whē it was told Dauid what Rezphah ꝑ daughter of Aiah ꝑ cōcubyne of Saul had done, he wēt & toke ꝑ bones of Saul & of Jonathas his sōne, of ꝑ mē of Jabes in Galaad, which they had stolē frō ꝑ strete of Bethā, wher ꝑ Philistines had hāged thē in ꝑ dayes whē ꝑ philistinz had slaine saul i Gelboe. And he brought thēce ꝑ bones of Saul & the bones of Jonathas his sōne, & they fet away ꝑ bones of thē that were hāged, & buryed thē with the bones of Saul & Jonathas his sonne in the cōtrey of Beniamin, in Zela, in ꝑ sepulchre of Cis his father. And when they had perfourmed al ꝑ the kyng cōmaūded, God was then at one with the lande.

And ꝑ Philistines had yet againe warre wt Israel. And Dauid went downe & his seruaūtes wt him, & fought with ꝑ Philistines. And Dauid waxed faintle, & Iesbi of *Nob one of the sōnes of *Haraphah whose speare hed wated thre hūdred sycle of Bzalle, & was gyrd with a new swerde thought to haue slaine dauid. But Abisai ꝑ sōne of Zaruiah succoured hi & smote ꝑ philistine & killed him. Thē ꝑ seruaūtes of dauid sware vnto hi sayig. Thou shalt go no more out with vs to battel, that the lighte of Israell be not put out. And ther was yet after this battel wt ꝑ Philistines at *Nob, i which Sobochai ꝑ Husathite slew Saph of the sonnes of Haraphah.

And ther was yet ꝑ third battel in Gob, wt the philistines, wher Elhanan the sōne of ꝑ Jaere Orgi, a Bethleheimite slue one goliath a gethite: ꝑ staffe of whose speare was as great as a weuers cloth beame.

And ther was yet battel in Geth, wher was a mā of a syze & had on euery hād. vi. fyngers & on euerye fote. vi. toes. xxiiii. in al. And was also of ꝑ kired of Haraphah, & dessed Israel. And Jonathas the sonne of Samach ꝑ brother of Dauid slue hi. These foure were of ꝑ sōnz of Haraphah in Geth, & were ouer throwen by the hand of Dauid & by the hādes of his seruātes.

¶ The Canticle or song of Dauid for ꝑ delyuerance from his enemyes.

The. xxii. Chapter.

AND Dauid spake ꝑ wordes of this sōg vnto the lorde, what tyme ꝑ lord had deliuered hi out of the hādz of all his enmies, & out of ꝑ hādz of saul.

And he said: the Lord is my *rocke, my castel & my deliuerer. God is my strēgth, & in him wil I trust: my shyld & the horne that defendeth me: mine hie hold & refuge: O my Sauer, saue me from wronge.

I wyl prayse & cal on the lord, & so shal be saued from myne enemyes. For ꝑ waues of deeth haue closed me aboute, & the flodes of belial haue feared me. The cordz of hel haue cōpased me about, & ꝑ snares of deth haue ouertake me. In my tribulacīō I called to the lord, & cried to my God. And he heard my voyce out of his tēple, & my crye entered into his eares. And ꝑ erth trimbeled & quoke, & the foūdacions of the uē moued & shoke, because he was angrie.

Smoke wēt vp out of his nostrelles, & consuming fyre out of his mouth, ꝑ coles were kēdled of him. And he bowed heue & came downe, & darknesse vnder neth hys fete. And he rode vpon Cherub & flewe: & apered vpon the winges of the wid. And he made darknesse a tabernacle round about hym, wt water gethered togeather in thycke cloudes. Of the bryghtnes, ꝑ was before hym, coles were sett on fyre.

The Lord thundred from heuen, & the most hye put out hys voyce. And he shot arowes & skatered them, and hurled lygh tenyng & turmoyled thē. And the bottome of the see appered, and the foūdacyons of the worlde were seue, by the reason of the rebukynge of the Lorde, and throwe the blastynge of the breeth of hys nostrelles. He sēt from an hye & fet me, & plucked me out of myghtye waters.

He deliuered me frō my mightie enemy, & frō thē that hated me & were to stronge for me. Whē they had compased me in the day of my tribulatiō, the Lorde stayed me vp. And he brought me out into rowmeth & delyuered me, because he delyted in me.

The lord rewarded me according to my ¶ rightwysnes, & according to the pureneſſe of my hādes he dealt with me. For I kept the wayes of the Lord, & dyd no wyckednes forsaking my God. But I had al his lawes in my sight, & turned my face from none of his ordināces. But was pure vnto hi ward, & kept my selfe frō wickednes.

And the Lord dyd to me agayne, according to my rightewysnes, & after my pureues that I had in his sight. With the holy thou shalt be holy, & wyth the man that is vncorrupte, ꝑ shalt be vncorrupt. With ꝑ pure ꝑ shalt be pure, & with the froward ꝑ shalt be froward also. And the people that ar in aduersite thou shalt help. And on the proude shalt thou caste thyne eyes. Thou art my light O Lord, & the lord shal light my darkenesse.

With thy helpe I wil runne thorow an Hoste of mē, & by the ayde of my God wyl sprīng ouer a walle. The *way of God is vndefyled, & the word of the lord fined as gold, & he a shilde to al that trust in hym. That is, ꝑ dedes of God are pure vncorrupte.

Who is a god saue the Lord, and who mightie saue our god? God is my strēgth in warre, & tryddeth the waye cleare before me. And maketh my fete as swyfte as an hindes & setteth me fast vpō my hye hold.

And teacheth my hādes to fight, ya bowe of bzasse is to weake for myne armes.

And thou hast saued me with thy shyld, ¶ & keppest me euer in meakenes. And thou madest me space to walke in, that my fete should not stōble. I folowed mine enemies & destroyed thē, & turned not agayn vntyl I had consumed them.

I wasted thē & so clouted thē, that they could not aryse: but fell vnder my fete.

And ꝑ compasedest me about wt might to battel, & madest them that rose agaynst me to stoupe vnder me.

And ꝑ madest myne enemies to *turne That is, to thyne backes to me, & them that hated me, flye frō me & I destroyed them. They loked for helpe But none came to saue thē, vnto the Lord they cryed, but he heard them not.

And I wyl beate them as small as the dust of ꝑ erth, & wyl stāpe thē as the dyrte of the strete, & wyll spreade them abroade.

And ꝑ delyuerdst me frō the dyssencīō of my people, & kepest me to be an head ouer nacīōs, for the people whych I knewe not be came my seruauntes.

And the alyentes crouched vnto me, and obeyed me at a word. The is, at therwhe re they take sanctuarie & hide thē selues al though / in stronge holdes

And the alyentes ꝑ shrinke away shall trēble for feare in theyr *defenced places.

The lord lyue, & blessed be he that is my strength: & exalted be God ꝑ strength that saueth me. Je is God that aduēgeth me, & bryngethe downe ꝑ people vnder me. And delyuereth me frō myne enemies, thou lyft test me vp on hye frō thē that ryse against me, & delyuerest me from the wicked men.

And therfore I wyl prayse the O Lord amōg the heathē, & wyll sing vnto thy name. For thy great & manifold sauig of thi king, & shewing mercy vnto thyne anoynted, euē to Dauid, & hys sede for euer.

¶ The younge kyng Abiiag kepeth Dauid in hys extreme age. Adoniah occupieth the realme hawyt kynge to hys father. Salomon is anoynted Kinge & then Adoniah fleeth.

The. j. Chapter.

Whē king Dauid was ware olde & stryken in yeares, though they coue red him wt clothz, yet he caughte no heate. Wherfore his seruaūtes sayd vnto hym: lett there be sought for my Lord ỹ king a yōg maidē to wayte vpō him & to cherysshe hym. And let her lye in his bosome, that my Lord the king may get heat. And so thei sought for a fayre damosel thorowout al the costes of Jsrael & fould one Abiiag a Sunamite & brought her to ỹ king. And ỹ damosell was exceding fayre, & cherysshed ỹ kinge & ministred to hi: But ỹ king knew her not.

But Adoniah ỹ sone of Hagith exalted him self saying: J wilbe king. And he gat him a charet & horsemen and fyfte men to rūne before hym. And hys father rebuked him not at any tyme nor sayd so moche to hym as why doest ỹ so. And he was therto a goodly mā & his mother bare hym nexte after Absalō. And he comuned with Joab ỹ sonne of zaruiah & wt Abiathar ỹ prieste. And thei holp Adoniah. But Sadock the prest, Banaiah ỹ sonne of Jehoiada, Nathan the prophet, Semei & Rei & the men of might which were wt dauid fauored not Adoniah. And Adoniah sacrificed shepe & B oxen & fatlinges at the stone of Zoheleth Some rea de by Ezro gel. which is fast * by ỹ wel of Rogel, & bad al his brethē the kinges sonnes & al the men of Juda ỹ kinges seruaūtes. But Nathā the prophet & Banaiah & the mightie men and Salomon his brother he bad not.

Wher vpō Nathā spake vnto Bethsabe the mother of Salomō saying: hast ỹ not heard how ỹ Adoniah the sonne of Hagith doth raygne vnweting vnto our maister Dauid. Now therfore come & J may geue the counsel, howe to saue thyne owne lyfe & the lyfe of thy sonne Salomō. Hence and get the vnto king Dauid & saye vnto hym: dyddest not thou my Lord kynge swere vnto thy handmaide sayinge: Salomō thy sonne shal raygne after me, & he shall a syt vpon my seate, why is thē Adoniah made kinge. And se, whyle thou yet talkest there with the king, J wyl come in after the and wyl ende thy wordes..

And Bethsabe wēt in vnto ỹ king into C the chābre. And the king was verye olde & Abiiag ỹ Sunamite ministred vnto him. And Bethsabe stouped & made obeysaūce vnto the king. And the kinge sayde: what is thy matter. And she answered & sayde: My Lord thou swarest by the Lorde thy God vnto thyne hādmayde: Salomō thy sonne shal raygne after me & he shal sit vpon my seate. But now se, Adoniah is kinge and thou my Lord king wottest it not. And he hath offred oxē, fatlinges & shepe aboundantly, & hath called all the sonnes of the king, & Abiathar the prieste, & Joab the captayne of the hoste. But Salomon thy seruaunt hath he not biddē. And now my Lord king the eyes of al Jsrael wayte on the, to tell them who shal syt on the seat of my Lord the kyng after him. For elles whē my lord ỹ kynge is layde to rest with hys fathers, J & my sonne Salomō shall be *‡ synners.

And behold whyle she yet talked with ỹ king, Nathā the prophete was come. And they told the king saying: here cometh Nathā the prophet. And whē he was come before the king, he made obeysaunce vnto ỹ king vpō his face vnto ỹ groūde, & sayd: My Lord king, hast thou sayde, Adoniah shal raygne after me, & he shall syt vppon my seate. For he is gone downe this daye and hathe offered oxen, fatlynges & shepe D abound antly, & hath called all the kinges sonnes & the captaynes of the hoste, & Abiathar the prieste. And se, they eate & drynke before him and say. God saue kyng Adoniah. But me thy seruaūt and Sadock the prieste and Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada, & thy seruaunt Salomon he hath not called. Is this thing done of my lord the kinge & yet woldeste not shewe me thy seruaūt, who shuld syt on the seate of my Lorde the kynge after hym?

Then

Then kynge Dauid answered & sayde: cal me Bethsabe. And she came in & stode before him. And ỹ king sware saying. As sure as the Lord (that hath rydd my soule out of al aduersite) lyueth: euē as J swate vnto the by the Lord God of Jsrael saynge: Salomon shal raygne after me, & he shal sytt vpō my seate for me, so wyl J do thys daye. And Bethsabe bowed on her face to the earth & dyd obeysaunce vnto the kynge and sayde: J prayе God my Lorde kyng Dauid may lyue euer. Then sayde king Dauid cal me Sadock the prieste & Nathan the prophet & Banaiah the sōne of Jehoiada. And when they came before the kyng. The king said vnto thē: take yō you the seruaūtes of your Lord, & set Salomon my sonne vpon myne owne Mule and carye hym downe to Gihon. And lette Sadock the Prieste and Nathan the prophet anoynte hym there, to be kynge ouer E Jsrael. And then blowe ye wyth a trōpet & saye: God saue king Salomō. And the come vp after hym, & let him come and syt vpon my seate. For he shalbe kinge in my stede. And hym J haue cōmaunded to be captayne ouer Jsrael and Juda. And Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada ālwered the kyng & sayd, Amē, & so J prayе God that the Lord God of my Lorde the kyng saye so to. And as the Lord hath bene wyth my Lorde the kynge, euen so, J prayе God he maye be, with Salomō and that he make hys seate gloriousser then thee seate of my Lord kinge Dauid.

And Sadock the Prieste & Nathā the prophet & Banaiah ỹ sōne of Jehoiada & the Cerethites & Pheletthites wēt down, & F set Salomō vpō kinge Dauids Mule & led him to Gihon. And Sadock the Priest toke an horne of oyle out of ỹ tabernacle & anoynted Salomon. And they blew a trō pett, and all they sayde: God saue kynge Salomon. And all the people came vp after hym pypynge wythe pypes and reioysynge greatlye, so that the erth range with the sounde of them.

And Adoniah & all the gestes that were with him, heard it euē as they hadde made an ende of eatinge. And whē Joab hearde the soūde of the trōpet, he said: how happeneth it ỹ there is sothe a noyse in the cytie. And as he yet spake, se, Jonathas ỹ sōne of Abiathar the prieste came. And Adoniah sayd: come for thou art a lusty bloud and bryngest good tydynges. And Jonathas answered and sayde to Adoniah: Verelye oure Lord kynge Dauid hath made Salomon kyng. And the kynge sente wythe hym, Sadock the prieste & Nathan the prophet: & Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada & the Cerethites & the Pheletthites, & they haue set hym vpō ỹ kinges Mule. And Sadock the prieste & Nathan the Prophet haue anoynted hym kyng in Gihon. And as they came vp agayne they reioysed that ỹ cytie dyd sounde agayne. And that is thee noyse that ye haue heard. And therto Salomon sytteth on the seate of the kingdom And moreouer the kynges seruaūtes wēt in to bleesse our Lord king Dauid saying: thy god make the name of Salomō more fauoure then thyne, and hys seate moare glorypouse then thyne. And the kynge bowed hym selfe vpon the bed. And laste of all thus sayde thee kynge: blessed be thee Lorde God of Jsrael whyche hath made one to syt on my seate thys daye, euen myne eyes seynge it.

And all the gestes that were wyth Adoniah were afrayed & rose vp & went euery mā hys waye. And Adoniah fearing Salomon arose & went & caught holde on the hornes of the altare. And it was told Salomō, how that Adoniah for feare of king Salomō hath *caught handfast by ỹ hornes of the aultar saying: let king Salomō swere vnto me thys daye, that he wyll not sley his seruaunt with the swerd. And Salomon sayde, yf he wilbe a chyld of vertue ther shal not an heatre of hym fal to ỹ erth But & yf wickednesse shalbe found in him he shal dye for it. And thei vpon king Salomon sent & fet him downe from the aultare. And he came & dyd obeysaunce vnto kyng Salomon. And Salomon sayd to hym: get the to thyne house. Of this, in ỹ next chapter.6

And he sayde: thou knowest that the kyngdom was myne, & ỹ al Israel put theyr eyes on me, that I shulde raygne, howbeit the kingdom was turned away & geuē to my brother, for it was appoynted him of the Lord: & now I aske a petitiō of the, wherof denye me not. And she sayd vnto hym: tel what it is. Then he sayd: speake I praye the, vnto Salomon the king (for he wil not saye the naye) that he geue me Abisag the Sunamite to wife And Bethsabe sayde: well, I wyll speake for the vnto the kyng.

And ther vppon Bethsabe wente vnto
D kynge Salomon to speake vnto hym for Adoniah. And ỹ king rose vp against her and bowed hym self vnto her, and sat him downe on hys seate. And there was a seate Math.xx.d sett for the kinges mother, & * she sat on hys ryght syde. Then she sayde: I muste desyre a lyttle petition of the: saye me not naye. And the king said vnto her: Aske on my mother: for I wyll not saye the naye. And she sayd: lette Abisag the Sunamite be geuen to Adoniah thy brother to wyfe. And king Salomon answered & sayd vnto his mother: why doest thou aske Abisag thee Sunamite for Adoniah? but rather aske for him the kingdom, seing he is myne elder brother: euen for him aske it and for Abiathar the priest, & for Joab the sonne of Zaruiah. Then kyng Salomō swarre by the Lord saying: ✠ God do so to me and so therto yf Adoniah haue not spokē thys worde against him self. Now therfore as surely as the Lord liueth which hath
E stablished me & set me on the seate of Dauid my father, & whyche hath made me an house as he promysed me, Adoniah shall dye thys daye. And king Salomon sente by the hand of Banaiah thee sonne of Jehoiada, and smote hym that he dyed.

And vnto Abiathar the priest sayd the king: get the to Anatoth vnto thyne owne feldes, for thou art worthy of death: but I wyll not at this time kyll the, because thou barest ỹ arck of the lorde Jehouah before Dauid my father & because ỹ sufferedst wyth my father in al his afflictions. And so Salomō put away Abiathar frō beyng priest vnto the lord: to fulfil the worde of the lorde which he spake ouer the house of Eli in Siloh. Then tydinges came to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adoniah but not after Salomon. Wherupō he fled vnto ỹ tabernacle of ỹ lord & caughte * thandfast on the hornes of the aultare. And it was tolde kyng Salomon how ỹ Joab was fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lord and stode by the aultare. Then Salomō sent Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada saying: go & smyte him. And when Banaiah was come to the tabernacle of ỹ lorde he sayd vnto him: thus sayth the king, come out. And he sayde naye: But I wyl dye euen here. And Banaiah brought the kyng worde sayinge: thus sayd Joab and thus he answered me.

And the kyng sayd: do euen as he hath sayd: smite him & burie him, & take awaye the bloud (which Joab shed causelesse) frō me & from ỹ house of my father. And the lord bring his bloud vpō hys owne heed, for he smote two men right wyser & better thē he, & slue them with the swerde, my father vnwetting: euē Abner the sōne of Ner captayne of the host of Israel, & Amasa ỹ the sōne of Jether captayne of the host of F Juda. And their bloud returne vpō ỹ hed of Joab & on the heed of his seed for euer. And prosperite be vnto dauid, & vnto hys seed, & vnto his house, and vnto his seate, of the Lorde for euer.

And Banaiah ỹ sōne of Jehoiada wēt vp & smote him and slue him & buried him in his owne house in ỹ wildernesse. And ỹ king put Banaiah ỹ sōne of Jehoiada in his rowme ouer the host, & put Sadock ỹ preast in the rowme of Abiathar.

Then the kinge sente & called Semei, & sayd to him: buylde the an house in Jerusalē & dwell there & se that thou go not once thēce anye whether. For be ỹ sure of it, the daye ỹ goest oute & passeste ouer the G riuer of Cedrō, thou shalt die for it, & thy bloude shalbe on thyne owne heed. And Semei sayd vnto the king: it is wel sayd: as my Lord the kyng hath sayde, so wyll his seruaūt do. And Semei dwelt in Jerusalem many a day. And it chaunced at the ende of thre yere ỹ two of the seruaūtz of Semei ranne awaye vnto Achis sōne of Maacah kynge of Geth. And one tolde Semei saying: se, thy seruauntes be in Geth. And Semei rode vp and sadled his asse & gat him to Geth to Achis, to seke his seruauntes, & came & brought the agayne from Geth.

But it was tolde Salomon how that G Semei had gone from Jerusalē to Geth and was come agayne. And the kyng sēt & called Semei & sayd vnto him: Did I not adiure the by the Lord, & testified vn to the sayinge: be sure when so euer thou goest out & walkest abrode any whether, thou shalt dye for it? And thou âˆ‚ weredst me, it is good tydinges that I haue heard. Why then hast thou not kept the othe of the Lord, and the cōmaundement that i.Reg.xvi.d I commaunded the?

And then the kynge sayde to Semei * thou remembrest al the wickednes whych thyne herte knoweth that thou dydeste to Dauid my father. The Lord therfore rēder agayne thy wyckednesse vpon thyne owne heed: & kynge Salomon be blessed, & the seate of Dauid be stablished before the Lord for euer. And the kyng cōmaūded Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada: whyche went out and smote him that he dyed. And so was the kyngdome settled in the hand of Salomon.

And Salomon loued the Lord and walked in the ordinaunces of Dauid hys father, saue onelye that he sacrefyced & offered incense vpon aultars in hylles.

And the king went to Gabaon, to offer there: for that was a great offering place. And ther Salomō offred a thousād burnt offringes vpō that aultare. And in Gabaon the Lord appeared to Salomō in a dreame by nyghte. And God sayde: Aske what I shall geue the. Se, I haue done accordinge to thy petycion: & beholde, I haue geuen the a wyse and an vnderstandinge herte, so that there was none lyke the before, neyther after the shal anye aryse lyke vnto the. And therto I haue geuen the that thou askedst not, both richesse and honoure: so that there shall be no king
C lyke the all thy dayes. And yf thou wylte walke in my wayes, to kepe myne ordinaunces and commaundemētes as Dauid thy father dyd walke, I wyl lengthen thy dayes also. When Salomō awoke, this was hys dreame. And he came to Ierusalem & presented hym selfe before the Arke of the Testament of the Lord, and offred burnt offringes and peaceofferinges, and made a feast to all hys seruauntes.

Then came there two wemen that were harlottes vnto the kinge and stode before hym. And the one of them sayde: Oh my Lorde I & thys woman dwel in one house And I was delyuered of a chylde wythe her in the sayde house. And the thyrd daye after that I was deliuered, she was delyuered also: we two beinge together and no straunger wythe vs in thee house saue we two alone. And thys wyues chylde dyed in a nyght, for she had * ouerlayed it. And Or smoothe
ced. then she arose at mydnyghte and toke my sonne frō my syde, whyle thyne bandmayde slepte and layde it in her bosome, & putt her dead chylde in my bosome. And when I rose vp in the morninge to geue my chylde sucke: se, it was dead. But when I had loked more dyligently vpon it in the morninge: Behold, it was not my sonne which
D I dyd beare. And the other woman sayde it is not so: But the lyuinge is my sonne, and the dead thyne. And she sayd agayne: thou sayest vntrue, for the dead is thy sonne, and the lyuinge myne. And thus they pleated before the kinge. Then sayde the kynge: the one sayeth, thys that is a lyue is my sonne, and the dead is thyne. And ꝓ other sayth nay: But thy sōne is the dead and the lyue chyld is myne. Then sayd the kyng: bring me a swerde. And they brought a swerde before the kynge. And then the kinge sayd: Deuyde the lyuing chyld in two, and geue the one halfe to the one, & the other to the other.

Then spake the woman whose the lyuynge chyld was, vnto the kinge (for her a bowelles yerned vpon her sonne) & said I beseche the my Lorde, geue her thee lyuyng chylde, and in no wyse slaye it. And the other sayde: it shall be nether myne nor thyne, but deuyde it. Then the kynge answered and sayde: * geue her the lyuynge chylde and slaye it not, for she is thee mother therof. And all Israel heard of the iudgemente whych the kynge had iudged and feared the kynge: for they sawe that the wysdome of God was in hym to do iustyce.

A And so kyng Salomon was kynge ouer all Israell. And these were hys Lordes: Azariah the sōne of Sadoth the Priest: Elihoreph and Ahiah the sonnes of Sisa, scribes, Iosaphat ꝓ sonne of Ahilud, the recorder. And Banai a ꝓ the sonne of Iehoiada was ouer ꝓ hoste And Sadoth & Abiathar were the prestes And Azariah the sonne of Nathan was ouer the generall receauers. And Zabud the sonne of Nathan was a wayter and thee kynges companyon. And Ahisar steward of housholde: And Adonirā sonne of Abda ouer the trybute.

And Salomon had twelue general receauers ouer all Israell whych sustayned the kyng and his housholde: eche man his moneth in a yeare. Whose names ar these the sonne of Hur in mounte Ephraim: the sonne of Dekarin Makez, in Salem in Bethsames, in Elon & in Bethhanan: thee sonne of Heled in Aruboth, & to hym per-
B tayned Socoh and all the land of Hepher the sonne of Abinadab, whyche had all the regions of Dor and Taphath the daughter of Salomon was hys wyfe: Baanah the sonne of Ahilud had Thanach Mageddo and al Bethsan which is by Zarthanah beneth Iezrahel, and from Bethsan to Abell Mehulah and vnto beyounde Iecmaam, the sonne of Gaber had Ramoth Galaad, and hys were the townes of Iair the sonne of Manasse which lye in Galaad, & hys was the coostes of Argob in Basan, thre skore great cyties with walles & Barres of Brasse.

Ahinadab the sonne of Ado had Mahanaim: Ahimaaz hadd Nephthalim, & he had taken Basemath the daughter of Salomon to wyfe: Baanah the sonne of Husai had Aser and Aloth: Iehosaphat thee sonne of Pharuah had Issachar at Semei the sonne of Elah hadde Ben Iamin: Gaber the sonne of Ury hadde thee countrye of Galaad and the lande of Sehon kynge of the Amorites and of Og kynge of Basan, and was alone receauer in thee lande. And Juda and Israell were many euen as the sande of the see in nombre, eatynge, drynckinge, and makynge merye. And Salomō raygned ouer all kyngdōs C from the ryuer thorowe out all the land of the philistines vnto the borders of Egipt and they brought presentes & serued Salomon all dayes of hys lyfe.

And Salomons fode was in one daye thyrtie quarters of manchett floure & thre skore quarters of mele: ten stalled oxen, & twentie out of the pastures & an hundred shepe and gootes, besydes hertes, buckes and buballes & fatt pultrye. For he ruled in all the regiōs on the other syde Euphrates, frō Thaphsah to Gaza, and also ouer all the kinges on thee other syde the sayde Euphrates. And he had peace wyth al his seruauntes on euery syde. And Juda and Israel dwelt without feare, euery man vnder his vine & vnder his fyg tree frō Dan to Berlabe, al the dayes of Salomon.

And Salomon had fourtie thousande stalles of horsses for charettes, and twelue D thousand horsemen. And the forsayd general receauers made purueyaunce for king Salomon and for all that came to kynge Salomons table, euery man his moneth, so that there lacked nothynge. And as for barlye & strawe for thee horsses & beastes they brought vnto the places where the officers were, euery man in hys office.

* And God gaue Salomon wisdom Ecc.xxvii.c and vnderstanding exceedinge moch and a large hert, euen as the sand a longe by the see bancke: so that Salomōs wysdom exceaded the wysdom of al them of the East countreye and al the wysdom of the Egiptians. And he excelled all men in wysdom, both Ethan the Ezrahite, and Hemā, Chalcol and Dorda the sōnes of Mahol. And hys name spreade abroade among all nacions on euery syde. And Salomon wrote thre thousande Prouerbes, and hys songes were a thousand and fyue. And he disputed of trees, euen from thee Cedar tree that groweth in Libanon vnto the Isope that spryngeth oute of the walle. And he disputed of beastes, fowles, wormes, and fysshes. And there came of all nacyons to heare the wisdom of Salomon, and from all kynges of the earth whych had heard of hys wysdom.

The. v. Chapter.

A AND Hiram king of Tire sent his seruauntes vnto Salomō for he had heard that they had anoynted him king in ỹ rowme of his father. And thereto Hirā was euer a louer of Dauids. * And Salomō sent agayne to Hiram saying: ‡ knowest of Dauid my father, how he could not bylde an house vnto thee name of ỹ Lord hys God for warre which he had on euery syde, vntyl the Lord had put thē vnder his fote. B But now the Lorde my God hath geuē me rest on euery syde, so ỹ there is neyther aduersarye nor any euel plage. And therfore I am disposed to buylde an house vnto the name of the Lord my god, as he promysed Dauid my father saying: thy sonne whych I wyl put vpon thy seat for the, he shal bylde an house vnto my name. Now then commaunde that they hewe me Cedar trees in Libanō. And let my seruauntes be wyth thyne, ‡ I wyll geue the hire of thy seruauntes in al soch thinges as thou shalt appoynt, for thou knowest that ther are not among vs that can skyl to hewe tymber lyke vnto the Sidoners.

a. par. fi. a.

When Hirā heard the wordes of Salomon, he reioyced greatly ‡ sayd: Blessed be the Lord this day which hath set dauid a wise sōne ouer this mightie people. And Hiram sent agayne to Salomō saying: I C haue accept the request whych thou sentest to me for, ‡ wyl satysfye al thy lust, concerninge tymber of Cedar trees ‡ fyrre. My seruauntes shal bring thē frō Libanon to the see. And I wyl conueye thē by shyppe vnto thee place that thou shalte sende me worde, and wyl cause thē to be discharged ther, that thou maist receaue thē. And thou shalt do me this pleasure agayne, to minister fode for myne house. And so Hirā gaue Salomō Cedar trees ‡ fyrre trees, as moch as he desyred. And Salomon gaue Hiram twēte thousand quarters of wheate to fede hys housholde wythal, ‡ twentie butte of pure oyle. And so moch gaue Salomon to Hiram yeare by yeare.

And the Lord gaue Salomō wysdom D as he promysed hym. And there was peace betwene Hiram ‡ Salomon ‡ they were cōfedered together. And kyng Salomō ‡ reysed a tribute thorowout al Israel. And the tribute was. xxx. thousand men, which he sent to Libanō, ten thousand a moneth by course, so that they were one moneth in Libanon and two monethes at home.

And Adoniram was ouer the trybute. And Salomon had thre skore ‡ ten thousand that bare burdens, ‡ thre skore ‡ ten thousande that hewed in the mountaynes besydes the Lordes he had, to ouer see thee worcke, in nombre thre thousand and thre hūdred, which ruled the people ỹ wrought in the worke. And at the cōmaundemente of the king, thei brought great stones and that fre stones, ‡ hewed therto, to laye in ỹ foundation of the house. And Salomōs masons ‡ the masons of Hiram did hewe them, wyth thē of the borders. And so they prepared both tymber and stone to bylde the house.

¶ The feame and forme of the Temple Porche and Aultare. &c.

The. vi. Chapter.

AND it came to passe the foure hundred ‡ foure skore yere after the chyldrē of Israel were come out of the lād of Egipt ‡ the fourth yere of ỹ raygne of Salomon vpō Israel, and the seconde moneth called * Zif that he begāne to bylde the temple vnto the Lorde. And the house wheych Salomon bylt for the Lorde, was thre skore cubites longe and twentie broade and thyrtie cubites hye. And the porche that was before the bodye of thee temple, was twentye cubytes longe after the measure of thee bredthe of thee house, and ten broade, euen at the very ende of the house. And he made vnto the house wyndowes to open and shutte.

3. Reg. vi. b. Chap. ix. of these about some wyll ỹ the 480 yere.

And vnder ỹ walles of ỹ house he made galaryes round about, both round about the tēple and also the quere. And so made sydes round aboute. And the nethermoste galery was. v. cubites brode ‡ the middle galery. vi. And ỹ third. vii. cubites broade For he made ỹ walles without whereon ỹ beames laye, euer thynner and thynner, so that they were not fastened in ỹ walles of the house. And the house was bylt of stone made perfect al ready yer it was broughte thyther, so that there was nether hāmer or axe ether any tole of yron heard in the house, whyle it was in buyldinge.

B And the doze of ỹ middle galery was in the ende of ỹ house on the righte syde. And me went vp with winding steares into the middle galery, ‡ out of the middle into the thyrd. And so he bylt the house ‡ fynished it, ‡ roufte it wyth beames of Cedar tymber made holowe ‡ joyned togeather. And thē he bylt chambers ouer al the temple of fyue cubittes height, ‡ coupled the house together wyth beames of Cedar.

And the word of the Lord came to Salomon, saying: concerning the house whiche thou art in bilding, yf thou wilt walke in myne ordinaunces ‡ execute my lawes, and kepe al my cōmaundemētes, to walke in them: then wyl I make good vnto the, my promes * whyche I promysed Dauid thy father. * And I wyl dwel amonge the chyldre of Israel and wil not forsake my people Israel. And so therfore Salomon bylte the house and fynished it and syled the walles of the house wythin, wyth rybbes of Cedar tree: euen from the pauemēt vnto the roufte dyd he syle it wythin, and bored thee flooze of thee house with plankes of fyrre.

4. Reg. vi. b. Exo. xxv. b.

And he syled. xx. cubites in the ende of ỹ tēple both flooze ‡ walles with Cedar, and dressed it wythin to be the quere and place moost holy. And the fyrst house, that is to saye, the bodye of the tēple was. xl. cubites longe. And the Cedar of the house wythin C was kerued wythe knoppes and grauen wyth flowres, and all was Cedar tymber, so that no stone was sene. And the queare that was wythin thee temple, he prepared to sette there the Arcke of the appoyntmēt of the Lorde. And the queare was twentye cubytes longe, and twentye in bredthe and twentye in heyghte. And he syled it wythe pure goulde, and bored the aultar wyth Cedar.

And Salomon syled the house with in also wythe pure goulde. And he made goulden barres runne a longe the queare, whych he hadde couered wyth gould. And the whole house he ouerlayde wyth gould vntyl he hadde ended it. And the aultare that was in the quere he ouerlayde wythe goulde also.

Exo. xxv. b

And wythin the quere he made twoo * Cherubins of olyue tree, ten cubites hye a pece, ‡ euery winge fyue cubites longe: so that frō the vttermost parte of one wynge vnto the vttermost part of the other were ten cubites.

And the other Cherub was ten cubytes hye also: so that bothe thee Cherubes were of one measure and one fyse. The heyghte of the one Cherub was ten cubytes, and so was it of the other. And he put D the Cherubes in the myddle of thee vnner Exo. xxv. b house. * And the Cherubes stretched their wynges, so that the one wynge of thee one touched the one walle, and the one wynge of the other touched the other walle. And the other two winges of them touched one āother in the myddes of the house. And he ouerlayde the Cherubes wyth gould.

And all the walles of the house rounde about, he garnesched wyth worcke of Cherubes and paulme trees and grauen flowres, bothe wythin in the queare and wythoute in the temple. And the flooze of thee house he couered wyth goulde bothe wythin, in thee quere and also wythoute in thee temple. And in the enteringe of the queare he made two dozes of olyue tree, wyth the vpper and twoo syde postes fyue squarre. And the two dozes of olyue tree, he graued wyth grauinge of Cherubes and paulme trees and grauen flowres, ‡ couered them wythe goulde, and layde goulde ouer thee Cherubes and also the paulme trees. And in lyke maner vnto the doze of the temple he made postes of olyue tree. iiii. squate, ‡ two dozes of fyrre tree, ‡ ether dooze with twoo foldynge leues and graued thereon Cherubes Paulmetrees and flowres, and couered them wythe goulde made playne by a ruler.

And thē he bylte the vnner coutte wyth thre rowes of hewed stoone ‡ one rowe of Cedar wood.

In the fourth yere of hys raygne was the foundatyon of the house of the Lorde layde, euen in the moneth * Zif, and in the xi. yeare in the moneth * Bull whyche is the. viii. moneth, it was full fynyshed in all that pertayned thereto, and facyoned as it shulde be in all poyntes: And so was

¶ The byldyng of the house of Salomō. The house of Pharaos doughter. The forme of the pyllers of Brasse, of the Brasen See. &c.

The. vii. Chapter.

A And Salomō bylte his owne house in thyrtene yeare space and full fynished it. And he bylte thee house of the wood of Libanon, an hundred cubytes longe and fyfftie broade, and thyrtie hye, foure square wythe rowes of Cedar pyllars, and Cedar beames along vpō the pyllers. And the rouffe was Cedar aboue an hye vppon the beames that laye an hye on the pyllers, whych pyllers were fourtie and fiue in nomber, fiftene on a rowe, and the spaces betwene the pillers were one agaynst another thre folde. And all the dores with the syde postes were foure square one agaynst another thre folde.

And he made a porche of pillers fyfftye cubytes longe and thyrtie cubytes broade and yet a porche before that wyth pyllers, and a thycke pyller before that. Then he made a porche to sytte and iudge in, syled wyth Cedar thorow out all the pauementes. And his owne house where he kept residence in another courte wythoute that porche was of the same worcke. And then

B Salomon made an house for Pharaos daughter * which he had taken to wyfe, lyke vnto that porche. *1. Reg. iii. a

And all these thynges were of ryche stones hewed after a measure and sawed wyth sawes wythin and wythout, euē frō the foundation vnto that wheron the beames were layed, and on the oute syde there to towarde the greate courte. And the foūdation was of ryche stones and that mighte great stones of tē cubites and of eyght And aboue were ryche stones hewed accordynge to the same syse, and also wyth Cedar. And the greate courte rounde about was wythe thre rowes of hewed stone and one rowe of Cedar planckes. And lykewyse was it in the ynner court of the house of the Lorde and of the porche of the temple.

Hiram. ii. Par. ii. c. * And kynge Salomon sent and fett one Hiram out of Tire, a wedowes sonne of the tribe of Nephthalim, hys father beinge of Tire, Wych Hiram was a crafftes man in brasse, and full of wysdomme, vnderstandynge and connynge to worcke all maner of worcke in brasse. And he came to kynge Salomon and wroughte all hys worcke. He caste twoo pyllers of brasse of xviii. cubytes a pece hye, and a strynge of xii. cubytes myght compasse ether of them aboute. And he made twoo head peces of molten brasse to sette on the toppes of the pyllers, of fyue cubites longe a pece, with garlandes of brayded worcke and whopes of chayne worcke for the headd peces that were on the pyllers seuen for thee one and seuē for the other. And he made the pillers and for ether of the head peces a garland, C wyth two rowes of pomegranettes to coner them wyth al. And the head peces that were on ȳ toppes of ȳ pyllers were wroughte wyth lylies in the porche the space of foure cubites of them. And the pomegranettes aboue & beneth on the wrethē chaynes that compased the myddle of the head peces were in nōbre two hundred on ether head pece. And he set vp the pyllers in the porche of the temple, and when he had sett vppe the ryghte pyller, he called the name thereof Jachin, and when he had set vppe D the lefte pyller he called thee name thereof Boaz. And the toppes of the pyllers were thus wroughte wythe lylyes, and so was theyr worcke man chyppe fynished.

Then he caste a see of brasse, ten cubytes wyde from brym to brym and roun de in compase, and fyue cubytes hye. And a strynge of thyrtie cubytes myghte compasse it aboute, and vnder thee brym of it as it were apples compased and embrased the sea of ten cubytes wyde in two rowes cast wyth it when it was caste. And it stode on twelue oxen: of whyche thre looked Northe, thre West, thre Southe, and thre Easte, and the see on hye vpon them, and all theyr hynder partes were inward. And it was an hand breadeth thicke, & the brim wrought lyke the brym of a cup with flowres of lylies. And it contayned * two thou- *Or, three. ii. para. iii. sande & Bathes.

And he made. x. botomes of brasse, foure cubites longe & .iiii. cubites broade a pece, & thre hie. And the workes of the botomes was on this maner ȳ the sydes were as it were flat bordes betwene the ledges. And on the

E on the flatte bordes betwene the ledges were lyons, oxen & Cherubes. And vpon the ledges that were aboue & beneth the lions and oxen, was toyned pendant worcke. And euerye bottom had foure brasen wheles, whose axelltrees were also of brasse. And in the foure corners were vndersetters vnder ȳ lauetorie caste ether ouer agaynst his felow.

And the stalck of the lauetorie was in the middle of the bottome one cubit hye, & a cubyte and an halfe rouīd, & it had knoppes ther on in the bare places which were foure square not rounde. And vnder the sydes were foure wheles and theyr axelltrees toyned fast to the bottome. And the height of euerye whele was a cubyte and an halfe. And the worckeman chype of the wheles was lyke the worcke of a charette whele. And the axelltrees, ȳ nauelles spokes & shaftes were al moulte. And ȳ foure undersetters in the foure corners were of the verye bottomes.

And vnder the stalcke of the lauatorie in the myddes of the bottome was there a rounde fote of halfe a cubyt hye. And ther on playne places and ledges of the selfe. And he graued in the playne & also on the ledges, Cherubes, lyōs & paulmetrees, euery where round about. And on this maner he made the ten bottomes cast worcke: al of one measure and one syse. Then he made ten lauers of brasse cōtayning four tye Bathes a pece, and they were of foure cubites a pece, for euery one of ȳ botomes a lauer. And he put fyue of those bottomes on the right corner of the temple, and other fiue on ȳ lefte: And put the see on the ryght corner of the tēple Eastwarde & towarde the South.

And Hiram made pottes, shouelles & basens, and so finisshed all ȳ worcke that he made kynge Salomon for the house of the Lord: that is to saye, two pyllers & two skalpes of the hedes that were on the toppes of the two pyllers, and foure hundred pōgranetes vpō two wrethes, two rowes on ether wrethe, to couer the two skalpes of the heedes ȳ were on the toppes of ȳ two pillers: And the tē bottomes of brasse w̄ ten lauers vpō thē: & a see w̄ twelue oxē vnder it: & pottes, shouelles & basens. And all these vesselles whych Hiram made to kyng Salomon for ȳ house of the lord were of bright brasse. And in ȳ plaine of Jordā dyd the king cast thē euē in the claie of the erth betwene Socoh & Zarthā. And Salomō left all the vesselles vnwayed, for the exceding aboundāce of brasse that was in them.

And Salomon made al the vesselles ȳ pertayned vnto the house of the Lord: the Aultare of goulde, and the table of goulde wheron the shewe breed was put: And fyue candel styckes, for the right syde, and as many for the lefte, before the quere, of pure goulde: w̄ flowres, lāpes, & snuffers of goulde: and Bolles, Psalteries, basōs, spones and fyre pannes of pure goulde: and hynges of gould bothe for the dores of the quere, the place most holy, & for the dores of the temple also.

And so was ended al the worck ȳ kyng Salomon made for the house of the Lorde. And then * Salomon brought in the ii. Par. v. a thynges whych Dauid his father had dedycated in syluer, goulde and other vesselles, & put them to the treasure of the house of the Lorde.

The. viii. Chapter.

THē Salomon gathered the eldets of Israel, al the hedes A of the trybes and auncyente Lordes of the chyldren of Israell, vnto hym to Jerusalē, to bringe vppe the Arcke of the appoynt ment of the Lord out of the cytye of Dauid which is Sion. And al the men of Israel assembled vnto kynge Salomon to the feast that falleth in the moneth * Ethanim whiche is the seuenth moneth. And whē al the elders of Israel were come, the preastes toke vp the Arck of the Lorde, & brought it & also the tabernacle of witnes & al ȳ holy vesselles ȳ were therin. And ȳ preistes & the leuites brought thē vp. And kyng Salomō and al the congregatiō of Israel that were assembled & were wythe him before the arcke dyd offer shepe and oxen ȳ coulde not be tolde nor nombred for multytude. * that is, September

And so the preistes brought the arck of ȳ

apoyntment

apoyntment of the Lorde vnto his place: euē into the quere of the temple and place most holy, vnder the wynges of the Cherubes. For ỹ Cherubes stretched out their wynges ouer the Arcke, and couered both it & also the staues thereof a hye vpon it. Howe be it the staues were so longe ỹ the endes of thē appered out of the holy place before the quere, but were not sene wout. B And ther they be vnto this day. And ther was nothyng in the Arcke saue the two tables of stone which Moses put ther at Horeb, when the Lord made an appoyntmēt with the childzen of Israel after they were come out of Egypt.

And when the preastes were come out of the Holy place, then a cloude fylled the house of the Lord, that the preastes could not endure to minister because of ỹ cloud for the glorye of the Lorde had fylled the house of the Lord. Thē spake Salomō: the Lord sayde, ỹ he wolde dwel in darcknesse. I haue bylt the an house to dwel in, & an habitatiō for the to abide in for euer. And the kyng turned his face & blessed al the congregacion of Israel, al the congregacion standyng. And he sayde.

Blessed be the Lorde God of Israell, which hath fulfilled with his *hand, that he spake wt his mouthe vnto Dauid my father sayinge: from the daye I brought my people Israell out of Egipt, I chose no citie amōg any of the tribes of Israel, to buylde an house, ỹ my name might be ther: but I haue chosen Dauid to be ruler ouer my people Israell. That is wt his power.

And it was in the hert of Dauid my father, to bilde an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel. But the Lord God sayde vnto Dauid my father: in ỹ it was in thyne hert to byld an house for my name, thou dydest wel, ỹ thou wast so mynded. Neuertheless thou shalt not bild the house, but thy sōne that shall come out of C thy loynes, he shal bylde an house for my name. And the Lord hath made good his word that he spake. For I stode vp in the rowme of Dauid my father, & sate on the seate of Israel, as the lord promised, & haue bylt an house for the name of the lorde God of Israell. And I haue prepared therin a place for the Arcke wherin ỹ couenaūt of the lord is, which he made wt our fathers, after he had brought thē oute of the lād of Egypt. And Salomō stode before ỹ aultare of ỹ lord in ỹ sight of all ỹ congregatiō of Israel & stretched out his hādes to heuē & said: lord God of Israel, ther is no god like ỹ in heuē aboue or in the erth benethe, ỹ kepest appoyntemente & mercye wt thy seruaūtes that walck before the wt al their hertes: which also hast kepte withe thy seruaunte Dauid my father, that ỹ promesest him. Thou spakest wt thy mouthe & hast fulfilled wt thine hāde, as it is come to pas this day. And now Lord God of Israel, kepe wt thy seruaūt Dauid my father, that ỹ promesedst hym saying: thou shalt not be withe out one or other before me, sytting on the seate of Israel: How be it yf thy chyldzen shall take hede to their waies that they walck before me, as thou hast walcked before me. Now then O Lorde God of Israel, let thy worde be stable whych thou spakest vnto thy seruaunt Dauid my father.

☞ But in deade can God dwell on the erth? Behold nether heuē, nor heuē aboue all heuens are able to contayne the: howe moch lesse then this house that I haue bylte: but loke to the prayer of thy seruaunte & his supplicatiō O lord my god, to geue an eare vnto the voyce and prayer which thy seruaunt prayeth before the this day, that thine eies may be opē vpō this house nyght and day, and vpō the place, of whych thou hast sayde, my name shalbe ther: that thou herken vnto the prayer whyche thy seruaūte shal praye in this place. And herkē vnto ỹ supplication of thy seruaūt and of thy people Israel which they shall pray in this place: And heare thou vp vnto heuē thy dwellynge place, & when thou heareſt haue mercye. And yf any mā trespace agaynst his neybour, & his neybour D *take an adiuracion to adiure him wt al, & ỹ adiuracion come before thine aultare at this house thē herkē thou vp to heuē, & worke & iudge thy seruauntes, that ỹ condēpne the wycked to bring his way vpon his heed, & iustefie ỹ righteous to geue hi accordig to his righteousnes. Moreouer if thy people Israel be put to ỹ worse before their enemies, because they haue sined against ỹ, & afterward turne againe to ỹ & praise thy name, & praye & make supplication vnto the ỹ in this house: thē heare thou vp to heuē & be mercyful vnto ỹ synne of thy people Israel & bring thē againe vnto the lāde which thou gauest vnto their fathers. That if his neyghbour could him to swe.

If heauen be shutt vp, that there be no rayne, because they haue synned agaynst the: yet yf they praye in this place & praise thy name and turne from theyr synnes thorow thy scourgyng of them: then heare thou vp to heauen, and be mercyful vnto the synne of thy seruaūtes & of thy people Israel, that thou shew thē a good way to walke in, and geue rayne vpon thy lande that thou hast geuen vnto thy people to enherett.

If ther chaunce dearth in the land, pestilence, blastyng, or wetherynge of corne, or that ỹ frutes be deuoured of Graihoppers or Caterpyllers, or yf their enemyes besege thē in the land & in their owne cyties, or whatsoeuer plage or sicknes chaūce: then heare thou vp to heauē thy dwelling place, al the prayers & supplicatiōs ỹ shalbe made of al men thorow oute al thy people Israel, which shal knowledge euery mā the plage of his owne hert, & stretch forth his hādes vnto this house, & be mercyful, and worke, and geue euery mā according to his wayes (seuē as ỹ only knowest euerye maines herte, for thou knowest the hertes of all the chyldzē of Adā) & they maye feare the as longe as they lyue vpō theerth which thou gauest vnto their fathers. And lykewyse yf a straunger ỹ E is not of thy people Israel come out of a farre contrey for thy names sake (for they shal heare of thi great name & of thy mighty hand and stretched out Arme) and ther fore yf he come and praye at thys place, heare thou vp to heauē thy dwellyng place and do accordyng to all that the straūger calleth to the for: that al nacyons of ỹ erth may knowe thy name, to feare the as do thy people Israell, and that it maye be knowen that this house which I haue bilte is called after thy name.

And whē they go out to battel against their enemyes whether soeuer ỹ shalt sēd them, & shall pray vnto the lord towarde the citie which thou hast chosen & toward ỹ house that I haue buylte for thy name: heare thou their prayers & supplications, vp to heauen, and iudge their cause.

And finally whē they shal haue synned agaynst the (for ther is no mā that sinneth not) & thou art angrie with them & haste deliuered thē to their enemyes, that they be caryed away prysoners vnto the lande of their enemyes, whether ferre or neare, yet yf they turne againe vnto their hertes in the lande where they be in captiuitie, and returne & pray vnto the in the land of thē that holde thē captiue, sayng: we haue sined & haue done wyckedly & haue trespaced, & so turne againe vnto ỹ with al theyr hertes and al their soules in ỹ lād of their enemyes which holde thē captiue, & praye vnto the, towarde the land which thou gauest vnto their fathers, and towarde the cytye whyche thou hast chosen, and house which I haue bilt for thy name: then heare thou their prayer & supplicacion vp to heuē thy dwellynge place, & iudge their causes, and be mercyefull vnto thy people ỹ haue sinned against the, and vnto al their trespace ỹ they haue trespaced agaynst ỹ, and get the fauoure in the syghte of them ỹ holde them captyue that they may haue compassyon on them. For they be thy people and thyne enherytaunce whyche thou F broughtest out of Egypte frō ỹ *fornace of yrō. And let thyne eyes be opē vnto the praier of thy seruaūt & vnto the praier of thy people Israel, to herkē vnto thē, in al that they calle vnto the. For thou dydest seperat thē, to be thine enheritaūce, aboue al ỹ naciōs of the erth, as thou saydest by the hande of Moses thy seruaunte, whē ỹ broughtest our fathers out of Egypt O Lorde Iehouah. Deut. iiij. c.

And whē Salomō had made an ende of prayinge al this praier & supplicacyon vnto the lord, he arose from before ỹ aultare of the lorde & from knelinge on hys knees & stretchynge of hys handes vp to heauē & stoode & blessed all ỹ cōgregatiō of Israel with a loude voyce saying. Blessed be the lord ỹ hath geuē reste vnto hys people Israel according to al ỹ he promised: * so ỹ ther is not one word escaped of al ỹ Good promises whyche he promised by the hand of Moses his seruaūte. And ỹ lord our God be with vs, as he was wt our fathers, & forsake vs not nether leue vs, but that he bow our hertes vnto hym, to walcke in all hys wayes, and to kepe hys 3. Reg. viij. d.

his cõmaundemẽtes, ordinaũces & customes which he cõmãded our fathers. And these my wordes which I haue prayed be fore the lord, be nye vnto ỹ Lord our god daye & nyght, that he defende the cause of hys seruaunt and of hys people Israel euermore, that al nacyons of thee erth may know that the Lorde, he is God and none
G but he. And I pray God that your hertes may be sounde with the Lorde oure God, to walke in his ordinaunces & to kepe his lawes as we do this daye.

And the kyng & al Israel with him, of ij.Pa.viij.a fered offeringes before the lord. * And the peaceofferinges ỹ Salomõ offered vnto
ỹ Lord, were .xxij. thousand oxen & an hũdred & twentye thousand shepe: And so ỹ kyng & al the chyldren of Israell dedicated the house of the Lorde. And the same day the kynge halowed the myddle of the court ỹ is before the house of the lord: for there be offered burntofferinges & meate-offeringes & the fat of the peaceofferings, because ỹ brasen aultare that was before the Lord, was to lytle to receaue ỹ burntofferynges and meateofferynges and the fatt of the peaceofferinges.

And Salomon helde that same tyme
an hye feast and al Israell wythe hym, a mightie cõgregacõ, euen from the costes of Hemath vnto ỹ ryuer of Egipte, before the Lorde our God, seuẽ dayes & yet seuẽ dayes, ỹ is .xiiij. dayes. And the .viij. daye he sent ỹ people away. And they blessed ỹ kyng & went vnto their tẽtes ioyouse and glad in herte for al the goodnesse that the lord had shewed vnto Dauid his seruaũ te and to Israell his people.

vnto hym agayne, as he appered to hym
at Gabaon. And the Lord said vnto him:
I haue heard thy prayer and intercessiõ
ỹ thou madest before me, & haue halowed this house whiche thou haste bylte, to put my name there for euer & myne eyes and myne hert shalbe there perpetually. And ỹ seate of thy kyngdome vpon Israel for euer, as I promesed to Dauid thy father saying: * Thou shalt not be wout one of weede Israel out of the lãd which I haue geuen them. And this house which I haue halowed for my name, I wyll put out of my sight. And Israel shal be a prouerbe & a fable vnto al nacyõs. And his house whi che is so hye, * al ỹ passe by it shalbe asto-house, & Mello & the walles of Jerusalẽ, and Hezer, and Magedo, and Gazer.

For Pharao king of Egipt went vp & toke Gazer & burnt it with fyre, and slue
the Cananites ỹ dwelt in the cytie, & gaue
it for a present vnto his daughter ỹ was Salomons wyfe. And Salomon bylte Gazer and Beth Horon the nether: and Baalath and Thamar in the wildernes ỹ
is in the lande: & al the stoore cities ỹ Sa lomon had, & cyties for his charettes, & cities for his horsemen & al ỹ hys luste was to bylde in Jerusalẽ and Libanon & in al
the land of his kyngdome.

And all the people that were left of the Amorites, Hethites, Pherezites, Heuites
& Jebusites, which were not of the childrẽ of Israel, the children of the sayd nacyõs
that were lefte in the land, because the chil dren of Israell were not able to destroye them, dyd Salomõ make tributaries vn to thys daye. And of the chyldren of Israell dyd Salomon make no bondemen.
But they were men of warre and his seruaũtes and his lordes & Captaynes & ru lars of his charetz & of his horssemẽ. And these many lordes ỹ ouersawe the worcke
had Salomon, fyue hundred and fyftye, whiche ruled the people that wroughte in

And pharaos daughter came vp out of ỹ cittie of Dauid vntõ ỹ house which Sa-

Mello. And thryse a yere did salomõ offer burntofferinges & peaceofferinges vpon
the aultare which he had bilt vnto ỹ lord, to burne the fat therõ: which aultare is be fore the Lorde.

And when king Salomõ had made the house perfect, he made shippz in Aziõ Gaber which is beside Eloth, on the brinck of the red see, in the lãd of Edõ. And Hiram sent by shippe also of hys seruauntes, ẽ were shipmen & expert in the see, wyth the seruaũtes of Salomon. And they wẽt to Ophir & fet frõ thẽce gouldе, to ỹ summe of .xiiij. hundred & .xxij. talẽtes, & brought it to Salomon.

¶ The Quene of Saba cometh from the vttermost costes of the land to heare and se the wisdom of Sa lomõ. The yerly reuenues and rentes of Salomon. His throne, vesselles of gould, charettes, horsemen, and aboundaunce of syluer.

The .x. Chapter.

AND ỹ quene of Saba heard of the wysdome of Salomõ
cõcerning the name of the lor
de, and came to proue him wt ryddelles. And she came to Jerusalem wt a mighte great multitude of Camelles that bare swete odoures and gouldе exceadynge moche, and precyouse stones. And when she was come to Salo mõ, she comuned with him of al that was in her herte. And Salomon expounded her all her questiõs, that ther was not one thynge hydd from the kynge which he expounded her not.

And when the quene of Saba had sene
all Salomons wisdome & the house that he had bylt, & the meate of his table, & the syttinge of his seruauntes, & the stãdyng of hys seruytours & their apparel, & hys buttelers, and hys sacrifyce that he offered in the house of the lord, she was a ston-
ied. Then she sayd to the kyng: the word
I harde in mine owne lande of thy dedes and wisdom, is true. How be it I beleued it not, tyll I came and saw it wythe myne eyes. And se, the one halfe was not tolde me: for thy wysdome and goodnes exce-deth the fame which I harde. Happy are thy men: and happye are these thy seruaũ tes, which stande euer before the and heare thy wysdome. And blessed be the Lorde thy God whyche had a luste to the, to sett the on the seate of Israell, because the Lorde loued Israell for euer, and therefore made the kynge, to do enquyre and ryght wysnesse.

And she gaue the kynge an hundred &
xx. talentes of gouldе, & of swete odoures exceding moch, & precyouse stones. There came neuer after soche aboundaunce of swete odoures as ỹ Quene of Saba ga-ue to kyng Salomõ. And therto ỹ shippz of Hirã that brought gouldе frõ Ophir, brought from Ophir greate plentye of * Almuge tre & precyouse stones. And king Salomõ made of the Almuge trees pyl-lers in the house of ỹ Lord & in the kynges palace, & made harpes & psalteries for sin gers. There came no moare Almuge tree so, nor was any more sene vnto this day.
And kynge Salomon gaue vnto the Quene of Saba al her desyre that she asked of him: besides ỹ he gaue her wt hys

owne hande. And so she returned vnto her owne countreye wyth her seruauntes.

The weyght of gould that came to Salomon in one yere, was sixe hundred thre score .vi. talentes of gould, besides that he had of chapmē & of marchaūtes of Apothecaries, & of al the kinges of Arabie & of the Lordes of the coūtreye. And king Salomon made two hundred bouckelers of beaten gould, vi. C. sycles of gould wēte to a bouckelar. And he made thre. C. shyldes of beaten gould, thre pound of gould goyinge to a pece, and putt thē in the house of the wood of Libanon.

And the kyng made a great seate of Iuorye and couered it with precious gould And the seate had sixe steppes. And the toppe of thee Seate was rounde behynde hys backe wythe pomelles on ether syde on the place where he satte, and two lyons stāding besyde the pomelles. And ther stode .xii. lions on the steppes, syxe on a syde. Ther was none like sene in any kingdom And all kyng Salomons drinkinge vessels were of goulde, & al the vessels of the house of the wood of Libanon were of pure gould. And as for syluer it was nothig worthe in the dayes of Salomō. For thee see shyppes which the kinge had in the see wyth the shyppes of Hiram, came euerye thyrd yere laden wyth gould, syluer, Iuory, apes & peacockes. * And so king Salomon exceaded all the kynges of the erth in ryches & wisdom. And al the world resorted to Salomon, to heare hys wysdō, whiche god had put in his hart. And brought him euery man hys present, vessels of syluer and of gould, & of raymente, harnesse, swete odoures, horsses & Mules, yeare by yeare. And Salomon geathered together charettes and horssemen: so that he had a thousand and .iiii. hundred charettes, and xii. thousand horsseme, whych he bestowed in the charett cyties and wyth the kyng at Jerusalem.

* And the kyng made syluer in Jerusalem as plentcous as stones; and Cedar trees as plenteouse as the mulbery trees ye grow in the valeyes. And Salomons horsses came out of Egipt from Keua: The marchauntes fett thē from Keua at a pryce. A charet came out of Egipt for .vi. hundred sicles of syluer, & an horsse for an hundred and fyfftie. And euen so by the handes of the sayde marchauntes, horsses were brought out for all the kinges of the Hethites and for the kynges of Siria.

¶ Salomō hath seuē hundred quenes and thre hundred cōcubines, which bring hym to idolatry, his aduersaries rebel against him. He dieth. Iroboam his sonne raygneth in hys stede.

The .xi. Chapter.

But kinge Salomon loued many outlādish wemen: the daughter of Pharao: and of thee Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonites & Hethites, euen of naciōs of whych the Lorde sayde vnto the chyldren of Israell, se ye come not at thē nor let thē come to you: for surely they wil turne your hertes after theyr Goddes. Neuerthelesse to soche Salomō claue & fell in loue wyth them. * And he had seuen hundred * bery Quenes and thre hundred concubynes whych turned awaye hys hert. For whē Salomon was olde, hys wyues turned hys hert after other Gods: so that his hert was not perfect with the lord his god as was the hert of Dauid his father.

And Salomon folowed Astharoth the God of the Zidons, and Milcō the abhomination of the Ammonites. And Salomon wroughte wyckednesse in the syghte of the Lord & continued not after the lord as dyd Dauid hys father. After that Salomon bylt an aultar for Chamos the abhominatyon of the Moabites in thee hyll that standeth before Jerusalem, and vnto Moloch the abhomination of the chyldren of Ammon. And lykewyse dyd he for all hys outlandysche wyues which burnt sense and offered vnto theyr Gods. Then was the Lord angrye with Salomon because hys herte turned from thee Lorde God of Israell whych appered vnto him twyse, & gaue hym a charge of thys thinge that he shulde not folowe other Goddes. But he kept not that which the Lorde commaunded hym: where vpon thee Lorde sayde to Salomon: for as moche as thys is done of the, & thou hast not kepte myne apoyntment and myne ordynaunces whych I haue commaunded the, therfore I wyll rent the kingdom from the, and wyll geue it to thy seruaūt. Notwithstanding in thy dayes I wyl not doo it, because of Dauid thy father: but wyl take it frō thy sonne. Howbeit I wyll not take awaye all: But wyll geue one trybe to thy sōne, because of Dauid my seruaunt & because of Jerusalem wbych I haue chosen.

And the Lord stered vp an aduersarye vnto Salomon, one Hadad an Edomite and of the kinges lignage of Edom. For whē Dauid was in Edō, & Joab the captayne of ye hoste was gone vp to burie thē that were slayn: & had slayne al the mē chil dre in Edom. For .vi. monethes dyd Joab remaine ther & al Israel, tyl he had destroyed al the mē childrē in Edō. And thys Hadad fled & certē other Edomites of his fathers seruaūtes with him, to go to Egipte Hadad being yet a lytle lad. And they arose out of Madian & went to Pharan & token men wyth them out of Pharan and came to Egipt vnto Pharao kynge thereof, which gaue him an house, & apoynted him vitayles and gaue hym landes.

And Hadad gatte greate fauour in the syghte of Pharao, so that he gaue hym to wyfe the syster of his owne wyfe, ye syster of Thahaphnes the quene. And ye sister of Thahaphnes bare him Senubath his sōne. And Thahaphnes wened him in Pharaos house. And he was in Pharaos house amōg the sonnes of Pharao. And when Hadad heard say in Egipt ye Dauid was layd to slepe with his fathers, & that Joab the captayne of the host was dead also, he sayd to Pharao let me depart, ye I may go to myne owne coūtrey. Thē sayd Pharao vnto him: what lackest thou here with me, that thou woldest go to thyne owne countrey? And he sayd, nothing: howbeit let me go. And god stered vp another aduersary one Rezon the sonne of Eliada, which fled from Hadadezer king of Zobah his master. Which Rezon gethered mē vnto hym & became captayne ouer the cōpanie, when Dauid slue them. And they went to Damasco and dwelte therein, and raygned in Damasco. And he was an aduersarye too Israell all the dayes of Salomon, wythe the euell that Hadad dyd, whych abhorred Israell and raygned in Siria.

And Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat an Ephrathite of Zaredah (whose mother was called Zeruah & was a widowe & the Salomōs seruaūt) * lift vp his hand against the kyng. And hereof came it, that he lyfte vp his hand agaynst the king. Salomon bylt Melo & mended broke places in the citie of Dauid his father. And this felowe Jeroboā was an actiue mā. And whē Salomon saw the younge man, ye he wrought so lustely in the worke, he made hym ruler ouer al the charges of the house of Joseph And it chaūced at ye season, as Jeroboam was gone out of Jerusalē, that ye prophet Ahiah the Silonite met him by the waye, hauing a new mantel on him, & they twoo alone in the felde. And Ahiah caughte the new mātel that was on him & rente it in twelue peces, & said to Jeroboā: take thee .x. peces. For thys sayth ye Lord god of Israel: behold, I wyll rent the kingdō out of ye handes of Salomō & wyl geue ten trybes to the, & he shal haue one, for my seruaunt Dauids sake & for Jerusalē the citie whyche I haue chosen out of al the trybes of Israel: because they haue forsake me, and haue bowed them selues vnto Astharothe the God of the Zidons, & to Camos ye god of the Moabites, and to Milcom the god of the chyldren of Ammon, and haue not walked in my wayes, to doo that pleaseth me, and myne ordinaunces and costumes as dyd Dauid hys father.

Howbeit I wyl take none of the kingdom out of his hande: but wyl make hym chefe al hys lyfe longe, for Dauid my seruātes sake, which I chose: because he kept my cōmaundementes & ordinaūces. But I wyl take the kingdom out of hys sōnes hand & wyl geue vnto the ten trybes of it: and wyl geue hys sonne one, that Dauid my seruaunt may haue a lyght alway before me in Jerusalē, the cytie whych I haue chosen me, to put my name there. And I wyll take the, & thou shalt raygne vpon all that thy soule desyreth, & shalt be kyng ouer Israell. And yf thou shalt herken vnto all that I cōmaunde the, & shalt walke in my wayes and do that is ryght in my syghte, that thou kepe myne ordinaunces & commaundementes as Dauid my seruaunt dyd: thē wyl I be wyth the & bylde the an house that shal cōtinew, as I bylte for my seruaunt Dauid, & wyl geue Israell vnto the. And therwyth wyl I vexe the

the sede of Dauid, but not for euer.

And Salomon sought to kyll Jeroboam wherfore Jeroboā arose & fled vnto Egipte vnto Sesak kynge of Egipte and continued there vntyll the death of Salomon. And the reste of the Actes of Salomon and all that he dyd, and hys wysdom are wrytten in the * Boke of the Actes of Salomon. And the tyme that Salomon raygned in Jerusalē vpon al Jsrael, was fourtie yeare. And thē he layed him to rest wyth his fathers, & was buried in the citie of Dauid hys father, and Rehoboam his sonne raygned in hys stede.

¶ The kingdom is deuyded: and Rehoboam raygneth ouer iij. tribes, and Jeroboam ouer x. Abiram is stoned. Jeroboam maketh goulden calues.

The. xii. Chapter.

A And Rehoboam went to Sichē: for all Jsraell were come to Sichē to make him king. And whē Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat heard of it being yet in Egipte: for he fled to Egipt for feare of Salomon, and dwelt in Egipt. And they sent and called him: and so Jeroboam and al the congregation of Jsrael came & spake vnto Rehoboam saying: thy father made oure youcke greuouse, but now make thou the greuouse seruice of thy father and hys sore youcke which he put vpō vs lyghter, & so we wyl serue the. And he sayd vnto them: depart yet for the space of thre dayes, and then come agayne to me. And the people departed.

And kyng Rehoboā toke councel wyth the olde men that stode before Salomon his father, while he yet lyued, & said: what counsel geue ye to āswere thys people with B al? And they sayd vnto him: Yf thou shalt be a seruaunt vnto thys people thys daye and serue thē and answer thē & speake kinde wordes to thē: they wyl be thy seruauntes for euer. But he left the councel that the olde men had geuē hym, & counceled with the young men that were nourished vp wyth hym, & had wayted on hym.

And he sayd vnto thē: what counsel geue ye, to answere this people withal which haue cōmuned with me saying: make the youcke which thy father dyd put vpō vs lyghter? And the younge men that were brought vp with him answered hym saynge this people that haue sayd vnto the: thy father made oure youcke heuye, make thou it vs lighter: thus answere thē. My C little finger shalbe wayghtier then my fathers loynes. And nowe where my father put a greuouse youcke vpon you, I wyll make it heuyer. For where my father corrected you wyth scourges, I wyl chastyse you with scorpions. And whē Jeroboam & al the people were come to Rehoboā the thyrde day, as the king apoynted thē, saynge: come to me agayne this day thre dayes: the king āswered the people churlishly & left the aduise that olde men gaue him: & spake to thē after the counsel of the younge mē saying. My father made your youc D ke greuouse, but I wyl make it greuouser. For where my father chastised you wyth whippes, I wyl chastise you with scorpions. And so the king herkened not vnto the people: for the turning a waye was of the Lord, * to perfourme hys sayinge, whych 3. Reg. xi. the Lord sayd by Ahiah the Silonite vnto Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat.

And whē al Jsrael saw that the kynge regarded thē not, the people answered the kyng agayne saying: we haue no parte in Dauid, nor enheritaūce in the sonne of Jesai. * To your tentes therfore Jsrael, and 2. Par. x. nowe se to thyne owne house Dauid. And so Jsrael departed vnto their tētes. Howbeit ouer the chyldren of Jsrael which dwelt in the citie of Juda, dyd Rehoboā raygne styl. Thē kinge Rehoboam sent Aduram the receauer of the tribute. And al Jsrael stoned him to death with stones. But kinge Rehoboā made spede & gatt him vp to E hys charet & fled to Jerusalē. And so Jsrael departed frō the house of Dauid vntyl this daye. And whē al Jsrael heard the Jeroboā was come agayne, they sent & called hym vnto the congregatiō and made him kyng ouer Jsrael: so ther folowed the house of Dauid, but the tribe of Juda onely * And when Rehoboam was come to Je- 2. Par. xi. rusalem, he geathered all the house of Juda and the tribe of Ben Jamin an hūdred and foure skore thousandes of chosen mē and good warryoures, to fyghte agaynst the house of Jsrael: and to bringe the kyn kyngdom agayne to Rehoboam the sōne of Salomon.

Then came the word of the Lord vnto Semeiah the man of God saying: speake F vnto Rehoboam thee sonne of Salomon kynge of Juda, and vnto all the house of Juda and Ben Jamin, and the remnaunt of the people and saye. Thus sayth the lorde: go not nor yet fyght agaynst your brethren the chyldren of Jsraell, but returne euery man to hys house, for this doynge is of the Lord. And they obeyed the word of the Lord and returned and departed according to the worde of the Lord. Thē Jeroboam bylt Sichem in mount Ephraim and dwelt therein. And wente from thence and bylte Phanuel.

And Jeroboam thought in his hert: now might thee kingdō returne to the house of Dauid agayn. For yf thys people shal go vp & do sacrifice in the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem, then shal theyr hertes turne agayne vnto theyr Lord Rehoboam king of Juda. And so shal they kyl me and goo agayne to Rehoboam kinge of Juda. * Wher vpō the kinge toke councel & made Gen. 28. two calues of gould & sayd vnto the people: ye shal not nede to go any more to Jerusalē. Behold your Gods Jsrael whych brought you oute of the lande of Egipte. G And he put the one in Bethel and the other in Dan. And that doynge was a cause of synne. And the people went before the one as farre as Dan. And he made houses of hill aultars, and made of the lowest of the people preestes which were not of the sonnes of Leui. And Jeroboam made a feast the xv. daye of the. viii. moneth, lyke vnto the feast that was in Juda, and offered on the aultare. And so dyd he in Bethell, to offer vnto the calues that he had made. And he put in Bethell the preestes of the hyll aultars, which he had made. And he offred vpon the aultare whych he had made in Bethel, the. xv. daye of the. viii. moneth, whyche he hadd ymagened of hys owne herte: and made a solempne feast vnto the chyldren of Jsrael, and wente vp to the aultar to burne sacrifice.

¶ Jeroboam sacrifyng vnto Calues is reprehended of the Prophet. His hād drieth vp whyche putteth it out against the Prophete. The Prophete is spyled and buryed.

The. xiii. Chapter.

A And behold, there came a man of God out of Juda with the worde of God, to Bethell, as Jeroboā stode by the aultare to offer, & cried agaynst the aultare at the cōmaundemēt of the Lord and sayd: aultar, aultar, thus sayth the Lorde: Behold a childe shalbe borne of the house of Dauid, Josiah by name, whych vppon the shall offer the preestes of the hyll aultars that sacrifyce vpon the, & shall burne mennes bones vpon the. And he gaue thē the same tyme a signe sayinge: thys is the sygne of that the Lord hath promysed. Behold the aultar shall rente and the asshes that are in it shall falle out.

And when the kynge heard the sayinge of the man of God which he cryed a- B gaynste the aultar in Bethell, he stretched out hys hande from thee aultare sayinge: holde hym. And hys hande whych he putte forth towarde hym, dryed vp, that he could not pull it in agayne to hym & the aulter claue and the asshes ranne oute of the aultare accordinge to the token whych the man of God had geuen at the commaūdement of the Lord. And the king answered and sayd vnto the man of God: Oh pray vnto the Lord thy God & make intercessiō for me, that my hande maye be restored me agayne. And the mā of God besought the Lorde, and hys hande came to hym agayne as well as before.

Thē sayd the king vnto the man of God: come home with me & refresshe thy selfe, & I wyl geue the a reward. But the man of God answered the kyng, yf thou woldest geue me halfe thyne house, I wolde not go with thē nether wold I eate meate or drinke water in thys place. For so was it charged me, C thorow the word of God & said to me: eate no bread nor drinke water nor turne agayne by the same waye thou wenteste. And so he wet another way & returned not by the waye he came to Bethel. And ther dwelte an olde Prophet in Bethel, whose sonnes came & tolde hym all the workes that the mā of God had done that day in Bethell, & the wordes which he spake vnto the king they tolde theyr father also. And their father sayd to thē: what way wēt he? for hys sonnes had sene what way the mā of god went whyche came from Juda. Thē sayd

he to his sones: sadle mine Asse. And they sadled hym an Asse. And he gat him vppe theron and went after the man of god, and found him sytting vnder an Oke & sayd vnto him: art thou the man of god that camest frō Juda? And he sayd: yee.

D Then he sayd to him: come home wyth me & eate bread. And the other said agayn I may not returne with the, to go with the nether may I eate bread or drincke water wyth the in thys place. For it was sayd to me by the cōmaundemēt of the Lord, eate noo bread nor drincke water in thys place, nor turne agayne by the waye thou wentest. And the olde Prophet sayd vnto him I am a prophet as well as thou, & an Angel spake vnto me wyth the worde of thee Lord saying: bring hym agayne wyth the to thyne house, and let him eate bread and drinke water. & yet lyed vnto him. And so the other went agayne wyth hym and ate bread in hys house and dranke water.

E And as they sate at the table, the worde of the Lorde came vnto the Prophet that brought him agayne. And he cryed vnto ỹ man of God that came frō Juda, saying: thus saith the Lord: because thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the Lorde, & hast not kept the cōmaūdemēt which the Lord thy God cōmaunded the, but camest backe agayne & hast eaten bread & drōke water in ỹ place in whych he bade that thou shuldest eate noo bread nor drincke water: therfore thy carkasse shal not come vnto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

And whē he had eaten bread & drōke, he sadled an Asse for the Prophete whych he had brought againe. And as he iourneyed a Lyon met him by the waye & slue hym, & hys carkasse laye a long in the waye & the Asse stode therby, & the Lyon stode by the coorse also. And men that passed by, sawe F the carkasse caste a longe in the waye and thee Lyon standinge thereby, and wente and tolde it in thee Towne where the olde prophet dwelte. And when the prophete ỹ brought him backe agayne frō the waye, heard therof, he sayd: it is the mā of God whic disobeyed ỹ mouth of ỹ Lord. And therfore ỹ lord hath deliuered hym vnto ỹ Lion which hath rent him & slayne him, according to the worde of the Lord, whych he sayd to him. And he sayd to hys sonnes sadle me an Asse: & so they did. And he wēt & found the body cast along in the waye & the Asse & the Lyon standing therby. And ỹ Lyon had not eaten the carkasse nor burte the Asse. And he toke vp the body of ỹ mā G of God & putt it vpon the Asse & brought it agayne, & came to the cytie of the old prophete to lamente hym, and too burye hym. And he layde his body in hys owne graue and lameted ouer him, Oh my brother. * Understād saying: And when he had burted him, he spake to hys sonnes sayinge: when I am dead, se ỹ e burye me in thee sepulchre wherein thee man of god is burted, & laye my bones by hys. For the saying whiche he cryed at the bydding of the Lord agaynst the aultare in Bethel, & agaynst all the houses of hyll aultares which are in the cyties of Samarie, shal come to passe.

Howbeit for al that, Jeroboam turned not frō his wicked way: but turned away and made of the lowest of the people prestes of the hyllaultares. Whosoeuer wold he fylled theyr handes, & they became prestes of the hyllaultares. And thys doyng was synne vnto thee house of Jeroboam, euē to destrope it and to put it away frō of the face of the earth.

¶ Jeroboams wyfe asketh cōsell of Ahiah the prophet, which prophesieth vnto her ỹ death of her child & the destructiō of al the kyngdome. Jeroboam dyeth. Sesak king of Egipt robbeth the house of ỹ Lorde Rehoboam dyeth and Abiam succedeth him.

The. xiiij. Chapter.

AT that tyme Abiah the sonne of Jeroboam fell sycke. And Jeroboā sayd vnto his wyfe vp a felowship & chaūge thyne apparel ỹ thou be not knowen to be the wife of Jeroboam, & get the to Silo. For ther is Ahiah the Prophete whych tolde me * that I shuld be kynge ii. Reg. xi. ouer thys people. * And take wyth the ten ii. Reg. viii. loaues and crackneles and a cruse of honye, and go to him: for he wyl tel the what shall come of the ladde. And Jeroboams wyfe dyd so: she arose and went to Silo and came to the house of Ahiah. But Ahiah coulde not see, for hys eyes were waxen dymme for age.

And the Lord sayd vnto Ahiah: behold the wyfe of Jeroboā cometh, to question wyth the about her sonne whych is sycke. This wyfe & this wyfe answere her. And when

B when she came, she feyned her self to be an other woman. But whē Ahiah heard the sounde of her fete as she came to the doze he sayd: come in ỹ wyfe of Jeroboam, why feynest thou thy selfe to be another? I am sent to the a cruel messenger.

Go & tel Jeroboam, thus sayth the lord God of Israel: for as moche as I exalted the from among the comen people & made the prince ouer my people Israel, and dyd rent the kingdom away from the house of Dauid & gaue it the: & thou hast not bene as was my seruaunte Dauid, which kept my cōmaūdemētes & folowed me with all his herte, to doo that onelye whych seemeth right in myne eyes: but hast done euel aboue al that were before the, and hast gone & made the other Gods & ymages of metall to prouoke me, & hast cast me behynde thy C backe: therfore beholde I wyl bynge euel vpon the house of Jeroboam and wil stryke frō Jeroboam al that * pisseth agaynst Vetus ad. d. the wall, & what soeuer is in prison or forsaken in Israel, and wyl take away the rēnaunt of the house of Jeroboam, as men take away a dong hyll, tyll it be cōsumed

Vltra d. & and. f. * And whosoeuer of Jeroboams house dye in the towne, hym shal the dogges eat and hym that dyeth in the felde, shall thee fowles of the ayre eate: for the Lord hath sayd it, by & get the to thine house, and as D sone as thy fote entereth the cytie, the ladd shall dye. Howbeit al Israel shal mourne hym and burye hym, for thys onely of all Jeroboam shall come to the sepulchre, because in hym there is founde goodnesse to warde the Lord God of Israel in the house of Jeroboam.

Moreouer the Lord shal stere hym vp a king ouer Israel which shal destrope the house of Jeroboam in that day. And what is that, that is now in hād? And the Lord shal smyte Israel, as a rede that groweth in the water is shaken, & wyll wede Israell oute of this good lande whych he gaue to their fathers, & wyll skatter thē beyounde Euphrates, because they haue made them groues to angre the Lord. And he wyl geue Israell vp, because of the synne of Jeroboam wherwith he dyd synne and made Israel synne therto.

And Jeroboās wyfe arose & departed E and went to Thersah, and be that she was come to the treshold of the doze, the ladd was dead. And al Israel burye hym & lamented hym, according to the worde of ỹ Lorde whych he spake by the hand of hys seruaunt Ahiah the Prophet. And the rest of the deedes of Jeroboam, how he warred and how he raygned, are written in the boke of the stozyes of the Kynges of Israell And the dayes which Jeroboam raygned were twentie and two yeare. And thē he rested wyth his fathers, and Nadab his sonne raygned in hys steade.

And Rehoboam the sonne of Salomō F raygned in Juda and was. xlii. yeare olde when he beganne to raygne, and raygned xvii. yeare in Jerusalem the cytye whyche the Lorde had chosen oute of al the tribes of Israel, to put hys name there. Hys mothers name was Naamah an Ammonite. * And Juda wrought wyckednesse in the syght of the Lord and angred hym aboue al that theyr fathers dyd, with theyr synne which they synned. For they also made thē hyll aultares & Images & groues on euerye hye hyll & vnder euery grene tree. And therto ther was a stues of * malechyldren Rab Salo readeth whores in the lande, & they dyd accozding to al the abhominations of the nations whych the G Lord cast out before the childrē of Israel And the fyfte yere of king Rehoboā came Sesak king of Egipte vp to Jerusalem, and toke away the treasure of the house of the Lord, & the treasure of the kinges house and al that was to be had. And he toke away the shyldes of gould * which Salo- iii. Reg. x. mon made. In whose steade kynge Rehoboam made brasen shyldes & putt them in the kepinge of the captaynes of the garde whyche wayted at the doze of the Kynges house. And as ofte as the kinge went into the house of the Lorde, they of hys garde bare them, and euer brought them agayne into the garde chamber.

The rest of the Actes of Kyng Rehoboam & al he dyd, are wrytten in the boke of the Actes of the Kinges of Juda. And there was warre betwene Rehoboam and Jeroboam all theyr lyues. And Rehoboam layde hym to rest wyth hys fathers, & was burped wyth hys fathers in the cytie of Dauid. And hys mothers name was Naamah an Ammonite. And Abiam hys sonne raygned in hys rowme.

¶ Wicked Abiam raygneth ouer Juda, & rightwes Asa succedeth in his rowme. The battel betwen Asa and Baasa. Iehosaphat succedeth Asa. Nadab succedeth Ieroboam. Baasa killeth Nadab.

The.xv. Chapter.

c. Ma. xiiij. a

THe.xviij. yere of kinge Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, rayg ned kyng Abiā ouer Juda, & ruled thre yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Maacah the daughter of Abesalō. And he walked in al the synnes of his father which he dyd before him, & his herte was not whole with the Lord his god, as the hert of Dauid his father. Neuertheles for Dauids sake did ỳ Lord his God geue him a light in Jerusalē, that he set vp hys sonne after hym, to continewe Jerusalē. Because that Dauid did that which pleased the Lord & turned frō nothinge that he commaunded hym all the dayes of hys lyfe, * saue onely in the matter of Vrias the Hethite. And
xi. Reg. xxii. a. B ther was warre betwene Rehoboam & Jeroboam as longe as he lyued. And the rest of the dedes of Abiam & al that he dyd, are writtē in the boke of the dedes ỳ were done in the dayes of the kinges of Juda. And ther was warre betwene Abiam & Jeroboam. And Abiam rested with his fathers, & they buried him in ỳ cytie of Dauid. And Asa hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

The.xx. yere of Jeroboā king of Israel began Asa to raygne ouer Juda, & ruled in Jerusalē. xli. yere. And his mothers name was Maacah the daughter of Abesalom. And Asa dyd that semed right in the eyes of the Lord, lyke Dauid hys father. And he made the stues of males depart the land, & put away al the Idolles that hys fathers had made. And therto he put downe Maacah his a mother frō berīg rule, C because she had made an Idol in a groue. And Asa destroyed her Idol & burnt it by the broke Cedron. But he putt not downe the hyl aulters. Neuertheles Asas harte was whole with ỳ Lord al his dayes. And he brought in that his father had dedicat, and the thinges dedicat vnto the house of the Lord, siluer, golde, and Jewelles. And there was warre betwene Asa and Baasa kyng of Israel al theyr dayes.

And Baasa king of Israel went vp against Juda & buylt Ramah, because ỳ he wold let none of Asas people king of Juda, go in or out, The Asa toke al the siluer & gould that was lefte in the treasure of ỳ D house of the Lord, & all the treasure of the kinges house & delyuered it vnto hys seruauntes, & sent thē to Benhadad the sōne of Tabzemon the sonne of Hezion kynge of Siria that dwelt at Damasco, saying: ther is a bend betwene the & me as was betwene thy father & myne. Therfore I send the both gold & syluer for a gift, that thou go & breake the appoyntmēte betwene the and Baasa king of Israel, that he maye E parte from me. And Benhadad herkened vnto kyng Asa and sent the captaynes of the hostes whych he had agaynst the cytyes of Israel, and smote Ahion, Dan, Abel called Beth Maacah & al Cenereth wyth all the lande of Nephthali. And when Baasa heardē that, he lefte buyldinge of Ramah and dwelte in Therzah. Then kynge Asa made a proclamacyon throwow out al Juda, that none should be excused. And they toke the stones of Ramah & the tymber wherwyth Baasa hadde buylt, & kyng Asa bylte therewyth Gabaah in Ben Jamin and Maspha.

And the remnaūt of al the dedes of Asa and of al his mighte & of all that he dyd, & the cyties whych he bylt, are writtē in the chronicles of the actes done in ỳ dayes of the kinges of Juda. Neuertheles later in his F olde age he was diseased in hys fete. And Asa laide him to rest with his fathers, and was buryed vi hys fathers in the cytie of Dauid his father. And Iehosaphat hys sōne raigned in his rowme. And Nadab ỳ sōne of Jeroboā began to raygne vpō Israel the second yere of Asa king of Juda, & raygned vpon Israell two yere. And he dyd euel in the sight of the Lord & walked in the waye of his father and in hys synne wherwith he made Israel synne. But Baasa the sonne of Ahiah of the house of Issacar cōspired against him, & slue him at Gebethō a citie of ỳ Philistines for Nadab & all Israell laye at seage before Gebethon. And it was the thyrd yere of Asa kinge of G Juda, whē Baasa slue him, & raygned in his stede. And as sone as he was kyng, he slue al the house of Jeroboam & left hym naught that brethed, vntil he had put him cleane out, agreing vnto the saying of the Lorde whyche he spake by hys seruaunte Ahiah

Ahiah the Silonite, for the sinne of Jeroboā whervi he synned & made Israel sinne, and for hys angering wherwyth he angred the Lorde God of Israel.

The rest of the deades of Nadab, and al he dyd, are writtē in the chronycles of the kinges of Israel. And ther was warre betwene Asa and Baasa kynge of Israel al their dayes.

In the thirde yere of Asa kyng of Juda, Baasa the sonne of Ahiah beganne to raigne ouer al Israel in Therzah, & cōtynewed. xxiiij. yere. And he dyd that whych displeased the lord, for he walked in ỳ way of Jeroboam and in his synne wherwyth he made Israel synne.

The Notes.

a Mother, for grādmother as Dauid is often called father of thē, to whō he was grādfather: as Zephora Moses wife calleth Raguel father, which yet was her grandfather Exod. iiij.

¶ Jehu prophecieth against Baasa, of whom he is slaine. Elah succedeth Baasa, Zamri killeth hys master Elah, & destroyeth the house of Baasa. He is resisted and Amri chose Zamri burneth hym selfe and his house. Wicked Ahab succedeth Amri, & taketh to wyfe Iezabell.

The.xvi. Chapter.

A THen came the word of the lord to Jehu the sonne of Hanani against Baasa saying: for as much as I exalted the out of the dust & made ỳ captaine ouer my people Israel, and thou hast walked in the waie of Jeroboam and hast made my people Israel sinne, to angre me vi their synne: Therfore I wil make cleane riddance of Baasa & of al his house, & wil make his house like the house of Jeroboā
iij. Reg. xxi. & xxij. F ỳ sōne of Nabat. * And he ỳ dyeth of Baasa in ỳ citie, him shal dogges eate: and him ỳ dieth in the feldes, shal the fowles of the B ayre eate.

The rest of the deades of Baasa, and what he dyd, and his power, are writtē in the boke of the histories of the kynges of Israel. And Baasa fell on slepe wyth hys fathers & was buried in Therzah. And Elah hys sonne raygned in hys steade. And therto throwow the Prophet Jehu the sonne of Hanani, the worde of the Lord came agaynste Baasa and agaynste hys house, because of all the wyckednesse that he dyd in the sight of the Lord, in angerying him with ỳ workes of his handes, that he shulde be lyke the house of Jeroboam, because he dad killed Nadab.

The.xvi. yere of Asa king of Juda be C gāne Elah ỳ sonne of Baasa to raigne ouer Israel in Therzah, and cōtynued two yere. And hys seruaūt Zāri captayne of halfe hys charettes, cōspired agaynst him, as he was in Therzah drinkinge of strōg drinck, in the house of Arza stuard of hys house in Therzah. And Zamri came and smote hym & killed hym the.xxvii. yere of Asa kinge of Juda, & raygned in his stede. And as sone as he was kinge * slat on 4 Reg. vi. b. & 3 Reg. xvi. b. hys seate, he slue all the house of Baasa & lefte not a pisser agaynst a wall.

And therto he slue all his kynne & frendes, and so Zamri destroyed all the house of Baasa, accordyng to the woorde of the Lord whyche he spake to Baasa throwe Jehu the Prophet, for al ỳ sinnes of Baasa & synnes of Elah hys sonne, wherwyth they sined & made Israel sinne, to angre ỳ Lord of Israel vi their vanities. The rest of the deades of Elah & al he did, are writtē in the chronycles of the kynges of Israel.

The.xxvii. yere of Asa kyng of Juda, Zamri raygned. vii. dayes in Therzah, ỳ people besegynge Gebethon a citie of the Philistines. And when the people that lay D in the seage, heard saye how Zamri had conspired, and how he had slayne the king also: then all Israell made Amri the captayne of the men of warre kynge ỳ same daye ouer Israel euen in the hoste. And Amri departed from Gebethon and al Israell wythe hym, and beseaged Therzah. And when Zamri saw that the citie must nedes be take, he went into the palayse of the kynges house, and set the kynges house a fyre vpon hym selfe and there dyed, for hys synnes whyche he synned in doynge wyckednesse in the sight of the Lord, and for walking in the way of Jeroboam and in hys synnes which he dyd and made Israell synne.

The rest of the Actes of Zamri & the treason that he wroughte, are wrytten in the boke of the chronycles of the kynges of Israell. Moreouer that same ceason was Israel deuyded in twayne, for halfe the people folowed Thebni the sōne of Gineth, to make hym kynge. And the other halfe folowed Amri. But ỳ people that folowed Amri, preuayled agaynste thē that folowed Thebni the sōne of Gineth. And so so Thebni dyed and Amri raygned.

The.xxxi.yere of Asa kynge of Juda, beganne Amri to raygne ouer Israel.xii. yere & he ruled.vi.yere in Therzah. And he bought the hill of Samaria of one Semar for two hundred talentes of syluer, & bylt in the hyll, and called the name of the citte whych he had built Samaria after ỹ name of Semar ỹ Lord of ỹ hil. And this Amri wrought wyckednesse in the eyes of the Lorde worse then al that were before him, and walked in al ỹ wayes of Jeroboam the sone of Nabat, & in hys sinne wher with he made Israel sinne, to angre ỹ lorde god of Israel wyth their vanities. The rest of the actes of Amri which he did, and his power that he shed, ar writte in ỹ chronicles of ỹ kynges of Israell. And Amri laid him to rest with his fathers, and was buryed in Samaria, and Ahab his sonne raygned in his stede.

The.xxx viii.yere of Asa kynge of Juda, beganne Ahab the sone of Amri to raigne ouer Israel, and raygned in Samaria.xxii.yere. And he displeased the Lorde aboue all ỹ were before him. For it semed hym a light thing to walke in the sinne of Jeroboam. But toke Jezabell ỹ daughter of Ethbaal kinge of the Sidonites to wife, and * wēt & serued Baal and bowed vnto him. And he rered an aultar to Baal in the house of Baal whych he had made in Samaria. And Ahab made a groue, & proceded ferther in angerynge the Lorde God of Israel, then all the kynges of Israel that were before hym.

In his daies Hiel of bethel bilt Jericho. And it * cost him Amrā his eldest sōne whē he layd the foūdacion, and hys youngeste sōne whē he set vp ỹ gates, agreing vnto the word of the lorde whyche he spake by Josua the sonne of Nun.

¶ Elias is nourished and fed of Raues, and after is send to the woman of Sarephtha whose child he rayseth to lyfe.

The.xvii.Chapter.

AND Eliah the Thesbite why che was of the enhabiters of galaad, said vnto Ahab: * as truly as the lord god of Israel liueth, before whome I stāde, there shalbe nether dewe nor raine these yeres, saue as I appoynt it.

And ỹ word of god came to him saying: gett the hence & turne the estwarde, & hyde thy self in the brooke Karith that lyeth before Jordan: dynck of the ryuer for I haue cōmaunded the raeus to fede the ther. And he went and dyd accordyng vnto the worde of the Lorde: he went & dwelte by ỹ brooke Karith that lyethe before Jordan. And the raeus brought hym bred & flesh euery morynge and euery euenynge, and he dranke of the broke. And it chaūced after a while that ỹ brooke dried vp, because ther fell no raine vpon the erth. Thē came the worde of the Lorde vnto him sayinge: * vp and gett the to Sarephtha a citie of Sidon, & dwell there. Beholde I haue cōmaūded a wydow ther to sustayne ỹ. And he arose & wēt to Sarephtha. And whē he came to ỹ gate of the citie, there was a wedow there geatherynge stickes. And he called to her and sayde: * fet me I pray the, a litle water in a dyche that I maye drincke. And as she went to fett it, he cryed to her & sayde: bringe me I praye the, a morsel of bred in thine hand. And she answered: as surely as the Lorde thy God liueth, I haue no bred, but euen an handful of Mele in a pitcher, and a litle Oyle i a cruse. And se, I haue geathered a fewe stickes for to go and bake it for me and my sonne, that we may eate it and then dye.

And Eliah said vnto her: feare not, but go and do as thou hast sayd: but make me therof a lyttle cake fyrst of al, and bring it out to me: and after warde make for the & thy sonne. For thus saith the Lord god of Israel: ỹ pitcher of Mele shall not be wasted nether shal thy oyle cruse be wyth out oyle, vntyll the Lord haue sent rayne vpō ỹ erth. And she wēt and did as Eliah bad. And she & he & her house did eate a good space, & the pitcher of Mele wasted not nether was the oyle cruse without oyle accordyng to ỹ word of ỹ lorde whych he spake thorowe Eliah.

And after these thinges, it happened ỹ the sonne of the wife of ỹ house fell sicke. And his sickenesse was so sore, ỹ there was no breath left in him. Then sayd she vnto Eliah what haue I to do withe ỹ, O thou man of God: art thou come vnto me, that my sinne shuld be thought on & my sonne slayne: And Eliah said vnto her: geue my thy sōne. And he toke him out of her lappe and carped him vp into a loft wher he lay, & layde hym vpon hys owne bed, and called vnto the Lorde and sayd: O Lord my God, hast thou bene so euell vnto the wedow wyth whome I sotourne, ỹ thou hast slayne her sonne: * And he stretched him self vpon the lad thre times, and called vnto the Lord and sayde: O Lord my God, let the laddes soule come into him againe. And the Lorde heard the voice of Eliah, & the soule of ỹ lad came into him agayne & he reuyued. And Eliah toke the boye and brought him downe out of the chambre in to the house and delyuered hym vnto hys mother and sayd: se, thy sonne lyueth. The the wyfe sayd to Eliah: now I know that thou arte Gods man, and that the worde of the Lorde in thy mouth, is truthe.

¶ Eliah is sēd to Ahab. Abdiah hydeth an hundred Prophetes and saueth them. Baal can not heare although the people crie very loude. Eliah killeth al Baals Prophetes: and after obtayneth rayne.

The.xviii.Chapter.

AND at the last ỹ word of the Lorde came to Eliah ỹ third yere sayinge: go shew thy self vnto Ahab, that I maye sende raine vpon the erthe. And Eliah wēt to shew him self vnto Ahab, for ther was a great famyshment in Samaria. Wherfore Ahab called Abdiah ỹ gouerner of his house: whych Abdiah feared God greatlye: in so moche that when Jezabell destroyed the Prophetes of the lorde, he toke an hundred of the Prophetes and hid them, fiftie in one caue & fiftye in a nother, & prouided bred & water for thē. And Ahab saide vnto Abdiah: walke thorowe the land, vnto all fountaynes of water and vnto all brokes, to se whether anye grasse may be found, ỹ we may saue the horses & the Mules, that we destroye not the beastes. And they deuyded the lande betwene them to walke thorow it. Ahab wente one waye by hym selfe, and Abdiah went another by hym selfe.

And it chaunced as Abdiah wēte in the way, ỹ Eliah met hym. And Abdiah knew him & fell on his face and sayde: art not ỹ my Lord Eliah. And he sayd vnto him: I am he. Go & tell Ahab that Eliah is here. And the other answered: what haue I sinned, ỹ thou woldest delyuer me into ỹ hād of Ahab, to slay me: As surly as the Lord thy God lyueth there is no nacyō or kingdome, whether my Lord hath not sente, to seke the. And when they sayde thou waste not there, he tooke an othe of ỹ kyngdome and nacyon, because he foūd the not. And now thou sayest: goo tel thy Lorde, Eliah is here. And as sone as I am gone from the, the spryte of ỹ Lord shall carye the away whether I shall not knowe: and then when I haue gone and tolde Ahab, & then he can not fynde the, he shall slay me. And yet I thy seruaunte haue feared the lorde from my young age. Was it not tolde my lorde, what I dyd, when Jezabell slue the prophetes of the lord how I hidde an hundred of ỹ Lordes Prophetes, fiftie in one caue and as many in another, & prouyded them of bred & water: And yet now thou saiest, goo shew thy Lord, ỹ Eliah is here, that he shulde slepe me.

Then Eliah sayde: as truly as the lord of Hostes liueth, before whome I stande: I wyll shew my selfe vnto hym this day. And then vpon Abdiah wēte to Ahab and tolde hym. And Ahab wente agaynst Eliah. And whē Ahab saw Eliah, he said vnto him: art thou he that troubleth Israel: And he sayde: it is not I that trouble Israel, but thou & thy fathers house, in that ye haue forsaken the cōmaundemētes of the Lord, & hast folowed Baal. But now sende and geather to me all Israell vnto moūt Carmel & ỹ prophetes of Baal .iiii. hundred and fyftie, & the Prophetes of ỹ groues foure hundred, whiche eate of Jezabels table. And Ahab sent for al ỹ children of Israel, and gethered ỹ Prophetes vnto mount Carmel.

And Eliah came vnto all the people & sayde: why halte ye betwene two opynyons: If the Lorde be verye God, folowe hym: or yf Baal be he thē folow him. And the people answered him not one woorde. Then sayde Eliah vnto the people: I only remaine of the lordes Prophetes, & Baals Prophetes are foure hūdred and fyftye. Let two oxen be geuen vs, and let thē chose the one and cut him in peces and lay hym on wood, & put no fyre vnder. And I wyl dresse the other and put him on wood, and wyl put no fyre vnder. And call ye on the name of youre god, and I wyll cal on the name of the Lorde. And then the God that

To forsake the cōmaundemētes of God is to trouble the people of god that ānswereth by fyre, he is the very god.

*And al the people sayd: it is wel spo-
E ken. Then sayd Eliah vnto the Prophe-
Lee.fo.e.ii.c tes of Baall, chose you an ore and dresse hym fyrst (for ye are many) and cal on the name of your god, but put no fyre vndre.
And they toke the ore ꝑ was geuē them ꝛ dressed it, ꝛ called on ꝑ name of Baal frō mornyng to none sayinge: O Baal heare
vs. But ther was no voyce nor answere.
And they lepte aboute ꝑ aulter ꝑ they had made. And at none Eliah mocked thē and sayde: call lowde (for he is a god: but he is talking or occupied, or in the way, or hap-pely he slepeth) that he may awake. And F they cried lowde, and cutt them selues, as their maner was, with knives ꝛ launcers, tyll the bloud folowed on them. And whē myddaye was passed, they prophesied vn tyll it was tyme to offer. But there was neither voyce ner answere ner any that regarded them.
Thē Eliah sayd to all ꝑ folke: come to me. And all ꝑ people came to hym. And he mended the aulter of ꝑ Lorde ꝑ was broken. *And he toke .xii. stones accordynge Josu.iiii.a to the nombre of the .xii. trībes of the sonnes of Jacob, vnto whom the word of the gen.xxxii.f lord came sayinge: *Israel shalbe thy name. And with ꝑ stones he made an aultar in the name of the Lorde. And he made a gutter rounde about the aulter able to recaue two peckes of corne. And he put the wood in order, and hewed the ore in pe-ces, and put hym on the wood, ꝛ sayd: fyl foure pitchers wyth water and powre it on ꝑ sacrifice and on ꝑ wood. And he sayede: do so agayne. And they did so againe.
Then he sayd: do it the thyrde tyme. And they did so the thirde tyme. And the water

Jehu And whē offering tyme was come, Eli ah the prophete went to ꝛ saide: Lord god of Abraham, Isaac ꝛ of Israell, lett it be knowē thys daye, that thou art the god in Israel, ꝛ ꝑ I am thy seruāt, ꝛ that I do al
these thinges at thy cōmaundement. Hea re me O Lorde, heare me, that this people may know, that thou Lord, arte ꝑ God, ꝛ
ꝑ thou hast turned their hertes backwar-
de. And there fell fire from the Lord ꝛ cō-G sumed the sacrifice and the wood and the stones and the dust, and lycked vp the wa ter that was in the gutter. And whē al the people saw that, they fell on their faces ꝛ sayde the Lord he is God, the Lorde he is God. Then sayd Eliah vnto thē, lay han des on the Prophetes of Baal, let not one of them escape. And when they had taken thē, Eliah broughte them downe vnto the brooke Kison, and slue them there.
Thē Eliah said vnto Ahab, get the vp and eate ꝛ drynke, for ther is a sound of moch raine. And whē Ahab wēt vp to ea-te ꝛ to drynck, Eliah wēt vp to the toppe of mount Carmel. *And bowed him self xl. Re. xviii and said: there is nothyng. And he sayd go agayne. vii. tymes. And the seuenth tyme

he sayd: beholde, there aryseth a lytle cloude
out of the see, lyke the palme of a mans hande. Then he sayd: go and saye to Ahab, put the hosses in the charet, ꝛ gett the downe that ꝑ rayne stoppe ꝑ not. And wīn a litle whyle, heuen was blacke wyth cloudes and wind, ꝛ ther was a great rai-
ne. And Ahab rode ꝛ wente to Jezrahell.
And ꝑ hād of the lord was on Eliah, ꝛ he girded vp his loines ꝛ rāne before Ahab, tyll they came to Jezrahel.

¶ Eliah fleinge from Jezabel is nourished of ꝑ Angel of God. He complayneth that he is left a lone. ꝛ ꝑ they seke his life to. He is cōmāded to annointe Israhel, Jehu and Eliseus.

The. xix. Chapter.

AND Ahab tolde Jezabell, all I
ꝑ Eliah had done, and altoge ther how he had slaine ꝑ prophetes with the sword. Then Jezabel sent a messenger vnto Eliah sayinge: *so do God to me ꝛ so iii. Reg. xx therto, except I make thy soule like one of thetres by to morowe thys tyme: when he saw ꝑ, he arose ꝛ went for his life, ꝛ came to Bersabe in Juda, ꝛ lefte his lad there.
And he went a dayes Journey into ꝑ wil-dernesse, and whē he was come sat downe
vnder a Ginaper tree, and desired for hys soule, that he myght die, ꝛ said, *it is now Jona. iiii. a ynough O lorde, take my soule, for I am not better then my fathers.
And as he lay and slept vnder the Ginaper tree: beholde, ther came an angell ꝛ touched him, ꝛ saide vnto him: vp ꝛ eate.

And he looked aboute hym: and se, there was a loffe of bioyled breade and a cruse of water at his heed. And he ate and dracke and layde hym downe againe to slepe.
And the Angel of the Lord came againe ꝑ seconde tyme and touched him, ꝛ said: vp and eate, for thou hast a long Journey to go. And he arose ꝛ dyd eate ꝛ dyrnck and went in the strength of that meate fourtie dayes and fourtie nightes, vnto Horeb ꝑ mount of God, ꝛ entered ther into a caue
and lodged ther all nyght.
And then ꝑ woord of the Lorde came to him ꝛ sayde what doest thou here, Eliah?
And he answered: I haue bene *exthorow angry for ꝑ lord god of Hostes sake. For the chyldren of Israel haue forsake thy co
uenāte, ꝛ haue broke downe thine aulters
ꝛ slayne the Prophetes with the swerde, ꝛ
I only am lefte, ꝛ they seke my soule to haue it too. And he said come out ꝛ stād be fore the Lorde. And beholde, the lord wēte G by ꝛ a mightie strōge wynde that rent the mountaynes ꝛ brake ꝑ rockes before hym.
But ꝑ Lord was not in the wynd. And af ter the wind came an erth quake. But the Lord was not in the erthe quake. And after the erthe quake, came fire: but the lord was not in the fyre. And after ꝑ fyre, came a small still voyce. And when Eliah hear-de it, he coured his face with his mantle, ꝛ went out ꝛ stode in the mouthe of ꝑ caue.
And se, there came a voyce vnto hym and saide: what doest thou here Eliah? And he answered: I was gelouse for the lord god of Hostes sake: because ꝑ childrē of Israel haue forsaken thyne appountment and haue cast downe thyne aulters and slayne thy prophetes with ꝑ swerde, ꝛ I only am lefte, ꝛ they seke my soule to haue it. Then ꝑ Lord sayde vnto him: go and turne thy way to the wildernes of Damasco, ꝛ go ꝛ
annoynte Hazaell to be kynge of Siria.
And Jehu the sonne of Namsi, annoynte to be kynge ouer Israel. And Elizeus the D sonne of Saphat of Abell Mehulah annoynte to be Prophete in thy rowme. And whoso escapeth ꝑ swerd of Hazael, hi shal Jehu slaie: ꝛ yf any man scape the swerde of Jehu, hym shal Elizeus slaie. And ther to I haue lefte me seuē thousād in Israel,
of which neuer man bowed his knees vn-
to ‡Baal nor kissed him with his mouth.
And he departed thence and found Eli zeus the sonne of Saphat plowyng with twelue yock of oxen before him, and he ꝧ
the twelue. And Eliah wēte to him ꝛ caste his mātell vpon him. And he lefte the orē ꝛ ranne after Eliah ꝛ sayde: let me I pray
the, kysse my father ꝛ mother, ꝛ thē I will folow the. And he sayde to hym: go backe agayne, for what haue I done to ꝑ? And he went backe againe from after him and toke a yocke of oxen and slue them, ꝛ dressed the flesshe with the instrumentes of the oxen and gaue it the people, and they dyd eate. And then he arose and went after Eliah and ministred vnto him.

¶ The first and second time that Samaria was be sieged of Benhadad kyng of Siria.

The. xx. Chapter.

AND Benhadad kyng of Syria geathered all hys hoste to I gether, and .xxxii. kynges ꝧ
hym, wyth horse and charett:
and went vp and beseged Samaria and warred agaynst it. And he sent messengers to Ahab kinge of Israell into the cytye, and sayde vnto hym: thus sayth Benhadad. Thy syluer and thy gould is mine, ꝛ the best of thy wiues and the best of thy chyldrē be myne. And ꝑ kin ge of Israel answered and sayde: my lord king according to thy saying, I am thine
wyth all I haue.
And the messengers came againe to A hab and sayde: thus sayth Benhadad. I haue therfore sent vnto the, sayinge: dely-uer me then thy syluer and thy gould, and thy wiues, ꝛ thy chyldren. Or elle I wyll sende my seruauntes vnto the by to mo-row this time: ꝛ they shal serch thine house, ꝛ ꝑ houses of thy seruaūtes, which shal
take all that is glorious in thyne eyes, and bringe it awaye withe them. Then the kinge of Israell sent the elders of the land and sayde: take hede I pray you ꝛ se, howe

how thys felowe goeth aboute mysche-
ue. For he sent vnto me, for my wyues & my childzen, and my syluer and my goulde: & I denyed hym nothynge of it.
And all the elders of Israel & all the people sayd: herken not to him nor consent.

Wherupon he sayde vnto the messengers of Benhadad: tel my Lord the king
all that he sent for the fyrste tyme, that I wyll do: but this requeste I maye not do.
And the messengers departed & broughte
hym woorde. Then Benhadad sent vnto him and said: thus do the gods to me & so therto, yf ỹ dust of Samaria be ynoughe
for al the people that folow me, that euery man maye haue an handefull. And the kyng of Israel answered and sayde: tell him, let not him that putteth he on hys harnesse bost him self, as he ỹ putteth it of*.
And when Benhadad hearde that tydynges, as he and the kinges were drynking
in ỹ paupliõs, he sayde vnto hys seruau-tes: put ye in arap. And they put them sel-ues in arate agaynst the cytye.

Understãd after the victory obtayned.

And behold there came a Prophet vnto Ahab kig of Israel, & said to him: thus saith the Lorde. Seyst thou al this great multitude? behold, I wyl deliuer thẽ into thyne hãd this day, that thou mayst know yt I am the Lorde. And Ahab sayd, by whome? And he sayd thus sayth the lord:
euẽ by the men of the gouernours of the shires. And Ahab sayd: who shal ioyne ba tayle? And he sayd, thou. Then he nõbred
the men of the gouerners of the shyres: & they were two hundred. & xxxii. And after thẽ he nombred all the people, and all the chyldren of Israell were seuen thousand.
And they went out at none whẽ Behadad
was a dryncking strõg drincke in the pauplliõs wyth the xxxii. kinges that holpe
hym. And the mẽ of the shyres of ỹ shires went out fyrste.

And Benhadab sẽt out, & they shewed
him saying: there came mẽ out of Samaria. And he sayd: yf they come out for pea ce, take thẽ a lyue. And also yf they come for warre, take them yet alyue. And when those mẽ of the shyres of the shires were come out of ỹ cytie and ỹ host after them, they slue euery one of them hys mã. And the Syriens fled, and Israel folowed after them. And Behadad the kynge of Syria scaped on a horsse wyth his horsemen.
And the kynge of Israel went out & smote horsse and charett, & slue a great slaugh ter of the Syrians.

Thẽ ther came a Prophet to the kinge
of Israel, and said to him: go forth & play
the man, be wise and take hede what thou doest: for whẽ the yere is about, the kynge
of Syria will come agaynste the agayne.
Then sayd the seruauntes of the kynges
of Syria to him: the goddes of the hylles are their Gods, and therfore they had the better of vs. But let vs fyght with them in the playne, & for what ye wyll, we shall haue the better of them. And this do: take ỹ kiges away euery mã out of hys place, & put dukes in therrowmes. And do ỹ nõ dre ỹ an host, lyke ỹ hoste ỹ thou hast lost, & horse for horse & charette for charette, &
let vs fight võ thẽ in ỹ plaine, & for a wa ger, we get ỹ better of thẽ. And ỹ king her kened vnto their voyce and dyd euen so.

And as sone as the yere was about, Bẽ hadad nõbred ỹ Syriens & went vp to Aphek to warre vp Israel. And the chyldren of Israel were nombred & prouided of vi
tayle, & went against thẽ, & pitched before them lyke two lytle flockes of kiddes: but the Syrians fylled the countreye. Then there came a man of God & sayde vnto ỹ kyng of Israell thus sayth the Lord. Be cause the Syriens say, ỹ the Lord is but a God of the hilles, & not God of ỹ valeyes to: therfore will I delyuer all thys greate multitude into thyne hand ỹ ye may knowe ỹ I am the lord. And they pytched one ouer against ỹ other. vii. dayes, and the se uenth daye ioyned batayle. And the childrẽ of Israel slue of the Syrians an hundred thousãd fote mẽ in one daye. And the rest fled to Aphek into the citie. And ther fel a wall vpõ. xxvii. thousãd of thẽ that were left. And Benhadad fled & went into ỹ ci-tie, from chambre to chambre.

Then sayd his seruauntes vnto hym:
behold, we haue hearde saye, that the kinges of the house of Israel are mercyeful kynges. Let vs put sack cloth aboute our loines & ropes about our heedes, & go out to ỹ king of Israel: happly he wyl saue thy lyfe. And they gurded sack clothe about their loines & put ropes about their heedes, & went out to the kynge of Israel
and & sayd: thy seruaunte Benhadad sayth,

I praye the let me lyue. And he sayd: is he yet a lyue? what he is my brother. And they toke the word for good lucke and hastelye caught it out of hys mouth & sayd yee thy brother Benhadad. Then he sayd: go and bryng hym. And Benhadad came out to hym, and the other toke hym vp into the charett. And Benhadad sayde: the cytyes whych my father toke from thy father, I wyll restore agayne. And thou shalt make streates for the in Damasco, as my father dyd in Samaria. And I wyll make an apoyntment wyth the and sent the awaye.
And so made an appoyntment wythe him
and sent hym awaye.

Then a certen man of the chyldren of ỹ Prophetes sayde vnto hys felowe wythe
the worde of the Lord, smyte me I praye
the. And the mã wold not smite him. And he sayde, because thou hast not obeyed the voyce of the Lorde: beholde, as sone as ỹ art departed from me a lyon shal slay the.
And as sone as he was departed frõ him,
*a Lyon found him and slue him. Thẽ he founde a nother man & saide to him: smite me I pray ỹ. And ỹ man gaue him a good stripe & wounded him. And ỹ prophete wẽt forthe & wayted for the kyng by the waye & put asshes vpõ his eyes, & put him selfe out of knowledge. And when the kynge came by, he cried vnto him & sayd, thy ser-uaunt wẽt out in the middes of the battel.
And se, ther was one beganne to flee. And there came a man to me & sayde: kepe thys mã. And if he be missed thy life shalgo for hys, or else thou shalt paye a talente of syluer. And as thy seruaunt had here & there to do, he was gone. And the kyng of Israel said vnto him: euẽ so shal thy iudgemẽt
be as thou haste defined it thy selfe.

Wisedõe

And he hasted & toke the asshes awaye
from his eies: & the kinge of Israel knew him, that he was of the prophetes. And he sayd vnto the kinge, thus saith the Lorde:
because thou hast lett go a mã that ought to haue dyed, thy lyfe shal go for hys life, & thy people for his. And the king of Isra el wente to his house wayarde & heuie, &
entred into Samaria.

Jesabel cõmaundeth to kyl Naboth, for ỹ vineyard that he refused to sell Ahab. Helias reproueth Ahab, and he repenteth.

The. xxi. Chapter.

After these thinges were done,
it chaunced that Naboth the Jezrahelite had a vyneyarde
in Jezrahel hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samari
a. And Ahab spake vnto Naboth saying:
lett me haue thy vyneyarde, to make me a gardẽ of yerbes therof, because it lyeth so nye my house: and I wyll geue the a better vyneyard for it: or yf it playse ỹ I wyl geue the, ỹ worth of it in syluer. But Na-both saide to Ahab: the lord forbidde that from me, ỹ I shulde geue the enheritaũce
of my fathers vnto the.

Then wẽt Ahab vnto hys house wayward and curl apaide, because of the wor-
des which Naboth ỹ Jezrahelite had spo ken to him saying: I wyll not geue to the,
the enheritaũce of my fathers. And he lai-de hym downe vpon hys bed & turned a waye hys face, and wolde eate no meate.
And then Jezabel his wyfe came to hym, & sayde vnto him: why art thou so frow ard de, that thou eatest no meate? And he sayd vnto her, I spake vnto Naboth ỹ Jezrahe lite, & sayd vnto him: geue me thy vineyar
de for syluer, or else yf thou wylte, I wyll geue the another vyneyarde for it. And he sayde: I wyl not geue the my vyneyarde.

Thẽ sayd Jezabel hys wife vnto him:
what a goodly kyngdome wher thou able to make in Israel? vp & eate meate & lette thine hert at rest, for I wil geue ỹ the vine yarde of Naboth the Jezrahelite. And she wrote a letter in Ahabs name and sealed it wh his seale, & sẽt it vnto the elders & theke men of hys cytie that dwelt whet Naboth dwelte. And she wrote in the letter sayng:
proclayme fastynge and sette Naboth on hye among the people, and set two vnthrifte tes before hym, and let thẽ testifie against hym sayinge: thou dydest curse bothe god and the kynge. And vpon that carye hym out and stone hym to deeth.

And ỹ elders & nobles of his citie, why-che dwelt in his citie, did as Jezabel had se te vnto thẽ, & as it was writtẽ in the letter which she had sent vnto them. They proclaimed fasting, & sett Naboth an hie amõ
ge the people, & ther came in two vnthryf-tie persones & sate before hym. And ỹ two vnthriftie persones witnessed agaist Na-both before ỹ people sayinge Naboth did curse God and the king. * And vpō ꝑ they caried him out of the citie ꝛ stoned him vō stones to deeth. And then they sente to Iezabel sayinge: Naboth is stoned to deethe. And when Iezabell hearde that Naboth was stoned to deeth: she sayd to Ahab: vp and take possessyō of the vyneyard of Naboth, the Iezahelite, which he denied to geue the for syluer, for Naboth is not a lyue, but deed. And when Ahab heard that Naboth was deed. He stode vp to go down to the vyneyard of Naboth the Iezrahelite, to take possession of it.

And ꝑ word of ꝑ lord came vnto Eliah ꝑ Thesbite saying: vp ꝛ go downe to mete Ahab kyng of Israel which is in Samaria Beholde, he is in the vyneyarde of Naboth: for he is gone downe thyther, to take possessyon of it. And saye vnto hym: thus sayth the Lord, thou haste killed ꝛ thereto gotte possessyon. And saye moreouer vnto him, thus sayth the Lord: in ꝑ place where dogges lapped the bloud of Naboth, shal dogges lapp euen thy bloud also. And Ahab said to Eliah: hast thou foūd me thine enemye at any tyme? And he sayde yee, because thou art vtterly geuen to worck wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde. Beholde, I wil bryng euel vpon the, ꝛ wil make cleane riddance of the, ꝛ wil destroye vnto Ahab all ꝑ pysseth agaynst the walle, and yf ought be preserued or forsaken in Israel: ꝛ will make thine house, lyke the house of Ieroboam the sonne of Nabat, ꝛ lyke the house of Baasa ꝑ sonne of Ahiah, for the angeryng wherwyth thou hast angered, and made Israel synne.

And therto against Iezabel came ꝑ worde of the Lord sayinge: dogges shall eate Iezabel, vnder the * walles of Iezrahell. And he ꝑ dyeth of Ahab in the towne, him shall dogges eate: and he that dyeth in the feldes, him shal the foules of the ayre eat. For ther was none at all like Ahab, ꝑ was so vtterly geuē to woorcke wickednesse in the sight of the Lorde and that because Iezabel his wyfe prycked him forward. And therfore he dyd exceding abhominably, in folowing Idoles, in al thinges like as did the Ammonites which ꝑ Lord cast out before the children of Israel.

When Ahab hearde those wordes, * he rent his clothes ꝛ put sackecloth about his flesshe and fasted, and laye in sack and wet cōfortlesse. And the word of the lord came to Eliah the Thesbite sayinge: seyste thou how Ahab humbleth him selfe before me: because he so submytteth hym selfe before me, I wyl not bringe that euel in his dayes: but in his sonnes dayes, I wyll bringe euel vpon his house.

¶ Foure hundreth false Prophetes do cōsel Ahab and Iehosaphat to warre against Ramoth: only Micheah prophesyeth the truthe, for which he is smitē and put in prison.

The. xxii. Chapter.

And they contynued thre yere wythout warre betwene Siria and Israel. * And ꝑ third yere Iehosaphat kyng of Iuda, came to the kynge of Israel. Then sayd the kynge of Israel vnto his seruauntes, know ye not that Ramoth in Galaad is ours, and we sytt stylle and take it not oute of the handes of the kyng of Siria? And he sayd vnto Iehosaphat: wylte thou go with me to batayle, to Ramoth in Galaad? And Iehosaphat sayde vnto the kynge of Israel: * I will be as thou art, ꝛ my people shal be as thine, and my horsses as thyne.

And Iehosaphat sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: aske councell I praye the of the Lord to daye. And then the kynge of Israel geathered of the prophetes together, vpon a foure hundred men, and sayde vnto them: shal I go to Ramoth in Galaad to batayle, or be still? And they sayd, go: for ꝑ Lord shall delyuer it into the handes of ꝑ kynge. And Iehosaphat sayd: is there neuer a Prophet of the Lordes here moare, that we myght enquyre of him? And ꝑ kinge of Israel sayde to Iehosaphat: there is yet one, by whome we maye aske councell of the Lord, one Micheah the sonne of Ielah. But I hate hym: for he neuer prophesyeth good vnto me, but euell. And Iehosaphat sayde: let not the kyng say so. Then the kyng of Israel called vnto one of his chamberlaynes and saide: fett Micheah ꝑ sonne of Iemlah hyther atonce.

And the kynge of Israell and Iehosaphat the kynge of Iuda satte ether in hys seat and their apparell on them, in a voide place beside the entring of the gate of Samaria, ꝛ all the Prophetes prophesyenge before them. And Zedekiah the sonne of Canaanah

Canaanah made hornes of yron ꝛ sayde: thus sayth the Lord: wyth these hornes ꝑ shalt wynowe the Sirians vntyl thou haue made an ende of them. And all the Prophetes prophesyed euen so, sayinge: go to Ramoth in Galaad and prosper, for thee LORDE shall delyuer it into the handes of the kynge.

And the messenger that was gone to cal Micheah, sayd vnto him: se, the wordes of the prophetes speake good vnto the kyng with one voyce: let thy wordes I pray the be lyke the wordes of one of them, ꝛ speake that is good. And Micheah sayd: as surely as the Lorde lyueth, what the Lorde putteth in my mouthe, that wyll I speake And when he was come to the kynge, the kynge sayde too hym: Micheah, shall we go to Ramoth in Galaad to batail, or shal we be styl? And he sayde vnto hym: * go ꝛ prosper, the Lorde delyuer it into the handes of the kynge. And the kinge sayd vnto hym, how often shall I adiure the, that thou tell me nothinge but truth, in the name of the Lorde?

Thē he sayd I saw al Israel scattered vpō the hylles, as shepe that haue no shepardes. And the Lord sayd: those haue no mayster, let thē returne, euery man to hys house in peace. Thē sayd the kyng of Israel to Iehosaphat: dyd I not tell the, that he wolde prophesye no good vnto me, but euel? And Micheah sayd: here therfore the word of the Lord. I saw the Lord sytt on hys seate ꝛ al hys companion of heaue stōdinge about him, on his ryghte hand ꝛ on hys left. And the Lord sayd: * who shal deceaue Ahab that he may go ꝛ be slayne at Ramoth in Galaad? and one sayd on thys maner ꝛ another on that. Thē came forth a spryte and stode before the Lord ꝛ sayde I wyll deceaue hym. And the Lord sayd: wherewyth? And he sayde: I wyll go oute and be a false spyrte in the mouthes of all his Prophetes. And the Lord sayde, thou shalt deceaue him ꝛ also preuayle go forth and do euen so. Nowe therfore beholde, the Lorde hath putte a lyinge spyrte in the mouthe of all these thy Prophetes: when in verye dede the Lorde hathe spoken euel towarde the.

Thē Sedechiah the sōne of Canaanah wente to ꝛ smote Micheah on the cheke, ꝛ sayd: how is the spyrte of the Lorde gone from me, to speake to the? And Micheah sayd: behold, thou shalt se in that day, whē thou shalte go frō chambre to chambre to hyde the. And the king of Israel sayd: take Micheah and carye hym backe agayne vnto Amō the gouernour of the cytie, and vnto Joab the kynges sonne, ꝛ saye: thus sayth the kynge. Put ye this felow in the preson house and fede hym wyth bread ꝛ water straytlye, vntyll I returne in peace Then Micheah sayde, yf thou come safe agayne, the Lorde hathe not spoken in me And he sayde moreouer, herken to ye people euery one of you.

And so the kynge of Israel ꝛ Iehosaphat the king of Iuda wēt vp to Ramoth in Galaad. And the king of Israel said to Iehosaphat * chaūge the ꝛ get the to warre: but put on thyne owne apparell. And ꝑ kynge of Israel chaunged hym selfe, and went to battell also. But the kyng of Siria had cōmaunded the captaynes of hys charettes of whych he had. xxxii. sayinge: fyght nether wyth small or greate, saue vō the kynge of Israell onely. And when the captaynes of the charettes sawe Iehosaphat, they thought he had bene the kynge of Israel, and therfore turned to hym too fyght. But Iehosaphat cryed oute. And when the captaynes of the charettes sawe that he was not the kynge of Israell, they turned backe from hym.

And a certen man drew a bowe * ignorantly and smote the kynge of Israel betwene the rybbes of his harnesse. Wherfore the kinge sayde vnto the dryuer of hys charet, turne thy hand and carye me out of the host, for I am hurte. And the battel encreased that daye, ꝛ the kyng continued in his charet before the Sirians, and died at euē. And the bloud ranne out of the woūd into the botome of the charet. And ther wēt a proclamation throw out the hoste after the sunne was downe sayinge: euery man to hys cytie ꝛ to hys owne countrey. And when the kynge of Israel was dead, they came to Samaria and buried hym there. And whyle they washed the charett in the pole of Samaria, the dogges licked vppe hys bloude, and harlottes washed him accordyng vnto the worde of the Lord whiche he spake.

The rest of the dedes of Ahab, & all he dyd, & the Iuozye house which he made, & the cyties that he buylte, are wzitten in the boke of the chronicles of the kinges of Israel. And whē Ahab was layd to rest with his fathers, Ohoziah hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

Iehosaphat the sonne of Asa began to raygne vpō Iuda, ỹ fourth yere of Ahab king of Israel, & was .xxv. yere olde whē he began to raygne and raigned .xxv. yere in Ierusalē. And hys mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Salahi. And he walked in al the wayes of Asa hys father & bowed not therfrō. But did ỹ was right in the eyes of the Lozd. Onely he dyd not put the hylaulters out of the waye: for the people offred & burnt theyr sacrifices yet, in the hyllaulters. And he had peace wyth the kyng of Israell.

G And the reste of thee dedes of Iehosaphat, and the might that he vsed, and how he warred, are wzytten in the Boke of thee Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda. And the remnaūt of the stues of the males, why che remayned in thee dayes of hys father, he put cleane out of the lande. There was then no kinge in Edom, the kyng was but a debyte. And Iehosaphat made shyppes in the see, to goo to Ophir for goulde, but they went not: for the shippes brake at Azion Gaber. Then sayde Ohoziah the sonne of Ahab vnto Iehosaphat: let my seruauntes go wyth thyne in the shyppes. But Iehosaphat wold not. And Iehosaphat layde hym to slepe wyth his fathers, & was buried wythe hys fathers in the citte of Dauid his father. And Iehoram hys sonne raygned in hys rowme.

¶ Ohoziah falleth & is hurt & aske counsel of Beelzebub wbych way he may come by health. The captaynes ouer fiftis with the theyr soudiares are burnte with fyre frō heauen, by the prayer of Helias. Ohoziah is reproued of Helias, and dieth, & Iehoram his brother succedeth hym.

The fyrst Chapter.

Ohoziah the sonne of Ahab began to raygne vpō Israel in Samaria, the .xvij. yere of Iehosaphat kinge of Iuda, and was kynge ouer Israell two yeare, and dyd euel in the syght of the Lozde, and walked in the waye of hys father and in the waye of his mother, and in the waye of Ieroboam thee sonne of Nabat wbyche made Israell synne. And he serued Baal and bowed hym selfe to him and angred the Lozde God of Israell, in all thynge, as dyd hys father. And ỹ Moabites rebelled agaynst Israell after thee death of Ahab.

And Ohoziah fel thozow a lattese window out of an vpper chābze that he had in Samaria, & fel sycke. Thē he sent messengers saynge vnto thē: go and enquyze of ✠ Beelzebub the God of Akaron, whether I shall recouer of thys dysease. But the Angell of the Lozde spake too Eliah thee Thesbite, vp and go agaynst the messengers of the kyng of Samaria & say vnto them: Is it because there is no God in Israell, that ye go to aske thozow Beelzebub the God of Akaron. Therfoze thus sayth the Lozd: thou shalte not come downe frō the bed on wbych thou arte gone vpp, but shalt die. And Eliah departed.

And the messengers turned back agayn vnto him. And he said vnto thē: why are ye thus come agayne? And they sayde vnto hym there came a man agaynst vs & sayd vnto vs: goo and turne agayne vnto the king that sent you, & say vnto him. Thus sayth ỹ lozd. Is it because ther is no God in Israel, that thou sendest to enquire thozow Beelzebub ỹ God of Akarō? Therfo re thou shalte not come downe frō the bed on wbyche thou arte gone vppe, but shalt surelye surely die. And he sayd to thē: what maner a man was that which met you & told you these wozdes? And they sayd vnto hym: it was an hearty mā & gyrde wyth a gyrdle of a skinne about his loynes. And he said vnto them: it is Eliah the Thesbite.

Thē the king sent vnto him a captayne ouer fyftie wō his fyftie. And whē the captayne was come to him, behold: he sat on ỹ toppe of an hyl. And the captayne said vnto him: man of God, the King biddeth the come downe. And Eliah answered & sayd to the captayne ouer ỹ fyftie: yf I be a mā of God, fyze come downe frō heauē & consume the & thy fyftie. * And ther came fire downe frō heauē & deuoured him and his fyftie. And the king wēt agayne & sent to hym another captayne ouer .l. wyth hys .l. which answered & said vnto him: O māof God, thus sayth ỹ king make haste & come downe. And Eliah answered & sayd vnto thē: yf I be a mā of God, thē let fyze come downe frō heauē & cōsume the & thy fiftie And there came fyze downe frō heauē and consumed hym and hys fyftie.

And the king sent agayne the thyrd captayne ouer fiftie. And when the thyrd captayne ouer fyftie was come vp too him, he fel on his knees befoze Eliah & besoughte him & sayd vnto him: Oh mā of God, lett my lyfe & the life of these fiftie thy seruaūtes be precious in thy syght. Behold ther came fyze downe frō heauē & burnt vp the two foze captaynes ouer fyftie with theyr fyfties. But let my lyfe nowe be precious in thy syght. Then sayde the angell of the Lozd vnto Eliah: goo downe with him, & be not afrayd of him. And he went downe wyth hym vnto the kynge.

And he sayd vnto the king, thus sayth ỹ Lozd: for as moch as thou sentest messengers to aske thozowe Beelzebub the God of Akarō, as though ther had ben no God in Israel to aske thozow his wozd: therfo re thou shalt not come of the bed on wbich thou art ascēded, but shalt surelydye. And so he died according to the wozd of ỹ Lozd which Eliah spake. & Iehoram was made king in his stede, ỹ second yere of Iehoram sone of Iehosaphat king of Iuda, because he had no sonne. The reste of thee dedes of Ohoziah which he dyd, are wzittē in the chronicles of the kynges of Israell.

The .ii. Chapter.

And it chaūced whē the Lozde wold take vp Eliah to heaue in a whozlewind, that Eliah & Eliseus were goying frō Galgal. And Eliah sayd to Eliseus, tarye here I praye thee, for thee Lozde hath sent me to Bethel. But Eliseus said: *as surely as the Lozd lyueth, and as thy soule liueth, I wyl not leaue the. And whē they came to Bethel, the chyldrē of the prophetes that were at Bethell came oute to Eliseus & sayd to hym: knowest thou not how that the Lozd wil take away thy master frō the this daye? And he sayd, I knowe it to, holde your peace. ✠ 1. Re. xxvi. b.

Thē said Eliah to Eliseus: tary heare a fewhyle, for the Lozd hath sent me to Iericho. And he sayd: as surely as the lozd lyueth, & as surely as thy soule liueth, I wil not leaue the, and so they went to Iericho. And the chyldrē of the Prophetes ỹ were at Iericho came to Eliseus and sayd vnto hym: art thou not ware that ỹ Lozde wyl take away thy master frō ỹ this day? And he ānswered: I know it also, hold your peace. And Eliah sayd to him: tary I praye the here, for the Lozde hath sent me to Iordān. But he sayd: as surely as the Lozd lyueth and as thy soule lyueth, I wyl not leaue ỹ And so they went both of them to geather. And fyftie men of the sonnes of the Prophetes went & stode in syght a farre of, as they two stode by Iordan.

And thē Eliah toke his mātel & wzapte it together & smote the water, and it deuided it selfe, parte the one waye & parte the other, & they two wēt ouer on the dzye lād And as sone as they were ouer, Eliah sayde to Eliseus, aske what I shal do for the yer I be take awaye frō the. And Eliseus sayd: let me I praye the, haue thy spyryte *double in me. And he said: thou hast asked an harde thinge. Neuertheles yf thou se me whē I am taken away frō the, thou shalt haue it so: yf thou do not, it shall not be. And as they went walking & talkinge and talking: behold, ther came a charett of fyre & hosses of fyre & put them a sondre.

C And Elias went vp in the whosle wynd to heauen. And Eliseus sawe & cried: O my father, O my father, the charett of Israell and the hosl mē therof, & saw him nomore and therfore toke hys owne clothes & rent them in two peces.

And thē he toke vp the mantell of Elias that fell frō hym, & wente backe agayne & stode by Iordās syde, & toke the mantel of Elias that fell frō hym, & smote the water and sayd: wher is the Lord God of Elias where is he? And when he had smitē ỹ water it deuided part this waye & part ỹ way and Eliseus went ouer. And the chyldren of the Prophetes of Jericho whych sawe hym frō a farre, sayde: the spyryte of Elias doth reste on Eliseus, and wente agaynst hym & bowed to the earth vnto hym. And they sayde vnto hym: se, there be amonge thy seruaūtes fyfty lusty men: let thē go and seke thy master: happely the spyrte of the Lorde hath taken hym vp & caste hym vpon some mountayne or in some valeye. And he sayde: sende not. Neuertheles they laye vpon him, tyll he was ashamed, and sayd: sende, and they sente fyfty men which sought him thre dayes & thre nightes, but founde him not. And they came agayne to him, for he taried at Jericho. And he sayde to them, dyd I not saye vnto you that ye shulde not go.
Thē the mē of Jericho said to Eliseus behold the citie standeth pleasantly as my Lorde seyth, but the water is naught and the ground barē. And he sayd: bring me a newe cruse and put salte therein. And they brought it to hym. And he wente vnto the spryng of the water & cast the salt in thyther, & sayd thus sayth the Lorde: I heale thys water, ther shall not come hencefoorth ether death or barennesse. And the water was helthsome euer after accordyng to the saying of Eliseus whych he spake.

And he went frō thence vp to Bethell. And as he was goyng vp in the way, ther came lytle laddes out of the citie and mocked him, and said to him: go vp thou bald head, goo vp thou bald head. And he turned backe and looked on them and cursed them in the name of the Lorde. ✠ And ther came two Beares oute of the wood and tare .xlii. of the boyes. And he wente from thence to mount Carmel, and from thence went agayne to Samaria.

C The kinges of Israel Juda & Edom lack water, whē they shuld fyghte agaynst Moab: whyche they obtayne through ỹ prayer of Eliseus. The kinge of Moab leseth the fylde & after sacrificeth hys sonne.

The .iii. Chapter.

Iehoram the sōne of Ahabbegā to raygne vpō Israel in Samaria the .xviii. yere of Iehosaphat king of Juda, & cōtinued .xii. yere. And he wrought that was euel in the syght of the Lord but not lyke hys father or hys mother, for he put awaye the ymage of Baal that his father had made: Neuertheles he contynued in the synne of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat whych made Israell synne: and shronke not therfrom.

And Mesa king of Moab whych was riche of shepe (& was wont to render vnto the king of Israel an hūdred thousand lābes & as many rāmes with the wolle) rebelled againste the kinge of Israell after the death of Ahab. And king Iehoram wēt out of Samaria the same season, & nōbred al Israel. And thē wēt & sent to Iehosaphat king of Juda sayinge: the king of Moab hath rebelled againste me, wilt thou go wt me agaynst the Moabites to battell? And he sayd: I wyl go, & wyll be as thou, & my people shalbe as thyne, and my horses as thyne. And he sayd: what way shal we go? And the other answered: the waye thorow B the wyldernesse of Edom.

And ỹ king of Israel toke his iourneye with the king of Juda & the king of Edō And whē they had cōpased the way seuen dayes, ther was no water for the hoste nor for the cattel that they had with thē. Then sayd the king of Israel: Alas, the Lorde hathe called togeather these thre kynges to delyuer thē into the handes of the Moabites. But Iehosaphat sayde: is there here heare no prophete of the Lordes, that we may enquire of the Lord by him? And one of the kyng of Israels seruaūtes answered and sayde: here is Eliseus ỹ sonne of Saphat which * powred water on the handes of Elias. And Iehosaphat said ỹ word of the Lord is with him. And so the kinge of Israel, and Iehosaphat and ỹ kyng of Edom went downe to him.

That is, ỹ Gomes of Lord is powred on hym.

And Eliseus sayd to the king of Israel: what haue I to do wt the? Gette the to the prophetes of thy father & of thy mother. And ỹ kyng of Israel sayd vnto him: Oh naye, but hathe the Lorde called these thre kynges to delyuer thē into the handes of the Moabites? And Eliseus said, as sure as the Lorde of hostes lyuethe (in whose syght I stād) and it were not that I regarde ỹ presēce of Iehosaphat ỹ king of Juda, I wold not loke to ward the, nor yet se thē. But now bryng me a mynstrel. And as C the minstrel played, the hand of the Lorde was vpō him. And he said: thus biddeth ỹ lord, make this broke ful of dyches. For thus saith the Lord: ye shal se neither wind nor rayne, and yet this broke shalbe filled wt water, that ye maye drincke, and youre beastes & youre catell also. And this is yet but a small thing in ỹ sight of ỹ lord: But he wyll geue the Moabites in to your hādes also. And ye shall destroye all stronge townes and all goodlye cytyes, and shall falle all pleasaunte trees and stoppe al the welles of water, and marre all good plattes of grounde wythe stones. And in the mornyng about offeryng tyme there came sodē a water ỹ waye frō Edom ỹ the contrey was filled with water.

And whē al the Moabites heard that ỹ kynges were come to fight against them, they gethered together, frō the youngest ỹ was able to put on harnesse and so vpward, and wayted in the borders.

And they beyng vp early in the morning, ỹ sonne arose & shone vpō the water. And whē ỹ Moabites sawe ỹ water a farre of, as red as bloude, they sayd: it is bloud, the kinges haue fought together & one slaine another. Now therfore ye Moabites gett D you to the spoyle. And whē they came to ỹ Hoste of Israel, the Israelites stode vp & laide on the Moabites, ỹ they fled before thē: And so they entred ỹ lād & destroyed ỹ Moabites. And they ouerthrew the cities, & on euery good parcell of land, cast euery man his stone & ouer couered it, & stopt al the welles of water, and felde al the good trees. And as lōg as the stones therof dyd remaine in ỹ walles of * Bricke ỹ slingers went vpon it and bette it.

Some rede of Hare seth.

And whē the kyng of Moab saw, that the battel was to stroge for him, he toke wt him seuē hūdred men ỹ drew the swerde, to haue broke vp vnto the kyng of Edom. But they could not. And thē he toke his eldeste sonne ỹ shulde haue raigned in his steade, & offered him for a burntoffeting vpō ỹ walles. And ther came so great wrath vpō Israel, ỹ they departed from him and returned to their owne land.

C God geueth a certen poze womā oyle & floure by Eliseus. Eliseus obtained of god a childe for hys Hostesse: which dieth & is after raised to lyfe thorow him. He maketh swete the potage & multiplieth the loues.

The .iiii. Chapter.

And ther cryed a certen womā of the wiues of the childrē of the Prophetes vnto Eliseus sayig: thy seruaūt my husbāde is deed, & ỹ knowest that thy seruaunt dyd feare the Lorde.

And the creditor is come to fett my two sonnes, to be his bondemen. And Eliseus sayd to her: What shal I do for the? Tel me, what hast thou in thine house? And she sayde thine handmayde hath nothinge at all in her house, saue a pytcher wyth oyle. And he sayd: Go & borow the in other places, of all thy neyboures, emptye vesselles and that not a fewe. And thē go and shutt the doze to the and to thy sonnes, & powre out into all those vesselles, and putte the full alwaye a syde.

And she wēt frō him, & shut the doze to her & to her sōnz. And they brought to her, & she powred out. And when the vesselles were ful, she said to her sonne: bryng yet a vessel. And he sayd: ther is no mo. And thē the oyle ceased. Then she came & tolde the mā of god. And he said: go & sel the Oyle and paye thy creditor. And liue thou & thy chyldren of the rest.

And it fell on a day, that Eliseus came to Sunam, where was a ryche woman ỹ toke him in for to eate breed. And as ofte as he came that waye, he turned in thither to

to eate breed. And she sayde vnto her husbande: se, I perceaue that the man of god is perfecte, & cometh alway by vs. Let vs make hym a chambre wyth a lytle wall, & let vs set him there a beed, a table, a stole & a candelstycke ỹ he maye turne in thither, when he cometh to vs.

And it fortuned one a tyme ỹ he came thyther & turned into the chambre and lay there. Then he sayde to Gihezi his seruaũte: cal this Sunamite. And he called her, & she came before him. And Eliseus sayde to him, saye to her I pray the: se, thou hast made all thys prouision for vs, what shal we do for the? wouldeste thou be spoken for to the king or to the captaine of ỹ host? And she sayde * I dwell amonge myne owne people. Then he sayde, what is to be done for her? And Gihezi sayd: Verely she hath no chylde, and her husbande is olde. And he sayd: call her. And he called her. And she came and stode at the doze. Then he sayd: by soch a tyme, as sone as ỹ frute can liue, thou shalt enbrace a sõne, and she saide, Oh naye my Lorde thou mãn of god do not lie vnto thine hãdmaid. And ỹ wife conceaued and bare a sonne ỹ same season that Eliseus had said vnto her as sone as the frute coulde haue lyse.

And when the ladd was great, it fell on a daye, that he went out to his father, to ỹ haruestime. And there he cõplayned to his father, my heed, my heed. And his father sayde to a ladd, carye hym to his mother. And he toke him & brought him to his mother. And he sat on her knees til none & thẽ dyed. And she caryed hym vp & layd hym on the bedde of the man of god, and shut ỹ doze to him, & wẽt out, and came to her husbãde and sayde: sende me one of ỹ young men & an asse that I maye rũne to the mãn of God. And he saide: wherfore wylt thou go to him to daye, whyle it is neither newe mone nor Saboth daye. And she sayd: be content. Then she sadelled an Asse & sayd to the ladd: leade awaye and make me not cease rydyng, vntyll I byd the.

And so she went & came vnto the man of god, to mout Carmel. And whẽ the mãn of God saw her a farre, he sayde to Gihezi hys seruaunt: se, wher oure seruaunte cometh. Now rũne against her, * & aske her, whether it be all well wyth her, and wyth her husbãd and with the lad. And she sayde: all is wel. Thẽ she wente to the man of god vp to ỹ hil and caught him by ỹ fete. And Gihezi wẽt to her, to thrust her away. But the man of god said: let her alone, for her soule is vexed, and the Lord hath hyd it from me and hath not tolde it me. Then she sayde: dyd I desyre a sonne of my lorde? dyd I not saye, that thou shuldeste not bryng me in a foles Paradyse.

Then he sayde to Gihezi: gyrde vp thy loynes, and take my staffe in thyne hãde & awaye. If anye man mete the, salute hym not. And yf any salute the, ãswere him not agayne. And put my staffe vpon the boy. Not withstandynge the mother of ỹ chylde sayde: * as sure as the Lorde lyueth, & as thy soule lyuethe, I wyl not leaue the. And then he arose and folowed her. Gihezi went before them and put the staffe vpon the ladd. But there was nether voyce nor attending. And then he wẽt agayne against his master and told hym saying: it hath not awaked the ladd.

When Eliseus was come to ỹ house: Behold, ỹ ladd was deed & layde vpon hys bed. And he went in & shut the doze to the lad & him, & prayed vnto the Lord. * And he wẽt vp & laye vpon the ladd, & put hys mouth on hys mouth, and his eyes on hys eyes, & the palme of his handes on the palme of hys hãdes, and spred him self vpõ ỹ lad that the flesh of the child waxed warme. And wẽt agayne & walked once vp & downe in ỹ house, and thẽ went vp & spred him self vpõ him. And thẽ the lad neesed seuẽ times & opened hys eyes. And he called gihezi & said: cal for this Sunamite. And he called her. And whẽ she was come to hi, he said: * take thy sõne. Thẽ she wẽt & fell at his fete & bowed her self to the groũd, & toke vp her sõne & wẽt out. Whẽ Eliseus was come to Galgal agayne, there was a dearth in the lande, and the children of the prophets dwelt wyth him. Then he sayd to his seruaũt, put on a great pot, & make pottage for ỹ children of ỹ prophets. And one wẽt out into the felde, to gether herbes, & found as it were a wylde vyne, and gethered therof Coloquintydaes his lappful, & came & shred thẽ into the pott of potage, they vnwetynge. And they powred out for the men to eate. And whẽ they had tasted tasted of ỹ pottage, they cryed out & sayd: there is deeth in the pot thou mãn of God, & could not eate therof. Thẽ he sayd: bryng meale. And he cast it in to the pot & sayde: fyl for the people that they maye eate, and there was no harme in the pot.

Ther came a man from Baalsalisa and brought the man of God breedde of fyrst frutes, cxx. loues of barleye, and new corne in a cloth he had. And Eliseus bade put it before the people that they myghte eate. Then hys mynister sayd: what shulde I set this before an hundred men? And he sayde: sett it before the people and lette them eate. For thus sayth the Lorde: they shal eate and leaue. And he sett it before them, and they eate and left according to ỹ worde of the Lorde.

¶ Naamã ỹ Syrie is healed of his leprosie. Gihezi is stricken with a leprosie because he toke money & rayment of Naaman.

The. v. Chapter.

NAaman captayne of the host to ỹ kig of Siria, was great wt his master & well take: for thorow hym the Lorde saued Siria. And he was an actiue man, and yet a leper. And there had gone a companie of Soudyoures oute of Siria a runnyng, and had brought oute of the contrepe of Israel a lytle mayde, whyche was with Naamãs wife. And the Damosell sayde vnto her ladye: I wolde my master were with a prophet that is in Samaria: he wolde deliuer hym of hys leprosye. And she went & told her husband saying: thus & thus saith ỹ maide ỹ is out of ỹ lãde of Israel. And the king of Siria said: go thy waye, and I wyl sende a letter vnto the kyng of Israel. And he went & toke wyth hym ten talentes of siluer & .vi. thousande peces of goulde, and ten chaung of rayments. And he brought the letter to ỹ kyng of Israel cõtaynynge thys tenoure. Now when this letter is come vp to ỹ: Behold I haue sent Naaman my seruaunt to the, that thou shuldest rydde him of his leprosie. And when the king of Israel had reade ỹ letter, he rent hys clothes & sayd: * am I god, to sley & to make a lyue, that he shuld sende to me, for to delyuer a mãn frõ his leprosie. But consider I pray you & se, how he pyketh quarelles wt me. And whẽ Eliseus the man of God, hard howe that the kyng of Israell had rente hys clothes, he sent to the kynge sayinge: Wherfore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come to me, that he maye know that ther is a prophete in Israel.

And Naaman came with his horsses & his charet, and stode at ỹ doze of Eliseus. Thẽ Eliseus sent a messenger saying: go & washe the in Jordã seuẽ tymes, and thy flesh shall come agayne to the as before, & thou shalte be cleane. And Naaman was wroth and wẽt awaye, and sayd: Behold, I thought in my selfe, he wold haue come out, & stande & call on the name of the lord hys God, & put hys hande on the place of the dysease, and so take awaye ỹ leprosye. Are not Abanah and Pharphar, riuers of Damasco, better then al the waters of Israel? Myghte I not rather washe in them and be cleane? And so he turned and departed in an angre. Then came his seruaũtes and comuned wt him and sayd: Father yf the prophet had bydd the done some great thyng, oughtest thou not to haue done it? How moche rather then shuldeste thou do it, while he saith to ỹ onlie, wash & be cleane. * Then he wẽt downe & washed seuen times in Jordã, as the mãn of God bade, & hys flesh chaunged, lyke vnto the flesh of a lytle boye, and he was cleane.

Thẽ he turned agayne the mãn of God & all his companye with him, and came & stode before hym & sayde. Behold I know that there is no God in all the worlde, but in Israel. And now I pray the take a blessing of thy seruaũt. But he said * as surely as ỹ lord lyueth before whome I stand, I wyll receaue none. And the other wolde haue cõstrained him to receaue: but he wolde not do it. And Naaman sayde, yf thou wylte not: yet I praye the, maye there not be geuen to thy seruaunte the burthen of two mules of erthe. For thy seruaunt wyl hencefoorthe offer nether burnte sacrifice nor offeryng vnto anye other God, then to the Lorde. But herein the Lord be mercyful to thy seruaunte, for whẽ my master goeth into the house of Remõ to worshyp there, he * leaneth on myne hãd, & I muste worshippe in the house of Remon, lett the Lorde I praye the be mercyfull vnto thy seruaũt in this case. And he sayd to hi: go in peace. And when he was departed from him him a furlong of grounde, Gihezi ỹ seruaũt of Eliseus the mã of god, said: se, my master hath kept of, this Syrien Naaman ỹ he wold not receaue of his hand ỹ he offered. As surely as the Lorde lyueth I wyll runne after him & take somewhat. And so Gihezi went after Naamã. And whẽ Naamã saw him come running after hym, he came downe of ỹ charet agaĩst him & said: *is al well? And he sayd yee.

But my master hath sent me sayinge: se, ther be two young men come to me out of Ephzaim of the chyldre of the prophetes: gene thẽ I pray the one talẽt of syluer & a couple of good garmẽtes. And Naamã saide sauentre and take two talentes of syluer in two bagges, with two goodly garmentes, & delyuered them vnto two of his seruaũtes, to beare it before hym. And he went in the darcke & toke it of their hãdes & bestowed it in the house, and lett the men go, and they departed.

Then he wente & stode before hys master. And Eliseus sayd to him: whence cometh Gihezi? And he sayde: thy seruaunte wẽt no whether. And he said: wẽt not mine herte wt the, when the man turned & came of his charet agaynst the? Is it a tyme to receaue siluer & to receaue garmẽtes, oliue trees, vyneyardes, oxen, shepe menseruaũtes and maydeseruauntes? The lepzosye therfore of Naamã cleaue vnto the, & vnto thy sede for euer. * And he wẽt out frõ him a leper as white as snow.

¶ Eliseus maketh ryon to swimme above the water. The Syrians besiege Israel, so that .iij. wemẽ agree togeather to eate their owne chyldren.

The .vi. Chapter.

THen sayde the chyldren of the prophetes vnto Heliseus: se, the place wher we dwel vẽ ỹ is to lytle for vs. Let vs ther take euery mã a beame & byld vs a place ther to dwel in. And he said: goo ye. And one sayde: begynne I pray the, and go with thy seruauntes. And he sayde: I will, and so wente with them.

And when they came to Jordan, they cutt downe wood. And as one was heuinge of a beame, ỹ axe heed fel into ỹ water. And he cryed oute & sayde: Alasse master: for it was lẽt me. And the mã of god said: Where fel it? And he shewed him ỹ place. And he cut an helue and cast it in thyther, and made the axe heed swimme. And he sayde: take it vp to the. And the other stretched his hand and caught it.

And the king of Syria fought against Israell, and toke counsell wyth his seruauntes saying: In soche a place and in soch a place wyll I pytche. And the man of God sent vnto the kyng of Israel saynge: Beware thou go not by for he a place, for there are the Syrians gone downe. And the kynge of Israel sent to the place whyche the man of God tolde hym and warned him of, & saued him self ther more then once or twyse.

And the hert of the king of Syria was troubled therwith, ỹ he sent for his seruaũtes & sayde to them: * wyl ye not shewe me whych of vs telleth the kynge of Israell. And one of his seruauntes sayd: nay my Lorde kyng: Eliseus the prophet that is in Israel, he tellyth the kyng of Israel the wordes that thou speakest in thy slepyng chambre. Then he saide: go and spie wher he is that I may sende & fet him. And one told the kynge sayinge: se, he is in Dothã. And he sẽt thyther horse & charettes and a great host. And they came thither by nyght and compased the towne about.

And whẽ the seruaũt of the mã of god rose vp erly and was gone oute: Beholde: ther was an host rounde about the towne vẽ horses and charettes. Then sayde hys lad to him: Alasse master, what shal we do? And he sayde: feare not, ther are mo wyth vs then vẽ them. And Eliseus prayed and sayde: Lorde open the eyes of the younge man, & he sawe. And beholde, ỹ mountayne was full of horses and charettes of fyre rounde about Eliseus. And when the soudiars came downe to him, Eliseus prayed vnto the Lorde and sayd. Smite thys people with blindnesse. And he smote them vẽ blyndues accordyng to the desyre of Eliseus. Thẽ Eliseus sayd vnto thẽ this is not ỹ way, nor this is not ỹ towne: but followe me and I wyll bryng you out to the mã ye seke. And he ledd them to Samaria.

Whẽ they were come to Samaria, Eliseus sayde: Lord, open their eyes & let thẽ se. And the Lorde opened their eyes & they saw. And behold they were in ỹ middes of Samaria. And then sayde the kynge of Israell vnto Elizeus when he saw them: shal

* shal I smyte thẽ, shal I smyte thẽ father? And he sayd: smyte thẽ not. But smyte thẽ thou takest wyth thyne owne swerde and with thyne owne bowe. But set bread and water before them, & let them eate & drinke and go to theyr master. And he made great ordinaunce before them. And when they had eaten and dronke, sent thẽ away, and they went to theyr master. And so ỹ bondpoures of Syria came noo more into the lande of Israel.

After this Benhadad kynge of Syria gathered all the hoste, and went & besieged Samaria. And ther arose great dearth in Samaria: for they had besieged it, vntyll an Asses head was worth foure score sycles of siluer, & the fourth part of a * Cab of doues dong worth fyue sycles. And as the kyng of Israel walked vpon the walles ther cryed a womã to him, saying: help my Lord king. And he sayd: Nay, the lord helpe the. But wherwith shuld I help the, wyth corne or wyne? Then sayd the kyng to her: what ayleth the? And she answered: thys womã here said to me, bring thy sone and let vs eate hym to daye, & we wyl eate myne to morowe. * And so we dressed my sonne & dyd eate hym. And I sayde to her another day, bring thy sonne that we may eate hym. But she hath hid her sone. Whẽ the king heard the wordes of the woman he rent his clothes cleẽ as he was walking on the walles. And when the people loked vpõ him: se, he was clothed in sack vnder. Thẽ he sayd: God do so & so to me, yf the head of Eliseus the sone of Saphat tarie on him thys day. And as Eliseus satte in hys house and the elders wyth hym: thee kyng sent one from hym. But yer the messenger came at him, he sayde to the elders: se you not how the sonne of thys murtherar hath sent, to take of myne head? be circũspect therfore whẽ the messenger cometh and shut the doze, & thrust him backe therwith: for the sounde of hys maysters fete foloweth hym. And whyle he yet talked wt them: Behold the messenger was come vn to hym. And he sayde: behold, thys euel is of the Lord, what moare shall we loke for of the Lorde.

¶ Eliseus prophesieth plẽteousnes of victoryes and other thinges to Samaria. ¶ The Syrias rũne awaye & haue no mã folowing thẽ. The Lord that wold not beleue the word of Heliseus is troden to death.

The .vii. Chapter.

THen Heliseus sayd: heare the worde of the Lorde: for thus sayth the Lorde: tomorowe thys tyme a bousshell of fyne flowre shalbe solde for a sicle & two bousshelles of Barleye for a nother in the gates of Samaria. Then a greate Lorde on whose hande the king leaned, answered the man of God and saide, though the Lord wold make windowes in heaue, yet wold not this be. And he said agayne: Beholde, thou shalte se it wyth thyne eyes and shalt not eate thereof.

And ther were foure lepers set with out the gate of Samaria. And they sayd eche to hys cõpanion, what sytt we here vntyll we die? though we thought that we might come into ỹ cytte, yet is the dearth so great in ỹ citte, that we shal ther dye. And yf we tarye here, we at but dead also. Now therfore come & let vs fle to the Host of the Syrias: yf they saue our lyues, we shal lyue. And yf they kyll vs, thẽ are we dead. And so they arose in the darke to go to the host of the Syrians. And whẽ they were come to the syde of the Hoste of Syria: se, there was no man there.

For the Lord had made the hoste of the Syrias heare a noyse of charettes & a noyse of horses, & the noyse of a great Hoste. In so moch that they sayd one to another: se, the kynge of Israel hath hyred agaĩst vs. the kynges of the Hethites & the kynges of Egypte, to come vpõ vs. And vpõ that they arose and fled in the darke, & left theyr tentes, theyr horses, theyr Asses and the felde they had pitched euen as it was, and fled for theyr lyues. And when these lepers came too the edge of the Hoste, they went into a tente and dyd eate and drinke and carped thence syluer, gould & raymẽt and wente & hyd it: and came agayne and entered into another, and carped thence also, and went and hyd it.

Then they sayd one to another: it is not wel that we doo, for this daye is a daye to bring tidinges. And yf we hold our peace & tarye tyl it be daye light, we shal finde a mischefe. Now therfore come, let vs go & tel the kynges housholde. And so they wẽt and called to the porter of the citte & tolde them sayinge: we came to the Paulyons

of the Sirians: & se ther was no mā ther, neyther voyce of man, but hozses & Asses tyed, & the tentes euen as they were.

Then the porters called & tolde the kinges house within. And the kinge arose in ỹ night and sayd to his seruauntes: I wyll shewe you, how the Sirians haue serued vs. They know that we ar oppressed with hungre, & therfore ar gone out of theyr pauilions to hyde thē selues in the felde sayinge: They wyll come out of the cytie, and thē we shal catche thē a lyue & get into the cittie. And one of his seruaūtes answered & sayd: Let mē take fyue of the hozses that remayne & are left in the cittie. Behold they are as good as all thee multitude that are left in the cytie: and as good as al the multitude of the cytie that are consumed, and let vs send and se. And they toke two charettes of hozses, & the kinge sente after the Hoste of the Sirtens sayinge: go and ser. And they folowed after them euen vnto Jozdan: & se, all the waye was full of clothes and vesselles which the Sirians had cast from them for haste.

And the messengers returned and told the kyng. And then the people went oute & robbed the tentes of the Sirians. And so a bushel of flowre was solde for a sycle, & two bushulles of barley for a sycle, accoz dynge to the worde of the Lozde. And the kyng set the Lozde on whose hand he leaned, to kepe ỹ gate. And the people troade him in the gate, that he dyed, accozdyng to the saying of ỹ mā of God whych he sayd when the king came downe to him. And it came to passe accozding to the word of the man of god to the king sayinge: two bushelles of barleye for a sicle & a bushel of flowre for another shalbe to mozowe thys tyme in the gates of Samaria. And the Lozd answered the man of God and sayd though the Lozd made wyndowes in heauen, yet wolde thys not be. And the other sayde: Beholde, thou shalt se it with thyne eyes, & shalt not eat therof. And so it chaūced: for thee people troade hym vnder fete in the gate, that he dyed.

¶ Eliseus prophesieth vnto the Sunamite ỹ barth of.viii. yeare. After the death of Benhadad raygneth Hazael in Siria. Jehoram the sonne of Jehosaphat raygneth in Juda. Edom falleth frō Juda. Ohozias succedeth Jehozam.

The. viii. Chapter.

Then spake Eliseus vnto thee womā whose sonne he had reflozed to lyfe againe, sayinge: vp & go both thou and thyne house, & sotourne where thou thinkest best, for the Lozd wil cal a dearth which shal come on the lande seuen yeare. And the woman arose & dyd after the sayinge of the man of God, and wēt both she and her household & sotourned in the land of the Philistines seuē yere. And at ỹ seuē yeares ende, when the womā was come agayne out of the lād of the Philistines she went out to speake to the king for her house and for her land. And the kinge was talkinge wyth Gihezi the seruaunt of the mā of God sayinge: tel me I pzaye the, al the greate dedes whyche Eliseus dyd. And it chaunced as he was telling the kyng how he restozed a dead body to life againe that the womā whose sonne he reuyued, cryed to the kyng for her house and land. Then sayd Gihezi: My Lozd kynge, thys is the woman and thys is her sonne whych Elizeus brought to lyfe agayn. And the king asked the woman, and she tolde him. And so thee kynge sente wythe her one of hys Chamberlaynes sayinge: restoze all that pertayneth to her, wyth all the fruytes of the felde, sence the daye she lefte the lande vnto thys tyme.

After that Eliseus went to Damasco, Benhadad the kynge of Siria beynge sicke. And one tolde the kynge sayinge: The man of God is come hether. Thē sayd the kyng to Hazael: * take a present with the and goo agaynst the man of God and aske the Lozd by hym whether I shall recouer of thys my disease oz no. And Hazaell went to mete him and toke presentes with hym, euen of all the good thinges of Damasco, as moche as fourtie Camels could beare, and came & presented hym self before hym & sayd: thy sonne Benhadad king of Siria hath sent me to the, sayinge: shal I recouer of thys my disease.

And Eliseus said to him: go and say to him, thou shalt recouer, howbeit the Lozd hath shewed me that he shall surelye dye. And the man of God began * to loke earnestly, in so moche that he was a shamed: and the man of God wepte. And Hazaell sayde: why wepeth my Lozde? And he answered answered: for I know that thou shalt dooe cuel vnto the children of Israel: theyr stroge cities thou shalt set on fyre, & theyr young men thou shalt sleye wyth the swerde, and shalt dashe oute the braynes of theyr sucklinge children, and all to teare theyr wemen wyth chylde.

And Hazael sayd: what is thy seruaūte which am but a dog, that I shulde do this great thing? And Eliseus said for ỹ Lozd hath shewed me, that thou shalt be king of Siria. And so he departed frō Eliseus & came to hys mayster, whiche sayd to hym. What sayd Eliseus to the? And he sayde: he tolde me that thou shuldeste recouer. And on thee mozowe he toke a roughe cloth and dypte it in the water and spzede it on hys face, and he dyed, & Hazael raygned in hys steade.

The fyfte yere of Jehozā sōne of Ahab king of Israel, Jehosaphat being yet kig of Juda, Jehozā the sonne of Jehosaphat king of Juda, began to raygne. xxvii. yere olde was he whē he began to raygne, & he raygned. viii. yere in Jerusalē. And he walked in the way of the kinges of Israel, as did the house of Ahab for the daughter of Ahab was his wyfe, & he dyd that displeased the lozd. Neuerthelater the Lozd wold not destroye Juda because of Dauid hys seruaūt, as he promysed hym to geue hym a light in hys chyldren all waye.

And in his dayes Edō fel away frō vnder the hand of Juda, & make thē a kyng of theyr owne. And Jehozā went to Seir, & all hys charettes with hi. And he rose by night & layd on the Edomites, whych compased him in, & ỹ captaines of his charet & the people fled into their tentes. And so the Edomites slipte away frō vnder the hand of Juda vnto thys day. And thē Lobnah slipt away to, euen that same tyme.

The rest of the dedes of Jehozā & al he dyd are writtē in the chronicles of the kinges of Juda. And Jehozam rested wt hys fathers & was buried wyth his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And Oziah hys sonne raygned in his steade. The. xii. yere of Jehozā sonne of Ahab, king of Israel, did Ohoziah the sonne of Jehozā king of Juda begin to raygne. Two & twentie yere olde was Ohoziah whē he begāne to raygne, & raigned one yere in Jerusalē, his mothers name was Athaliah daughter of Amri, king of Israel. And he walked in the way of the house of Ahab: for he was a sōne in law to the house of Ahab.

And Jehozā the sonne of Ahab wēte to warre with Hazael king of Siria, at Ramoth in Galaad, and the Sirians wounded hym. Wherfore kyng Jehozam went backe agayne, to be healed in Jesrahell of the woundes whych the Sirias had geuē him at Ramoth, whē he fought wyth Hazael kyng of Siria. And Ohoziah the sonne of Jehozam king of Juda wēt downe to se Jehozam sonne of Ahab in Jezrahel because he was sycke.

The Notes

Hazael brought thys weat clothe to him, as though he wold therwith haue coled him, & eased hi of his feruent heate: but dyd in dede strangle hym, after Josephus. He had heard of the prophet ỹ he had dad thuld recouer, & so thuld it haue been longe or he had raygned: therfore dyd he rydde hym, to thyntent that he myght soner come by the Kyngedom.

¶ Jehu is made king of Israel, and kylleth Jehozā the king therof, & Ohoziah kynge of Juda also: and thereto causeth Jezabel to be caste downe fozthe of a wyndowe, whom dogges eate.

The. ix. Chapter.

And Eliseus the prophete called vnto one of the chyldren of of ỹ prophetes, & sayd to him gyrde vppe thy lopnes & take this boxe of oyle in thyne hād and get the to Ramoth in Galaad, & when thou comest thether, thou shalt there se Jehu the sonne of Jehosaphat thee sonne of Namsi, & go to him, & make him aryse vp frō among his brethren, and carye hym to a secrete chamber. And take ỹ boxe of oyle and powze it on hys heade and saye, thus sayth the Lozd: I haue anoynted the to be kynge ouer Israel. And thē open the doze and flee, & tary not. And the seruaūt of the Prophet get hym to Ramoth in Galaad, & whē he came, the captaynes of the Hoste were sytting tygether. And he sayd: I haue an errand to the Sir captayne. And Jehu sayde, vnto whyche of all vs? And he sayde: to the O captayne. And he arose and went into the house.

And the other powzed the oyle on hys head and sayde to hym, thus saith ỹ Lozd God of Israel: I haue anoynted the to be kynge ouer Israel the people of the lozde that thou sleye the housholde of Ahab thy mayster. For I (sayth the Lozde) wyl auenge the bloude of my seruaūtes the prophetes, & the bloude of all the seruauntes

Jezabel. of the Lorde, of the hand of Jezabel (for ye whole house of Ahab shall be destroyed) and I wyll destroye vnto Ahab what pisseth agaynste the walle, and so moche as the presoned or that is forsaken in Israel, and wyll make the house of Ahab lyke the house of Jeroboam sonne of Nabat, and lyke the house of Baasa the sonne of Ahiah. And as for Jezabell the dogges shall eate her in the felde of Jezrahell, and none shall burye her. And he opened the doze and fled.

And when Jehu was come oute to the seruauntes of his Lord, they sayd to hym: is all peace? Wherfore came this mad felow to ye? And he sayd to him: ye know the person and his communicatio. And they said: it is not so. But tell vs a felowshippe. And he sayd, thus and thus spake he to me saynge. Thus sayth the Lord: I haue anoynted the to be kynge ouer Israell. And they hasted and toke euerye man his mantell & put vnder hym on an hye beche at the top of steppes, & blewe a trompett and sayde: Jehu is kynge. And so Jehu the sonne of Josaphat the sonne of Namsi conspired agaynst Jehozam. And Jehozā had bene waytyng at Ramoth Galaad, and all Israel with him, for feare of Hazael kyng of Syria, and was returned to be healed in Jezrahel, of ye woundes which the Syrias had geuē him as he fought wyth Hazaell kynge of Syria.

Then sayde Jehu: If it be youre mynde, then let no man escape out of the citte, to goo & tell in Jezrahell. And Jehu rode and wente to Jezrahell: for Jehozam laye there, and Ohoziah kynge of Juda was come to Jehozam. And ye watcheman that stode on the towze in Jezrahel, spied the cōpany of Jehu as he came, and sayd: I see a companie. And Jehozā said: take an horsman and sende agaynst them, and let hym aske whether it be peace. And ther wēt one on horsbacke agaynste him and said: thus sayth the kyng: is it peace? And Jehu answered: what hast ye to do wt peace? turne and come after me. And the watchmā tolde saying: the messenger came to them but he cometh not agayne.

Then he sent out another on horsback, which came to them and sayde, thus sayth the kyng: is it peace? And Jehu answered what hast thou to do with peace? turne and come after me. And the watchman tolde sayinge: he came to them, but he cometh not agayne, & the dryuyng is lyke the dryuing of Jehu the sōne of Namsi, for he dryueth as he were mad.

Then sayd Jehozam, make redye. And they made readye his charet. And Jehozā king of Israel, & Ohoziah kyng of Juda wēt out ether in hys charet agaynst Jehu, and mett him in the furlong of Naboth ye Jezrahelite. And when Jehozam saw Jehu, he sayd: is it peace Jehu? And he sayd, what peace shulde there be, so long as the whordomes of thy mother Jezabell & her wytchecraftes are so greate? And Jehozam turned his hand and fled, & said to Ohoziah, there is falshed Ohoziah. And Jehu toke a bowe in hys hande and smote Jehoram betwene the shoulders, that the arowe came out at hys breast. And he fell downe thze folde in his charett. Then he sayde to Badakar a lorde of hys, take & caste hym in the plat of grounde of Naboth ye Jezrahelite. For I remembre as I & thou rode to gether after Ahab hys father, how ye Lorde spake these wordes agaynste hym: I haue sene yesterdaye the bloude of Naboth & of his sonnes, sayde ye Lord, and I wyl qupte him in this grouñd, sayth the lorde. Now therfore take and cast him in the plat of grounde accordyng to the word of the Lorde. And when * Ohoziah the kyng of Juda sawe that, he fled the waye to the *garden house. And Jehu folowed after him in his charet at the going vp to Sur by Jeblaam, and he fled to Magedo and ther died. And his seruauntes caried him to Jerusalē, & buried him in his sepulchre wt his fathers in ye cytye of Dauid. And in ye xi. yere of Jehozam sonne of Ahab, begāne Ohoziah to raygne ouer Juda. And whē Jehu was come to Jezrahell, Jezabel herde of it, & starched her eies & tired her heed & looked out at a wyndowe. And as Jehu entered at ye gate she said: had Zamri peace which slew his master? And he lyfte vp his eyes to the wyndow & saide, who is of my syde who? And there loked out to him two or thze lordes that were chāberlaines. And he said: Thzow her downe. And they thzew her downe. And he sprinkled of her bloud bloude vpon the walles & on the horses, & troade her vnder fote.

And then whē he was come in & had eaten & dronke, he sayde: go & vyset I praye you, ponder cursed creature, & burye her, for she is a kynges daughter. And when they came to burye her, they fōud no more of her, then the skulle and the two fete & the two handes. And they came agayne & tolde hym. And he sayde: it is the worde of the Lorde which he spake by the hande of his seruaūte Eliah ye Thesbite saying: * in ye feld of Jezrahell shal dogges eate the flesh of Jezabel, & ye carkas of Jezabel shal be dong vpō ye erth in ye feld of Jezrahel, ye men shal not saye, this is Jezabel.

* 3. Reg. xxi. k

¶ Jehu causeth the lxx sonnes of Ahab to be slaine, & after that all of hys brethre. We finde the same also to hil all the prestes of Baal. After his deethe hys sonne sayneth in hys steade.

The x. Chapter.

Ahab had lxx. sonnes in Samaria. And Jehu wrote letters, & sent to Samaria vnto the elders that were Lordes of Jezrahel and to them that nourted vp Ahabs children saying: now at the comyng of these letters to you, ye haue wythe you youre masters sonnes, & ye haue wythe you charettes and horses, & a stronge citte and harnesse. Therfore loke the best, & him ye most pleaseth you of youre masters sonnes, & put hym on his fathers seate, & fight for youre Lordes house. And they were exceedynglye afrayde, and sayde: se, two kinges were not able to stande before him, how shall we then stande? And ye gouernoure of the kynges house and of ye cytie and of the elders and the nources sente to Jehu saynge: we are thy seruauntes and wyl do al that thou shalte byd vs: we wil make no man king: but do thou what semeth good in thyne eyes.

Then he wrote another letter to the same thing: If ye be myne & wyl obeye my voyce, then take the heedes of youre masters sonnes and come to me to Jezrahel, by to morow thys time. And ye kinges sonnes were lxx. personnes wyth the greate men of the cytye whych nourisshed them. And whē ye letter came to them, they toke the kynges children and slue them in nombre lxx. persones, and put theyr heedes in cophines and sente them to hym to Jezrahell. And there came a messenger and tolde him saying: they haue brought the heedes of ye kinges sonnes. And he sayd: lett the put the on two heapes in the entryng of the gate, tyll it be daye.

And in the morning he wēt out & stode and sayd to all the folke, ye be righteouse: for se, I conspired against my master and slue him: But who slue these? consydre now how there is nothyng of the Lordes worde falle to the erthe, which he spake against the house of Ahab: for the Lorde hathe done that he spake to his seruaunte Eliah. And so Jehu slue al ye remaynēd of ye house of Ahab in Jezrahell, & all ye were great wyth him, & hys companyons & hys preastes, vntyll he had lefte hym naughte remayne. And he arose and departed & wēte to Samaria. And as Jehu was come euen to the house whet the shepeardes * bīde their shepe by the hye waye syde, he met wythe the brethren of Ohoziah kynge of Juda, and sayd what are ye? & they saide, the brethren of Ohoziah are we, and go to salute the children of the kyng and of the Quene. And he said: take them a liue. And they toke them a lyue, & slue thē at the well beside the house whet the shepardes bynd their shepe, in nomore, xlii. persōnes, that he lefte none of them.

* That is whet the shepe are folde. Or whet the shepe for nūbre be numbred.

And when he was departed thence he met with Jehonadab the sonne of Rechab comynge agaynst hym. And Jehu saluted hym and sayd to hym: is thyne hert right, as myne hert is with thyne. And Jehonadab sayde, ye that it is. If it be, then gyue me thyne hande. And he gaue hys hande, and the other toke him vp to him into ye charet and sayd: go wt me & se the zeale I haue to the Lord, & made him ryde wt him in hys charet. And when he came to Samaria, he slue all that remayned vnto Ahab in Samaria, tyll he had wypte hym out, according to the saying of ye lord which he spake to Eliah.

After that Jehu gathered all the people to gether & sayd to thē: * Ahab serued Baall a lytle: But Jehu shal serue hym a good. Now therfore calle vnto me all the prophetes of Baal & al his seruauntes & all his preastes, & none be lackyng. For I haue a great sacrefice to do to Baal: ye any be missed, he shal not liue. But Jehu did it for a sotelltie, to destroye the seruaūtes of Baal. Wherfore Jehu sayd: Apoynt a so lēpe feast for Baal, & they proclaimed it. Then Jehu sent thorow oute all Israell. And al the seruaūtes of Baall came, that ther was not a man left behynd that came not. And when they were come in to the tē ple of Baal, the temple was ful from one ende to another.

The he sayd to the keper of the vestrie, bryng forth garmentes for the seruauntes of Baal. And he brought the out garmētes. And Jehu went vñ Jehonadab sōne of Rechab in to the house of Baal: and sayde to the seruauntes of Baall: searche and loke that there be none here vñ you of the seruauntes of the Lord, but ꝑ seruaūtes of Baal onlye. And they went in, to offer sacrefyce & burntofferinges. But Jehu appointed him foure skore men without & sayd: If any of the men which I shal bryn ge vnto your hādes escape, he that letteth him go shal dye for hym.

And as sone as he had made an ende of offeryng of burntsacrefyce, he sayde to the of the garde & to the Lordes: go in & slepe the, let none come oute. And they smote the vñ the edge of the swerde. And the garde & the Lordes cast them out, & went vnto the cytte of the house of Baal, & fette out the Image out of the house of Baal & burnt it. And they brake ꝑ Image of Baal, and brake the house of Baal, & made a sege of it euer after. And so Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel. But frō the synnes of Jero boam the sonne of Nabat which made Is rael synne with the goulden calues in Be thel and Dan, Jehu departed not.

Then the Lorde sayd to Jehu, because thou haste lustelye done that pleaseth me, and hast done to the house of Ahab al that was in myne hert, therfore shall ✱thy chyl dren in the fourth generacyon sytt on the seate of Israell. But Jehu cared not to walcke in the law of the Lorde god of Is rael with al hys herte: for he departed not from the sinnes of Jeroboam which made Israel synne.

In those dayes the Lorde begarme to cut Israel shorte, for Hazaell slue them in all the coostes of Israell, from Jordan eastwarde: euen all the lande of Galaad the Gadites, the Rubenites and the Ma nassites, from Aroer vpon the ryuer of Arnon, with Galaad and Basā. The reste of the actes of Jehu, and all he dyd, and all his powre, ar writtē in the chronicles of the kinges of Israel. And when Jehu was layde to rest with his fathers, they buryed hym in Samaria, and Jehoahas his sonne raygned in his stead. And the tyme that Jehu raigned vpon Israel in Samaria, was .xxviii. yere.

¶ Athaliah putteth to death al the kinges sōnes, ex cepte Jehoas the sōne of Ohoziah: which is hidden a after her deeth is made kynge.

The .xi. Chaptre.

AND Athaliah ꝑ mother of Oh oziah, when she saw that her a sonne was deed, she arose and slewe all the seede of the kyng dom. But Jehosaba ꝑ daugh ter of kynge Jehoram and syster of Oho ziah, toke Jehoas the sonne of Ohoziah & stale hym from amonge the kynges sōn nes that were slaine, and hys nource with hym, out of a sleppynge chambre, and hydd hym from Athaliah, that he was not slayn ne. And he was wyth her, hyd in the house of the Lorde. vi. yere. And Athaliah dyd raygne ouer the land.

And the seuenth yere Jehoiada sente & fett the rulars ouer hundredes vñ the cap taynes and them of thee garde, and toke thē into him into the house of the lord, and made a bonde with them, and toke an othe of them in the house of the Lord, and shew ed thē the kinges sonne. And he cōmaū ded thē saying: this is that ye must do: one third part of you shal come on ꝑ Saboth daye and kepe the watch of ꝑ kynges hou se: And another thirde parte shalbe at the gate Sur: and another thyrde parte shall be at the gate behynde the garde chambre, and so shal ye kepe the watche of the hou se✱ of Mesah, & two porcions of you: that is, all that goo oute the Saboth daye, shal kepe the watch of the house of the lor de about the kynge, and shal compase the kynge rounde aboute, euerye man wythe hys wepen in hys hande. And whosoeuer cometh

And the captaynes ouer the hundredes did al thynges as Jehoiada the preast cō maūded: & toke euery mā his men, that is, them that came in the Saboth daye with them that went oute the Saboth daye, & went to Jehoiada the preast. And the preast gaue to the captaynes ouer hundredes the speares and shyldes that were kyng Dā uids & had remayned in the tēple. And the garde stode euery man with his wepon in his hand rounde aboute the kynge, frō the right cozner of the tēple to the lefte a long by aultare & the temple. And he broughte out the sonne of the king & put the crowne vpon him, and delyuered him the ✱witnes, and made hym kynge and anoynted hym. And they clapte their hādes and sayd: god saue the kynge.

that is, the law of god Deu. xvii. d

And when Athaliah heard the noyse of the runninge of the people, she came to the people in to the house of the Lorde. And when she saw the kynge stande by a pyller (as the maner was) and thee syngers & the trompettes by the kyng, and all the people of the lande reioysynge, and the blowyng of the trompettes, she rente her clothes & cryed, treason treason. And Jehoiada the preast commaunded the Capraines of the hundredes that had the rule of the hoste, & sayde to them: haue her oute wythoute the ranges, and yf any folowe her, let hym dye vñ the swerde: for the preast sayd, she may not be slayne in the house of the lorde. And they layde handes on her, and she wēt the way that the horses of the kynges wēt out and was slayne there.

And Jehoiada made a bonde both betwene the Lord and the king, & betwene the people and the Lorde, that they shuld be ꝑ Lordes people: & also betwene the kyng & the people. Then all the people of the lan de wente into the house of Baall, and de stroyed hys aultares, and brake downe his Images lustely, and slue Mathan the preast of Baal before the aultar. And the preast set watch men in the house of the lor de, & toke ꝑ rulers ouer hundredes & the cap taines & the gard & al the people of ꝑ land: And they brought the kyng from the hou se of the Lord & went the waye of the gate of the garde of the kinges house. And he sat him downe on the seate of the kynges. And all the people of the Lord reioysed, & the cytye was in quyette. And they slue Athaliah wythe the swerde in the house of the kynge.

¶ Jehoas maketh preuision for the repayryng of ꝑ temple. He is kylled by .ii. of his seruauntes, & Ama ziah raygneth in hys steade.

The .xii. Chapter.

IEhoas was seuen yere olde a whē he was made kinge. And he begānne to raygne the se uenth yere of Jehu, & raigned fourtye yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Zebiah Bersa be. And he dyd that pleased the Lorde, as longe as Jehoiada the preaste enfoyned hym. But they toke not awaye the hilaul ters, for the people slue and offered styll in the hillaulters.

And Jehoas saide to the preaste: all the syluer ꝑ is dedicat & brought to the house of the Lorde in curraunt money, that is to saye, the moneye that euery man✱is set at, with al the moneye that euery mānes hert geueth him to bryng into ꝑ house of ꝑ lor de, let ꝑ preastes take it to thē, euery mā of his aquayntaunce, and lette thē repayre ꝑ broke places of the tēple in al places wher ought is found decayed.

✱That is halfe a cle a pece ter ꝑ law Moses, exo. b.

Neuertheles later the preastes had not mē ded vnto the .xxiiii. yere of Jehoas, ꝑ was decaied in the temple. Then kyng Jehoas called for Jehoiada the preast & for the o ther preastes also, and sayd to thē: why re payre ye not the broken places of the tem ple? Now therfore se ꝑ ye receaue no more money of your aquayntaunce, but deliuer it to repayre the temple wyth all. And the preastes consented to receaue no more mo ney of the people: But that it should go to ꝑ mendyng of the temple.

Then Jehoiada the preast toke a cofer and bored an hoale in the lyd of it, & put it besyde the aultare on the ryghte syde as a man comethe in to the house of the Lorde. And into ꝑ dyd the preastes that kepte the dores, put all the moneye ꝑ was broughte into the house of the Lorde. And they gaue thee money by tommes into the handes of the wozcke mē that had the ouersyghte of the house of the Lozde: and they bzoughte it oute to the carpēters and buylders that wzoughte vppon thee house of the Lozde, and to masons and hewers of stone, to bye tymber and fre stone to repayze the decaye in thee house of thee Lozde, and all that, that neaded repayzing in the house: howe beit there was not made in the house of the Lozde, booles of syluer, shredinge knyues, basens, trompettes oz any other instrumentes of gould oz syluer, of the moneye that was bzought foz the house of the Lozde. Foz they gaue that to the wozckemen, to repayze therewythe the house of the lozd. Mozeouer they rekened not wyth the men into whose handes they delyuered that moneye to be bestowed on wozckemen: But they dyd it euen of fydelite. Howbeit trespace money & synne moneye myght not be bzought into the house of the Lorde, foz it was the pzestes.

Then came Hazael king of Syria, and fought against Geth & toke it, & apoynted him selfe to go vp to Jerusalem. But Jehoas kynge of Juda toke all the dedicate thinges that Jehosaphat, Jehoram & Ochoziah hys fathers kynges of Juda, had dedicate, and that he hym selfe had dedicated, and all the gould that could be found in the treasure of thee house of thee Lozde and of the kinges house, and sent it to Hazael kynge of Syria: and so he departed from Jerusalem.

The remnaunt of the actes of Jehoas and all he dyd, are wyttē in the chzonicles of the kinges of Juda. And hys owne seruauntes arose & wzoughte treason, & slue Jehoas in thee house Melo, in thee waye downe to Sela. Jozabar the sōne of Semaath and Jehozabad the sonne of Somer his seruaūtes, smote him that he dyed And they buryed hym wythe hys fathers in the cytie of Dauid. And Amaziah hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ Jehoahaz the sonne of Jehu is delyuered into ꝑ handes of the Syryēs, & dyeth. Joas hys sonne raygneth in hys steade. Elisseus dyeth.

The. xiii. Chapter.

In the. xxiii. yeare of Jehoas sonne of Ochoziah kynge of Juda, Jehoahaz the sonne of Jehu was made kynge ouer Israell in Samaria, and continued. xvii. yeare. And he wzought wickednes in the syght of the Lozde: foz he folowed the synne of Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat whych made Israel sinne, & departed not therfrō. Wherfore the Lozde was angry wyth Israel, and deliuered them into thee hande of Hazaell king of Syria, & into the hand of Benhadad the sonne of Hazael al theyr dayes.

But Jehoahaz besought the Lozde, & the Lozde hearde hym. Foz he had sene the oppzession of Israell, howe the kynge of Syria oppzessed them. And therfoze the Lozde gaue Israell a delyuerer and they went out frō vnder the handes of the Syrians. And the chyldzen of Israell dwelte in theyr tentes as before tyme. Neuertheless they departed not from thee synne of the house of Jeroboam whych made Israell synne, but walked therein. And there remayned a groue also in Samaria styll: But ther were lefe of the people to Jehoahaz but fyftie hozsemen and ten charettes and ten thousande fotemen foz the kynge of Syria hadde destroyed them and made thē lyke thzesshed chaffe. The rest of the actes of Jehoahaz, & al he dyd & hys power are wyttē in the chzonicles of the kynges of Israell. And Jehoahaz rested wyth his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria and Joas hys sonne raygned in his steade. In the. xxxvii. yeare of Jehoas kynge of Juda, beganne Joas the sonne of Jehoahaz to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria, and contynued syxteene yeare, and dyd vnhappely in the syght of the Lozde and departed in nothing frō the synnes of Jeroboam the sōne of Nabat that made Israell synne, but walcked therein.

The remnaunt of the actes of Joas & all he dyd, and hys power, how he fought wyth Amaziah kynge of Juda, are wzytten in the chzonicle boke of the kynges of Israel. And when Joas was layde to rest wyth hys fathers, Jeroboam sat vpō his seate. And Joas was buried in Samaria amonge the kynges of Israell.

When Eliseus was fallen sycke of the sycknesse whereof he dyed, Joas kyng of Israell came to hym and wepte to hym, & sayd: O father, father the charet of Israel & the hozsemen of the same. And Eliseus sayd said vnto him, bring boow & arowes. And he bzought to him boow and arowes. And he sayde to the kynge of Israell: put thyne hand vpon the boow, & whē he had put his hand vpon ꝑ boow, Eliseus put hys handes vpon the kinges handes. Thē he said, opē a wyndow eastwarde: and he opened. And Eliseus said: Shote, and he shott. And he sayd: the arowe of helpe of the lozd, and the arowe of helpe agaynste the Syzians, foz thou shalt bete the syziens in Aphek til thou haue consumed them.

Then he sayde: take arowes: and he toke. Then he sayde to the kynge of Israell, smyte the grounde: and he smote thzyse and ceased. And the man of god was angrie with him & saide: thou shuldeste haue smitē fyue oz syxe tymes, and thē thou haddeste smytten the Syziens til thou haddest consumed them: wher now thou shalt bete them but thzyse.

When Eliseus was deed and buryed the soudyares of the Moabites came into the lande, the yere folowynge. And it chaūced as they were buryeng a man, that they spyed the Soudyares, and therfoze caste the man into the sepulchze of Eliseus. And as sone as the man came and tuched the bones of Eliseus, he reuiued and stode vp on hys fete.

And Hazael oppzessed Israel, al the dayes of Jehoahaz. But the Lozde had mercye on them and pitied them and turned to thē, because of his appoyntmēt made with Abzahā, Isaac & Jacob, and wolde not destroye them, ether cast them frō him as yet. And when Hazel king of Syria was deed, Benhadad his sonne raygned in his steade. And when Joas the sōne of Jehoahaz wēt agayne & toke out of the hande of Benhadad sonne of Hazael, the cytyes whyche he had taken awaye out of the handes of Jehoahaz his father, withe warre. And thze times dyd Joas beate him and bzought ꝑ cytyes of Israel agayne ¶ Amaziah the kyng of Juda putteth to deeth ꝑ mā quellers of his father: and after smyteth Edō. Joas kyng of Israel taketh Amaziah and robbeth ꝑ tēple of the Lord. Joas dieth and Jeroboam his sonne succeadeth in his rowme: and after him raigneth Azaria. Amaziah is kylled in Lachis, & Azariah raygneth in his steade.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

In the second yere of Joas sonne of Jehoahaz kynge of Israel raygned Amaziah the sōne of Jehoas kig of Juda: he was. xxv. yere olde whē he began, & raigned. xxix. yere in Jerusalē, his mothers naime was Jehoadan, and was of Jerusalem. And he dyd that pleased the Lozde, yet not lyke Dauid his father: but dyd in all thynges as Joas his father dyd. Nether toke they awaye the hillaulters. But the people slue and offered styll in the hillaulters. And as sone as the kyngdome was setelled in his hand, he slue his seruaūtes that kylled the kynge hys father. But the chyldzen of those murtherars he slue not, as it is wzytten in the boke of the law of Moses, where the Lozde commaunded saying: * the fathers shal not dye foz ꝑ chyldzens cause, noz the chyldzen foz the dedes of their fathers: But euery mā shalbe slayne foz hys owne synne.

* And he slue of ꝑ Edomites in ꝑ salt valeye ten thousande, & toke the towne Sela with strength of battell, & called the name of it Jekthеel euer after.

After ꝑ Amaziah sent messengers to Joas the sonne of Jehoahaz sonne of Jehu kynge of Israell saynge: come, lette vs se eche other. But Joas kyng of Israel sēte agayne to Amaziah kynge of Juda saying: A thistell in Libanō sent to a cypzesse tree in Libanō saying: gene thy daughter to my sōne to wyfe. But ꝑ wild beastes in Libanō wēt and troade downe the thistell. Because thou haste beaten the Edomites, therfoze thine hertriseth. Be glozyouse: but tarie at home. Foz what neadeste ꝑ to pzouoke to mischeue, that thou shuldest be ouerthzowen and Juda with the.

But Amaziah wolde not heare. And so Joas kinge of Israel went vp, and he and Amaziah kynge of Juda sawe ether other at Bethsames in Juda. And Juda was put to the worse before Israel, & they fledd euery man to his tēte. And Joas kynge of Israel toke Amaziah, kynge of Juda, sōne of Jehoas sonne of Ohoziah, at Bethsames. And thē he wēt to Jerusalem, & brake downe of the walle of Jerusalem from ꝑ gate of Ephzaim to ꝑ corner gate, foure hundzed cubytes. And he toke al the gould & syluer & all the vessels that were foūd in the house of the Lozd, & in the treasure treasure of the kynges house, and hostages therto: and then returned to Samaria agayne.

The rest of the actes of Joas whych he dyd, and his powre, and how he fought wt Amaziah kyng of Juda, are written in the Chronycles of the kynges of Israell: and Joas layde hym to reste with his fathers and was buryed at Samaria amonge the kinges of Israel: and Jeroboam hys sone raigned in his rowme.

Amaziah the sonne of Jehoas kyng of Juda lyued after ye deeth of Joas sone of Jehoahaz kynge of Israell, fyftene yere. And the remnaunt of the dedes of Amaziah, are wrytten in the chronicles of the kinges of Juda. And they conspired great treason agaynste hym in Jerusalē, & he fled to Lachis. And they wente after hym to Lachis and slue hym there. And they brought him on an horse and he was buried at Jerusalē wt his fathers in the citie of Dauid. *And al the people of Juda toke Azariah, which was .xvi. yere olde, & made him kinge for hys father Amaziah. And he bylte Ailath and brought it agayne to Juda, after that the kynge was layde to reste wythe his fathers.

The .xv. yere of Amaziah sonne of Jehoas kynge of Juda, was Jeroboā sonne of Joas made kynge ouer Israel in Samaria, and raygned .xli. yere, and wrought wyckednesse in the syght of the Lorde: for he turned in nothyng from the synne of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat whyche made Israell synne. He restored the costes of Israel from the enterynge of Hemath vnto the see, in the wilde feldes, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde God of Israell whyche he spake thorow hys seruaūt Jonah ye sonne of Amithai ye prophete, whiche was of Geth Opher. For the Lorde had sene how that the affliction of Israel was exceadyng bytter, in so moche that the presoned and the forsaken were at an ende. And ther was no helper vnto Israel. And the Lord had not yet sayde that men shulde put out the name of Israell from vnder heauen. And therfore he holpe thē by the hād of Jeroboam the sonne of Joas.

The rest of the deedes of Jeroboā, & al he dyd, and his powre howe he foughte, & howe he restored Damasco and Hemath to Juda in Israel are wrytten in the boke of the chronycles of the kynges of Israel. And Jeroboam layde hym to reste wythe hys fathers and wyth the kynges of Israell, and Zachariah hys sonne raygned in his steade.

¶ Azariah ye king of Juda becometh leyprous. And Jotham raigneth for him. Selum killeth Jeroboam & succeadeth him in the kingdom. After Selum raygneth Manahem. after Manahem Phakeiah, after Phakeiah Phaketh. After Phaketh Hosea. after Hosea Jotham and after Jotham Ahaz.

The .xv. Chapter.

In the .xxvii. yere of Jeroboam kyng of Israel, Azariah sōne of Amaziah kynge of Juda beganne to raygne. Sixtene yere olde was he whē he was made kinge, and he raigned .lii. yere in Jerusalem, hys mothers name was Jecheliah, and was of Jerusalem. And he dyd ye pleased the Lorde in al thynges as did his father Amaziah: saue that they put not the Hillaulters awaye: for the people offered and burned stil in the hylaulters. And the Lorde smote the kynge, that he was a leper vnto the daye of hys dethe, and dwelte in an house at lybertye, and Jotham the kynges house gouerned the house & iudged the people of the lande. The reste of the dedes of Azariah and al he dyd, are wrytten in the chronicles of the kynges of Juda. And Azariah laid him to slepe with his fathers, and they buryed him with hys fathers in the citie of Dauid, and Jothā his sonne raigned in his steade.

In the .xxxviii. yere of Azariah kyng of Juda, was Zacheriah the sonne of Jeroboam made kinge vpon Israel in Samaria, and raygned syxe monethes, and* dyd that displeased the Lorde, as did hys fathers, and turned not frō the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat wyche made Israell sinne. And Selum the sonne of Jabes conspired agaynste hym, and smote him before the people, and killed him, and raygned in his steade.

The rest of the dedes of Zachariah are wrytten in the chronicles of the kynges of Israel. This is the saying that the Lorde spake vnto Jehu, saying: *thy sōnes shall syt on the seate of Israel in the fourth generacion. And it came so to passe.

Selum

Selum the sonne of Jabes beganne to raygne the thyrtie and nyne yeare of Azariah kynge of Juda, and he raygned a moneth in Samaria. For Manahem the sonne of Gadi, came vp frō Therzah and wente to Samaria and smote Selū the sonne of Jabes in Samaria, and slue hym, and raygned in hys steade. The reste of thee dedes of Selum and thee treason, whych he conspired are wrytten in the chronicles of the kinges of Israell. The same tyme Manahem destroyed Thaphsah, & all that were therein, and the costes thereof from Therzah (because they opened not to hym) he smote and rent al the wemen wyth chylde.

The .xxxix. yeare of Azariah kynge of Juda, beganne Manahem thee sonne of Gadi to raygne vpon Israell, and continued ten yere in Samaria. And he dyd euell in the syghte of the Lorde, and turned not all hys dayes from the synne of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne. And Phul kyng of Assiria came vpon the lande. And Manahem gaue Phul a thousand talentes of syluer, to helpe hym to stablishe his kyngdō. And Manahem raysed the money in Israel, vpō al men of substaunce, for to geue the kynge of Assyria fyftie sycles of syluer a pece. And the kyng of Assiria turned back agayne & taried not there in the lande.

The reste of the dedes of Manahē and all he dyd, are wrytten in the chronicles of the kynges of Israell. And whē Manahē was layd to rest with hys fathers Phaketiah hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

The fyftieth yeare of Azariah kyng of Juda, began Phakeiah the sonne of Manahem to raygne ouer Israell in Samaria, and continued two yere, and wrought wyckedlye in the syghte of the Lorde and lefte not of from the synnes of Jeroboam sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne. And Phaketh ye sonne of Romeliah a Lorde of hys conspired agaynst hym and slue hym in the palayse of the kynges house, wythe Argob and Ariah and fyftye men with hym that were Galaadites: and whē he hadde killed hym, raygned in his rowme. The reste of Phakeiah and all he dyd are wrytten in the chronicles of the kinges of Israell.

And the fyftie and two yeare of Azariah kynge of Juda, begame Phaketh the sonne of Romeliah to rāygne ouer Israel in Samaria and continued .xx. yeare, and dyd euell in the syght of the Lorde, & turned not frō the synnes of Jeroboam sōne of Nabat that made Israel synne. In the dayes of Phāketh kynge of Israell, came Teglath Phalasar kynge of Assiria, and toke Ion, Abel, Beth, Maacah, Janoah, Kades, Hazor, Galaad, Galile, and all the lande of Nephthali, and caryed thē away to Assyria.

And Hosea the sonne of Elah conspyred treason agaynste Phāketh thee sonne of Romeliah and smote hym and slue him and raygned in his steade, the twentie yeare of Jōtham the sonne of * Oziah. The reste of the actes of Phaketh and al he dyd are wrytten in the storyes of the kinges of Israell.

* Otherwyse Azariah. 2. Par. 26. as com wyth Matth.

The second yeare of Phāketh sonne of Romeliah kynge of Israel, beganne Jotham the sonne of Oziah king of Juda to raygne. Fyue & twentie yeare olde was he when he began to raygne, and he raygned xvi. yeare in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Jerusa thee daughter of Zadok. And he dyd that was ryghte in the syghte of the Lorde euen in al thinge as dyd hys father Oziah dyd he. But they putte not awaye the hyllaulters: for the people offered and burnte incense styll in the hyllaulters. he bylt the hyghest doze in the house of the Lorde. The reste of the dedes of Jōtham and all he dydde, are wrytten in the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda. In those dayes the Lord beganne to sende agaynste Juda, Rasin the kyng of Syria and Phakeh the sonne of Romeliah. And Jotham rested with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the citie of Dauid hys father, and Ahaz hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ Ahas king of Juda cōsecrateth his sonne in fyre & hath many battels against the king of Israell. He causeth an altar to be made lyke vnto it of Damasco. In ye tyme of Ahaz raygneth Hezekiah his sonne.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Ahaz, but coulde not ouercome hym. At thee same tyme Razin kynge of Syria brought Ailath agayne too Siria, and rydde the Jewes thence. And the Sirians wente too Ailath and dwelte therein vnto
thys daye.

Then Ahaz sente messengers to Teg-

der it, and putt it vpon a pauemente of sto ne. And therto the pulpit for the Saboth that they hadde made in the house, and the kynges entrie wythoute turned he to thee house of the Lorde, for feare of the kynge of Assyria. The reste of the dedes of Ahaz whyche he dyd are wrytten in the Chron-cles of the kynges of Juda. And Ahaz layde hym to reste wyth his fathers, and was buryed wyth hys fathers in the cytie
of Dauid: and Hezekiah hys sonne rayg-

Vnto this day they do after the old maner: they neither feare the lord, nether do after their owne ordynaunces and customes, and after the lawe & cōmaundement whych the Lord commaunded the chyldrē of Jacob whose name he called Israell, & made an appointment with them & charged thē sayinge: feare not any other gods, nor bowe your selues to thē nor serue thē, nor sacrifyce to them: but to the lord whiche brought you out of the land of Egipt wᵗ greate powre & a stretched oute arme: him feare & to hi bow & to him do sacrifice And ꝑ ordynāces, customes, law & cōmaūdement whiche I wrote for you, se that ye be diligent to do for euermore, & feare not any other goddes. In the thyrde yere of Hosea sōne of Ela, kig of Israel raigned Hezekiah sonne of Ahaz kinge of Juda. Twentye and fyue yere olde was he, when he beganne to raigne, & raigned. xxix. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Abi the daughter of Zachariah, and he dyd that pleased the Lord in all thynge, lyke to Dauid his father. He put awaye the Hyllaulters & brake the ymages & cut downe ꝑ groues, & al to brake ꝑ hyghe serpent that Moses made. For vnto those dates the children of Israel did burne sacrifyce to it, & called it* Nehustan. He trusted in the Lorde God of Israell, so ꝑ after him came none lyke him amonge all the kynges of Juda, nether amonge them that weare before hym. He claue to the lord and departed not from him, but kept hys commaundementes which the Lorde cōmaunded Moses. And the Lord was wyth hym. And what soeuer he toke in hāde he dyd it wysely. And they toke it at the ende of thre yere, which was the sixte of Hezekiah: that is to saye the nynthe yere of Hosea kyng of Israel, was Samaria wonne. And the kynge of Assyria dyd carye awaye Israell vnto Assiria, and putt thē in Halah & in Habor on the ryuer of Gozan, & in the cytyes of Medes: because they wolde not herken vnto the voyce of the lord their god. And the kyng of Assiria sent Tharthā and Rabsaris & Rabsakeh frō Lachis to kyng Hezekiah wyth a great Hoste to Jerusalē. And they went vp & came to Jerusalem, & wēt & stode by the conduyte of the vppermost pole which is in the way to the fullers felde, and called to the kynge. And ther came oute to them, Eliakim the sonne of Helkiah stuarde of housholde & Sobnah the scribe, & Joah the sonne of Asaph, the recorder. And then Rabsakeh sayde to them. Tel ye Hezekiah, I praye you: thus sayth the great kynge the kyng of Assiria Wᵗ what confidence is this that thou hastethou wylt happely speake a lyghte worde, that thou hast councell and powre to make warre. ij. Par. xxxij. a

And now layne thy selfe to my lord the kyng of Assyria, & I wyll delyuer the two M. horses, yf thou be able to set ryders vpō thē: (and yf thou be not) howe then atte thou able to resiste one of the leste Dukes of my masters seruauntes? or trustest thou to Egipt for charettes & horsemen? Moze ouer thinkest thou ꝑ I am come without the biddinge of the Lorde to thys place to destroye it? naye: the Lord sayd to me, goo vp to thys land & destroye it. Then sayde Eliakim the sonne of Helkiah & Sobnah & Joah, to Rabsakeh: speake, we praye the to thy seruauntes in the Syrians language, for we vnderstand it: & talke not wyth vs in the Jewes tōge, in the eares of ꝑ people that ar on the walles. F

And so Rabsakeh stode and cryed with a lowde voyce in the Jewes lāguage, and spake saying: heare the sayng of the great kynge, the kyng of Assyria. Thus sayth the kinge: let not Hezekiah begyle you, for he is not able to delyuer you oute of myne hand: nether let Hezekiah make you truste to the Lorde saying: the Lord shall surely rydd vs, and this cytie shal not be delyuered into the handes of the King of Assiria Herken not vnto Hezekiah, for thus sayth the kyng of Assyria.

G

And thē eate euery mā of his owne vyne, & of his owne fygg tree, & drinke euery mā of the water of his owne welle, tyl I come & fet you to as good a land as youres is: a land of corne & wyne, a lande of bred and vynegardes, a lande of olyue trees, of oyle and of honye. And ye shall lyue & not dye. And herke not vnto Hezekiah for he wyl begyle you, sayinge: the Lord shal delyuer vs. For haue the Gods of the nacions delyuered any God his land, out of ꝑ hand of the king of Assiria? where are the Gods of Hemath & of Arphad? where are the gods of Sepharuaim of Ana and Iuah? dyd they delyuer Samaria oute of myne hādes? what god of any lād hath deliuered his lād out of myne hād, ꝑ the lord shuld deliuer Jerusalē out of myne hand.

But the people helde theyr peace & answered not hym a word: for the kyng had commaunded sayinge: answere hym not. Then Eliakim the stuarde of housholde and Sobnah the scribe and Joah the sonne of Asaph the recorder, came to Hezekiah wyth theyr clothes rent & told him the wordes of Rabsakeh.

The. xix. Chapter.

A Esa. xxxvij. a

When king Hezekiah heard ꝑ, he rent hys clothes & putte on sacke & went to the house of ꝑ Lord. Furthermore he sent Eliakim stuard of household, & Sobnah the scribe, and thee elders of thee Preestes clothed in sack, to Isaiah the prophet the sonne of Amos. And they sayd to hym, thus sayth Hezekiah: thys daye is a

a day of tribulatiō, rebuking & rayling. Euē as whē the chyldrē ar ready to be borne & the mothers haue no power to be deliuered. Oh that the Lord thy god wold heare al the wordes of Rabsakeh whō the kyng of Assiria his master hath sent to raple on the lyuing God, & to rebuke him with wordes which the Lord thy God hath hearde. Wherfore lyfte vp thy prayer for the remnaūt that are left. Whē the seruauntes of king Hezekiah were come to Isaiah: Isaiah sayd to thē. So shal ye say to your master. Thus sayth the Lord: be not afrayde of the wordes þ̄ heardest, wt which the yōge men of the king of Assyria haue rayled on me. For I wyl send hym a blast that he shal heare tydinges, and so returne to hys owne lande: And I wyll ouerthrowe hym with the swerd euē in hys owne lande.

And Rabsakeh wēt backe agayne and fownd the king of Assiria fighting agaynst Lobnah: for he had hearde, how þ̄ he was departed frō Lachis. And he heard tydinges of Therhakah king of the blacke Mores, how that he was come out to fyght agaynst him. And ther vpon he departed & sent messegers vnto Hezekiah sayīg, thus saye to Hezekiah king of Juda, let not thy God carie the out of the way, in whō thou so trustest saying: Jerusalē shal not be deliuered into the hād of the king of Assiria Behold, thou hast heard what the kinges of Assiria haue done to al lādes, how they haue vtterly destroyed thē. And how then shuldest thou escape? hath the gods of the hethen deliuered them which myne aunsetries haue destroyed: as Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, & the chyldren of Eden which were in Thelasar? where is the king of Hemath, þ̄ king of Arphad, the kinge of the cytie of Sepharuaim, and the kinge of Ina and the kyng of Auah.

Whē Hezekiah had receaued the letter of the hand of the messengers & had red it: he went into the house of the Lord & layde it abroade before the Lord. And Hezekiah prayed before the Lord & sayd: Lord god of Israel which dwellest betwene the Cherubes, thou art god alone ouer al the kingdomes of the earth, & thou hast made both heauē & earth. Lord, bowe thine eares and heare: Opē Lord thine eyes & se: & heare þ̄ wordes of Sennaherib which hath sente to raple on the lyuing god. But of a truth Lord, the kinges of Assyria haue destroyed nacliōs & theyr lādes, & haue sett fyre on theyr Gods. For they were noo Gods, but the worke of the handes of mā: euē wood and stone. And therfore they destroyed thē. Now therfore Lorde our God, saue thou vs out of his hand, þ̄ al the kingdōs of the earth may know, that thou Lord art God alone. And Isaiah the sonne of Amoz sent to Hezekiah saying: thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel, that, that thou hast prayed to me cōcerning Sennaherib king of Assyria, I haue heard it. Thys is the thing þ̄ the lord saith of him: he hath despysed ỹ, O virgin daughter of Sion: he hath shaked his head at the, þ̄ daughter of Jerusalem, whō hast thou rayled on, & whō haste thou reuyled? Against whō hast thou exalted thy voyce, & hast lyfte vp thine eyes so hye? Euen agaynst the holy of Israell. By the  hād of thy messegers thou hast rayled on the Lord & sayde: with the multitude of my charettes, I am come vp to the heyght of the mountaynes euen along by the sydes of Libanon, & haue cut of the hye Cedar trees & þ̄ lustie fyrre trees therof euen to the wood of Carmel þ̄ belōgeth therto. I haue digged & dronke straunge waters, & haue dried vp with the soales of my fete poles enclosed.

But hast thou not heard how I haue of deyned & doe a thing a great whyle a goo, & haue prepared it frō þ̄ beginning? and now I bring it forth & it shalbe to destroy & to bring strong cyties in to rude heapes of stones. And the enhabiters of the shall be of little power, & sayne hurted & cōfounded. They shalbe lyke the grasse of ỹ feld & grene erbes, & as the hey on the toppes of the houses whych wethereth or it come to any heyght. I wote whet thou dwellest & thy coming out & goying in know I to, and howe thou settest vp thy bystelles agaynste me. And because þ̄ setteste vp thy bystelles agaynst me, & that thy raginge is come vp to myne eares: therfore I wyll put my hoke in thy nose & a bytt in thy lyppes, and wyll bringe the backe agayne the same waye thou camest.

And this shalbe a sygne vnto the: eate this yeare of the frutes of the sede that fel out, & the next yere, that wareth of it selfe. And

And the thyrd yere sowe ye & reape, plant vyneyardes & eate the frutes therof. For the * daughter of Juda that is escaped & lefte, shall yet agayne take rottinge downe warde & bare frute vpwarde. For oute of Jerusalē shal go a remnaunt, & a nombre that shal escape out of mounte Sion: the zele of the Lorde of *Hostes shall bringe thys thinge to passe.

Wherfore thus sayth the Lord, of the kyng of Assyria: he shall not come to thys cytie, nor shote arowe into it, nor come before with shyld nor cast any bāke against it: but shal goo backe agayne the waye he came, & shal not come at his citie sayth the Lorde. For I wyll defende thys citie & saue it, for myne owne sake & for Dauid my seruauntes sake.

And the selfe same nyght the Angel of the Lord wēt out & smote in the Hoste of þ̄ Assyrians an hundred foure skore & fyue thousand. And whē they were vp early in the morning: behold, they were al dead corses. And so Sennaherib kyng of Assyria auoyded and departed & wēt agayne, and dwelte at Niniueh. And as he was in hys deuotiō knelinge in thee house of Nisroch hys God, Adramelech and Sarasar smote hym wyth the swerde. And they escaped into the lande of Ararat, & Asarhadon his sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ Hezekiah is sicke and receaueth the sygne of hys health by the dyal of Ahaz. He receaueth rewardes of Berodach, & is reprehended of Isaiah because he shewed hym the treasure. He dyeth. Manasseh hys sonne raygneth in hys steade.

The. xx. Chapter.

Aboute þ̄ tyme Hezekiah was sicke vnto the death. And the Prophet Isaiah sonne of Amoz came to him and said to hym. Thus sayth the lord: put thyne household in an order, for thou shalt die and not lyue. And Hezekiah turned his face to the walle & besought the Lorde saying: Oh lord, remēbre yet how I haue walked before the truly & with a perfect hert, and haue done that whiche is good in thy syght, and wepte a great peace.

And Isaiah was scarce gone out into ỹ middle of the citie, but that the worde of þ̄ Lord came to hym saying: turne agayn & tell Hezekiah thee captayne of my people. Thus sayth the Lord God of Dauid thy father. I haue hearde thy prayer and sene thy teares. Beholde, I wyl heale the, & this day thre dayes thou shalt go vp into the house of the Lord. And I wyl lengthe thy dayes yet. xv. yere, & wyl delyuer both the & this cytie out of the hād of the king of Assyria, and wyll defende this cytie for myne owne sake, & for Dauid my seruauntes sake. And Isaiah sayd: bring a lumpe of fygges. And they brought & put it on the sore, and he recouered.

Thē sayd Hezekiah to Isaiah: what is the signe, þ̄ the Lorde wyl heale me, & þ̄ I shall go vp into the house of the Lord the thyrd daye? And Isaiah sayde: thys signe shalt thou haue of the Lorde, that the Lorde wil do that he hath spokē: shal the shadow go forward ten degrees, or go backe agayne ten degrees? And Hezekiah sayd: it is a light thing for ỹ shadow to go downe. x. degrees. Therfore I wil not ỹ: but let the shadowe goo backeward ten degrees. And Isaiah the Prophet called to þ̄ Lord * and he brought the shadow ten degrees backwarde by whych it had gone downe, in the dyall of Ahaz.

* The same reason Berodach Baladā the sonne of Baladan kynge of Babilon sent letters & presentes vnto Hezekiah, for he hearde howe that Hezekiah was sycke. And Hezekiah harkened vnto them & shewed them al that was in the spicery house and hys syluer & gould & odoures & precious oyntmētes and his armoyre & al that was found in hys treasure: there was nothinge in hys house or in all hys realme, that he shewed them not.

Thē came Isaiah þ̄ prophet vnto king Hezekiah & sayd to hym: What saye these men & from whence come they to the? And Hezekiah sayd: they be come from a farre countreye, euen frō Babilon. And he said: what haue they sene in thy house? And Hezekiah sayd: all ỹ is in my house haue they sene: there is nothing among my treasure that I haue not shewed them. And Isaiah sayd to Hezekiah: heare the worde of þ̄ Lorde. Beholde the day shal come, that al that is in thyne house & that thy fathers haue layde vp in store vnto this daye, shalbe caried to Babilo, & nothing shalbe left saith the Lorde. And of thy sonne that proceded out of the, whych thou begattest, shall ther be carped awaye, and shal be made chamberlaynes in the palace of the king of Babilon. And Hezekiah sayde to Isaiah: welcome be the word of the Lord whych thou haste spoken: so that peace and truthe be kepte in my dayes.

The remnaũt of ỹ dedes of Hezekiah & al his power, & howe he made a pole and a conduite & brought the water into the cytie, are writtẽ in the boke of the chronicles of ỹ kinges of Juda. And Hezekiah layd him to rest with his fathers, & Manasseh his sonne raygned in his steade.

¶ Wicked Manasseh restoreth agayne the Idolles and after dieth, in whose steade Amõ hys sonne raygneth, which is killed of hys owne seruaũtes: After hym raygneth faythfull Josiah

The. xxi. Chapter.

A Lyra. xxiij. 31

MAnasseh was twelue yere old whẽ he began to raygne and raygned .lv. yere in Jerusalẽ his mothers name was Haphzibah. And he dyd that displesed the Lorde, euẽ after the abhominatiõs of the Hethen whych the Lord cast out before the childrẽ of Israel. And he went & buylt the hyllaulters agayne, whych Hezekiah hys father had destroyed. And he reared vp aulters to Baal and made groues as dyd Ahab kyng of Israell. And he bowed hym selfe vnto all the * Hoste of heuẽ and serued them. And he buylt aulters in the very house of the Lorde, of whych the Lord had sayd: * in Jerusalẽ I wyll putt my name. And he buylte aulters vnto al ỹ Hoste of heuẽ, euen in two courtes of the house of the Lorde. And he offred his sõne in fyre, and obserued dismal dayes, & vsed witchcraft and mayntened workers with spyrytes, & tellers of fortunes: & wrought moche wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde to angre hym.

* Deute. xxii

* Reg. viii. b

B And he putt an ymage of a groue ỹ he had made, euẽ in the very temple of which the Lord had sayde to Dauid & to Salomon hys sonne, * in this house & in Jerusalẽ which I haue chosen out of al trybes of Israel, wil I put my name for euer. Neither wyl I make the fete of Israell mone any moare out of the lande whych I gaue theyr fathers: so that they wylbe diligente to do al I haue cõmaunded thẽ, & al ỹ law that my seruaunte Moyses commaunded them. But they herkened not: for Manasseth had led thẽ out of the waye, to do more wyckedlye then dydde thee Hethen people whych the Lorde destroyed from before ỹ childrẽ of Israell.

* 3. Reg. viii. b

And the lord spake by his seruaũtes the Prophetes, sayinge: because Manasseh king of Juda hath done soch abhominacions, & hath wrought wickedly aboue al ỹ the Amorites which were before him dyd: & hath made Juda synne also with his Idolles. Therfore thus saith the Lord god of Israel. * Behold, I wyl bring soche euel vpõ Jerusalẽ & Juda, ỹ thee eares of al ỹ heare it, shall tingle at it. And I wyll stretch ouer Jerusalẽ the squaring line of Samaria & the plometh of ỹ house of Ahab. And I wyl wepe oute Jerusalẽ, as a man wold wipe a dishe, & whẽ he hath wyped it turneth it vpsedowne. And though I leaue a remnaũt of myne enhertaunce, yet I wyl deliuer them into the handes of thẽ that hate them, & they shalbe robbed & spoyled of al theyr enemyes: euen because they haue done wyckedlye & haue angred me, sence the tyme theyr fathers came out of Egypte vnto thys daye.

* Jere. xix. C

And therto Manasseh shed inocẽt blould exceedinge aboũdantly, in so moche that he replenished Jerusalẽ in al corners, beside his synne wherwith he made Juda synne and to do euel in the syght of the Lorde.

D The rest of the actes of Manasseh & all he did & his synne that he sinned, ar writtẽ in the boke of ỹ chronicles of ỹ kynges of Juda. And Manasseh layde hi to slepe wt hys fathers, & was buried in the gardẽ of hys owne house, euẽ in the gardẽ of Oza: & Amon his sonne raygned in hys steade.

Amon was .xxii. yere olde whẽ he began to raygne, & he raygned two yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Mesalemeth thee daughter of Haru of Jathbah. And he dyd that displeased the Lorde as his father Manasseh did. And he walked in all the waye that hys father walked in, and serued thee Idolles that hys Father serued, & bowed hym selfe to them. And he forsoke the Lord God of his fathers and walked not in the waye of the Lorde.

And

And the seruauntes of Amon cõspired against him, & slue him in his owne house. But the people of the lãd slue al that conspired against king Amon, & made Josiah his sõne kinge in his rowme. The rest of ỹ actes of Amõ which he did ar writtẽ in the chronicle of ỹ kinges of Juda. And thei buried hi in his sepulchre in ỹ gardẽ of Oza, & Josiah his sonne raygned in his steade.

¶ After Josiah heard of ỹ boke of the lawe ỹ was found in the tẽple, he sendeth to Oldah the Prophetisse for counsel.

The. xxii. Chapter.

A IOsiah was .viii. yere old whẽ he began to raygne, & he raigned .xxxi. yeare in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Idi dah the daughter of Adaiah of Bezecath. And he dyd that semed ryght in the syght of the Lorde, & walked in all the wayes of Dauid hys father, & bowed nether to the right hand or to the lefte.

And the .xviii. yere of his raygne kyng Josiah sent Saphã the sonne of Azaliah the sonne of Mesulã the scribe to ỹ house of the Lord, sayinge: go to Helkiah the hye preste, & lett him summe the syluer that is brought into the house of the Lord, which thekepers of the dores haue gathered of ỹ people, & lett them delyuer it into the handes of the workmẽ that haue ỹ ouersyghte of the house of the Lord, whych shal geue it to thẽ that worcke vpon the house of the Lord, to repayre ỹ decayed places therof, euen vnto carpẽters and masons, and for to bye tymber and stone to repayre the house. Howbeit lett no rekeninge be made wyth them of the moneye that is deliuered into theyr handes, but lette them doo it of theyr conscience.

C And Helkiah the hie preest sayd to Saphan the scribe, I haue found the boke of the law in the temple of the Lord, and Helkiah gaue the boke to Saphan, & he red it And then Saphan the scribe went to the king and brought hym word agayne, and sayd: thy seruaũtes powred out the syluer that was found in the temple, and haue deliuered it vnto the workemẽ that haue the ouersyght of the house of the Lorde. Furthermore Saphan thee scribe shewed thee kyng saying: Helkiah the preest hath deliuered me here a boke. And Saphan redde it before the kynge.

And the kyng as sone as he had heard the wordes of the boke of the lawe, he rent hys clothes & cõmaũded Helkiah the preest & Ahikam the sonne of Saphan & Achobor the sonne of Michaiah, and Saphan the scribe, and Asahiah a seruaunte of the kynges, saying: go ye & seke of the Lorde for me and the people and for al Juda, cõcerninge thee wordes of thys boke that is founde. For it is a great wrath of the Lorde that is kendled vpon vs, that oure fathers haue not herkened vnto the wordes of thys Boke, to do in all poyntes as it is wrytten therein.

And Helkiah the hye preest & Ahikam, Achobor, Saphan, Asahiah wẽt vnto Oldah the Prophetisse wyfe of Sellum thee sonne of Tekuah the sonne of Harahã kepet of the robes, whych Prophetisse dwelt in Jerusalem in the second warde, & communed wyth her. And she said to them: thus sayth the Lord god of Israel. Tel the mã that sent you to me: thus sayth the Lorde: beholde I wyl bring euel vpon this place and on the dwellers therin: euen al the wordes of the boke which the kynge of Juda hathe red, because they haue forsaken me and haue burnte offeringes vnto other Goddes, to anger me wyth all the * workes of theyr hãdes. Therfore is my wrath kyndled agaynste thys place, and shal not be quenched.

* that is, the theyr Images.

But to ỹ king of Juda which sent you to enquyre of ỹ Lord, so shal ye saye: thus sayth the lord God of Israel, as touchyng the wordes which thou heardest. Because thyne herte dyd melte & thou mekedest thy self before me the lord, whẽ thou heardest what I spake against this place & the enhabiters of the same, how ỹ it shuld be destroyed & made a cursed: and tarest thy clothes and weptest before me: of that also I haue heard saith the Lord. And therfore se I wyl * receaue ỹ vnto thy fathers & wyl set the vnto thy graue in peace, thine eyes shal se none of the euel which I wyl bring vppon thys place. And they broughte the kynge worde agayne.

* Receaue thy vnto thy fathers, that is, vnto the same sayeth 8 eyghte wyfe vnes that thy fathers ar receaued for whiche cause be called the bosome of Abraham, Luke, xvi. c

AND then the kynge sentt and geathered vnto hym al the elders of Juda and of Jerusalem. And the kynge wente vp in to the house of the Lorde, and all the men of Juda and all the enhabitoures of Jerusalem wyth him, & the Preastes and the Prophetes and all the people both smalle and greate. And he red in the eares of them all the wordes of the boke of the couenaunt, whych was found in the house of the Lorde. And the kyng stode by a piller and made a couenaũte before the Lord that they shuld walke after the Lorde, and kepe hys commaundementes and hys wytnesses and hys ordynaunces wythe all theyr hertes and all their soules, and make good the wordes of the sayd appoyntment ẏ were writtẽ in the forsaide boke. And al the people consented to the appoyntmente.

And the kyng commaunded Helkiah ẏ hye preast and the inferioure preastes and the kepers of the dore, to bryng out of the temple of the Lorde all the vesselles that were made for Baal & for the groue & for all the *Hoste of heauen. And he burnt thẽ without Jerusalem in ẏ feldes of Cedron & caryed the asshes of them in to Bethell.

And he put downe ẏ *‡Camarites which ẏ kinges of Juda had set to burne offeryngs in ẏ hilaulters in ẏ cities of Juda roũde about Jerusalem and also thẽ ẏ burnt sacrifices vnto Baall to the sunne & to the mone & to the planetes, & to all the hoste of heauen. And he brought out the groue frõ the temple of the Lorde without Jerusalẽ vnto the broke Cedron, and burnt it at the broke Cedrõ & stãpte it to pouldre, & * cast the dust therof vpõ the graues of the people of the countreye. And he brake downe the celles of the malchores that were in the house of the Lorde, where ẏ weimen woue lytle houses for the groue.

This did it to the detestation of ẏ hadde worshipped it in theyr kynges tyme.

And he brought al the preastes oute of ẏ cities of Juda, and defyled the hilaulters wher the preastes dyd burne sacrifyce, euẽ frõ Gabaa to Bersabe. And he brake downe the hilaulters of the gates, that were in the enterynge of the gate of Josua ẏ gouernoure of the cytie, whiche were on ẏ left hande of the gate of the cytye. Neuerthelesse the preastes of the hilaulters myghte not come at the aulter of the Lord in Jerusalẽ, saue only thei did eate of ẏ swete breade amonge their brethren.

And he defiled ‡Thopheth also, whyche is in ẏ valey of the childre of Hennom, because no man shulde offer hys sonne or hys daughter in fyre to Moloch: he put downe ẏ horses that the kinges of Israell had geuẽ to the sonne at the entring of the house of the Lord, in the chambre of Mathamelech the chamberlayne whych was * that is, of Barnarim, & burnt the charettes of the sonne with fire. And the aulters that were on ẏ topp of the pareloure of Ahaz whych ẏ kingz of Juda had made, & ẏ aulters why che Manasseh had made in the two courtes of the house of the Lorde, the kyng brake downe, & ranne thence and cast the dust of them into the broke Cedron.

And the hilaulters that were before Jerusalem on the ryght hand of the mounte ‖ ‡Machith, which Salomõ kynge of Israel built to Astharoth the abhomynacyõ of the Zidons and to Chamos the abhomination of the Moabites, and to Milchom the abhomynatiõ of the childre of Ammõ, ẏ kynge defiled: & brake the ymages & cut downe the groues and fylled the places wt the bones of men.

Moreouer the aulter that was at Bethel, the hilaulter made by Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat whych made Israell synne: bothe the aulter and also the hyl he brake downe and burnt the hill and stampte it to powder, and burnte the groue. And as Josiah turned him selfe, he spied thre graues ẏ were in the moũte and sent & fett the bones out of the graues & burnt them vp on the aulter & poluted it accordyng to the worde of the Lorde that the man of God had proclaymed, which openly had denoũced the same thynges.

Thẽ ẏ kynge sayde: what meaneth yoñ der graue stone that I se. And the men of the cytye tolde hym, it is the sepulchre of the man of God, whych came from Juda and openly denounced the selfe same thynges that thou hast done to ẏ aulter of Bethel. And he sayde let hym be, ẏ no man moue moue his bones. And so hys bones scaped wyth the boones of a Prophete that came out of Samaria.

And thereto al the houses of the hylaultes of the cyties of Samaria whyche the kinges of Israel had made, to anger with all: Josiah put out of the way & dyd to thẽ in all poyntes as he dyd in Bethel. And he sacrificed al the Preastes of the hilaulters that were there euen vpon the aulters, & burnt mens bones vpon them, and returned to Jerusalem.

And ẏ kynge cõmaunded all the people saying: * kepe ẏ feast of passouer vnto ẏ lorde your god, as it is writtẽ in ẏ boke of this couenaũt. For ther was no passouer holde lyke ẏ, frõ the dayes of the iudges ẏ iudged Israel, & thoro out al the dayes of the kinges of Israel & of Juda. And in the .xviii. yere of king Josiah was this passouer holden to the Lord in Jerusalem.

And therto workers wt spyrites, sothsayers, Images of witchcraft, idoles & all other abhominatiõs ẏ were spied in ẏ land of Juda & in Jerusalẽ, Josiah put out of the way, to make good the wordes of thee lawe, whiche were written in the boke that Helkiah the priest found in the house of ẏ Lord: like vnto him was ther no kinge before hym, that turned to the Lord wythall his hert, withall hys soule & al his myght, according to al the lawe of Moses, nether after hym arose there any soch.

Notwithstanding the Lord turned not frõ his fearce & greate wrath wherwith he was angrie agaynst Juda vpõ al the prouocatiõs that Manasseh prouoked hym. But the Lord sayd: I wyll putt Juda to, out of my syght, as I haue done Israel, & wyl cast of this citie Jerusalẽ which I haue chosen, & ẏ house of which I haue said, my name shalbe there.

4.pa.xxiiij. Jere.xxix.a. kyng of Babilō made Mathaniah hys fathers brother, kynge in his steade, & chaūged his name and called him Zedekiah.

Zedekiah was. xxi. yere olde when he begāne to raigne & he raigned a. xi. yere in Jerusalē. His mothers name was Hamital ỹ daughter of Jeremiah of Lobnah. And he did euel in the syght of the lord, in al poynt es like to Jehoakim. For through ỹ wrath of the Lord it so chanced to Jerusalem & Juda, vntyll he had cast them oute of hys sight. And the sayde Zedekiah rebelled agaynst the kynge of Babilon.

¶ By the rebellyng of zedekiah is the towne of Jerusalem beseaged of Nabuchodonozor. The towne & the temple are bothe burnt. The sonnes of zedekiah are slayne before hys eyes, & after ar his eyes put out. Juda is brought in Babilon, and after is Jehoacin exalted.

The. xxv. Chapter.

VWherfore in the ninthe yere of hys raygne, the tenthe day of A the tenthe monethe came Nabuchodonozor kynge of Babilon wythe all hys power to Jerusalem: and pitched agaynste the towne and made engynes agaynste it on euery syde. And the cittie continued beseged vnto the. xi. yere of kynge Zedekiah. And the nynthe day of the fourthe monethe of that yere, there was so greate hongre in the cytie, that there was no sustynaunce for the people of the lande.

And therto the cittie was broke vp: wherfore all the men of Armes fled by night, by away thorow a gate, betwene two walles harde on the kynges garden: the caldeyes lyenge aboute the cytye.

And ỹ kyng wēt strayght towarde the B desert. And ỹ host of the caldeyes folowed after hym, & toke him in the deserte of Jericho, all his armie beynge scatered awaye frō him. And whē they had taken him they brought him to Nabuchodonozor ỹ kinge of Babilon to Reblah, where they* tread that is the reproued him with sauce with him because he had rebelled & broke his oth ned withe him. And they slue the sonnes of Zedekiah before his eies, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and fettered hym, and caryed hym to Babilon.

And the seuēthe day of the fifth monethe which was in the nyntenth yere of kynge Nabuchodonozor kynge of Babilon came Nabusaradan seruaunt of the kynge of Babilon and* chefe Marthal, vnto Jerusalem: & burute the house of the Lorde and Nabuzaradan chefe of the cokes. Or the chefe captayne

Lorde and the kynges house and all the houses of Jerusalē, and all greate houses burnt he wt fire. And al the host of the Caldeyes that were wt ỹ chefe Marthal: brake downe ỹ walles of Jerusalē roundc about. And the rest of ỹ people that were left in the cittie, & them that were fledd to the kinge of Babilon, and the remnaūt of the C comen people, Nabusaradan ỹ chefe Marshall caryed awaye, & lefte of the poore of the lande to dresse the vynes and to tyl the grounde.

And the pyllers of brasse that were in the house of the Lorde and the botomes, and the brasen see that was in the house of the Lorde the Caldeyes brake, and caryed the brasse of them to Babilon. And the la- Some redy instrumen ts of musyche D uers, shouelles, * dressyngeknyues, ladelles, and the instrstring vesselles of brasse, they caryed awaye. And the firepannes, & basens that were ether of golde or syluer, che toke the chefe Marthal away with the two pillers and the see of brasse and the bottomes whyche Salomon had made in the house of the Lorde. The brasse of al these vessilles was wythoute wayghte. The height of the one piller was. xviii. cubites, and the heed theron was brasse and thre cubites long with a wrethe & pomegranetes rounde about vpon the heed, all of brasse. And of the same fashiō was the second pyller with a wrethe.

And the chefe Marthal toke Saraiah E the chefe preste, and Zophoniah the hyeste preste saue one, & thre keepers of the dore. And out of the cittie he toke a certayne chāberlayne that had the ouersyght of the men of warre, and fyue men that were euer in ỹ kynges presence, whyche were founde in the cytye and Sophet the captayne of the host that taughte the people of the lād to make warre, & thre skore men of the people of the lands that were founde in the cytie also. And Nabusaradā the chefe Marthall toke them & brought thē to the king of Babilon to Reblah. And the kyng of Babilō smote them and slue them at Reblah in the lād of Hemath. And so Juda was caried awaye out of their lande.

And ouer the people that remayned in the F lande of Juda, whyche Nabuchodonozor king of Babilon lefte, he set Godoliah the sonne of Ahikam thee sonne of Saphan.

And when all the captaynes of the men of warre and the men heārde that the kynge of Babilō had made Godoliah gouernor: there came to Godoliah to Mazphah: Ismaell the sonne of Nathaniah and Johanā the sonne of Kareah & Sariah the sōne of Thanehumeth ỹ Netophathite & Jezoniah ỹ sōne of Maachati & their mē. And Godoliah sware to them and to theyr men and sayde to them: feare not ye the seruaūtes of the Caldeyes. But dwelle in the lande and serue the kyng of Babilon and ye shalbe in good condycion.

But it chaūced the seuenth monethe after, that Ismael the sōne of Nathaniah ỹ sonne of Elisama of the kynges bloude came, & ten men with hym and smote Godoliah that he died: and so did he the Jewes & the Caldeys ỹ were wt him at Mazphah. Therupon al the people bothe smalle and greate and the captaynes of the men of warre arose & wēt to Egipte: for they were afrayed of the Caldeyes. G

Notwithstanding yet the. xxvii. yere after Jehoacin kyng of Juda was caried awaye, the. xxvii. daye of the twelueth monethe, dyd Euilmerodach kynge of Babilō lifte vp the heed of Jehoiacin kyng of Juda out of the presone house, and spake kyndelye to hym and set hys seate aboue the seate of all the kynges ỹ were withe hym in Babilon, & chaunged hys presō garmētes. And he dyd euer eate breade before him al the dayes of his life. And a cōtinual pozciō was assigned hi of ỹ king, day by daye as longe as he lyued.

¶ The battel of Saul agaynst the Philistynes: in wyche he dyeth and hys sonnes also.

The.x. Chapter.

And the Philistines fought agaynst Israel. And the mē of Israel fled before y Philistines & were ouerthrowē & slayne in Mount Gelboe. And y Philistines folowed Saul & his sonnes & slue Jehonathan, Abinadab and Melchisua the sonnes of Saull. And the battell wēt soze against Saul, in so moche that y shotters met him, & he was wounded of y shotters. Then sayde Saul to his weapon bearer* drawe thy swerde & thrust me ther owe therwythe, that these vncyrcumcysed come not and do me shame. And his wepō bearer would not, but feared exceadyngly. Wherupon Saul caught a swerde & fel vpon it. And whē his harnesbearer sawe y Saul was deed, he fel on a swerde also and dyed.

Iud. xx. & 1. reg. xxxi. b

And thus Saull and hys thze sonnes and all hys house died together. And whē all the men that dwelt in the valeyes, saw how they fled, and that Saull and hys sōnes were deed they forsoke theyr cytyes & ranne away, and the philistines came and dwelt in them.

And on the morow whē y Philistines came raine to stripe the deed bodies, they founde Saul and hys sonnes ouerthrowen in mount Gelboe. And when they had stript hym they toke hys deed and hys harnesse and sente them in to the lande of the Philistines rounde aboute to shewe tydynges vnto theyr Gods and to the people. And they put hys harnesse in ỹ houses of theyr Gods. But hys skulle they hanged in the house of Dagon.

D And when al they of Jabes in Galaad hearde al that the Philistines had done to Saul, al ỹ we of warre arose & fet awaye the body of Saul, & ỹ bodies of his sõnes and brought them to Jabes & buryed the bones of thẽ vnder an ocke in Jabes, & fasted seuen dayes.

And so Saul dyed for his trespace that he trespased agaynst the Lorde, in that he kepte not the worde of the Lorde, and in that he asked councell of a woman that wrought with a spyrite, & asked not of the lorde. And therfore the Lord kylled hym & turned the kyngdome vnto Dauid the sonne of Jesai.

¶ After the Deeth of Saul is Dauid annoynted in Hebro. The Jebusites rebel against Dauid. Ioab wynneth ỹ towre of Sion. His men are nõbred.

The.xi. Chapter.

THen al Israel gethered thẽ selues to Dauid vnto Hebron, & sayde: se we by thy bones & thy flesh. And moreouer in tyme past, euẽ whẽ Saul was king, thou leddest Israel out and in. And the Lord thy God sayde vnto the: ỹ shalt fede my people Israel, & thou shalt be captaine ouer my people Israel. And when al the elders of Israel were come to the king to Hebron, Dauid made a couenaunte wt̃ them there before the Lorde. And they anoynted Dauid kynge ouer Israel accordinge to the woorde of the Lord by the hãde of Samuel.

A 2. Reg. v. a

B And Dauid & al Israel went to Jerusalem whyche is Jebus: for there dwelte the Jebusites thee enhabiters of the land. And ỹ enhabiters of Jebus sayde to Dauid, thou comeste not here. Neuertheles Dauid wanne the castel of Sion, whych is called ỹ cytye of Dauid. Then sayde Dauid: whosoeuer smyte the Jebusites first, shalbe ỹ principal captayne & a lord. And Joab the sonne of Zaruiah wẽt first vp, & was therefore ỹ chefe captayne. And because Dauid dwelte in the castel, therfore it was called the citie of Dauid. And he built ỹ cytie on euery side euẽ from Mello rounde aboute. But Joab repared the reste of the cytte. And Dauid prospered & waxed greate, and the Lorde of hoostes was wyth hym.

C * These are the principal mẽ of powre ỹ claue to Dauid in his kyngdome wyth al Israel to make hym kyng vpõ Israel accõding to the word of the Lord. * 1. Par. xi. a

And after him Eleazar the sõne of Dodo an Ahothite which was one of ỹ three mighty best. He was with Dauid at Phaldamin where the Philistynes were gethered to battell. And there was there a parsell of ground ful of barley, and the people fled for feare of the philistines. And they stept forth into the myddes of the furlong & saued it and slue the Philistines. And ỹ lord gaue a great victorye.

D And the three of ỹ .xxx. chefe wente to a rocke to Dauid at the caue Odolam. And the hoste of the Phylystines had pytched in ỹ valey of Raphaim. And Dauid was in an holde. And there was a garison of the Philistines at Bethlehẽ that same tyme. And Dauid longed & sayd: * Oh that one wolde geue me of the water of the well of Bethlehẽ that is in ỹ gate, for to drincke. And the three brake thorow the host of the philistines and drew of the water of ỹ well of Bethlehem ỹ was in the gate, & toke it & brought it to Dauid. Neuertheles Dauid wolde not drincke of it, but offered it to the Lorde, & sayde: God forbyd it me, that I shuld do thys thyng, ỹ I shuld drynck the bloude of these men that haue put their lues in Jeopardye (for with the Jeopardie of their lues they brought it) and therfore he wolde not drincke it. This dyd the three myghtyest.

* 1. Par. xi. d

E And Abisai the brother of Joab was captayne of the three, and he lyfte vp hys spere agaynste .iii. hundred and slue them, and had a name amonge the three. And he was moche more noble then anye of the three, and was theyr captayne. But was not lyke to any of the three in actes.

Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada ỹ sõne of a stronge man ỹ had done great dedes & was of Cabzeel: he slue two strõg lions of Moab, & went downe and slue a Lyon in a pyt in tyme of snow. And he slue an Egiptiah whyche was a mãn of a size, euen fyue cubytes longe, and in his hãde had a speare lyke a weuers beame. And the other went to hym with a wasker and plucked the speare out of the Egiptians hãd, & slue hym withe his speare. Soche thynges dyd Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada, and had a name with the three mightiest, & was the glorye ouer all ỹ three: but attained not vnto the three. And Dauid made hym of hys secret councell.

And these were the best men of warre of the hoste: Asahel the brother of Joab and Elhanã the sonne of Dodo out of Bethlehem. Samoth the Harorite, Helez ỹ Pharonite: Ira the sonne of Ikes ỹ Thekuite, Abieser ỹ Anathothite: Sobacai the Husathite, Ilai the Ahohite: Maharai ỹ Netophathite & Heled the sonne of Baanah the Netophathite: Ithai ỹ sõne of Ribai of Gabaah that pertaineth to the chylder of Benamin: Banaiah the Pharathonite: Haurai of the ryuer of Gaas, & Abiell the Arbathite: Azmoth the Bahatmunite. Eliaba the Saalbonite. The sõnes of Hasem the Gezonite, Jonathan the sonne of Sagah, an Hararite: Ahiam the sonne of Sacar the Hararite. Eliphal the sonne of Ur. Hepher the Mecharathite, Ahiah the Phalonite: Hezro the Carmelite, and Naarai ỹ sõne of Azbai: Joel the brother of Nathan: Mibahar the sõne of Gari: Zelec an Ammonite & Naharai a Berothite ỹ bearer of the harnesse of Joab ỹ sõne of Zaruiah: Ira the Jethrite & Gareb a Jethrite. Uriah the Hethite, zabad ỹ sonne of Ohelai: Adina the sonne of Siza a Rubenite & an heed amonge the Rubenites and .xxx. aboute him: Hanan the sonne of Maacah and Josaphat a Mathanite: Ozeah an Asharothite: Sama and Jaiel the sonnes of Hotham an Aroerite: Jediall the sõne of Zamri and Joha his brother Thozites: Eliel a Mahumite: And Jeribai and Josaiah the sõnes of Elnaem and Jethmah a Moabite: Eliel and Obed and Jasiel of Masobaiah.

¶ What they were that went with Dauid whẽ he fledde from Saul.

The.xii. Chapter.

AND these folowenge came to Dauid to Zikelag, whyle he yet * kepte hym selfe close for feare of Saull the sonne of Cis: and they were of the mẽ that socoured the battell, wepened wythe bowes, & couthe handle stones, arowes & bowes as well wyth the lefte hand as wythe the ryghte, and were of Sauls brethrẽ, euen of the tryde of Beniamin. The chefeste were Ahiezer and Joas the sonnes of Samaah a Gibeonite, & Jasiel & Phalete, the sonnes of Azmoth. Baracah and Jehu of Anathoth. And Ismaiah a Gabaonite as myghty as any of thyrtie and moare myghtye to. And Jeremiah, Jehaziel, Johanan & Josabad of Gedor. Eleusai, Jerimoth, Baaliah, Samariah and Saphatiah: Haraphites. Elcanah, Jesiah, Azrael, Joezer, Jolebam of Carehim. And Joelah and Zabadiah the sonnes of Jeroham of Gedor.

* that is, hyd hym selfe

B And of the Gadites there separated thẽ selues vnto Dauid whẽ he kept an holde in ỹ wyldernes, mẽ of myght & men apte for warre & could hãdle shilde and speare, whose faces were lyke the faces of Lyõs, & they were therto as swyft as the Rodes of hyt mountaynes: Ezer the fyrst, Obdiah the second, Eliab ỹ thyrd, Masmanah the fourthe Jeremiah the fyfte, Ethi the syxt, Eliel the seuẽth, Johanã the eyghte, Elsabad ỹ .ix. Jeremiah the tenth, & Machbanai the .xi. These were of the sonnes of Gad & were captaynes ouer the men of warre, thee small ouer an. C, & the greate ouer a thousand. These ar they that went ouer Jordã in the fyrst monethe, when he had fylled ouer al hys bancke. And they put to flyght thẽ of the valey both of the eastsyde and also the west.

C And ther came of the chyldren of Beniamin & Judã to ỹ holde of Dauid. And Dauid went out to them & answered and sayde to thẽ: If ye be come peasably vnto me, to helpe me, myne hert shalbe to gether wyth you. But and yf you come to begyle me and to be myne aduersary, seyng there is no wyckednes in myne hãds, the God of oure fathers loke thereon & rebuke it.

And

And the spirite came vpon Amasai a captayne ouer .xxx. and he sayde, thyne are we Dauid, & on thy side thou sonne of Jesai: *peace be with ỹ, & peace be with thine helpers, for thy God helpeth the. Then Dauid receaued them & made thẽ heedes of companyes of the men of warre.

2.Chro.15.d

And there fell of Manasseh to Dauid whẽ he went with the Philistines agaynst Saul to battel, *but holpe them not. For the lordes of the Philistines toke counsel and sent him away saying: he wyll fall to his master Saul to the ieopardye of our heedes. And as he went to Zikelag ther fel to hym of Manasseh: Ednah Jozabad, Jediael, Michael, of Jozabad, Elihu and Zilthai, heedes of the thousandes of Manasseh. And they holpe Dauid agaynste thole rouers. For they were al mighty mẽ and Captaynes in warre. And there came one or other to Dauid daye by daye to helpe him: vntyll it was a great hoste, lyke ỹ hoste of God.

2.Ma.xiii.a

And this is the nũbre of the heedes prepared to battell, ỹ came to Dauid to Hebron, to turne ỹ kingdõ of Saul to hym, accordynge to the mouthe of the Lorde.

The chyldren of Juda that bare shyld & speare were syxe thousande and eyghte hundred trymmed to warre. Of the chyldren of Simeon, men of mighte to warre, seuẽ thousande and one hundred. And of the chyldren of Leui were foure thousand and syxe hundred. And Jehoiada was the cheke of thẽ of Aaron & with him thre thousande and seuen hundred. And Zadock a yõg mã of great power had hys fathers houshold wyth Captaynes .xxii. And of ỹ childrẽ of Beniamin the brethren of Saul, were thre thousãd. And a great part of thẽ dyd yet folow the house of Saul.

And of the childrẽ of Ephraim, were .xx. thousand and eight hũdred, mẽ of myghte and named men in the housholdes of their fathers. And of ỹ halfe tryde of Manasseh .xviii. thousande which were appoynted by name to go to make Dauid kyng.

F And of ỹ childrẽ of Issacar which were mẽ that had vnderstanding in ỹ right time to know what Israel ought to do: The heades of thẽ were two hũdred, and all theyr brethrẽ at their wil. And of Zabulon ỹ went out wyth the Hoste and prouided in the araye to battell withe all maner of wepons of warre, fyftye thousande that kept in ordre wythe one accorde. And of Nephthali a thousande Captaynes, and wythe them with shylde & speare .xxxvii. thousãd. And of Dan prepared to battell, were .xxviii. thousande and .vi. hundred. And of Aser ỹ wẽt out vñ the host to make battel, fourtye thousand. And of ỹ other syde Jordã, of the Rubenites, Gaddites & of the halfe tryde of Manasseh wyth all maner of instrumentes of warre an hundred and twẽtye thousande.

All these beynge men of warre able to G ordre the arate, came to Hebron with pure herte, to make Dauid kynge vpon al Israel. And therto al ỹ rest of Israel was of one accorde to make Dauid kynge. And there they were with Dauid thre dayes eatyng & drynckyng: for their brethren prepared for them. Moreouer they that were nie to thẽ, as Issacar, Zabulõ and Nephthali brought bread on asses, Camels, mules & oxen, & meate: flour, figges, reasynges, wyne, oyle, oxen, & shepe aboũdãtlye. For there was inyythe in Israel.

¶ The arcke is brought again frõ Kariath Jarim to Jerusalem. Oza dyeth.

The. xiii. Chapter.

AND Dauid counceled with ỹ A Captaynes of thousandes & hũdredes, and with al the lordes, and sayde vnto all the cõgregacyon of Israell: If it seme you good and also to be of the Lord our God: Let vs take & sende vnto the rẽnaunt of oure brethren thorow out al the lãd of Israel, & to the preastes and Leuites with thẽ in their cytyes and suburbes, & gather thẽ to geather to vs. And let vs bryngc agayne the Arcke of the Lorde to vs: for we regarded it not in the dayes of Saul. And all the congregacyon was tõtent so to do, for the thyng semed good in the eyes of al the people.

And Dauid geathered all Israel toge B ther frõ *Sihor in Egypt vnto Hemath, * Gen.15. to bryng the arcke of the lord frõ Kariath Num.34. Jarim. And Dauid wẽt vp & al Israel to Baalah, & so to Kariath Jarim ỹ is in Juda, to fet thẽce the arcke of the God & lord that sittethe on the Cherubes. Where hys name is called on. And they carped ỹ arck of

C of God in a new cart out of ỹ house of Aminadab. And Oza & his brother Oza dreue ỹ carte. And Dauid & all Israel played before god with al their myght, with syngin ge, harpes, psalteries, tymbzelles and trõpettes. And whẽ they came on ỹ threshyng flowre of Chidon, Oza put forth hys hãde to holde the arcke, for ỹ oxen stombled. And the lord was wroth wt Oza & smotẽ hym, because he put hys hãde tõ the Arcke. And ther he dyed before god. And Dauid was displeased, because ỹ Lord had rẽt a D thatis, the deuision of Oza. rẽt in Oza, and called the sayd place * Perez Oza vnto this daye. And Dauid was so afraied of God that day, that he sayde, how shal I bryuge the Arck of god whom to me. And so Dauid brought not ỹ Arck home to him to ỹ cytie of Dauid: But turned it into the house of Obed Edom a Gethite. And ỹ Arck of God was with Obed Edom in his house, thre monethes. And ỹ Lord blessed the house of Obed Edõ & al that he had.

¶ Hyram sendeth wodde & workmẽ to Dauid. Dauid begetteth chyldrẽ after he had taken him wiues he hath .vi. victoryes of the Philistines.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

A 2.Reg.5.b. AFter that Hirã kyng of Tire sent messengers to Dauid & tymbre of Cedar trees wythe masõs & Carpenters, to buyl de hym an house. Whereby Dauid perceaued that the Lorde had prepared hym to be kyng vpõ Israel, in ỹ his kingdome was lifte vp an hye, because of hys people Israell. And Dauid toke yet moo wyues at Jerusalem & begat mo sõnes & daughters. And these ar the names of his childrẽ which he had borne him at Jerusalem: Samua, Sobab, Nathan, & Salomon: Jebhar, Elisua & Eliphalett, Noga, Nepheg & Japhiah. Elisama, Baliada and Eliphelet.

B And whẽ it was knowne among the phylistines that Dauid was anoynted kynge vpon all Israel, all the Philistines wente vp to seke Dauid. And Dauid hearde of it & went out agaynst them. And the Philistines came & prauncen in the valeye of Raphaim. And Dauid asked god saying: shall I go agaynst the Philistines & wylt ỹ deliuer them in to mine hãdes? And the Lord sayd to hym: go, for I wyll delyuer C thẽ into thyne hand. And when they were & sayde vnto them: ye are ỹ principall heedes of the Leuites, sanctefye therefore youre selues & your brethren, and bryng the Arcke of the Lord God of Israel vnto ỹ place ỹ I haue prepared for it. For because ye were not there at the fyrst tyme, the Lorde oure God made a rent among vs, for that we sought hym not as the fassiõ ought to be. And the preastes and the Leuites sanctefied them selues, to fett the Arcke of the Lorde God of Israel. And ỹ children of the Leuites bare ỹ Arcke of God vpon theyr shoulders wythe staues theron as Moses commaunded accordynge to the worde of the Lorde.

And Dauid spake to the cheefe heedes of the Leuites, that they shulde appoynte of their brethren to synge vp instrumentes of musycke psalteries, harpes & cymbales that sounded, and to synge on hye vp Joyfulnesse. And the Leuites appointed Heman the sõne of Joell: and of hys brethren, Asaph the sonne of Barachiah. And of the sõnes of Merari their brethrẽ: Ethã the sõne of Cusaiahu. And vp thẽ their brethren of the secõd degree: Zachariah, Ben, Jaaziel, Semiramoth, Jahiel, Uni, Eliab, Banaiah, Maasiah, Mathathiah, Eliphelehu, Makaniah, Obed Edõ and Jaiel, porters. Heman, Asah and Ethan sange wyth cymbales of brasse to make a sounde. And Zachariah, Oziel, Semiramoth, Jehiell, Uni, Eliab, Maasiah & Banaiah sange vp psalteries on an * Almoth. And Mathathiah, Eliphelehu, Makeniah, Obed Edõ, Jeiel, & Ozaziah sang vp harpes an eyght aboue to courage vp all. And Conaniah ỹ cheefe of the Leuites was master of ỹ song and taught to syng, for he was a mã of vnderstandynge.

And Barachiah and Elcanah kept ỹ doore of the Arck. And Sacaniah, Jehosaphat, Nathanael, Amasai, Zachariah, Banaiah and Eliezer Preastes were blowers wyth trompettes before the Arcke of God. And Obed Edõ and Jahiah were kepers of the doore of the Arcke.

* And Dauid and the elders of Israel & the Captaynes ouer thousãdes wẽt to fett the Arcke of the appoyntement of the lord out of the house of Obed Edõ with gladnesse. And when God had holpe the Leuites that bare the Arcke of the appoyntement of the Lorde, they offered. vii. oxen & vii rammes. And Dauid had on hym a albe of bisse, and so had the Leuites that bare ỹ Arck, and so had the syngers, and Conaniah ỹ ruler of the sõg & of ỹ singers. And Dauid had moreouer vpõ him an Ephod of lynen. And all Israel brought the Arcke of the Lordes couenaunt vp showtyng & blowynge of hornes, & wyth trompettes and cymbales that sounded, and with psalteries and harpes.

And as the Arcke of the appoyntmente of the Lord came into the cytie of Dauid, Michol the daughter of Saull loked out at a wyndowe: and when she sawe kynge Dauid daunsyng and playnge, she despised him in her hert.

¶ After the Arcke was brought with great solempnytie and melodie, Dauid ordeyneth mynysters, that is to wete, Asaph and his brethren to minister before the Lord. He hym selfe louyth and prayseth the Lorde God of Israel.

The. xvi. Chapter.

When they had brought in the Arcke of God they set it in the tente that Dauid had pitched for it. And they broughte burnte sacrefyce and peaceofferinges before god. And whẽ Dauid had made an ende of offerynges of burntofferinges and of peaceofferynges, he blessed the people with the name of the lorde. And he dealt all Israel bothe man and woman a cracknell of breade, a pece of flesh and a messe of soppes.

And he appoynted certen of the Leuites to mynystre before the Lord, and to repete, and to thanke and prayse the Lord god of Israel: euẽ Asaph the cheefe, & next to hym Zacharias then Jeiell, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Mathathiah, Eliab, Banaiah, Obed Edõ, and Jeiel with psalteries & harpes. But Asaph wyth soundynge cymbales & Banaiah & Jahaziel preastes with trompettes contynually before the Arck of the couenaunt of God.

And that same tyme Dauid dyd apoynte cheefelye to thanke the Lorde by Asah & hys brethren. * Thanke the Lord, calle on hys name, make hys Actes knowen among the people.

Synge vnto hym and play vnto hym: and recorde al hys wonderful dedes. Prayse hys holy name, and lett the hertes of the that seke the Lorde reioyse. Seke the Lorde and hys strengthe: Seke hys presence alwaye.

Remembre hys maruelles whyche he dyd, and his wonders, & the iudgementes of his mouth: The seed of Israell are hys seruaũtes: the chyldren of Jacob are hys chosen. He is the Lord our God: & in al ỹ̃ades are his iudgemẽtes. Thynk on his appoyntmẽt euer, & on the worde he cõmaunded to a thousand generaciõs. Of his couenaũt to Abrahã, & of his othe to Isaac: which he set before Jacob for a decree, & to Israel for an euerlastyng couenaũt, sayeng: to ỹ I wyl gyue the lãd of Canaã, to be ỹ porciõ of youre enheritaũce. Whẽ you were a smalle companye in numbre, euen but a few, and thereto straungers therein. And they wẽt frõ people to people, & from one kyngdom to another nacion. He suffered no mã to do thẽ wronge: But rebuked kynges for their sakes. Touch not myne anoynted, nor do my prophetes any harme.

Esa. xxv. a * Synge vnto the Lorde all the erth: and shew from daye to daye his victories.

Tel amonge the hethen of his glorye: & amõg al nacyons of his wõderful dedes.

For great is the Lord and to be praised excedingly: & terrible is he aboue al gods.

For al the gods of the hethẽ are Idoles: But the Lorde made heauen.

Prayse & honoure are in hys presence: strength and gladnes are in his place.

Ascribe to ỹ lord ye kinredes of people, Ascribe to the lord Glorye and strength.

Geue honoure vnto the Lordes name: bringe presẽtes and come before hym, and dowe to the Lorde in holy apparell.

Al the erth feare him, he stablysched ỹ erth that it cannot moue. The heauen reioyse and the erthe be glade, and lette men tel amonge the nacions that the Lord is a kynge.

Let the see thunder and his fulnesse, & let the feldes reioyse and al that is therin.

Moreouer let ỹ trees of ỹ wood synge at the presence of the lord: for he cometh to iudge the erthe.

Thanke the Lorde for he is Good, and hys mercye lasteth euer: and saye: saue vs o God oure sauyoure & geather vs to: gether & delyuer vs from amonge the hethẽ, to thanke thy holy name, & to praise the the prayse that becometh the. Blessed be the Lorde God of Israell for euer and euer, and all nacyons saye * Amen, so prayse the Lorde.

Of Amẽ, ye haue. xxvii.

And he lefte ther before the arck of the Lordes couenaũt, Asaph and his brethrẽ. to ministre before the arcke euermore day by daye. And Obed Edom with hys brethren thre score and eyght, and Obed Edom the sonne of Jduthun & Osah to be porters. And Zadock the preast with hys brethrẽ ỹ preastes set he before the tabernacle of the Lord at the hyaulter of Gabaõ, to offer burntofferinges vnto ỹ Lord vp on the burntofferynge aultare perpetually at morynyng & euenynge, accordynge to al that is written in the lawe of the Lorde whych he commaunded Israel. And with Heman and Jduthun, & other ỹ were chosen & nauned by name, to thanke the Lord for his mercye lasteth euer. And vp the said Heman and Jduthun were trompettes & soundyng cymbales, & instrumentes of the melodye of God. And ỹ sonnes of Jduthũ were porters. And then, al ỹ people departed, euery mã to his house: and Dauid returned to salute hys houshold.

¶ Dauid is forbydde to bylde an house vnto ỹ lorde, because of the bloudeshedinge that he had shed. Christ is promesed vnder the figure of Salomon.

The. xvii. Chapter.

And as Dauid dwelte in hys house he said to Nathã ỹ prophete: loo, I dwell in an house of Cedar tree: and the arck of the Lordes couenaũt dwelleth vnder curtaynes. And Nathã said to Dauid: do all that is in thyne herte, for God is wyth the. ii. reg. vii. a

But the same nyght ỹ worde of God came to Nathã saying: go and tel Dauid my seruaunt, thus sayth the Lord, ỹ shalt not bylde me an house to dwel in. For I haue dwelt in no house sẽce I brought oute ỹ children of Israell vnto this daye: But haue gone frõ tent to tẽt & frõ one tabernacle to a nother. Nether in anye place wherso euer I haue walked thorow out al Israel, spake I euer one worde to any of the iudges of Israel which I cõmaũded to fede my people, saying: why byld ye me not an house of cedar tree? Now therfore thus saye vnto my seruaũt Dauid: thus sayth the Lord of Hostes I toke the oute of the pasture frō after thepe, ꝥ thou shuldest be captayne ouer my people Israell. And I haue ben with the in al thou tokest in hand, & haue weded out al thyne enemyes out of thy syght, & haue made ꝥ a name lyke the name of ꝥ greatest mē of the erth. And I wyl ordayne a place for my people Israel & will make it fast, & they shal dwel vnder it & shal moue nomore. Neither shal the chyldrē of wickednesse vexe them any more as at the beginning, and sence the tyme I commaunded iudges to be ouer my people Israel, & wyl bringe vnder al thyne enemyes (for I tolde the that the Lorde wolde buylde the an house.)

But whē thy dayes be expired, ꝥ thou must go after thy fathers, I will set vp thi sede after the, whiche shalbe of thy sonnes & wyl settle his kingdō. He shal buylde me an house, & I wyll stablyshe hys seate for euer. I wylbe hys father & he shall be my sonne, & I wyll not put my mercye away frō him as I dyd frō him that was before the. But I wyll sett hym in myne house & in my kyngdom for euer, & hys seate shalbe sure for euer.

Whē Nathā had told Dauid accordīg to al these wordes, & to al this vision, king Dauid wēt & sate him before ꝥ Lord and sayd: what am I O Lord God & what is myne household, ꝥ thou hast promoted me thus ferre. And yet this semed lyttle in thyne eyes O God. But ꝥ thou shuldest speake of thy seruauntes house for a greate whyle to come: & hast loked vpō me as vpon a mā of hye degree O lord god. What cā Dauid desyre more of the, wherin thou shulde ſt make thy seruāt more glorious? Thou knowest thy seruaūt: And lord for thy seruaunt sake, euē according to thyne owne hert thou hast done al this magnificēce, to shew al bounteousnesse Lord, there is none like the, nor any God saue thou, according to al that we haue heard with our eares. Whereouer what nacyon on the erth is lyke thy people Israel, which God wēt and redemed to be hys owne people, & to make the a name of excellentie & terriblenesse, wyth castynge out nacyons from before thy people, for euer, and thou Lorde art become theyr God.

And now Lord the thing ꝥ hast spoken cōcerninge thy seruaunt and hys house be true for euer, and do as thou hast sayde. And thy name contynue & waxe great for euer, that it be sayde: the Lord of hostes, the god of Israel is God in Israel, and ꝥ house of Dauid thy seruaunt be stable before the. For thou Lord hast told thy seruaūt, that thou wilt buyld hym an house. And therfore thy seruaūt hath foūd in his hert to praye before the. And now lorde ꝥ art the verye God, and hast promised this goodnesse vnto thy seruaūte. Nowe therfore go to and blesse ꝥ house of thy seruaūte, that it maye contynue before the for euer. For what ꝥ blessest O Lorde that is blessed for euer.

¶ The Battelles of Dauid agaynst ꝥ Philistines.

The. xviii. Chapter.

AND after ꝥ Dauid bet ꝥ Philistines & subdewed them, & toke Geth & the townes ꝥ lōged therto, out of ꝥ hādes of ꝥ Philistines. And he bet the Moabites, and ꝥ Moabites became Dauids seruauntes and payde hym trybute. And Dauid bet Hadadezer kynge of Zobah vnto Hemah, as he wēt to bringe his dominion vnto the ryuer Euphrates. And Dauid toke frō hym a thousād charettes & seuen thousand horsemen & twētie thousande foremen, and brake all ꝥ charettes, saue that he reserued of them an hundred. Thē came the Syries of Damasco to helpe Hadadezer king of Zobah. And Dauid slue of the Syriens. xxii. thousād, and put gaurdōs in Syria Damasco: And the Syries became Dauids seruaūtes & brought hym trybute. For the Lorde holpe Dauid in all that he went to.

And Dauid toke ꝥ shyldes of gould ꝥ were on the seruauntes of Hadadezer and brought thē to Jerusalē. And frō Thebath & Chū, cyties of Hadadezer, brought Dauid exceadinge moch brasse. Wher wt Salomon made the brasen see and the pillers and the vesselles of brasse.

And whē the king of Hemath, hearde how Dauid had bet al the host of Hadadezers kynge of Zobah, he sente Hadurā hys sonne to king Dauid, to salute hym and to blesse him: because he had foughte wt Hadadezer & bet him (for Thou had warre wt Hadadadezer) and sent al maner of Jewelles of gould, syluer & brasse wt hym.

And kinge Dauid dedicated thē also vnto the Lord wt the syluer & gould ꝥ he brought frō al nacyōs, frō the Edomites, frō the Moabites, frō the chyldrē of Ammō, frō the philistines, & frō the Amalechites. And Abisai ꝥ sonne of Zarujah slue of the Edomites in the salt valey. xviii. thousand, & put soudiares in Edō, & al Edō became Dauids seruaūtes: for the Lorde kept Dauid in al that he toke in hād. And Dauid raigned ouer al Israel & did right & equite vnto al his people. And Joab the sonne of Zarujah was ouer the host, & Jehosaphat thee sonne of Ahilud recorder, & Zadock the sonne of Ahitob & Abimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the priestes, & Susa was scribe, & Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer thee Cerethites & the Pheletthites, and the eldest sonnes of Dauid wayted at the kynges hande.

¶ Hanon kyng of the sonnes of Ammō doth great iniurye to the seruauntes of Dauid.

The. xix. Chapter.

AFter this it chaūced that Nahas king of ꝥ chyldrē of Ammon dyed, & hys sonne made kyng in his steade. Thē sayd Dauid, I wyl shew kindnes vnto Hanon the sonne of Nahas, because his father dealt kyndly with me: And ther vpō Dauid sente messengers to comforte him ouer the death of his father. And whē the seruauntes of Dauid were come into the land of the chyldren of Ammon to Hanon to comfort him, the Lordes of the chyldrē of Ammon sayde to Hanon: thynkeste thou that Dauid doth honoure thy father in thy sight, that he hath sent cōforters vnto the? Naye, but it is to searche and ouerthrow & to spye out the land, that hys seruauntes be come vnto the.

Wherupō Hanō toke Dauid seruātes & shaued thē, & cutte of theyr cootes harde by theyr bottockes & sente thē awaye. And ther wēt ꝥ tolde Dauid howe the mē were serued. And the king sente to mete thē (for the men were exceadinglye ashamed) and sayd: tarye at Jericho vntil your beardes be growen, and then returne.

And when the chyldrē of Ammō sawe ꝥ they stāke in the nose of Dauid, Hanon, & the chyldrē of Ammō sent a thousand talentes of syluer to hyre thē charettes and horsemē out of Mesopotamia & out of Syria Maacah and out of Zobah. And they hyred. xxxii. thousande charettes, & the king of Maacah & his people, which came & pytched before Medba. And the chyldren of Ammon geathered thē selues together frō their cyties & went out to battel. And as sone as Dauid hearde of it, he sent Joab wyth al the hoste of strong men. And ꝥ chyldrē of Ammō came out & putte thē in araye to battel before the gate of the cytie. And the kynges that were come kepte thē by them selues in the felde.

When Joab saw that the front of the battel was before him & after, he chose out of al the youth of Israel & put thē in aray agaynst the Syriās. And the rest of ꝥ people he delyuered vnto Abisai hys brother, that they shuld put them selues in aray against the childrē of Ammon & sayd: Yf ꝥ Syrians be to strong for me, succour me, and yf the chyldren of Ammon be to good for the, I wyl helpe the. Plucke vp thyne herte & lett vs playe the men for our peoples sake and for the cyties of our God, & the Lorde do what semeth him beste. And Joab and the people that were wyth hym drue nye to the Syrians, to fyghte, & they fled before hym. And when the chyldren of Ammō saw that the Syriens were fled, they ranne awaye lykewyse frome Abisai his brother & gat them into the cytie. And Joab came to Jerusalem.

And when the Syriens sawe that they were put to the worse of Israell, they sent messengers and fet out the Syriens that are beyonde the ryuer wyth Sophach the Captayne of thee Hoste of Hadadezer before them. Wyche when it was tolde Dauid, he geathered al Israell, and wēt ouer Jordan & went & set vpon them. And Dauid put him selfe in araye against the Syriens, and they fought wyth hym. But the Syriens fledde before Israel, and Dauid destroyed of the Syryens. vii. thousande charettes, and slue fourtie thousand fotemen, and killed Sophach the Captayne of the Hoste. And when thee Seruaūtes of Hadadezer saw that they were putte to the worse of Israel, they made peace with Dauid and serued hym. Neyther wolde the Syryans helpe thee chyldren of Ammon any more.

¶ The people are punyſhed with peſtilence, becauſe Dauid cauſed thẽ to be nombred: ſo that ther ded lxx. thouſand men.

The.xxi. Chapter.

A And Satan ſtode vp againſt Iſracll, & perſuaded Dauid to numbre Iſracll. And Dauid ſayd to Ioab & the rulers of the people, go ye & numbre Iſracll frõ Berſabe to Dan and bringe it to me that I maye knowe thee numbre of them. And Ioab anſwered: the Lorde make thy people an hundred tymes ſo many mo as they be be. But my Lord kynge are they not al my Lordes ſeruaũtes? why then doth my Lorde requyre this thynge? why ſhulde my Lorde be a cauſe of treſpace to Iſracll?

Neuerthelater the kinges wordes preuayled agaynſt Ioab. And Ioab toke his way & went thorowout al Iſrael, & came to Ieruſalẽ & gaue the nũbre of the count of the people vnto Dauid. And al Iſrael were in nũbre a thouſand thouſande & an hũdred thouſand men that drue ſwerde: & Iuda was. cccc. lxx. thouſand men ỹ drue ſwerde. But the Leuites & Ben Iamin he coũted not amõg thẽ. For the kinges dede ſemed abominable to Ioab. And the Lord was diſpleaſed wyth thys thinge, & ſmote Iſrael. Then ſayd Dauid to God: I haue ſynned exceedingly in doyng this thing Neuerthelẽſſe pray do away the wickednes of thy ſeruaunte, for I haue done aboue meaſure foolyſhlye.

And ỹ Lord ſpake vnto Gad Dauids ſear of viſyõs ſaying: go & tel Dauid ſay
E ing. Thus ſayth the Lord: I geue the the choyſe of thre thinges: choſe the one of thẽ that I may do vnto the. And Gad came to Dauid & ſayd vnto hym: Thus ſayth the Lord. Choſe the ether thre yeres famyſhement, or thre monethes to be conſumed of thyne aduerſaries, ỹ ſwerde of thine enemies ouertaking the: or elſe the ſwerde of the Lord thre dayes & peſtilẽce in the land, the Angel of the Lord deſtroying thorowout all the coſtes of Iſrael. And nowe aduyſe thy ſelfe what word I ſhal bring agayne to hym that ſent me. And Dauid ſayde to Gad, I am in an exceding ſtraite. But let me fal into the hãdes of the Lord, for paſſing great is his mercy, & let me not fal into the handes of men.

And the Lord ſent peſtilẽce vpõ all Iſrael, ſo ỹ ther were ouerthrowen of Iſrael lxx. thouſand mẽ. And god ſent the Angel to Ieruſalẽ to deſtroye it. And as he was about to deſtroy, the Lord beheld and had cõpaſſion on the wretchednelſe, and ſayde to the Angel that deſtroyed, it is enough, now ceaſe thyne hãd. And the angel of the G Lord ſtode by the threſhing floure of Ornan the Ieburite. And Dauid lyft vp his eyes & ſawe the Angel of the Lord ſtãding betwene the erth & heauẽ with a drawẽ ſwerde in his hand ſtretched oute towarde Ieruſalem. Then fell Dauid and the elders of of Iſracl clothed in ſacke vpõ theyr faces And Dauid ſayde vnto God: Is it not I that cõmaunded to nũber the people? And I am he that haue ſynned & done euell in dede. But what haue theſe ſhepe done? let thyne hande therfore O Lorde God, be on me and on my fathers houſe, & not on thy people to deſtroye them.

And the angel cõmaunded Gad to ſay to Dauid, that Dauid ſhuld go & rere vp an aulter vnto the Lorde, in the threſſinge floure of Ornan thee Iebuſite. And Dauid went at the ſayinge of Gad which ſpake in the name of the Lorde. And Ornan turned about and ſawe the Angel, and his foure ſonnes wyth hym, & hyd thẽſelues: for Ornan was threſſing whete. And Dauid came to Ornan. And whẽ Ornan loked & ſawe Dauid, he wẽt out of the threſſing floure & bowed hym ſelfe to Dauid with his face to the grounde.

And Dauid ſayde to Ornan: geue me the place of thee threſſinge floure, that I may buyld an aulter therin vnto the Lord
D Let me haue it for as moche money as it is worthe, that the plage may ceaſe frõ the people. And Ornan ſayde to Dauid: take it to the. and let my Lord kyng do that ſemeth good in his eyes. See, I geue the oxen for a burntſacrifice, & the threſhing cleades for wood, & wheate for meate offring: I geue it all. But kynge Dauid ſayde to Ornãndt ſo, but I wil bye it for as moch money as it is worth. I wyl not take that whyche is thyne, for thee Lorde, and offer burntoffringes wythout coſte.

And ſo Dauid gaue to Ornan for the place ſicles of goulde. vi. C. by wayghte. And Dauid buylt ther an aulter vnto the Lord & offred burntoffringes & peaceoffringes, & called vnto the Lord & he hearde hym frõ heauẽ in fyre vpõ the anltar of burntoffringe. And the Lord cõmaunded the Angel to put vp his ſwerde agayne in to the ſhethe of it. At that tyme whẽ Dauid ſaw, ỹ the Lord had heard hym in the threſhing flowre of Ornan the Iebuſite: he vſed to offer ther. For ỹ tabernacle of ỹ Lorde which Moſes made in the wilderneſſe, & the aulter of burntoffring were at ỹ ceaſon in the hyl at Gabaõ. And Dauid could not go before it to ſeke God, becauſe he was afeerde of the ſwerde of the Angell of E the Lord. And Dauid ſayd: this is ỹ houſe of the Lord God, & this is the burntoffringe aulter for Iſrael.

¶ Dauid wylleth hys ſonne Salomon to bylde the temple of the Lord: wherwyth thynge he hym ſelfe was forbidden to do.

The.xxii. Chapter.

And Dauid cõmaũded to gea ther the ſtraũgers ỹ were in ỹ A land of Iſracll, & ſett hewers to hew ſtone, to build the houſe of God. And Dauid prepared plentie of yron for nayles to the dores of the gates & to ioyne wyth al, & aboũdance of braſſe without waighte, & of Cedar trees without nũbre. For the Zidons and they of Tire broughte moche Cedar wood to Dauid. For Dauid thus thought Salomon my ſonne is younge & tender, B and thee houſe that is to be buylte for the Lorde, muſte excede in greatneſſe, that it maye be ſpoken of and prayſed in all landes. I wyll therfore make ordinaunce for it. And ſo Dauid prepared aboundaunce before hys death.

And he called Salomõ his ſõne & charged him to buyld an houſe for ỹ Lord god of Iſrael: And Dauid ſayd to Salomõ: *my ſonne, I had in myne hert to buylde 1. Par. xxii. b. & 28. b. & 29. b. & 1. Reg. v. b. an houſe vnto ỹ name of the lord my god. But the word of the Lord came to me ſaynge: thou haſt ſhed moche bloude, & haſte made many battels. Thou ſhalt not bylde an houſe for my name, for thou haſte ſhed moch bloud to the erth in my ſight. Behold a ſõne ſhalbe borne the which ſhall be a mã of reſt, for I wyl geue him reſte frõ al hys enemyes round about. And his name ſhalbe * Salomõ: for I wil ſende reſt and Salomõ as moch ſay by the peace vpõ Iſrael in his dates. He ſhal byl- propheciõ a de an houſe for my name, & he ſhall be my peaceable ſonne, & I wylbe his father, & wyl ſtablyſh the ſeat of his kingdõ vpon Iſracll for e- C uer. Now my ſonne, the Lord be with the, ỹ thou mayſte proſper & buylde the houſe of the Lord thy God, as he hath ſayd of ỹ And the Lord geue the wiſdõ & vnderſtãding, & make ỹ gouernour of Iſracll, & to kepe the law of the Lord thy god. For then thou ſhalt proſper: If ỹ ſhalt be diligẽt to do the ordinaũces & lawes whych the lord charged Moſes with, to deliuer to Iſrael. Plucke vp thyne hert & be ſtronge, & drad not nor be diſcouraged. Beholde in myne aduersite I haue prepared for thee house of the Lord an hundred thousand talentes of gould & a thousand thousād talētes of syluer, & as for brasse & yron it cānot be nūbred, it is so moche. And I haue prepared tymber & stone, & ȳ shalt prouide more ther to. Moreouer ȳ hast workemen ynough & masōs & carpeters to worke in stone & timber, & al maner of wise mē for whatsoeuer worke it be. And of gould, syluer, brasse & yron ther is no number. Up therfore & set vpō it, & the Lorde shalbe with the.

And Dauid cōmaūded al the Lordes of Israel, to helpe Salomō his sone saying: Is not ȳ Lord your god with you? & hath he not geuē you reste on euery syde? for he hath geuē the enhabitours of the lād into myne hand, and the land is subdued before the Lord & before his people. Now ther fore set your hertes & youre soules, to seke the Lord your god. And vp & buylde ye ȳ tēple of the Lord God, to bringe the arcke of the couenaunt of the Lorde, & the holye vesselles of God into thee house so buylte for the name of the Lorde.

¶ Dauid being old, ordeyneth Salomō kinge he causeth the Leuites to be nūbred, and assigned them to theyr offices.

The .xxiii. Chapter.

A Mē whē Dauid was olde & stryke in yeres, he made Salomō his sonne king ouer Israell. And thē he gathered together all ȳ lordes of Israell with the Prestes & the Leuites. And ȳ Leuites were nūbred frō .xxx. yere & aboue, & the tale of them in men polle by polle was xxxviii. thousand. Of whiche .xxiiii. thousand were set to further the worcke of the house of the Lord. And .vi. thousand were officers & Judges. Foure thousand were porters & foure thousand praysed the lord with soch instrumētes as Dauid had made to prayse with all.

And Dauid put an order amōg the chyldren of Leui: Gerson, Caahath & Merari: Of the Gersonites was Laadā & Semei. The sonnes of Laadā: ȳ cheke was Jehiel & thē Zethā and Joel, thre. The sonnes of Semei, Salomith, Haziel, and Harā, thre. These were the aunciēt heades of Laadā. And the sonnes of Semei were also Jahath, Ziah, Jaus & Bariah: these foure were the sonnes of Semei. And Jahath was the cheke, Ziah the seconde: But Jaus and Bariah had not many sonnes, and therfore they were rekened for one auciente housholde.

The sonnes of Caahath: Amram, Jzahar, Hebrō & Uziel, foure. * The sōnes of Amram: Aaron & Moses. And Aarō was appoynted to cōsecrate in the place moost holy, with hys sonnes for euer: & to burne the offringes before the Lord, and to minister, & to blesse in hys name for euer. And as for Moses the man of God, hys chyldren were named with thee trybe of Leui. The sonnes of Moses: Gerson & Eliezer. And of the sōnes of Gerson: Sabael was the cheke. The sonnes of Eliezer: Rohabiah the cheke. And Eliezer had no mother sōnes: But the sōnes of Rohabiah were verye manye. And of the sonnes of Jzahar: Salomi, the cheke. The sonnes of Hebron Jeriahu the fyrst, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the thyrde & Jekmaam the fourthe. The sonnes of Uziel: Micah the first and Jesiah the seconde. The sonnes of Merari: Mahali: & Musi, the sonnes of Mahali: Eleazar & Cis. And Eleazer dyed & had no sonnes, but daughters only, which theyr brethrē the sonnes of Cis toke. The sonnes of Musi: Mahali, Eder, & Jerimuth, thre. These ar the childrē of Leui in the housholdes of their fathers the aūciēt heades, newed & nūbred by name & polle by polle frō .xx. yere & aboue, to worcke in the seruice of the house of the Lorde. For Dauid sayd: the Lord god of Israel hath geuen reste vnto his people, and they shal dwell in Jerusalem for euer.

Moreouer the Leuites shuld nowe no more beare the tabernacle & al the vessels ȳ pertayned to the seruice therof. But at ȳ last cōmaūdemēte of Dauid, the Leuites were numbred frō .xx. yeare & aboue, & to wayte at the handes of the sonnes of Aaron in the seruice of the house of the Lord and to haue the ouersight of the courtes & of the store houses, & of the purifying of al holy thinges, and of the worke of the thinges that serued for thee house of God, as the shewe bread the fyne flowre, the incate offringes, the flawnes of swete bread, and of the thinges baken in the fryinge panne or broyled on the gridyron, and on al maner measures and size, and to wayte euery more euery morynge to thanke and prayse the Lorde, and lykewyse at euen. And to wayte on euery offeryng of burntesacrifyces vnto the Lord, the Sabbothes and fyxte dayes of the monethes, and other festfull dayes by numbre and custome, was theyr office euer before ȳ Lorde. And that they shuld waite on the tabernacle of wytnesse & on the holy place, & on the sonnes of Aaron their brethren, in the seruice of ȳ house of the Lorde.

The Notes.

at ¶ To wayte at the handes of the sonnes of Aarō is, to do after their cōmaūdement, as beneth in the xxv. b.

¶ Dauid assigneth their office to ȳ sōnes of Aarō.

The .xxiiii. Chapter.

The deuysion of the sonnes of Aarō: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar & Ithamar. * But nadab & Abihu dyed before their father & had no chyldren. And Eleazar and Ithamar were the Prestes. And Dauid ordered them on this maner: Zadock of the sōnes of Eleazar & Ahimelek of the sonnes of Ithamar to be in office by course. And there were no mightye heedes founde of thee sonnes of Eleazar then of the sonnes of Ithamar. And they deuyded them into .xvi. heedes of aūcient housholdes of ȳ sōnes of Eleazar, & eight of ȳ sonnes of Ithamar. And they put thē in order by lot, one with a nother that ther shulde be rulers in the sanctuarye & Lordes before god as wel of the sonnes of Ithamar as of the sonnes of Eleazar. And Semeiah the sonne of Nathaneel the scribe of the Leuites wrote them before the kyng & the Lordes, & before Zadock the Preaste and Ahimelek the sonne of Abiathar, & before the auncient heedes of ȳ prestes & of ȳ Leuites: one principall housholo for Eleazar & one for Ithamar.

And ȳ first lot fel to Jehoiarib. The secōd to Jedaiah. The third to Harim. The fourth to Seori. The fifte to Melchiah. The sixt to Miami. The seuēth to Hakes. The eight to Abiah. The ninth to Jesua. ¶ The porters of temple are ordeined euery man to the gate which he shulde kepe.

The. xxvi. Chapter.

The deuysion of the porters a mōg ye Cozhites: Meseleimiah ye sonne of Kozeh of ye chyldren of Asaph.

And the sonnes of Meseleimiah were these: Zachariah the eldeste, Jadiel the seconde, zabadiah the third, Jathantel the fourth, Elam the fyfte, Jehohanan the syxt. Eliocnai ye seuēth. And Obed Edom had sōnes: Semeiah ye eldeste, Jehosabad ye second, Joah the third, Sacar ye fourth, Nathanael ye fyfte, Ammiel ye sixte, Jssacar the seuēth and Polathai the. viii. for god had blessed him.

And vnto Semeiah his sonne were sonnes borne that ruled in the house of theyr father, for they were men of myght. The sonnes of Semeiah: Othni, Raphael, Obed and Elzabad & hys brethren men of actiuite, Elihu and Samachiah. All these were of the chyldren of Obed Edom, whiche with theyr brethren & their chyldrē, actiue men & of strength to do seruice, were. lxii of Obed Edom. And Meseleniah had sōnes & brethren, actyue men, xviii. And Hosah of the chyldren of Merari, had sonnes: semri the chefe, yet he was not ye eldest, but hys father made him the chefeste. Helkiah the second, Thabeliah ye thyrd & Zacariah the fourth: so that all the sonnes & brethren of Hosah were. xiii.

Unto these was deuyded the offyce of ye portershepe as vnto heedes ouer the men ye wayted wyth their brethren and mynystred in the house of the Lorde. And they cast lottes the smalle as wel as the greate in ye houssholdes of theyr fathers, frō gate to gate. And the east lot fell to Seleimiah. And for zachariah hys sonne a wyse counceler, they cast lottes, and his lot came out towarde the Northe. And Obed Edoms lot fel to the south, And to hys sonnes fell * the councel houses. And to Suphim & Hosah fel the weste wyth the gate Salecheth, wher the waye assendeth vpward, ye one way beynge cast by the other.

In

In the Este kepte syxe Leuites: in the Northe. iiii. a daye, & in the Southe. iiii. a day, and in euery councel house two, & * in the watchhouses, on the hie way west warde foure: two in a house. These are the deuisions of ye porters among the sonnes of Kozeh & the sonnes of Merari. And of ye Leuites Ahiah had ye ouersyght of ye treasure of the house of god, and of ye treasure of the dedycat thynges.

As concernynge ye sōnes of Laadā which were Gersonites. Laadā had auncient fathers. Laadan the Gersonite had Jehieli. The sonne of Jehieli: Zethan & Joel hys brother, which were ouer ye treasures of ye house of the Lord. Amonge the Amramites, Jzeharites, Hebronites & Uzielites, was Subuel the sonne of Gerson the sonne of Moses a ruler ouer ye treasure. And of his brethren the sonnes of Eliezer, was Rahabiah, whose sōne was Jsaiah, & hys sonne was Joram, & his sonne Zechri, & his sōne was Selomith, which Selomith & hys brethren were ouer al the treasures of the dedicate giftes which Dauid ye kinge, & the auncient heedes, of ye captaines ouer thousandes & hundredes, & ye captaynes of ye hoste had dedicated of the spoyle wōne in battel, to mayntayne ye house of ye Lorde: & ouer all ye Samuel the sear and Saul the sōne of Cis, and Abner ye sonne of Ner, & Joab ye sōne of Zaruiah had dedicated. All ye was dedicated, was vnder ye hād of Selomith and of hys brethren.

Of the Jzeharites Conaniah and his sonnes were in busynesses wythoute forth made officers & iudges ouer Jsraell. And of the Hebronites Hasabiah & his brethre men of actiuite a thousande & vii. hūdred were officers in Jsrael on this side Jordā westward, in al busynesses of ye lord & seruice of ye kyng. And Jeduiah was the chefe among the kynredes & fathers of the Hebronites. And in the. xl. yere of ye kinge dō of Dauid they were sought for. And ther were foūd of thē mē of actyuite at Jezer in Galaad. And his brethre were in mē of actiuite, two thousād & seuē hūdred auncient heedes, which kyng Dauid made rulers ouer the Rubenites, Gaddites & the halfe trybe of Manasseh in al maters pertaynyng to God & busynesses of ye kyng.

¶ Of ye princes & rulers ye ministred vnto the kyng.

The. xxvii. Chapter.

To speake of the childre of Jsrael: in the nūbre of the were auncient heedes & captaines of thousādes & hundredes, & officers ye serued the king in al thyng accordyng to the cōpanyes that came in or wēt oute, moneth by moneth throw oute al the monethes of the yere. And euery cōpanie had. xxiiii. thousand. Ouer the fyrst cōpanye in the fyrst moneth, was Jasoboā the sonne of Zabdiel. And in hys nūbre were. xxiiii. thousād: And the chefe of al the captaynes in the host of the fyrst moneth was of the chyldre of Pharez. Ouer the cōpanye of the second moneth Dodai an Ahohite, & in hys host was Makeloth a ruler. And in his cōpany were. xxiiii thousād. The chefe captayne of the thyrd host in ye third moneth, was Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada ye prest. And in his host xxiiii. thousand. This is ye Banaiah mighty amōg thirtie & aboue thirtie. And in his parte was Amizabad hys sonne.

The fourth captayne in ye fourthe moneth was Asael the brother of Joab & Zabadiah hys sonne after hym. And in hys host. xxiiii thousande. The fyfte captayne in the fyfte moneth was Samahut ye Jezrahite: & in hys host. xxiiii. thousand. The syxt captayne in the. vi. moneth was Jra the sonne of Ikes a Thekuite: and in hys hoste. xxiiii. thousande.

The seuenth captayne in the seuēth monethe, was Helei the Phalonite, of the chyldren of Ephzaim: & in his host. xxiiii thousand. The eyght captayne in the. viii. monethe, was Sobocai an Husathite of the kynne of Sarah: & in hys host. xxiiii. thousand. The nynthe Captayne in the. ix. monethe, was Abiezer an Anathothite of ye sōnes of Jemini: and in hys host. xxiiii. thousand. The tenth captayne in the tenthe monethe, was Mahari the Netophathite of the zarahites: & in his host. xxiiii. thousād. The leuenthe monethe, was Benaiah the Pharathonite of the chyldre of Ephzaim: & in his host. xxiiii. thousād. The twelueth Capptayne in the twelueth monethe, was Heldai the Netophathite of Othoniel, & in hys hoste. xxiiii. thousande. And the rulers ouer the tribes of Jsrael were these. Amōge the Rubenites, was Eliezer the sonne of of Zechri. Amonge the Symeonites, was Saphatiah the sonne of Maacah. Amōg the leuites: Hasabiah the sonne of Kamuel. Amōg the Naromites: Zadock. In Iuda: Eliu of the brethrē of Dauid: In Issachar: Amri the sonne of Michael. In Zabulō: Iesmaiah the sonne of Abdiah. In Nephthalie: Ierimoth the sonne of Azriel. Amōg the childrē of Ephraim: Hosea ꝑ sonne of Ozaiah. In the halfe tribe Manasseh: Ioel ꝑ sonne of Phadaiah. Of the halfe tribe of Manasseh in Galaad: Iado ꝑ sōne of Zachariah. In Beniamin: Iaasiel the sōne of Abner. In Dā: Azarel ꝑ sonne of Ieroham. These are the Lordes in the tribes of Israel.

But Dauid toke not the nūbre of them vnder.xx. yere: for the Lord said he wolde encrease Israel like vnto ꝑ starres of the skye. And Ioab ꝑ sōne of Zaruiah begāne to numbre. And though he finished it not, yet there fell wrath for ꝑ tribe Israel. And therfore the nūbre was not put in ꝑ chronycles of kynge Dauid.

Ouer the kinges treasure was Azmoth the sōne of Adiel. And ouer the treasure of the feldes, in the cytyes, vyllages & castelles, was Ionathan, the sonne of Oziah. And ouer the workemen in the feldes ꝑ tilled the grounde, was Ezri ꝑ sonne of Chelub. And the ouersight of the vineyardes had Semeiah the Ramathite. Ouer the wynecellers & treasure of wine was Sabdi the Saphonite. And ouer ꝑ olyue trees and mulbery trees that were in the valeies was Baal Hanā the Gadarite. And ouer ꝑ treasure of oile was Ioas. And ouer the oxen ꝑ fed in Sarō was Setari the Saronite. And ouer the oxē in ꝑ valeyes was Saphat the sonne of Adlai. And ouer the camelles Obil the Ismaelite. And ouer the Asses was Iehadiah the Merothite. And ouer the shepe was Iazis the Hagarite. All these were the rulers of ꝑ substāce of kynge Dauid. And Ionathā Dauids brothers sonne, a mā of coūcel, a mā ꝑ taught wisdom, & a writer he & Iehiel the sōne of Hachamoni waited on the kinges sonnes. And Ahitophel was of the kinges coūcel. And Husai ꝑ Arathite was ꝑ kinges cōpanīā. And next to Ahitophel was Iehoiada the sonne of Banaiah, & Abiathar. And ꝑ captaine of the kinges warre was Ioab.

¶ Because Dauid was forbidde to build the temple, he exhorteth Salomon & the people to performe it.

The.xxviii. Chapter.

AND Dauid gathered to gether al the lordes of Israel: ꝑ Lordes of the tribes, the Lordes of ꝑ companies that ministred to the king by course, the lordes ouer the thousandes & ouer the hūdredes, & the lordes ouer al the goodes and catell of the kinge and of his sonnes, wt the chamberlaynes warryours and al actiue men vnto Ierusalē. And kyng Dauid stode vpon his fete and sayde.

Heare me my brethren & my people: I had in myne hert to buyld an house of rest for the Arck of the couenaūt of the lord, & a ✠ fotestole for oure God, and had made redye to buylde. But God sayde to me: ꝑ shalt not buylde an house for my name, because thou art a mā of warre & hast shed bloude. Moreouer the lord god of Israel chose me of al the house of my father, to be kyng ouer Israel for euer, for he chose Iuda to be a captaine: & in ꝑ house of Iuda ꝑ house of my father, & of the sonnes of my father he had a lust to me, to make me kinge ouer al Israel. And of al my sōnes (for the Lord hath geuen me many sonnes) he hath chosen Salomon my sonne, to syt in the seate of the kyngdome of the lorde ouer Israel. And he said vnto me: Salomō thy sonne, he shal build my house and my courtes, * for I haue chosen him to be my 1. Paral. 22.
sonne, & I wilbe his father, & wil stablysh his kigdom for euer, If he wil hardē him selfe to do my cōmaundementes, and my lawes, as it goeth thys daye.

And now I say vnto you before al Israel the cōgregation of ꝑ lord, & in the audience of our god: kepe & seke for al ꝑ cōmādementes of the lord youre God, ꝑ ye maye enioye a good lād & enheret youre childre after you for euer. And ꝑ Salomon my sonne: know God thy father & serue hym wt a pure hert and lust of soule. * For the Psa. viii.
lord sercheth al hertes & vnderstandeth al the imagynacyons of thoughtes. If ꝑ shalt seke him, he wilbe found of the. But & yf ꝑ forsake hym, he wyll cast the of for euer. Take hede now, for the Lorde hathe chose the, to build an house of thy sāctuarye. Be stronge and do it.

And

And Dauid gaue Salomon his sōne ꝑ paterne of the porch & of ꝑ houses & lōges therto, and of the store houses, vpper chābres, vnner pareloures & of the house of ꝑ mercyseate: & the example of all that was in his mind, both of the courtes of ꝑ house of ꝑ Lord & of the treasure houses round about, for ꝑ treasures of ꝑ house of God & for the treasure of the dedycate gyftes, & of the companyes of the preastes & Leuites that wayted by course, & of al worke māchyppe, that shuld serue for the house of the lord & for al vesselles that shulde serue in the house of ꝑ lord. And appointed him what wayghte of goulde shulde serue for thynges of gould thorow out all vessels for what soeuer vse it serued: and what wayght of syluer shulde suffice for al maner of vesselles of syluer, for whatsoeuer purpose they serued.

And the wayghte of the goulden candelsticks and of their lampes of goulde, the wayghte for euery candelsticke & for their lāpes. And for the candelsticks of syluer by wayght, bothe for the cādelstyck & also for her lampes accordinge to the office of euery cādelstick. And ꝑ wayght of gould for ꝑ tables of shewbreede, table by table: & lykewyse syluer for the tables of syluer. And for fleshehokes, basens & dryncknyng pottes of pure goulde. And for cuppes of gould by waight, cuppe by cupp. And for cuppes of siluer by waight, cupp by cupp: And for the aulter of incese of tried gould by waight. And the symilitude of the seat of the Cherubes that stretched oute theyr wynges and couered the arcke of the couenaunt of the Lorde. Al was geuen me by wrytyng of the hande of the Lord, whych made me vnderstād al the workemāshipp of the paterne.

And Dauid saide to Salomō his sonne: hardē thy selfe and be stōg and do it, feare not nor let thyne hert dyscourage ꝑ. For the Lord God my God is wythe the, and shal not leaue the nor forsake the, vntyll thou hast fynyshed al the worke that muste serue for the house of the Lord. Behold the preastes and Leuites deuyded in companyes, for to do al maner of seruyce that pertayneth to the house of God, and beside that, thou hast with the for all maner of workemanshyppe, all that are wyllyng and wyse for any maner of seruyce. And the lordes & al the people ar at thy cōmaundemente in all thynges.

¶ The offrynges of Dauid and of the princes for ꝑ byldyng of the temple. Dauid dyeth and Salomō his sonne raygneth in his steade.

The.xxix. Chapter.

AND Dauid the king said vnto al the congregation: God hath specyally chosen Salomō my sōne which is yet yōge & tender, & the worcke is greate, for thee house is not for man, but for the Lorde God. Moreouer I haue prepared wythe al my myghte for the house of God: golde for thynges of gould, & syluer for thinges of siluer, brasse for thinges of brasse, yron for thinges of yron & wood for thynges of wood: & onykes stones, * set stones, and of other gay stones, and al maner of precyouse stones, and of marble great aboundaunce. And yet because I haue lust to the house of my God: I haue seuerall goulde and syluer whych I geue to the house of my God aboue al I haue prepared for the holy house: euē thre thousand talentes of goulde of Ophir, and seuen thousande talentes of syluer tryed: to syle thee walles of thee house wt goulde wher it becometh, and with siluer wher syluer is mete, and for all maner of worke by the handes of Artyfycers. And let me se who is wyllyng also, to fyl hys hād for the Lorde this daye.

Some redo eschatile, or ar o ther precious stone called Sardyon

And the auncient lordes & the Lordes of the trybes of Israell, & the Captaynes of thousandes & hūdredes & the lordes ouer the substāce of the kyng, were wyllyng & gaue for ꝑ seruyce of ꝑ house of god, fyue thousande talentes of gould and tē thousande peces of gould coynes, and tē thousande talentes of siluer, & .xviii. thousand talētes of brasse, & an hundred thousande talentes of yron. And they ꝑ had precious stones gaue the for the treasure of ꝑ house of the Lorde, vnto the hande of Iehiel the Gersonite.

And the people reioysed ꝑ they were so willynge: for with a pure herte they were wyllyng vnto the lord. And therto Dauid

the kynge reioyced wyth greate gladnesse And Dauid blessed thee Lorde before all the congregation and sayde: Blessed arte thou Lorde God of Israell oure father, from euer and for euer. Thyne (O Lord) is greatenesse, power glorye, victorye and prayse: for all that is in heaue and in earth is thyne, & thyne is the kingdom O Lord and thou art lyfte vp an head aboue all.

And riches and honoure come of the, & thou raygnest ouer al, and in thyne hande is power and strength, and in thyne hande it is to make greate and to geue strengthe vnto all.

And now our God, we thanke thee, and prayse thy gloriouse name. For what am I & what is my people, that we shuld obtayne strength to be so willing? But all is of the, & of that we receaued of thyne hand we haue geuē the. For we be but stragers before the & tenauntes, as were al oure fathers. Our dayes on the erth is but a shadowe, and ther is none abyding. O Lorde oure God, all this heape & we haue prepared to buyld the an house for thy holy name, cometh of thyne hand, and is al thyne. I wote my god, that thou prouest the hert & hast pleasure in playnesse. And in playnesse of myne herte I haue willingly geuen all thys. And now I se thy people whiche are here in gladnesse, to offer willingly to the. O Lorde God of Abraham, Isaac and of Israell oure fathers, kepe thys for euer in the ymagination of the thoughtes of the herte of thy people, & prepare theyr hertes vnto the. And geue vnto Salomō my sonne, a pure hert to kepe thy cōmaundemētes, thy testymonies and thyne ordynaunces, and to doo all, and to buylde the house whych I entended.

And Dauid sayd to all the cōgregatiō blesse the Lord your God. And al the congregation blessed the Lorde God of theyr fathers, & stowped & bowed thē selues vnto the Lord & to the kyng. And they offred offeringes vnto the Lord. And on the morowe after thee sayde daye, they offered in burntoffringes vnto the lord a thousand oxen, a thousande rammes & a thousande lambes wyth theyr drinckeoffringes. And they slue plenteously thorowout al Israel and dyd eate & drinke before the Lord the same daye with great gladnesse. And they made Salomō the sonne of Dauid kyng the second tyme, & anoynted hym vnto the Lord, to be ruler, & Zadock to be the preest. *And so Salomon sate on the seat of the Lord, & was kyng for Dauid hys father, & prospered, & al Israel obeyed hym. And all the Lordes & men of power, & therto al the sonnes of kyng Dauid submitted theselues vnder kynge Salomon. And the Lord magnified Salomon on hye, in the syght of all Israel, and gaue hym so glorious a kyngdom as none of al that were kynges before in Israell had.

Now Dauid the sonne of Isai was kyng ouer al Israel. And the space he raigned ouer Israel was fourtie yere: vii. yere in Hebron & xxxiii. yere in Jerusalē. And he dyed in a good age: olde, ryche & glorious: And Salomō his sonne raygned in hys steade. The actes of Dauid the kyng both fyrst & laste, are wrytten in the bokes of Samuel the sear & in the boke of Nathan the prophete, & in the boke of Gad the sear of bystons, with al his kingdom and power and tymes that went ouer hym and ouer all Israell, and ouer all the kyngdomes of the earthe.

The offeryng of Salomō in the hylaulter at Gabaon, wher he receaued an answere of god wt great wisdom thoulde be geuen hym, wyth the numbers of hys charettes and horsemen

The. I. Chapter.

And Salomon thee sonne of Dauid waxed stronge in his kyngdom, and the Lorde his God was with hym & magnified hym on hye. And Salomon communed wyth all Israell, the captaynes ouer thousandes & hundredes, the iudges and al other Lordes and auncient heades thorowout all Israell. And so Salomon and all the congregation with hym went to the hylaulter of Gabaon: for ther was the tabernacle of the wytnes of God which

*which Moses the seruaunt of the Lord made in the wyldernesse. But the Arck of God had Dauid brought frō Kariath Jarim, into ỹ place he had prepared therfore. For he had pytched a tent for it at Jerusalē. Moreouer ỹ brasen aulter ỹ Bezeleel ỹ sōne of Uri, ỹ sōne of Or had made was at Gabaō also, before ỹ tabernacle of the lord. And Salomō & ỹ cōgregacion went to visit it. And Salomon offered there before the Lord vpon the brasen aulter that was by the tabernacle of wytnesse, a thousand burntsacrefices. And the same night God appered vnto Salomō and sayd to him: aske what I shal geue the. And Salomon sayde vnto God: thou hast shewed great mercye vnto Dauid my father, and hast made me kīg in his stead. *And now Lord God, lett thy promyse vnto Dauid my father be true. For thou hast made me kyng ouer a people like the dust of ỹ erth in multytude. Wherfore geue me wysdome and knowledge how to be haue my selfe vnto thys people: for who is able to iudge this people that is so great?

Then God sayd to Salomon, because thou haddest thys in thyne herte, & diddest not aske treasure & richesse, honoure & the lyues of thyne enemyes, nether yet longe lyfe: but hast asked wisdom & knowledg, to iudge my people, ouer whyche I haue made ỹ kyng: wisdome & knowledge shal be geuē the, and I wyll geue ỹ treasure, rychesse, & glorye also, that amonge the kynges before the or after ỹ none was or shal be like ỹ. And so Salomō came frō ỹ hyt aulter ỹ was at gabaō to Jerusalē frō the tabernacle of wytnes & raigned at Jerusalē. And Salomō gethered charettes & horsemē: ỹ he had a thousand & foure hundred charettes, & xii. thousand horsemen, which he bestowed in ỹ charett cities & about the kyng at Jerusalē. And ỹ kynge made syluer & goulde at Jerusalem as plenteous as stones & Cedar trees as plentye as the mulbery trees that grow in ỹ valaies. And ỹ horses which Salomō had, were brought him out of Egipt frō Keua. The kinges marchaūtes fet thē out at Keua at a price. They came & brought out of Egipt a charet for syre hundred sycles, & an horse for an hūdred and fyftie. And so brought they to all the kinges of the Hethites and to the kynges of Sitia thorow the hādes of the sayde marchauntes.

Salomon sendeth to Hiram the king of Tire for wood and workemen.

The. II. Chapter.

And Salomō determined to build an house for ỹ name of the Lorde, & an house for his kingdō: & told out thre skore and tē thousand men to bere burdens and foure skore thousande to hewe in the mountayne, & thre thousande and syxe hundred to ouersee them.

*And Salomō sent to Hiram king of Tire saying: As thou dydest deale wt Dauid my father & didest sēd hi Cedar wod, to bylde him an house to dwell in, euen so deale with me now: that I may bylde an house for the name of the lorde my god, to cōsecrat it to him to burne swete odoures & to set shewbred before him perpetually, & for burntsacrifice morning & euening and on the Saboth dayes, & the first day of euery new mone, and in the solempne festes of ỹ lord our God, so to cōtinew euer in Israel. And ỹ house which I buylde is great: for great is our god aboue al gods: So that who can be able to build him an house: wher that heuē: nether heauen aboue all heaues is able to receaue him, what am I then that I shuld buyld him an house: nay, but to burne sacrefice before him: send me now therfore a conyng mā to worke in goulde siluer, brasse, yron, scarlet, crymosyn & Jacincte coloure, & ỹ can skyl to grane, to be wt the conyng men that are wt me in Juda and Jerusalem, which Dauid my father dyd prepare. And sende me also Cedar trees, firre trees and *Algume trees out of Libanon. For I wote wel thy seruaūtes cā skyll to hewe timbre in Libanō. And se, my mē shalbe with thine, ỹ they maye prepare me tymbre ynough. For the house which I build is great & wōderful. And behold, I sent for thy seruauntes the cutters & hewers of tymbre. xx. thousande quarters of beaten whete, & xx. thousande quarters of barley, & xx. thousād bathes of wyne, & xx. thousand bathes of oyle.

And Hirā kynge of Tire answered in wryting & sent to Salomon: because the Lorde loueth his people, therfore he hath made the king ouer thē. And Hiram saide moreouer: blessed be the Lord God of Israel

taell which hathe made bothe heauen and erthe, that he hath geuen Dauid the kyng a wyse sonne ꝑ hath discretiō & vnderstādyng, to buylde an house for the Lord, & another for his kyngdom. And now I haue sent a wyse man & a man of vnderstandynge called Hirā Abi, & is the sonne of a woman of the daughters of Dan (how be it hys father was a Tirian) & he can skyll to worcke in goulde, syluer, brasse, yron, stone, tymbre, scarlett, Jacinct, bysse & cremosin: & graue al maner of grauinges, & to fynd out al maner sotle worcke ꝑ shalbe sett before hym, wt thy connyng men, and with the conning men of my lord Dauid thy father. And now the whete, barley, oyle & wine which my lord hath sayd, let him sende his seruauntes. And we wyll cutte wood oute of Libane, as moche as thou shalt nede, & wyll bringe it to ꝑ in cheppes by see to Ioppe: & thence thou mayst carye them to Jerusalem. And Salomon nombred all the straungers that were in the lande of Israel, after the tyme hys father Dauid had numbred them. And they were found an hundred .lii. thousāde & syxe hundred. And he set .lxx. thousād of thē to beare burthes, and .lxxx. thousād to hewe in ꝑ mountayne, and thre thousande and sixe hundred to courage and to set the people a worcke.

¶ The temple of the Lord and the porche ar builded, with other thynges ther to belongyng.

The .iii. Chapter.

And Salomō begāne to build ꝑ house of the Lord at Jerusalē in mout Moriah, why che was shewed Dauid hys father whē he prepared a place in the thressyng flource of Ornan the Jebusite. And he began to builde the second day of the second moneth ꝑ fourth yere of his raigne. And this is the foundacion of Salomō in buyldyng the house of God. The length was .ii. skore cubites after ꝑ olde cubyt, & the bredeth .xx. And the porch at the ende was as large as the house bredeth .xx. cubytes: & the height was an hundred & .xx. cubytes. And he ouerlaide it on the ynner syde with pure goulde.

And the great house he siled with firre tree, & ouerlayde it wt good goulde, & graued therto paulmetrees & cheynes. And he paued the house wt precious stone goodly. And it was gould of Pharuaim. And he ouerlaide the house: bothe beames, postes, walles & dores wt gould, and graued Cherubes vpon the walles.

And he made ꝑ house most holy, whose lenghth was .xx. cubites like to ꝑ breadeth of ꝑ house, & the breadeth therof was also .xx. cubytes. And he ouerlayd it wt the best gould, ꝑ drue to the summe of .vi. hundred talētes. And ꝑ waight of ꝑ nailes of gould de was therto fiftie sicles. And he ouerlaid the vpper chambres with gould.

And he made in the house most holy .ii. *Cherubes of Image worke, & ouerlayd the wt gould. And ꝑ winges of ꝑ Cherubes were .xx. cubytes lōg. The one wynge was fiue cubites & touched the wal of the house, & the other wyng was likewise fiue cubytes and touched ꝑ wing of the other Cherub. And the one wing of ꝑ other Cherub was .v. cubites, and touched the walle of the house, and ꝑ other winge was fyue cubytes also, and raught to ꝑ wing of the other Cherub. So that ꝑ winges of ꝑ sayde Cherubes raught .xx. cubites. And thei stode on their fete & loked inwardes. And he made a fore hāging of Jacinct colour, of scarlet, cremosine & bisse, and caused the rubes to be bourdered therō. And he made before ꝑ house two pillers of .xxxv. cubytes lōg. And ꝑ heed ꝑ was aboue on ꝑ top of one of thē was fiue cubites. And he made soch chaynes as was in the quere, & put thē on ꝑ heedes of ꝑ pyllers, & made an hūdred pomegranets & put thē on ꝑ chaines. And he rered vp the pillers before ꝑ tēple: one on the right hād & another on the left, & called the ryght Jachin & the left Boas.

¶ The aultre of brasse, the see, the vesselles to wash with, the candelstyckes, &c.

The .iiii. Chapter.

And he made an aulter of brasse .xx. cubites longe & .xx. cubytes broade and tē cubites hie.

*And he caste a brasen see of tē cubites frō brim to brim, & roūd in cōpase & fyue cubites hye: and a lyne of .xxx. cubites myghte haue cōpased it rounde aboute. And the facyon of oxen did compase it round about vnder it: that is to wete, two rowes of oxen cast when it was caste dyd cōpase the see whiche was ten cubites wyde, rōunde aboute. And it stode also vpon twelue oxen: of which thre loked North, thre West, thre South and thre East, and the see vpon them aboue and hynder partes of them mwat de. And the thickest of it was an hādbrede and the brim lyke the brim of a cupp, with floures of lylies. And it receaued and held thousande bathes.

And he made ten lauers: & put fyue on the right hand & fyue on the left, to washe withal. And in thē they thrust the flesshe of the burntoffrynges. But the see was for the Priestes to washe in. And he made ten candelstickes of goulde in theyr facyōs, & put them in the temple: fyue on the ryghte hand & fyue on he tlefte. And he made also ten tables & put them in the temple: fiue on the right syde and fyue on the left. And he made an hūdred basens of goulde. And he made the courte of the priestes, and the great courte & dores to it: & ouerlayde thee dores of them with brasse. And he sett the see in the ryght syde of ꝑ East ende, toward the Southe. And Hiram made pottes, shouelles and basens.

And Hiram finished the worke he made for king Salomō vnto the tēple of God: The two pillers with theyr scalpes of the two heades ꝑ were on the toppes of ꝑ pyllers: & the two wrethes to couer ꝑ two scalpes of the heades ꝑ were on the toppes of the pyllers: & foure hundred pomegranates for the two wrethes, two rowes of pomegranates for euery wrethe, to couer the two scalpes of the heades that were on the pyllers. And he made bottomes, & lauers vpon the bottomes: & the see withe twelue orē vnder it. And therto pottes, shouelles flesshe hokes, & al theyr vessels dyd Hiram Abi make for kyng Salomō for the house of the lord of bright brasse. In the playne of Jordā dyd the kyng cast them, in the thicke erth, betwene Socoth & Zaredatha And made of al these vesselles so mightye great aboundāce, that the weyght of brasse could not be rekened.

And Salomō made al the vessels that pertayned to thee house of God: the goulden aultar & the tables with the shew bred vpon thē, the candelstickes with theyr lampes to burne after ꝑ maner before the quere, and that of pure gould, and the floures and the lampes, & the snoffers were gould and that perfect gould: & the dressing knyues, basens, spoones and censers of pure goulde. And the ynner dores of the place moost holy, and the dores of the temple to, were gould. And so was al the worck that Salomon made for the house of the Lorde fynished.

And whē the worke ꝑ Salomon made in the house of the lord was fynished: thē Salomō brought in the giftes dedicat by Dauid his father, the syluer & the goulde and all the Jewelles, & put them amonge the treasure of the house of God.

¶ After the fore houses & the arcke were put in the temple, the glorye of the Lord fylled the temple.

The .v. Chapter.

Then Salomō gathered the elders of Israel together & all ꝑ heades of the trybes and auncient Lordes among the chyldren of Israel, vnto Jerusalē: to bring the arke of the couenaunte of the Lord out of the cytie of Dauid whiche is Zion. And all the men of Israell resorted vnto the kinge in the feast of the seuenthe moneth. And whē al the elders of Israell were come, the Leuites toke vp the Arcke And the priestes and the Leuites brought awaye the Arke and the tabernacle of witnesse, and all thee holye vesselles that were in the tabernacle. And kynge Salomon and all thee congregation of Israell that were assembled vnto hym before the arcke offered shepe and oxen, so many that they couldе not be tolde or numbred for multitude.

And the Priestes brought the arke of ꝑ appoyntmēt of the Lord vnto his place in the quere of the tēple & place most holy: euē vnder the winges of ꝑ Cherubes, that the Cherubes stretched oute theyr winges ouer the place of the arke & couered ꝑ arke and her staues aboue on hye. And the staues of the arke, were so longe, ꝑ they were sene a little before the quere, but not farre without. And ther it remaynеth vnto thys daye. Nor ouer there was nothing in the arke saue the two tables whiche Moyses put therin at Horeb, whē the Lord made a couenaūt with the childrē of Israell, after they were come out of Egipte. And whē ꝑ priestes were come oute of the holye place

(for al the prestes ỹ were founde sanctified thẽ selues & dyd not wayte by course) But the Leuites euery one of thẽ that were vnder Asaph, Heman & Idouthun, & amonge their childrẽ & brethrẽ, were arated in bisse & fange with Cimbales, Psalteries & harpes stãding East, frõ the aulter, & with thẽ an hũdred .xx. prestes blowing trõpettes And the trompet blowers & the singers so agreed, that it semed but one voice in prayse singe and thanking the Lord. And as the voyce of the trõpettes, cymbales & instrumentes of melodye arose, * & as they praysed the Lord, how that he was good & that hys mercy lasteth euer, the house of ỹ Lorde was fylled with a cloud: so that the prestes could not endure to mynister by ỹ reason of the clouds. For the glorie of the Lorde had fylled the house of God.

¶ The wordes of Salomõ to the people, & the prayer ỹ he made to God.

The. vi. Chapter.

Then Salomõ sayd: the Lord hathe spoken it, howe that he wyl dwell in darkenesse. And I haue built an habitatiõ for the & a place to dwel in for euer. And ỹ kinge turned his face & blessed the hole cõgregation of Israel & al the cõgregation of Israell stode. And he sayde: blessed be the Lord God of Israel whych spake wyth hys mouth to my father Dauid & hathe fulfylled it wyth hys handes, for God sayde: sence the tyme I brought my people oute of the lande of Egipte, I chose no cytie among all the trybes of Israell to buylde an house in, that my name myght be ther, neyther chose I any mã to be a rueler ouer my people Israell. But now I haue chosen Ierusalem to haue my name there, and haue chosen Dauid to be ouer my people Israell.

And it was in the hert of Dauid my father to buyld an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel: But the Lord sayde to dauid my father: for asmoch as it was in thyne herte, to buylde an house for my name, thou diddest wel that thou haddest it in thyne hert. Notwithstãdinge ỹ shalte not buyld the house, but thy sonne whiche shal issue out of thy loynes, he shal build an house for my name. And the Lord hath made good his sayinges ỹ he hath spoken. For I arose in thee rowme of Dauid my father, & sate on the seate of Israel, as the Lord promised, & haue buylt an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel. And therin I haue put the arcke wherin the couenaũt of the Lord made with the childrẽ of Israel is. And he stept forth before the aulter of the Lord in the presence of al the cõgregatiõ of Israel, & stretched oute hys handes. now Salomõ had made a brasen pulpyt of fyue cubytes long & fyue cubytes broade, & thre of heyght, & had set it in the middes of the great court, vpõ that he stept & kneled down vpõ his knees before al the cõgregatiõ of Israel & stretched out his hãdes to heauẽ & sayde: Lord God of Israel ther is no god like the ether in heuẽ or in erth, which kepest couenãte & shewest mercye vnto thy seruaũtes that walke before the with all theyr hertes. Whych hast kepte wythe Dauid my father that thou promysedest hym: thou saydest it with thy mouthe and hast fulfylled it wyth thyne hande, as it is to se thys daye.

Now Lord God of Israel kepe wt thy seruaũt Dauid my father, ỹ thou promisedest him saying: * thou shalt not be wout one or other in my syght ỹ shal sytt vpõ ỹ seate of Israel. Of this cõditiõ yet, yf thy childrẽ wyll take heade to theyr wayes to walcke in my lawe, as thou haste walcked before me. Now Lord God of Israel lett thy saying be true, which thou saidest vnto thy seruaũt Dauid. Howbeit in very dede, can god dwel with mã on erth? Behold ỹ nether heauẽ or heauẽ aboue al heauẽs is able to cõtayne the: howe shulde the house thẽ which I haue built for the doo it? But turne to the prayer of thy seruaũt & to hys supplicatiõ (O Lord my god) to herkẽ vnto the voyce & prayer which thy seruaunt maketh before the. That thine eies be opẽ ouer this house day & night, & ouer ỹ place of which thou hast sayd, that thou woldest put thy name ther: to herkẽ vnto ỹ prayer which thy seruaunt prayeth at thys place: herkẽ therfore vnto the prayers of thy seruaũt and of thy people Israel, which they praye in this place. But heare thou it oute of thy dwelling place heauẽ: & whẽ ỹ hearest it be merciful. * If a mã sinne against his neyboure, and an adiuratiõ be layd to his charge, to adiure him wherof, & ỹ adiuration ratiõ come before thine aulter in this house: thẽ heare thou frõ heauẽ, & worke & iudge thy seruauntes, that thou reward the euel and bringe his waye vpon his head, & iustefye the righteous & geue hym according to hys ryghtwesnesse.

Lykewise yf thy people Israel be put to the worsse before theyr enemyes, because they haue synned agaynst the: Yet yf they turne & cõfesse thy name, & make intercession & pray before ỹ in this house: thẽ heare thou frõ heauẽ & be merciful vnto ỹ sinne of thy people Israel, & bringe thẽ agayne vnto the land whych thou gauest to them and to theyr fathers.

Yf heauen be shut vp, that ther be noo rayne, because thei haue sinned against ỹ: yet yf they praye at thys place and cõfesse thy name & turne from their synnes at thy scorginge, thẽ heare thou from heauẽ and be mercyful vnto the synne of thy seruaũtes & of thy people Israel, that thou shew thẽ a good way to walke in, & sende rayne vpõ thy land which thou hast geuen vnto thy people, for an enheritaunce.

Yf ther chaũce dearth in the lande, pestilẽce, burning or smitting of corne, grashoppers or caterpillers, or that theyr enemies besege thẽ in the cities of theyr owne lãde or whatsoeuer plage or sickness it be. Thẽ al the supplications & prayers that shalbe made of al men among al thy people Israel, whych shal knowe euery man his owne sore and his owne greffe, and shal stretche out theyr hãdes towarde thys house: thou shalte heare fromc heauen thy dwellynge place, and shalte be mercyfull, and gene euery man accordinge vnto all hys waye, euen as thou shalte knowe euery mannes herte: for thou onelye knoweste the hertes of thee chyldren of Adam: that they maye feare the and walke in thy wayes as long as they lyue vpon the earth, whyche thou gauest to our fathers.

Therto a straũger whiche is not of thy people Israel, yf he come frõ a farre land for thy greate names sake & thy myghtye hand and stretched out arme, and therfore come & pray at this house: thou shalt heare him frõ heauẽ thy dwellinge place, & shalt do accordinge to al that ỹ straũger calleth to the for. That al the naciõs of the earthe may knowe thy name, & feare the, as doth thy people Israel: & that it may be knowẽ how that this house which I haue buylte, is called after thy name.

Whẽ thy people shal goo out to warre, agaynst their enemyes the waye that thou shalt send thẽ. Yf they pray to the, ỹ waye toward this cytie whych thou hast chosen, & house which I haue buylt for thy name thẽ heare frõ heauẽ, theyr supplicatiõ and prayer, & helpe them in theyr ryght.

Yf they shal synne agaynst the (as ther is no mã but that he shal synne) & thou be angrie with thẽ & delyuer thẽ to theyr enemies, & they leade thẽ awaye captyue vnto a land ferre or neare yet yf theyr hertes come to them agayne in the land where they be in captiuite, & turne and praye vnto the in the land where they be in captiuite, sayinge: we haue sinned & haue done euel and wekedly and turne agayne to the, wyth al their hertes & al theyr soules, in the lãde of theyr captiuite wher they be kept in bondage, and so praye toward theyr land whych thou gauest vnto their fathers, & citie whi che thou hast chosen, & to this house which I haue buylte for thy name. Then heare frõ heauen thy dwellinge place, theyr supplication & prayers & iudge theyr cause, & be mercyful vnto thy people, though they haue synned agaynst the.

So now my God let thyne eyes be opẽ & thyne eares attẽt vnto the prayers made in this place. And now vp lord God in thy resting place: both thou & the arcke of thy strength, & let thy prestes putt on victory and thy saynctes reioyse in goodnes. And Lord God turne not away the face of thyne anoynted: But remẽbre the mercies promysed to Dauid thy seruaunt.

¶ The fyre cõmeth the sacrifyce. The Lorde appeareth to Salomon the second tyme.

The. vii. Chapter.

And when Salomon had made an ende of prayenge, there came downe fyre from heauẽ and consumed the burntoffe ringe and the sacrifices. And the glorye of the Lord fylled ỹ house: that the prestes coulde not goo in to the house of the Lorde, because the glorye of the Lorde hadde fulfylled thee house of thee Lorde. And al the chyldren of Israel sawe howe the fyre came downe and the glorye of the Lorde vpon the house, and stouped with theyr faces to the earth vpon the pauement & bowed them selues and cõfessed vnto the Lord, that he was good and that hys mercye lasted euer.

And the kynge & all the people offered offringes before the Lord. So that kinge Salomon offred .xxii. thousand oxen, and an hundred and twentie thousande shepe. And so the kynge and all the people halowed the house of God. And the Priestes wayted on theyr offyces, and the Leuytes with instrumentes of musyck of the Lorde whyche kynge Dauid made to confesse vnto the Lord that hys mercy lasteth euer when Dauid gaue prayse thorowe theyr hãdes. And the priestes blewe trompettes fast by them: & al Israel stode. Moreouer Salomõ halowed the middle of the court that was before the Lord: for ther he offered burntoffringes & the fatt of the peace offringes, because the brasen aulter which Salomon had made, was not able to receaue the burntoffringes and the meatoffringes and the fatte.

And Salomõ kept a feast the same season of .vii. dayes & al Israel with him, an exceadinge great congregation, euẽ from Hemath vnto the ryuer of Egipt. And the eyght daye they made a geatheringe. For they kept the halowenge of the aulter .vii. dayes & the feast seuẽ dayes. And the .xxiii. daye of the seuenth moneth he let the people departed into theyr tẽtes, glad & merie in hert for the goodnes that the Lord had shewed to Dauid, to Salomon & to Israell his people. * And so Salomon fynyshed the house of the Lord and the kinges house and al that came in his hert to make in the house of the Lord and in hys owne house, and that prosperously.

And the Lord apeared to Salomon by night & said to him: I haue heard thy petiti õ & haue chosen thys place for my selfe to be an house of sacrifyce. Moreouer yf I shut vp heauẽ that ther be no rayne, or yf I cõmaũde the locustes to deuoure ỹ land or yf I send pestilẽce amonge my people: yet yf my people that are named after my name, shall hũble thẽ selues & make intercessiõ & seke my presence, & turne frõ theyr wicked wayes, then wyl I heare frõ heauẽ and be mercyfull to their synnes, and wyl heale theyr lande. Thereto myne eyes shal be opẽ & myne eares attent vnto ỹ prayers made in thys place. And fynalye I haue chosen & sanctified this house, that my name be ther for euer, & myne eyes and myne hert shalbe there perpetually.

And yf ỹ shalt walke before me as Dauid thy father walked, to do accordinge to al that I haue cõmaũded the, & shalt obserue myne ordinaũces & my lawes, thẽ I wil stablyshe the seat of thy kyngdome, accordinge to the couenaunt I made wyth Dauid thy father, saying: * thou shalt haue euer one or other that shall rule in Israell. But & yf ye turne awaye & forsake myne ordinaunces & my cõmaundemẽtes which I haue set before you, and shal go & serue other Gods and bowe your selues to the: then wyl I plucke thẽ vp by the rotes out of my lande whych I haue geuen thẽ, & wyl cast this house which I haue sanctified for my name out of my syght, & wil make a prouerbe & a tale of it amõgal naciõs And this house that is so hye, shalbe a wõder to al that passeth therby that they shal saye: why hath the Lord dealt on this fassyon with this lãd & with this house? And it shalbe answered thẽ, because they forsoke the Lord God of theyr fathers whyche brought thẽ out of the land of Egipt, and caughte holde on other Gods, & bowed to them & serued thẽ: euen therfore brought he on them all thys euell.

¶ The cytyes that Salomõ bylded after the house of god was fynyshed

The. viii. Chapter.

And after .xx. yere whẽ Salomon had buylte the house of the Lorde & his owne house: he buylte the cyttes that Hirã gaue him, & put of the childrẽ of Israel in thẽ. And Salomõ wẽt to Hemath Zobah & strengthed it. And he built Thadmor in the wildernesse & al the store cyttes whych he buylte in Hemath. And he buylt Bethhoron the vpper & Bethhoron the neyther, and made them strong cyttes wythe with walles gates & barres. And Baalath & al the stoare cities that Salomon had, & all ỹ charet cities & the cytyes of horsemẽ, & all that Salomon had lust to buylde in Jerusalẽ and Libanon, & thorowout all ỹ lande of his dominion.

And al the people that were lefte of the Hethites, Amorites, Pherezites, Heuites & Jebusites, which were not of the childrẽ of Israel: euen the childrẽ of thẽ, whyche were lefte after them in the lande, & were not cõsumed of the chyldren of Israel, thẽ did Salomõ make tributaries vnto this day. But of ỹ chyldrẽ of Israel dyd Salomõ make no bondemẽ in his worke: but they were mẽ of warre & rulers & great lordes vẽ him, & captaynes ouer his charetes and horsemen. And kinge Salomõs officers that ouerlaw & ruled the people, were two hundred and fyftie.

And Salomõ brought the daughter of Pharao out of ỹ citie of Dauid into ỹ house ỹ he had made for her. For he sayde: my wife shal not dwel in the house of Dauid king of Israel, for it is holye, because the Arcke of the Lord came into it.

And from thencefoorthe Salomon offered burntofferinges vnto the Lorde on ỹ aulter of the Lord which he had builte before the porche to offer daye by daye accordyng to the commaundement of Moses, & in the sabbotes & newmones, and ỹ thre solempne feastes of the yere, the feaste of swete bread, the fest of wekes and ỹ feaste of bothes.

And Salomon put the sortes of preastes in companyes as Dauid hys father had ordered thẽ, vnto ỹ offyces, & the leuites vnto their wayte, for to prayse & minister before the preestes day by day, & ỹ porters by course at euerye gate. For so had Dauid ỹ man of God cõmaunded. And ỹ cõmaundement of the kyng vnto the preestes & ỹ Leuites cõcernynge what soeuer cause it was, & concerninge the treasures, was not disobeyed.

And al the worke of Salomon wente lustely forwarde euẽ vnto the daye of the foundacion of the house of the Lord was leyde: & from thence till he had fynyshed it, that the house of the Lord was perfect. And then went kynge Salomon to Aziõ Gaber and to Eloth and to the sees side in the lande of Edõ. And Hiram sent him by the hande of his seruaũtes, shippes & seruaũtes that could skyl of the see: Whiche went with the seruauntes of Salomõ to Ophir, & brought thence foure hundred & fyftye talentes of gould, and brought it to kynge Salomon.

¶ The cõmunicacion of Salomon with the queue of Saba, & the giftes that she gaue hym after the deeth of Salomõ after whom succeadeth Roboas

The. ix. Chapter.

And ỹ queue of Saba heard of the fame of Salomõ & came to proue him wyth tydels at Jerusalẽ, with a very great compañe, and with camelles ỹ bare swete odoures and plentie of goulde and precious stone. And when she was come too Salomon, she communed with hym of all that was in her herte. And Salomon sayled her all her questyons, that there was nothynge hyd from Salomon, which he tolde her not.

And when the queue of Saba had sene the wysdome of Salomon and the house that he had built, and the meate of hys table and the sitting of his seruauntes & the standynge of hys waiters, and theyr apparell, and hys butlers with theyr apparel, and hys parloure out of which he wẽte in to the house of ỹ Lord, ther was no moare herte in her.

And thẽ she sayd to ỹ kyng: the sayinge which I heard in mine owne lãd, of thyne actes and of thy wisdom, is trueth. But I beleued not ỹ wordes of thẽ, until I came & mine eies had sene it. And se, ỹ one halfe of thy wysdom was not told me: thou exceadest the fame that I heard, happye are thy mẽ, & happye are these thy seruauntes which stãd before ỹ all way and heare thy wysdom. Blessed be ỹ Lord thy god whych had lust to the, to make the kynge on hys seat, vnto the Lord thy God. Because thy god loued Israel, to make them continew euer, therfore made he the kyng ouer them to do ryght and equyte.

And she gaue ỹ king an hũdred and .xx. talẽtes of gould, and of swete odoures exceadyng great aboũdaunce & precyous stones, ỹ ther was no soche swete odoures as the queue of Saba gaue kynge Salomõ. And therto the seruaũtes of Hirã and the seruaũtes of Salomõ which brought gould gould from Ophir, brought also * Algume wood and precious stones. And the kinge made of the Algume wood steyres in the house of the lord and in the kinges palace, and harpes & psalteryes for syngers. And there was no such wood seene before in the land of Juda. And kinge Salomō gaue to the quene of Saba all her desyre & she asked aboue & she brought vnto the kinge. And so she turned & wēt awaye to her owne land with her seruauntes.

The summe of gould & came to Salomō in one yere, was syxe hundred.lxvi. talentes of gould, besydes that which chapmen and marchauntes brought, and all the kynges of Arabia and dukes of countreyes brought gould & syluer to Salomon. And kyng Salomon made two hundred bokelars of gould, vi. hundred sycles of Beté gould to a bokelar: & .iii. hūdred shildes of Beté gould, thre hundred sicles of gould to a shilde, & he put thē in the house of the forest of Libanon.

And & kyng made a great seate of Iuorie and ouerlaide it with pure gould. And ther were syxe steppes to the seate vō a fote stole of gould fastened to & seat: and pomelles on eche syde of & syttinge place, & two lyōs standynge by the pomelles. And xii. lyons stode on the one syde & on the other, vpon syxe steppes, & ther was no such in any kyngedome.

And all the drynckinge vesselles of kinge Salomon were gould, & al the vessels of the house of & forest of Libanon, were pure gould. And as for syluer, it was cōted nothyng worthe in & dayes of Salomon. For & kinges shippes wēt * to Tharsis vō the seruauntes of Hiram euery thre yere once. And the shippes of Tharsis brought gould, siluer, & tethe of elephantes, apes and peacockes.

And kyng Salomon passed all & kynges of the erthe in rychesse and wysdome. And all the kinges of the erthe soughte & presence of Salomon, to heare the wisdō that god had put in hys herte. And they brought euery man his present in vessels of syluer & vesselles of gould, and raymēte, harnes, swete odoures, horses & mules pere by yere.

And Salomō had foure thousand maūgers of horsses & charettes for them, & .xii. thousand horsemē. And he bestowed thē in & charet cities & with & kinge at Jerusalē. And he raygned ouer al the kinges from Euphrates vnto the land of the Philistines & so to & borders of Egipte. * And the kyng made siluer in Jerusalē as plēteous as stones, & Cedar trees as plēteouse as & mulbery trees that growe in the valeys. And Salomō had horses brought hym out of Egypte and out of al landes.

* And the rest of & actes of kyng Salomō both fyrst and last ar writtē in & booke of Nathan the Prophete and in the prophesye of Ahiah the Silonite and in & visyons of Jadi the sear of bysyōs against Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. And whē Salomon had raygned in Jerusalē vpō al Israell fourtye yeres, he layed hym to rest with his father, & was buried in & citie of Dauid his father, & Rehoboā his sōne raygned in his steade.

¶ The folisshnes of Rehoboam, and the deuision of hys realme.

The .x. Chapter.

AND Rehoboam went to Sichē: for to Sichē were al Israel come to make him king. And when Jeroboam the sōne of Nabat, beyng in Egipt heard it (for he was fled for feare of Salomon the kynge) he returned oute of Egypt. And they sēt and called him. And so Jeroboā and al Israell came & communed with Rehoboam & said. Thy father made vs a greuouse youcke: but remytte thou somewhat of the greuouse seruyce of thy father & of hys heuye youcke that he put vpō vs, & we wyll serue &. And he sayd to them: come agayne after thre dales to me. And the people departed.

And kynge Rehoboam counceled with & elders that stode before Salomō his father, while he lyued, & sayde: what councel geue ye me, to answere this people againe And they tolde him sayinge: If & shalt be kinde to this people & please them & shalt speake louynge wordes to them, they wyl be thy seruauntes for euer. But he left the councell whyche the elders gaue hym, and tooke councell wythe the youngemen that were nurced vp vō hym & had stande in hys presence, & sayde to them: what aduise geue ye & I may answere this people whych

Abiah. which haue cōmuned wyth me saying: Abate somewhat of & youcke which thy father dyd put vpon vs.

And the yōg men that were nurced vp with him talked vō hym sayinge: thus answere the people that spake to the saying. Thy father made our youcke heuye: But make thou our youcke somewhat lighter. Thus wyse answere them: my litle fynger shalbe heuier thē my fathers loines. * For 3. Reg. 12. wher my father put a heuie yock vpō you I wil put more therto, & where my father chastised you vō whippes, I wyl chastyce you with scorpions.

And whē Jeroboam and al Israel were come & thyrde day, as & king bade saying: come againe to me & thyrde day. The king answered thē cruelly, for kynge Rehoboā left the councel of the aged mē, & answered thē after & aduise of the yōg men saying. If my father made your youck greuouse, I wil adde therto, & wher my father chastised you with whippes, I wil chastyce you with scorpions. And so the kyng herkened not vnto the people, for the turnyng away was of God, & & Lorde might make good hys saying which he spake by the hand of Ahiah the Silonite to Jeroboam the sōne of Nabat.

And when al Israel saw that the king wold not heare them, the people answered the kynge, sayinge: what parte haue we with Dauid or enhērtaunce vō the sonne of Isai? let euery man of Israel go to his 3. Reg. 12. tent. * And now Dauid se to thyne owne house. And therupon al Israell get them to their tentes, so that Rehoboam raigned ouer no moo of the chyldren of Israel thē dwelt in the cytyes of Juda. Then kynge Rehoboā sent to thē Haduram that was ouer & tribute, & & childrē of Israel stoned him withe stones that he died. But kynge Rehoboam made spede and gat hym vp to hys charet to flye to Jerusalem. And so Israel departed from the house of Dauid vnto thys daye.
